DR. YOUNG'S WORK CONSIDERED OF MUCH VALUE

AUTHORITATIVE MAGAZINE CONTAINS SUMMARY OF HIS DOCTORIAL DISSERTATION

One of the outstanding faculty members that have been added to the teaching force of this school this year is Dr. O. B. Young, who comes to us from the University of Illinois, where for the past three years he has served as part time assistant in the physics department. Dr. Young first attended Wabash College and then took his Masters' and Doctor's degrees at Illinois. In addition to his work as part time assistant at Illinois, he has taught three years in the high schools of Garrett, Indiana, and Pekin, Illinois.

The subject of his doctoral dissertation was "The Dielectric Constants of Electrolytes." This is an important subject and one concerning which very little is known. A summary of this work is not here given because it is of a very technical nature and since most of us are not physics teachers, we would be unable to understand it. However we have convincing proof that it is a work of the highest merit. A summary of it appeared in the "Physical Review." Perhaps most of us are not acquainted with this publication, but it is recognized as the most authoritative magazine in the realm of physics that the country affords. It is to physics, what the "Atlantic Monthly" is to literature. It is indeed an honor to have an article published in this magazine, and Dr. Young, because of his painstaking research work, is worthy of it. He impresses one as being a scholar of the highest type and we feel sure that in the future the world of physics will hear much from Dr. O. B. Young.

FORUM DEBATING CLUB TAKES QUESTIONS FROM FORUM MAGAZINE

The Forum Debating Club met at its usual time Monday, November 4 in the Zetetic Hall. No regular program was carried out but a discussion on various subjects took place. It is hoped that the men of the student body who have not yet manifested an active interest in debating and who wish to do so, will do so in the near future. The Forum is contemplating having a series of extemporaneous speaking contests and giving members some general training in research work for debates.

The club is at present having a series of debates on various subjects of modern interest taken from the Forum magazine. The subject for next Monday is "Resolved that Radicalism Should be Suppressed."

Next Grid Game with Eastern Teachers

Next Saturday S. I. N. U.'s football team will be on the road again and will meet the Eastern Teachers' eleven on the enemy's field at Charleston. This will be the next to the last game of the season, as the team plays McKendree the following Saturday in the final.

The old students will remember that it was this same team which, in a setting very similar to the one this year, spoiled last year's homecoming game by winning a battle in the mud, 18 to 0, and handed our team the only defeat which it suffered for the entire season.

Charleston is bound to prove a tough customer this year for all of the backfield men of last year are back, with the exception of Hall and nearly all of the linemen. This means that Southerners will have a good big job if they make the holes and that their backs will have to keep on their toes for the boys opposing them are fast and very adept at completing passes. It was their serial attack that defeated the Maroons year before last, 14 to 2. If these passes are not to prove disastrous again, the fellows are going to need to show more ability at pass defense than they showed one evening last week in practice. Charleston's men have always shown superior ability at this type of offense and when they are known to have real power through the line too, it makes them a real threat at all times and keeps their opponents guessing. Beating them is going to be a man's job. Our team will do the work.

Dr. Charles Carmen Gives Lectures

Dr. Charles Carmen's lectures on Wednesday lived up to the high standard that he established Tuesday night with his helpful discourse on Boy and Girl Friendships.

The topic discussed Wednesday at the chapel hour was Courtship and Marriage. We think that no one in that crowded hall left without an exalted idea of courtship and marriage. This is a subject that is so often treated in a most abominable manner, a topic about which one may read any amount of utter rot and worse, but Dr. Carmen gave a sane, common sense discussion of this important question.

The subject Wednesday evening was What Wrecks Happy Homes. There are a number of things that contribute to the grist for the divorce mills that are incessantly turning out freshly divorced couples. But the big trouble lies in the fact that there is not enough thought on the part of the man and woman before taking the marriage vows.

The Army-Illinois football game made Urbana a very popular place last Saturday. Several S. I. N. U. faculty members were there. Among those at the game were Misses Scott, Roy, and Fox; Captain McAndrew, Doc Lingie, Messrs. Gersbacher, and Pardee.

Armistice Day Program Given at Chapel Hour

In observance of the signing of the armistice eleven years ago, a short program was given at the chapel services of the S. I. N. U. on Monday, November 11. This is not new, but the continuance of a policy which began in November 1918. Once again the students and faculty read in concert the forty-sixth Psalm, the same scripture that has been read at every anniversary of the day on which the war closed.

Dr. Abbott of the faculty, who was a member of the A. E. F., spoke briefly to the students. "Well I remember," he said, "a day when an aeroplane flew over a little village in Southern France and dropped a note telling us that war was over."

And the war is over. Pothos is found even in that simple statement. Our business is to prevent another war. Horrible as the World War was, should another come. Dr. Abbott believes that it would be far deadlier than the one which has passed.

A feature that made the music particularly effective was the fact that at 11:00, the hour of the signing of the peace pact, all in the auditorium stood, facing the east while the organ softly played Abide With Me.

