Senate affirms police censure

By P.J. Heller
 Staff Writer

A resolution concerning the Carbondale police force and a vote of confidence for Miss Billie Jean Duke, vice president of student activities, both received unanimous approval at the first meeting of the SIU Student Senate Wednesday night.

A report on student government summer activities was presented by Dwight Campbell, student body president, who said it "would be an interesting and exciting year."

The major stress was on community involvement. Campbell told the Senate, and he urged that students become more involved in the community.

The resolution on the police force, submitted by C. Robert Bauman, commuter senator, endorsed Tuesday night's request by student government executive officers for the immediate removal of Carbondale Police Chief Jack Hazel.

The Senate resolution said in part "it is felt that the tension felt in Carbondale is a result of discriminate attitudes towards a number of minority groups. It is also felt that the fault must be that the leadership qualities that must be displayed by the police chief are not present in Jack Hazel."

Neil Krasner, student government press secretary, said that documented cases against Chief Hazel which had been requested by the City Council would be presented to the City Manager and councilmen for examination before being made public.

The Senate unanimously endorsed the actions the executive officers had taken at the City Council meeting.

Unanimous approval was also given to Miss Duke, who told the Senate that "I am qualified to hold office."

Miss Duke said she had received a letter from David E. Christensen, assistant dean of Liberal Arts and Sciences, which said she "was free to remain in office."

Another resolution which was submitted, asked for an endorsement of the "Serve the People" campaign.

"In essence, the University must serve the people—the students and the larger university community," the statement said.

The resolution met with unanimous approval.

The Senate had mixed reactions when Mark Victor Hansen requested SIU host a "population Conference" next May.

No action was taken on the request although Hansen said he would submit a detailed report of the conference to the next Senate meeting.

Peace Committee seeks moratorium on classes

By Bob Carr

A proposed moratorium on classes Oct. 15 at SIU in conjunction with a national movement to protest the war in Viet Nam was the primary topic of a Southern Illinois Peace Committee meeting Wednesday evening.

The moratorium, as it now stands, will consist of a complete student class boycott by those persons interested in ending the war.

A rally is being planned that day to be held in the grassy area bordered by Morris Library, the Wham Education Building, and Lawson Hall.

Presently, four bands have consented to supply music for the rally, according to SIPC heads, who hope to be able to show movies about Viet Nam, although they have not yet been procured.

In addition, several speakers, including a representative of student government, are slated to speak.

In an attempt to garner administrative support for the moratorium, SIPC said they will send a representative to talk with Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar Saturday.

They plan to meet with SIU President Delyte W. Morris at a later date. SIPC officials said, however, they did not expect either administrator to be sympathetic to the cause.

The committee, which has no affiliation with any political group, is also circulating to SIU instructors the names of well-known faculty from across the country who support the peace movement.

Spokesmen for the group indicated that they will not ask faculty to suspend classes without administration approval, since the move would be in violation of the teacher's contracts.

The boycott at SIU will be one of over 500 planned to take place on college and university campuses across the nation. The main headquarters for the movement is in Washington D.C.

The SIPC is now awaiting a shipment of black arm bands and 1,000 buttons to be sold to raise money for the campaign, local heads said.

If the war has not ended by November part of the money raised is earmarked to rent a bus so that SIU students may take part in a proposed national march on the capital which will run from Nov. 14-15.

City councilmen dismayed at charges against Hazel

By Nathan Jones and Wayne Markham
 Staff Writers

Carbondale City Councilmen were surprised Tuesday night by student charges against Police Chief Jack Hazel. By Wednesday their reaction changed to dismay and apprehension.

Councilman William Eaton said, "The request for the removal of Hazel is the most serious thing that has happened to the community since I came."

Unrest and riots are widespread across the country, Eaton continued, "and all the students' need is some cause to solidify behind. With a little agitation, the decision the council is faced with now could become serious."

"The problem is that the mayor and city manager just can't get along with other city employees," Eaton said. "There is a considerable amount of friction between the upstairs hierarchy and the employees."

"The whole thing is bringing back the bitterness that was present two years ago," he continued. At that time Hazel was fired by the public safety director, then reinstated.

"These bad feelings and the claim from the upstairs office that we have had police officers are the definite fault of the entire administration, which of course includes me," Eaton said.

After three years of the council-manager form of government "we still don't have rapport with the employees," according to Eaton, "I know where the blame is and I'm going to say it."

Councilman Joe Ragsdale said that he "was approaching the matter with an open mind."

"I do feel that this matter should have been presented to the city manager instead of the council," Ragsdale added, "but I think Hazel has been a good police chief over a number of years."

Councilman Hans Fischer said that one of the reasons that the request surprised him was Mayor Keene's reaction to it. "If the statements in the request are true and have been known (as Keene pointed out) then why wasn't someone told?"

City Manager C. William Norman said Wednesday that he feels partly responsible for charges made against any department leader since he is the administrative head of the city.

He added, however, "I feel the police are caught in the middle of this controversy. Whatever they do comes out wrong in the eyes of some residents."

"We must extend our understanding and sympathy for the police."

Spokesmen for the student government executive council indicated a detailed list of charges against Chief Hazel would be prepared and turned over to Norman and the City Council.

Chief Hazel refused comment on the student allegations that "due to the lack of leadership displayed by Jack Hazel the police officers themselves are inter-attitude towards the black community and student population in Carbondale."

It is not clear what specific charges will be raised by the students, but it is known that a recent issue between students and police has been over charges of trespassing on Holden Hospital grounds.

Eight SIU students were arrested for "unlawful assembly" on the hospital grounds in an incident during the last week of summer quarter and will be tried on the charges Oct. 8.

Over the weekend, police twice escorted students off the lawn of the hospital but made no arrests. Mrs. Harold Perkins, acting administrator at Holden, said no warrant was signed by hospital staff in the latest affair, although one was obtained in the earlier case.

MacVicar to speak at convo

Chancellor Robert MacVicar will be the featured speaker today at SIU's third convocation of the quarter to be held at 1 p.m. in the SIU Arena.

MacVicar, SIU's first chancellor, will speak on higher education in general and the SIU campus in particular, according to Paul Hibbs, coordinator of Special Programs. Hibbs said, "This is an opportunity for students to hear the Chancellor," and encourages all students to attend the program.

MacVicar first came to SIU in 1964 as vice-president in charge of Academic Affairs. He assumed the post of Chancellor in 1968.

200 discuss lung diseases

A seminar-workshop on lung diseases and the role of inhalation therapy in treating them is expected to draw 200 physicians, nurses and therapists to Southern Illinois University today.

Presented by the Southern Illinois Hospital Corp., the seminar will open at 9:30 a.m. and close at 4 p.m. in the University Center Ballroom. A manufacturer's exhibit of inhalation therapy equipment is scheduled in conjunction with the event.

Participants are expected from Southern Illinois and adjoining areas of Indiana, Missouri and Kentucky. Speakers on the general topics—emphysema, chronic bronchitis and obstructive lung diseases—will be Dr. George

Mourning ends

SPRINGFIELD—The 30-day period proposed by Gov. Ogilvie as a mark of respect for the late Sen. Everett M. Dirksen will end at 2 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 7.

The governor ordered flags flown at half-mast on all state buildings during the 30 days and proposed that all governments in the state follow suit.

Pest control service will continue

By P. J. Heller
Staff Writer

A free pest control service for students and residents of Carbondale, begun this summer by student government, is going to be continued, Tom Bevitt, administrative assistant, announced Wednesday.

The pest control service was started July 11 as part of the student government program of "Serve the People."

More than 100 homes have been treated for insects or rodent pests.

Bevitt said about 80 per cent of the homes treated were in the Carbondale area. Others were in Murphysboro, Elkhart and Colp.

"We feel this service has been a great value to the poor people of the community," Bevitt said. "The psychological impact that a house with roaches produces is incalculable."

Bevitt said the pest control service was able to aid off-campus students at no cost.

"The equipment and chemicals used are the latest and most modern available, and student volunteers are well trained in the use of insecticides and rodenticides," he said.

