Sex bias case dismissal recommended

A hearing officer for the Illinois Fair Employment Practices Commission (IFEPC) has recommended dismissal of a 1972 sex discrimination complaint filed against SIU.

John W. Huffman, SIU legal counsel, said he received the notice Friday morning in the case involving Carolyn Weiss, former staff assistant in the cartographic laboratory. He said the IFEPC will decide whether to accept the hearing officer's recommendation in about three weeks.

Weiss joined the SIU faculty in 1970.

She received notice in 1972 that her position would be terminated because of budget cutbacks. Weiss filed complaints with the IFEPC and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) charging SIU with sex discrimination.

She contended that her termination was not part of a budget cutback because male administrators had received substantial salary increases. Weiss also charged that she had been discriminated against because she was not allowed to change her contract from a term appointment to a continuing appointment as a male employe had. She also charged that the cartographic laboratory had not been eliminated but had been transferred to the geography department.

HEW ruled in favor of Weiss in 1973 but the University filed a response and has not heard from the department since then, said Huffman.

The IFEPC hearing three years ago lasted 23 days with substantial evidence presented on both sides, Huffman said.

Grade school board calls public meeting

By Debbie Drew
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A special public meeting to discuss teacher layoffs and budget matters has been called by the Board of Education of Carbondale Elementary School District 95 at the request of the Carbondale Education Association (CEA).

The meeting is tentatively scheduled for April 29 at the Carbondale Savings and Loan Association.

Board President Donald Tindall also announced Thursday that the board had offered the position of superintendent of schools to a candidate outside the district and has given him two weeks to respond.

The board had hoped to name the new superintendent by April 1, but Tindall said the board was giving the candidate more time to consider.

The board scheduled the public meeting after receiving a letter from CEA. The letter, read by Linda Wilson, president of CEA, asked the board to call a special public meeting to explain its decision March 24 to eliminate 13 teaching positions for the 1976-77 school year.

The letter stated that members of CEA "strongly disagree" with the board's action. It stated that elimination of the Spanish instructor would keep district students from being exposed to a second language, that elimination of the Director of In-Service Training would allow "less than qualified" teachers to get tenure and that the quality of education would be hurt by increased class size.

The letter also stated that the district teachers are "perplexed" about the board's inaction in trying to secure an override of Gov. Daniel Walker's veto of the Full Funding Bill, which would have given schools the money needed to balance their budgets.

Superintendent Lawrence Martin defended the board, saying that it sent a letter to the governor and talked with state legislators about full funding.

Wilson told the board it should not view the letter as an attack. "It is not an attempt to get everyone emotionally charged, but an attempt to get together and talk about this as an educational community, not in our own individual bodies," she said.

After hearing Wilson, Board President Donald Tindall said the time to discuss budget matters is during the board's budget workshop in July. Board member Linda Brandon asked the board to consider talking about the budget and the teacher layoffs before July "in a room large enough for the public to attend."

"Surely, we are not going to wait until then to discuss teacher layoffs," she said. "We will lose some very good teachers."

Board member David Rosenthal said he viewed the letter as an attack on the board. He said CEA should prove that the quality of education would be hurt.

Board members James O'Donnell and Charles Reno favored the public meeting. Reno said, "We're working on a recommendation that is very flexible. Let's open it up to the public."

After unanimously passing the motion to call the public meeting, the board went into executive session. While waiting for the board to reconvene, Wilson told reporters CEA wants cooperation between the board and the teachers.

"We want everyone working together," she said. "The teachers are not objecting to the teacher cutbacks. We have our own ideas and we want to share them with the board and the administration."

Swinburne seeks fee redistribution

By Peggy Sagona
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, is drafting a new fee schedule to be presented to the Board of Trustees at its May meeting.

"Essentially, the student will be paying the same amount in fees, but it is a redistribution of the fees," he said.

Going on the assumption that the student-to-student grant program will be dropped, Swinburne wants to discontinue the collection of the $2.25 fee and increase the non-medical Student Welfare and Recreation Fee (SWRF) from $5 to $7.50, he said.

It was previously reported that Swinburne wanted to raise SWRF $3 and increase the Activity Fee 75 cents.

Swinburne decided to eliminate the increase in Activity Fees because Ellen Schanzle-Haskins, president of Graduate Student Council, and Student President Doug Diggle strongly opposed the increase.

Diggle said, "We are threatened by fee increases in so many other areas. Our business is to keep fees down, and we don't want to see any increases." Commenting on the student-to-student grant program Diggle said, "We got into it to get more money from the state, not to just collect money from the students. Personally, I am not for collecting money from students without matching funds, but if the students want it, we will keep it going," he said.

"Bruce wants to have that fee transferred to SWRF to have it there to help fund the programming for the Recreation Building," Diggle said.

"But I don't think we should remove that fee until we see if the funds will be available from the Illinois State Scholarship Commission. There is some damn good rationale for a program that is half funded by an outside source," Diggle said.

If approved, the fee schedule would be pro-rated according to how many hours a student takes. The fees would be in two categories: general fees (non-refundable) and usury fees (refundable or partially refundable).

City Council to review fire protection contracts

By Tom Chesser
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The City Council will review on Monday fire protection contracts which expire soon between the City of Carbondale and Carbondale and Makanda townships.

City Manager Carroll J. Fry said at a news conference Friday he is going to remind the council of the contracts' expiration dates and will make no recommendation for or against renewal of the contracts.

Carbondale residents are taxed to pay for stand-by fire protection while township residents surrounding the city limits pay on a per call basis included in the contract.

