WOMEN VISIT HUSBANDS IN BAGDHAD PRISON

BAGHDAD, Iraq—Two American women have visited their husbands at a Bagbdad prison for the first time, an Iraqi spokesman said Monday. But there was no word whether the wives made any progress in persuading President Saddam Hussein's government to free the two men, sentenced to eight-year terms on charges of illegally entering Iraq from Kuwait. In an interview taped Sunday evening after the visit and broadcast Monday on CNN, the two women — Linda Barloon, 37, and Kathy Daliberti, 39 — said they were surprised that Iraqi authorities allowed them to visit their husbands so soon after their arrival on Saturday.

REPORT SHOWS CONTINUED GROWTH DECREASE

WASHINGTON—Manufacturing industries expanded only molestly last month for the second month in a row, the National Association of Furchasing Management reported Monday, indicating that the slowing of U.S. economic growth has continued into the spring. The NAPM said that its index covering the manufacturing sector of the economy rose slightly to 52 percent last month from 51.4 percent in March, but both figures were well below last year's November peak of 59.9 percent. A reading of 50 percent or more indicates manufacturing activity is expanding.

Boat race beneficial to University, town

THIS PAST WEEKEND, SEVERAL STUDENTS massed to a location in Carbondale where fun was had by all and where many got wet. This event was not a typical. Saturday gathering at a bar on South Illinois Avenue for a wet t-shirt contest; it was the twenty-second annual Cardboard Boat Regatta. The regatta has proven over the years to be an activity which can be enjoyed by student participants which does not directly involve bar-hopping. Creators and coordinators of the event are to be congratulated and recognized for this positive contribution they have made to students' lives on campus.

The regatta involves a problem which students must work together to solve. Using cardboard, paint and other specified materials, a boat is to be created — preferably one that won't sink right away when placed in Campus Lake — for a race against similar vessels. Innovative students, some for class projects and others just for fun, pooled their talents and hard work into the regard and were able to enjoy the end result of their labors. Whether boats sank, made it to the finish line or both, participants and spectators seemed to have a good

PERHAPS ONE OF THE BEST RESULTS OF THE regatta is the positive link it creates between SIUC students and the Carbondale community. Many local business owners sponsored students in their-boat-making endeavors, and several community members congregated at Campus Lake to enjoy the competition. University administrators and city officials would do well to remember the positive experience that can be shared by students and the rest of the community when activities like the regatta are available. In a time when alternative activities to the Strip and its bars are being sought, events like the regatta seem to be something the city and school should be increasingly considering and implementing.

Exams to start soon: preparation needed

"TIME AND TIDE WAIT FOR NO ONE."

Students may be realizing this cold, hard fact as final exams week nears. We are already two days into the last week of regular classes, and the first official day for finals is only six days away. All students must concentrate their efforts on achieving the highest possible grades as another chapter of their college careers comes to a close. If they haven't already done so, students need to blow the dust off of textbooks, crack them open and prepare for their academic judgment days. Class attendance should also be a priority this week so students can glean all possible information from their instructors which will come in handy on test day.

IT IS EASY WITH SUMMER JUST WITHIN REACH for students to begin to cash in their educational chips early. If they stay in the game however, a grade jackpot of greater pro-portions may be in store. It is time to brew a pot of coffee, find a quiet place to study and make our final academic stands of the semester - vacation has not yet started.

There has been a lot of discussion about raising the bar-entry age from 19 to 21, as it is an extremely volatile issue in this community. Op-inions have run the gamut between militantly pro-21 to fervently pro-19, with not too many in the middle.

Boat race beneficial to University, town

THIS PAST WEEKEND, SEVERAL STUDENTS massed to a location in Carbondale where fun was had by all and where many got wet. This event was not a typical. Saturday gathering at a bar on South Illinois Avenue for a wet t-shirt contest; it was the twenty-second annual Cardboard Boat Regatta. The regatta has proven over the years to be an activity which can be enjoyed by student participants which does not directly involve bar-hopping. Creators and coordinators of the event are to be congratulated and recognized for this positive contribution they have made to students' lives on campus.

The regatta involves a problem which students must work together to solve. Using cardboard, paint and other specified materials, a boat is to be created — preferably one that won't sink right away when placed in Campus Lake — for a race against similar vessels. Innovative students, some for class projects and others just for fun, pooled their talents and hard work into the regatta and were able to enjoy the end result of their labors. Whether boats sank, made it to the finish line or both, participants and spectators seemed to have a good

PERHAPS ONE OF THE BEST RESULTS OF THE regatta is the positive link it creates between SIUC students and the Carbondale community. Many local business owners sponsored students in their-boat-making endeavors, and several community members congregated at Campus Lake to enjoy the competition. University administrators and city officials would do well to remember the positive experience that can be shared by students and the rest of the community when activities like the regatta are available. In a time when alternative activities to the Strip and its bars are being sought, events like the regatta seem to be something the city and school should be increasingly considering and implementing.

Exams to start soon: preparation needed

"TIME AND TIDE WAIT FOR NO ONE."