PRACTICE TEACHING ASSIGNMENTS MADE

Practice teaching assignments were posted last week under the bulletin board in the Main building. Applications were made early in the term, but each student's record is carefully checked before he is placed. Dr. Merwin reports that thirty-three out of the one hundred forty-four (not including Rural Practice) who asked for practice were rejected on account of low scholastic standing. This indicates a rise in the school standards, a step toward more efficient teachers.

EGYPTIAN STAFF HAS FIVE-POUND REASON

A special meeting of the Egyptian staff was called Tuesday at 1:00 p. m. For once there was expectancy in everyone's eyes. Usually with the Egyptian staff, as with other organizations, each individual is eager enough to "let George do" whatever is to be done, but Tuesday, not so. There was a five-pound reason for helping.

At length the box of candy, prize won by the homecoming stunt, was produced, and passed around. There was a thick layer of mixed sweets on top, then another underneath, and another, and—but we'll not say just how many layers there were, for to tell the precise truth, we haven't reached the bottom of the box yet!

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS MUST ORDER RINGS NOW

Now is the time to order your rings. Go to Gum's jewelry store and give your measurements along with a down payment of two dollars. The balance of the eight dollars may be paid upon receipt of the rings.

W. A. A. Prominent in Season's Activities

The Woman's Athletic Association has lived up to its early promise of making this year the best yet. The membership is greater than ever before and the girls are all peppy and interested.

The association made a brilliant showing in the festivities of last week. In the Hallowe'en mardi gras parade, Womens' Athletic Association won first place among the Southern Illinois Normal University floats. Their float was a clever representation of the major sports, with girls dressed as statues to represent each field of endeavor.

Homecoming was a busy time. Saturday morning there was a reunion at the gymnasium. Lots of old girls came back to talk about last year's basketball tournament and to meet the new instructor, Miss Carpenter. Then at nine o'clock the hockey between the Alumnae and W. A. A. team was pulled off. This is the first time there has been such a game but now that the precedent has been established it will become an important homecoming feature. At eleven forty-five the girls served the luncheon for the Socratic and Zetetic literary societies.

In the stunt parade Women's Athletic Association represented the Cape after the game. The silver cup in Miss Etheridge's office testifies to the success of the interpretation—the stunt was awarded first prize. After the parade came the football game where the organization's stand displaying hot dogs, pop and candy was quite popular.

Although the association is still comparatively young, it is taking a very prominent part in campus activities.

"The Royal Family" Strut and Fret Play

Miss Trivillion introduced "The Royal Family" to Strut and Fret last Thursday night, reading certain parts and scenes. Her chief aim was to give an idea of the character types so that Strut and Fret members could choose parts for try outs to be held a week from tomorrow night. The hardest part to fill will be that of Fannie Cavendish, whose hope is that she shall die acting. This play will be presented some time during the Winter Term and practice will start as soon as parts are assigned. This will be a new feature in the year's program—and will be parallel in importance to the Homecoming entertainment or to either of the Society plays given later in the year.

The co-playwrights, Edna Ferber and George Kaufman, depict the lives of the Drew and Barrymore clan—characterizing them as the "Royal Family."

Violet Laaster's humorous reading, given later in the evening gave her full justification for claiming membership in a dramatic club.

NORMAL DEFEATS SHURTLEFF IN LAST HOME GAME

LITTLE "19" STANDING MUCH IMPROVED DUE TO THIRD
CONFERENCE VICTORY

Carbondale was victorious over Shurtleff by a score of 3-0. Neither team could go for a touchdown, and Normal's score came from a kick by Woll in the last period. Carbondale had the edge on Shurtleff with nine first downs to the Northerner's six.

Normal kept the ball deep in Shurtleff's territory early in the first period and an early score seemed likely. A pass over the end zone almost fulfilled this promise but it was incomplete. After an exchange of punts Shurtleff started a little march of their own by making twenty-one yards in the first two downs. The quarter ended with the ball in Shurtleff's possession on Normal's twenty-five yard line.

Shurtleff lost ground and punted to Carbondale's sixteen-yard line. Carbondale returned the kick, and Shurtleff again punted. Carbondale, as if tired of kicking, made a first down as Shurtleff substituted. Normal's spurt did not last, and Shurtleff took the ball for two first downs. After a fifteen-yard penalty Shurtleff began passing, and Eovldi intercepted one. Normal made no gain and punted to Shurtleff's twenty-yard line. Shurtleff's captain Chapman, took the ball for a first down. Shurtleff was stopped, and they punted. The half ended with the honors lying with the ball in the middle of the field.

Carbondale kicked and the ball was downed on Shurtleff's thirty-two yard line. After a good gain Shurtleff punted to Carbondale's twenty-five yard line. Woll returned to the forty-seven yard line. Carbondale made three first downs by Patton's. (Continued on Page Six.)