Fry said he was unhappy with the present contracts because the city's fire department costs were not evenly shared by all who contracted for fire protection. "Personally I don't think city fire equipment or manpower should leave the city limits," said Fry.

Annual fire department costs average $600,000 of which the University pays $100,000, Carbondale Township pays $25,000, and Makanda pays a smaller amount.

Fry said he was worried about the evaluation the city received from the rating bureau, a group of fire insurance underwriters that establishes a rating for each community. The rating affects fire insurance rates for homeowners.

Fair employment commission gets police bias complaint

A complaint alleging discrimination against the SIU Security Department has been referred to the Illinois Fair Employment Practice Commission.

Sue Kolker, director of communications for the Illinois Department of Labor, said Friday that no action has yet been taken on the complaint filed March 22 by Thomas McDaniel, 31, of Carbondale.

McDaniel charged that Security ad-

"We're expected to supply fire protection to half the county with the same manpower and equipment used to protect the city alone," Fry said.

The fire rating bureau cited three improvements needed in fire protection: a larger water supply, more fire hydrants, and better training of personnel.

Carbondale Township Supervisor W. I. Brandon said his township's fire protection bill from the city has gone from $16,000 to $25,000 in three years.

"Even though the City of Carbondale has expanded and incorporated numerous sections of the township we (the township) are asked to pay more," said Brandon.

Brandon said other alternatives to having the city fire department fight township fires would be too expensive.

Brandon said he had asked the University to join with the township to form an independent fire department, but the University renewed its fire protection contract with the city earlier this year.

Fry suggested the townships join together to create a fire protection district and tax township residents for the service.

Fry said he knew of only one other fire protection district in Southern Illinois and that was in Jefferson County.

SIU's Manager of Business Operations C. E. Peebles said the University's fire rate is set by the city at $4 per student.

ministrators subjected him to harassment which culminated in the termination of his job in 1973 for allegedly threatening to shoot Thomas Leffler, former director of Security.

Kolker said neither the Department of Labor nor the Illinois State Employment Service, with whom the complaint was first filed, could handle the case because they did not refer McDaniel to the job in the first place.

Simon favors proposal to share school funding

By Dan Hofmann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

U.S. Rep. Paul Simon, D-Carbondale, says he supports a National Educational Association proposal calling for equal funding of local school districts by state, federal and local governments.

"I like that approach because that way no one branch is dominant," Simon said. He addressed a meeting of the Parent-Teacher-Student Association of the Lincoln Junior High School by telephone at the school Thursday night.

Simon said he opposed the idea of complete funding of school districts by the federal or state governments. He said that by providing some of the funding for education, local communities would still have an input

34 killings reported in Lebanon despite truce

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The Lebanese civil war subsided Friday as a truce giving politicians another chance to end the carnage officially went into effect. Despite the agreed cease-fire, however, another 34 persons were reported killed in sporadic shooting.

Leftist Moslems and their Palestinian allies traded the gunfire with right-wing Christian militiamen along Beirut's devastated front lines. Renegade Christian and Moslem soldiers and their allied militias also exchanged light machine gun and occasional artillery fire in mountains east of the capital, police said. Incomplete police tallies said 19 persons were killed after the truce in Beirut—which began at noon, 5 a.m. EST—and another 15 in mountain towns and the northern region. But the shooting was sharply down from its ferocious level earlier this week. It was attributed to spillover—combat that has dribbled on for several days at the beginning of all 20 cease-fires in the year-old war.

European summit unites to end African crisis

LUXEMBOURG (AP)—A two-day West European summit failed Friday to agree on plans for electing a European parliament or coordinating economic policy, uniting only on a proposal for ending an African crisis. The session of the European Council brought together President Valery Giscard d'Estaing of France, Chancellor Helmut Schmidt of West Germany, outgoing Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain, Foreign Secretary James Callaghan who probably will succeed Wilson, and the heads of the other six Common Market members.

Trucking group reaches tentative agreement

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, (AP)—A trucking group employing nearly one-third of the 400,000 Teamsters on strike tentatively agreed with employes Friday on a new contract, Labor Secretary W.J. Usery Jr. announced. Other industry bargainers continued talking in efforts to end the nationwide truckers' strike that entered its second day Friday. Usery told a news conference. He called the agreement "a significant breakthrough in the negotiations."

But he added, "We are still bargaining with Trucking Employers Inc.," which represents most of the remaining firms. Usery, President Ford's top labor troubleshooter, gave no indication how close to agreement the union and remaining employers were.

U.S. employment rate reaches all-time high

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's job picture continued its steady improvement in March as the number of Americans holding jobs reached an all-time high and unemployment fell for the fifth month in a row, the government reported Friday. The jobless rate dropped from 7.6 to 7.5 per cent of the work force, marking the first time in 14 years that unemployment fell over five consecutive months. A total of seven million Americans were out of work last month, about 100,000 fewer than in February.

Total employment continued to increase, climbing by another 375,000 last month to a record 86.7 million. Women and blacks were the major beneficiaries.

Interviews begin in search for new S-Center director

William R. Foster, candidate for the office of Student Center director, has been invited to the SIU campus, said Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs.

Foster, currently director of the University Center and control services at Adelphi University in New York, will be on campus April 5 through 7.

Foster has had administrative and programming experience since 1960. He received his M.A. in Student Personnel Services in higher education from New York University in 1963 and a B.A. in Philosophy in 1959 from the university of Delaware.