Students may be realizing this cold, hard fact as final exams week nears. We are already two days into the last week of regular classes, and the first official day for finals is only six days away. All students must concentrate their efforts on achieving the highest possible grades as another chapter of their college careers comes to a close. If they haven't already done so, students need to blow the dust off of textbooks, crack them open and prepare for their academic judgment days. Class attendance should also be a priority this week so students can glean all possible information from their instructors which will come in handy on test day

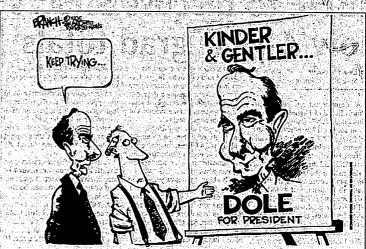

IT IS EASY WITH SUMMER JUST WITHIN REACH for students to begin to cash in their educational chips early. If they stay in the game however, a grade jackpot of greater proportions may be in store. It is time to brew a pot of coffee, find a quiet, place to study and make our final academic stands of the semester - vacation has not yet started.

Student fears gun-control efforts

In regards to your editorial on Tuesday, (April) 25, I feel that every man & women has the right to bear arms. The Constitution states that all people have certain unalignable rights and this is one of them.

against violence, but not the solu-tion to it, that issue deals with our society. But we have to be very careful with gun control laws.

How much is too much or too little? Remember that man has a history of repeating himself. If we take away all the rights of gun owner-ship like Nazi Germany, what's to stop us from eventually being ched into death camps?

If owning a gun becomes so difa black market will be created for them.

Guns will still be sold to the criminal element without a 5-day waiting period! People are industrious and will find ways to get guns if citizens to help protect them from the criminal element, who by the way has more fire power than our police departments Personally for myself, I would rather be caught by the police for having an illegal weapon than caught on a dark street about to be robbed and murdered without one.

Name-calling childish, out of place

I was disappointed in reading Rev. Derick McDonald's derogatory reference to Father Karban in the April 25, 1995 letter to the editor as being "feeble-minded and self-deceived."

The name-calling seems to be elicited by Father Karban's remarks that the Bible "be interpreted differently as times change in order to keep up with modern society.

Rev. McDonald alleges that Father Karban is "not using the Bible as a standard of truth," and "denies Am I the only person on campus that feels that hn Corker's resignation as director of the Student Center reeks of bad politics?

Paper within rights, ethics to publish ad from pro-life group

Though I was not happy to see the anti-choice insert in the April 26th edition of the Daily Egyptian; and I do not support the claims of the authors, I feel compelled to respond to the letter written by Karin McClure in the April 27th edition. Ms. Marin wice ture in the April 27th edition, wis-McClure states that "The Daily Egyptian exhibited profoundly irresponsible journalism" because the insert "was not about homecoming or another rela-tively non-controversial campus event." Whether or not an individual or organization expresses a controversial point of view, they have a constitu-tional right under the First Amendment of the Billof Rights to voice their opinions, and newspapers have the right to print them.

I am a strong pro-choice supporter. However, I believe that by equating the anti-choice insert in Wednesday's paper with the Neo-Nazi advertisement printed last year is ludicrous. Most anti-choice supporters are not attempting to rewrite history in order to promote an ultra right-wing terrorist agenda. Denying opposition groups a forum in which to express their opinions is fundamentally dangerous to the rights pro-choice advocates are so desperately attempting to preserve. Disagreement over an issue is not grounds for censorship.

SIUC Flying Salukis, a 19-member team, placed sixth in a national aviation competition which took place April 25-29.

23 universities represented

Aviation students from 23 universities and 10 region competed in nine aspects of piloting during the event. The competition has been held for 30 years and was hosted by Delta State University at Greenville, Miss Graham said the team flies Cessna152s for the ground events, which require superior maneuver-ability, but fly larger Cessna 172s for events which require more power and stability.

Billy Galloway, a visiting lecturer in aviation management and flight coach of the Flying Salukis, said the competition is beneficial for aviation students.

Stewart said the awards banquet is a memorable aspect of the com-petition because all the teams are waiting to find out how they placed.

"My favorite part of the competi-tion was the awards banquet where you get your name read off and be recognized by different national aviation publications," he said.

Galloway said preparation for the competition was intense and students spent many hours studying to improve speed and accuracy.

"I am proud of the team be they put in a lot of preparation," Galloway said. "I believe everyone at the University will be pleased with the way they represented

Alternative to alcohol: High school offers fest

Most of the seniors graduating from the Carboncale High Schools will not be standing around a keg wearing a toga on their graduation night. They will be dancing the night away at a drug and alcohol-free party at Coo-Coo's near Carterville.

Senior Fest, an 8-year-old event planned by the students and paid for by the community, is different than most school-sponsored senior events, according to fest organizer Jim Prowell: "In Carbondale, our Senior Fest

The SIUC Wellness Center has been awarded a $1,000 grant by the Center for Disease Control to create The Workshop program to educate students about HIV/AIDS through a variety of media

The first objective of the new program will be to provide an opportu-nity for art students to become knowledgeable about HIV/AIDS issues, then use their talents to create art-in-education pieces.

Desirce Mills, sexuality education coordinator, said the work is not only art, but educational.
"Talented artists will be able to

The first portion will offer four parate three-hour workshops.
HIV/AIDS 101, will be given by

In The Workshop's second stage, there will be a contest for the HIV/AIDS art-in-education pieces in the categories of film/video, pho-tography, 2-D art, 3-D art, music, theater, poem and verse, Mills said. A $500 production budget will offset the costs of the art materials purchases by the students (canvas, paint blank video tape, photo film and paper, etc.). Students will be required to provide documented proof of expected costs and receipts upon the completion before reim-bursements will be made, Ibata said.