According to Bevitt, the program has been endorsed by Mayor David Keene, the Jackson County Health Department, the Carbondale Northeast Congress, Chancellor Robert MacVicar and the Williamson-Jackson County Action Agency.

Piano recital will be given

W. Kent Werner, assistant professor of music at SIU, is scheduled for three lecture-recital performances in October on "The Piano Music of Francis Poulenc."

At each program he will give a complete performance of Poulenc's "Les Soirees de Nazelles," a seldom-performed but major work of the contemporary French composer.

The program will be given first at SIU at 8 p.m., Oct. 9, in the auditorium at the Home Economics Building, then on Oct. 19 at Lebanon on the McKendree College concert series, and finally on Oct. 27 for the Peoria area group meeting of the Illinois State Music Teachers Association.

Werner, a native of Belleville, taught at McKendree College before joining the SIU Department of Music faculty in 1963.

"Between 200 and 400 people are expected at the annual Newcomer's Picnic Sunday, depending on the weather," reports Mrs. Robert Pictor, publicity chairman for the Newcomer's Division of the SIU Women's Club which is sponsoring the outing. The family picnic will be held at Giant City State Park. All first and second year newcomers to the SIU faculty and staff are invited to get acquainted with other faculty families. The picnic begins at 12:30 p.m. and lunch will be served starting at 1:30 p.m. Norman Moore, a local resident well versed in the folklore and culture of Southern Illinois, and two SIU faculty members, Robert Mohlenbrock and Roger Anderson, will provide guided tours through the park. Playground facilities also are available for children.

Families are asked to bring meat and flatware for themselves and a covered dish that can serve ten people. Weather permitting, fires will be provided for cooking. Coffee and soft drinks are free.

"Last year the weather was cool and slightly rainy," Mrs. Pictor said, "but the picnic was held anyway." She said under similar circumstances the picnic will proceed as scheduled again this year and will be cancelled only due to pouring rain.

Individuals desiring information concerning available transportation or location of the park can call picnic chairman Mrs. Vivian Ugent at 457-5258.

SIU library to lend reprints

By Theresa Tolor

Art reprints will be available for check-out by SIU students, faculty and staff beginning 8 a.m., Friday in the second floor lounge of Morris Library.

Each term, reprints of paintings by such artists as Degas, Renoir, Van Gogh and Rembrandt and some modern works such as those by Roualt, Mondrian and Picasso can be checked out. The prints are free, but only one painting per SIU ID card can be checked out and it must be returned by the end of the quarter in which it was obtained.

Miss Grace Kite, librarian, called it "the bargain basement sale on art." This, she said, is because it is on a first-come, first-served basis where people search through boxes of prints until they find one they like. The prints are placed in this manner because there is no location in the library where more than 300 paintings can be displayed, she said.

Miss Kite said the project, which has been successful since its beginning, was introduced in many libraries throughout the United States more than 10 years ago. She said Alan Cohn, head of the humanities division of Morris Library, developed the project at SIU at that time, starting out with about 100 prints.

She said the project is to make good art available to people for extended periods so they can live with it and learn to like it. She said she hopes that after learning to appreciate art, people will want to buy their own prints.

Miss Kite said when the project started, good prints were not readily available for purchase, but now several Carbondale merchants have these works for sale.

Grade schoolers to present 'Little Red Riding Hood'

An opera version of "Little Red Riding Hood" will be presented Oct. 28 by actors drawn from grades one through six of Carbondale schools. The production is sponsored by three organizations, The Morning Etude Club, SIU Department of Music and the SIU Extension Division.

The opera version of the fairy tale is by Seymour Barab and is being directed by Marjorie Lawrence, head of the Music Department's opera workshop. Richard Voas is in charge of set design, while Mary Elaine Wallace is in charge of production.

This is the sixth year for this event. Miss Lawrence explained that this production would be expanded in the areas of costuming and set design.

The modern arrangement of "Little Red Riding Hood" will be enjoyable for all that take part and see the production, she said.

There will be two performances on Oct. 28, at 2:30 and 3:30 p.m., at the Car-

Law violated by Morris?

To the Daily Egyptian:

The lead editorial of the Southern Illinoisan of Tuesday, September 23 should be required reading for all students, faculty, parents of students, members of the press and Illinois legislators. The gist of the editorial was that on at least one occasion the president and Board of Trustees of SIU openly and premeditatedly violated the law. The law under question in the Illinois statute which states that all meetings of public committees and commissions, such as the Board of Trustees, must hold only public meetings. The editorial strongly implies that this violation of the law, which allegedly took place in a St. Louis hotel the week of Sept. 13, was not an isolated case, but rather a somewhat normal occurrence that follows from a stated policy of President Morris. The Southern Illinoisan states, "He (Dr. Morris) has expressed the view that since no formal action is taken, the 'informal' board sessions need not be public." And again, "He (Dr. Morris) feels quite strongly that to drop the 'informal', private sessions would be detrimental to the university."

In other words, unless President Morris has been misrepresented by the Southern Illinoisan, he has put his personal opinion of what is "bad for the university" before Illinois law.

In its dealings with students the administration would like the public to believe that the administration (or "the University" as they like to be called) represents reason, law and order, while the students are often less than law abiding and reasonable. This is not always the case. This is not even mostly the case. For years the administration by university statute has denied certain students the use of automobiles, not just on campus, but within fifty miles of campus. This certainly seems to be an abridgement of a liberty that is the state's, not the university's to give or take away. Last year the administration banned an "underground" newspaper from campus. I am not defending the newspaper, but it is imperative to see in cases like this that abridgement of freedom of speech is abridgement of freedom of speech, and state censorship of the press is state censorship of the press whether that press is the Big Muddy Gazette or the New York Times. And finally, last year the administration refused to grant to women students the same privileges as it granted to men students, and then refused to change its position, even when it was pointed out that this position violated the constitution of the United States. The administration insisted that constitutional rights were not fit subjects for demands but rather privileges to be given or not only after due consideration by university committee.

So you see that it is not unreasonable to believe that the degree of respect that the administration has for a law is often in direct proportion to the advantage they feel accrues to them from that law. This is the administration of the same president who stated, after students had violated his property rights, "Some are in jail. Some are in the hospital. All are expelled."

These are perilous times for the university—times when a great number of students feel they cannot believe a word the administration says. The issues raised by the Southern Illinoisan are issues that in these volatile days cannot be answered with silence. If the administration and Board of Trustees really want SIU to survive and prosper they must finally take it upon themselves to respond to public criticism. They must tell us whether they have broken the law—and if they have, whether they intend in the future to go on breaking it.

Stephen H. Bickham

Thanks to SIU

To the Daily Egyptian:

During the two years I was a student senator, criticism of the University's previously existing vehicle and women's hours regulations, as well as certain University officials, was often made by myself and other senators.

All too often praise, when earned is forgotten altogether. I wish to personally thank SIU and the various University officials who made the current regulations a reality.

Our Man Hoppe Nation drops out, hits new high

By Arthur Hoppe

To everyone's surprise, the Government's campaign to stamp out marijuana smuggling proved a tremendous success. By the spring of 1970, there wasn't a joint to be had from the Haight-Ashbury to New York's Harvard Club.

As might be expected, the nation's five million frustrated pot smokers—most of them under 30—turned to other escapes from life's tribulations.

Some turned to heroin, got hooked and took up mayhem, muggings and mopey to support their cravings. The crime rate soared.

Others turned to speed, LSD and other dangerous hallucinogens. The mental hospitals bulged.

But most young people, with the approval of society, turned to alcohol. The consumption of cheap wine on the campuses increased ten-fold overnight.

Hitherto, the student body of the typical college had consisted of a few political agitators and a bunch of euphoric pot smokers. Thanks to the marijuana crackdown, it was transformed into a few political agitators and a bunch of belligerent drunks. The results were disastrous.

Before, when an agitator had leaped up to agitate loudly, most decent students would drag deeply on their funny, brown cigarettes and say, "Cool it, man, you're spoiling our vibes."

But now they waved their bottles overhead and yelled such battle cries as, "My name's O'Hanrahaty and I can lick any pig on the campus!"

