Shaw explains ‘threat’ remark to students

By Mike Anthony
Staff Writer

Once a person decides to take a complaint about SIU to an outside agency, there is a line crossed and that person could be perceived as a threat from within, Chancellor Kenneth Shaw told about 30 students Monday.

An individual must make a value judgment about whether that “personal line” should be crossed, Shaw said.

“I don’t think it is something I should do to tell people when that point has come,” he said. “Anytime it is done, it runs the threat of weakening the institution’s integrity or authority.”

Students were gathered in Shaw’s office in Colyer Hall to discuss Washington, Shaw’s recently about threats from within to institutional autonomy.

An individual makes a decision whether to cross that “personal line” when all available channels for discussion in an institution are exhausted, and a person or group feels that the only recourse is to go to an outside agency, such as the Legislature, Shaw said. He has no objections if students voice their concerns to the Legislature, but “I would feel lousy if they did it without considering how going outside University channels will affect institutional viability,” he conceded. “That’s an individual judgment that I have no right to decide.”

Todd Rogers, undergraduate student organization president, told Shaw that student government went through the proper University channels before Debbie Brown, graduate Student Council president, spoke to the Illinois Senate Appropriations I Committee last week.

Student government started at the administrative level, working with the President’s Office and the Board of Trustees in presenting arguments saying that a 15 percent tuition increase coming at a time when federal aid cutbacks are being proposed, will limit access to SIU. Rogers said “Students may not be able to come back.”

If SIU had made access its number one priority, Rogers said, and that had been forth as the official policy of SIU — for SIU to not only stand for access as it always has — but if SIU was actually promoting it today, tomorrow, this year, and next year, then Deh would have never gone to Springfield.

Falklands conflict escalates; Argentine navy crew missing

By The Associated Press

General Javier Perez de Cuéllar said he had been informed by the Argentine ambassador, Eduardo Roca, that the ship had sunk and they presumed approximately 500 dead.

Britain, stepping up pressure on Argentina in the sovereignty dispute over the islands, which Argentina seized April 2 — announced 3,000 troop reinforcements were being sent to the South Atlantic aboard the requisitioned luxury liner Queen Elizabeth 2, along with additional material and cargo ships.

Argentina rejected the latest efforts to end the conflict, and a new peace plan offered by Peruvian President Fernando Belaunde Terry. The government junta in Buenos Aires claimed the plan was suggested by Vice President Orlando Tellechea.

In Washington, State Department spokesman Dean Fischer said “statements from Argentina have not been encouraging.”

British Foreign Secretary Francis Pym wound up a three-day trip to the United States, where he conferred with Reagan and held talks at the United Nations, with no sign of progress toward a diplomatic solution to the crisis.

“Argentina must now make the first move,” Pym said before leaving New York for London. “They started this. They invaded the islands.”

The Argentine Joint Chiefs of Staff announced Monday that the General Belgrano, an ex-prefecture, was presumed sunk” by a British submarine southwest of the Falklands near Isla de los Estados at the southern tip of Argentina. There was no indication whether the estimated 1,000 crewmen were able to get off the ship after it was hit.

British government officials said they had no confirmation the vessel had sunk.

Riots in Poland crushed by police

WARSAW, Poland (AP) —

Hundreds of riot police backed by water cannons tear-gassed and clubbed thousands of union protesters screaming “Solidarity” Solidarity — Monday in the worst clashes since the early days of martial law.

Ambulances careened through the city taking people beaten and bleeding to hospitals. City medical officials refused to estimate the number of injured.

Telephone lines were cut in many areas of the capital, including Western news agencies, and Warsaw television reported authorities threatened to reimpose the curfew that was lifted a day earlier. Fighting was also reported near headquarters of the ruling Communist Party.

It was the worst outbreak of violence since Solidarity miners died in clashes with troops near the southern city of Katowice, three days after martial law was decreed Dec. 13 following 16 months of union challenges to Communist rule.

“They think that they can still warm up the political climate in Poland as if they had not enough,” Warsaw television quoted Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Rakowski as telling Parliament while rioting raged across town. “But if they think they’ll achieve their aims, they are making a tragic mistake.”

(Official sources also reported marches jammed streets in the northern port of Gdansk where Solidarity was formed, but eyewitness accounts were not immediately available. The sources said foreign journalists were banned from the city, suggesting there was violence.

At least 25,000 people converged in Warsaw’s historic Castle Square area at 4 p.m. (11 a.m. EDT) in response to protest plans publicized during Saturday’s May Day counter-parade organized by underground Solidarity leaders.

The Communist government warned in nationwide broadcast Sunday night it would not tolerate more illegal outbreaks.

Why are these people smiling?

Because they were named king and queen of SIU’s Greek Week.

That’s why. Jim Vuckovich of Phi Sigma Kappa was crowned king and Laura Helian, from Sigma Kappa, reigned as queen. Coverage of the week’s events is on Page 10.
GOP legislators pledge to find budget pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's Republican allies said Monday they would try anew to forge a bipartisan compromise on the 1985 budget despite the collapse of talks last week between the chief executive and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill. After meeting with Reagan in the Cabinet Room, both Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker and House Minority Leader Robert Michel said they planned to meet further with O'Neill at the Democratic speaker's suggestion and apparently with the president's blessing.

"The president clearly still wants to work out a compromise bipartisan budget," said Baker. "He still wants to avoid a conflict. I think he thinks and I think that this country deserves better than to make the budget a political football in 1983."