In stage three, the pieces created will be displayed for two successive weekends and there will be several scheduled shows for the perfor-mance pieces (monologues, poems, short verse, scenes), Ibata said. Gallery viewers will be provided with a open book for any comments they have about the work.

Participants will be given journals

Pregnancy testing, assistance available through Student Health Programs Clinic

By Desiree Mills Student Health Programs

Pregnancy testing is one of the any services offered through the many services offered through the SHP Clinic. Testing is done on an appointment basis between the hours of 8:00 and 10:00 a.m., Monday through Friday. To ensure accuracy of results, students should wait until 42-45 days after their last menstrual period before requesting a pregnancy test. The test determines the presence of HCG (Human Chorionic Gonadotropin) in the urine which generally indi-cates a pregnancy. If a student gets the test done earlier than the prescribed waiting period, then results may be false.

If a pregnancy test is positive, students want more parking sp "As long as people want us to build more lots and repave the old ones, we have to charge money," he said.

The state will not help fund the proposed parking lot and repairs, Kantrovich said.

"The state of Illinois will not pay for the maintenance or building of any parking lots or streets on cam-pus," he said. "Everything that has to be done all has to come out of es and fines."

Kantrovich said the last time parking sticker prices changed was in the mid-1970s and that change was actually a decrease.

Despite the increases in sticker and meter costs, SIUC students will still pay less than many other Illinois

Kantrovich said he does not think the increases will present much of a burden for students. "I really don't think that students are not going to be able to afford parking stickers," he said. "If they're coming down here, it's just common sense that they can afford Kantrovich said students have not been against the fee increases.

"Many students, graduate and undergraduate, said they wouldn't mind paying the cost if they started seeing the changes," he said.
Crosswalk safety is another topic that the committee addressed.
"We are going to make crosswalks safer," he said. "We'll make them. un to "Chenartment of them."

them up to (Department of Transportation) specs."

The lines in the street that let motorists know where the cross-walks are will be made more visible and the yield signs will be moved out of the middle of the streets, he said.

The committee hired a consultion firm to propose a finance plan to solve the parking and maintenance problems faced by it, according to Dhananjay Ravat, a faculty schate-appointed committee member.

one option the firm offered was for the University to take out a 20-year loan for $2.5 million, the amount required to perform the desired work he said However, that s not cost effective

"If you borrow the $2.5 million, at the end of 20 years, you will have paid $7 million," Rayat said. "We would have been paying a lot of money in interest."

State regulations were in part responsible for hindering the loan a, he said. "The local borrowing plan, what we are allowed to do as a University, was not acceptable," Rayat said. Instead, the firm suggested the fee increases as the most efficient option for financing the work.

"It turned out that the pay-as-you-go plan was a lot more viable than initially thought," he said.

Navy tankers still not done

WASHINGTON-Contract number N00024-85-C-2115 started unremarkably enough in 1985, at the height of the Reagan defense buildup. The Pentagon—on its way to constructing its vaunted 600-ship Navy—needed, two Henry, J. er-class oil tankers to service

But $450 million and nine years later the U.S. Navy still doesn't have its tankers. Half-finished; they now are anchored in the James River in Newport News, Va., muddy water lapping gently against their rusty hulls. The Senate Governmental Affairs permanent investigations subcommittee, which Tuesday is holding hearings on the ships, and Dyer said students choose SIUC because of its programs, campus, environment and good reputation. He said enrollment fluctuates use of decreases in the number of graduating high school seniors.

Dyer said Tom Meginnis, director of New Student Admissions; is investigating the advertisements but does not have any plans to start a newspaper and radio campaign to compete with SIUE's ads.

Jon Shidler, assistant professor of advertising, said SIUE's ads are not targeted to a direct audience because newspapers and radio have general audiences.

"Newspaper advertising, particu-larly in the Southern Illinoisan, is going to be noticed by more stu-dents than parents," he said.

INDIVIDUALIZED LEARNING PROGRAM COURSES CARRY SIUC RESIDENTIAL CREDIT APPLICABLE TOWARD A DEGREE

ILP courses have no enrollment limits, and students can register throughout the semes ter. Students use a study guide developed by an SIUC instructor as the course frame work and study at a time and place of their choosing. To register in an ILP course, on-campus students need to bring a registration form signed by their advisor to our office at Washington Square "C." Off-campus students should contact the ILP office directly. We must receive payment of $65 per credit hour when you register (Mastercard) Visa; American Express and Discover accepted). Call the Individualized Learning Program office at 536-7751 for further information.

"Our report shows students who transfer to one or more universities typically take a longer amount of time to earn a degree," he said. "But universities can shorten the time to earn a degree by improving class scheduling and student counseling."

Kyle Perkins, SIUC associate vice president of academic affairs, said SIUC is working to increase the percentage of students who earn a degree in four years by scheduling required classes once per year or

Perkins said it is importa students to plan ahead, and all the colleges are working to develop a four-year scheduling plan for fresh-

He said one reason for the low four-year graduation rate could be the number of needy students who reduce class loads to accommodate work schedules.

Michele Williams, SIUC public relations coordinator for financial aid, said 84 percent of students were receiving some form of financial aid.

