VOLUME 35 CARBONDALE, ILLINOIS, FRIDAY, APRIL 9, 1954 No. 44

Six Students In Race For Miss Carbondale

Six of the contestants for the title Miss Carbondale are SIU students. Three are members of Delta Sigma Epsilon sorority. They are Pat Rauh, Christine Young, and Roberta Phillips. The other three students are Dixie Buan, Delta Zeta, Barbara Barrett, Sigma Sigma Sigma, and Nancy Forsythe. Two identical girls, Pat Goodman, and Sidney Mofield complete the list of candidates.

The presentation will be made at the Carbondale Armory tomorrow night at 7:30 in the form of a beauty pageant. Following the pageant there will be a dance with music by the Southern All-Stars. The dance, which is not formal, will cost $1 per person advance sale, and $1.25 per person at the door.

Christine Minckler, another student won the title last year, and went on to place third in the contest for Miss Illinois.

Eugene Conley Here Monday

Eugene Conley, American tenor star of the Metropolitan Opera, will present the final program of this season's Carbondale Community Concerts in Shyrock Auditorium at 8 p. m. Monday, April 12.

During the 1952-53 Met season, he was chosen for the newly staged production of "La Boheme" and later for the role of the Duke in the U. S. premiere of Stravinsky's "The Rake's Progress."

In 1951, he became the first U. S. born-and-trained tenor to be honored by opening the La Scala season in the early produced "I Vesperi Siciliani."

As celebrated in radio as in opera, Conley is a frequent guest on radio and TV programs and is a London EFR recording star. In the movies, he sang the voice of "Faust" in the Italian film of that opera. He was featured by 20th Century Fox in one of its famous "Oz Men

Deadline For Vaudeville Acts Set For Monday

Monday will be the deadline for entering acts in the Vaudeville show for this year's Spring Festival, said Juanita Peradotto, co-chairman of the Vaudeville show committee this week. Individuals of groups who wish to try out for the show should contact her, she said.

Pan-American Festival Slated For Next Week

A former Paraguayan diplomat and public official, Dr. Pablo M. Ynsfran, will address SIU students and faculty during the Pan American Festival to be held on campus during the week of April 12.

Dr. Ynsfran, now a professor in the Institute of Latin-American studies at the University of Texas, will speak on "Pan Americanism: An Ideal, a Fact, and a Challenge" at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday, April 13 in the Little Theatre, Aligned Hall.

Emphasize Human Relations In New Personnel Management Curriculum

A new curriculum in personnel management "with emphasis on human relations" was announced today by SIU.

The program of study, scheduled to be introduced next fall, will offer students opportunity to concentrate on economics, business administration and psychology leading to a bachelor of science degree.

Students working under the new curriculum will take a major in business administration, according to Dr. Guy W. Trump, department chairman. At the same time, they will be taking courses in psychology to learn the "human side" of personnel work.

Council Selects New Members

Mary Ann Narusz, West Frankfort senior, and Bill Young, Carbondale senior, were named to the Student Council Tuesday at their regular meeting. Mary Ann will fill the position vacated by Nan Vam-Matre who graduated at the end of winter term. Young will replace Jack Benfro who resigned from the Council.

Jim Garfile, Thompsonville junior, has been selected as a replacement for Jerry Hawkins, Council treasurer, who resigned last week.

In other action Tuesday, the Council set May 12 as the date for campus spring elections. Homecoming chairman and Student Council members are elected at this time.

Mathematics Teachers Meet Here Yesterday. Area mathematics teachers convened at SIU yesterday for a meeting sponsored by the Illinois Council of Teachers of Mathematics, the Education Association, and the SIU mathematics department.

Lois Kalla Named As SIU College Queen Candidate

Lois Kalla, Chicago freshman, was selected Tuesday as Southern's candidate for "College Queen of America." She was picked by members of the Student Council to enter the contest which annually selects a girl from one of the university's college campuses from photographs submitted by her.

Entries are judged entirely upon photographs, one of which is a head portrait, and the other a full length view. The five finalists are flown to Hollywood May 19 to appear on "Queen For A Day" television show.

The queen candidates will spend the weekend in Hollywood with visits to night clubs, movie studios, and dress designers.

Lois, who is an elementary education major, was selected as this week's EGYPTIAN Pin-up. She is a member of Delta Sigma Epsilon sorority.

President Speaks At IV Meeting

"Reality in Education" is the topic of a speech by President Delvite W. Morris at the silver anniversary banquet of the Illinois Vocational Association in Springfield tomorrow.

Other members of the SIU faculty on convention programs are Dr. Viola Du Frain, business department; Mrs. Ruth Adams, Mrs. Mary Barnes, Dr. Anna Fuls, Miss Marjorie Savage, and Miss Helen Stark, home economics; Dean Ernest Simon of VIT; S. S. Shake, supervisor of drawing; and John F. Plummer, Jr., University School instructor.

Future Student Teacher Meeting April 13-14

There will be a meeting of all students who plan to practice teaching tomorrow, April 13 and April 14 at 3 p. m. each day. However, students need attend only one of the meetings.