Oh, the glorious pitched battles! (What Old Blue will ever forget the day Yale defeated the New Haven Riot Squad, 32 smashed windows to 14 broken heads?)

By late May, the campuses lay in smoking ruins, mental hospital administrators had gone out of their minds, and even the sidewalks, much less the streets, were unsafe. The Nation bordered on anarchy.

It was then that concerned patriots took up the cry: "Save the country—bring back pot!"

"If marijuana kept the young from worrying about their troubles, think of its effect on the general public," said the President thoughtfully. "Why, it could save my Administration."

Thus the President's Pot Program was launched. Not only was marijuana legalized, but growers received the subsidies that had formerly gone to tobacco farmers.

Subsidized, mass-produced and untaxed, the price fell to ten cents for a package of 20 filter-tipped, mentholated joints with a coupon on the back.

As a result of vigorous advertising (e.g., "Come to Acapulco Gold Country—Man, what a trip!") the public soon learned that pot was not only an effective escape from reality, but it produced no hangover or other evidences of divine wrath. By December, the whole country was stoned.

The wheels of industry staggered to a halt. The Army and Navy wandered off to play Beatie records. And Congress was converted into a light show. But nobody cared—nobody but Fidel Castro, who had to call off a planned takeover of the U.S. when an aide asked him what he'd do with it. "Maybe," said the worried President, harking back to the days before the marijuana crackdown, "we should have left well enough alone."

But then he lit up an Acapulco Gold, smiled euphorically and danced out the back door of the White House forever, humming, "Blow Your Troubles Away."

Drug scene gets notice in suburbs

By Bill Callahan
Copley News Service

GROSSMONT, Calif.—In the middle and late 1960s the problem of youth involvement with drugs, marijuana and narcotics has grown to an epidemic that affects the temperature of almost every community in the United States.

But only in a few communities has the problem been so vividly exposed than in the string of suburbs east of San Diego that comprise the nine-school Grossmont Union High School District.

Here students were being expelled under one of the strictest school district policies in the country, automatic expulsion for any involvement with marijuana, dangerous drugs, narcotics or glue either on or off campus.

The expulsions would take place at the board of education's public meetings each month. Since the policy was first adopted in February, 1967, trustees have expelled 340 students. In the time between the district's founding, in 1887, and 1967 there were no expulsions for narcotics involvement.

With as many as 42 students being expelled at one time, the district quickly attracted the attention of newspapers across the country. Because no nearby districts have a similar policy, the publicity magnified the expulsions and the area assumed the appearance of being a hotbed of teen-age drug activity.

John T. Warburton, who served as superintendent of the district when the policy was adopted, said it was instituted as a deterrent because of the small minority of students who were experimenting with drugs in 1967.

"We tried to use the policy as an example, to show what would happen to users who got caught," Warburton said. "It was aimed at the other students in the student body who might come into contact with the expelled student. It would make them think twice before using drugs. Of course at that time there were only a few kids involved with the stuff," he said.

"If a student wanted to finish his education and his parents joined in this concern then the policy would be an effective deterrent. Of course it would be a different matter with a student who doesn't care at all about school," Warburton said.

Warburton said the policy of automatic expulsion for all offenses was decided upon because the board members didn't want to put themselves into the position of acting as judges in each individual case.

"They felt they couldn't do this," Warburton said. "What they wanted to set up was a rule. If the rule was broken, the punishment was prescribed and automatic. Everyone knows what the rule is and what the penalty is. If you break the rule you're penalized."

Warburton said the board decided to make off-campus offenses within the sphere of the policy when a state law was passed in 1967 giving school boards the authority to discipline off-campus offenders.

Now the board is planning to review its policy.

At a meeting in the near future, trustees will consider an alternate proposal of teachers' groups that would give responsibility for most decisions on cases to committees of teachers and administrators.

The expulsion process begins with police agencies notifying schools when their students are connected with narcotics cases, as the agencies are required to do by state law. A special administrative review committee then considers the facts in each case to determine if enough evidence is present to bring the student before the board of education for possible expulsion.

Chester Hoberg, chairman of the committee states, "The committee has the power to decide whether there is enough evidence for the board to consider expulsion and also serves to answer the questions of parents and let them know just what the policy is and what alternatives they have if their child is expelled."

The committee then passes on for consideration by the board of education those cases in which enough evidence has been presented to justify expulsion. Final action is always taken by the board.

If a student is expelled, he may re-apply after one semester's time. District officials then check with police and probation authorities to see if the student had any other drug involvement during the expulsion period.

If the student's record is clean he is usually admitted, Hoberg said.

The alternatives for continuing education after expulsion include transferring to another district, correspondence courses or private tutors, Hoberg said.

Hoberg, who as chairman of the review committee comes in contact with almost every student accused of using drugs, feels there are two main reasons why students get involved with drugs.

"First of all, they might be seeking status or peer group acceptance, it's the same thing. The second reason is that they're experimenting or just plain curious."

"I don't think most of the kids are getting hooked on drugs or really enjoy it because they don't take drugs alone. But most of the users come from well-to-do families and have lots of money," he continued.

"Also, very few kids who are active in extracurricular activities or sports become involved with drugs. They've already got some form of status. But the kids who take drugs often are seeking or in need of some type of recognition from their fellow students that they aren't getting through other channels."

Hoberg said the main way to combat the drug usage is to show students that drug involvement is not a status symbol. But convincing the students is very difficult, he said.

"They don't care what parents or the school board think. What's important to them is what the other kids think. But so long as drug involvement is a status-achieving device among students it's going to spread," Hoberg concludes.

Debate raging over Swahili or English

By Marion Kaplan
Copley News Service

NAIROBI, Kenya — Swahili is spoken by an estimated 50 million people and is seventh on the list of the world's most widely spoken languages.

Yet, in East Africa a controversy exists over the value and preciseness of the language.

Tanzania has declared Swahili an official language alongside English, but Uganda has rejected Swahili in favor of English and its several traditional vernaculars. Kenya regards Swahili as a national language. But only English is official, although official documents and notices are printed in both.

The trouble with Swahili, devotees to English say, is that it is imprecise and its limited vocabulary is unsuited to the expression of modern scientific and technical terms. Nor is there a substantial quantity of literature.

Another point is that pure Swahili is spoken by relatively few people, mostly along the East African coast. And that is barely comprehensible to the millions who communicate with each other in the adulterated version.

Why look inward for the sake of nationalism, critics of Swahili ask, to a language that is not understood in a gathering of the world's great nations? And, since Swahili is based on Arabic, isn't it just as alien as English?

Rising up against the English-language group, supporters of Swahili denounce the argument that Swahili is insufficient in matters scientific.

Though there are no words now that mean gravity, orbit or rocket, such words can easily be created—like baiskili was for bicycle and dereva for driver.

And what about other languages? Do the Russians and the French use English terms and English/American space jargon? Do countries such as Portugal, Spain, Italy, Japan and China worry about their languages being understood in Kenya?

No, of course they don't, say Swahili-speakers, because domestic communication is more important than international. And Swahili, pure, ungrammatical or "kitchen," is spoken not only throughout East Africa but also in the eastern Congo and down through Rwanda and Burundi to Central Africa.

In Kenya and Uganda schools, the medium of teaching from the bottom to the top is English, with Swahili taught as a separate language. This means that many thousands of East Africans are proficient in three languages—for every African also speaks a tribal dialect.

Swahili now offered

Swahili, a Bantu language of East Africa, has been added to the courses for fall quarter at SIU, according to John Voigt, dean of General Studies Division.

Swahili is listed under electives in the Black American Studies minor, and also is offered in General Studies.

In the two sections of the five hour course, the emphasis is on learning to speak the language.

Indeed, however successful they may be in their efforts to promote Swahili as an official language, Swahili supporters accept the fact that English is now and will remain the dominant language for education, commerce and industry.

The basic issue is pride. For political and emotional reasons many East Africans do not want English. They want a non-tribal language they can call their own. (The attitude is not unfamiliar; the Afrikaners in South Africa stand firmly by Afrikaans and the Israelis by Hebrew, though the diplomatic language of both nations is English.)

