BEAUTY OF CAMPUS

While sitting in class listening to a lecture the other day I was deeply impressed by one of the beauties of our campus. The beautician said that we needed beautiful buildings on the campus so that we could take away the picture of our last ecological census. Now while I agree to this wholeheartedly, I should like to say that beautiful buildings aren't the only things which create impressive pictures in the minds of the students.

I'm talking about the beauty of our last ecological census. Now while I agree to this wholeheartedly, I should like to say that beautiful buildings aren't the only things which create impressive pictures in the minds of the students.

There's a lot of things which are being stored up in our scrapbook of memories. We may not always remember them, but we may not remember them if we don't write them down. So, let's not forget so easily the nostalgic beauty of the scene which they leave on a permanent record. After the first snow of the season or when the budding trees look on a warm spring day.

Heaven's coffee.

They have for the most part borne their trials and tribulations with a patient sigh, doing their best to placate all and get coupons and certificates as the proper people at the top. At the bottom they received last week was almost too much. Most patron heroes realize that with a large "B" and "C" card holders need a certain quantity of gasoline per month for occupational driving regardless of the amount of gasoline given to each ticket and that the cut in the amount only piles up more and greater work for the board to re-issue the books or re-tailor them with additional tickets to make up a difference.

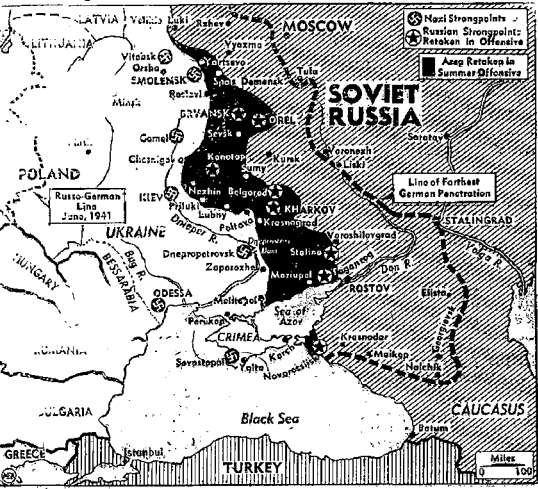

This knowledge had its repercussions all over the country. In Missouri several boards threatened to resign en masse, and many boards have completely closed their doors to gasoline applicants. It is no secret that everywhere boards and workers are going slightly (or more completely) crazy from the additional work. And everywhere criticism is being heaped upon a thoughtless OPA whose main function, according to local offices, is to think up revisions in existing laws that will require more work.

One cannot help but feel that were we all deprived of our automobiles at the same situation would be much better. But there is still the many other rationed items. Perhaps the happiest solution would be just to draft us all into the army and forget about rationing. It's a thought!

"Perfume" Found in Sea

Amberg's valuable component of some perfume, is a waxy concentration formed by indigestion. The perfume is found in the whale. It is most frequently found floating in the sea or tossed up on the beaches and there is believed to have been vomited by the sitting whale.

Light-Star Sumner Drive Spells Victory for Russians

It's been a profitable summer for the Russians. Quickly smashing a blasted Central offensive in the Orel-Belegorod sector last June, the Red Army surprised everyone by pushing the German forces back into the Black Sea zone on the map, an area peopled by five cities and equal to a third of all territory retained since Nazis reached their peak of penetration last fall. Now Soviet thrusts menace Gdansk at Vistula, Smolensk, Gopel, Kiev and along the Dnieper. And not far beyond lies the border of Poland.

FROM OTHER SCHOOLS

The first yearbook published by a military organization on the University of Texas campus will come out in mid-February when the University Naval ROTC division publishes its 70-page annual.

Formal dental education began in the East 101 years ago and nearly thirty years elapsed from that date until Harvard University established the first university dental school.

A significant collection of historical legal and economic material on the republic of Colombia recently was purchased by the University of California.

The University of Illinois recently found out that many of the Navy and Army men stationed on the campus didn't know about the 1942-43 football team.

The Honorable C. J. Harbo, president of the New Jersey Parliament and of the League of Nations, is a former head of the ASP at the University of Wisconsin.

The historical events of the war of the Republic of Texas and the governors of Texas are housed in a museum in the old building of Texas State, College for Women, Burnet.

Conducted by experts who "know their onions," a special evening lecture series for women will be held by the British Army in Africa but the story does not seem remotely concern the war.