Reagan had been planned to talk to O'Neill to see "if there's some possibility that he and I, or our representatives in the House and Senate, can work something out on a conference report." But efforts to make a compromise have been unsuccessful so far, sources said.

Reports following Reagan's 60-minute meeting with Republican congressional leaders in the Cabinet Room. After that session, the president conferred with Republican members of the Senate Budget Committee to plan strategy.

Michel quoted O'Neill as having offered to meet with both himself and Baker. "He said, 'Bob, we have to get together and I said, 'We're certainly amenable to doing that because that's our job.' " Michel said, quoting a conversation he said occurred after Reagan's speech to the nation last Thursday.

Baker said the White House meeting was devoted almost entirely to an analysis of the doomed negotiating session between Reagan and O'Neill last week.

Senate committee OKs voting bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bipartisan compromise extending key provisions of the 1965 Voting Rights Act had been reached among at least 12 of the 18 members of the Senate Judiciary Committee, congressional sources said Monday.

The proposal has the support of several civil rights organizations, including the NAACP, as well as a few of the more conservative senators and members of the judiciary panel.

But efforts to persuade Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, the Republican chairman of the committee, to endorse the compromise have been unsuccessful so far, sources said.

Even without Thurmond's backing, the compromise was expected to be approved by both the judiciary committee and the full Senate after some opposition from archconservatives like Sen. Arlen Specter, R-PA, and Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-MA. Among those agreeing to the proposal are conservative Sens. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, and Howell Heflin, D-Ala.

The committee on Tuesday is expected to consider the voting rights bill, which generally is regarded as the most successful piece of civil rights legislation enacted in the 1960s.

Howard H. Baker Jr. called it "a step in the right direction...but we still have a ways to go."

Within the judiciary committee, the compromise is being opposed hard by Sens. Bob Dole, R-Kan.; Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Charles Mathias Jr., R-Md. Among those agreeing to the proposal are conservative Sens. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, and Howell Heflin, D-Ala.

Installation of precipitators for steam plant to begin in May

By University News Service

Air conditioning and hot water will be in short supply for a while this spring at SIU-C.

But University officials say the cause is a good one — clean air.

Three of four big boilers at SIU-C's steam generating plant will be shut down shortly after spring graduation exercises May 15 so that construction workers can begin collecting pollution-control equipment at the plant.

Engineers expect to fire up the boilers again before students begin arriving on campus in mid-June for summer session classes.

While the boilers are idle, 73 buildings will be without domestic hot water and 29 of those won't have air conditioning.

Court refuses to clear way for execution

SIU-C generates steam for heating, air conditioning and hot water.

Clarence G. Daugherty, vice president for campus services, said engineers tried to pick a time when the closedown would bother the least.

"We regret the inconvenience," he said, "but fortunately the construction schedule coincides with a time when the school isn't in session and the weather isn't really hot yet.

Some steam and water will be available from the fourth boiler, which can be vented through an auxiliary "stub stack" at the power plant, Thomas Engram, superintendent of utilities, said. But the boiler isn't big enough to handle normal campus demands for steam and hot water.

Three precipitators will be designed to clean up smokestack particle emissions from the coal-fired plant and bring it into compliance with Illinois Environmental Protection Agency standards. Roughly analogous to electronic air filters found in some home air-conditioning systems, but much larger, precipitators work by funneling hot coal gases between a series of electrically charged plates or screens. Dust and fly ash particles are attracted to the plates by static electricity.

Periodically, waste is collected from the plates and carried off by conveyor belt for disposal.

Engram said once the $1.1 million system is operational sometime next year — particle emissions "should be cut at least 85 percent."

Nazi ethic is killing children

This month, a severely retarded infant was starved to death in an Indianapolis hospital against the explicit request of the parents. This, of itself, is nothing new. Nobel laureates like John Laird and Oliver Sacks have advocated this for some time. It is now legal in the United States.

This ethic is the same one used by the Third Reich. The first 250,000 persons executed were not Jews; they were German, some of whom were infirm, senile and mentally retarded.

This ethic is a result of the abortion-on-demand philosophy in our country. If it is legal to kill a child before birth because it is imperfect, why not also make it legal after the child is born?

If you want to help stop the disproportionately high rate of suicides in our country (1.5 million yearly), we urge you to write the President and your legislators in support of A Bill to the United States (HR 2148). Specifically ask the legislators if they will vote for the bill. Wayne Helstroski, Associate Professor, Thermal Environmental Engineering.

Loveboy reviewer reflected biases

I was at the Loveboy concert and contrary to what Joe Walter says, the concert was quite enjoyable. I realize that a review is just one man's opinion, but perhaps it would be more advantageous for the Daily Southern News to have someone else review concerts who is a bit more objective. Nine thousand fans cheered and were overly-joyed to see one of their favorite bands. I was overwhelmed by the power and quality of Loveboy and thought the music and light show were fantastic.

Mr. Walter did not need to stray from his "review" by voicing his extremely biased ideas about how bands are a "joke". Loveboy sound just like 100 other bands. Besides, he got awfully cruel about the band. What I am suggesting is that the Daily Egyptian send a reviewer to concerts who will be a more objective voice and somewhat represent the majority of people who saw the concert.

Don't send Joe Walter to anymore rock concerts. Maybe he should be doing something he is much more suited for — something like his lack of intelligence. Now who's the boomer — Michael Isakel, Freshman, Law Enforcement.

NRA work is making guns safer

I WOULD LIKE to take issue the incessant bad mouthing of the National Rifle Association that seems to be so prevalent among the S.U.I. student population. I would also like to use this opportunity to educate some of you folks as to what the NRA stands for.

