Habits Of SIU Students To Be Subject Of Study

All Students To Get Questionnaire

A massive study of student habits and extra curricular activities will be launched next week by the Activities Development Center.

Each student on the Carbondale campus will receive one of the questionnaires.

The Activities Development Center is conducting the study.

"We are trying to blanket the campus with this survey rather than just take a representative sample," a spokesman said. "When it is completed we hope to have a good picture of just what the student interests are."

The four page questionnaire seeks to determine the group membership of each student, degree of participation in the group, dating habits, work status, and whether or not the student "always, usually, occasionally, seldom or never" stays on campus over the weekend.

The questionnaires are being distributed and filled out by geographic determination at the present. Since the survey is to be conducted without signature, more information will be gained by knowing the living units of any given set of questionnaires.

These questionnaires are now being filled out in house meetings at Thompson Point, Small Group Housing, Southern Acres, Woody Hall, organized housing and married student housing.

More will be distributed in student living concentrations. The questionnaires are also available at the Information Desk and Activities Area.

Extracurricular activity is defined as all interests including reading for enjoyment or admiring scenery, to any of 60-odd group membership activities suggested in the questionnaire.

The plan is to get the questionnaires out and back next week. May 17 has been set for a wind up date.

The study is being conducted to find out participation patterns on students in local activities.

Police Seek Missing SIU Sophomore

Police have issued an "all-points" missing person report on an SIU student who disappeared a week ago, said Joseph Zaleski, assistant director of student affairs.

The student, Dennis McCabe, a 19-year-old sophomore transfer student from Niles, disappeared April 24. Campus authorities said his wallet was found near Memphis, Tenn., by a railroad official and was mailed to the University because of identification cards in the wallet.

Officers have not ruled out the possibility of foul play.

McCabe left a note at his residence when he left campus, Zaleski said. The note was addressed to his parents and told them "don't try to find me, you won't be able to.....no one will."

In the note, McCabe also expressed his love and respect for his parents and said, "I hope to see you in a few years, perhaps."

He left campus at the time several students of his fraternity were being questioned concerning minor fires at Small Group Housing, Zaleski added.

Russian Expert To Speak Here Today

A leader in the Russian Anti-Communist Underground, reported by Pravda to be hung a half dozen times, will be the speaker at today's Convocations.

Constantin Boldyreff, expert of the Communist method for world domination, is touring the United States to acquaint the American people with the true facts of conditions in Russia.

Designer's Trick:

Sense-less Containers Invite Cents For 'Sensible' Charity

The Campus Chest is 737 cents richer now that it has been established that SIU students will give money without knowing for what purpose they are giving it.

Clever containers asking for one-cent donations using as few words and symbols as possible, were set around campus Monday and Tuesday by 27 students in the 100 course, Fundamentals of Design.

Each student had three hours to observe the reaction to his project.

In addition to determining that behavior can be altered visually, it was also observed that women give more than men and that response to bids for donations in heavily populated places is higher than in secluded areas.

Robert Hunter, instructor of the class, said the students' experiment tended to prove several psychological hypotheses about group dynamics.

After the pennies were gathered up the class was faced with the problem: What shall we do with the money?

Several fund drives were considered but the class voted to put the money back into the fund most closely associated with student giving, the Campus Chest.

Sorry to disturb you son- but the city council has ordered us to install them here too

4 Cadets Win Honors:

AFROTC Honor Guard Wins First At National Drill Meet In Peoria

The SIU Air Force ROTC Honor Guard won the overall team trophy at the annual "Heart of the Nation" drill meeting at Bradley University in Peoria.

The Honor Guard's exhibition team won first place and the regulation team placed third in the competition.

In individual competition four SIU cadets were awarded prizes. Lewis W. Stahl, a cadet first lieutenant, took first place in individual drill. Edward F. Jansinski, Jr., a cadet first lieutenant, won second place. Wayne Keuthe, a cadet staff sergeant, won eighth place. And Richard E. Gardner, a cadet captain, placed ninth.

The Honor Guard's two units were competing against national drill teams. Cadet Lt. Col. Denny Hays, a senior from Carbondale, is commander of the exhibition team. Jasinski, a junior from Chicago, is commander of the regulation team.

While the Honor Guard was competing at Peoria, the AFROTC Rifle Team was adding a pair of trophies to its fast growing collection. Two Rifle Team members, James Clemens, and Jon O'Donnell, both juniors, placed in the top five shooters in the Arnold Air Society Area Postal match.

