Austrian Statesman to Speak On Change, Unity in Europe

Karl Czernetz, a member of the Austrian delegation to the United Nations and chairman of the foreign affairs committee of the Austrian Parliament, will deliver two lectures at SIU today.

He will speak on "Prospects for a United Europe" at 4 p.m. in Morris Library Auditorium, and on "Current Changes in Eastern and Western Europe" at 8 p.m. in Davis Auditorium in the Wham Education Building.

The lectures are sponsored by the Russian and Eastern European Studies Committee and the International Relations Club. Convocation credit will be given for the lectures.

Czernetz is vice-chairman of the Council of Europe in Strasbourg and editor-in-chief of the periodical Die Zukunft.

Student Killed In Cycle Crash

John E. Kronenberg, an 18-year old student from Peoria, was pronounced dead on arrival at Doctors Hospital Tuesday afternoon after the cycle he was driving collided with a car on Ill. 13 in front of the Murdale Shopping Center.

Police said Kronenberg was eastbound on his cycle when the accident occurred at 5 p.m. His cycle struck a car operated by Mrs. Kathryn Williams, 54, of Murphysboro. Mrs. Williams was uninjured, police reported.

Police charged Mrs. Williams with failure to yield right of way.

Homecoming Float, Stunt Winners Listed; 13 Organizations Singled Out for Honors

Phi Sigma Kappa social fraternity took first place in the men's division of the float competition in the annual Homecoming parade.

The float depicted a coed walking past the Old Main cannon, causing the cannon to fire and killing a Tulsa football player.

Tau Kappa Epsilon social fraternity placed second in the division.

First place in the women's float competition went to Wilson Manor-Ivy Hall for their entry "What, Me Worry?" which depicted a Saluki stretched out in a hammock casually kicking a Tulsa Hurricane.

Saluki Hall and Saluki Arms joined forces to take first place in the organization float division. Second place went to the combined entry of the Home Economics Club and the Industrial Technology Club. University City won honorable mention.

In the women's stunt competition, Alpha Gamma Delta social sorority's entry took first place and Baldwin Hall second.

Sigma Pi social fraternity's entry took top prize in the men's stunt competition and second place went to Lincoln Village.

The organization stunt division was won by the Arnold Air Society-Angel Flight entry. Alpha Kappa Psi social fraternity won second place. Alpha Eta Rho received honorable mention.

Announcing the float winners was delayed until Wednesday because of a confusion in the listing of categories, the Student Activities Office said.

Rammel Resigns As Coordinator

By John Epperheimer

William C. Bleyer has assumed the duties of coordinator of student activities for the Carbondale campus.

He replaces Richard Rammel, who has resigned because of health and personal reasons," Jack W. Graham, dean of students, said.

"We are sorry to see Mr. Rammel leave, but the move was at his request," Graham said.

Rammel plans to return to private business, according to Graham.

Rammel's resignation will come up for action at the Nov. 12 meeting of the Board of Trustees. Graham said he is trying to make arrangements concerning Bleyer's permanent position and the addition of a staff member to assume the duties of assistant coordinator.

Rammel replaced Elizabeth L. Mullins, who is on a leave of absence to work on her doctorate in sociology at Indiana University.

Miss Mullins served as activities coordinator from 1955 until she went on leave in September. Rammel joined the staff shortly before she left.

Rammel received a B.S. and M.A. degree in business administration from Indiana University. Before coming to SIU he had been employed as an administrative assistant, personnel director and controller for several large Indiana firms.

Bleyer began working in the Student Activities Office in 1957. At the time of Rammel's resignation Bleyer was assistant coordinator of student activities.

Bleyer, 39, has a B.S. and a M.S. in recreation and physical education from Southern. His wife, Dorothy, is an instructor of mathematics at the Vocational-Technical Institute. They have four sons.

SIU Graduate's Free Southern Theater Brings 'Culture to Poor Folk of South'

By Evelyn Augustin

If you want to write theater scripts and there are no local theaters, start your own.

NATES IS COMIN

That's what John O'Neal, a 1962 SIU graduate, did.

Executive directors of the Free Southern Theater, O'Neal and Gilbert Moses, a Mississippi newspaperman, founded the "theater for those who have no theater" when both were working in the civil rights movement.

"We both went South thinking that in a year or two we could help solve the problems there and then go on with our lives," O'Neal said. "But it wasn't that simple."

Feeling there was a need for theaters in the South, O'Neal and Moses drafted a proposal for a theater in 1963, but had no funds to start it with. They went to New York to ask for contributions from other theaters.

"Most of the New York theaters and actors look to us for hope," O'Neal said, "because their theaters have become so commercialized that they are like 'museum pieces.'"

"Our theater gives free performances, so we have no box office pressure. We're able to make a connection with our audiences and with the problems of present-day society."