The NRA was founded in 1871 by a group of sportsmen and gun enthusiasts to promote the safe handling and use of firearms by the public. It has only recently evolved into a political lobbying organization as a result of the Gun Control Act of 1968.

Even in this capacity, the NRA serves not only as a lobby for its members, but also disseminates information to its members so that they may be aware of all the facts that affect their right to gun ownership. This leads to the main directive of their policy, as no lobbying body can be effective if the membership does not let their elected legislators know about their feelings on certain cases.

Unbeknownst to the vast majority of people, the NRA also serves as an educator of the public on the safe handling of firearms and ethical behavior for hunters all over the country. The NRA also provides training for police officers throughout the country. These hunter and gun safety programs are available to anybody and have made hunting and shooting as safe as playing a hole of golf.

In a LETTER published April 20, Michael Majchrzakz seems to make great deal in unity with a lot of the same people who are trying to ban handguns, albeit his numbers are out of context to the whole problem of violent crime in America, to say nothing of the world.

Worldwide, U.S. homicide rates are higher than almost any other country in the world. It is quite clear that if we direct all our energies to the handgun and we say that there are 80 to 100 million guns in the hands of U.S. citizens. Assuming that 30,000 Americans are killed each year by firearms, we find that only 1 out of 4,000 guns were used for murder. That's only one-fourth of one-tenth of 1 percent. The above figures deal with guns overall. Let's look at the operator of these weapons. A gun doesn't do anything without a person behind it. The FBI statistics show that 14 percent of the people charged with murder in this country in 1975 had previous records of being on criminal charges. Even more disturbing is the fact that 55 percent had been convicted of criminal charges, 38 percent for violent crimes. It was also deduced that the average murderer has six prior criminal involvements.

WE HAVE A serious problem here! As it turns out, people who don't think anything of killing another have previously broken the law several times. As the gun control laws stand now, these animals can't legally purchase a firearm anyway. How do we control the maniacal tendencies of people? Human beings possess aggression as part of their mentality, so they will kill each other just as they have done since the dawn of time.

As for the maintenance of a well-regulated militia being outdated, I like to believe that the reason the United States has not been actually invaded by a foreign power is because no hostile army could safely inhabit this country without being subject to continuous harassment from a citizenry that is well-armed and disposed to protect their freedom with zest.

The NRA is just one of the many checks and balances built into our system of government and is no different than anti-nuke or other special interest political organizations.

I am a NRA member and damn proud of it, and I have close to 2 million compatriots. We will work hard to help move this country to a more advantageous position, and not suffer through swift and severe punishment of convicted criminals just as we have done in the past. It's time both sides in this issue sit down and work together to solve our society's problems. We have unlimited resources to achieve this, so let's do it — Eric C. Gerst, Senior, Special Major.

Ann Landers admits to recycling columns

CHICAGO (AP) - Ann Landers, one of the world's most widely syndicated columnists, has been recycling with only minor changes letters she answered in columns years ago without telling the editors who serviced or estimated 70 million readers.

A comparison of several hundred of Miss Landers' columns published from Jan. 1 through April 1967 showed 33 clearly identifiable examples of columns that appeared in her columns in late 1966 and early 1967 10 years later. The technique, differing only in such details as names and dates.

Presented with copies of 12 examples, Miss Landers acknowledged Monday that she has been recycling revised versions of 12-year-old letters in her columns in the past year and a half and said: "I think people read my columns for advice, guidance, amusement. I don't care if the reader cares. The important thing is to get the information out. I can't possibly put it out in a way that is useful or powerful and not have the technique doesn't matter."

An example of recycled material is a Jan. 1967 letter from a woman who complained he doesn't want one. "I want to buy me a mink coat," the woman wrote. "I don't want one. I am going through the change and what I really need is a fan, not a fur coat."

Toxic waste suit sent to state court

SPRINGFIELD (AP) - A $25,000-dollars lawsuit was filed by residents of Wiltonville against the owners of a leaking toxic waste dump near the village.

Meanwhile, a Monday deadline passed without the drama answered CA Services Inc. of Boston, delivering a plan to the state on how to cleanup the toxic wastes found leaking from the 130-acre landfill. 35 miles northeast of St. Louis.

U.S. District Judge J Waldo Ackerman dismissed as "without merit" arguments by lawyers for SCA that he should settle the damage suit.

Ackerman sent the case to Madison County Circuit Court, which in mid-1976 closed the SCA-owned Earthline Corp. was ordered its toxic store and contaminated dirt removed.

On Oct. 19, 1981, a letter appeared from a woman who complained her husband wants to buy me a mink coat for my silver anniversary. I am going through the change and what I really need is a fan, not a fur coat."

In both cases, Miss Landers warned the writers to think of not themselves but of their husbands and accept the miss.

Miss Landers, whose sympathetic personal advice and remonstrative lashes with "wet noods" have appeared for 26 years, has said publicly in the past she writes the columns herself without help and that the letters used are authentic.

Miss Landers's column is syndicated by the Field Newspaper Syndicate to more than 1,000 newspapers worldwide.

Steve Jehorek, president and chief executive officer of the syndicate, said Monday that there had been previous examples of recycled letters appearing in the column, but "I've never had any knowledge of it whatsoever."

And Ann Landers has always said: "If you're suggesting something like she's reaching back '65 and taking a wad of columns and giving me an example of evidence."

"People who edit her column here haven't noticed anything," he said.

Asked for the syndicate's attitude toward recycling of columns, Jehorek replied: "I'm not saying we condone it or that it happened. I just don't have a (sic) I haven't seen it."

