ROBERT WEEDE TO PRESENT COOPERATIVE CONCERT APRIL 27

When Robert Weede appeared in Shryock Auditorium March 30, 1944, he struck an everlasting friendship with this part of the state, as evidenced among Southern Illinoisans. Through the renewed efforts of the Carbondale Community Concert Association, Weede has been contracted to sing again, as the lack in a series of concerts for the current season. This concert is being presented in Shryock Auditorium, April 27, at 8:00 p. m.

First night, singing in a movie theater. He was invited to sing on the first and after the picture, making two performances each night, for six nights each week. The fee that he received for these duties was but $30.00 a week, but to him this made him a professional.

Soon afterward he was chosen, by a friend, to see George Castelle, one of the outstanding voice teachers in Baltimore. Immediately upon hearing his voice Castelle offered to coach Weede, and made the assumption that Weede might be allowed to sing with the Company Opera Company, when the Company Opera is in the city of Baltimore. This company held a contest in each town that it visited, in which the two best voices of those selected were given the award of being allowed to appear with the regular company, as a part of the regular cast.

True to Castelle's assumption, Weede entered the contest and won. In his first triumph he appeared with the Baltimore Opera Company. The other winner of the award was the now-famous Hilda Burke, who sang Sautiers. For all Weede's success in this contest, he continued his studies at the Easton School of Music, under Charles Thomas.

In 1932 Weede won the Caruso Memorial Foundation Award, the highest award in the field of vocal art. He was invited to sing in the Metropolitan Opera, and later that year he took long walks through the woods and fields, accompanied only by his favorite cat. When he was in the woods, he would ride his horse back riding throughout this same section of the country, running errands for any of those who were in need.

Weede's father died, leaving the young virtuoso under the guidance of his mother and sister. He realized the great caliber of the boy's voice, and saw his enthusiasm for further instruction, when he sang his vocal renditions while working in the garden, or when he took time off from his dinner hour to practice with a piano.

The young virtuoso was sent to the Christian Brothers' School in Baltimore, where he attended high school. He became a great pride to the school, and he was given executive opportunity in the yearly plays, which were given in a large Baltimore theatre.

At the age of 19 he received his 76 STUDENTS REGISTER FOR BLOOD BANK

Seventy-six students registered last week for donations of blood plasma to the Red Cross Blood Bank, which is to be in Carbondale Tuesday, April 24. Registration on this occasion was completed last week.

A mobile unit of the Red Cross will be at the first Red Cross church, April 24, to receive donations between 10 a. m. and 1:45 p. m.

Students donors between the ages of 18 and 21 must have the written consent of their parents, and a period at least 10 days right before must have elapsed since the last donation of plasma.

Transportation to and from the church will be furnished by the donors.

ENID S. PUGH, GUEST OF S.C.F., ENJOYS VISIT Goddard, Mataya, Chandler Top Three, in Recent Campus Student Organizational Selection

In an interview Tuesday, April 17, Miss Enid S. Pugh said she had enjoyed her visit on Southern's campus, in connection with the Student Volunteer Movement. She also said that she was impressed with the religious attitude of the students to whom she had talked. Miss Pugh was a guest here Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday.

Miss Pugh went to Shurtleff College at Alton, Ill., from Southern. She will visit the campuses of McKendree College, Augustana College, and McWright College. Miss Pugh has spoken on forty campuses in the mid-west, particularly in Indiana, Iowa, and Illinois.

Miss Pugh is now planning to go to India this summer or probably in the fall. She has studied one language in India, and undoubtedly will be located in the northeast part of India. Her work in India will be with the village women. She wants to teach the women and villagers to read and to help others in standing out of illiteracy.

Miss Pugh's visit here was for the purpose of enlisting student contributions for missionary work. The Foreign Mission Agency want 1000 volunteers for immediate appointment and to send 2500 additional workers at some time during the war. The National Missions Agencies need thousands of volunteers to work among migrants, unlettered, untrained people, and in rural communities. The Student Volunteer Movement is a very busy of enlisting these workers.

Miss Pugh read from a pamphlet a few things telling what the Student Volunteer Movement is. This organization enlists students for missionary vocations, serve all denominational home and foreign missions agencies, receive a commission of church before American students, contacts campuses through a travel agent, is recruited locally by selected students and volunteers, is supported by a thousand friends and volunteers and is a very busy organization.

ROBERT WEEDE

The story of Robert Weede, famed American baritone of the Metropolitan Opera, is one that everyone is interested in, for as he is typically American. It presents one of the hardest-fought success stories of our times. Weede's story has many aspects of particular interest, for instance, he is American, and typically so, like many of the other great voices to America's credit, Eddy Anderson, Crooks, Jepson, and Maynor, to name but a few. Even for such great voices as these the unimagined elements of time and luck are very important.