Also Cameron Brown and Charles V. Green placed in the top five shooters in the

Plan A Moves To New Home

Plan "A" house is moving. Due to the increase in enrollment, Plan "A" is moving two doors north in the former Abbott home.

"We will be able to accommodate more than 150 students in our new home," says Dr. Claude Coleman, director of Plan "A".

Presently, approximately 100 students are enrolled in this informal discussion group aimed for the students with high academic achievement.

281 From SIU Student Teaching

Some 281 education majors from SIU are student teaching this spring, according to Charles D. Neal, director of teacher training in the College of Education. For the first time in the history of the program, nine students are teaching in the Chicago school system, Neal said. The Chicago schools where Southern students are training include Bogan, Dunbar, Senn, Taft, Sullivan and Kelyvn Park high schools and Attucks, Bateman and Palmer elementary schools. The other student teachers are working largely in southern Illinois elementary and high schools, with the largest number at the University School, Neal added.

Registration Cards For SIU Forum Due Friday

Students should return registration cards for the SIU Forum to the Student Government Office by Friday, according to Terry Cook, director of the Forum. The SIU Forum, scheduled for May 19, will include a discussion of the needs of SIU and the city of Carbondale in regard to the student population and student organizations. Registration cards may still be picked up at the Student Government Office.

Associated Press News Roundup:

Winston Churchill To Quit Politics

LONDON

Sir Winston Churchill announced Thursday that he is retiring from active political life after more than 60 years in Parliament.

In a letter to the Conservative Party Association in the electoral division of Woodford, the British leader said he will not stand for re-election. He will be 89 in November.

Churchill last July broke his hip in a fall while on a vacation in the south of France. He said the accident has "greatly decreased my mobility."

WASHINGTON

Senate Republican Leader of Illinois said Wednesday he is absolutely opposed to lotteries as a way to raise funds for education or other government activities.

"I think it corrupts the morals of people," he told newsmen when asked about a law just adopted in New Hampshire providing for a lottery to raise funds for the state's schools.

OXFORD, Miss.

A small homemade bomb exploded Tuesday night, alerting a University of Mississippi campus that had settled down to routine after last fall's rioting.

The blast about 10 p.m. scorched a spot in the grass near Small Hall dormitory. Pat Smith, director of the Ole Miss News Service, said six windows were shattered or cracked. He said no one was hurt.

Small Hall is near Baxter Hall, which is still guarded by federal troops sent to Ole Miss to protect James H. Meredith, the school's lone Negro student.

MOSCOW

Fidel Castro and Nikita S. Khrushchev stood side by side

on Lenin's Tomb Wednesday and reviewed a May Day parade including Soviet rockets of the kind that once brought them both to the verge of nuclear war.

A strange hush came over the audience in Red Square as the long gray rockets rolled by, each showing a cluster of nozzles projecting from the base.

"The Cuba rockets," foreign observers called them. They apparently were the same sort of devices that Soviets withdrew under U.S. pressure after slipping them into Cuba.

ATTALLA, Ala.

Sheriff's officers took eight demonstrators into custody yesterday within minutes after they started walking on a sidewalk along U.S. 11.

Chief Deputy Felton Yates approached the sign-bearing Negroes and said: "Gimmie tha sign, boy, and get in this car."

The marchers were taken to jail in nearby Gadsden, Ala. They had announced plans earlier to resume the hike started by a white Baltimore integrationist, William L. Moore, who was shot to death near Attalla April 24.

WASHINGTON

The Senate smashed with a solid 60-26 vote Wednesday a Republican attempt to whack $200 million out of $450 million tagged for President Kennedy's stepped-up, job-creating public works program.

Ignored were protests by Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois that pressures from communities to get in on the program would snowball into demands for more millions.

Ag Students Show Livestock Sunday

Animal Industries students will demonstrate their skills in exhibiting livestock Sunday during the annual Block and Bridle Club showmanship contest at the SIU livestock centers southwest of the Carbondale campus.

Animal displays of interest to visitors also will be located at the Dairy Center nearly a mile south of Chautauqua Street on McLafferty Road.

Competition will begin at 1 p.m. at the Swine, Beef, Sheep and Dairy Centers. Finals will be held at the Dairy Center later in the afternoon.