"I'm sure Miss Landers is the pen name for Esther Pauline Lederer, whose twin sister Pauline Esther Phillips writes as Abigail Van Buren a similarly syndicated column. Dear Abby."

One newspaper which has been publishing the Ann Landers column for 24 years is the 9,000 circulation Pontiac Daily Leader.

Barbara Sancken, a part-time editorial staffer with the Daily Leader, discovered similarities between old and new Ann Landers columns while doing research in the newspaper's microfilm library for a daily feature looking back at history.

One of the years Mrs Sancken was studying for the paper's "Remember" feature was 1966. Managing Editor Gary Bowden told the Associated Press of the newspaper's findings. The AP and the newspaper then jointly undertook further investigations.

We felt if the column was beginning to contain material that was not original it called into question whether the columnist and syndicator were whose general assistant publisher Jim Pearre.

His newspaper pays $75 a year, including postage and return of the letters, for the Ann Landers column.

Homosexuals fairly treated in a well-acted, sensitive film

By Arnie Bernstein
Student Writer

Homosexuals are often exploited in film for comic relief or shock effect. Recent films about homosexuals have toned down the stereotypes, although characters are still heavily defined by their sexuality.

"Personal Best" offers a different and more realistic view of this touchy subject.

"Personal Best" is the story of two female athletes, played by Mariel Hemingway and Patricia Donnelly. Donnelly is a more seasoned track star who sees much potential in Hemingway and takes the younger girl under her wing. Along the way they become lovers as well as competitors.

The affair between the two is well handled. In lesser hands, the lesbian angle could have been over-exploited. But writer-director Robert Towne has taken the best approach with this delicate material. Hemingway and Donnelly are two athletes who happen to live and sleep together. Their relationship is no different from that of any man and woman (or man and man, for that matter). The two women are not presented as social freaks or perverts. They are just two people in love.

These roles are well-acted by Hemingway and Donnelly. Their parts have been played by actresses of lesser talent, the results could have been disastrous. Hemingway, however, is particularly good, projecting at once a sense of innocence and toughness.

"Personal Best" is also a good portrayal of the athlete's world. The opening shot of a woman's face, sweat dripping onto the track. is particularly good. This technique is also used to show the beauty and agony of the athlete's life. However, the film relies too often on slow-motion effects. Thanks to "Wide World of Sports," this technique has achieved cliché status and becomes somewhat repetitive after awhile.

The characters of "Personal Best" are well written and are three-dimensional people. In addition to the two female leads, Scott Glenn, the villain of "Urban Cowboy," plays the coach and gives a fine performance. Glenn subtly portrays his love for his athletes and his efforts to split Hemingway and Donnelly's affair.

Though characters and dialogue are well written, the film drags somewhat. Scenes sometimes are longer than they should be, marring an otherwise well-done and sensitive film. Rating: 3 stars (4 stars tops)

U. Mall is site of music festivities

The Morning Etude Club of Carbondale is sponsoring a series of performances this week at the University Mall in observance of National Music Week.

The program will run through Friday.

On Tuesday, the Notorious Paws Band will perform at 7 p.m. with the Sweet Adelines, a barbershop chorus, also singing at 8 p.m.

Seminar gives views on business of art

By Joe Walker
Staff Writer

"Spending too much time improving one's technique with acrylics, oils or ceramics and not enough time taking care of the business end of art could possibly mean penalties from the IRS. It might also result in the loss of a copyright to one's work."

These points were brought up at a seminar entitled "Legal and Business Aspects of the Arts" Friday, as speakers acquainted listeners in the Quigley Hall Lounge with the legal and financial aspects of the art world.

Shari Rhode, legal counsel for the University, discussed copyright laws and how they apply to sales of art objects. "When one sells the work," Rhode told the audience of about 75 "one does not have to sell the copyright."

An idea in and of itself, Rhode said, cannot be copyrighted. It must be in a tangible form. The work must be original and must bear a three-part notice consisting of the "©", within a circle, the date and the name of the artist.

Within three months of the work's creation, an accurate representation of the work such as a photograph complete with information giving the actual dimensions of the work is sent to the Library of Congress along with a $10 fee to obtain the copyright.

John Paslinskas, lawyer and legal professor at Sagamore State University, discussed shopping for a lawyer, noting that artists can bargain for lower fees in the current plentiful lawyer market.

Patricia Beene Covington of the SFC's Art faculty addressed the necessity of bookkeeping and record keeping if one is to sell paintings. However, she said, "If you're going to sell a painting once a year, it is not to your advantage to declare a business."

Covington told the hopeful artists that the best way to keep records for the IRS is the actual method: reporting the date when a work is purchased but not when cash is received. If your work is brought in November and you receive cash in January,"she said, "put down November."

If an artist enters a competition and wins $50, Covington said, that is income also. If the artist is invited to enter the competition and was awarded a sum of money, then it need not be reported. "An example of this," Covington said, "is an author winning the Pulitzer Prize."
Jean Simon raps proposed budget cuts

President Reagan's proposed budget cuts pose a serious threat to women, Jean Simon said about 60 students, faculty and administrators recently in the Mississippi Room.

"We have been doing so well lately that I think we have all relaxed, and we act as though there is nothing left to do," Simon said. "It has only been 60 years since we made tremendous strides, and we tend to forget about those battles.

Of the Equal Rights Amendment, Simon said, "We should not give up. Remember that women's suffrage took 200 years - maybe the ERA will take that long too!"

