Nearly 100 local regular and volunteer firefighters par-ticipated in a three-day "smoke diver" workshop

The workshop, sponsored by the Carbondale Fire Depart-ment, was to teach firefighters how to care for and use their breathing aparatus devices, said Cliff Manif, assistant chief and training officer for the Carbondale Fire Depart-

Manif said the workshop concentrated on strengthening firefighters' abilities in toxic atmospheres

A toxic atmosphere exists when there isn't enough oxygen in the air to breath or too many toxic fumes fill the air, he said.

Manif said firefighters participated in drills in a 45-foot trailer that was totally dark, filled with smoke and Liquor license fees are pased on the number of occupants an establishment can hold, which is determined by the fire department. Fees are not based on seating capacity.

Honasan, who has been in hiding since the coup attemp was put down, said he visited his followers in various parts of the country, "feeling out their dedication to our cause."

Nicaragua to suspend attacks against Contras

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — President Daniei Ortega says Nicaragua is making concessions — including a month's suspension of military operations against U.S.-backed Contra rebels — to avoid "genocide" in his war-wracked country. In a major policy address broadcast on national radio Wednesday night, Ortega also said "there are no deadlines" for implementing a regional peace plan signed Aug. 7 in Guatemala City by five Central American presidents and promised to permit opposition groups to express themselves freely.

U.S. forces may be held to SALT 2 treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite an uproar about a Soviet missile test near Hawaii, the Senate signaled the White House Thursday that it wants U.S. strategic forces back within limits of the unratified SAJ-7 2 treaty. The 55-44 tally to keep alive the amendment to return U.S. forces to SALT 2 treaty limits, proposed by Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., for the $303 billion 1988 defense bill, was an indirect test of supporters' strength and not a direct vote on the matter.

Robertson announces presidential candidacy

NEW YORK (UPI) — Evangelist Pat Robertson Thursday officially kicked off his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination in one of the nation's largest black communities, declaring his concern for "people in the inner city" to a mostly white crowd of supporters. His speech from a platform in front a brownstone building in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn where he lived when he first joined the southern Baptist ministry, was proceeded by a crescendo of gospel music.

Democrats: Bork nomination to be defeated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats, with a surge of opposition that included GOP Sen. Arlen Specter, said Thursday Robert Bork's Supreme Court nomination is in the jaws of defeat, and one suggested the White House withdraw the selection. But a subdued President Reagan brushed off the latest vote counts and said if there is anti-Bork momentum, "I'm going to interrupt it." Democratic leader Alan Cranston of California said his latest head count showed 50 senators opposed Bork with "more to come."

Third Dukakis aide resigns in video scandal

BOSTON (UPI) — Democratic presidential candidate Michael Dukakis said Thursday a third top-ranking campaign official was involved in distributing a videotape that helped torpedo Delaware Sen. Joseph Biden's White House bid. Dukakis said field director Jack Corrigan, a key deputy to former campaign manager John Sasso, mailed a copy of the damaging videotape to NBC News. Sasso and national political director Paul Tully resigned Wednesday following Dukakis' discovery that Sasso prepared the "attack video" contrasting Biden's speeches with those of British Labor Party chief Neil Kinnock.

New DUI measures not strict enough

THE "TOUGH" NEW penalties for DUI offenses recently passed into law by Gov. James Thompson are sad proof of Illinois' inadequacy in addressing that problem. Under the new law, people convicted of a second DUI offense, reckless homicide, leaving the scene of an accident in which someone is seriously injured or killed, or any combination of those crimes within 20 years of the original offense would face a minimum of a three-year drivers license revocation. drivers license revocation.

The current minimum penalty for DUI offenses is a one-year revocation. Two or more offenses now carry a minimum 48 hours in jail or 10 days community service in addition to the community service in addition to the revocation.

Thompson's new law leaves much to be desired when the serious nature of operating a motor vehicle while drunk is considered. DUI is an act that endangers everyone, and it needs more stringent measures than even the new law calls for

THERE CERTAINLY IS nothing wrong with giving second chances. People make mistakes every day. One of these mistakes very well could be driving while intoxicated, and the existing penalities address this adequately. Take a usually responsible person's license aday for a year and a strong message from the state probably will be communicated.