A reception for students to meet the candidate will be held Tuesday from 4:15 to 5:30 p.m. in Ballroom C of the Student Center.

Foster is the first of three candidates who have been invited to the campus, Swinburne said. The second and third candidates will visit the campus the following week.

"If one of these is not selected, additional candidates will be invited," Swinburne said. Swinburne said the director of the Student Center should have solid skills in business management, student center programming and a very good ability to work with people, especially students.

The search for a Student Center director began early fall semester.

Liquor ordinance slated for City Council meeting

The Carbondale City Council will vote on an ordinance amending the city liquor code in a formal meeting 7 p.m. Monday in council chambers.

If approved, the ordinance would eliminate a liquor code requirement prohibiting the sale of liquors within 1,500 feet of a University building.

Council members will take formal action on a budget request for establishing a money and housing management program. The program would consist of trained city personnel advising and assisting lower income families in devising viable budgets and coping with individual problems.

Council members will vote on the establishment of a farmers market, proposed by Illinois South, Inc. A resolution permitting special use for Central Illinois Public Service Company to construct an electrical power substation will be reviewed.

Votes will also be taken on an ordinance establishing design standards for parking lots; an ordinance rezoning certain lands in

Lewis Park Meadows, an ordinance declaring two buildings unsafe and abandoned and three ordinances annexing properties to the city.

Council members will discuss proposed improvements for Lenus Turley Park and a request to make additional Community Development Block Grant funds available for loans.

Beg your pardon

The Daily Egyptian incorrectly reported Thursday that Rich Pere of the Student Tenant Union criticized Jackson County Health Department inspections. Pere had said the department has been very good and very responsive.

It was reported in Friday's Daily Egyptian that the new Graduate School faculty membership policy would take effect when implemented by the dean of the Graduate School, Thomas Mitchell. Mitchell said the new policy must first be voted on and approved by the graduate faculty. A thirty-day notice is required before a vote can be taken.

Advance warning needed to limit injuries, damage

By Scott G. Bandle
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

In dealing with a tornado the name of the game is warning. There is nothing that can be done to stop such a storm but, with advance warning, life and property losses can be kept to a minimum.

Keeping up with storms carrying potential tornados is a full-time job. This responsibility in Carbondale falls on the Emergency Service and Disaster Agency (ESDA) located in the Communications Building on the SIU campus.

Robert Alexander, coordinator of ESDA, said he and his staff watch for storms all the time.

"The idea of this agency is to prevent, minimize or help repair damage done by acts of nature or by man. We try to give a warning and that means watching out for weather all of the time," he said.

Constantly following weather reports on television, radio and the national weather teletype, eight volunteers in ESDA track storms from Texas and Oklahoma up to 48 hours before they hit Southern Illinois.

Potential storms are plotted on national, state, regional and local maps in the office.

Radios in the office are used to keep in touch with Southern Illinois fire departments, local law enforcement agencies, radar operators at Southern Illinois Airport and 120 volunteer storm spotters in Jackson County.

These spotters call county headquarters in Murphysboro and report the their storm situation. Numbers assigned to the spotters enable ESDA to pinpoint their location.

The airport radar will focus in the area a spotter says a severe storm is and will verify or discount the report according to what the radar readings show," Alexander said. Alexander admits even this system is not foolproof.

"A mini' tornado will come out of nowhere, do some damage and then leave. They're hard to plot because they're so quick. There isn't any way we can give a warning when a 'mini' tornado appears. Thank God, they're rare, though," he said.

Most tornados run on the ground for a while and can be plotted. Tornado sirens are not blown within an hour before a tornado is expected to hit because people might start coming out of their shelters too soon, Alexander said.

It's like the boy who cried wolf. It is important that people believe the warning sirens and they may not if there is too much time between siren and storm, he explained.

Sgt. Larry Hill of the Carbondale Police Department said the police station's main junction during a storm is to serve as a referral agency. People call in tornado sightings and the information is relayed to the ESDA.

After a tornado hits, the department becomes a reactionary force, applying first aid, directing traffic and preventing looting.

Unlike the ESDA, which is underground, the Carbondale Police station is exposed to tornado damage. Hill said if a tornado did strike the station, radio communications could be kept going with emergency generators and radios and walkie-talkies in the patrol cars.

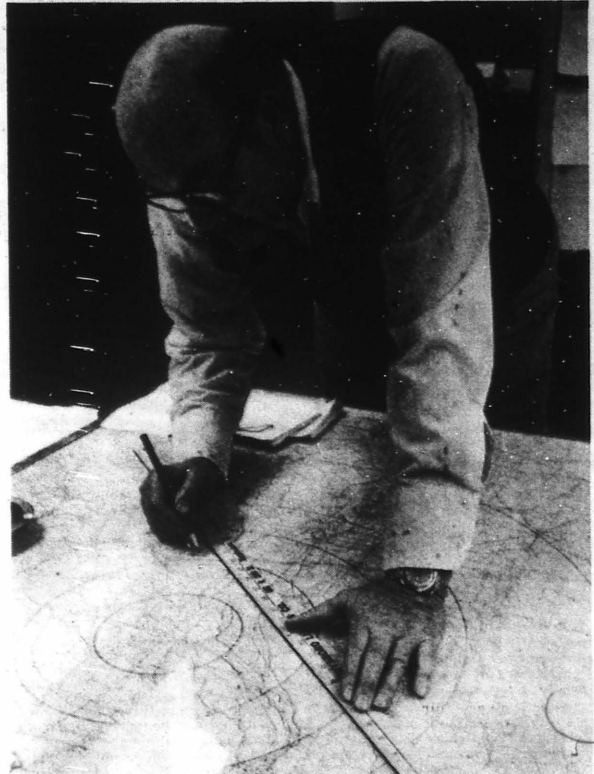

SIU Security Police also lend a hand during a tornado. Before a storm hits, they man tornado watch posts at the Epiphany Lutheran Church, 1501 W. Chautauqua St. which affords an excellent view of the countryside. Lookouts are also posted on top of the high-rise dorms to watch for tornados if the department has enough men.