The theater made its first professional tour in August, 1964, with 10 performers. The company grew to 23 members, but went broke in the middle of a tour and is now working with five salaried and three volunteer actors.

In addition to the regular repertoire, which includes "In White America" and "Waiting for Godot," original works will be presented in the future.

Neil Newton, a former classmate of O'Neal at SIU, has contributed his adaptation of Richard Wright's "Lawd Today," which the group may perform in later tours.

Besides "bringing culture to the poor folk of the South," the theater helps to establish similar groups in many of the towns it visits.

Staying in each town from one day to three weeks, the actors look for local talent and help townspeople "to explore the images of their experience." They offer seminars and workshops while living in the homes of local people.

After visiting the SIU campus two days last week, O'Neal, a native of Carbondale, returned to the theater's headquarters in New Orleans. Later this fall he will attend a conference of theater executives in New York and will be present at the benefit which Lincoln Center is sponsoring for the Free Southern Theater in December.

The entire group will be working to raise funds so the members can begin rehearsals for the 1966 season.

"Although some theaters have sponsored benefits for us," O'Neal said, "most of our $98,000 yearly budget comes from individual contributors."

The theater is a nonprofit organization which pays the professional actors a subsistence salary of $35 per week.

Presidential Aid's Topic Suggestions Sought on Campus

Applications are still being received from students who would like to suggest topics for discussion with Margaret Hickey, chairman of Presidential Johnson's Citizens Council on the Status of Women, when she visits the campus on Nov. 10.

During her visit she will conduct two seminars for students who have indicated an interest in women's place in college. It has been emphasized that these discussions will be informal and both male and female students are encouraged to attend.

Applications may be picked up at the Liberal Arts and Sciences Advisement Center or dean's office, and they must be turned in not later than Thursday. Applicants have been asked to write on the application any topics that they would like Miss Hickey to discuss. So far students have requested topics ranging from Viet Nam to college sex life.

Miss Hickey, who is married but uses her maiden name professionally, has served as an adviser to every President since Franklin D. Roosevelt, and has done much work toward gaining more rights for women.

As public affairs editor of Ladies' Home Journal, Miss Hickey has traveled more than a million miles in keeping up to date on concerns of women all over the world. In 1955 her work received the Benjamin Franklin Award for "the most distinguished public service by an American magazine."

She was chairman of the Civilian Womanpower Program of World War II. She has also served on the original Point Four board in on-site evaluation in India and Southeast Asia, as a member of the National Committee on the 1956 White House Conference on Education and as a member of the National Commission on the Status of Women.

A HAND FOR THE BAND

Contrary to our usual policy, Ka would like to extend a congratulatory hand to the SIU Marching Salukis for their performance at last Saturday's tragedy. Their precision and "sound" blended to furnish an effective panacea for some down and out fans.

It is unfortunate that we only have the opportunity to see and hear the Marching Salukis nine or ten weeks out of the year. If some way could be found to keep Mike Haines and Co. in front of the student body's eye year round, school spirit would be a reality rather than a half-truth.

'Drop Your Pants For Freedom!' TWTCTW Triumphs Again

The satirical, musical revue, "That Was The Campus That Was" consisted of a delightful spoof on the University of Delyte where the incidents were inspired. Any latent apathy in the audience was dispelled by the battle cry, "Drop your pants for freedom." Another memorable phrase was coined when the student successfully deciphered the registration maze only to be sent through it again for failure to say, "Morris may I".

After seeing the revue in the intimate atmosphere of Proscenium One last Spring, I had some apprehension about how it would communicate through the airy nothingness of mammoth Shryock. Only at the show's beginning when the narrator seemed to speak only with the lighting technician did the austerity of Shryock momentarily prevail. My fears were brushed aside after the enthusiastic acceptance by the audience of the spirit of the show which needless to say was a success.

The show was pushed along by its own momentum while the relatedness of the songs and continuity in the characters helped to tie the different acts of the show together. The somewhat disjointed content was fused together by the familiarity of the audience with the subject matter portrayed. The right touch of many ingredients went into the production. A bit of the racy and a touch of the bawdy contrasted with the serious comment captured in the characteristic cutting satire.

Revue is often written to capture the fancy of the moment. Although the revue was ably written by J. Sink, L.E. Johnson, and B. Tranquilli last Spring it was still timely. The "I Protest" ribbing of the RAM Movement and the police protection scene were more effective last Spring when they followed the event they satirized.

There was no eloquent, dogmatic criticisms of SIU policy. The punch was veiled behind the entertaining qualities which provided a pleasant experience upon which to reflect. Upon reflection, however, do not naively overlook the implications TWTCTW made concerning Southern and Carbondale.

Unfortunately convocation credit was not given, but perhaps the revue could be staged again and convocation credit given, thereby assuring that no one would graduate from SIU without seeing TWTCTW.