Block and Bridle Club, the contest sponsor, serves the social and professional interests of animal industries students, and is affiliated with the national collegiate Block and Bridle organization.

General Education Test To Be Given May 3, 4

The General Education and Development Test for persons who have not received a high school diploma, will be given May 3, 4, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. to 12 noon respectively.

The test is also given at Menard State Prison twice a year as part of the prison's educational program.

MISS STEIN HONORED - Hilda Stein (left), associate professor of zoology, received a scrap book from Mrs. J.M. Marberry, charter member of the local American Association of University Women, at a party honoring Miss Stein Tuesday night.

Scholarship Established To Honor Hilda A. Stein

A cross-section of the Southern Illinois University and Carbondale community attended a party Tuesday night in the University Center ballroom, honoring Miss Hilda A. Stein, a member of the SIU faculty for 34 years.

The affair attended by about 125, was billed a birthday party of the Carbondale Altrusa club, a professional women's group. In reality it was a dinner and "This Is Your Life," review for Miss Stein who is retiring this year.

Miss Stein is known as the Zoology professor who made field trips famous at SIU. This theme was picked up in an hilarious skit "The Purple Woodpecker," in which William M. Marberry, assistant professor in Botany, was the chief actor.

Among the surprises on the program was the announcement of the first Hilda A. Stein scholarship to be given annually by the Bowyer Club, an organization of Alpha Gamma Delta alumnae.

The scholarship went this year to Miss Linda Brummett, a junior at SIU and president of the sorority.

Eight actives of the national sorority were on stage to sing to Miss Stein who is a charter member of the local chapter and the scholarship advisor.

President of the Altrusa club, Mrs. Thelma Levelsmier, and the past presidents, Mrs. Araminta Bigelow and Mrs. William A. Pitkin, were in charge of the program. Miss Stein was the club's first president. Mrs. Bigelow wrote the script for the life review.

Miss Stein's academic career was traced by Willard M. Gersbacher, professor in the Department of Zoology. He called her, "an enthusiastic spelunker," in her search for the elusive cave salamander.

Mrs. J. M. Marberry, representing the SIU branch of the American Association of University Women, recalled Miss Stein's contribution to that group. She is a member of the SIU branch and a past president of the Illinois division.

Included in the surprise guests was Miss Stein's sister, Miss Sadie Stein of Belleville.

Industrial Education Exhibit Opens

An Industrial Education Regional Exhibit for junior and senior high school students in the southern Illinois area will be held in the University Center Ballroom today through Saturday.

The Exhibit will display projects constructed by students in general crafts, general metals, machined metals, graphic arts, drafting, electronics, and woodworking.

The projects will be judged on the basis of workmanship, design, function, and use; and winners will become eligible to enter the State Exhibit to be held at Western Illinois University at Macomb on May 16, 17, and 18.

Kuo To Speak At Sunday Seminar

A former Chinese and United Nations diplomat will discuss "The Russian-Chinese Conflict--in Historical Perspective" at the Highlight Zone Sunday Seminar program May 5.

Ping Chia Kuo, professor of history and author of several books and articles, will speak at 8 p.m. in the Ohio Room of the University Center.

Kuo has held various posts in the Nationalist Chinese government and diplomatic service and the United Nations.

One project will also be selected by the SIU judges as the Grand Award Winner. This winner will receive a scholarship to SIU.

Judging will be held on Thursday, and the displays will be open to the public on Friday, from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. and on Saturday from 8 a.m. to the Awards Ceremony at 10:30 a.m.

The Industrial Education

Exhibit is held annually to recognize student skills in construction and design in the field of Industrial Education.

The Exhibit also gives the students and their instructors a chance to compare their work with what is being done in other area schools and gives the public an opportunity to see what is being accomplished by young students in this field.

Living Rosary To Be Presented

A presentation of the "Living Rosary" will be sponsored by the Newman Foundation at SIU in McAndrew Stadium, Sunday, according to the Rev. Cletus Hentschel, Newman director.

The pageantry will begin with a solemn procession into the stadium at 8 p.m. Sixty-five Newmanites in different colored gowns will personify the beads of the Rosary. The Most Rev. Albert R.

Zuroweste, Bishop of Belleville, will preside.

Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus in full regalia will form the honor guard. The Glorious Mysteries will be depicted in tableaux by the Catholic Players' Guild of Belleville.