Lt. Marvin Braswell said in the case of large gatherings at the SIU Arena or Student Center, the people in charge would be notified of an approaching tornado and they would be responsible for informing the audience. SIU

Security Police would also help the Carbondale Police and other agencies after a tornado hits, he said.

In an emergency, there will be help," Alexander said. "The citizens will not be left alone."

Midwest in midst of top tornado period

By Les Chudik
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Midwest is now in the middle of its peak tornado season—March, April and May—although tornados can occur at any time of the year.

Richard J. Newcombe, a graduate student in geography who is doing his dissertation on people's reactions to tornado warnings, said from 80 to 85 percent of all tornados in the United States occur in the Midwest.

"However, in the 500 mile area of which Jackson County is a part, there are only between five and seven tornados per 10,000 square miles per year," he said.

Newcombe says that it is common for tornados in the Midwest to be larger than average, which accounts for a higher number of deaths.

debris.

"Objects get flung outward at such speeds that pieces of straw can be driven through plate glass windows," he said.

Biewald said that if conditions are right for tornado formation, the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo., will issue a tornado watch.

Newcombe said that if a tornado is reported and can be sighted by radar, the National Weather Service Office in St. Charles, Mo., will issue a warning.

He stresses the importance of taking safety precautions in the event of both watches and warnings.

Alexander advises that if a watch is issued, people should turn on their radios or televisions and listen for further information. He also suggests keeping an eye on the weather outside.

Take cover in northeast corner of the basement

Edward A. Biewald, a weather observer at Southern Illinois Airport, said the conditions which usually precede a tornado include a cold front preceded by a line of several thunderstorms, called a squall line; a flow of warm, moist air; a substantial drop in barometric pressure and southwesterly winds in excess of 45 to 50 miles per hour, he said.

The majority of tornados occur between 3 and 9 p.m. but they can occur at any time of the day. The rotary winds of a tornado have been known to get up to 300 mph.

Jones said, "The noise created by tornados has been described as sounding like several express trains, many jet planes and thousands of blow torches. This is due to the fierce winds blowing through the things it strikes.

Jones said that additional destructive force is created as the funnel picks up

If a tornado warning is issued, Newcombe says, people should be prepared to take shelter in an appropriate place.

"If the sirens blow, or you see or hear it, you may have 30 seconds to five minutes to take cover," he said.

If the sirens do go off, Jones suggests going to the northeast, not southwest, corner of a basement. If there is no basement, the alternative is to take cover in a very small room or go to an air-raid shelter. If someone is outside and can't find shelter, he should lie face down in a ditch or ravine.

"And if someone is in a car and spots a tornado, he should open the car windows and drive at right angles to the funnel. You should never try to outrace it," he said.

Housing safety officer keeps 'eye in the sky'

By Peggy Sagona
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Ray Schlager, housing safety officer, has a full time concern with severe weather conditions and informing people how to protect themselves in case of danger.

Keeping his "eye on the sky" is Schlager's primary source for determining severe weather conditions. He keeps a radio beside his desk which is activated by the state police to inform him of bad weather conditions.

Schlager said that if an alert is issued over the radio, he calls a housing administrator to contact the on-campus living areas. In the event of a tornado warning, sirens sound a long, steady blast.

The warning sirens are operated from the Physical Plant or the Communications Building. When activated, sirens go off at Southern Hills, Evergreen Terrace, Small Group Housing the Physical Plant and near the center of campus by Morris Library.

Schlager said the most important thing to be concerned about during a tornado is flying glass.

In all single-student living areas, bathrooms are the safest place to be since residents are protected from flying glass. Schlager said the buildings are designed so that there is "no way" the structures could come down.

The violent change in pressure accompanying tornados causes most of the destruction, he said. The high rises, made of reinforced concrete, have so much glass that pressure would be equalized almost immediately by the explosion of glass, sending the winds rushing through the building, Schlager said.

The Triads in University Park and the dormitories on Thompson Point have windows on both sides, although the pressure in the Triads may not equalize as fast, he said.

"It is our responsibility to give a warning with as much notice as possible," he said. "We wait until the last minute to give the warning, but the question is, how long can we wait?"

"The main point is to be prepared so as not to be surprised or scared," Schlager said.

Robert Wenc, manager of family housing, said residents of Southern Hills should take cover in the small interior rooms on the lowest level of the apartments.

"When there is a tornado warning, someone opens the community room in the basement of Building 128," he said. "Those who can get to that room safely should do so."

Residents of Evergreen Terrace should stay in the kitchen areas or the bathrooms, Wenc said. Residents of Elizabeth Apartments and University-Court Apartments are instructed to go into the basement room.

Brown in 1980?