THREE FACULTY MEM- BERS CONTRIBUTE TO SAME SCHOOL MAGAZINE

In the October issue of the "School News," a magazine for the elementary grades and junior high schools, there appeared three articles written by members of the S. I. N. U. faculty. Miss Marjorie Shank is a regular contributor to this magazine. This issue contains an article by her on eighth year geography pertaining to the movements of the earth. This article will doubtless be found very helpful. It also contains many useful illustrations. The second article is by W. O. Brown, head of the rural practice department, on "What Every Teacher Should Know About the State Course of Study." He has written many articles before this year, but this is the first one for the present year. T. L. Bryant has been contributing to this publication for two years. In the above mentioned issue he had a very instructive and well illustrated article on Penmanship in all Grades.

Inquiring Reporter

With the greatest enthusiasm the inquiring reporter set out upon her tour around the campus with pencil, question, and a smile tied in a little pink handkerchief—to ask the solemn question, "What night is more suitable to the meetings of the Socratic and Zetetic Societies—Friday or Wednesday." That reporter found a serious situation! Not half of the students seem to be even interested. Could the Sphinx, with one of her clever answers, save us from that shock?

From four prominent students I finally obtained these opinions:

"The meetings should certainly be held on Wednesday nights. One reason is that on Friday nights students are so relieved to think of the coming two-days rest, they already have the fever by Friday too strong to think of being at any sort of school function."

B. H.

"These meetings are wonderful things, and I don't want to miss a one. If they are held on Friday, however, I will get to attend none of them, for I go home every week." H. I. (Several students proposed this same idea.)

"The meetings should be held on Friday night, for if one student attends an affair on a week-night, his mind is so far removed from school work, that he cannot study when he returns home—which means no lessons Thursday. If the teachers don't object, why O. K. for the meetings Wednesday!" O. C.

"There are a dozen arrows pointing in one direction on this subject! Why there couldn't even be a debate! Why the meeting should be on Friday is a mystery, and I'll stick to it with apologies to my English teacher I will use examples. First, too many students go home. Second, students are tired of school and its activities. Why Friday is a big date night—ask any girl! Third, the society doesn't last too long on Wednesday to keep one from studying much; it just gives one an insight into higher thinking to pep up one's ambition to study like sixty, and them's my sentiments." C. D.

"Campus Cats" Join Zetetic Society

The Campus Cats, that ever-increasingly popular instrumental quartette composed of Messrs. Howard Thraillkill, Robert Smith, Dean Wiseleder and Kendall Fugit, are now all Zetetics. They will also all be members of the regular orchestra which Howard is constantly improving. The orchestra played before the business meeting was called and furnished the first number on the regular program.

Rather coincidentally Booth Tarkington was chosen by two of those on the program as the source of their features, Eva Marie Ash giving a "Seventeen" reading, and James Aydelot reviewing "Claire Annbler."

Eva Marie's reading showed that much time had been spent in preparation. Such willingness is appreciated. The reading was particularly long, giving many of the "Seventeen" episodes which are not often contained in readings taken from that book.

Mr. Aydelot gave some interesting facts about Tarkington's life as well as reviewing the book. We learned that the author is a talented musician and speaker as well as novelist. This was particularly true when he was in school at Princeton, where these varied abilities made him quite popular at entertainments. Mr. Aydelot stressed the realistic way in which Tarkington deals with the younger generation.

"The Night-in-Gale," composed by Listz was played as a piano solo by Pauline Grantham. As an encore number she played a popular selection.

An extemporaneous debate, "Resolved, that the society membership should be limited to sixty-five," closed the program. John Mees, and Martin Schaeffer, affirmative; and John Mitchell and Lena Mosley, negative. The decision was left to the audience.

"Doc" Williams, Carbondale's Master Shoe-Shiner

"Doc" Williams shines shoes in the barber shop of Mr. Marshall-Batson. He shines them well and is proud of his skill. With the exception of five years, "Doc" has been shining shoes in this barber shop for twenty-nine years, but he does not shine them as he did in 1920, it seems that shoe-shining has advanced in a similar degree with the other crafts.

Doc once confessed to the writer that he "would like to give a lecture on shoe-shining if he just knew what to say." Thinking that such a worthy ambition should not go unrewarded, the writer told Doc that he would print whatever he had to say about shoe-shining. When the interview came, Doc poured out enough information to fill a page. He suggested away in which the article might be shortened: "You just leave out all that personal stuff about my history, and you can put in more about shoe-shining."

"Black shoes," said Doc, should first be brushed well, then cleaned, and then brushed again to knock off what the cleaner has removed. Then paste is applied, brushed, and rubbed. Over the paste a gloss-cream is applied and rubbed to give shoes a hard finish.

"Since tan shoes are usually soiled they must first be cleaned with some quick-drying liquid, which is brushed lightly to remove the dirt.

"The shoe-shiner has more equipment now than he had in the old days. All shoes get three preparations where they formerly got only two. The well-equipped shoe-shiner has polishes and dressings for every kind of shoe manufactured, with the exception of velvet slippers, which cannot be treated.

"Speaking of fancy shoes, the students were the first ones to begin wearing them. They would bring them to me and say, 'Fix these up, and I wouldn't know how and would have to sit down and study out some way to do something to them. But now I've got things for all kinds of sport shoes. In the line of fancy shoes, suede slippers are the hardest to treat, because until this year we haven't been able to get a dressing for suede that won't soil hose. But now they make one that won't soil hose—much."