Weede was born, and spent his early years on a farm near Baltimore, Md. As a youngster he was a great lover of the vast outdoors, and many of the neighbors still remember how, when but a youngster, he took long walks through the woods and fields, accompanied only by his favorite cat. When he was in the woods, he would ride his horse back riding throughout this same section of the country, running errands for any of those who were in need.

Weede's father died, leaving the young virtuoso under the guidance of his mother and sister. SAMPLE BALLOT

FLORINE SCHLUETER
MIOGENE GRAY

The eyes of the world will be focused on SAN FRANCISCO where the United Nations will meet on April 25 to draft a charter for a general international organization to insure future peace. The DUMBARTON OAKS PROPOSALS will be the basis for discussion.

On October 9, 1944, President Roosevelt told the nation that DUMBARTON OAKS represents "a major objective for which this war is being fought and as such inspires the highest hopes of the millions of fathers and mothers whose sons and daughters are engaged in the terrible struggle and suffering of war." The projected general organization which will be cemented at San Francisco and then submitted to the respective governments for ratification is regarded as the keystone of the arch which will include various specialized economic and social agencies to be established.

The proposed organization would operate in the field of security in an effort to prevent the outbreak of war by encouraging peaceful adjustment, by removing threats to the peace and by suppressing breaches of the peace, by combined force, if necessary. In the field of economic and social cooperation it would facilitate solutions of international economic, social and other humanitarian problems and promote respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms.

The main bodies through which the objectives would be accomplished are: a GENERAL ASSEMBLY, composed of representatives of all member states, in which each state would have one vote; a SECURITY COUNCIL, composed of representatives of 11 member states. The United States, Great Britain, Russia and China, eventually France, would have permanent seats, while six states would be elected for two-year terms by the General Assembly. An INTERNATIONAL COURT OF JUSTICE, A SECRETARIAT, AN ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL, composed of representatives of 18 member states chosen by the General Assembly for three years; and a MILITARY STAFF COMMITTEE, composed of the Chiefs of Staff of permanent members of the Security Council with provision for the participation by other states when necessary.

The primary responsibility of the GENERAL ASSEMBLY will be to initiate studies for promotion of international cooperation, make recommendations for coordinating policies of the specialized agencies; elect the non-permanent members of the Security Council and all members of the Economic and Social Council; be responsible for the finances of the organization.

The SECURITY COUNCIL will be empowered to investigate any dispute which might lead to international friction; call upon states to settle disputes by peaceful means; recommend procedures of methods of adjustment of disputes; take any measures necessary to maintain and restore peace; employ air, naval, land forces to maintain or restore peace. As the principal judicial organ the INTERNATIONAL COURT OF JUSTICE would consider and render judgments in disputes referred to it which can be settled upon the basis of rules of law.

The ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL acting under authority of General Assembly would facilitate solutions of international economic, social, and other humanitarian problems; promote respect for fundamental freedoms and recommend coordination of such agencies as the projected United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, the International Labor Organization, the proposed International Monetary Fund and International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (Bretton Woods proposals) and other agencies in field of education, health, etc.

SO FAR, SO GOOD

Perhaps the most shocked man in the nation over the President's untimely and unfortunate death was Harry S. Truman. For it is he who has to fill the boots of the fallen commander. Within two and one-half hours notice, he was burdened with one of the most responsible positions in the world. As he put it, "The weight of the moon and stars fell on me this afternoon." At the most, this was an understatement.

But if President Truman's sense of responsibility was deep enough to have a conception of the magnitude of the duties he had to perform, he made the first step toward success. The loss was magnified in the sense that F.D.I.'s experience and ability were most needed at this particular phase of events.

Mr. Roosevelt had just entered the fourth term of office, which called for changes and replacements in responsible positions. Most of these officials have already been doing an efficient job for quite some time, and it is not at all likely that these men, mostly military leaders, would be replaced. But a few men, Henry Wallace and Edward Stettinius most notably, had yet to be completely oriented to their new positions. In a burst of emotionalism, President Truman declared that no sweeping changes in the policies or personnel would be made—just now. But before the week-end had slipped westward, rumors were circulating of sweeping changes slated for the future.

Gradually, as the new President molds and shapes changes must be expected in order to carry out new ideas which will, if he is capable, develop—and new methods and interpretations of the ideals of America will be formulated. Mr. Truman has already discovered what a difference the Vice makes on a man's title. He had been charged to "attend all the social functions and procedures which the President is prevented, by duties, from attending." Now he is charged with a huge share of the responsibility of creating a decent peace. That he can achieve, through willingness to concentrate on laborious tasks, and put his pleasing personality and youthful physical vigor to work.

Just how successful the foreign policies, power and position of this nation under the new administrator will be, will largely be determined by the outcome of conferences at San Francisco. Whether Edward Stettinius, recently launched at Secretary of State, will be able to navigate the stormy straits of the Golden Gate, is also to be left to speculation.