Simon said that problems women now face are as real and difficult as they ever were and that these problems must be addressed before it is too late.

According to Simon, threats arising from Reagan's proposed budget include cuts in block grants, among which such programs as the Women's Educational Equity Services, for which Simon had been a legal analyst, has already been cut. It had been the only commission in the government that did anything about providing a sexual equality in education for women, she said.

Simon said she assisted in an analysis even then that went through Congress to see that women not "a few women" make. Besides Title IX, this commission was the only protection for women. Now with Reagan's cutbacks, the rights of women in education are being taken away.

Simon also said the proposed cutbacks in welfare programs that often assist widows and single mothers are equally important and disturbing. "Reagan as a communicator is very convincing, but obviously, we still have a lot to worry about," she said.

A member of both the Illinois and Washington, D.C. Bar Associations, Simon also served as assistant state's attorney in Cook County for four years in the 1960s. She was elected to the Illinois House of Representatives where she served two consecutive terms and where she also met her husband, Paul Simon.

Regulations haven’t cut out loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Students attending most public colleges may qualify for full government-subsidized loans this fall if their families don’t earn more than $40,000 a year, according to new Education Department regulations.

Starting this fall, typical four-year public colleges will not be able to get a full $2,500 Guaranteed Student Loan if the family’s income exceeds $40,000. But those with incomes up to about $26,000 could get at least a $1,000 loan.

The new rules assume the student is from a two-parent family with one child in college. They also use the College Board’s figures that it now costs an average of $16,000 a year to attend a private four-year college or $7,000 a year for a public college.

In college costs are rising sharply, again this fall, with some private universities charging undergraduates up to $12,000 a year in tuition, room and board and other fees.

The government’s schedule for the Guaranteed Student Loan program was published Monday in the Federal Register. About 5.1 million students borrowed $7.8 billion under the program last year.

Students with family incomes of $20,000 or less are automatically eligible to borrow $2,500 under the unsubsidized loan program, which costs the government about $2.7 billion a year.

Campus Briefs

A FORUM on the death penalty will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Illinois Room, sponsored by Amnesty International. Speakers will include Randy Flue, an attorney for some Illinois Death Row prisoners, Jan Soder of the St. Louis Legal Aid Project, and President of Amnesty International. The film, “People Are Not for Killing,” will be shown.

A THESES exhibit of drawings and paintings by Steve Rogers will be displayed in the University Museum in the Main Library, Illinois Hall, until May 18.

THE GOLDEN KEY National Honor Society will hold its initiation banquet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Ballrooms A and B.

A RESUME writing workshop will be held at 9 a.m. Tuesday in Illini Ballroom 118, sponsored by the Career Planning and Placement Center.

A COMPUTER users forum will be held at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Main Library, sponsored by the Academic Computing Committee.

MARK JOHNSON, a philosophy professor, will discuss “What’s So Important About Cognitive Science?” at noon Tuesday in the Curtiss Room, sponsored by Phi Kappa Phi.

IMPORTANT 1982-83 FINANCIAL AID INFORMATION

STUDENT WORK AND FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

Wooddy Hall, Third Floor, B Wing

1. Illinois State Scholarship Commission (ISSC) Monetary Award

For students who have not already done so, we strongly recommend that you apply for a 1982-83 ISSC Monetary Award. The deadline to apply is June 1, 1982. To apply, all undergraduate, Illinois residents must submit to ACT/Family Financial Statement (ACT/FFS) and (IFSS) “Yes” to Question 74 and 75a.

2. On-campus Student Employment

Students who wish to have an on-campus student work job, must have a 1982-83 ACT/FFS on file. Be sure to enclose the ACT/FFS processing fee and enter SIUC's school code #1144 in Section H and Question 76.

NOTE: ACT/FFS Need Analysis Forms may be obtained in our office.

3. Guaranteed Student Loan/Illinois Guaranteed Loan

As the Federal Government has not yet established the GSL guidelines for the 1982-83 academic year, lenders are being advised not to give loan applications to students. Our office can not process loan applications until these guidelines are published.

4. Financial Aid Award

Our office has planned to begin making financial aid awards in the middle of April, allowing those students who mailed their ACT/FFS in January to hear from us in late April or early May. However, because of delays in the delivery system at the federal level, students who mailed their ACT/FFS in January may not hear from us before late May or early June. Those students who mailed their ACT/FFS before April 1, will still be given priority for Campus-Based Aid.

Students who are just now sending in their ACT/FFS can still apply for the Pell Grant, ISSC Monetary Award, Student Work, and Guaranteed Student Loans.

5. Short Term Loan Service Charge

Effective Monday June 7, 1982, the service charge for short term loans will be increased to the following:

<table>
<tr>
<th>Amount of Loan</th>
<th>Service Charge</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>$0 - $50</td>
<td>$1.00</td>
</tr>
<tr>

Carbondale-based magazine looking for articles on films

A new film and video magazine, Single Take, is looking for writers.

The magazine, according to Charles Harpole of the Department of Cinema and Photography, will deal with feminism and ideology in cinema.

"The magazine is encouraging students and residents of Southern Illinois to express their views on topics through theoretical articles, critical essays, reviews through theoretical articles, and articles concerning the production process and articles about Southern Illinois film and video production," Harpole said.

Single Take will be distributed internationally to educational institutions and professionals in the field.

The Carbondale-based magazine will be accepting articles and reviews through the summer. Manuscripts may be sent to: Charles Harpole, Department of Cinema and Photography, SIU-C.