Doc exploded the practice of putting vaseline on patent-leather shoes. He said, "Vaseline don't do them any good because patent-leather is the only grease-proof and water-proof leather. Vaseline doesn't prevent cracking, but simply collects dust. Patent-leather is polished with ordinary paste, and a water-proof dressing is applied to the spots that have been worn off, or danced off.

"We can get dyes to change any color sport-shoe to any other color due to improvements in color dressings. I can lacquer shoes now, and know that they won't crack.

"It is economical to dye white shoes, because they can't be worn but one season as white, as most white shoes turn yellow over winter.

"Cloth shoes," says Doc, "are the hardest to clean, because it's difficult to restore the color after removing

Second Bible Study Given at Y. M. C. A.

The second meeting of the Y. M. C. A. since the Bible study begun was well attended. There were but a few absent members, and a number of students enrolled.

The particular book of the Bible being studied is Mark. The idea is to teach the life of Jesus with some attention to details. At the last meeting the difference in the meaning of the words Christ and Jesus which are thought by many to be synonymous, was made clear.

The very fact that each meeting is attended by more fellows than the former and that the men who were in attendance the first evening are still in their places for an hour of beneficial training and intensive study when six-thirty comes is ample proof that the course is a valuable one. All young men on the college campus are urged to attend.

Dr. Carmen spoke to a joint session of the Y. W. and Y. M. at 7:30 Tuesday evening. His topic, "Boy and Girl Friendships," was dealt with from a sane, commonsense point of view. Other lectures were given Wednesday. We feel that we have profited much from hearing Dr. Carmen.

The railroad supervisor of a western line received the following note from one of his foremen:

"I am sending in the accident report on Casey's foot when he struck it with the spike maul. Now, under 'Remarks,' do you want mine or do you want Casey's."

the spots. But they can be fixed with the new tints available for all kinds of satin and other cloth shoes.

Sometimes it takes two or three hours to clean women's fancy shoes, because of the number of operations necessary in cleaning and renovating delicate leathers.

"A well-equipped shoe-shiner (by Doc's standard) must have a big assortment of brushes, among which are camel-hair, steel brush, tooth-brush, scrub-brush, dauber, and lacquer-brush.

"He has to have all kinds of dressings and dyes. Heel and sole dressings for sport shoes, sandpaper for straw shoes, and dozens of other miscellaneous materials."

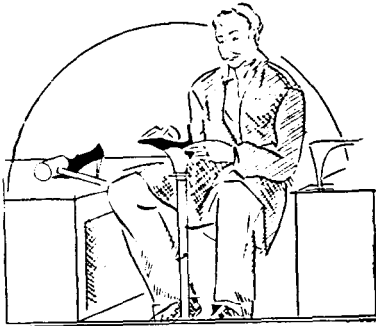

Doc said that people nowadays get shines oftener than they used to, because they have a greater variety of shoes and a greater variety of money."

"Even laboring men get their work shoes polished now, instead of just greasing them. The shoe-shining business has increased so much that a good shoe-shiner can make from twenty-five to thirty-five dollars per week."

Doc is admittedly one of the best shoe-shiners in this part of the country; because he is a craftsman at heart, his ability has increased with the adding of years of practice. However, he says that some of his most valuable information has been acquired through suggestions of his patrons.

One essential thing in the care of shoes, according to Doc, is that new shoes should be shined before they are worn. Shoes that have no polish in them he says, will absorb water, and scuff very easily.

Doc keeps his patrons neatly shod and gives them expert service, with an ability that has taken him years to acquire; in view of his service, his work deserves to be classed with other crafts that are usually recognized as being more important.

Eulogy to the Modern Prologue

(An effusion, containing a bit of justifiable self-esteem.)
 We modern people know what's what, We read, and think, an awful lot, Einstein, Freud, and Will Durant We avidly devour, and then read Mr. Kant.
 (Further proofs of our enlightenment.)
 To rare Mr. Lewis, bold spreader of light, We pay the simple tribute, "I guess he's right."
 We scorn "Mr. Babbitt," crass seeker of gold, Glad we are cast in a different mold.
 Miss Delmar's poor creatures, who grope in a dark, Never fail to extract a pitying spark; For without education, and its numberless joys, They are doomed to be woolen, expressionless toys.

Paen
 (A thanksgiving for the blessings we have received.)
 The literary god, in his unbounded grace,
 Sent the social-reform novel, that we might vivisect the race;
 Gave us a novel that takes men of all caste,
 And rips them apart, with delicious bombast.
 From these scintillating novels of social aspersion
 We've learned that invaluable, "average person."
 With the "average person" as the conversational theme
 We can expound in abstractions on the whole human scheme.

A Compromise
 (Which almost amounts to an apology.)
 The "average person" know to fall for all rot,
 Will think this is poetry, when it's decidedly not!
 But the amateur poet, tho' proud as the lot,
 Will cherish all readers, "average" or not.
 —DONALD PAYNE.