Tanzania has shown how it can be done. Proceedings in Parliament are conducted in Swahili, ministry signboards have changed --from Ministry of Housing to Wizaraya Nyumba and so on--and the 12,500,000 Tanzanians have orders not to use English "unnecessarily."

Tanzania's President Julius Nyerere is himself a Swahili scholar and has translated two of his favorite Shakespeare plays, "The Merchant of Venice" and "Julius Caesar" into a stylish, flowing Swahili. Both best sellers (and supplementary reading in schools), the plays' new titles are "Tajiri wa Venisi" and "Julius Kaizari." And the dying Caesar's famous cry, "Et tu, Brute?" has become an anguished "Hata wewe, Burungi?"

At least the eager flocks of Swahili in America, Europe and West Africa who may have difficulty in finding their brand of Swahili understood will have something familiar to read.

SIU mascots will celebrate 20th anniversary this year

The Salukis celebrate their twentieth anniversary this year as SIU mascots. The dogs have presented a unique sight at football and basketball games since 1949 when the mascot was officially changed from the "Maroon" to the native Egyptian dog.

Alpha Phi Omega, a service fraternity, sponsors the dogs which live in kennels at the Cooperative Wildlife Research Center. Ken Klein, a member of the organization, explained that the fraternity provides the funds for the care and feeding of the Salukis.

Klein said that Salukis are gentle and docile animals that do not growl or bite, but they don't like other animals and may try to attack them. The dogs must be trained to a leash and prepared for the noise of the crowds before they can appear at the games. "A bad experience with a crowd can ruin a dog for life," Klein said.

Alpha Phi Omega currently has four dogs: Yembro Aribi, a three-year-old female; Amira Greenbough, a two-year-old female; Bills Ibn Saud, an eight-month-old male, and a Saluki nicknamed "Cricketer," a two-year-old female who was donated recently by an anonymous SIU alumnae. The fraternity hopes to breed the dogs and raise a successful litter.

The Saluki is an Egyptian hunting dog which hunts by keen eyesight. The dog was a favorite of the pharaohs and is sculptured on the sides of Egyptian tombs. An unusual feature of the dog is in its large feet which are adapted to running through sand and loose soil.

SIU housing contracts are expensive to break

Whoever said University housing contracts cannot be broken is wrong. It can be costly, however.

"It happens all the time" according to Joseph W. Gasser, assistant housing director. Gasser reports there are a number of different fees for breaking a contract during a quarter or at the end of a quarter.

"If a student wants to leave during the quarter, he must pay for his needs to the date of check-out," Gasser said. "The student must also pay room rent for a full quarter and one-half the room rent for the remaining portion of the contract period."

A student who breaks a contract at the end of the fall or winter quarter pays room and board to the end of that quarter, and one-half the room rent for the remaining portion of the contract, Gasser said.

In both cases the student must file an intent to vacate five weeks before checking out.

Grassroots on sale soon

The first issue of Grassroots, an SIU student literary magazine, will be out within the next three weeks, Buzz Spector, editor, said.

The magazine published articles, poems, drawings, and photographs submitted by SIU students and authors or artists who have had a special invitation from the staff.

According to Spector, the first issue will feature a poem by William Cohen, author of several poetry books.

He also said that the winter quarter edition will be a special one focusing on the Black Community. Alicia Johnson, a local poet, will be special editor.

The magazine will be on sale at several places including the University Book Store, English Department, Southern Illinois Book and Supply and Kaleidoscope, at fifty cents a copy.

Spector said that contributions should be sent in a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Grassroots, University Center, Room A, University Center.

Guidance conferences set for October 7-8

Admissions officers from most senior universities in Illinois will meet with downstate high school guidance counselors in conferences Oct. 7 and 8 on SIU's Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses.

The meetings will be the fourth and fifth in a statewide series designated to acquaint high school counselors with academic programs, admissions standards and other vital information on Illinois universities.

Ralph Lundgren, assistant director of research for the Illinois Board of Higher Education, will be a luncheon speaker at both meetings—Oct. 7 at Carbondale and the following day at Edwardsville.

The sessions are scheduled to run from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the University Centers on the two campuses.

Junior college representatives also have been invited to attend, to discuss transfer problems from junior to senior institutions.

Represented at the meetings will be officers from Western Illinois University, Northern Illinois University, Illinois State University, Eastern Illinois University, the Champaign-Urbana campus of the University of Illinois, and the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses of SIU.

Applications ready

Applications for chairman of the Parents' Day Committee will be made available to students at the distribution center across from the tv lounge in the University Center Friday.

University housing spaces filled

By Ed Chambliss

No more university housing is available for either single undergraduate or married students for fall quarter.

All 5,961 single undergraduate spaces and 576 spaces for married students have been occupied, according to Joseph W. Gasser, assistant to the housing director.

In addition, roughly 500 of 883 temporary spaces for single undergraduates have also been filled. No waiting list is kept for single students wishing spaces this quarter. Married housing has been full for months, Gasser said, and there is a long waiting list.

Persons desiring university housing for winter quarter should apply through Housing Business Services. Contracts will be offered on the basis of an application number which is given at the time a student is officially admitted to the University, Gasser said.

The University houses only one-fourth of the student body, Gasser said. The rest either commute or find housing off-campus.

Planned vacancies from university housing for winter quarter must be reported before Nov. 18 with an "Intent to Vacate" form available at the Housing Office.

This information is necessary for the Housing Office to determine the proper number of contracts to offer to new students winter quarter.

"We hedge a little," Gasser said. "We actually write more contracts than we have known spaces." He added, however, that students who never appear make up the difference.

Koontz to give education lecture at SIU

The director of the Women's Bureau in the U.S. Department of Labor, Elizabeth Duncan Koontz, will be the featured speaker in the Centennial Period Lecture Series, "New Dimensions in Education," at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Koontz was the former president of the National Education Association before being appointed to her present post Feb. 7. The topic of her address, to be given at Furr Auditorium in University School will be "Education for Involvement."

Previous to her service as

NEA president, Mrs. Koontz served as president of the organization's largest department, the Association of Classroom Teachers. From 1945 until she became NEA president, she was a special education teacher in Salisbury, N.C. Earlier, she had taught in public schools in Winston-Salem, Landis, Dunn, and at Livingstone College, all in North Carolina.

She has served on state and national councils and commissions including the president's Advisory Council on Education of Disadvantaged Children.

Mrs. Koontz received her bachelor's degree from Livingstone College, master's degree from Atlanta University, and has done additional graduate study at Columbia University, Indiana University and North Carolina College.

Her talk will be the second in a series of six lectures which are a part of the first year SIU Centennial Period Celebration devoted to teacher training.

Shryock reopens in March

The remodeling of Shryock auditorium is expected to be completed by March of 1970, said Cody Russell, project manager for the University Architect Office. Hopefully, the auditorium will be in full use spring quarter.

Original bids for the remodeling totalled $1,114,748. Cushioned seats, carpeted aisles and lobbies and complete air conditioning will be features of the remodeled auditorium.

Built in 1917, Shryock is one of the most well-known landmarks at SIU. It was decided to remodel the interior of the old landmark to bring it up to date, Russell said.

Homemaker hints given over radio

A new five-day-a-week morning radio program featuring practical hints on how low-income homemakers can stretch their families' dollars will begin Monday on WSIU (FM), 91.9 megacycles.

The show, which features Karen Craig of SIU's Department of Family Economics and Management, is geared especially to the needs of the disadvantaged. It will be heard at various times during the 8:10 a.m. to 9:55 a.m. time slot each day. Each segment lasts for three minutes.

Some of the topics to be discussed will include how to buy on credit, how to get insurance, how to deal with door-to-door salesman, how to get the best buys in food, how to manage money, and health care for the whole family.

Beach, boathouse closing Sunday

Most Lake-on-the-Campus facilities will close Sunday, Oct. 5. C.W. Thomas, coordinator of campus recreation, said that both the beach and the boathouse will close their regular operations Sunday, but that the boathouse may be used on weekends until Oct. 26.