Playhouse Reviews by WL

'Madwoman' a Sad Production Lacks in Force and Style

"Tout est dans le style," playwright Jean Giraudoux once wrote, and that style is everything to him is evident in the current staging of his play, The Madwoman of Chailloit at the Southern Playhouse. His words are grand, his situations elegant. Giraudoux creates a mildly interesting kind of stage magic, and we sometimes forget that as a playwright he has little to say. He says more in the Madwoman than some critics give him credit for, however.

While he may not cast his works in terms of great "tragic choices" and "ethical dilemmas," they still contain at least a hint of content. In Madwoman he concerns himself with the problem that "little by little, the pimps have taken over the world," that "the doorman says that faith is dead." Once having stated the problem, however, Giraudoux refuses to explore it with any depth; he contents himself with weaving a fantastic solution which provides his play with a happy ending but leaves everything to be desired.

It is a common and, I think, valid criticism of Giraudoux that he sacrifices all for the optimistic ending, often ignoring the problems that he purports to deal with. This may be said of Madwoman, but since it is admittedly not very much of a play, there seems to be no reason for pursuing the question.

If we view the play not as a conflict between mercantilism and irrationality, but as a statement about the restoration of joy to the world, we can glean some wheat from all the chaff.

All of which brings us to the Players' production. If Giraudoux traffics chiefly in style, a good many elements necessary to exploit his style abound. Darwin Payne's settings cast an enchantment of their own, embodying with flats and sashes the mood of the play. The costumes, handled by Richard Boss dot the stage with flashes of the colorful, the original, and the zany. The lighting is up to snuff.

The downfall of the production comes, I'm afraid, in the acting. Some of the cast perform adequately: Marilyn Stege takes command as the best actress on stage in her second act appearance; Gene Jurich portrays the Ragspicker with a good deal of finesse;

Charlotte Owens in the title role leave much wanting in Act One, but after that she comes to life. Unfortunately, most of her best opportunities for characterization appear in the first act. Robert Badame and Nancy Lowe fulfill their stage duties reasonably well as the young lovers.

Others of the cast are simply bad. The President, Tom Stokow, tears a passion to tatters, but the best he ever is is awful. His line delivery is about as successful as the football Salukis'. The Prospector and the Baron fail to be funny. They merely tramp pompously through everybody's lines in what may have been a valiant, albeit unsuccessful effort to pick up the pace of the play.

The rest of the cast only clutters up the stage. Some minor performances are memorable — The Deaf Mute, Dr. Jadin — but in the main the supporting cast fails to communicate the circus atmosphere of the farce. The Madwoman alone stands above the reticent rabble. They are all good.

If a play is as lightweight as The Madwoman of Chailloit, perhaps the best that can be expected is a well-paced, fancy-free staging. The current production falls short of the mark. The weakest play of the 1965-66 season is now done with, at least, and the rest of the season promises to be much better.

A Minority Voice — For How Long?

It is a healthy symptom of our society to see that divergent opinions are not suppressed during wartime. But how long will this seeming tolerance exist when the Liberal Establishment, helped by unwitting conservatives, keep up their concerted effort to arouse the public sentiment in favor of the protestations? The means of suppressing an opposing viewpoint seems to be within view since we are technically at war in Viet Nam. A very dangerous situation is thereby foreshadowed.

It is quite needless to say that one's patriotism doesn't hinge on support or opposition toward our government's actions. No one should be more aware of this than the conservatives who have opposed almost all of the recent liberal legislation. I maintain the highest issue surrounding the Viet Nam situation is not organically connected with the war at all. Conservatives need to protect the right of free expression of minority views, to defend the right to educate others as to why.

Those who would seriously question our government's actions fall roughly into two groups, which are unfortunately indistinguishable at times. The first is the pacifist who opposes any way because it is war. The second is the doctrinaire leftist, splintered into different shades of thought. Teach-ins serve to reinforce the already narrow-minded, biased conviction of this latter group in the same sense that a political rally helps to unify a political party.

"So it is Nancy Wilson - We've still got to get to the liquor store before it closes!"

'It's One Big Yoke'Mayor's Civic Pride Shown In an Eggshell

by H. William Haines

There are few times that reading the Daily Egyptian has inspired me or made me proud to be a citizen of this great democracy. Reading the statement made by Carbondale's Mayor D. Blany Miller concerning the egg-pelting of certain SIU students during a recent Viet Nam protest march, however, filled my patriotic heart with genuine fervor. Therefore, I've decided to shed my usual SIU apathy and publicly praise this gallant champion of the southern Illinois people.

The Egyptian quotes Mayor Miller as saying before Carbondale City Council that, "If I were the marchers, I'd be grateful eggs—and not rocks—were thrown." What a truly noble man Mayor Miller must be! At last someone in high office has dared suggest that public dissent should be met with physical violence!