What Other Colleges are Doing at Present

The Student Council at Monmouth College, Illinois made plans for its annual school cheer leaders. The Committee authorized to buy new sweaters with an "M" on each leader's sweater. These were ordered and arrived for Homecoming. Not only are the owners proud but the school is proud of their cheer leaders.
 The faculty of the College Conservatory at Carthage, Illinois is to give its annual concert this week. Besides its usual entertainers there is a new member who will present her first faculty recital. These entertainments are looked forward to from year to year by the students of Carthage College.
 Nineteen students have been selected as the debate squad from Park College, Parksville, Mo. Eleven of this team have had experience on local platforms. Several belong to the national forensic fraternity, Pi Kappa Delta, and one member has the key from this fraternity signifying a degree of Special Distinction which is the highest award given.

Ed: What time is it?
 Ted: By my watch it's seven-thirty, but it's really only seven! When I bought the watch it was a half hour fast and I never set it back—I'm not one to tinker.

Alumni News

Deneen Watson, an alumnus, visited the school Friday, November 1. Mr. Watson is an attorney for an insurance agency in Springfield.

Russell Merritt, who was in school here last year, is in Chicago working in the plating department of a manufacturing company. He is also attending the Y. M. C. A. night school at Chicago.

Elizabeth Whittenberg will be one of the zoology teachers in the new high school at Zenia.

Carl Mason, who is an attorney in San Antonio, was back Friday, November 1.

Misses Irene Sullivan, Ethel Hays, and Arline Perrine attended the Homecoming play and game.

Misses Thedis Wente, Helen Armes, and Elsie Jobe spent October 26th and 27th visiting friends in Chicago.

Mr. Norman Finley attended Homecoming at S. I. N. U.

Ethel Croessman, graduate of S. I. N. U. has started a class in Art work in DuQuoin after school hours.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Armstrong and Hazel Pyatt attended the Homecoming game here Saturday.

Several Du Quoin teachers are taking the Sociology Extension Course under Prof. Warren in Pinckneyville.

Maurice Pyatt, a graduate of this school has accepted a position as salesman for the Spencer Motor Company in Du Quoin.

HOW ABOUT THE STUNT PARADE?

One of the items of the homecoming program that has caused considerable discussion, favorable and otherwise, was the stunt parade. Everyone agrees that it was very good; that is, what there was of it, was very good. The discussion, however, rest upon whether or not there was enough of it. Most of the organizations took an active part; and there were a few groups, couples, and individuals who appeared under the general class of "unorganized." Our idea of a stunt parade is one in which at least two-thirds of the enrollment of the school participates; one that contains less is a serious reflection upon the school spirit. Something is radically wrong when almost every stunt receives a prize. Of course there were many prizes offered, but there should be several contestants for each prize. There has also been criticism of the time of the parade. This we consider unjust. There could be no better time than immediately preceding the game. There is ample time to prepare for it after the society luncheon. The only thing deserving criticism is the student body, which is unwilling to put itself to the slightest inconvenience in order to stimulate and increase pep.

CHEATING, WHAT ABOUT IT?

We were recently inspired to investigate that phase of student activity variously called cheating, cribbing or copying. Inquiry among a number of students showed that the consensus of opinion held that some form of cheating was more or less casually practiced by at least 80% of the student body. Not that they made it a matter of much premeditation or of active preparation, but that if an opportunity arose where they could give or get information, they would make the most of it. The majority of those asked thought that never a quiz or test went by without at least some attempts at this activity.

For an explanation of this state of affairs one does not need to look far. The students are not particularly to blame; they have merely imitated those whom they took to be their betters. All through the grades and high school they have constantly had drummed into them the idea that as long as they got by with anything it was all right. They have seen that American life is saturated with graft, fraud, hypocrisy, covert disobedience to law, and that "getting by" is sufficient justification. They have seen and heard of innumerable cases where those in authority and the leaders of state, business, industry, school, and church have engaged in almost every conceivable form of cheating, graft, and disobedience to law, and—got by. Of course they have heard many condemnations of these things and much preaching against them, but they have also seen those loudest in the outcry covertly wink at or connive at the same things. They see that the average citizen seldom obeys a law he dislikes unless he fears being caught.

American youth sees these things. It sees that the American citizenry regard as models those who have made a success of "getting by." American youth, being inclined to take things at their face value, do openly what the elders still do more or less shamefacedly. And as long as most Americans take the dollar as the standard of worldly success, and the grade or diploma as the standard of scholastic success, there is not much to do about it.

Among the Rural Practice Schools

(Intended for last week's paper.)
Mr. Orson Ryan, representative from the John C. Winston Company Publishing House, was a visitor to all the Rural Practice Schools, Monday, October 28.

Much effort is being made by every school to have a large attendance at the first Parent Teachers' meeting this fall. During the school year these schools try to have from three to four meetings.

The first Parent Teachers' meeting will be held November 8 at the following schools: Pleasant Grove, Foreville, and Wagner. The other schools will have theirs the following week.

