CAPT. GLEN FISHEL

Having fought and upheld the traditions of the Maroon standard for two years, Glen Fishel was tendered the highest honor at the end of the season last year, that a football player aspires to possess, that of being Captain of the squad.

Captain Fishel is entering upon his third year as a member of the Maroon eleven. His consistent play in the past has won for him recognition among the Little 19 schools in the southern section of the state. For two years he has been honored with positions on the mythical all star eleven, selected from the teams of McKendree, Blackburn, Shurtieff and Carbondale colleges.

Glen goes into his last year on the Normal grid with the best backing and prospects the team has possessed in several years and the Captain has reasons to believe that his team will be a winning team.

Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. will hold their meeting Tuesday night at 6:30 in the Association Hall. All girls are invited to come out. We will hold a forum meeting on what the Y. W. C. A. ought to mean to a college girl. Come prepared to answer such questions as: What did you expect to get out of a college education? Do you think you are getting it? Is there anything you are not getting from it that could be supplied from another course?

Senior to New Student: "To what denomination do you belong?"

New Student: "Zepetic Soci ty."

ATHLETIC DEVELOPMENT

Continued practice on the Normal grid is bringing about developments and the hopes of supporting a winning team grow brighter as the team enters upon its third week of training. Three teams are running signal practice daily preparatory to the scrimmages they will go through this week.

The initial part of the training consisted of fundamentals and it was not until last week that the men engaged in any tackling practice and running signals. Hard scrimmage is in order for this week's training. Claude Cox, regular tackle with the Maroons last year, has returned to school and has reported for the squad. He has a condition to make up before being eligible for the squad but will add strength and weight to the line if he can make the grade.

Wednesday night's practice saw Jenkins, Hamilton, McLaughlin and Lee cavorting in the backfield. All four men look good for steady positions. There will be a real tussle, however, for the quarterback position between Lee and Anderson. Both men play the position well and the only solution may be to alternate them, giving the team two good quarters to rely upon. McLaughlin and Hamilton look good in half back positions and Jenkins is the best bet for full back. Bowker another candidate for the quarterback position is a clever player but is handicapped by lack of weight. Among the other backs who are showing promise of development are the following: Fowler, Jon K. Blair, J. Blair, Harper, Webb, Turner and Leroy.

The line material is impressive but contains green material and few of the men have worked together before. Early indications are that the team will coast a heavy and powerful forward wall but not an extra fast one. The following men have been practicing together as teams: 1st. string—Dunn, Center, Rodgers and Cox, guards. Willoughby and Patterson, tackles; Purnell and McIlrath, ends. 2nd. string—Shannon, center, Pyatt and Kelly, guards, McKemie and Busby, tackles, Johnson and Brimm, ends; 3rd string—Loy, center, Hearn, and Biggs, guards, Fegley and C. Cox, tackles; Hearn and Purdue, ends. Fishel and Lamer have been assisting in the coaching of the green-

FACULTY PICNIC

Monday evening, October 1st, the faculty members and their families motored to the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wiley on the hard road south of town and spent the early evening enjoying a bacon and weiner roast in Mr. Wiley's woods lot. In addition to the weiners, bacon and coffee and side lines that usually are a part of such feast, the committee had supplied twenty-five water melons. Mr. Wiley capped the eats with a lot of fine apples. Mrs. Walter Loomis of Makanda was a gust. After a season of jollification which the "oldsters" enjoyed quite as well as the youngsters, with three lusty rah, rah, rah's, the party voted, he Wiley's capital hosts and departed for home. The only event to mar the perfect time was the stirring up of a nest of yellow jackets by some of the children. After some of the children had been stung, several times, Professor Bailey, the zoologist, turned martyr and came to the rescue and settled them on himself.

SIDE LIGHTS ON FACULTY PICNIC

It really did look like a funeral procession as they drove down the hard road—but just 'tween us boys, we think they didn't want the others to know they were wild drivers. You should see some of these when they're not in a faculty parade.

Now as man to man we ask you would any other children except those belonging to the faculty have been so investigating as to discover a hornet's nest?

The youngest member in the party was little Miss Anna Mary Shroeder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shroeder. And we might add, just by way of parenthesis, she was the best behaved one of the party—she slept.