However, there is a big difference between the one-time offender and the full-blown alcoholic whose normal physical condition is that of intoxication.

For these people, drunken driving is a way of life, a way to get from one tavern to another before passing out. A constant danger to the general public, alcoholics who drive do not deserve such lenient minimum penalites now called for by Illinois' new DUI law. The possiblity of a repeat offender receiving nothing but a three-year license revocation for killing someone in an auto accident borders on the absurd.

TO SQUELCH THE ever-growing problem of drunken driving, the state needs to take an even stricter approach to the offenders. Taking away drivers licenses and slapping the guilty parties in jail for two days definitely is not the answer. Lengthier jail sentences and heavier fines are the only cure for second-time offenders.

The days of accepted "social" drinking are winding to a close, and in their place has come a society fed up with drunken drivers. What better place to stick hazards to the community but in prison?

Opinions from elsewhere

The nation's physical underpinnings — streets, highways, bridges, airports, and water and sewer systems — continue to deteriorate

A coalition of virtually every trade and technical association in the country...contends the problem has worsened since the groups first called attention to the condition five years ago.

Although the coalition recognizes that the federal government cannot be assigned the job of building facilities that primarily serve local areas, it does believe the incentive and leadership must come from Washington (and) wants to make infrastructure problems an issue in the 1983 presidential campaign...

The coalitica's most important service to the country would be to alert the public to the problems, and to perhaps instill an understanding of the need for federal leadership in the head of the next president.

Relative worth is the real issue in ongoing secretary controversy

Dear Ben Gelman: Thanks for plugging "Mohawk" again and for mentioning my forand for mentioning my for-thcoming novel in your recent letter to the DE (Sept. 29). If there's ever anything I can do to return your repeated kind-ness, I hope you will let me know.

My only regret is that you were not kinder to Carolyn Saunders. By first misreading, then unintentionally then unintentionally misrepresenting a letter of mine, you convey the impression that there are people here who doubt that good woman's worth to SIU-C, when even a cursory reading of what I wrote would reveal that I objected not to any person, but to a reported jo's description, and to the fact that faculty don't seem to count for much around here.

While I don't begrudge anybody who's able to squeeze $32,000 out of SIU-C, the question of relative worth that my tongue-in-cheek letter to the DE raised struck me both then and now as entirely legitimate. To have the point lost is unfortunate, though I'm sure it wasn't your intention, or anyone else's, to obscure the issue.

Life's problems have mounted.
I'm referring to the parking and ticketing situation at the University. I realize I'm not the first to complain of this. However, I am no less

I would like to request first that professors go easy on students who walk in late to students who walk in late to-class. Yes, it's possible that they've overslept or chatted too long in the hallway, but it's more probable that they allowed plenty of time to get to class and simply could not find a parking space within walking distance of their building. I have actually lett home 30 minutes before the start of a class and been ten minutes late due to the ridiculous shortage of parking accommodations.

As for the ticket people in the red parking division trucks, I tend to think they're a bit ruthless. I realize they have a job to do like anyone else, but I have more than once been socked with $10 and $15 tickets.

have more than once been socked with $10 and $15 tickets by someone fully aware that I (with my lowly red parking decal) would be occupying a "blue spot" for literally less than one minute, e.g., to toss a book in the Morris Library book depository.

Even in my pre-deca! days (when I vowed never to near the campus with my car), I had need to visit the Health Service now and then, and anyone who's ever had to knows that walking to the Health Service could quite possibly take days. I'll not forget the day I dutifully fed the "visitor" parking meter at the Health Service, only to find not one, but two tickets totalling $30 for the same "offense". If I wasn't sick already when I went in, I certainly was then.

When I got my decal, I was sure that most of these problems would be ameliorated. Not so. Some of the choicest parking areas ard for faculty only.