"I think we have the needlest state." s dent population in the state," she Richard Steudal, associate direc tor of financial aid, agreed and said STUC has the largest need-based financial aid program in the state.

Pfaff said students are required to have passed 120 hours to earn a degree, so they must take more than 12 hours per semester to gradual; Gordon White, SILIC associate director of institutional research and studies, said undergraduate students averaged about 13 class hours last

Other items that will be discu at today's IBHE meeting include intercollegiate-athletic state funding and tuition/fee increases

The board will discuss eliminating the state funding of intercolle-giate athletics and reallocating the funds to academics. And recognizing tuition and fee increases for nois universities have increased faster than the national average, the board will be discussing ways to curb those rising costs.

The timing of the dean's leaving also makes it difficult to conduct a national search and find someone in less than one year, Kelley said.

He also said the level of suppor Haynsworth has in the law school and the difficulties he has had with certain members of the faculty would also make it difficult to bring in someone from outside the school.

Grievance filed in 1994

Kelley would not comment on these differences, but through documents obtained by the Daily Egyptian, differences may have included a grievance filed last year by Darrell Dunham, a professor at the law school, against Haynsworth for alleged discriminatory hiring practices

According to the Grievance Panel of the Faculty Senate Judicial Review Board's report, the com-

"No conclusion was made on that grievance," Bryson said, "However, certain procedural issues are cur-rently being addressed."

No discrimination found

According to the report there was not sufficient evidence to indicate a pattern of racial discrimination.

However, the panel found "th hiring procedures in the School of Law are seriously flawed at all lev-els and immediate steps should be taken to remedy these flaws," the Roland Person, chair of the grievance panel, did not wish to omment on the complaint.

Shepherd said he does not see a relationship between the grievance and the hiring of a new dean because the law school faculty is not the ultimate hiring authority.

The search committee will make recommendation to Shepherd, who upon approval will recommend to Guyon.

Guyon.

Guyon will then make his recomnendation to the Chancellor. The SIU Board of Trustees will have the ultimate vote on who fills the dean Shepherd said the law school's regulations and the University policies on hiring a dean will be followed.

Dunham, who would respond only to the comments already gathered from Kelley, Bryson and Shepherd, said he 'personally feels that there are people within our faculty who, if interested, would merit very serious consideration" for the dean position

Truly qualified people are going to be very reluctant to step forward when it's already been determined by the search committee who the next dean is going to be," Dunham

Dunham would not comment on the identity of the pre-chosen candidate.

On the argument of University financial restraints. Dunham said that he believes no one within the law school expects a candidate to be able to negotiate a substantial increase in the law school budget given the fact that such an increase was negotiated in the last cycle.

"Given the fact that we are not looking for someone to bring a substantial financial package to the school, there is no reason that we cannot find a dean within a year,

Dunham cites 'large egos'

Commenting on the grievance and conflicts between Haynsworth and certain members of the faculty, Dunham said law faculty throughout the country has a tendency to have large egos and someone interested in a dean position will already be aware of the need to deal with the faculty's delicate egos.

"We have already had expressions of interest from qualified minorities," he said.

Regarding the grievance, Dunham said, "the law school has chosen to take the role of an ostrich - hide it's head in the sand and ignore a serious problem, and essentially the central administration has done the same." Dueham said the favored inside

Some of the detours and dead

John Haller Jr., vice chancellor, said because of the possible legal liabilities involved with this new way of spreading information, his office is studying the problem of what information should be placed under

And even though all the depart-ments, colleges and schools have a listing on the SIUC home page, some, such as the SIU School of Law, are still under construction and have no information at all. For example, when the College of Engineering is selected, nothing more than a title page appears. No information about the college or its departments is available. And if the law school is selected, a user does not even get a title page

The Esam Date and Period is by the attached Spring "95 Final Examination Schedule to be Thursday, May 11 at 10:10 a.m. - 12:10 p.m.

2. Classes should plan to hold their final examination in their regularly scheduled classrooms. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will forward to departments information relative to the location for examinations for those classes that cannot hold their examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a pance conflict. This will be done sufficiently in advance of the final examination days to provide adequate notice for all.

Classes that meet less than the entire semester should hold their exams during the last regular class section prior to final examinations.

It is a policy of the University that no final examination be given prior to the scheduled final examination prior, and that students be given their examinations at the designated times. Any deviation form this policy must be approved by the Dean of the College.

3. Students who find they have more than three examinations on one day may petition, and students who have two examinations relievabled at one time should petition their academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that students may decide to miss the scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for students whose petitions have been approved by their dean.

4. Students who must miss a final examination may not take an examination before the time scheduled for the class examination. Information relative to the proper grade to be given students who miss a final examination and are not involved in a situation covered in the preceding paragraph will be found in the mimographed memorand forwarded to members of the instructional staff at the time they receive the final grade listing for the recording of

Auseum brings artifacts into area classrooms

By Donita Polly Special to the Daily Egyptian

Area schools need not worry about costly plane tickets, permis-sion slips or passport hassles to teach students firsthand about ancient Egypt, Italy or Australia.

All they have to do is pick up the phone and the world comes to them. The educational loan program offered by SIUC's University Museum gives schools, community groups and children's centers easy access to loan kits containing arti-facts from all over the world.

The kits contain relics from faraway lands, while also providing historical artifacts from the United States and Southern Illinois.

According to Bob FeHoct, museum education coordinator, the loan un is an integral part of area school curriculums.