We've been getting too soft on dissenters in this country. People who disagree with any government policy have no place in a democracy; they must be weeded out before their questions disturb the status quo and local business. At the council meeting, Mayor Miller was asked what action would be taken against those who threw eggs at the marchers. In his reply, the mayor calmed the nerves of the attackers by saying that people who want legal action against them, "have a right to swear out a warrant if they so desire." In other words, the city police are not going to arrest any of the frustrated hoods who assaulted the protesters! Beautiful!

The mayor, in his quoted statements, appears to give license for any future physical abuse of any SIU students who dare speak out against what they believe is wrong and upset the peaceful tranquility of this middle-class community.

Any mob of ignorant delinquents can now feel free to put an end to dissension without fear of legal prosecution by Carbondale authorities.

I praise Mayor Miller and laud his brave struggle to save our democratic ideals from intellectual erosion. On the basis of the implications of his stern statements before City Council, no SIU student will dare question another policy of the federal government, of the state government, or even of the local liquor control board. There are few elected leaders of Mayor Miller's stature.

MARISSA (KA)—Miss Me-Know-Most, head of the SIU athletic ticket sales and promotion office, has announced the following procedure for the first week of basketball ticket sales to students which begins Nov. 20.

We'll go ahead and announce it now," Miss Most remarked. "That way most students will forget it by that time or will be so confused after I change the procedure for the remaining three football games that we should be able to save a lot of good seats which we might sell otherwise. And I imagine Evansville will be expecting more tickets this year after the splendid supply they sent to our last year."

All a student will need to do is bring his ID card, fee statement, drivers license, birth certificate and social security card to the ticket window sometime between 9:30-10:00, Monday through Friday, or 1:30-2:00 on the afternoons of the same days, and he can purchase a 75¢ ticket.

"We'll try this for the first couple days until I think of another way," Miss Most remarked.

Miss Most reminded students that the ticket office will also be open Saturday mornings for 15 minutes as a special service to the SIU student body.

9 Out of 10 Vice Presidents AgreeKA Fashion Department Reveals
New Concept in Super-Scout Attire

The SIU-Scout is a new breed of youth who lives by the motto "It is better to do a little good than no good at all." He is a little clean; a little reverent; a little trustworthy; a little loyal; and a little kind. He tries to do a little good each day. Perhaps he will help a little old lady half-way across the street. Or courageously lead a blind man 3/4 of the way out of a burning building.

The achievement award he works hardest to win is the Job Corps Merit Badge. Several scouts join together on this one. The idea is to take a group of school "drop-outs" train them and get them out into society as fast as possible so that at least a little good can be done rather than no good at all. The scout who does the least good wins the merit badge. Judging is done by the Job Corps trainees.

The SIU-scout may not be an early riser but he is certainly a high riser. He is able to build tall buildings on a single ground and sign contracts faster than a speeding bullet. These buildings have been described as real "corkers" perhaps because they are bottled in bond, which brings up another aspect of the SIU-Scout's varied personality. The SIU-Scout is artistic. The second most sought after achievement award is the drawing merit badge. Given a pen and ink the SIU-Scout is highly adept at making fine print. His talent can be attested to by many of the residents of university housing, and recently, SIU-scout Hart received the coveted Southern Illinois Architects Little Achievers award which is all he needs to complete requirements for I.C. Scout.

U.S. Pilot Rescued From Ocean 70 Miles From Red China Coast

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. planes staged their northernmost sea rescue of the Vietnamese war Tuesday, plucking a reconnaissance pilot from the Gulf of Tonkin only about 70 miles from Red China's coast.

The pilot is Capt. Norman P. Huggins, Mullins, S.C. The incident was a highlight in a day of aerial activity. As recounted by U.S. briefing officers:

Huggins' plane was hit by conventional ground fire while he was on a photo-reconnaissance mission over three surface-to-air missile sites 35 miles northeast of Hanoi that U.S. Air Force and Navy jets attacked Sunday.

He nursed his crippled craft toward the gulf and finally bailed out over the water 57 miles east of the port of Haiphong. He landed considerably north of the area of previously successful search-and-rescue operations and spent an hour in his life raft.

North Vietnamese machine gunners were closing in aboard a sampan and shooting at him when other fliers located him.

Two U.S. dive bombers shot up the sampan.

A plane piloted by Capt. David P. Westenbarger, Fairfield, Ohio, picked up Huggins. He was reported to be in good condition.

U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchief fighter-bombers made wide-ranging strikes over North Viet Nam. A spokesman said they blasted a communications station, a military camp and supply area, a truck park and several bridges.

There was also a raid of another kind.