Of the two courses open to the new leader, success by new, fresh life blood or failure by inexperienced hands, it seems most likely that the former could, and by willful popular support, be a success.

Mr. Truman's speeches so far have proved to be only orations, designed to gain support for his administration, but not to formulate new policies. Most observers said that he had made very favorable impressions, and that with proper support he could develop into one of the most influential and dynamic leaders.

OBITUARY

The G. I. columnist, Ernie Pyle, has been listed among the casualties from the Japanese Theater of War. Pyle, who became one of the greatest newspapermen of World War II, was described as the fox-hole correspondent. He covered the progress of the war from England and North Africa, and except for a short furlough, in France until the Germans were being driven out. He recently went to the Pacific.

Pyle's graphic descriptions of the fighting men are recorded in two best-sellers, "Brave Men" and "Here Is Your War". The Pulitzer prize was awarded him for his work in telling the story of the American fighting men as the American boys wanted it told.

Pyle died with the men he loved and immortalized. He was buried in an army cemetery in the Ryukyus.

Resources Abundant
in Southern Illinois

By ELIZABETH POWELL.
 Southern Illinois is among the richest sections of the country in natural resources. Among these resources there is an abundance of coal and water which contribute to the coal industry.

Coal mines in Southern Illinois make up approximately one-half produced in the state. The Illinois coal output of 1943 in which coal is mined produced $5,553,942 tons of bituminous coal in 1943. This coal sells at the approximate rate of three dollars a ton to factories throughout the nation. Illinois has an estimated coal reserve of one hundred and fifty billion tons and if these mines continue at their present scale of production, they can operate from two hundred to three hundred years without exhausting the known available resources.

The Ohio, Mississippi, Big Muddy, Ohio, and Cache, Big Bay and Saline rivers flow through Egypt furnishing a water supply of 218,000 cfs. At the present time, 10,000 acre feet of water while the two subsidiary lakes have an area of 54,000 acre feet.

The production of petroleum has recently increased in Southern Illinois. Since 1937, the oil produced in this area has increased from 12,000 to 218,000 barrels. At the present time, Illinois is producing about 10% of the nation's supply of petroleum.

Fluorspar, a valuable mineral used in making steel and aluminum products, is found chiefly in Hardin county. Clay, slate and limestone are also found in this area. The output amounts to nearly one-fourth of the total mined in the United States.

Limestone deposits are present in a number of counties of Southern Illinois and there are several undeveloped fields which could be exploited. Lead and zinc ore are found in commercial quantities in Hardin county. Clay, slate and limestone for the manufacture of brick and tile are fairly abundant at different locations in the area.

STUDENT COUNCIL MINUTES

April 11, 1945.
 The meeting was called to order by the president and the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Simpson, Darnall, and Rapp were absent.

The president welcomed Leroy Scott, the newly elected Freshman member to the Council.

The election committee announced that a majority vote was not cast for the ratification of the proposed Council constitution. It was decided to postpone another vote on this constitution until the time of the Council elections for next year, which are held in May. Tuesday, April 17, there will be nominations for a sophomore member to replace Jess Darnall. The president nominated Rollin Dallas to take Darnall's place as chairman of the board committee.

George Schroeder was unanimously elected by the Council as the student body at the inauguration and luncheon for President Lay. The meeting was adjourned.

ROAD TO SAN FRANCISCO

VOICE OF S.I.N.U.

Dear Editor:—
 I am sure that many comments (unfavorable) about the condition of the fountain between Old Main and the Gym. (The kids with the mud on their faces in the middle of the day) are a letter stating (favorably) that I really like the change in the fountain, and although there has been a lot of water falling to the town—I still appreciate the mud over the umbrella. May I take this means of thanking you who were responsible for this improvement. And I like the FISH (the ones in the fountain) too.
 Sincerely,
 N. E.

Dear Editor:—
 As I was in the library at the auditorium the other night at the Little Theatre play, I noticed that the late-President Rosebud Pulliam's portrait with having the students at Southern.

I feel that the President should arrange to have President Pulliam's portrait moved to a more conspicuous and honorable place. I don't feel alone in my suggesting, such. It is the wish of the campus.
 Sincerely,
 H. K. J.

Dear Editor:—
 Since when did Franklin D. Roosevelt become a member of the United States of America because of the world? I am literally ashamed to say that the general feeling of this campus is: "Oh, he's just another man dead—just another citizen. Why should I say anything about his death?"

While the rest of the schools of our country took the day off to mourn his passing, we do not even so much as hear the news of his death in many of the class rooms. Are we so selfish that we don't care about anyone? If we get the day off when one of our former teachers die, but when the President of the United States dies, we continue as if nothing has happened. The man who would have written the peace of the world. The man who was to direct the San Francisco Conference. The man who held the major part of the destiny of the world on his shoulders. We pay no tribute. We continue our regular grind. It has come to the conclusion that we are so selfish that we don't care about the future destiny of the United States of America. If we were not that selfish, we would not take the passing of our Leader so lightly.
 Respectfully,
 V. R. K.