By Timothy LeGear
Student Writer

It's no secret that the United States is taking a beating, home and abroad, because the country's highest and most respected offices are staffed with unproven, unheralded and often unqualified personnel. The result is low moral and rising apathy of the people, which inevitably leads to internal devastation. The future of the country relies on motivation by the masses to resolve some of the problems, avert others, and learn to live with the rest. This can only be accomplished by rejuvenating the people's faith in the nation's highest officeholders, beginning at the top.

Since it appears that President Ford will retain his position until 1980, only because of lack of a better choice, Americans must look to that year with faith in the up-and-coming Democrat from California—Gov. Edmund "Jerry" Brown, son of former California Gov. Pat Brown.

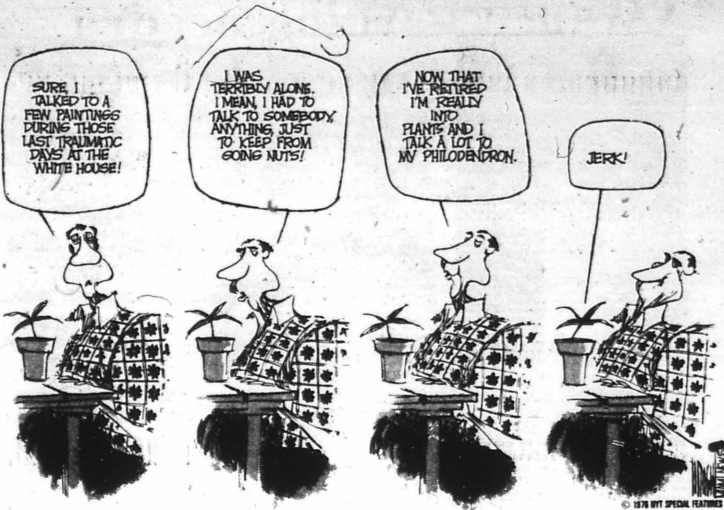

Brown presents an impeccable record. Besides receiving a B.A. from the University of California, Berkeley, and graduating from Yale's School of Law, he attended a Jesuit seminary for three-and-one-half years. He later served as a member of the L.A. Crime Commission and also of the California Narcotics Rehabilitation Advisory Council. And prior to running for Governor in 1975, he was the Secretary of State of California.

After narrowly winning the gubernatorial election, he shocked the public by closing down the $1.4 million Governor's mansion and by selling the Governor's plane and limousine. He also reduced his staff's salary seven per cent and blocked a $15,500 raise for himself.

But Brown's appeal began to grow when the public became aware of his "antipolitical" approach to handling political issues. Newsweek magazine reported, "Brown has mounted a one-man guerilla war against the old orthodoxy that no public problem is beyond solution by money, technology and six-point programs." Brown says, "Liberal government must promise less, deliver more, and spend within its means."

Prognosticators may have predicted a more controversial public reception for the 38 year old bachelor, who is said to lack the social graces and charisma believed necessary to win an election. But Brown subsists on hard work and discipline. He and his staff work a regular 12-hour day. As for his accomplishments to date, he proudly refers skeptics to 1,183 bills passed in his first year in office. He vetoed only 148.

The U.S. needs restored faith and new blood in the oval office. It needs to regain the respect of the other nations of the world. If California is any indication, Americans can look forward to 1980, when the Democrats unveil their secret weapon, a candidate the people want in office, rather than an alternative to one they don't want.

Revise parking problems

By Terrence O'Sullivan
Student Writer

It is difficult to imagine that 10 years ago there were 5,000 to 6,000 motor-bikes and cycles in use on this campus; that a small billboard near Thompson Point proclaimed this the "motor-bike capital of the United States;" and that an undergraduate could commute 40 miles or more and find a parking space in less than 20 minutes, or closer than several blocks from where he needed to be.

That is, however, the way it used to be here, according to Clifton Andersen, the chairman of the 10 member Parking and Traffic Committee and professor of marketing.

Now there are nearly seven thousand cars with red decals competing for less than half that many eligible spaces. In fairness it must be said there is the Arena lot and the newly paved lot beyond the Health Service. Those two lots, however, are a long walk in the rain or cold if you need to be on the opposite side of campus.

Since there is a shortage of "convenient" parking spaces the Parking and Traffic Committee should recommend to President Brandt a method of either allotting decals in less than a two-to-one ratio of cars to spaces, or perhaps, running a shuttle bus between the distant lots and the campus via Lincoln Drive.

As it is now, students who must drive to campus from out of Carbondale often must walk farther after they park than some students, who live near campus, drive.

Eligibility for red decals is met under present regulations by all seniors and juniors, by freshman and sophomores who live off campus, by freshman and sophomores who live on campus but work off campus, and freshman and sophomores who live on campus but drive "home" on weekends or during breaks.

To be ineligible for a red decal, in other words, you must be a freshman or sophomore who lives on campus, works on campus or not at all, and doesn't want to drive "home." As August Lemarschal, coordinator of the Parking and Traffic Office put it, "We've sold as many red decals as demanded."

The possibility exists that two hundred thousand plus dollars generated so far this year by decal sales and parking fines casts a favorable light on the present system. Whether or not this is the case, the present parking system is unfair to those students who drive considerable distances to attend SIU.

The Parking and Traffic Committee should study this problem and find a way to more fairly distribute parking privileges. The situation is almost certainly going to get worse and now is the time to do something about it.

Broadcast industry fears regulation

By Cheryl Dubois
Associated Press Writer

Broadcast industry spokesmen say "dangerous government attitudes" towards regulating the industry are infringing on the First Amendment right to a free press.

Vincent Wasilewski, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, said a "bureaucratic nightmare" would be created by a court decision that requires the Federal Communications Commission to rule on programming format changes.