Aspen University College, Aspen, Colo., is the only Midwest conference school with a football team this year. It was difficult for the school to find opponents to meet on the gridiron. It looked as though Lawrence would have to celebrate a football season by entering until it was learned that North Dame's V12 team had no games scheduled for October.

Lawrence College, Wis., was successful in persuading the North Dame team to play that day so Lawrence no longer looks forward to a barren Homecoming (A-C-P release).

DARK MUSINGS

By DOROTHY SYKES

Early the most dramatic episode in the history of the world was the sudden move to free four million black slaves in an effort to stop a great civil war to end by victory of the North.

The black population at the time of the first census had grown to three-quarters of a million and there were great numbers of the oppressed in the United States. It was a time when the Negro was a man, not a thing, and the nation was beginning to feel the effects of the slave trade.

It was then and now that we consider the Negro as a man, not a thing, and the nation was beginning to feel the effects of the slave trade.

In the New York Times, a reporter complained that he was being followed by a man who was following him to a restaurant.

HERE AND THERE

By MARY JANE RAUBACK

In the News: A bulletin from Moscow Monday stated that the Red killed 4000 Nazis in a day's fighting. Capt. Clark Gable who was in the news for his "coolness" in action. The U. S. Supreme Court goes into session for the 1943-44 term.

More about baseball: The World Series is the news of the week. We're still betting on the Cardinals, although they say that Schickelshuber isn't the only one who wants to know what it takes to beat the Yankees. Ah, yes. Study in horror: C. Yates McDaniel, Associated Press writer in the South Pacific, sends a story taken verbatim from the diary of a Japanese soldier captured at Saipan.

Yellow Gold: Before it passes into oblivion, we'd like to add our contribution to the Hall of Famous Athletes. Pass the butter, please.

Incidentally, the A. F. of L. is complainant of looming food problems. They've scheduled a food conference in New York City for next week. Oh, soody, you'll see what a chance it is.

No Hits, no runs, no errors: Sunday we read with regret that the New York Yankees had to play in the World Series despite the sudden death of their father. Pictures in the news show Mrs. Roosevelt and the Red Cross uniform during her visit to Australia. The Reichstag is still backing out of the Soviet Union.

Draft Board Meets: The movement to halt the draft of nuns was vetoed by the Senate Wednesday, despite squawks from here and there.

Italy—Thumbs Up or Down? Your Italy is in an awful plight. No one knows exactly what to do with her or how to treat her. She has been the subject of innumerable and lengthy editorials.

Well, what about Italy? Can she be trusted as an ally, or is she to be carefully disinfected, handled with kid gloves, kept at arm's length, and overlooked? We've turned to two sides of the question to find out and have been impressed with both.

The first important source was the extremely dignified and interesting plea written by Arturo Toscanini for Life magazine. Mr. Toscanini not only speaks in the music world; he is an excellent pianist as well. And his plea for Italy was indeed moving. In his mouth the Italian people became martyrs to Fascism, the unknowing victims of a regime which they hated as much as we. They were not our enemies; they never wanted to fight against us; and all they ask is a chance to prove this.

He asks equitable peace terms that would include a renunciation of the national territory of Italy, fair treatment in matters concerning access to raw materials, and economic assistance to the new government. All this he asks in addition to the unconditional surrender already in effect of the Italian armed forces.

His plea is (to be repetitive) moving; and one feels in the utter dignity of his statements that "he's got something there."

From this we turned to the Mirror of Public Opinion in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch by Edgar Mowrer in which a more or less optimistic attitude was taken. Mr. Mowrer's argument was not so much against Italy as an ally, but rather against the retention of the regime of King Victor Emmanuel III and Marshal Badoglio. He protests in no uncertain tones against our allying ourselves with two such Fascists and urges that they be carefully disinfected before allowing them into the fold of democracy.

His article is pervaded with the air of distrust toward Italy. At one time tucked away in the middle, is his agreement with a statement made by a Russian periodical that "restoration is the affair of the Italian people themselves." But on the whole, his treatment of the entire problem, aside from what we should do with Victor I. and Badoglio is almost completely negative.

These are only two of the many solutions advanced for what is a perplexing problem. As to our own solution? Frankly, not knowing the details of world affairs and having only slight knowledge of how things are really going in Italy, we are in no position to give a detailed and full answer. But we can point out one thing that has apparently been forgotten.