Held in the Studio Theatre of University School, the meetings will feature discussion of questions students may have about practice teaching assignments and filling out application blanks for the student teaching program.

Greek Week Steering Committee

THESE PEOPLE will be guiding the 1954 annual Greek Week May 17-21. Steering from the left, are Ruth Hoffman, co-chairman, Gary Livingston, Ray Krug, Roger Gullop, Roger Aydt and Bob Eberding, co-sponsor. Seated are Juanita Peradotto, Pat Priest, Mary Griever, Helen Ognonski, Dr. Elizabeth Greenleaf, co-sponsor, and Alice Simmons.

The Illinois Vocational Association is composed of teachers, supervisors, and administrators in agriculture, business, home economics, industrial education, and guidance and special education. Dr. Eileen Quigley, chairman of the home economics department, is president of the group.

The 3000 members and friends of the association attending the convention yesterday, today, and tomorrow have their headquarters at the Leland Hotel, Springfield.

European Tours At Low Rates Open To Students

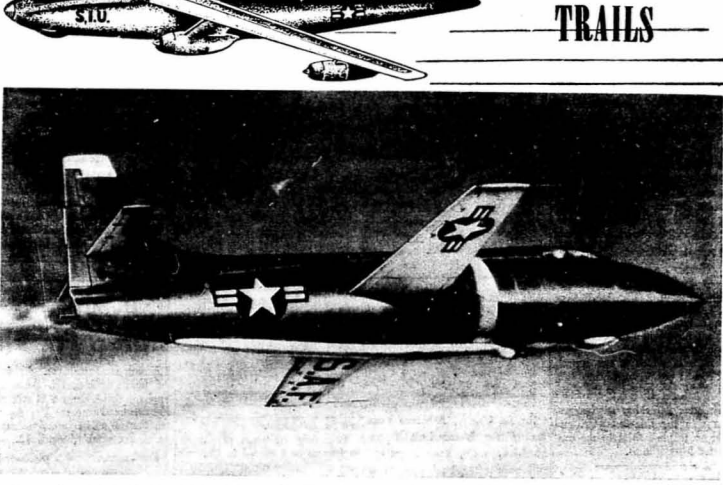

A seminar tour in Europe and a tour by bicycle is available to SIU students through the Institute of European Studies.
 "The tours are designed to give American students personal introductions to various European countries. The students obtain invaluable personal contact with the country and its people which is unattainable through the customary sightseeing tours," said the Institute.

THE SEMINAR TOUR in Europe is open to both students and instructors. The price is $800—based on the exchange rates effective Jan. 1, 1954. The group will be directed by Dr. Robert Mueller-Sternberg from the Institute of European Studies in Vienna.
 The price of the bicycle tour is $690 which includes ocean passage, transportation, accommodation, tips, sightseeing, lectures and tour directions. Participants will stay in youth hotels and hotels. Three meals a day are included according to the custom of the country.
THE TOUR is under the direction of Dr. Clement de Haas from the University of Leuven. Students will secure bicycles and equipment such as sleeping bags and saddle bags in Europe.
 Students will sail from Quebec, Canada, June 12 on the "Grote Beer." They will return to New York City Sept. 10 on the westbound "Sibajak."
THE LIST of colorful places is extensive—Frankfurt, Heidelberg, Tubingen, Strassburg, Lucerne, Geneva, Cote d'Azur, Paris, Reims, Brussels, London . . . many more.
 Additional information may be obtained from Norbert May at the SIU foreign language annex.

AFROTC VAPOR TRAILS

The world's fastest aircraft, Bell's X-1A, is pictured in flight. Designed for experimental work, the X-1A was flown at twice the speed of sound by Maj. Charles Yeager.

By Philip Meagher
 There has been more work done on the Certificate of Completion for AFROTC graduates who do not qualify for immediate commissions. The latest development comes from Washington and was reported in the recent issue of the AF Times.
ACCORDING TO THE Times, Assistant Letense Secretary John Hannah has asked the Air Force to consider giving non-commissioned ratings to the approximately 4800 seniors graduating this Spring who are either not willing or not eligible to fly. Univ. Dr. Hannah brought up the NCO idea, the matter was thought to be pretty settled with the commissioning of those who elect flight training and certifying those who do not.

SOME OF THE arguments of Dr. Hannah's suggestion are: (1) "Presumably the ratings would be drawn from the already low quota of NCO grades which would be a low blow to internal morale." (2) Classification problems would affect since the graduates would lack sufficient technical training in most career fields. (3) Some officials find in the idea of giving ROTC graduates NCO grades is in conflict with the AF's earlier philosophy on grade determination for ex-officers. Those officers who were released last year with no statutory claim to higher airman ranks were permitted to re-enlist in grades no higher than A1C.