Regulation of programming constitutes "a First Amendment intrusion which we cannot tolerate," he said at the opening assembly of the NBA's 54th annual convention.

Wasilewski also cited the prohibition of cigarette advertising on radio and television as "a disturbingly punitive action against broadcasting."

And the FCC's license renewal process keeps stations "on the short leash... which can be jerked periodically if we show signs of getting out of line," he said.

In recent years, Wasilewski said, government attitudes toward the industry have "ranged from indifference to hostility." He called upon broadcasters to "become militant in order to match the influence of others in our society."

"In broadcasting, the day is over when a strong sales force, good engineering and imaginative programming are enough. In effect, you have another department at your station—government," he told an audience of about 3,000 broadcasters.

"If we are going to be effective with our government, then we have got to... be tougher and more militant than we have been in the past," he said.

Julian Goodman, board chairman and chief executive officer of the National Broadcasting Co., warned that the FCC's fairness doctrine was the "chief opening for those who would place themselves between broadcasters and the public."

The primary responsibility for making editorial decisions lies with broadcasters, said Goodman, the recipient of this year's NBA Distinguished Service Award. "It is the role of the journalist and not the government to determine the fairness of documentary programming."

Repressive government actions, he said, "are being fought by an increasingly alarmed American news community... If freedom of the press falls, every other freedom falls behind it."

Former North Carolina Sen. Sam J. Ervin, who was presented with the association's Grover C. Cobb Memorial Award, told the broadcasters the First Amendment was designed to "protect Americans from the worst kind of tyranny—that is, tyranny of the mind."

It is the duty of the press, he said, to "make our system of government work through an informed electorate."

Area newsmen receive awards

The Master Editor citation, which is awarded for long and meritorious service and leadership in the downstate Illinois newspaper business, has been awarded to three members of the profession by the SIU School of Journalism.

William Boyne, general manager of the Metro-East Journal in East St. Louis; H.A. Fischer, publisher of the New Athens Journal; and Ed Schmitt, publisher of the Nashville News, were presented with Golden em Awards at the annual Southern Illinois Editorial Association-School of Journalism banquet Friday evening.

Robert R. Bliss of Hillsboro and U.S. Representative Melvin Price of East St. Louis were named winners of Arthur Darwin Jenkins Awards at the Southern Illinois Editorial Association (SIEA) meeting Friday.

Bliss is a third generation publisher of the Hillsboro-Montgomery County News. Price, who is serving his 16th consecutive term in the U.S. House of Representatives, is a former correspondent for the St. Louis

Two deer in the Crab Orchard Wildlife Refuge wear black plastic collars used to record their age and weight for an ecological study. (Staff photo by Linda Henson)

Students trap deer in research study

By Dan Hofmann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The deer that roam Restricted Area 13 in the southwest section of the Crab Orchard Wildlife Refuge now forage through the clover fields undisturbed by cannon fire.

Cannons were used during the winter to pull a 40-by-60 foot net over the deer, allowing research assistants from SIU's Cooperative Wildlife Research Lab to capture up to seven deer at one time. The captures were made to obtain data for an on-going study of the ecology of the white-tailed deer on the refuge.

they're not nearly as wild as normal," Ward said. After they are blindfolded, the animals are given injections of a tranquilizer.

The deer are then weighed, aged and sexed. A black plastic collar is placed around the deer's neck so researchers can identify the animals later.

Bill Ward, Ray Marshall and Martha Hunt, graduate students in the SIU Department of Zoology, have captured, banded, tagged and tattooed over 125 deer in the past two years. The project began in the early 1960s to study the socialization, productivity and food utilization of the deer.

No deer have been killed by the cannon.

Softball team faces NIU

Three losses in a row to the same team can breed dissatisfaction in any sport and it's no exception in softball.

The Saluki fast pitch women's softball team faces Northern Illinois University Saturday in a twin doubleheader scheduled for the softball field across from the recreation building on Grand Street. The first game starts at 9 a.m.

Last year SIU was whipped three times by Northern, twice in regular season play and once in the state tournament.

Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said, "We're out to get them this year." Northern's strength lies in its pitching. The strong arm of the team is Cindy Diamond. Brechtelsbauer said Diamond had good speed and control. "She's a strong pitcher and can last a long time," she said.

Opposing Diamond on the mound will be Carolyn Brady and Helen Meyer.

"Carolyn didn't have her control (last weekend against Indiana State) but she hasn't thrown enough this year," Brechtelsbauer said. "She was missing the corners last Saturday and had to throw more down the middle."

Meyer divides her time between left field and the mound. She has a slight arm problem this week so there's some doubt as to whether she can play outfield Saturday.

"Meyer has good control and velocity and she didn't allow any runs against Indiana State," Brechtelsbauer said. "I think Helen has a lot of potential. She has pitched well this season. She's a valuable player at both positions."

Hurlers Karen King and Sue Malkovich will be playing for the junior varsity Saturday against SIU's second team. Brechtelsbauer said both athletes need to pitch regular rather than sit on the varsity bench.

This means the varsity will only have two hurlers on the varsity squad, but Brechtelsbauer isn't concerned.

"We went with only one pitcher last year," she said.

Only 12 players will be on the varsity roster Saturday, while the

Pompon tryouts begin Monday

Tryouts for the 1975-76 SIU pompon squad will begin Monday with the first of three workshop sessions.

Two other workshops will be held Tuesday and Thursday. Each session is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. on the Arena floor. The final tryouts will be held April 11.