A U.S. C130 Hercules dropped 5,000 gift packages and 25,000 newspapers over a 90-mile stretch of the coast to help persuade North Vietnamese people that South Viet Nam has their interests at heart. The largest such drop of household goods so far, the packages contained cloth, plastics, needles, thread, notebooks, towels and under-shirts.

There was no mention here of losses in the day's operations.

The New China News Agency broadcast a Hanoi declaration that three American planes were shot down.

CUBAN REFUGEE DIES AT SEA—Coast Guardsmen carry the body of an elderly Cuban refugee lady who died at sea en route from Camarioca, Cuba. (AP Photo)

Sea Rescues Highlight Trip for Some Cubans

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Stormy weather today churned the waters of the Florida Straits, corridor for Cuban refugees trying to sail tiny boats to the United States. Some exiles reported dramatic rescues after voyages of terror.

After one of the most active days since the migration began Oct. 7, Cuba was reported to have ordered a halt in sailings from the port of Camarioca because of high seas.

Some 400 men, women and children arrived in 25 or more boats and aboard the Coast Guard cutter McCullough, sent from Boston for rescue duty in the 90-mile waterway that stretches between the United States and Cuba.

Winds whipped the waters into 10-foot waves, reported Cmdr. Frank Barnett, captain of the McCullough. He said he was told that Prime Minister Fidel Castro had halted further sailings because of the dangerous seas.

In the face of waves the crew of the McCullough used a lifeboat to pick up struggling refugees.

"It was dark and the waves were dashing against our boat," said a 35-year-old woman from Pinar del Rio province who described her rescue.

"My baby was crying but I could hardly hear it for the noise of the sea. We were drenched to the skin. We were seasick. It was terrible."

"Then the Coast Guard ship (the McCullough) came along. They lowered a lifeboat to us. And I thought we would have to set out in it. I was afraid."

"Then they pulled us up into the ship. A doctor looked after my baby." The woman would not give her name. She said her husband and a 14-year-old son remained in Cuba.

Barnett, after discharging his refugee passengers, said he was putting out to sea again.

"If there are any boats out now, they will need help," Barnett said.

McNamara Resignation Urged by Goldwater

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Barry Goldwater said Tuesday that every time he asks to visit Viet Nam some Air Force secretary tells him he can't go.

"They won't let me go, but they let Ted Kennedy Democratic Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., go and he doesn't know which end of the rifle the bullet comes from."

In a taped television interview with newscaster Vince Leonard of KYW entitled "One Year Later," Goldwater also called for the resignation of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, urged all-out bombing of Hanoi industrial complexes and said the defection of Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, both Republicans, hurt him most in the 1964 presidential election.

As for McNamara, Goldwater said: "I would like to see him go back to making Edsels," referring to the secretary of defense's pre-Cabinet automobile manufacturing position.

"The best thing that could happen in our war effort," said Goldwater, "would be the resignation of McNamara. He has had too big a say in making foreign policy."

Man Incinerates Self In Front of Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — A self-proclaimed pacifist, his baby in his arms, turned himself into a human torch outside the Pentagon Tuesday as a horrified crowd of home-going workers watched. He died shortly afterward.

The onlookers shouted for the man to drop the 18-month-old baby girl, Emily, one of his three children, and he did so. She escaped injury.

The man was identified as Norman R. Morrison, 31, of Baltimore, Md., a Quaker. This sect, formally called the Society of Friends, disapproves of war or violence of any form and has urged nonviolence between nations.

Several notes were found in Morrison's pockets but a spokesman for Pentagon security police said he did not know if there was a suicide note.

One paper seems to be notes taken at an Oct. 12 meeting of the "Friends Joint Peace Committee" at Goucher College Center in Baltimore. They included the phrase "ordeal of peace in two worlds" and reference to the ratio of civilians killed in Viet Nam.

Morrison and the baby were rushed to the Ft. Myer hospital not far from the Pentagon. He was declared dead on arrival.

Several hours later, Morrison's wife, Ann, arrived from Baltimore.

A hospital spokesman said Mrs. Morrison declined to talk with reporters and would return to Baltimore with the child.

The General Service Administration and the U.S. district attorney's office were investigating the reasons for the spectacular suicide.

The incident occurred in the dusk as Defense Department workers were thronging out of the big building just across the Potomac River from the nation's capital at the end of the work day.

A guard who was on duty at the River Entrance said he had noticed the man walking up and down for some time. He said he carried what appeared to be a gallon jug in one hand and was cradling the baby in his other arm.

Army Maj. Richard Lundquist told a reporter he saw the man standing on a concrete abutment about a hundred yards from the River Entrance to the Pentagon.

"He yelled something," Lundquist said, and then flames flared up along one side of the man's body.

"He was a torch," Lundquist said of the man.