Denote said one of the more popular kits is the pioneer kit, consisting of the "pioneer farm," "pioneer home", and "pioneer kitchen" themes. themes

Around Thanksgiving, schools in Murphysboro use the pioneer kits to help in teaching the history of the holiday, be said.

The objects give kids a chance to see real things, and help the teacher get the point across," DeHoet said.

The loan kits are used schools in West Frankfort, Anna-Jonesboro and many others, and are suitable for students of all ages, be said. "(SIUC's) Black American Studies borrowed the Africa kit for displays during Africa week on campus," DeHoet said.

Fulbright scholarship-program workshop set for Thursday afternoon at Woody Hall

By Kellie Huttes Daily Egyptian Reporter

Joe and Jody Foote have always been interested in traveling and experiencing different cultures, especially in countries where they can teach and learn.

Through the J. William Fulbright scholarship program, grants for U.S. faculty and professionals, the Footes were able to travel to Bangladesh to teach at Dhaka University and open communica-tions with Bengali instructors and students starting in 1985.

More than 1,000 grants are annually given throughout the United es to faculty in academic ranks to teach and study in 135 countries. SIUC has sent 66 faculty to more than 33 countries in the past 15 years through the Fulbright scholar

An informational workshop will be May 4 in Woody Hall's ORDA conference room to tell interested faculty about the opportunities available to them through the pro-

Linz Brown, associate director of international programs and services. said the annual competition is an excellent opportunity to take advantage of this year because it is under review for possible cuts or changes.

"This is a golden opportunity and people should take advantage of it while they can," he said.

Brown serves as the Fulbright campus contact to faculty who receive grants to travel, teach and research in other countries. He helps interested faculty fill out applications and answers questions about the program.

If faculty are awarded a scholarship their stay ranges in duration from two months to an academic year and includes a housing stipend and allowances

When Joe Foote, dean of the College of Mass Communication and Media Arts, said he had a hard time adjusting to the culture when first went to Bangladesh as a Fulbright scholar in 1985 to teach public relations and journalism courses at Dhaka University. "It's hard to go from the richest country in the world to essentially the poorest," he said, "But when I went back in 1992

(as a second-time scholar) I felt I had a long-term commitment with these people. We wanted to build and this has been the most rewarding thing in my entire life.

"When I go back I see old friends that are 7,000 miles away from home," he said.

When Foote first taught in '85 he took his wife and one child with him, but when he returned to teach in '92, Jody, an SIUC assistant pro-fessor of library affairs, was awarded a Fulbright to teach at Dhaka, as well

Racers continued from page 3 better

"We're into it right now." Mark said he had been involved in four cardioard-boat regattas, but last year he and Frank decided to go head-to-head.

"Last year it was a last-minute decision, so we signed up for the instant boats because it was quick." Mark said.

Frank made a quick kayak design, and they got their materials and built the boats the day of the

This is just a friendly competition between father and son to see who is the best with identical boats," Frank said.

The design was not that good, because the sides were not tall enough and the water was running in (the boat)," Mark said.

There was also a shortage of knyak paddles and dad had to use a canoe paddle.
"Because he had to lean so far into the water to paddle, he sunk."

Because he had to lean so far into the water to paddle, he sunk.

Mark Rundle on his dad Class III winner

Mark said he made it around the course so quickly that "the divers asked me if I had raced yet, and I told them I had just finished."

So the challenge was set for the 1995 regatta, and again they both went with the same design with larger sides to keep the water out of the boat.

Frank was the victim of another kayak paddle shortage, but finished the race in second place. "We both made it, and he came in second about 20 feet behind me,

Mark said they will compete again next year in Class III, and they will settle it once and for all. Mark also plans to enter the Class II competition next year.

Clinton still backs Foster: as nominee

The Washington Post

WASHINGTONmade an emotional appeal for Senate confirmation of his surgeon general nominee, Henry Foster, as the admitration acknowledged that Foster's only hope for confirmation lies in a performance at Tuesday's hearing strong-enough to shift the political dynamic running against him. An outside adviser to the White House said that with Foster drawn into the Republican campaign against abortion, confirmation will be difficult if not impossible: But, he said, 'presidents' are defined by the fights they take on and this is a fight for a good man and a fight for legal abortion, even if it's a losing fight."

Clinton, in two public pitches for Foster on the eve of Tuesday's hearing, banged the podium and said the docshould be judged on his life's work, not on his role in today's politics. "He deserves to be more than a political football in the emerging politics of this sea Clinton said, calling the doctor "pro-life, pro-choice.

Your credit files may contain errors

By Christy Heady Special to College Press Service

Chances are if you have a bank account, a s Chances are if you have a bank account, a sudent loan for even a car loan, your personal life isn't very private. Everything you do in you rinancial life is most likely recorded in a computer file — your part-time job, how you pay your bills, what type of car loan you have.

Who knows all this information? The FB1?
The IRS? Nope — credit rating agencies.

There's the 'Big Three'' Trans Union, TRW and Equifax. They re the three biggest contenders of the credit-agency business; and they all probably have the same information on your life.