Dear Editor:—
 Why not delegate April 25 as a day of class discussion on the San Francisco conference? A meeting of such worldwide importance, it seems fitting that some time and attention should be devoted to understanding the student body. If not that, why not a special assembly, with a faculty round table discussion on the matter, and an open forum following.

Of course, with the present temper of the students body concerning interest in world affairs, perhaps some could not even be shaken from the lethargic state in which the very event were being held in Carbondale or on the campus here.

All of which is another argument for continued attempt at student enlightenment.
 P. D. W.

Dear Editor:—
 Of all the unfortunate times to fix the floor in the Library this is it. Perhaps the powers that be are not informed of the fact that at least 200 students are writing term papers this term. All the freshmen 100 English courses are busy preparing through magazines, books in order to find necessary material. Likewise for other classes and the more important task of winning the peace.

At the first of the week Mr. Truman met the Congress to state his plans and ask for the cooperation of all concerned in ending the conflict in which we are engaged at the present time. I can think of no one who would honestly envy his shoes.

In spite of our disarrangements as to political parties we owe it to the country as a whole to work with the math and to do our best toward accomplishing our main objective. At least we can give him a chair to see what he can do.
 R. McF.

SMITH CONTINUES LEAD IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT; SHEFFER RUNNING MATE

By TED FIELDS

The round robin tournament is well underway now and the fellows are really beginning to prove their worth. Because of bad weather this past week, not too many matches have been played, but the Southerners have really begun to show their enthusiasm for competition.

As the third week rolls away, we find Paul Smith leading the tournament. Smith has twelve points and is four points ahead of his nearest contender, who is Don Sheffer. "Smitty" really has something on the ball. Smith is proving his worth and is by far in the top bracket of Southern's tennis players.

Don Sheffer, a Southern basketball letterman of last season, is in full shape and if figures and form

He was fortunate in winning one track letter at Community. This was during the junior year; there was no track team at the high school he attended during his senior year.

The members of the basketball team were guests of the Lions Club at their dinner on Friday, April 13.

Sam Mitrosvich, a Sophomore from Glasgow, was elected captain of the 1945-46 basketball team last week.

On Monday evening, April 16, at 6:00 the "T" Club members and their guests went to O'Neil City park for a picnic. Although it rained all day Monday, the clouds cleared away about an hour before the picnic and it turned into a beautiful evening. About thirty were present; there was plenty of food and everyone had an enjoyable time. The picnic was chartered by Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin and Mrs. Martin. The only thing lacking was that Coach Lingle was not there to compete with Robert and Tweedy in the "dog eating contest."

CAMPUS BULLETINS

There will be a meeting of the Girls' Glee Club on Monday, April 23, at 4:00 p. m. in the Little Theatre. Both actives and pledges are asked to be present.

There will be an important meeting of the old members of the Sphinx Club Monday, April 23, at 4:00 in Dr. Bart's office.

KAPPA PHI
The Alpha Epsilon Chapter of Kappa Phi held the regular meeting at the Student Lounge at 7:00 p. m. Tuesday, April 17. Routine business was transacted—paying of dues, and the discussion of ways and means of replenishing the treasury. The coming program for the next few weeks was somewhat modified. Miss Alma Parrar gave a devotional and dismissed the meeting.

McCarty and Avis teamed with good results, especially in their well-acted love scenes. In contrast to Avis, Mulkins, who played Tommy, appeared immature and melodramatic. McCarty and Woodard, however, were suited in their dressable stage positions which were varied, but little throughout the entire play. The charwoman, June Fulkerston, not only gave the second act a banging good start but also banded her very few lines with expert gestures and voice control. As a whole, the play registered

What would YOU do with $200,000,000?

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad in 1944 received $225,000,000 as income, principally from carrying freight, passengers, express and mail.

Here's what it did with the money: $84,700,000 went to 34,200 employees to wage; $63,700,000 to the public in taxes; $23,100,000 to industry for materials; $12,300,000 for depreciation and amortization; $10,700,000 for locomotive fuel.

$8,000,000 to bondholders for interest; $8,150,000 to stockholders for dividends. These plus certain minor charges amounted to $215,000,000, leaving a balance of $10,000,000 to apply on debt reduction, improvements to property, and for other purposes. The balance represents only 1.9% of the L&N's investment in property, amounting to nearly $540,000,000. Thus, all interests of the South—homes, families, schools, merchants, mines, industries—benefited from 95 years. The Old Reliable has had the privilege and obligation of cooperating in the South's development. When peace comes, it will improve its service and multiply its effort.