Last summer the beach was used by more than 10,000 swimmers. An additional 2,000 used boating facilities. Fishing during the spring was quite good, said Thomas, but cool weather conditions this fall have contributed to slow activity for fishermen.

march, a two-day class moratorium will be held, SIPC officials said. They added that if the conflict has not ended by December, a three-day boycott is planned, and the progression will continue by adding one day each month until the war is finally over.

SIPC members also brought up the idea of a possible march down Main Street soon after the rally. Due to red tape and what committeeman Bill Moffett called "mechanical problems," the march could not be held until Oct. 17 or 18 at the earliest, he said.

Repeated throughout the meeting was SIPC's slogan, "Bring the troops home from Viet Nam." An estimated 70-80 people attended the meeting.

Applications for

Med School close

The closing date for applications for the Medical College Admissions Test has been set for Friday, according to the Counseling and Testing Center in Washington Square. The test date will be Oct. 18.

Also announced was Oct. 10 as the closing date for applications for the Graduate Record Examination. The test will be administered Oct. 25.

ry Denzel, coordinator of the Self-Instruction Center, whereby a student living on or off-campus can call the Center. After requesting the tape he wishes to hear, he may listen to it over his own phone.

Students may pick up a list of the tapes that will be available at the Self-Instruction Center on the Dial-A-Tape system for that day. If the tape he wants is on the list, he then calls one of three numbers: 453-5791, 453-5792 or 453-5793, between the 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. The three tapes that are requested most frequently during the day are then played continuously all night on the first two phone lines listed above, said Denzel.

If a student has a question for his instructor, according to Denzel, he may call it in to the Center between 4:30 p.m. and 8 a.m. An "electronic secretary" will record the questions, after which they will be forwarded to the instructor for discussion in that day's class session.

In addition to the Dial-A-Tape system and the electronic secretary, said Denzel, "Mini-Instructional Centers" have been set up at the SIU Airport, VTI, Pulliam Hall, the Baptist Foundation, Agriculture Building, Technology Building, and the Communications Building. While the majority of these Mini-Centers, explained Denzel, just have tapes related to specific areas of study, the Center in Neely Hall is equipped to offer any of the tapes on the Dial-A-Tape system at the main center in Morris Library.

In addition to handouts and printed study aids, the Self-Instruction Center has taped lectures from more than 60 different courses, said Denzel, along with video tapes, films, and slides. The attendance for the 1969 spring quarter was up 2,000 from the preceding spring, and is visited most frequently by seniors.

According to Denzel, with the growing demand for its facilities, and more materials being needed every year, the Center may eventually be moved to the Morris Library basement, which is presently occupied by the reserve reading room.

For more information on the Dial-A-Tape, or the Self-Instruction Center, call 453-2554, or visit room 112, Morris Library.

Army Colonel reports 'dead spy' did not exist

TRAVIS AFB, Calif. (AP)—Freed of charges that they murdered an alleged Vietnamese double agent, seven members of the Army's Green Beret Special Forces came back to the United States Wednesday with denial that there had even been a killing.

Just before they scattered on 30-day leaves, Col. Robert B. Rheault was asked if he had been in charge of executing the Vietnamese, Thai Khac Chuyen.

He replied to newsmen: "There has not been any substantiation that such an individual ever existed."

Rheault, 43, former commander of all Green Berets in Vietnam, said, "That is correct," when asked if he denied there had been a slaying. Asked if he knew "the alleged dead man," he replied, "No."

The other six posed with the Colonel for pictures, but let him do the talking.

The eighth accused Green Beret, Sgt. I.G. Alvin L. Smith of Naples, Fla., against whom charges also were dismissed Monday, took a later flight home.

Henry B. Rothblatt, New York attorney for two of the men, met the seven and told newsmen it was Smith who had gone to top Army authorities with the story of the alleged killing.

The Army said Smith's paper processing was delayed and this was why he took a later flight.

"Smith was afraid the others were going to knock him off," Rothblatt said.

The charges against all eight were dismissed on orders of Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor, who said the Central Intelligence Agency would not permit its people to testify.

Communists' 20th year

China marks anniversary

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China marked its 20th anniversary Wednesday with pomp and pageantry—but no new pronouncements.

The nation's top leaders, including Chairman Mao Tse-tung and his officially designated heir, Lin Biao, stood on the red walls overlooking the Square of Heavenly Peace as a crowd of perhaps half a million paraded through the vast plaza. The square is part of the Forbidden City, site of the nation's seat of government.

A Japanese correspondent in Peking reported that Mao was "looking fit and grinning broadly." American correspondents are barred from Peking. Peking Radio said the 75-year-old leader smiled, waved and shook the hands of dignitaries as the marchers below turned the square into "a sea of red flags."

Mao and Lin had been rumored in recent weeks to be seriously ill. Such reports often have cropped up when Mao has been out of the public eye, and the anniversary celebration marked his first appearance since last May.

Lin, 62, delivered the keynote address, a nine-minute appeal for unity, loyalty to Mao and continuing struggle against "American imperialism."

Quoting from the works of Mao, he said: "If others don't attack us, we will not attack others. If others attack, we shall counterattack." The crowd interrupted Lin's address with frequent applause and shouts of "Long live Chairman Mao!" Peking radio said.

As usual, Mao did not address the crowd, but the broadcast said he was "in very good health" and moved about during the 2 1/2-hour ceremony, chatting with other leaders standing with him atop the gate to the square.

S. Vietnamese troops await next major Viet Cong thrust

SAIGON (AP)—South Vietnamese troops battled through the rich paddy land of the Mekong Delta where allied intelligence expects the enemy command to make its next major thrust, a military spokesman said Wednesday.

The government troops, aided by artillery and air strikes, lost six men killed and 29 wounded in four battles Tuesday that ranged 52 to 120 miles south of Saigon.

Intelligence informants reported two North Vietnamese regiments, totaling 5,000 regulars, were sent into the delta during July and August, presumably to take advantage of a slack created by the departure of 10,000 U.S. troops.

The 10,000 American soldiers were among the 25,000 men withdrawn under President Nixon's initial reduction order. They comprised two brigades of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division, the only American division operating in the delta.

It was the first time that North Vietnamese regulars have been sent into the delta from their normal base camps north and northwest of Saigon.

In the delta fighting, the biggest battle was waged by South Vietnamese 7th Division troops who reported killing 34 enemy soldiers and capturing three in a clash 50 miles southwest of Saigon. Government losses were reported as six killed and 24 wounded.

Other 7th Division units claimed killing 20 and capturing two enemy in a series of contacts farther to the west while suffering only two wounded.

Three South Vietnamese marines were wounded when they ambushed a Viet Cong unit 120 miles southwest of the Saigon and killed eight of the enemy.

A government spokesman said 15 enemy soldiers were killed in a clash with militiamen 15 miles southwest of Saigon. He said the regional force militiamen captured a prisoner, three rifles and 30 hammocks and suffered no casualties in the encounter.

The only significant ground action involving American troops Tuesday occurred north of Quang Tri City nine miles south of the demilitarized zone, U.S. spokesman said.

In that incident, a reconnaissance team of Marines spotted five North Vietnamese soldiers and called in artillery and air strikes.

All five enemy were killed. There were no Marine casualties, the spokesman said.

Grad students safe from draft til June

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon announced Wednesday that all drafted-eligible graduate students who do satisfactory work during the current school year will be safe from induction at least until next June.

Under old rules, graduate students had been permitted to delay induction only to the end of the semester. The delay now will cover the entire academic year.

The White House estimated that about 10,000 young men would be affected by the shift in policy.

Haynsworth case labeled as 'run-around'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A member of the Senate Judiciary Committee said Wednesday the committee is getting "the run-around" in efforts to obtain the full financial records of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth.

The committee put off for at least a week a vote on President Nixon's nomination of Haynsworth to be a Supreme Court justice.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., told newsmen that Haynsworth and his associates "will be risking a possible subpoena request if they—the records—do not come forward."

"It's the run-around," said Bayh. "I think we've been getting the old dipsy-doodle."