Orchestra show is Morris tribute

The SIU-C Symphony Orchestra and combined chorus will perform Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's 'Requiem.' Thursday in a concert dedicated to the life and work of former SIU President Deleyte W. Morris.

Dr. Morris, president from 1968 to 1970, died April 10.

The memorial concert, scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium, will also include a performance of Franz Joseph Haydn's Symphony No. 101 ("The Clock") by the orchestra.

Directing the orchestra and combined chorus of more than 150 voices will be Robert Bergt, orchestra conductor. The chorus have been prepared by David Williams, acting head of the choral department, and Debbie Burris, choral assistant to Robert Kingsbury.

Solistas for the "Requiem" will be soprano Beverly Hayes, Randall F. Black and baritone David N. Williams, faculty members in the School of Music, as well as Julie Greene, graduate student in music.

The concert is free and open to the public.

Industry of Japan is seminar topic

Translating Japanese production know-how into management ideas for American industry will be the theme of a two-day seminar Thursday and Friday at SIU-C.

SIU-C experts in industrial productivity, efficiency and employee motivation will analyze successful Japanese workplace practices such as "quality circles" and then try to show how the same techniques can be put to profitable use on the American production lines.

"We hope to explain to people. This is how you do it and this is what you can do to accomplish it," said James P. Orr, industrial technology faculty member at SIU-C and one of the seminar lecturers.

More than a few tricks of Japan's bustling trade came originally from America, Orr said.

"These ideas were here 20 or 25 years ago, but nobody was interested," he said. "Now the Japanese are out-producing everybody and we want to know how they're doing it.''

Orr said seminar speakers will point out, however, that not every child of the Japanese industrial imagination is adaptable in the West.

"If you make a mistake on the production line in Japan, it's considered a bad reflection on you, on the company, on your family," he said. "In this country, unfortunately that's often not the case."

Other seminar speakers will be Dale H. Bestlerfield, chairman of the department of technology, Thomas N. Martin, faculty member in administrative sciences, and Fred E. Meyers, technology, faculty member.

Need help surviving finals? Health Service may have aid

Two-hundred "Finals Week Survival Kits" will be made available on a first-come first-serve basis Wednesday at the Health Service and at the Health Care Resource Room.

The kits will contain raisins, peanuts, peanut butter, crackers, herb tea and information on stress, caffeine and alcohol, according to Janice Kulp, coordinator at the Wellness Center.

Kulp said each of the 200 survival kits will contain coupons redeemable for free food at Arnold's Market, Tres Hombres, Makanda Java, Danner's and Mr. Natural's.

Students wishing to obtain a survival kit can clip the coupon from the Wellness Center advertisement in the Daily Egyptian next week, Kulp said.

The kits can be obtained free with the presentation of a coupon.

"The best way to get through finals is to get some sleep," she said. "Don't try to pull all-nighters. Because if you sleep, your concentration will be better."

"Take breaks every hour or two. Take a walk, or talk to a friend. Exercise. Either go to the Recreation Center or do something outside — something to break up the studying," Kulp said.

Greek out!
For Greeks, it was time out to celebrate Greek Week

By Linda Stockman
Staff Writer

This year's Greek Week competition saw tradition both continued and lost. Delta Chi won the Sigma Kappa Uglyman Contest for the fifth year, but lost its three-year reign over the Sigma Phi Epsilon Car Stuff event.

Tradition also ended for the Alpha Gamma Rho little sisters, who lost the Farmer's Follies events, which, according to participants at the event, had never happened before.

Greek Week, a tradition for SIU-C's Greek out!, according to Mary Lee Schrader of Delta Tau Gamma, has never happened in both the most ornate and swiftest chariot categories.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA also won the ATO-sponsored little sisters bike race. Sigma Kappa Greeks have a 'hectic, zany, surprising and somewhat athletic' week.

won the race in sorority competition.
The Sigma Kappa-sponsored track event concluded the events of April 25. It featured a 100-yard dash, hurdles, 440 relay, toilet paper toss, water balloon catch, blind tire run and presidential special, where presidents of each fraternity caught an egg in their mouths while lying on the ground.

Sigma Phi Epsilon won with 19 points followed by Delta Chi with 11 and Alpha Gamma Rho with 10.

In the ugman competition, in which contestants had to decorate themselves in the ugliest way they could think of and then recite a crude poem, Guy Hunt of Delta Chi won with his 'vomiting of ketchup, mustard, mayonnaise, mud and other unsightly ingredients and a perfect recitation of the poem,' To the Ladies of Sigma Kappa.

ON April 26, the Delta Chi little sisters held their box relay, and the Delta Chi brothers held a five-legged race. Alpha Tau Omega won the box relay with Delta Chi taking second.

Sigma Kappa Delta won the five-legged race for the sororities with Sigma Kappa second and Delta Zeta third. In the little sister category, Alpha Tau Omega won followed by Alpha Gamma Rho and Delta Chi.

The Phi Sigma Kappa obstacle course, held April 27, required true athletic abilities. Contestants had to run through nine tires, scramble under a board placed on four chairs, carry a bucket of water over a picnic table, climb a ladder in order to hit a can, take off a shirt, throw a ball in a garbage can, run over four bedpost hurdles, once again under the board and through the tires, and sprint to the finish line.

IF RESULTS indicate anything, Sigma Phi Epsilon had the most athletic contestants as it won the event for the fraternities. Equally athletic were Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority and Delta Tau Gamma's little sisters, which won their categories.

Alpha Gamma Rho held the farmer's daughter competition (in which contestants are quizzed on farm-related topics) on Wednesday. The winning little sister in this event was Mary Lee Schrader of Delta Chi. Mary Shaub, Sigma Kappa, won in the sorority competition.