The supply of pickles was exhausted long before the other food—there were a number of young people there who might have been in that state.

Mr. Hotton issued a call for two thin feminine members of the faculty to ride with him in his big black car. Miss Irwin and Agnes Lentz responded.

One of the women on the faculty needs somebody—a big strong man—to speak to her car when it acts up. It got stubborn at the picnic and decided then and there to stay put—got positively mulish. We firmly believe that car needs a masculine voice to call it names. A Chevrolet isn't so different from other coupes and

COACH M'ANDREWS

Coach of the Maroon clad warriors and prince of good fellows, thus is the S. I. N. U. mentor hailed by all who know him. Mac's long experience as Coach of the S. I. N. U. athletics has won for him a place of admiration in the hearts of the many athletes who have come under his supervision. The student body that's here and those that have gone on, the townspeople and Southern Illinois wear by Captain McAndrews.

Not in the least discouraged by the failures that have been his lot on the Normal grid the last year or so, Mac has begun his autumnal drive towards a successful season with all of his characteristic dynamic energy and enthusiasm. The first day of school saw our Coach putting the host of candidates through the preliminary paces.

Conditions on the gridiron show better this year than they have in some time and early indications are that the Maroon standard is in for a banner season. Coach McAndrews remarked that "If the men will work hard and develop team spirit we will have a good team" we've learned that the best thing to do is to give it a little raw French and she'll step right along.

It just takes a picnic or some such informal gathering to bring out the latent talents and reveal the lights hitherto hidden under a bushel. For instance if it hadn't been for this picnic how should we have known what a wonderful cock Mr. Hotton is?

THE RADIATOR

We shall endeavor in the Radiator Column to Radiate the wit and wisdom of our faculty members and the student body in general. It is hoped that THE EGYPTIAN readers will experience real fruition in all that finds a place here.

Where Shall I Study?

This article shall be serious—part of the time. There is an old saying that a hint to the wise is sufficient. My hope is that you will be wise enough to pick out the Solomonic selections—Yes, and have them framed. You may skip over the insipid parts as it is not NECESSARY that you read them. Freshmen may get the Sophomores to decide this feuilleton for them.

If you are a new student, you have probably already wondered if there are any study rooms here where a vacant hour might be converted into a hurry well spent.

First, of course in a tour (be sure and follow the detour signs) of the places around the campus where you may study in the library. Have you been back since that upperclassman told you that it was the place to register (or did he send you to the power house or to Anthony Hall). Anyway go around and get acquainted. Some time soon you will muster up enough courage to venture behind the librarian's desk, and back into the stacks. And it might be worth your while to outsearch further. Be sure and get condee for if you go upstairs without giving sufficient warning you might find some senior, with his chair tipped back and his feet on the table, munching an O'Henry from the Y. W. counter. At any rate you will discover the source of all periodical knowledge, for those stacks of book are not incunables but bound magazines.

But you know "we must have quiet in the library" so please enter and leave between the first and second tintinnabulum. If you get an hungered about 11:45 consult the librarian before departing.

The next place to be visited on the tour is the Auditorium. Here you may lucubrate. The privilege of conversation is allowed but don't talk in that "undertone" which will disturb other people. And that reminds me of a sign that I saw this Summer. "Don't make fun of our coffee, you may be old and weak yourself sometime." So don't disturb others YOU may want to study sometime before the term is over.

We all welcomed the announcement of Dean Wham last week when he said that we could study in the Old Normal Hall. Now this is on the third floor. "Take your time". If there is a class there it is proper to withdraw but not into the Obelisk office. You see the officers to publication have just been elected and they want it for themselves for a while.

The largest place here for study purposes is the Campus. Be sure and use it if you are in need of fresh air. I am sure that the Doctor will agree with this admonition. When selecting a place to study use great caution as certain parts are occupied at erratic hours by the same people each day. And if you went there "the whole day would be ruined," for them. Examples will be given on application.

Now watch yourselves in the hallways or you will disturb the Boanerges of the Classrooms.

In short, the best advice that I can give to you peregrinators of knowledge, "Pick out some Autochthonous. Like myself, and emanate his cul-de-sac.