The Newman Choraleers will furnish the musical background. SIU Trumpeters will present special salutations during the processional.

Theta Sigma Phi Announces Annual Campus Awards

Highlighting the second annual Matrix Table banquet of Theta Sigma Phi journalism fraternity last night was the announcement of awards to outstanding women of the SIU Carbondale campus.

These awards are given on the basis of high scholastic achievement, participation in social events and pleasing personality. Nominations for the awards are presented to the Theta Sigma Phi awards committee by campus clubs and through recommendations by department heads.

Winners of the awards are: Mary Jo Oldham, outstanding sorority woman of the year; Lynda Herndon, chairman of the campus judicial board; Mrs. Bong Hi Kim, graduate student in music; and Mary Putt, 5.0 student and vice president of the Residence Halls Council.

Also, Beverly Smith, winner of the Carbondale City Panhellenic Pledge Award; Marian Dean, president of Cap and Tassel; and Mrs. Joanne Hampton, 5.0 graduate fellow in mathematics.

Theta Sigma Phi also announced the awards annually given to the best women journalists of the year in the freshman, sophomore and junior classes.

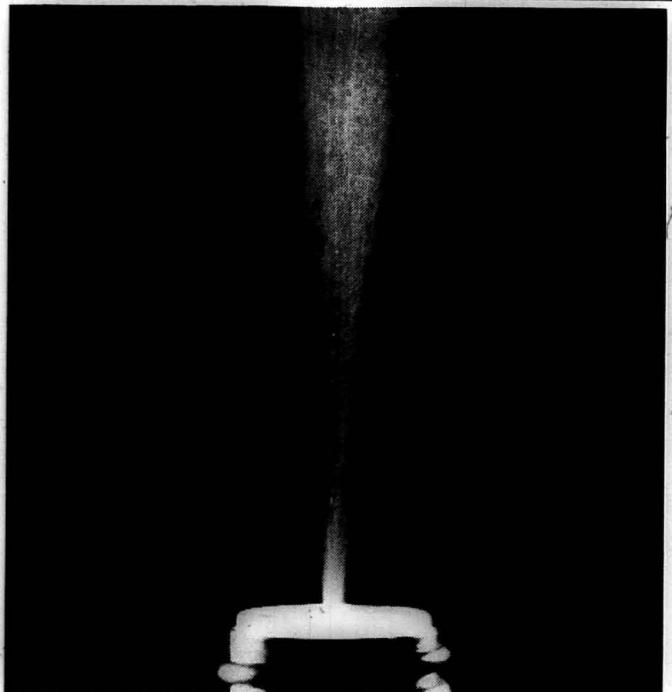

These awards are given for journalistic achievement, scholastic averages and journalism department participation.

The freshman award was split between Andrea Anderson of Scott Air Force Base and to Mary Martin, of East St. Louis.

The sophomore award went to Donna Casey of Red Bud, Ill.

The junior award, along with its $100 scholarship was also split, this year between Valerie Shipton of Champaign, and Linda Ballou of Galesburg.