Sigma Gamma Delta sorority also held its reverse-a-thon. Each event, such as the leapfrog and basketball free-throw shooting, was done backwards.

Phi Sigma Kappa won the event, with Sigma Phi Epsilon taking second and Alpha Tau Omega third.

Sigma Tau Gamma held its bar race on Thursday. Persons had to run between specified bars and to the Sig Tau house on Poplar Street, chewing a beer at each bar and two at the finish.

SIGMA PHI Epsilon won in the fraternity category. The sororities and little sisters were allowed seven members each in their races, and Alpha Gamma Delta and the Delta Chi little sisters emerged victorious.

Phi Sigma Kappa won the Sigma Phi Epsilon car stuff event held on Friday. Alpha Gamma Delta and the Alpha Gamma Rho little sisters won in their respective categories.

The car stuff was followed by the Alpha Tau Omega mud tug of war Delta Zeta and Alpha Gamma Rho little sisters were the winners. The AGR little sisters beat Delta Zeta in just-for-fun competition, while Sigma Pi fraternity was resting from its semi-final victory before the victory match.

Sigma Pi then out-tugged Delta Chi in the event.

Saturday's Alpha Gamma Rho farmer's follies was won by the little sisters of Delta Chi, who took four of the eight events for 38 points to upset the AGRs and ATO little sisters, who tied with 22 points each.

SIGMA KAPPA won the sororities category with 32 points including five first-place finishes, over Alpha Gamma Delta's 28 and Delta Zeta's 12.

The follies included a slope obstacle relay, milk chug, three-legged obstacle relay, tobacco spitting at a target, wheelbarrow race, fireman's brigade, tug of war and grease (soaped this year) pig.

The final athletic event was the Tau Kappa Epsilon canoe races. Delta Chi fraternity, Alpha Gamma Delta sorority and the Alpha Tau Omega little sisters were the winners of each category.

Greek Week concluded Sunday with the 31st Annual Inter-Greek Council Awards Banquet.
Lady golfers earn ‘tough’ fifth

The women’s golf team finished its spring season by placing fifth at the Stephens College Invitational in Columbia, Mo., Friday and Saturday.
“We’ve had an exceptional spring season,” said Coach Mary Beth Meador. “For the first time this season we worked together strongly.”
“It doesn’t sound like we did well, but we did,” she said, adding that the team placed in the best of the year at the Invitational through competition was tough at the 54-hole, eight-team tournament.
Missouri won the tournament with 912 strokes. The Lady Tigers were followed by Iowa State with 904, Stephens College with 913, Kansas with 916 and SIU-C with 924.
Michelle Jordan of Missouri won the individual title, with scores of 71, 89 and 75 for three rounds.
“The golf course was short, a disadvantage for us because we do better on long courses.”
McGirr said. “It was a good learning experience for the team, because they learned the importance of chipping and putting’.
McGirr said the performances of Barb Anderson and Tracy Keller stood out for the Salukis over the weekend, as the two shot in the 70s all three rounds.
Anderson, who had rounds of 75, 78 and 79, tied for 13th place in the tournament and was the scoring leader among the Saluki squad. Keller was next for SIU-C, with rounds of 78, 79 and 76.
Lisa Rottman-Bremer shot rounds of 76, 75 and 80, which tied the three-round total of teammate Kim Oliver, who posted scores of 78, 81 and 74. Dana Mende tallied rounds of 77, 83 and 80.
Sue Arbegast, one of two members on the SIU-C squad that did not compete, shot three sub-80 rounds in independent play. Teammate Cathy Craft, who also played independently, shot 88, 87 and 84.
McGirr said the team is looking forward to the fall season.
“We’ve got depth and no seniors on the team now, so we’ll get stronger,” she said.
She also said that two talented recruits have signed letters-of-intent to attend SIU-C this fall. However, the team will lose one of its top five players, Keller, who will be leaving SIU-C for Dallas, Texas, according to McGirr.
“We’ll miss her a lot,” she said, “she was one of our most consistent players.”

each of the 20 state teams is solely comprised of all-stars.
Narvaez’ teammates Donna and Robin Riddle and an RHI in six trips to the plate this season.
Although he describes himself as a good contact hitter, his best asset is probably his ability behind the plate.
Narvaez describes himself as “a pretty good catcher with an accurate, precise arm.”
Green agreed with the catcher’s self-appraisal.
“Frank has an excellent release. He doesn’t have an arm like Joe Richardson or Steve Boyd (SIU-C’s starting catchers) but he makes up for that with control.”
Another big plus in Narvaez’ corner is his attitude. Unlike many players from the Little Leagues in the majors, he remains reserved as the team’s third catcher and accepts the fact that he won’t see much action.
“I think this is my learning season,” he said. “Baseball is not different here, but I have to learn the Way Coach Jones and the Salukis play.
“I guess I’ll try to help the team even though I don’t play. I’m warming up the pitchers when they work in the bullpen, which is my way to help.”
Narvaez, learning how to play “itchy-ball,” Narvaez also had to learn how to feed for the night a lot of miles away from home.
“It’s a tough experience,” he said of the move to North America. “I’d recommend it if a person is ready to leave everything back home.
“I chose the United States because it’s a nice country, it’s developed and I wanted to learn more about the life, culture, and lifestyles of another country.”
Narvaez decided to live in Carbondale since a friend from his hometown attended SIU-C, which made the transplant a lot easier.
The Saluki catcher’s hometown is Maracay, which is about an hour from the capital city Caracas. Cincinnati Reds shortstop Dave Concepcion is another Maracay product.
Although he misses his family and is able to return home just a few weeks a year, Narvaez is pleased he decided to attend college in the United States.
“I enjoy it; it’s a nice experience,” he said, adding that living here has given him the opportunity to “develop more as a person.”
Another thing Narvaez has developed is his command of the English language. Though his speech contains a noticeable Spanish accent, it is easy to communicate a conversation with him — which is pretty remarkable when you consider the fact he arrived in this country without knowing a bit of the English language.