And you wouldn't believe what they know about you — where you live, legal judger bankruptcies, employment information list is endless

But that's not the scariest concept,

Few bother to check file

According to the National Center for Financial Education, despite the fact that credit agencies have 450 million consumer credit reports on file, last year only.9 million Americans bothered to last year only 9 million Americans bothered to-peer into their own files. Of those 9 million, one out of four — that's 25 percent! — discovered an error they eventually had corrected. Elesson 1: Get a copy of your credit report-to check for errors. If you're denied credit for any reason, within the next 30 days, you can get a free copy of your credit report by contacting one of the big three credit rating agencies. The place who denied you the credit must inform you of the name and address of the credit agency that supplied the information.

Tip: Contact all three agencies because what's on your report at one agency is most likely on the other agencies' reports: You may buy report copy

If you haven't been turned down for credit If you haven't been turned down for credit, you can buy a copy of your report for an average of $12 to $15 by writing to the agencies. In fact, TRWs will give you a free copy of your report once each calendar year. Tip: Don't apply, for a credit, card in hopes of getting turned down so that you'll qualify for a free credit report. The "denial" will remain on your credit report as a black mark for the next seven to 10 years.

De sure to list your full name, current and pre-vious addresses, your spouse's first name if you're married, your social security number and birth date. Send this information along with a — make sure you keep copies — to each credit agencies shown in the accompanying infographic.

Once you receive your reports, verify the information and correct any errors by enclosing exactly what is wrong. You may dispute errors by, inserting up to 100 words on the report to explain your side of the story.

*** Lesson 2: Improve your chances of getting approved. Credit rating agencies score your applications with their own rating system; typi; cally based on your income, how long you've been on your job and how long you've lived at your current address. But because the secret formula isn't legally available to consumers, you can boost your chances of getting approved!

Be sure to pay your bills on time

Make sure you pay your bills on time and pay down the debts you own — these are key! Don't max out your credit cards and take on any more debt than you can afford: In fact, reduce the number of cards you have immediately. And, of course, correct any errors you may find on your doesn't have to be as difficult maintaining good credit. There are a few simple rules to follow. Always pay your bills on time: Most lenders will tolerate a maximum of 30 days late no more Don't be too close to your credit card limits and make sure you cancel any credit card you don't use. If you already have four or five credit cards

— even if you don't have a balance on them — an outfit will think you already have enough and will probably reject your application.

With more and more organizations using national credit reports to make decisions about hiring, mortgages or new car loans, inaccurate information could cost you a potential job, the home you want to buy some day and the auto-mobile you need. Make sure you review your credit report to sustain and maintain a sound financial future.

Mosquitoes as disease carriers focus of $5,500 grant to Jackson County

Daily Egyptian Reporter

County Jackson Health Department officials plan to eliminate mosquito breeding grounds,

P. J. Burtle-McCredie, public information officer at the Illinois Department of Health, said they awarded grants totaling $140, 000 to 14 local health departments for the surveillance and control of container-breeding mosquitoes.

She said the grants were awarded to counties based on the number of Asian tiger mosquitoes, used tire sites and past cases of the mosquito-born disease encephalitis.

Dr. John Lumpkin, state director of Public Health, said these grants will aid local health departments in the development and administration of vector control programs.

"By controlling the vector you can control the disease," said Burtle-McCredie.

She said a vector is any type of organism that will transmit an in tious disease which are caused by encephalitis.

Burtle-McCredie said the mosquito is the vector and the encephalitis is the pathogen.

The programs will be used to help us evaluate the threat to the public's health from viruses carried by mosquitoes," Lumpkin said.

Jim Bloom, director of environmental health for Jackson County, said Jackson County was awarded a $5,500 grant. He said Jackson County has two types of containerbreeding mosquitoes, the Culex mosquito and the Asian tiger mosquito.

Bloom said the Culex mosquito has been reported to carry encephalitis. Bloom said there was a big outbreak of St. Louis encephalitis in 1975.

"It can kill people and it has. We had quite a few deaths in that out-break," Bloom said.

Bloom said the epidemic hit 29 states and well over 2,000 cases were reported.

He said 578 cases of St. Louis encephalitis were reported in Illinois, and 47 of these people died. Bloom said two of the 47 deaths vere Jackson County residents.

He did say that no cases of St. ouis encephalitis were reported in Illinois last year.

Burtle-McCredic said the sym toms of St. Louis encephalitis begin five to 15 days after the bite of an infected mosquito. She said some symptoms are high fever, muscle s, stiffness in the back of the neck, severe headaches and disori-

Burtle-McCredie said the disease is more common among adults, and most victims recover fully. However, she also said St. Louis encephalitis has caused permanent neurological damage in some vic-

Bloom said the Asian tiger mosquito has been identified as a possible carrier of California necephalitis

Burtle-McCredie said the symptoms of California encephalitis are similar to those of the St. Louis encephalitis, but the California encephalitis is more common in children. She said six cases of California encephalitis were reported in Illinois last year.

Bloom called the Asian tiger mosquito the '80s mosquito. He said the mosquito arrived in the United States in 1985, Bloom said it is thought that the mosquitoes traveled in used tires that were shipped here from Japan.

Burtle-McCredie said the Asian tiger mosquito has not been found to carry any disease that threatens humans in Illinois, but it is a known carrier of dengue fever in Asia.

She said dengue fever is painful, but not fatal."

Bloom said the grant money received by Jackson County will be used for the surveillance and prevention of container-breeding mosquitoes.