Take Morris Library, for example. Correct me if I'm wrong, but is it not primarily for the use of students? And is it not day and night populated heavily by young men and women, many of whom have to walk alone in the dark to faraway cars because the sprinkling of library spots are for professors who constantly urge them to visit the library?
SIU-C's enrollment this year is at an all-time high. Let's make the neccessary adjustments and a commodate these people. Or is that just one more thing the University can't afford?

A EDITOR B LETTER C YOU

Couch potatoes may well identify with Reagan's presidential style

ONLY A few years ago, it was being said by the experts that the presidency had become too big a job for one man. It had become an impossible burden—dealing with the complexities of foreign policy, the economy, Congress, military affairs military affairs.

They pointed at Jimmy Carter, who had come into the Carter, who had come into the White House with a youthful bounce to his step. After only one term, he was haggard and looked 10 years older.

There was talk of restructuring the job of the president to relieve the unbearable

THEN ALONG came Ronald Reagan to prove how silly all those experts had been when they talked about what an overwhelming, impossible job the presidency was. With his remarkable talent

With his remarkable talent for turning complex issues into simple ones, Reagan managed to simplify the complex job of being president. His approach is to not do too much and to avoid paying attention to too many problems.

Of course, Reagan's critics have said for a long time that he has kind of a detached managerial style.

BUT NOW we hear it, posthumously, from one of his most devoted followers — William Casey, who was head of the CIA.

In a new book by Bob loodward — "Veil: The Woodward -Secret Wars of the CIA, 1981 1987" — Casey discusses Reagan's approach to work. Woodword writes: "Casey continued to be struck by the overall passivity of the President... He never valled the meetings or set the daily agenda. He never once had told Casey, 'Let's do this,' unless in response to the actions of others or to events...

Mike Royko

Tribune Media Services

"CASEY NOTED in amazement that the President worked from 9 to 5 on Mon-days, Tuesdays and Thur-sdays, and from 9 to 1 on Wednesdays, when he'd take the afternoon off for horseback riding or expresse. on Eridays the afternoon off for horseback riding or exrcise; on Fridays he left sometime between 1 and 3 for Camp David. "During the working hours in the Oval Office, the President often had blocks of free time — two, even three hours. He would call for his fan mail and sit and answer it."

wasn't too bright. Sure, he was charming and capable of a brilliant reading of one of his speechwriter's creations. But I had doubts that he was smart

If anything, I am in awe of anyone who is so efficient and mentally nimble that he can boil the overwhelming job of the presidency down to ... to what? About 32 hours a week, at most, if what Casey said

Even less. As Casey said, a few of those hours are spent reeding his fan mail. And other sources have said that Reagan regularly takes afternoon nappy-naps.

80 IF you subtract the fan mail time and nap time, we have a President who can handle his overwhelming chores in fewer than 30 hours a week.

That is an amazing accomplishment. During his 21 years as mayor of Chicago, Richard J. Daley drove himself 10 or 12 hours a day and was often in his office on Saturdays. And he didn't have to deal with nuclear disarmament, the possibility of war in the Middle East or rallying Senate votes for a Supreme Court nomination.

In every office building in Court nomination.

In every office building in New York, Chicago or Fniladelphia, there are executives at their desks long after the night cleaning ladies have arrived. And they're not confronted with trillion-dollar deficitie.

YET, RONALD Reagan can deal with all of these responsibilities and get the job done in about three and a half standard workdays.

Someday, he should do a book on how to get things done fast and efficiently. I mean, if he can find the time.

nough for the job of president. Now those doubts are gone. Woodward book bares skeletons in Reagan administration closet

By HELEN THOMAS UPI White House Reporter

THE COVERT shadowy world of the Reagan ad-ministration is being bared little by little, to the surprise of Congress and to the world.

First, it was the Iran arms Contra scandal that revealed a White House national security White House national security team "privatizing" foreign policy, dealing with shady arms profiteers, involving 10 federal agencies and 13 foreign coun tries. And a president who disclaims knowledge of most of the secret dealings.