Prospective squad members must be enrolled as full-time students at SIU, and have and maintain a 2.0 grade point average.

Saluki third baseman Pat Matreci is tagged out sliding home in last Saturday's game against Indiana State. SIU lost the game, 7-1. Saturday, the Salukis take on Northern Illinois in a doubleheader, with varsity games at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. (Staff photo by Linda Henson.)

Junior varsity has 17.

If Meyer can't play left field,

Maschino will be shifted to that position. In that instance either Marg Winsauer or Jan Winkler will occupy right field.

The varsity team will play NIU at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. The junior varsity squads will also pair off at 9 and 10:30 a.m. The 9 a.m. junior varsity will be played on the southern half of the field.

Soccer starts at SIU

The SIU Soccer Club will host the University of Illinois in their first home game of the spring season Saturday, at 2 p.m.

The game will be played on the field southwest of the Arena near Abe Martin field. McAndrew Stadium was unavailable for this game.

George Davis, SIU facilities director said the stadium will be used for the Women's Saluki Invitational Track meet which begins at 10 a.m.

"Varsity athletics come first, then intramurals, and organized clubs come third," Davis said. Soccer is an organized club.

Even spring football practice has to bow out for the only women's track meet of the year at home. In the spring, track comes before football," Davis said.

The artificial turf in McAndrew stadium gave the ball a more consistent bounce. McAndrew's location also draws more fans to support the team.

Despite the location of the game, Soccer Club President Jose Escobar said, "We should be able to beat them here."

In last fall's meeting against Illinois, the Salukis played them to a 4-4 tie.

SIU is coming off a 6-3 loss to Southeast Missouri State (SEMO) in Cape Girardeau, Mo. last weekend. A win would even SIU's record at 1-1.

Tennis squad in Tennessee

SIU Coach Dick Lefevre and his tennis-playing Salukis will be in Memphis, Tenn., Friday for matches with Tennessee Tech and Middle Tennessee.

Saturday the Salukis will take on Memphis State. SIU does not play at home again until April 20 when SIU-Edwardsville comes to town.

Saluki nine hammers Miami twice

By Dave Wiczorek
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Make that five in a row for the Saluki diamondmen.

SIU's baseball squad swept a doubleheader from the Redskins of Miami of Ohio Friday afternoon at Abe Martin Field 6-3 and 11-7.

Thirteen Salukis went to bat in the fourth inning of the second game and the seven runs that resulted were too much for Miami to overcome. SIU led 8-1 at that point.

The big blow of the inning was Rick Murray's sixth homerun of the year. The three-run shot gives the third baseman season 20 RBIs. Designated hitter Jerry DeSimone hit a triple which drove in a run. SIU collected seven hits in the inning.

Jim Locascio, who started at shortstop Friday for the first time since the Oklahoma series, hit a solo homerun in the second inning, his first of the year. Centerfielder John Hoscheidt connected for his third circuit of the season, scoring two runs in the sixth.

When asked where all the power is coming from, SIU Coach Itchy Jones just shook his head and said, "They sure are hitting them out, aren't they?"

After pitching five innings and allowing only three hits, Saluki Tim Verpaele tired in the sixth. The Redskins then nailed the senior southpaw for seven hits and five runs. Jim Kessler relieved Verpaele in the seventh inning and finished the game. Verpaele is now 3-1.

After a couple of SIU defensive blunders in the late innings, Murray got the last out of the game on a sparkling play at third. He dove to his left for a hard hit grounder, lifted himself to his knees and fired the ball to second baseman Bert Newman for the force out at second.

The first game of the twin bill was a bit tighter. SIU did most of the damage in the second inning when they scored five runs on seven hits, sending nine players to the plate.

Catcher Frank Hunsaker led the inning off with a double into the left field corner. Designated runner Wayne Rueger took over for the slow-running Hunsaker and Murray promptly singled him home.

A double by Locascio and singles by Jim Reeves and DeSimone produced four more runs. Hoscheidt put down a bunt to squeeze Neil Fiala in from third base for the Salukis' final run in the sixth inning.

Freshman Rickey Keeton improved his record to 4-0, despite breaking down and giving up three runs in the third inning. He gave up only seven hits the entire game.

"I couldn't get my curve working and that hurt," Keeton said after the game. "Then when I got behind the batters, I tried to throw my fastball right by them and only got farther behind."

Lambert questioned about athletic director position

By Dave Wiczorek
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

SIU basketball Coach Paul Lambert said Friday morning that he has been queried about the athletic director position that will be vacated June 1 by Doug Weaver, who is taking the athletic director job at Georgia Tech on that date.

When asked if he has applied or will apply for the AD job, Lambert took several seconds to think over his answer.

"I'm not trying to be coy," he said. "Let's just say I've been asked if I would be interested in the job."

Asked whether he is qualified for the AD job, he said, "I think I could handle the job. Everyone thinks they can handle jobs."

Lambert did not want to say much about the athletic director job, considering this is the middle of the recruiting season. He said if he were to apply for the job, he might decide it wasn't for him or the administration might decide that they didn't want him.