American Statesmen on Education

The good education of youth has been esteemed by wise men in all ages as the surest foundation of the happiness both of private families and of commonwealths. — Benjamin Franklin.

Promote, then, as an object of primary importance, institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge. In proportion as the structure of a government gives before to public opinion, it is essential that public opinion should be enlightened. — George Washington.

Wise and judicious modes of education, patronized and supported by communities, will draw together the sons of the rich and the poor, among whom it makes no distinction; it will cultivate the natural genius, elevate the soul, excite laudable emulation to excel in knowledge, piety, and benevolence; and, finally, it will reward its patrons and benefactors by shedding its benign influence on the public mind. — John Adams.

A system of general instruction which shall reach every description of our citizens from the richest to the poorest, as it was the earliest, so will it be the latest of all the public concerns in which I shall permit myself to take an interest. — Thomas Jefferson.

SCHOOL GOSSIP

A matter of gossip Henry Markus went to the First Year Meeting to get subscriptions and they nominated him for President. You never can tell by their looks.

Edward Blake and Gilbert Waller went to Thebes Saturday morning and returned Monday night. They said it was worth missing school.

Pearle Murphy and Margaret Liponis, of West Frankfort, former students of the S. I. N. U., were Carbondale visitors Saturday.

William Duncan, one of our last year's students, is back in school this term. He left school last year before the close of the spring term.

Miss Graves, one of our physical training teachers, was badly hurt this summer when she was forced to drive her car out of the road to avoid hitting a man. Miss Graves motored East last summer during her vacation and at the time of the accident she was on the road between Baltimore and Washington.

Miss Herron, our librarian, took a trip through Yellowstone Park during her vacation.

Miss Hickson, the matron of Anthony Hall, and her mother spent their vacation in Washington and Philadelphia.

Anna Skinner '29 of Benton is a new addition at Anthony Hall.

President Shryock was in Springfield Wednesday and Thursday, October 3rd and 4th, attending a meeting of the building committee. We hope this means that the work on our gymnasium will soon begin.

Mr. Cook, of Springfield, business manager of the Department of Registration and Education, visited the school October 2nd.

The following Salem High School people are enrolled here this fall: Gertrude Gaines, Etheleen Stormont, Jessiè Vursell, Helen Plair, Mildred Blair, Earl Purdue, and Ann Johnson.

Ester Goodall, Vivian Jeter, Mrs. Bert Clive, Beatrice Sitter, Thelma Hartwell and Anna McCutcheon, most of them from the Marion Township High School, are enrolled at the S. I. N. U. this fall.

We are sorry to learn that Miss Winters, one of the new faculty members, has been called home because of the death of her sister.

The following are new students at the S. I. N. U. from the Murphysboro Township High School: Mildred Schumaker, Lelia Deidrick, Margaret Denner, Frances King, Lorena Horstman, Lila Gardner, LeWier Johnson, Lela Voorhees, Alice Stout, Evelyn Neadstine.

EDITORIAL

OUR ADVERTISERS

There are a number of things which go to make a paper a success. In the first issue of this Egyptian some of those things were mentioned. There is another source of help, so far as finance is concerned, and one which is likely to be over-looked by the student unless his attention be called to the fact. That help comes from our advertisers. It was during our recent vacation, that the writer chanced to meet a business man from this city, whom he had known and who too was on a vacation. It was very natural that he should be asked how everything was in Carbondale, and his reply was, "Well, business is pretty dull since the students have gone; in fact, I find this is my best time to take a vacation."

There are a large number of business men in Carbondale, who know that when the student body is here, business is good and they appreciate your trade. There are others who are after your money but they are not willing to bid for your business. The former are our advertisers and friends of the school. By looking through this paper you can see "Who's Who in Carbondale." It is not only suggested, but it is urged, that you see who is for you before you let loose of your money. The Bible says, "return good for evil," but it doesn't say one should do such before he returns good for good.