Bayh, who has been the chief Senate critic of the nomination, described the closed session as "heated." He said the request for a week's delay in voting was made by Republican Strom Thurmond of South Carolina in what Bayh called an obvious move to head off even longer delay.

Under committee rules, any member may request a one-week delay, but such a request can be made by only one member and only once. Bayh and several other committee members said, however, that they do not consider the rule absolutely binding and that the possibility of such another week's delay had not been—in Bayh's word—"foreclosed."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., a Haynsworth backer, said that when the committee meets again next Tuesday or Wednesday a further delay could be granted.

But, Ervin added, "I do not think anything has been turned up to justify the Senate refusing to confirm."

Referring to efforts to block Haynsworth's nomination,

Ervin said "They've quit fishing for minnows and now they're fishing for tadpoles. . . . Hope springs eternal that they will find something else."

Bayh said despite repeated requests Haynsworth and the managers of Carolina Vend-O-Matic, a Greenville, S.C., company he helped to found, had not supplied detailed records.

Bayh said he asked for a list of all stock Haynsworth purchased between 1957 when he became a federal district judge in South Carolina and the present, including dates they were bought and sold.

Bayh said two investigators—one from his office and one from the committee staff—spent most of Monday and Tuesday in Greenville trying to obtain the Carolina Vend-O-Matic records, but came away empty-handed.

"They did a lot of sitting around," and aside to Bayh said.

Haynsworth, who initially invested $3,000 in Vend-O-Matic and later sold out, was carried on the company's books as a director while he was sitting as a district judge.

Government accused in riot trial

CHICAGO (AP) — The defendants in the conspiracy trial stemming from violence during the 1968 Democratic National Convention accused the government Wednesday of tainting a young woman who was excused from jury duty by Judge Julius J. Hoffman.

The juror, Kristi King, 23, was excused after she said she could not be impartial. She made the statement after she was shown a letter which her family received Monday.

The letter said, "You are being watched." It was signed, "The Black Panthers."

Miss King had not seen the letter before she was handed it at the order of Judge Hoffman in U.S. District Court. The defense objected to her being excused and said the court erred in not revealing the fact that Miss King had not seen the letter.

David T. Dellinger, 53, one of eight men accused on conspiring to incite rioting in August 1968, said at a news conference, "The government, in an extraordinary maneuver, succeeded in sandbagging a member of the jury of whom it did not approve."

Dellinger said Miss King was the youngest member of the jury and may have been favorable to the defendants.

The defense was also overruled on a motion for a mistrial involving another juror who received a letter identical to that sent to Miss King's family.

Judge Hoffman retained Mrs. Ruth L. Petersen after she said the letter she received would not affect her decision in the case.

She said she told another juror, Mrs. Mildred Burns, that she received a letter but Mrs. Petersen said she did not reveal the contents.

On questioning by the judge, Mrs. Burns said that Mrs. Petersen did tell her the contents of the letter.

After the judge denied the mistrial motion, William M. Kunstler, chief defense counsel, asked that both women be removed from the jury. This motion also was denied.

Earlier, the defense asked for a hearing on its allegations Tuesday, that the government was involved in mailing the letters, and it asked that six witnesses, including U.S. Atty. Gen. John M. Mitchell and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, be subpoenaed. Again the motion was denied.

David E. Stahl, chief administrative officer to Mayor Richard J. Daley, was the prosecution's second witness. He, like Raymond Simon, a city lawyer who was the first witness, testified about meetings with several of the defendants prior to the convention.

Besides Dellinger, of New York City, editor of Liberation Magazine and a longtime pacifist, the defendants include Bobby G. Seale, 32, chairman of the Black Panther party; Rennard Davis, 29, an antiwar demonstration organizer; Jerry C. Rubin, 31, of New York City, leader of the Youth International Party Yippies; John R. Froines, 30, a chemistry teacher at the University of Oregon; Lee Weiner, 29, a teaching assistant in sociology at Northwestern University, and Abbott H. "Abbie" Hoffman, 31, of New York City, a Yippie leader.

Censorship in Viet reviewed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Military officials said Wednesday they are staging a "comprehensive review" of charges that information officers in Vietnam have censored even the statements of the secretary of defense on armed forces broadcasts.

Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio, said former military newsmen have told him that statements by congressmen, top South Vietnamese leaders, and reports of enemy violations of a recent cease fire also were banned from the armed forces airwaves.

Wylie, who became involved over a complaint of Spec. 5 Michael Maxwell that he had been harassed after complaining of censorship, received Wednesday from Col. Louis J. Propat, adjutant general in Vietnam, a telegram advising that a full review is under way.

Complaints by Maxwell, former enlisted man David M. Kieffer of Columbus, Ohio, and former Capt. Randall J. Moody of St. Paul, Minn., came despite what the Pentagon told Wylie was a policy to "assure a free and unrestricted flow of news and current events to all armed forces personnel."

The policy was spelled out by former Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara in a 1961 memorandum and was reaffirmed as recently as April 1968 by the Pacific commander in chief.

"The withholding of unfavorable news stories and wire service reports from troop information publications or the censorship of news stories or broadcasts is prohibited," said the latter directive.

But Moody, until recently chief of the armed forces network in Vietnam, said in a letter to Wylie he's confident an investigation would expose the network "as a propaganda organ rather than a legitimate news disseminating agency it claims to be."

Divers probe lake for body of man

MARION, Ill. (AP)—Divers continued to search the Lake of Egypt Wednesday for the body of William Smith of Marion. A companion, Elmo Smith, told police that Smith stood up in their fishing boat Tuesday, lost his balance and fell overboard. The lake is eight miles south of Marion.

Women's rights task force topic

WASHINGTON (AP)—A White House task force on women's rights and responsibilities was announced Wednesday by President Nixon.

The panel, the White House said, "will review the present status of women in our society and recommend what might be done in the future to further advance their opportunities."

The chairman of the task force is Virginia R. Allan, executive vice president of Cahalan Drug Stores Inc. of Wyandotte, Mich., and formerly president of the National Federation of Business & Professional Women's Clubs.

Among the other members are Sister Ann Ida Gannon, president, Mundelein College.

Faculty exhibit featured

The SIU Department of Art faculty will open the 1969-70 Mitchell Gallery season with an exhibit Oct. 5-22, Evert Johnson, gallery curator, has announced.

The exhibit will consist of approximately 45 works created by 21 artist-teachers on the faculty of the Department of Art.

These works represent nearly all the various media used in sculpture, painting, drawing, graphics, pottery, metal smelting and weaving.

As well as introducing the work of four new faculty members, the exhibit will offer viewers an opportunity to see the most recent works of artists who have exhibited here in previous years.

For the second exhibit, starting Oct. 29-Nov. 4, Richard Harsh, a graduate student from Greenville, will present his thesis exhibit of paintings. Harsh has worked at Sheldon Art Gallery, University of Nebraska and Ligoa Duncan Gallery, New York. He has exhibited at Decatur Art Center, Centerville College Art Department, St. Louis Artists Guild, Evansville Museum of Art, MacNider Museum and the Des Moines Art Center.

A public reception from 2-5 p.m. Sunday will officially open the faculty exhibit at Mitchell Gallery, located on the first floor in the Home Economics Building. A public reception is also planned for the Harsh exhibit from 7-9 p.m., Oct. 29.

Gallery hours are from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. Admission is free.

'Religious bag' lecture series planned by Newman Center

The Rev. William Longust, director of activities at the Newman Center, has several plans for his first year at SIU.

Father Longust said that his first mass will be a dialogue between students and himself.

Also planned is a series of lectures which he calls the "Religious bag and what's in it," the lectures will start in mid-October. The times of the lectures will be posted around campus, Longust said. Even though Father Longust is director of the Newman Center, "I am not running a glorified baby-sitting service," Longust said. "The kids will have to work."

Father Longust said he has only been at SIU for a short time but has found the students "full of ideas and enthusiasm."

Providing a place for the spiritual needs of students, is the purpose of the Newman Center, Father Longust said. He added that he also would like to help make it a place for discussions between students, and a place where students can help others.