It may not be unwise to look toward the Atlantic Charter for a possible answer, unless that document, too, is to join the rank of moribund papers. It is the one thing to which most conquered countries pin their hopes. It should provide the key to our treatment not only of Italy, but of the twenty-eight other countries left to be liberated before the war can be won.

MUSICANA

Arturo Toscanini is himself again. Long in exile from his native land of Italy, the white-haired perfection domineer maestro a few weeks ago smiled with tears in his eyes as he led the NBC Symphony Orchestra in Victory week a broadcast program heralding Italy's unconditional surrender.

After "piloting" the orchestra through Beethoven's Fifth (of doom and dash fame), the conductor then repeated the Italian Carnival Hymn three times. Finally, he closed the program with his own arrangement of the Star Spangled Banner, singing lustily along with the orchestra.

Last week on the stage of the Royal Albert Hall in London, a chorus of two hundred American Negro soldiers serving in British lines stood and sang the new world famous Ballad for Americans under the direction of the organizer, Lieut. William B. Perkins. Roland Hayes, colored tenor, went to England to appear as soloist with the group and the London Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Sir Thomas Beecham played the accompaniment for the concert.

Horace Heik, he of the Musical Knights, will soon lose one of the best boys he has ever had in the line of soloists. The man is no less a personage than Frankie Castle. He is surely going to be one of the leading soloists who have been featured both as an outfit in his own as well as soloist and featured on the most distinguished double bass players and

DID YOU KNOW?

It's only a rumor but it traveled all the way from Emory University, Ga., to the University of Illinois.

J. Edward Hedges, acting director of the Indiana personnel and placement service, did believe on a legend about himself when he left Dixie.

When he taught at Emory, Dr. Hedges had a wide variety of parties, and soon his students began to keep a record of how many days would pass before he repeated the cycle of his ward-robes.

"I used to throw them off the top," Dr. Hedges said, "and when I wore a suit that had been packed away for months."

Thereafter, Dr. Hedges was known as "the man with the variety of suits." The legend was transferred to I. U. when he returned to the campus with some clippings of his days at Emory.

The alarm clock situation in the Illinois Hotel had been these days, but at Gustavus Adolphus College in St. Peter, Minn. It was more than critical for one coed.

B. Lindquist's alarm clock simply refused to run, and so she took it down to the local jeweler to have her embarrassment when the jeweler asked her if she had ever tried winding it, and with a twist of the wrist, the timepiece started in ticking again.

When internal combustion had become so common recently, a couple of W. J. Smiths, who walked outside, pulled out their slide-rules and stop-watches and assessed themselves by calculating the walking cadence of a passerby. They also clocked a couple of army officers at 1155 steps per minute. This figure compares favorably with the regular leaders.

It is understood as to whether Frankie will continue to give out with his own peculiar brand of the swing classics made well known to him by those two football athletes of his, or whether the band will pick up an entirely new working medium.

Here's the latest word on the world's oldest musical controversy, the question of whether or not the song "Swanee" is of American origin. It has been pointed out by Bertie O'Brien of World War I fame, ASCAP (American Society of Composers and Publishers) strikes out its neck with the flat statement that "people who say this was isn't producing, 'swan' never don't know what they are talking about."

To back themselves up, they are detaching the output of contemporary inhabitants of Ten Foot Alley in advertisements in trade papers. For evidence, they include Prince the Lord and Passaic's "Gone with a Wing and a Prayer," and Johnny Doughboy Found a Reel in Ireland.

RULES GOVERNING SOCIAL AFFAIRS

I. Social affairs as such gatherings are not directly educational in nature and purpose. They are classified in two groups—Parties and Social Functions.

A. Parties include
1. Events given on afternoons or nights preceding school days and closing at 8 p. m., such as tea dances or regular dinners to which guests are invited.

B. Social functions include
1. Week-end events extending beyond the week-end closing hour for dinner, 12 o'clock.

2. Midweek events extending beyond 8 p. m., such as banquets, evening parties, and dances. Such events must close by 10 p. m.

The following rules governing Social functions must be observed:
A. The number of Social Functions given by any one organization will not exceed two in any one semester.

B. Attendance at a Social Function is limited to the following groups:
1. Students enrolled at the time the function is held.