The officer said people called out, "Drop the baby" and the child fell to the ground. Then the man toppled over, Lundquist said.

Several people scaled the abutment and smothered the flames, he added.

High-Level Talks Set By Russia and France

MOSCOW (AP)—The foreign ministers of France and the Soviet Union agreed Tuesday to continue high-level talks that could lead eventually to a new grand design for Soviet-French cooperation on European security.

Then French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville returned to Paris with an invitation to French President Charles de Gaulle to continue the talks in Moscow on the summit level.

Couve de Murville also had a pledge made by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in a luncheon speech that the Kremlin "is prepared to develop relations with France in every field—political, technical, cultural and scientific."

A joint communique indicated that Couve de Murville's five days of talks with top

Soviet leaders involved little more than a broad restatement of well-known views.

But the stress which both sides put on the need to continue the high-level meeting gave the talks added significance.

The emphasis was put on Russia and France as "European powers" striving to improve understanding between Eastern and Western Europe. The Continental approach appeared to downgrade any U.S. or British role in solving European problems.

The time of Couve de Murville's talks with Gromyko and Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev here and with Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Anastas I. Mikoyan on the Black Sea also gave them added significance.

Couve de Murville was the first foreign minister from France, Britain, West Germany or the United States to meet personally with the men who succeeded Nikita Khrushchev in October 1964.

Beame Ahead in New York

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrat Abraham D. Beame surged ahead of liberal Republican John V. Lindsay on Tuesday night in their battle for New York's City Hall.

It was the showpiece match in off-year elections that saw New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes, a Democrat, sweep to his second term on the crest of a landslide, while Lt. Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. beat a Republican challenger to become Virginia's 21st Democratic governor in a row.

A Republican, Clarence Brown Jr., won the nation's only congressional race—in an Ohio district which has gone Democratic only twice in this century.

Lindsay spun a slender early lead, but Beame, now city comptroller, surged out in front—again by a narrow margin—as the vote rolled in from his home borough of Brooklyn.

After Cross Burning

Georgia Chief of Police Tells Of Finding Klansmen's Arsenal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Southern police chief told Tuesday of arresting five Klansmen after a cross burning and of being forced by a court order to return the small arsenal he found in their cars.

The trouble was, Chief Leo Blackwell explained to the House Committee on Un-American Activities, that there was no law covering possession of the weapons.

The Griffin, Ga., police chief urged some kind of gun registration law to make it easier to trace weapons and added "I favor making it a little hard for those people to get weapons."

Blackwell, a graduate of the FBI National Academy and highly praised by the committee as a devoted lawman, testified that the cross burning was in April 1964, at the time of civil rights picketing.

He said there was a local klavern with headquarters above a dry goods store but he indicated the Klan was not very active.

A cross was ignited in front of a Negro establishment called the Cleanwell Pressing Club, Blackwell said. He said the club was run by two brothers named Head who were members of a biracial committee in Griffin.

With the help of witnesses, Blackwell said, he and his officers located two cars parked near the local Klan headquarters and rounded up five men.

He identified the five as Colbert McGriff, Oliver Curtis Sanders, Allen Bayne, Thomas Royce Carlyle and John Mitchell.

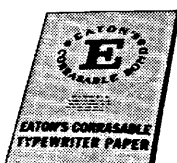

All were strangers to the chief. But he said he heard later they were members of a group operating out of Barnsville, Ga., called the Vigilantes.

In their cars, Blackwell said, he uncovered three 45-caliber Eagles—a weapon that resembles a Thompson sub-machine gun but doesn't fire full automatic—a half-dozen pistols, a 30-caliber rifle, several hundred rounds of ammunition, walk-talkie radios and Klan robes signs.

College Presidents To Attend Meeting

The Illinois Conference on Higher Education will be held Thursday and Friday at Allerton House, Monticello, Ill.

Theme of the conference will be the "Contemporary Role of the Student in the Campus Culture."

Speakers at the conference will be Dana Farnsworth, Harvard; and J. Glen Gray, Colorado College. Chairman of the conference this year is F. Joseph Mullen, president of Shimer College.

President Delyte W. Morris will attend the conference.

THE BARENREITER SCORE — J. S. Bach's "Mess in B Minor" gets the approval of Jack W. Graham, dean of students (second from left). The score is the only errorless edition of the work, which is said to be the most dynamic composition in all of music. The University Choir, Oratorio Choir and Southern Illinois Symphony will perform the work on May 20 and 21 in Shryock Auditorium.

Examining the hard-back scores are (left to right) Daniel R. Saathoff, manager of choirs, Graham, Robert E. Mueller, chairman of the Department of Music, Cheryl J. Biscontini, office manager for choirs and Robert W. Kingsbury, director of University Choirs. Kingsbury, who will direct the 3-hour long performance, said that the score cost $800.