SIU freshman is member of Selective Service group

An SIU freshman is the youngest male serving on the Youth Advisory Committee of the Illinois Selective Service System.

James E. Peters, 18, from Quincy, was appointed to the committee July 28, by Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Peters, who served as governor of the Premier Boys' State from June, 1968 to June, 1969, said he was first contacted about the committee by John Harley Hammack, state director of the Selective Service System.

Peters said he agreed to serve on the committee because he "thought it would be interesting."

He is the only person south of Springfield on the committee.

The purpose of the Youth Advisory Committee is to give opinions and make recommendations about the Military Selective Service Act of 1967.

Peters explained that the youth advisory committee started in five states as an experimental project. The project worked out well and will be started in each of the 50 states, he said.

The committee is holding a meeting Saturday in Chicago. At this meeting, the 15 members will bring a list of suggestions and opinions from persons across the state, ac-ording to Peters. He asks all students with ideas and opinions about the draft to contact him in Room 1430 of Schneider, or call him at 536-5926.

New policy to govern foreign language testing

The Graduate Record Examination Board has announced that, beginning this fall, the Graduate School Foreign Language Tests (GSFLT) in French, German, Russian, and Spanish will be administered nationally at centers established by Educational Testing Service.

The GSFLT, which is constructed and administered by Educational Testing Service under policies set by the Graduate Record Examinations Board, provide a means through which graduate schools may test foreign language reading proficiency as a part of their advanced degree requirement.

Instead of the institutional administrations through which the tests have been administered in the past, all candidates will submit their registration forms and fees directly to Educational Testing Service in Princeton, New Jersey for one of the five administrations each year.

Information about the examinations, a registration form, and a list of test centers are contained in the GSFLT "Bulletin of Information" 1969-70. Copies of the bulletin may be obtained from the graduate school or Counseling and Testing Center.

The examination dates established for the 1969-70 academic year are: November 1, December 6, 1969; January 31, May 2, and July 18, 1970. They will be offered at approximately 200 test centers in the United States and Canada.

Scores will be reported by Educational Testing Service directly to the candidate and to those institutions he designates. The test fee will be $10. Transcripts of scores will be available for a period of five years for a fee of one dollar for each request, plus one dollar for each transcript requested.

Thirty college-level courses offered for VTI degrees

Thirty college-level programs leading to associate degrees which may be earned in two years are offered by SIU's Vocational-Technical Institute, according to a VTI catalog for 1969-70, now available free of charge from University Central Publications.

The institute's programs are open to high school graduates and are designed to qualify students for employment at the semi-professional and technical level in industry, the allied health occupations, and business.

Specialized fields of training for the three degrees which are offered are of a wide variety and include the following:

For the associate in art degree: commercial art, corrections and law enforcement (law enforcement, institutional service) and community services, dental hygiene, library and audio-visual technical assistants, and physical therapy assistants.

For the associate in business degree: accounting, cooperative retailing, electronic data processing, executive secretarial, legal secretarial, and medical secretarial.

For the associate in technology degree: architectural technology, automotive technology, aviation technology (including maintenance technician, professional pilot and aviation electronics), building construction technology, dental laboratory technology, electronics technology (also including electrical power transmission).

Also included in the technology program are forest products technology, highway and civil technology, machine drafting and design technology, mortuary science and funeral service, printing technology, tool and manufacturing technology, and water resources technology.

Scholars told to apply now

Students interested in a Rhodes Scholarship to study at Oxford University in England should apply now, according to G.C. Wiegand, SIU professor of economics. Wiegand is the Rhodes institutional representative on campus.

Any unmarried male citizen of the United States who has passed his 18th birthday and has not reached his 24th birthday is eligible provided he has at least junior standing. Thirty-two Rhodes Scholarships are awarded annually in the U.S. and students selected are provided adequate funds for one or possible two years of study, starting in the fall of 1970.

Wiegand pointed out that many leaders in American public life, including SIU Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar, are former Rhodes Scholars.

Further information can be obtained from Professor Wiegand, room 224A, General Classroom Building.

Oldest European Dead

MODENA, Italy (AP)—The longest-lived European may have been an Apennine mountaineer who died three centuries ago, purportedly at the age of 150. The only trace of him is the following in the Pieve De Castelluccio parish archive: "In the year of the Lord 1671, on September 19, in the region of Castelluccio, at the age of 150, Domenico Zanardi gave up his soul to God with the comfort of the Holy Mother Church."

NOW YOU CAN TRIPLE YOUR READING SPEED

In Just 15 Minutes a Day

That's right! You can triple your reading speed and increase reading comprehension...And it only takes 15 minutes a day. Here's how the Dynamic Learning System's speed reading program can help you succeed.

GET HIGHER GRADES IN COLLEGE

You learn how to read for special purposes... how to study for tests... how to remember what you read.

CUT DOWN STUDY TIME

You can reduce your reading time by 75% through this program, leaving more hours for other activities.

BE BETTER INFORMED

You can give yourself new depth and confidence by easily reading far more in less time.

BECOME A SUCCESSFUL PERSON

This program will free you for the "extra reading" that makes you a more valuable person in your job. You'll be in a position to move ahead in your career. High school and college students, adults, parents, college graduates... anyone who has finished the 5th grade can learn to read faster and with greater understanding and enjoyment. Students ages have ranged between 11 and 84. If you read normally and are willing to invest at least 15 minutes a day and attend each class session you should be able to master the Dynamic Learning System speed reading program in just 10 short weeks. The course consists of 10 weekly sessions of two hours each. When you complete the course, you will be a better reader as well as a faster reader.

THE DYNAMIC LEARNING SYSTEM OFFERS THESE UNIQUE ADVANTAGES

1. Correlated testing for true speed and comprehension with each lesson.
2. A scientifically designed and educationally tested curriculum.
3. An electronic readamatic pacer designed to improve your reading speed and comprehension.
4. A money-back guarantee. Each student is guaranteed to read at least 1000 words per minute or triple his beginning speed with equal or better comprehension or his tuition will be refunded in full.
5. Outstanding achievement awards for students who accomplish a reading speed of 15,000 words per minute or more.
6. A beautiful gold-embossed diploma, suitable for framing, certifying successful completion of the program. Life time membership in the Dynamic Reading Association is included free of charge.

FREE ORIENTATION SESSIONS

Complimentary orientation sessions featuring multi-media color sound presentations are offered to the public at the time and places listed below. Diagnostic testing to determine your reading speed and comprehension is offered absolutely free and with no obligation at each orientation session. Results are strictly confidential.

Convocations reflect descent from 'ivory tower'

By Judy Dishinger

The SIU Convocation Series this quarter will include people "who will tell it like it is," as well as entertain the students, according to Lois Stewart, a graduate student in theater and assistant to the coordinator of special programs. The series will offer someone or something of interest to everyone in the university said Miss Stewart. She urged all students and faculty members to attend the programs.

The fall quarter schedule includes a talk by Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar Thursday and a concert by the University of Wisconsin Singers, a group of 32 students, who will appear October 9.

World renowned baritone William Warfield, known for his movie role as Joe in "Show Boat" and his rendition of "Ol' Man River," will entertain October 16. Warfield has made command international tours as Porgy in Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," and is famous for his other theatrical roles and recordings.

On October 23, the Spanish Zarzuela will perform several types of music.

The Metropolitan Opera Studio Ensemble, a group of four young performers who are being groomed for roles at the "Met," will present a program entitled "Vienna to Broadway" on October 30.

Harold Hayes, editor of "Esquire" magazine, will touch on some of the avant-garde features in his magazine, especially its "Dubious Achievements of the Sixties" in his November 6 appearance.

John Sack, author of "M" a novel about Vietnam and war correspondent for "Esquire" will appear November 13. Sack will present his opinions of what happens to young men who are educated in universities and then immediately given another, different education for war. He will discuss how this education for war may affect all citizens when the young men return from war Movie actress of the '20s, Lillian Gish, star of "Broken Blossoms," "Birth of a Nation," "Orphans of the Storm," and a host of other silent movies, will present excerpts from some of the silent movies and comment on them. The program will show the difference in the techniques in movie-making that have taken place since the early days of motion pictures.