Two SIU Graduates Commissioned

GEORGE H. FLEERLAGE, left, and Jim Schmalbach have recently completed their officer's training course and have received commissions. Fleerlage, an English major, has been commissioned an Ensign in the Navy in the Officer Candidate School at Newport, R.I. Schmalbach, who was selected Most Valuable Fraternity Man in 1954 is now a Marine Second Lieutenant. Both are 1953 graduates.

a daytime fighter. In the 650-mph class, the new fighter has a combat radius of more than 600 miles and a service ceiling exceeding 45,000 feet.
 The X-1A, a special research plane, was flown at more than twice the speed of sound by Maj. Charles Yeager.
THE FIRST AIRCRAFT to feature variable sweep-back wings, the F-105 was also the first of the nation's research planes to make a cross-country flight.
 The "Firebee," Q-2 Drone, an all-metal pilotless target aircraft developed to use in air-to-air gunnery training, was publicly demonstrated.

NOTICE
 Seniors planning to enter graduate schools during the coming year should note if they are required to submit scores from the Graduate Record Examination.
 A test center for the May 1 administration of this six hour examination has been established at SIU. Students interested in taking this examination must submit their applications to Educational Testing Service of New Jersey before April 16.

Application blanks and bulletins of information may be had by contacting Dr. Graham in the Office of Student Affairs.
 Students desiring further information about this examination or other tests need for admission to graduate schools may contact Dr. Graham.

A RECENT ARTICLE in the magazine Air Force listed the top developments in the field of military aircraft were the following:
 RB-36J-F8 4 (Convair and Republic) Intensive flight tests, "parasite" F-84 was repeatedly released and retrieved by a "mother" RB-36J while in flight.
 B-47 (Boeing) The role of aerial refueling in extending strategic operational range was emphasized in the 13,025 mile non-stop flight of a B-47.
 The twin-jet B-57A night intruder was placed in production. A USAF-modified version of the British Canberra, the B-57 A uses two 1,657 hp engines.
THE F-8B is designed to operate as a fighter-bomber as well as

A History Of Convenience

Some Europeans insist that Americans have no sense of history. This statement was commented on in a recent edition of a college magazine. Historian C. Vann Woodward of Johns Hopkins University says that the notion is pure bunk. He further states that Americans have such an exaggerated sense of history that they use it as a prop to explain or excuse every conceivable type of policy or position. This "swollen sense of the past" is explained as having come to serve Americans as a source of folklore, myth and legend that seems essential to the spiritual comfort of a people in time of stress. Other nations were born to a heritage of a long and mythic pre-historic past that provided a limitless source of myth and legend. But the American past belonged entirely within the historic era. To compensate for the loss, Americans set about populating their wilderness with folk gods from their own history. The Lincoln legend has been sent to accommodate almost every shade of opinion. At the same time that the Communists were claiming him, Lincoln was also hailed patron saint by the Vegetarians, the Socialists, and Prohibitionists, and a proponent of Union Now—not to mention the Republicans and Democrats. . . . As Senator Everett Dirksen once said, "the first task of the politician is to get right with Lincoln."

 To use the past, they also try to control it. Recently there has been a flurry of revising history textbooks in an effort to "bring them up to date." Although this is not an attempt to obliterate from memory public heroes, events and policies that are inconvenient, nevertheless smacks of manipulation. Much as the historian may want to, he must never concede that this is alterable to conform with present convenience, or that history must be an oracle that has an answer appropriate to every occasion.

Book Reviews

By Art Trippel
The Conquest of Mount Everest is a book written the latter part of last year by Sir John Hunt with the able assistance of the New Zealand climber Sir Edmund Hillary, is a detailed, rapid-fire, factual account of the extensive preparations and explorations made preceding Sir John's final successful assault on the world's highest peak in May, 1953. The main portion of the book is written by Hunt, the leader of the triumphant historical group. One chapter however, is written by Hillary, and it is based on the final, successful ascent and the attainment of the very top point. These two, Hunt and Hillary, made up the victorious two-member team.

 Dear Editor,
 In reference to your article, "Sleep That Knits" in the Feb. 28 edition of the Egyptian, I would like to offer some comments.
 First of all I would like you to know that I am of the same opinion that you are. For quite some time now, I have been disturbed over the problem of why the members of the various censorship boards have been running good material for the benefit of a few so called "insiders." I believe that the people realize how much they could benefit by some of these educational movies and books that have been sliced to pieces because a one sided committee decides that it is too blunt for society.
 We live in an age and time where nothing comes as a surprise anymore.
 We Americans, by virtue of heritage, are supposed to be an intelligent set of people. But to deprive a nation of entertainment because a few religious fanatics and cranks are afraid to face reality is not my idea of sound thinking.
 The only way that we can ascertain whether normal people agree with the censorship board is to experiment and then to decide whether their reaction indicates they are at a level where they can view some of this "raw" material without branding it as filthy and lewd.
 While I am not advocating the use of pornographic or really indecent material, I think that if one were to come out on the open for public observation, I am quite sure that if a census were taken you would find that the average American is so facts and not deviation.
 We are not too far future leaders of this country. Upon our shoulders rests the task of maintaining and securing its economy as well as its citizens. The best way that I can think of making our introduction to the world is to open our eyes to some of the things that are going on in this country.