THEY STILL LIVE
Edward Everett

To be cold and breathless, to feel not and speak not; this is not the end of existence to the men who have breathed their spirits into institutions of their country, who have stamped their characters on the pillars of the age, who have poured their heart's blood into the channels of the public prosperity. Tell me, ye who tread the sods of your sacred height, is Warren dead? Can you not still see him, not pale and prostrate, the blood of his gallant heart pouring out of his ghastly wound, but moving resplendent over the field of honor, with the rose of heaven upon his cheek, and the fire of liberty in his eye? Tell me, ye who make your pious pilgrimage to the shades of Vernon, is Washington indeed shut up in that cold and narrow house? That which made these men, and men like these cannot die. The hand that traced the charter of independence is, indeed, motionless; the eloquent lips that sustained it are hushed; but the lofty spirits that conceived, resolved and maintained it, and which alone, to such men "make it life to live," these cannot expire:

These shall resist the empire of decay,
When time is o'er, and world's have passed away:
Cold in the dust the perished heart may lie.
But that which warmed it once can never die.

It's only one month until Home Coming. Let's make it a real affair.

When it rains, they also serve who only sit and wait, to get to the hard road leading to Marion.

SOCRATIC SOCIAL

One of the most enjoyable socials given by any of the organization of the school was held Wednesday night in the gym by the Socratic Society. The purpose was to acquaint the new students with each other and the older members of the school, and to cheer up the lonely homesick students and show them the warmth of friendship that awaits them in the Socratic Society. Everyone there had a "whistling" good time. After numerous games and contests, for which prizes were awarded came the "eats," and "yum! yum!" those ginger snaps. Such generosity was displayed. Peanuts and apples were passed by the bushel basketful. The little brown jug was also in evidence and was replenished from big milk cans, which old Boss did not fill, but as we are always loyal to our country and ourselves, they contained nothing stronger than fresh sweet cider.

Umpire in the Grandstand

A Northern man, spending the summer in the South, went to see the last game of a series between two local teams. For a time he could not observe any umpire, but at last he spied him sitting up in the grandstand among the spectators.

"Great guns, man," the Northerner exclaimed to a native. "What's the umpire doing up in the grandstand?"

"Well," the native explained, "the spectators used to accuse him of bum work so much that he allowed that if the folks up in the grandstand could see every play so darned good, he'd better go up there to do his umpiring."

Sweet Charity

A bit burley man called at the rectory, and when the door was opened asked to see the rector's wife, a woman well known for her charitable impulses.

"Madam," he addressed her in a broken voice, "I wish to draw your attention to the terrible plight of a poor family in this district. The father is dead, the mother is too ill to work, and the nine children are starving. They are about to be turned into the cold, cold streets unless some one pays their arrears in rent, which amount to $50."

"How terrible?" exclaimed the lady. "May I ask who you are?"

The sympathetic visitor applied his handkerchief to his eyes. "I'm the landlord," he sobbed.

A Logical Mind

A gentleman who was a member of one of the aristocratic London clubs had his umbrella taken from the rack by some other member. Naturally, he was offended, and promptly affixed this notice to the club bulletin board:

"The nobleman who took away an umbrella not his own on February 20 will please have the goodness to return it to the rack."

The house committee did not like the form of the notice and had the member before them.

"Why should you suppose a nobleman took your umbrella?" they asked him.

The Way We Feel About It

Some men can't live up to their opportunities because they have to live down to their reputations.

A girl may say her heart is broken, but so long as she is interested in her complexion and the curl of her hair, don't believe it.

Laughing out loud is a sign of bad taste and good digestion.

"The brightest boy in school" never seems to know what to do with his brightness.

A vicious tongue requires fighting drawn.

Bear poverty patiently but not resignedly.

"Well," replied the aggrieved member, "the constitution of the best club says that the members must be noblemen or gentlemen, and he was no gentleman who took my umbrella."

The Voice From Above

Little Frederick, en route with his parents, was put to bed in the lower across the aisle from them, an elderly gentleman occupying the upper over him. It was Freddie's first sleeping car experience and he was a little nervous. His mother, to reassure him, said, "Now don't be afraid, mamma and daddy will be just across the aisle, and you know God is always with you."

After the lights were turned out that lonesome feeling got too much for him and he called out: "Mother, are you there?"

"Yes, darling," mother answered. "I'm here."

"Daddy," a moment later, "are you there?"

"Yes, son, I'm here. Go to sleep like a good boy."

In a moment the questions were repeated, with answers satisfactory—for the time being—to Freddie, if not to the other passengers. After a short silence his voice again cut through the car with "Mother, are you there?"