Thursday, October 31st, will close the second month's work in the Rural Practice Schools.

Since the beginning of the fall term each school has had a box social. The money raised was used for this year's Reading Circle Books.

The library at Pleasant Grove has 219 books; Wagner, 204; Buckles, 200; Glade, 176; Bridge, 306; Foreville, 158; Pleasant Hill—

Library reading is a big factor in these schools. Each child, beginning with the third grade, has a card on which is written the name of the book read, and its author.

The attendance and spelling per cents for week ending October 26th were as follows:

	Attend	Spell	Total
1. Wagner	.99	.77	176
2. Foreville	.100	.72	172
3. Bridge	.99	.72	171
4. Pleasant Grove	.98	.71	169
5. Pleasant Hill	.97	.50	147
6. Buckles	.100	.40	140
7. Glade	.89	.28	117

The decorations in the various schools, consisting of constructive drawing, free-hand drawing, and seat work, will illustrate the season. Frequently judges are selected and taken around to judge which school has the best display.

The volley ball girls of the Bridge school are putting in hard practice preparing to meet their old-time foe, Wagner. A pep meeting was held Friday. The meeting showed much spirit; and the slogan for the week is: "Beat Wagner."

The Pleasant Hill basketball team defeated the Foreville team 6-0 last week.

Sixteen of the twenty pupils enrolled in the Foreville school have perfect records in attendance. This school has had 100 per cent in attendance for the last three weeks. This is quite unusual for a country school.

These pupils have read a total of 102 Reading Circle books, making an average of over five books per pupil. Roxanne Williams has read ten books.

THIS WEEK

The Pleasant Grove basketball team defeated the Bridge school Monday by a score of 8-1.

Last Friday all writing and drawing papers were sent home by the children for the parents' inspection. Every month the various schools do this to show the parents what the children are doing in these subjects.

Mr. Troy Stearns is critic at the Foreville school, Dist. 38; Mrs. Eliza McNull at the Bridge, Dist. 92; Mrs. Ruth Husband at Buckles, Dist. 94; Mrs. Lydia D. Ragdale at Pleasant Grove, Dist. 102; Mr. Emerson Hall at Pleasant Hill, Dist. 94; Mr. Ted E. Ragdale at the Wagner, Dist. 136; Miss Helen Stewart at Glade, Dist. 96.

The great day for Bridge girls came to a happy ending when the volley ball score mounted to 29-18 in their

BOOK REVIEW

"SALT WATER TAFFY" BY COREY FORD

By ESTHER M. POWER

Students who are flunking Freshman Rhetoric and seekers after moral uplift need not read this latest parody of travel stories, "Salt Water Taffy," or "Twenty Thousand Leagues Away from the Sea," by Corey Ford. Bright students, however, who have time for the amenities of life, such as sipping tea in the afternoon or lounging at the University Cafe, will find this side-splitting yarn the proper stimulus to hilarity (especially if read aloud) in any crowd however depressed by examinations.

June, the heroine and alleged author of this tale of mirth, lacks one of the qualities essential to the writer of Travel Books. With casual forgetfulness she adopts a new name for her boat every time she has occasion to mention it. And her language has the necessary promiscuous sprinkling of varied associations of sea terms. With charming irresponsibility her father, the whaling captain, whose main occupation is whaling his daughter, sails from Australia to Scotland without knowing at one time whether he is west of Labrador or in Lake Winnepesaukee.

The serene indifference to space, time, and the law of gravity reminds one of the animated cartoons in the movies (which in my opinion represent the height of motion picture art.) Thus fancy is unrestrained; and Gladys, the pet baby waterspout (captured after a terrific battle in putting to flight a herd of stampeding waterspouts) amuses herself by hiding in one of the sailor's coffee-cups and suddenly springing to her full height just as he would raise it to his lips.

As evidence for doubting critics there are plenty of photographs (the camera cannot lie!), in musical comedy fashion, of all the incredible happenings; and it does not seem to matter that the skyscrapers of New York loom as a background for the exciting landing to the Virginia Islands.

favor last Friday afternoon against the Wagner school who had defeated them previous to this game.

The fourth grade at the Glade is writing some letters to be sent to little Brazilian Indian children.

The seventh grade at Glade has completed a large product map of South America.

The Glade volley ball team was visited by the Foreville girls last week and defeated them 24 to 17.

Mr. Lester Swink who entered the course late is teaching at Buckles.

Last week the girls' volley ball team from Buckles defeated the Pleasant Hill girls by a score of 37-15.

The per cents in attendance and spelling for the week ending November 1st were as follows:

Dist.	Attend	Spell	Total
1. 136	100	69	169
2. 92	99	69	168
3. 38	97	67	164
4. 96	100	55	155
5. 98	98	54	152
6. 102	96	53	149
7. 94	95	40	135

There is to be a Parent Teachers' meeting at Pleasant Grove school Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. There will be a short patriotic program given by the children and teachers. Mr. Dilla Hall will lecture to the Association on his experiences in France. A large crowd is expected.