Bloom said Jackson County was awarded a grant last year, and used the money to establish surveillance programs. Burtle-McCredie said Jackson County was awarded $9,000 in 1994, but due to the dry eather, returned approximately also will go toward the location and cleanup of used tire sites. He said the mosquitoes breed in the stagnant water found in used tires. Bloom said 29 tire sites were worked on last year, and most of the sites have been cleaned up.

"Last year we climinated a lot of the mosquito breeding grounds, Bloom said.

"Prevention is the best means of control," Bloom said.

Bloom said once a tire site has been located they remove the tires. Bloom said they have them chopped up and hauled off, but the problem is finding a place to ship

He said some companies have tire shredders. Bloom said they shred the tires into a five-powder that mixes with coal and can be used as energy.

He also said some companies shred the tires and use them on playgrounds.

Bloom said some of the grant money also will go to public aware-

He said they send out flyers to people who live around used tire

He said the flyer asks people to climinate the areas where adult mosquitoes will breed.

"Don't let water stagnate,"

. He said people should remove extra tires, clean bird baths, change the water in children's pools, remove weeds, cut excess tion and pick up water collecting containers in their yards.

Ploom said people need to start doing these things, because the mosquitoes will probably be hatch-ing in a few weeks.

He said the weather has been warm enough so there is probably larva, but because it has cooled off the hatching process has been slowed down.

Ruth would still be king today

Babe would have hit 940 homers, been worth $27

By John Steadman more Evening Sun

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. Historians, statisticians and analysts have determined if Babe Ruth were playing today he would be "drastically underpaid" at $7 million a year but that his name would be worth another $20 million in endorsement

Similarly, from a baseball standpoint, the Ruth lifetime home run total is projected to top out at a staggering 940...if he had the same number of plate appearances as Henry Aaron, the man who replaced him in the record book.

It makes for intriguing conjecture, Ruth vs. Aaron, but the figures show it's virtually no contest

Although Aaron holds the career high of 755 home runs to 714, he had 3,311 more plate appearances than Ruth to get there. Ruth, of course, hit a home run for every 11.76 at-bats, far and away the best of all-time, and Aaron, in this department, doesn't qualify for the department, doesn't quanty to the top 10.

Nornam Bolotin, president of a communications company in Redmond, Wash, appearing at the symposium held; at Hofstra University to commemorate the 1002a binbday of Ruth, says a mathematical formula neglicated on ematical formula, predicated on

Ruth having the same number of batting chances as Aaron, would e him an enormous career advan-

Based on the numbers involved Ruth emerges as more dominating than anyone has heretofore been able to comprehend.

A highly significant point is Ruth hit more home runs personally in some of his 22 seasons than the total of 90 other different American League teams be faced.

The Babe was the subject of a three-day conference at Hofstra attended by teachers, scholars, biographers, researchers, sportswriters, broadcasters and former majorleague players.

Kentucky does possess some unique blessings. It is relatively free of parimutuel competition from neighboring states, and its offtrack betting outlets are accessible to racing fans in Ohio, Tennessee and Indiana.

Morcover, as the world's most important breeding center, horses have a special place in the state's

"In Kentucky, going to the races is a politically correct thing to do," says Tom Aronson, a consultant to Churchill Downs

But Kentucky had these advantages for many years without capi-talizing on them. The catalyst for the boom here was the advent of fullcard simulcasting.

As tracks across the country have begun to beam their races to each other, their managements have struggled with the complicated economics of this new game. Their cus-tomers may bet enthusiastically en out-of-state simulcasts but, in so doing, they'll bet less on live from which the tracks get greater revenue.

Kentucky has managed simulcasting more intelligently and more profitably than anybody else. Other states, such as Maryland, could learn from its experience.

industry leaders in the state saw simulcasting as a great opportunity: 'It unbridled us from the local mar-market was the whole country. In this simulcasting business, Meeker said, "the factor that will determine your success is the quality of your were the best.

And quality meant not only highclass horses, but large, bettable

With four tracks comprising the state's racing circuit, each has its share of racing dates; none is guilty of the over-racing seen in many parts of the country.

Keeneland, in particular, is a model of restraint; it conducts live racing for 15 days in the spring and 16 in the fall.

Churchill runs 74 days. During their live seasons they offer no simulcasts.

But as they conduct simulcasts during the rest of the year, a percentage of the money bet is car-marked for purses and stockpiled until the next live meeting.

Thus did purse money at Keeneland average more than $40,000 per race this spring.

Suddenly, Kentucky has become an irresistibly attractive racing circuit for owners and trainers.

Many of them are breeders with Kentucky connections who are happy to keep their horses close to instead of sending them to New York or California.

Moreover, the cost of training horses here is low when compared with those two states.

All of the segments of the indus-try—including the often-obstreper-ous horsemen—have cooperated to boost Kentucky racing, a rare plenomenon in the sport.

In Maryland, track president Joe Meeker said that he and other De Francis wants desperately to cut down on the number of races, increase purses and increase the size of fields to make his product more attractive in the simulcast market-Instead of being largely dependent on the populations of this city and Lexington, the tracks' potential But horsemen won't let him; they love six-horse fields osophy is generally not accepted by many horsemen, but ours recognize just how important this is." Even though the event was not scored, Cornell said he saw this meet as an important tune-up. "We have an important scored event against Purdue this week, so its important to get this work in," he said. The rain put a real damper on the event, but we had some good performances."