City Ups Rate On SIU Water

SIU's water bill will increase by $1,000 or more per month as the result of an ordinance approved Monday night by the Carbondale City Council.

The ordinance, which establishes new rates for large water users, will increase SIU's monthly bill at the rate of 10 cents per thousand gallons.

According to the Carbondale Water Department office, the October usage by SIU was 21,117,680 gallons.

The new rate is effective immediately.

About 17 water districts and concerns will be affected by the rate change, and the one that will bear the heaviest part of the load will be SIU.

At the first reading of the ordinance last week, Mayor D. Blaney Miller said that the new rate structure will not affect nearly all water users.

A request for a city representative to attend an organizational meeting of an SIU chapter of the American Motorcycle Association was made by an SIU student, Larry Lindauer. The council agreed to ask the chief of police to attend the meeting which is scheduled for 4 p.m. Sunday in Dining Room 3, Lentz Hall.

Lindauer told the council that the problem of motorcycles and traffic will be discussed at the meeting and that he is hopeful some solutions may be reached.

Lindauer said he became interested in the problem recently when he was hit head-on by a car on his side of the highway. He said the driver claimed that he didn't see Lindauer.

NO, STUPID, IT'S OVER THERE! - SIU's Norm Johnson gets into a tangle with All-America end Howard Twilley in Saturday's Homecoming game with Tulsa. This play was broken up, but Twilley, the nation's leading pass receiver, still grabbed 18 passes for 242 yards in the game.

No Relief in Sight

Salukis Appear Headed Toward Record Lows

Southern's football fortunes are currently in the depths of one of the most pessimistic outlooks in years. Possibly even worse than last year when the Salukis won only twice in 10 games.

Southern now sports a 1-6 record for the season after its humiliating 55-12 loss to Tulsa, and relief is nowhere on the horizon. The Salukis will close their season in the next three weeks with Northern Michigan, Ball State and Southwest Missouri. Ball State, which is still undefeated, has the best record of the three, and the indications are that Southern is in for more rugged contests.

The Salukis have lost six games in a row since their opening 23-16 win over State College of Iowa. Adding the losses Southern suffered at the end of last season, the Salukis have lost 11 of their last 12 games, and have won only three games since the start of the 1964 season.

Southern hasn't had a winning season since 1961 and is in one of its worst droughts since the early fifties. In the period from 1951 through 1954, the Salukis won only six games while losing 29, including the winless 1951 season when Southern lost nine straight.

At this point, the Salukis appear to be headed for some new all-time lows for a Sigma Pi, Rejects Win In Intramural Playoffs

Two intramural football playoff games were played Monday, and both Sigma Pi and the Rejects won by big margins.

Sigma Pi beat Little Egypt 31-7 and Rejects defeated VTI 38-6.

season. They picked up only nine yards net rushing against Tulsa, their third lowest total in history. The all-time low was established the week before against Wichita State when the net rushing yardage was minus 12.

The record for the fewest net yards rushing in a season is 817 yards held by the 1964 team. Southern's rushers have netted only 534 yards this year in seven games for an average of just over 76 yards per game. The average per game last year when the previous low was set was 81.7 yards a game.

Jim Hart's passing and an occasional sprint by fullback Hill Williams were the only bits of offensive power Southern could come up with Saturday.

One of Williams' jaunts was good for 26 yards and helped set the stage for one Saluki touchdown.

Hart was anything but lonesome in the backfield Saturday as he was swamped time and time again by Tulsa's big defensive line. The Morton Grove senior did get off 36 passes which is only two fewer than the school record for a single game, but only 10 of them were caught and four others were intercepted.

Cycling Gymnast Leads Effort To Promote Motorbike Safety

"We must make efforts to protect SIU cyclists before the University has to take restrictive actions to protect them."

This is part of the philosophy driving Larry Lindauer, an SIU cyclist/gymnast, whose life is very much centered around cycling, into an almost single-handed effort to organize SIU cyclists into a self-policing body designed to keep cycles a permanent fixture at SIU.

An organizational meeting will be held at 4 p.m., Sunday in Dining Room 3 of Lentz Hall at Thompson Point. At the meeting will be members of area cycle clubs, law enforcement officers, University officials and, it is hoped, a large collection of SIU cyclists determined to remain cyclists at SIU.

The Student General Affairs Office is very interested in the proposal, because officials there see in it the possible beginning of a student traffic court very much on the order of the judicial boards.

No Solutions, Many Opinions Heard at Forum

a conclusion?

Judging from Monday night's forum on Viet Nam, no.

The problem may have been semantical, philosophical or emotional. But both speakers and audience seemed to hear only what they already believed and to suspect anything contrary to these beliefs.

The six speakers spoke before a large and noisy audience in Siryock Auditorium. They seemed to be in support of the present U.S. policy and greeted policy-supporting speakers with applause and cheers.