THE SPHINX KNOWS:

Whose ghost haunted the Hall two nights before Hallow'en. What cynical observer over at the cafe said, "You can't eat your cake and have 't' too."

What sorority girl has suddenly taken an interest in the undertaking business.

How Bob Hudgens earned the title of "Speed King."

How to pronounce sta-tis-tics.

Why the Music Club float didn't appear in the Hallow'en parade.

What feminine physical education instructor has a weakness for "Fidos."

AND WONDERS:

Where Ione Rayburn was "that" night.

How "Porky" Hall finds time to "Bum" to East St. Louis to see Hazel.

If you have ever pronounced Mr. Shryock's name—Shi-rock, Shi-lock, or Shri-lock.

Paper Plated Pie

Chris serves pie on paper plate. Stude eats quickly—almost late. Crust seems tough—just won't go down.

Problem solve—plate can't be found.

Feminine Fashions

Can the whim of Parisian designers change our co-ed into a clinging feminine creature? Will the dresses once more sweep the ground as the fair femm. dashes to class?—but how can she with a long flowing skirt? It seems so—anyway here's how they feel about it:

Hazel Towery: It seems that long skirts are coming back into style and that we'll wear them whether we like it or not—most of us don't. But protest now is useless. We may rave and we may fuss; we may vow we'll never wear them, no matter who does. But we'll conform (I know—I've already begun.)

Ruth Pierce:

"There is nothing dearer than a flapper," so Paris, the fickle queen of fashion tells us. She has condemned her to die, and with her, her boyish bob, her short skirts and her pink knees. Oh, of course the knees are still here, but they are never to be seen. No longer does one dash from place to place in a little "rag of a frock." There will be no more armies of beige-colored legs striding up and down the streets. Now skirts must veil even the ankles in swirling draperies. It will indeed be a revolution for the co-eds who spent the summer in backless bathing suits to squeeze themselves into "Old Ironsides" corsets, and shoe-horn themselves into skin-smooth dresses. We haven't all done this yet, but it won't be long now. The long skirt, which for so long we have left to the old ladies, has arrived in our midst. It's just one more trick that Paris has put over on us, so we may as well grin and wear it!

Next week the Sphinx will have some choice tid-bits—the "pet" aversions of several celebrities.

Socratic Society Meets in Old Gym

The mystery began with a queer looking poster placed in the cage at the north of the Main building. Through a huge question mark was written, "Socratic Society."

There was suspense about that poster. No one seemed to understand what it signified.

When seven o'clock Wednesday evening came, nearly all of the old Socratics were in their seats in the socratic hall. There were some new members, too.

Since the president was not present Arthur Trammel rapped the table with the gavel, and the house came to order. The usual business was conducted in an unusual manner. No one was giving due deliberation to the matters being discussed until Mrs. Burk tendered the society a check for ten dollars, prize money for the Halloween parade. Next came the silver loving cup, the homecoming parade prize.

Following this the members and visitors went to the old gymnasium. Once inside the Science building it was evident that a celebration had been planned.

A series of mirth-provoking contests and games provided ample amusement for the evening. There were refreshments, too, such as are likely not to be soon forgotten!

GRADUATE PRACTICING LAW AT WACO, TEXAS

Carl Mason, an Alumnus who graduated from the four-year course in 1921, was visiting on the campus last week. While in school here he was very active in the Socratic Society and the Forum Debating Club. After graduating from this school he entered the Law School of Cumberland University, Tennessee.

At present he is at Waco, Texas, practicing law. He has been at this place for the last five years.

Chamber of Commerce Goes to St. Louis

Last Saturday twenty young men and women, representing the S. I. N. U. Chamber of Commerce, went to St. Louis to visit several of the large commercial houses there. In the morning they went through the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis and were amazed at its intricate financial workings. They also visited the Franklin Trust Company and saw in actuality what they have been studying in theory. Visiting this trust company alone was well worth the trip.

In the afternoon the party visited Forest Park, Shaw's Garden, the stock and grain market, and the administrative building. At the administrative building, the finger print department was of intense interest. Every one returned Saturday evening reporting a very enjoyable as well as an instructive tour.

The S. I. N. U. Chamber of Commerce expects to give a better program than it has ever presented so far at the meeting tomorrow night. Visitors are welcome. Come at seven and enjoy an evening with the youngest organization on the campus.

INTERESTING DEBATE GIVEN BY ALUMNI

The Illinae had a most interesting meeting on Monday, November 4 in Association Hall. A live and interesting debate was staged. The subject was "Resolved, that we are victims of propaganda." The affirmative was debated by Bernice Myers and Vivian Natier. The negative side of the matter was discussed by Georgia Hankla and Fern Hahne. From the viewpoint of the judges the affirmative side was the winner.

The subject for the next debate has not been definitely decided but it is sure to be of interest.

Agriculture Club Has Varied Program

After a rest of two weeks the Agriculture Club met in the Zetetic Hall last Thursday evening for its weekly meeting. Although the crowd was small everyone enjoyed the program, which was unusually good.