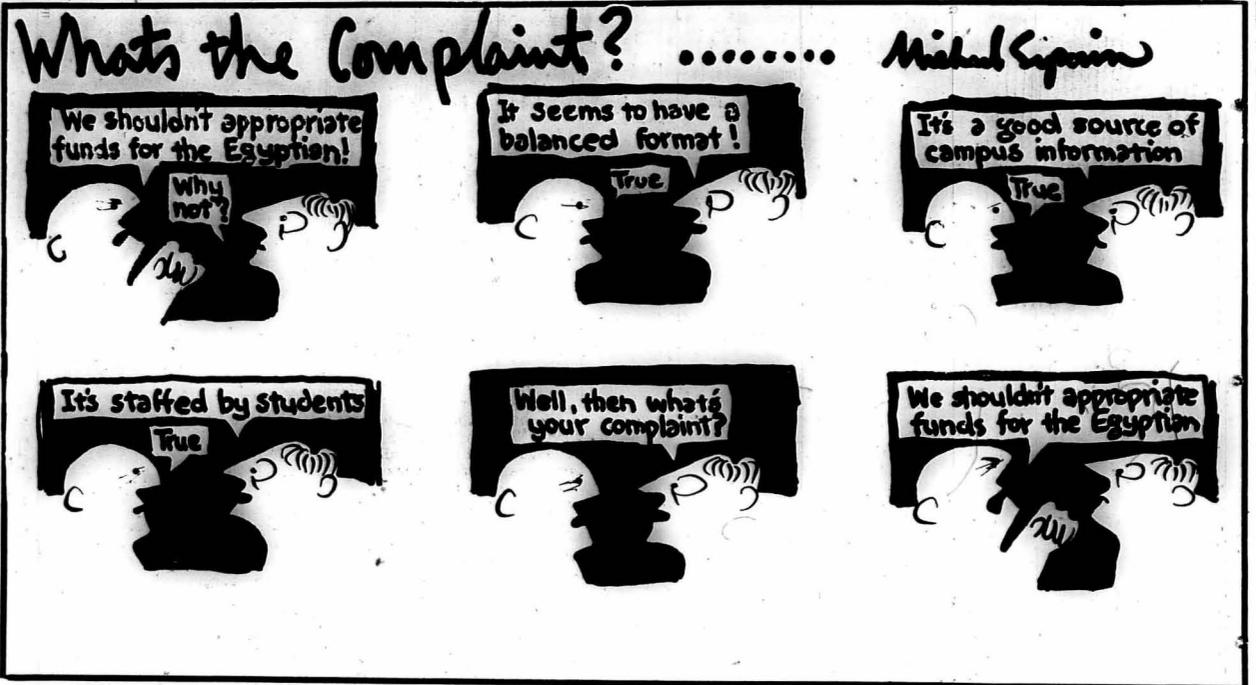

Theta Sigma Phi is the national professional fraternity for women in journalism.

Mennen Spray delivers 3 times the anti-perspirant power of any other leading men's deodorant. The fine spray mist gets through to the skin where perspiration starts. Deodorizes. Effectively. And works all day. Is it any wonder more men use Mennen Spray in the handy squeeze bottle than any other deodorant?

Warming The Mashed Potatoes

There exists in our society a grand group of people--protectors of our children, saviours of democracy. They live in every city and along every country road. They work in factories, on farms and in modern laboratories. They are even in our schools.

This group, made up of people whom we shall call fanatics, are seen every day. However, one has difficulty recognizing the American fanatic until he opens his mouth.

In education, the fanatic is seeking to debase our literary traditions. Textbooks used in public schools are coming under increasing attack, and pressures for censorship to "tone down" controversial subjects have succeeded in many cities.

Two newspapermen recently spent two months investigating the situation. Their book, "The Censors in the Schools," gives support to the charge made by the National Council of Teachers of English that "Across America today, increasing pressures are exerted on schools to restrict the access of students to important and worthwhile books." In 1961, the authors report, censorship groups attacked textbooks and library books in 18 states. A D.A.R. committee which examined 220 textbooks, black-listed 170 of them as "subversive."

The most recent report of fanatic attacks on literature comes from Philadelphia. Schools officials there are rewriting "Huckleberry Finn" and other classics. The new version of Twain's work will "tone down violence, simplify the southern dialect, and eliminate unfavorable references to Negroes."

Mrs. Margaret Friskey, editor of Children's Press, voiced a pertinent reply to the Philadelphia "educators." "Why don't these people leave these books alone and write something new? Rewritten classics are like warmed over mashed potatoes." We say amen, Mrs. Friskey.

Letter To The Editor:

Clarification Needed In Egyptian Issue

The controversy over the operation of The Egyptian has reached a point, it seems to me, where the public needs to have a clear statement of the matters at issue.

The withholding of $45,000 from the newspaper by five students out of eight of the 11,000-member student body appears to be an irresponsible action. If it is meant as a protest action only, it is unclear why protest is needed. If it is meant as propaganda, aimed? If it is a final decision, irrevocable in nature, the five members who made the decision certainly seem not to have served student interests in any way that is apparent, for they will have deprived SIU of its newspaper altogether.

The Student Council is reported as justifying its action with "charges" that the Egyptian "does not serve student interests." What are these student interests which are going unserved by the "new" Egyptian? At no time in these long months of seemingly endless conflict over the matter have I seen any careful definition offered by the Student Council of what these student interests may be. This is the first rule of legislation and policy-making: formulation of objectives and purposes, and if this has been done it has not been made public.