A deep voice from above announced: "Yes, your mother is there and your father is there and I am here." Then came Freddie's tremulous query:

"Mother, was that God?"

Through the Shredded Wheat they wandered—

"Lovely little Wrigley Chiclet,"
Were the Fairy words of Postum.
'No Pyrene can quench the fire,
Nor any Asp'rin still the heartache;
Oh, my Prestolite desire,
Let us marry, little Djer-Kiss."

Styles change. The old-time stage villain always wore puttees and carried a riding crop. The movie villain merely flicks ashes carelessly from his cigarette when he is cornered.

Good luck is mostly the absence of bad luck.

Everybody sometimes is wronged: everything some day may be righted.

A poor man is not told by the size of his car, but by the size of his mortgages.

A fool trusts to luck; a wise man to pluck.

If you can't be married to your wife and your work at the same time, you will have to get a divorce from one of them.

You don't need to believe all you hear, but you should be sure you hear all you hear.

A "hard-boiled" man keeps everybody else in a stew.

Europe never will settle down until she understands that she must settle up.

Then there is the man who can't fall because he has never climbed.

Men are of two classes—those who do their best work today and forget about it, and those who promise to do their best work tomorrow and worry about it.

Maybe girls don't blush nowadays because there is nothing to blush about.

Would it be all right to refer to some of those movie stars as fallen stars?

After a matrimonial bark has been wrecked, the captain seldom has any difficulty getting a second mate.

When there is a show-down in a business institution, somebody generally gets shown up.

Everybody is looking for a soft snap in hard lines.

Make your automobile last—and your home first.

Some men look so hard for "easy money" that they strain their eyes until they can't see a job.

No woman should drive a husband while he is driving a car.

Warren Chosen Athletic Manager
When "Little Ham" decided not to attend school this year "Mac" was confronted with the problem of picking a new manager. The field from which he might choose for this particular task was not large, but hidden there in was a man upon whom he could depend. Ralph Warren knows how to deal with men and handle business affairs. He, too, will "stay right in there."

CLASSES ELECTS OFFICERS (Continued From Page Three)

purpose of electing the editor and business manager for the Obelisk. William Keith was chosen editor, and Edward Blake business manager.
There were also two committees appointed, one to select class rings and one for sweaters.
With such an efficient corps of officers the class feels sure that they will not fall below the standards set by preceeding classes and are confident that in the end they will have outclassed them all.
The Junior College class of the rapidly growing Senior college, held its private meeting at chapel hour last Tuesday and elected the following officers for the ensuing year:
President—Glenn Ayre.
Vice-President—W. J. Zahnow.
Sec. and Treas.—Wanda Johnson.
Egyptian staff—Van Brown.
The Junior College class are anxious to become a known part of the school, distinctive from the Senior class, and gain some recognition, as a separate class. Here's to the Juniors!
The Senior College class met in Mr. Pierce's room Tuesday and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:
President—D. Ransom Sherretz.
Vice-President—Gladys Hickey.
Sec. and Treas.—Lora Street.
Student Council—John E. Hunsaker and Tillie Sturm.
Egyptian Board—Dilla Hall.

SIGMA ALPHA PI

On Friday evening, October 5th, Sigma Alpha Pi held its first social function of the year.
This opening was in the form of a dance which was enjoyed very much by everyone present.
William MacAndrews and Alice Belle Foster were chaperons. Music which was furnished by the local boys was excellent. The invited guests were:
Florence Kell, Pauline Jordan, Donk Ludlow, Adelaide Hines, Virginia Neftzger, Tillie Trevillion, Selma Brewer, Mina Trobaugh, Agnes Lentz, Marguerite Edwards, Helen Horsefield, Wilma Campbell, Mildred McLaughlin, Margaret Fox.

The following organizations are 100 per cent for THE EGYPTIAN.
Eighth Year.
Seventh Year.
Anthony Hall.
Sigma Alpha Pi.
Stumble Inn.
Conservative Brotherhood.

She: "Are you sure I'm the first girl you ever kissed?"
Pugilist: "Yes."
She: "You kiss as though you were used to it. How did you learn so well?"
Pugilist: "Well, you see, I've kissed the carpet a lot."