Other winners at Murray included Mark Russell in the 1,500meters, Neophytos Kalogerou in the high jump and Peter Juszcyk in the jayelin throw.

Men's netters serve up fifth-place finish

As well as the usual Saluki uniform, the SIUC men's tennis team brought home a tie from the Missouri Valley Conference

All but the championship match in Wichita, Kan., ended in toss-ups, as bad weather canceled brackets that would determine places that would determine on Sunday.

The Dawgs jumped out to a 4-2 win against Northern Iowa in the first bracket on Friday, when the Salukis entered the tourney as the sixth seed. In the second match to be held at the Coleman Complex, SIUC's two through six seeded line-up defeated its Panther opponents.

Jack -Oxler and Bojan Vuckovic also combined for a win in doubles competition, defeating Northern Iowa's Tom Neff and Chad VanderLinden, 8-However, the Saluki netters did not get the doubles point due to a 4-8 loss from the top seed, and a 7-9 defeat from the No. 2 ney as the No. 3 seed. WSU shut out SIUC with a 4-0 score, but bad weather was rampant as three of the six individual matches were called off

Andre Goransson continued to slide in the No. 1 slot, as he lost to Phil Cooper, 6-0, 1-0 in a match was retired in the second of the tourney, falling to the Shockers, 6-1, 6-0 and 7-5, 7-6, respectively.

The loss dropped the Dawgs to the lower brackets, where they completed their assignment, defeating Southwest Missouri State, 4-1. Again, weather played a factor, as the match ainst the Bears which started at 5:30 p.m. was not completed until 10:35 p.m. Oxler and Vuckovic completed ed a successful 2-0 record of the event, with both Salukis winning in three set matches.

Merchant and Smyth attained a 2-1 mark for the tourney, taking down Stefan Khudic and Roberto Cabero from the Bear's line up, 6-1, 1-6, 5-1 and 7-5, 2-6, 6-2.

This win set the stage for the match-up against the Drake Bulldogs, who had defeated Illinois State, 4-0, to advance to the fifth- place bracket.

The Evansville-Wichita State third place bracket, Illinois State-SW Missouri State seventh place bracket, and the Northern Iowa-Creighton match-up for ninth place suffered the same fates

Kentucky: The best kept secret in racing

By Andrew Beyer Washington Post

While New York and California have long ranked as America's principal racing states, Kentucky has now joined them in the upper echelon of the sport. The day-to-day racing cards at both Churchill Downs and Keeneland are as interesting and bettable as any in the country. Churchill Downs President Tom Meeker declared, "Our objective is to become the number one racing er in the country.

Only a few years ago, such a oilon was far-fetched. Although the state was worldfamous for the Kentucky Derby as well as its thoroughbred breeding industry, the sport here was a bore: The prototyp-ical race was a six-horse field with Pat Day riding an odds-on favorite. Betting was a bore, too, with a minimum of exotic wagering allowed by the stodgy track managements. As recent-ly as 1990, Churchill's purses and quality of racing were no better than Maryland's. Turfway Park in Florence, another component of the state's racing circuit, was a bush-league track compared with Laurel and Pimlico. Yet Kentucky racing has boomed so much that even the business

As the outdoor track season closes in on the Missouri Valley Conference Championships, both the SIUC women's and men's teams are finishing up strongly.

Several members of the women's and men's squad took part in two non-scored events, the Drake Relay's and the Murray State Twilight Invitational, April 29-30.

The women continued to be impressive, as three school records were broken at the Drake Relays.
Jennie Homer's 1,500-meter time of 4:25.31 broke a record she had set earlier.

The Saluki shuttle hurdle relay team of Donna Wechet, Heather Greeling, Mona Bajwa and LaTonya Morrison finished third at the Relays, and the their time of 58.98 shaved almost tw seconds off the old SIUC

Lesley Batson, Sheila Hollins, Katrina Daniels and Hallema Ivory set the school record in the sprint medley relay, running a time of 3:57.89.

Other strong Saluki performances included Debby Daehler, who whipped the field in the non-seeded 5,000-meter event, and LaTonya Morrison's second-place finish in the 100-meter hurdles. Her time of 13.88, is just shy of the NCAA qualification mark of 13.82. Karrina Daniels finished used in the open 400-meters with a time of 55.25. The top finisher in the race was Gwen Torrence, a former Olympic medalist.

Los Angeles Times

Baseball's owners ended their 120day lockout of the umpires' union Monday, reaching a five-year bargaining agreement that enables the regular umpires to return Wednesday with raises ranging from 25 percent to 37.5 per-

"This is an agreement in which everyone has won," said Richie Phillips, the umpires' counsel. "The leagues have ensured five years of labor peace with the umpires, and the impires have received the economic advances they felt were necessary.

Non-union replacement umpires have been working games since the season began a week ago.

Under the agreement, rookie umpires will be guaranteed $100,000 in salary and bonuses, up from $75,000 in the four-year contract that expired Dec. 31, when the owners initiated the lockout Thirty-year veterans, guara iteed $205,000 under the old contract, can make up to $282,500 under the new

The impetus for a compromise agreement with the umpires stemmed from the growing number of disputes involving the replacements-"In some cases, the situation was almost out of control," an American League official said—and a decision Friday by the Ontario Labor Relations Board decluring the lockout illegal in the province. The board said regular umpires would have to be allowed to work games in the Toronto SkyDome starting May 9.