The Egyptian is not only the SIU "students" newspaper, it is also Southern Illinois University's newspaper, representative of SIU and the quality of education it is providing Young America. While student fees are used in its operations, the physical facilities of the paper are provided by the taxpayers of Illinois. The faculty provided to teach students how to be newspapermen are paid by Illinois taxpayers with good evidence of value received for their investment in the education of our young people. A truly professional university newspaper, under professional guidance and direction, seems essential.

Until the Student Council makes its grievances clearer, uninformed observers such as I must conclude the Council either has no case or its action is irresponsible and unjustified.

Relentless Quest for Power

Today we are witnessing the strongest, most determined and relentless attack ever mounted against the American constitutional system of checks and balances. Boiled down, it comes to a struggle by the executive branch to take over the authority vested in Congress.

Hardly a day passes that we don't hear from some strong partisan of the New Frontier that Congress is old fashioned and needs streamlining. What they mean is that changes are required in congressional procedure if the administration is to have its way on legislative programs that come from the White House.

Unfortunately, not enough legislators and civic leaders have come to the defense of our constitutional system. I believe it is because so few realize the stakes involved. This question affects not only congressional procedures and legislative rights, but goes to the foundation of our social and economic system.

Important Questions

Perhaps the best job of putting this problem into its right perspective was performed by Sen. Gordon Allott [R., Colo.] in a recent speech to the National Association of Manufacturers. Allott posed important questions for the American people which I believe deserve close attention. They are, in part:

"If Congress puts the brakes on executive agreements to disarm this land, or even disarm the whole free world, will you say that Congress is filled with war hawks? The executive will.

"If Congress demands that the soviet satellite to our south be put under the full pressure of the Monroe Doctrine, will you say Congress is moving to the brink of destruction? The executive has and will.

"If Congress demands that every projected federal expenditure be subjected to careful weighing as to need, cost, and result, will you say that Congress is a stumbling block? The executive has and will.

"If Congress asks that our national budget be handled with the good sense of our business and household budgets, will you accuse us of being old fashioned? The executive will.

"If Congress is jealous of your rights in the making of law, if Congress seeks to strengthen the responsibilities of your states and your municipalities, will you say that we are walking in an outdated frontier? The executive will.

Responsibility Outdated?

"If Congress seeks answers for our major problems outside the central government, will you say that we are stone-age advocates of an individual responsibility that no longer has a place in our life? The executive will.

"Or will you, instead, return your support and your attention to your own representatives, giving the executive the deference due the office but not abdicating to it all your powers and your future? A free people will.

"Free or frightened, able to shoulder the responsibilities of your own choices or weakly handing them on to the remote, regal power of purple executive majesty--those are the challenges you face and which you must answer."

Sen. Goldwater

Piccone In Hospital With Slipped Disc

Carmen Piccone is taking life easy these days but not of his own free will. Piccone was admitted to Doctors Hospital Sunday morning suffering a slipped disc.

Piccone doesn't like the idea of staying in bed when the SIU football team is completing spring practice drills.

He was admitted into the hospital when he complained of pains in his back. He was placed in traction at the time.

The disc is back in place now but doctors are keeping Piccone quiet to make sure he gets a complete rest before resuming coaching duties.

Piccone is anxious to get out of the hospital and resume working with the football team which is practicing daily in preparation for next fall's football season.

When Piccone sends the Salukis against Evansville in next fall's opener he will be starting his fifth year as head football coach.

He has compiled an impressive record since taking over the reins. His first year found the Salukis winning five of nine games; the next year SIU won eight of 10 outings; in 1961 the Salukis won seven of 10 games and then last year SIU won only four of 10 games.

This year Piccone's charges will go against Bowling Green, Tulsa, Louisville, North Texas State, Northern Michigan, Evansville, Lincoln University, North Dakota State, Fort Campbell and Toledo.

While Piccone is recuperating in the hospital his assistants Harry Shay, Harold Maxwell, Don Cross, Norm Zwald will be handling practice.

Martin Watches Baseball Grow From Minor To Major College Sport

Glen Martin has been coaching baseball at Southern for 17 years and the biggest change in the game has been its growth from a minor college sport to a major one.

"When I first started coaching baseball in 1947 only a few kids were interested in the game," Martin said looking back on his years of coaching. "But today so many of the American kids play the game that we are getting bigger and better players in colleges."

"There have been considerable improvements in the game," Martin continued. "I might add that the changes have been for the improvement of the game."