Leon Volkow, former Russian lieutenant colonel and defector from Russia's Air Force will appear December 4. Volkow, Soviet Affairs Editor of "Newsweek," served as presidential advisor and speech-writer for President Nixon on his visit to Russia.

Volkow, Soviet Affairs Editor of "Newsweek," served as presidential advisor and speech-writer for President Nixon on his visit to Russia. An engineer from Moscow University, Volkow is a playwright and author of "Stalin Thinks I'm Dead." He is the subject of W.L. White's "Land of Milk and Honey." Volkow, now a United States citizen, received the Freedom House Award in 1951.

The traditional Holiday Assembly will conclude the 1969 fall quarter convocation schedule December 11.

Miss Stewart noted that at the first regular Thursday convocation program, the audience was hesitant to respond to the performers, and added that the programs are basically provided for entertainment. She said that the audience should feel free to cheer and clap when it wishes.

Miss Stewart said that many of the speakers and topics to be discussed are controversial and said that universities are no longer "ivory towers." Ten years ago, students in universities didn't know or care what was going on, she said.

The University Convocations are free, and are scheduled every Thursday from 1 to 1:45 p.m. in the Arena. A coffee hour in the University Center normally follows each session so that persons may meet and chat with the guest.

cations, scheduled for those students who cannot attend the regular convocations, will take place throughout the quarter. Admission will be charged for some presentations.

The supplementary convocations will include performances by the Southern Repertory Dancers, productions at the University Theater, the Jobs in Journalism programs, and speakers on various topics, including the United Nations development programs, the Arab-Israeli confrontation, human morality and values and work in the inner cities.

Captive 'living wall' highlights Forest Science Laboratory

One of the newest buildings on the SIU campus is the hardwood, glass and concrete Forest Science Laboratory. It is the home of the U.S. Forest Service scientists, technicians and secretaries of the Carbondale Unit, North Central Forest Experiment Station. The laboratory is located at the south edge of Thompson Woods, west of Journalism buildings 0833 and 0834.

SIU director at conference

Clarence (Doc) Dougherty, director of SIU University Center and Alan Ladwig, chairman of the Center's program committee, will attend the regional conference of the Association of College Unions, International, Thursday through Sunday at Northern Illinois University.

Both are members of the conference steering committee and Dougherty is the ACUI's Illinois-Indiana regional representative.

This building, constructed on ground leased from the University by the federal government, contains 25 offices. Features of the offices are the use of 12 species of hardwood timber for wall paneling. In the main entry through the middle of the building, a wall is lined with the bark of cork trees from the northern shores of the Mediterranean Sea. Many of the Laboratory personnel refer to this wall as the "living wall" because of the lichens that have formed on the cork.

The research in the Laboratory consists of five areas: hardwood site requirements, tree genetics, silviculture, marketing and processing.

Other facilities associated with the research described here are: 3500-acre Kaskaskia Experimental Forest south of Harrisburg, 600-acre Paoli Experimental Forest in southern Indiana, 40-acre Tree Improvement Center on University land near Carbondale and the Wood Processing Pilot Plant near Carterville operated jointly by the station and the University's Vocational Technical Institute.

A visit of the Northeastern area, state and private forestry is also housed in the Laboratory.

SIU soccer club hosting Indiana

By Bob Richards

The SIU International Soccer Club opens its competitive season Saturday when it hosts Indiana University east of the Arena at 2 p.m. Joseph Chu, faculty adviser to the club, rates Indiana as a "very strong team" but does not count SIU out.

In last year's match, SIU lost 6-4 playing without five starters. Chu said that this season could prove to be as successful as 1967 when SIU was a top rated team nationally.

SIU's club statue in soccer has been a mystery to many.

Men, women fencing instruction begins

The SIU Women's Recreation Association is sponsoring instruction in fencing for men and women during the fall and winter quarters.

Lessons will be given 7-8:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays in the Women's Gym Room 114.

All equipment is provided and there will be competitive meets for both men and women.

The instructor is Sally Cotton, an instructor in the Department of Physical Education.

MARKET POWER!!!

SIU students spend in excess of $2.5 million monthly. Use the Egyptian to reach them.

Most schools competing with Southern recognize the sport and give it the necessary financial backing for travel and equipment. Chu says that the ultimate goal of the team, besides winning, is to get official University recognition as a varsity sport. He adds that this would enable the team to schedule strong teams from Michigan and Pennsylvania, not possible now due to lack of funds.

Club members have been working out on an organized basis four times a week for two weeks in preparation for the upcoming games. SIU competes in the Midwest Soccer Association and this year's seven-game schedule includes the University of Illinois, Murray State and the University of Kentucky.

Among returning players from last year is Firemon Kasato who will play fullback. New to the team is George Ramsey, also a fullback from Jamaica. These two, along with other regulars and newcomers should form a strong nucleus, according to Chu. Roughly 50 per cent of club members are Americans. Players are also from Nigeria, Uganda, Iran, Saudi Arabia, England, Scotland, Honduras, Venezuela, Mexico and Nicaragua.

Griffin signs contract with Chicago Bulls

By Jim Sumner
Staff Writer

Willie Griffin, former basketball standout who graduated from SIU last spring, has signed a $15,000 contract plus bonus with the Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association.

The six-foot-three guard began training with the Bulls this summer and has evidently been quite impressive. He survived the first cut in June and is now participating in the Bull's exhibition games.

The contract stipulates that if Griffin is cut from the team, the offer is void, according to Griffin's wife, Tonya. She did seem optimistic, however, that the former Saluki would survive the additional cuts. The Bulls begin their regular season play Oct. 15. All cuts will have to be made prior to that time.

Griffin held SIU's field goal percentage record last year at .492 per cent. He also led the team in rebounds (43) with a game high of 16 against Evansville.

Griffin, despite having the best field goal percentage, shot the least number of time of any starter. He explained, "That's okay. In many close games I might shoot very little, then in the last few minutes I can open up. My opponent never expects it."

After Willie's performance in the Kentucky Wesleyan game last year, his style cannot be criticized. He scored eight of SIU's last 10 points, giving the Salukis a 62-61 victory.

Willie has got a real good chance to make the team," said SIU basketball Coach Jack Hartman. "He's extremely quick, a great ball handler and an excellent jumper for his size, in addition to many other points."

Local Griffin admirers will get a chance to see him in action on Oct. 10 as the Bulls play the Cincinnati Royals in an exhibition game in Evansville.

SIU-Tampa could be high scoring

A high scoring game is what Head Football Coach Dick Towers expects this Saturday when SIU hosts Tampa.

The two teams totaled 94 points in winning efforts last week. SIU slapped Youngstown State 43-14 while Tampa's Spartans crushed Parsons 51-0. Both schools evened their records at 1-1.

Kickoff time for the first home game of the Salukis is at 1:30 p.m. at McAndrew Stadium.

"Expect a high scoring affair," says SIU Coach Dick Towers. "Tampa puts the ball in the air about 60 per cent of the time. Fans can expect a wide-open game."

Towers is pleased with the injury report which shows no serious injuries after two contests. Starting quarterback Barclay Allen, who suffered a painful hip pointer against Louisville in the opener, was not at full strength against Youngstown but should be completely healed for Tampa.

This week the Saluki secondary will be busy trying to stop the aerial acrobatics of the visiting Spartans.

Last week UT tried 52 passes and completed 19 for 313 yards against Parsons. In all, the Spartans amassed 594 yards total offense.

Chief SIU scout Carl Reese returned with nothing but praise for Tampa quarterback Jim Del Gaizo, the Spartan's all-America candidate, and a host of elusive receivers.

"Tampa presents more problems defensively than any team we'll face," claims Reese. They show you all kinds of formations and you have to be awake for the run."

Leon McQuay, 5-10, 204 pounder, keys the running attack with able help from a speedster Willie Miller.

It's obvious that SIU must do exactly what Akron did against the Spartans in the opener. Akron unveiled a massive rush and controlled the ball for a 41-0 triumph.