Women, men golfers to have one coach

By Linda Stockman
Staff Writer

Mary Beth McGirr, women's golf coach since 1979, will coach the men's golf team as well next fall. McGirr was appointed by Men's Athletic Director Charlotte Moore to replace the retiring Women's Athletic Director Charlotte West, according to West. "She's been a part of our program for 10 years, she's been successful," said West. "She knows golf comes first. She's an excellent teacher with outstanding credentials, a good reputation and she's been to all three of our tournaments. She has a lot of pluses." McGirr said the move to men's golf will come as a result of her appointment. "I'm real excited about it," she said. "It's an exciting opportunity and a unique situation." McGirr, 28, will replace Jim Reburn, who recently announced his intention to accept a teaching position at Central Illinois College in Shreveport, La. Her appointment makes her one of the first women in the nation to be chosen to coach a NCAA Division I men's team. West feels co-educational competition will be more common in the next five to 10 years. "We're pacersets," West said. "It will be good to see men and women on the same course at the same time for the first time in the history of our golf program. It's an exciting combination will be a cost-saver." McGirr said she couldn't gauge the reactions of the men to the move, but said the only restriction would be "the women's team were quite positive. It's just the newness of it. She said, "Men are concerned about traveling and scheduling. I'll have to gain the respect of the men," she said, "I have to prove myself to the men, because I teach men to hit the ball, I'm going to have to want to give a fair chance to prove myself." McGirr will receive an increase in salary, which she said would help familiarize herself with the program, the guys, scheduling, recruiting and scholarships.

Baseball Coach Ithcy Jones gave the Salukis a well-deserved day off Monday after they guaranteed their spot in the Missouri Valley Conference tournament over the weekend. "We had a very busy schedule by splitting four games with Indiana State giving the Salukis a 7-5 MVC record and the lead in the Eastern Division," said Jones. Depending on the outcome of the Indiana State tournament this weekend, the Salukis can finish as high as the second place.

Although the Salukis may be through with their Valley slate, Jones said they were easy against their next opponent.

"We plan to work our tails off. We have to swing the bats better," said Jones.

The 26-18 Salukis will play SIU-C catcher Bruce Garrett in a double header at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday at Ash Grove Field. Jones said the Salukis, as always, will go into Tuesday's action with the idea that they can win both games.

"Every game is a must," he said.

The Salukis might have to play with extra intensity against the Cougars. SIU-E was 31-16 going into a twin bill against Missouri-St Louis Monday.

The Cougars should be considered the favorite, according to SIU-C head coach Garrett "Bo" Collins. Collins explained that there are no automatic bids for the tourney which starts later this month. The Cougars have qualified for postseason play eight of the last 12 years. Including Monday's doubleheader, SIU-E has played 12 games in seven days. As a result, Collins isn't sure which two hurlers will start Tuesday.

Jones said Sunday that freshman Raf Koch will start against the Cougars. The righty is 2-2 and his 0.94 ERA is on the best on the Saluki staff. He allowed five hits and struck out three in six innings in a losing effort against Eastern Wednesday. Jones does not announce starters until Monday.

What's on the mound for the Salukis will have to face a tough problem. The Cougars are hitting .310 as a team. Collins said.

Leading their attack is right fielder Bill Wehrman, who has six homers and is hitting a team-high .370. First baseman Tommy Greco is hitting .360 and leads SIU-E with 50 RBI.

"I've been looking for ways to stretch budgetary dollars and to increase the time of our coaches who remain on fractional appointments," she said. "There is no money in the Intercollegiate Athletics Advisory Committee has suggested from time to time that we investigate the idea of a common coach where feasible."

Although McGirr has had success during her three years as women's golf coach. In 1979-80 she guided the Salukis to a pair of tournament wins, including the Illinois AIAW Championship. During 1980-81 an all-freshman team won the Mini-tournament at Illinois, which was a sudden-death playoff for a season's first-place state title and finished in the top four in six other tournaments. This year the Salukis' golf team claimed second in the Midwest Regional, won the Illini Invitational, took third at Purdue and fifth at the Stephens College Invitational.

The women's golf coach also was key player in the expanded coaching duties. "My first priority will be to familiarize myself with the program, the guys, scheduling, recruiting and scholarships.

Rested Salukis set for SIU-E

Although he has appeared in only one game for the Salukis, Frank Narvaez has played a key role in the Saluki baseball team's success.

Narvaez' job is warming up the Salukis' pitchers. A former Assistant Assistant Coach Jerry Carr has referred to Narvaez as a "good job.""Frank's a good job,"" he said. "He gets the batters warmed up. He gives them a good idea of the kind of pitch they can expect." Narvaez has played a valuable role in the Saluki's offensive game. He was a standout catcher at St. Louis North and is returning to America last August.

"I wanted to come to the U.S. to study. Baseball was never on my mind," said the chemistry major.

He said he knew SIU-C had a good baseball team and visited Page 20. Daily Egyptian, May 4, 1982