Ralph A. Micken, chairman of the Department of Speech, opened the program by saying "pickets will accomplish nothing; however, people who throw eggs at pickets also will accomplish nothing."

Members of the panel supporting the U.S. policy were H. B. Jacobini, professor of government; Randall H. Nelson, associate professor of government; and Manfred Landecker, lecturer in government.

The opposition panel consisted of Jeff Shero, national vice president of Students for a Democratic Society; H. F. William Perk, instructor of design; and Dan P. Silverman, assistant professor of history.

Jacobini said that there must be a balance of power in the world so that negotiations can be possible. Unfortunately, military power is part of this balance.

Quarterback Hurt

Cape Aerials Defeat Frosh Squad 13-6

Two quick pass plays over the center of the field and an injured quarterback cost the freshman football squad its second defeat in four starts.

Southern ended its season on the Southeast Missouri State field Monday and lost to the junior varsity Indians, 13-6.

Quarterback Tim Kelley, a 180-pounder from Savannah, Mo., injured his leg in the closing minutes of the first half and could not play in the second and decisive half. Kelley's injury was later described as a bad bruise.

Southern, 2-2, defeated the same Southeast squad on the SIU field in the Salukis' first game of the season, 20-7, but Southeast completed eight of 25 passes for the difference Monday.

Southern took the opening kickoff and marched 78 yards on three plays for the touchdown. Kelley bootlegged the ball eight yards around left end for the only Southern score. Kelley's extra point kick attempt went far to the right with 11:36 remaining in the first quarter.

The scoring play was set up by a 66-yard jaunt by half-back Dave Inglis. Inglis was the game's leading ground gainer with 112 yards on 14 carries for an average of eight yards per carry.

Southern led the offensive ground-gaining department with 206 yards compared to 69 for the Indians.

Defensive linemen Carl Mauck and Ken Titus led the surge that threw Indian ball carriers for a loss of 37 yards.

Southeast's quarterback Al Poelker passed 30 yards to left end Don Giannola for the first touchdown with 8:12 remaining in the first half. The extra-point kick attempt failed and the first half ended in a tie, 6-6.

Southeast recovered one of five Southern fumbles and went 66 yards for the game-winning touchdown. Poelker passed 27 yards to Giannola down the right side of the field for the game-clincher. Bill Schroeder kicked the extra point with 1:47 remaining in the third quarter.

Southern had 11 penalties called against it for 114 yards compared to 35 for the Indians.

He said that the least dangerous of possible alternatives is to remain in Viet Nam until the U.S. can bring the North Vietnamese into a bargaining position.

Shero began his response by reading a newspaper account of a bombing raid on a South Vietnamese village.

Shero decried the legalistic approach to the problem. He stated that the administration is making an emotional appeal to the people.

He said that the war could possibly be a mistake, but now that the United States is involved, the administration has no alternative but to continue.

Shero also said that the American news media was getting a one-sided view of the war. He referred to French, British and Australian reporters as getting an entirely different story of the war.

Landecker said that "withdrawal would be appalling" and that the U.S. must maintain the integrity of South Viet Nam.

He said that Communism must be stopped in Southeast Asia, and that the president has made offers for unlimited negotiations.

Silverman began his talk with the remark that "No one has any right to speak for or against the present policy, because no one knows what it is."

He then compared the actions of the United States to those of Athens in the Peloponnesian War.

He said that a "line must be drawn to stop Communism" but that the U.S. must exercise some judgment in where that line should be drawn.

He stated that the U.S. is in a constant state of war or war preparation, and that in this situation control of the country is given to a small group of men in the administration and the military.

Silverman said that "creeping socialism" in this country "is not a Communist conspiracy but the result of a capitalist country existing in a constant state of war."

Nelson began with the remark that "nihilistic criticism is not constant with democracy."

He said that "a small dirty war is still preferable to an all-out war," and that the opposition to the war does not seem to be against policy but rather against the way in which policy is implemented.

He stated that the president has no alternative, and ended on the note that "one thing is worse than fighting a war and that is losing a war."

Perk's view was that the U.S. is dividing the world into good and bad; that is, whatever the U.S. does is good, whatever the opposition does is bad.

He said that the United States now has a military bureaucracy that must have a war to exist, and that the largest socialistic state in the world after Russia and China is the U.S. military-industrial complex.

Perk stated that in this age of overkill, nuclear power amounts to impotence. He said that this decision was reached by both the U.S. and Russia during the Cuban missile crisis.

Since that time, he said, "we have had an enemy gap." Because of this it was necessary to find a place to fight so the military-industrial complex could continue to exist.

Each participant was given a five-minute rebuttal and then answered questions from the floor.

Following the questions, the speakers held discussions with members of the audience.