The clandestine machinations of the CIA under the late Director William macmatons or the CIA under the late Director William Casey are also coming to light in Washington Post editor Bob Woodward's gensational new book: "Veil: The Secret Wars of the CIA, 1981-87."

SECRECY HAS been a strong penchant of the administration since it came into power as well as an abiding distrust of news leaks.

And no wonder. The disclosures of the past year have caused the administration's credibility to be questioned and its spokesmen to run for cover.

The book, which Woodward says is based on 48 interviews with Casey, may be the reality come home, and more hair raising than some mystery novels. It has everything from total deception to massacre, all in the name of achieving foreign policy goals that mainly came to naught.

WOODARD PORTRAYS a frustrated Casey, who had no patience with CIA underlings who preferred to stay within the legal limits of their mandate for intelligence gathering. So he made end rune, enlisting foreign governments such as Saudi Arabia, according to Woodward, to carry out the schemes to thwart potential terrorists.

Early in his administration, Reagan had signed a directive forbidding assassinations. The wary CIA had been throught congressional investigations in the '70s that clearly drew a line on its operations.

"The book...may be the reality come home, and more hair raising than some mystery novels. It has everything from total deception to massacre...

But the president also signed, at the behest of Casey and the urging of Secretary of State George Shultz, a national security directive that set the stage for anti-terrorist hit squads in Beirut, Woodward writes.

THE AUTHOR says Casey turned over the operational aspects to the Saudis who in an attempt to assassinate Sheikh Mohammad Fadlallel, head of Unphallel the Shift or the print Hezhollah, the Shiite extremist party, blew up a building killing 80 persons and wounding 200 more. Fadlal lel esc.ped injury, and later the Saudis found that by paying him $2 million they could halt the car bombings. the car bombings

It would take a book to relate all the comments from the White House podium, and the president himself, during the secret Iran operations and while the United States was seeking to halt terrorism in the Middle East in the aftermath the Israeli invasion of Lebanon.

But none of the reactions parse or hold water. From Reagan's "no foundation" with the unraveling of the scandal last November to the current "no comments" from White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater, who is sent out to the podium to stonewall questions, the truth has been eluded, and may never be revealed.

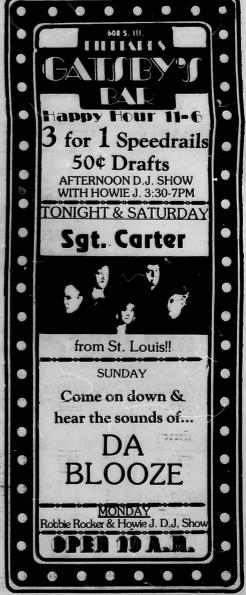

BOTH THE recent hearings and the Woodward book are bound to give one paus. on just how much follow through the president has on the directives that he sighs. Just how much information is he given? Does he call the shots, or does he leave it to all advisers to formulate policy and strategize in disastrous ways? Has he wondered why there have been so few successes, or does he blame the questionable results on the pitfalls of an open society.

With the public staring into what were once top secret.

what were once top secret files, the president is not saying much these days.

Movie Guide

The Big Easy — (University Place 8, R) Dennis Quaid is a New Orleans police detective investigating murder and drug smuggling while Ellen Barkin plays the district attorney trying to uncover corruption in the police force. It's a steamy love story and thriller combined.

Big Shots — (University Place 8, PG-13) A film about a middle-class white kid and a street-wise black kid who get thrown together in the face of adversity and learn the values of cooperation and respect.

Big Town — (Fox Eastgate, R) Set in the 1950 s, a small town gambler (Matt Dillon) get: mixed up with dames (Diane Lane) and dice in the big town of Chicago.

Born In East L.A. — (Saluki, R) Richard "Cheech" Marin brings his parody of Bruce Springsteen's "Born in the U.S.A" to the big screen. Marin is mistaken for an illegal alien and deported to Mexico, then spends the rest of the movie heading north.

Can't Buy Me Love — (University Place 8, PG-13) Disney's Touchstone Films brings the lesson the Beatles sang about to the screen.