The program started with a piano solo by Wendell Margrave. You all know that Mr. Margrave can always give a very interesting program alone. Next was a talk by Harvey Phillips on the subject, "Electricity on the Farm." Mr. Phillips seemed very enthusiastic about this subject as he said that one of his greatest ambitions was to see electricity on every farm in the near future. And last but not least was a report on the National Dairy Show held in St. Louis a few weeks ago, by Prof. Muckelroy. He described very briefly the large arena in which the show was held and also some of the cattle that were exhibited there from all over the United States.

High School Notes

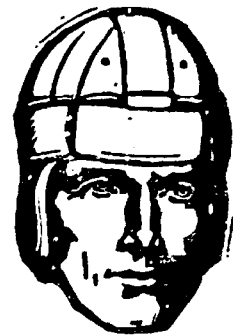

OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS

The University High School basketball team is making rapid progress with Mr. Harris as coach. Although a number of the best players graduated last year, the outlook is bright for this year's season. The line-up will be about as follows:

- Moore Center
- Rich Forward
- Tomlinson Forward
- Brandon Guard
- Greer Guard

Frosh: Professor, I can't go to class today.

- Prof.: Why?
- Frosh: I don't feel well.
- Prof.: Where don't you feel well?
- Frosh: In class.

Course in Marketing Offered Winter Term

GENERAL STUDY OF FUNCTIONS OF MARKETING TO BE STRESSED IN THIS WORK

LABOR COURSE ADDED WITH SPRING TERM

PROBLEMS TO BE STUDIED FROM EMPLOYERS' AND EMPLOYEES' APPROACH

An additional increase in the curriculum of the school has been announced by the adding of two new courses in the Commercial Department. A course in Marketing will be opened this coming winter term. A course in Labor will be offered the spring term. Both courses will be given by Edward V. Miles.

These two new courses are part of the program for the development of the Commercial Department of S. I. N. U. Because of new courses in Law and other commercial work offered in the past few years, the school has been able to grant a major in commercial work beginning this year.

Marketing will take up a broad, general study of the functions of marketing such as: assembly, demand creation, transportation, storage, financing, risk, and standardization. The same attention will be given to market price, market costs, and the relation of the state to marketing.

Labor in Modern Economic Society, as the other course will be called, will provide a study of the worker in his relation to the market and the problems arising with respect to hours, wages, security, and risk such as: accidents, occupational diseases, old age, and unemployment. The problems are studied from the workers' approach through trade unionism, consumers cooperation, and legislation; from the employers' approach through trade unionism, employers' associations, scientific management, legislation, and profit sharing; and from the community approach through prohibitive legislation and arbitration.

The courses promise to offer commercial students a useful and authoritative view of marketing and labor problems of today.

Faculty News

Last Friday Dean Wham addressed a meeting of the teachers of the tricity—La Salle, Oggleby, and Peru. Mr. Mason, who is superintendent of the Oggleby schools, is a member of our board of trustees.

We are all very glad to hear that Mr. Pardees' wife, who is in the hospital from an operation, is recovering very nicely.

Last Friday Dr. Merwin drove to Bloomington, Illinois to visit the practice school there.

Mr. Lentz delivered a series of lectures at the Clinton County Institute last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Mr. Felts talked before the Brotherhood of the Baptist church at Centralia last Wednesday night.
Misses Kellogg, Van Trump, Hawkins, and Rayburn went to St. Louis last Saturday.

Miss Kelsey entertained Misses Fox, Jonah, and Barbour, at supper Tuesday, November 5.

Friday, November 1, Misses Shank and Durham entertained Misses Jonah and Fox at breakfast.

Last week Mr. Bryant took his law class to Murphysboro to hear the Circuit Court which is in session there now. They heard the murder case of the People of the State of Illinois vs. Lyman-Grogan.

Mrs. Adena Marberry entertained the A. A. U. W. at tea last Friday afternoon from four until six o'clock. The A. A. U. W. is a national organization of college women. As soon as the Normal receives Class A standing, the group of women on the campus who already belong, hope to make the graduates of this school eligible by asking that the school be placed on the recognized list. They have started a student loan fund and will soon be able to help some of the students who are not quite able to finance their education.

Mr. Logan delivered a lecture before the St. Clair County Institute at Freeburg, Illinois, last Friday.

Bradham's, and Hall's gains. Normal punted and Shurtleff retailed with a first and almost a record first down. Woll went romping for eleven yards, and Hall punted over the end zone. Canada got Johnson for a loss and Shurtleff kicked as the quarter ended with all even.

Normal made two first downs, but an incomplete pass over the goal line gave Shurtleff the ball on their own twenty-yard line. Shurtleff was penalized and they punted. Woll returned the ball from the middle of the field to Shurtleff's twenty-yard line. Carbondale made eight yards and gained ten more when Medler interfered with a pass to Scott. Shurtleff's line got air tight, and Normal was forced to kick for a score.

Bradham kicked, Shurtleff gained with passes. Normal defended with punts, and recovered the second one on Shurtleff's twenty-yard line. Martin made five yards and the game ended with a forgotten pass.