2. Alumni of the organization.
3. Such guests as may be officially invited to attend.

C. All Social Functions and Parties must be chaperoned.
NOTE: Chaperons of an event must be of the organization and as such are entitled to all the courtesies a gracious host would extend to guests in his home. Hence it is the duty of a group's chaperone in turn stand ready to advise and perhaps to make suggestions. Although the group members assume full responsibility for the success of the party, they should feel free to defer to the mature judgment of the chaperons.

D. The place, general type and duration of the event, admission fee if any, and names of chaperons must be filed in the office of the Dean of Women.

E. All dances must be held on the campus.
F. The following rules governing dances must be observed:
1. At least one week before the date of the dance, a list of not less than four chaperons to be invited by the organization must be filed in the office of the Dean of Women.

G. Within three days after the dance a list of the chaperons attending and remaining to the end must be filed in the office of the Dean of Women.

H. The Little Theatre and the Girls' Gymnasium will be used for dances whenever possible. In no case may a dance be held in the Girls' Gymnasium on Saturday night.

I. The organization applying for use of the dance floor must deposit a fee at the business office to the credit of the Social Committee. Paid at least one week before the event.

1. For the Girls' Gymnasium, $10.00
2. For the Girls' Gymnasium, $10.00
3. For the Little Theatre, $5.00
4. For the Little Theatre, no fee.

J. Receipt for the payment of fee must be shown to the Dean of Women by date of dance.
K. The dance floor must be ready for use by the following Monday morning.

1. It must be cleaned under the direction of and to the satisfaction of the janitor responsible.

2. Organizations must return all borrowed property in time to facilitate cleaning the floor and to permit use of the room for classes by Monday morning.

NOTE: A representative of the organization making application for use of the dance floor will be held directly responsible for the care and replacement of all equipment of the school, including permanent equipment belonging in the room; this person's signature must be filed on proper form in the office of the Dean of Women.

3. Janitors will be responsible for clearing away decorations to be discarded.

L. Invoices covering janitorial services for the cleaning of floor must be presented to the chairman of the Social Committee by the janitor for approval and to turn presented to the Business Office for payment.

AROUND THE CAMPUS

All students with previous experience as fingerlingers or liaison (w/riers are asked to meet in the Auditorium on Monday afternoon, October 11, at 4:00. This is an important meeting!

There will be a meeting next Monday afternoon in the Egyptian office at 4:00 of all old Mr. Tuohi members. Please be there, be important business matters will be discussed.

Mr. Eppell meets Monday evening, October 11, at 7:30 at Mr. Eppell's home, 516 Madison street. All members and persons interested in pleading are asked to attend.

All students from Madison county have been invited to a Sunday evening supper this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert English, 11. It is expected that at this meeting plans will be made for activities for the year under the leadership of Donald Chase of Granite City, Annie Maxwell of Granite City and Lois Atkinson of Highland.

Just ask the Emile Hegys what The American Spirit means

They know how precious is this thing that ONLY AMERICANS HAVE... For they fled a land that never existed.

Emile and Marie Hegy were born and bred in Alsace-Lorraine when their country was under the heel of a conqueror.

In May 1924, they freed themselves from the political and economic uncertainty that governed their daily lives and came to America.

Emile started work as a common laborer in the L & N car shop at Birmingham, Alabama. Soon there came a proud day when he and Marie became full-fledged citizens in a land where individual rights and freedoms were guaranteed.

On December 7, 1941, we came to America... their America now. That day found the one-time "common laborer" Emile Hegy, a valiant 28-year veteran in a good paying job, earned on merit... a thing that would have been impossible in a land where men's lives are lived under government decree and a common laborer must remain a common laborer until he dies.

Hardly before war was declared next day, Emile and Marie Hegy bought a $1,000 Defense Bond, the first $1,000 bond sold that day in Birmingham. Then, as fast as they could convert investments into cash, the Hegys bought more bonds. Today, a substantial part of their $100,000 net worth is made up of War Bonds.

Emile and Marie would tell you that they are buying all the War Bonds they can afford for TWO reasons. One is to help beat Hitler and Hirohito. The other... to help make sure that America will keep the priceless American Spirit alive.

That is the Spirit that laid the railroads, dug the mines, built the factories that make possible our 32-cent of freedom today. It is the Spirit that will never die, so long as we remain free to strive in our own individual ways, for our own individual betterment.