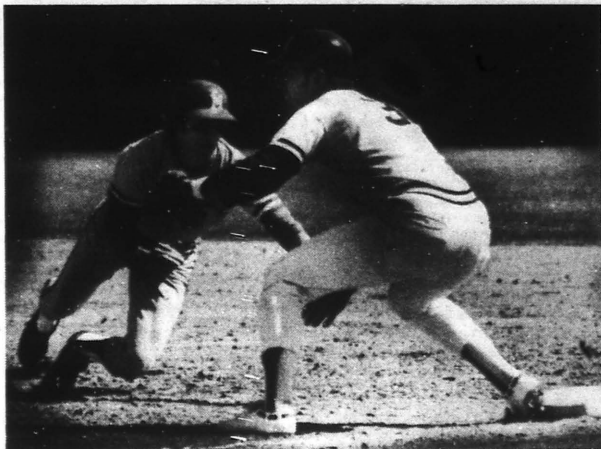

"When we were in Florida I tried to throw my fastball hard to impress everyone. I learned quickly that you can't do that if you're going to be a good pitcher."

Concerning the three-run inning he suffered through Keeton said, "I lost my concentration. I should be concentrating more. I had better control than what it looked like. I wanted to keep the ball away from them."

Keeton struck out five and walked four batters.

"The pitching was not that effective today," Jones said, "but they stayed out there and battled. We'll keep bringing them along."

SIU faces this same Miami team in a doubleheader Saturday, beginning at noon. Sunday SIU plays Quincy at 1 p.m. at Abe Martin Field.

Righty Kevin Waldrop (1-3) will start the first game Saturday. Either Lefty Rob Simond (0-0) or righty Dewey Robinson (1-0) will hurl the second game.

Valley champs meet

Thinclads compete in triangular

By Mark Kazlowski
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

It could be billed as the "Battle of the Valleys."

A triangular track meet Saturday at Murray, Ky., will pit the defending Missouri Valley Conference outdoor champions SIU against the defending Ohio Valley Conference outdoor champions Western Kentucky.

Host Murray State is the third team in the meet.

Western Kentucky was ranked 16th in the 1975 dual team rankings by Track and Field News while SIU was listed 12th.

SIU Coach Lew Hartzog termed the Hilltoppers a powerhouse.

"They have an outstanding track team year in and year out," he said.

One thing that could alter the outcome is the rash of injuries afflicting the Saluki thinclads.

Sprinter Joe Laws has not been working out regularly due to infected tooth trouble and a swollen jaw.

Middle distance runner Kevin Moore who has been hampered by a hamstring pull has been training but will not be ready for Saturday's meet. Hartzog said Moore may be ready by the Illinois Intercollegiate April 30 and May 1.

Sprinter Mike Kee has been ill, Hartzog said, but the freshman will run.

Half-miler Dennis Kern and distance man John St. John have what Hartzog called "lingering flu."

Steve Lively, a freshman sprinter, will not be running. He is hospitalized in Mount Vernon with appendicitis. If an operation is not necessary, he may be back, but if an operation is necessary, he will be out for the season.

Returning to the lineup will be Earl Bigelow, the top quarter-miler when he's healthy. John Marks, a first year weightman is back after sitting out the Florida relays with a pulled muscle.

Jerry George who last ran Feb. 14 when he recorded a 4:10 mile indoors will also be back in the lineup to run the three mile.

"I think that we have a stronger team than Western this year if we had a healthy team," Hartzog said with emphasis on "if," "and we don't have a healthy team."

for the stretch drive of the recruiting season.

"I never have brought nine or 10 kids in here," Lambert said. There are maybe four or five kids we have a shot at. We've had two or three kids in already. The problem is that the kids we are interested in are quality players. A lot of players are now playing in all-star games and most of those are on weekends."

This year the number of visits a high school athlete can make to college campuses has been limited to six. The national letter of intent date has also been moved ahead to April 14. This is an effort to cut down unnecessary traveling and free-loading by the high school players.

That's interesting considering that the limit is six."

Besides keeping busy with recruiting, Lambert is also spending time with his present charges, making sure they stay in condition.

"Our kids work about three or four times a week," Lambert explained. "They do it more or less on their own."

Western Kentucky is extremely strong in the distance events, Hartzog said. "In all the distance runs, they aren't great, they're super. They'll almost shut us out in the steeplechase and distances."

The Hilltoppers also sport a pair of good long and triple jumpers, but Hartzog said he would go with his own Philip Robins in the favorite's role in the triple jump.

He said it would be a tossup for first place in the long jump. "(Rick) Rock is really going to have to work to win it," he said.

The SIU coach also listed pole vaulter Gary Hunter and javelin thrower Bob Roggy as probable favorites in their respective events.

Murray State won't be standing around observing, however. Murray also has some fine distance runners and a triple jumper who has leaped 51 feet. Hartzog said the 440 and mile relay teams are comparable to SIU's.

"I anticipate a very competitive track meet," Hartzog said.

The triangular will be the first in a series. The site of the meet will rotate each year, with the first time SIU will host it in 1978.

Before they leave we'll give them a program of what they should work on this summer."

The coach also had a few comments about Mike Glenn's decision not to attend the Olympic tryouts this spring.

"It was the same decision he had to make last year about the Pan American Games. He definitely wanted to play, but with his course of study (math) it would be difficult because courses are alternated a lot. If he missed a course it might take him a year to pick it up. I respect his decision," Lambert said.

Had Glenn gone to the tryouts and made the team, he would have had practice from May all the way through the games.

"A lot of guys went to Salt Lake City (for Pan American Games tryout) for a couple of weeks to play in the nice weather and with some good competition," Lambert said, "and then when it came time to pick the team, they said they couldn't play. They just went out there and got a couple of weeks of vacation."

"I respect Mike's honesty. A lot of guys wouldn't have done what he did."