Seven-Way Tie For First Place In Spring Bowling

Advisory Staff, Power House, Felts "11," Straw Hatters, Pin Twisters, Century Series and Freeman Five are all tied for first place in the SIU spring quarter bowling leagues after one week of play.

A field of 32 teams are divided into five divisions. The league will be conducted on a round-robin basis.

Highlighting the kegler's efforts in the initial session was the 597 series turned in by Charles Scott of Straw Hatters. He rolled a 232 game in the series.

Ron Siegel rolled the individual high game of 233.

Power House rolled the team high series of 3030, Star Lanes bowled a single game total of 1074 pins for top honors.

Golf Team Plays Wisconsin Friday

SIU's golf team challenges Wisconsin Friday at Madison in a golf match. The Salukis are fresh from a victory over St. Louis which snapped a three-match losing streak.

The win over St. Louis was Southern's eighth of the season. The Salukis' losses have come at the hands of Lamar Tech, Tulsa and Memphis State.

"We have better equipment, better fields now than before," Martin added. "The equipment such as baseball bats, gloves, and balls are improved over the past 16 years."

Recently there has been considerable discussion about the liveliness of the present-day rabbit. The furor has been brought about by the increase in the number of home runs.

Opponents of the long ball say there is a rabbit in the ball which accounts for the increase. However, home run advocates believe the home run increase is due to bigger and better ball players and the increased size of the present-day bats.

Martin belongs to the latter school of thought. "Today's players are bigger and better than in the early years of the game and this accounts for a large portion of the home run increase," Martin pointed out.

"The bats are also much bigger today than before. Anyone can hit the ball out of the park now with the big thick-handled bat," Martin said.

Since he revived baseball here as a sport in 1947 the Salukis have won 221 of 337 games. He currently is participating in his 25th year of coaching at Southern.

This year's SIU baseball team has a 5-4 record. The Salukis have beaten St. Louis twice, St. Joseph's twice and Washington University once. The Salukis losses have come at the hands of Central Michigan twice, Washington University and Arkansas State once.

SIU has been rained out of its last two games but Martin is hopeful that Saturday's scheduled double-header here with Memphis State is not rained out.

"It is the best team we will face this season," Martin said. "At one time this year Memphis had won 15 of 16 games."

The Salukis will be attempting to break a three-game losing streak Saturday. The double header will get underway at 1 p.m. at Chautauqua baseball field.

Brian Turner's Time Is Two-Mile Record

Brian Turner's winning time of 8:51.7 at the Drake Relays in the two-mile event is the national season low among collegians for the race.

The previous best was 8:52 by a California runner. Turner is expected to run the event again Saturday at the SIU-Kansas dual meet in Lawrence.

David V. Felts Set Goal Early And Made His Dream A Reality

David V. Felts, a newspaper columnist for the past 40 years, found the secret to success in his lifework. He decided what he wanted to do and started toward that goal at a young age.

Felts decided while still in high school that he wanted to be an editorial writer. After receiving a degree at the University of Illinois, he took a job as sportswriter for the Springfield State Register and worked at it for three years but but kept one eye toward a seat in the editorial office of a newspaper.

A year of graduate work at Harvard followed, then came a job as editorial writer and columnist for the Springfield State Journal, where he remained until going to Decatur in 1935.

Felts was only 28 when he secured the position as editorial writer -- a young age for such a position at that time. "In those days," Felts said, "about the only people who got to be editorial writers were owners of newspapers or veteran reporters with tired feet who wanted a job behind a desk."

Felts, who now writes a daily column for the Lindsay-Schaub newspapers and is editor of the editorial page at the chain's home office in Decatur, was interviewed during a visit to the SIU campus yesterday.

His column appears regularly in the Southern Illinoisan, Champaign-Urbana Courier and The Madison-St. Clair County Journal.

Felts heads a staff of six editorial writers in the Lindsay-Schaub main office in Decatur and writes an average of two editorials a day in addition to his column. These editorials on general subjects, state and national issues, are circulated to all the chain papers.

However, Felts emphasized that each paper handles its own policy and editorial page and locally produces most of its editorials.

Felts, in describing his daily column, says he is not a "keyhole peeper" or analyst of political news. "I try to write a light column about people, books and social customs," he said. The key to writing this type of column, he said, is to tell people what they already know. A great deal of the copy reminisces of events and customs of the past, he added.

Felts said he is proud of the fact that the papers which carry his column are in university communities. "People there are more articulate and I get better response to the columns."