Dirty Dancing — (Varsity, PG-13) This film is an upbeat romance and dance movie and takes place over the summer of 1963 and revolves around the coming-of-age of a teenager played by Jennifer Grey. She falls in love with the dance instructor (Patrick Swayze) at a Catskills resort. Good sixties-music soundtrack.

E.T. — The Extra-Terrestial — (Student Center Auditorium, 4:30, 7, 9:10 and 11:15 p.m. Friday and Saturday) Director Steven Spielberg swears that this tear-jerking classic will never been seen on videotape or cable television. Instead, the film will be re-released every few years in the same manner of classic Disney films. This will probably be the only chance to see "E.T." in Carbondale for a while.

Fatal Attraction — (Varsity, R) Michael Douglas plays a married man who has a chance encounter with a psychotic woman (Glen Close).

Hamburger Hill — (University Place 8, R) This movie joins "Platoon" and "Full Metal Jacket" in the recent Vietnam War dramas and it's billed as being better than either of them.

Hellraiser — (University Place 8, R) A much-needed alternitive to "slash and gash" thrillers. Writer-director Clive Barker gives horror fans a movie filled with terrifying special effects that ultimately fails as a "respectable" horror film.

L'Argent — (Student Center Auditorium, 5, 7 and 9 p.m., Sunday and Monday) The subject of director Robert Bresson's film is materialism, or more specifically the consequences of passing a conterfeit 500-franc note.

La Bamba — (Liberty, PG)
The biography of late fifties' rock star Ritchie Valens, who died in the the same plane
crash that killed Buddy Holly

The River's Edge — (University 8, R) Dennis ("Blue Velvet" and "Hoosiers") befriends a group of misguided teenagers, who fail to report a murder com-mitted by a friend. This con-troversial film analyzes the moral breakdowns in middleclass America

Robocop — (F'ox Eastgate, R) — Peter Weller stars as the future of law enforcement, a slain cop reincarnated in mechanical form.

Roxanne — (Saluki, PG) — Steve Martin falls in love with Daryl Hannah in this update of the Cyrano De Bergerac tale.

Stakeout — (Varsity, R)
Richard Dreyfuss and Emilio

Witches of Eastwicke —
(Fox Eastgate, R) Cher, Susan Sarandon, Michelle Pfeiffer and Jack Nicholson star as a trio of modern witches and a "devilish" gigolo. Mather survived his streak, however, and coached through the 1957 season and even left the team with a four-game winning streak. Valesente is to the point where he'd like a one-game winning streak.

"We're extremely disappointed. We're angry," Valesente said. "We're upset with our performance and the results of our performance.
"I just hope we can build on some of the good things that happened Saturday so we can turn this thing around. We desperately need to have a win to help improve our confidence and our enthuiasm."

Kansas has not won since Southern Illinois last visited Lawrence a year ago and the Jayhawks had to come from behind for a 35-23 victory. But the depths of the Kansas slump may have come a week ago when the Jayhawks turned the ball over eight times in a 16-11 loss to Louisiana Tech.

"The turnovers are things that are correctable through ring some luck to go along having some luck to go along with anything you've got going," Valesente said. "Basically, it seems like any team in a slump always has bad things happen to it. "Having eight turnovers against anybody is hard. You can't beat a good junior high team having eight turnovers." In Southern Illinois, Kansas will face its first true ootion offense.

"They have good speed and that's something that we've got to be extremely prepared for," Valesente said. "We haven't played any option football yet to speak of. That is a team that has to be reckoned with on that side of the br.ll."
On defense the Salwis use

On defense, the Salukis use multiple formations in an attempt to confuse the blocking assignments of the offensive line.

"They do an awful lot of moving with their front people to try to keep you off balance with your blocking scheme. They have good speed in the secondary and that's something we obviously need to try to overcome," the Kansas coach said.

Valesente will be looking to build the little victories from the Louisiana Tech game into a total game victory.

"We had some little success out there Saturday. We rushed the ball better. We protected the quarterback much better," he said.

"We're working on staying positive and we're working extremely hard on everything we believe in. Not changing the russ and holts of the program
