Bracy funding release denied

By Anze Flasz
Staff Writer

A spokesman for the Capital Development Board said Tuesday that the $1.6 million appropriated for the purchase of a temporary storage facility had been released — but a state budget official denied that was the case.

Later on Tuesday CDB spokesman Les Pauly said that negotiations have begun for the purchase of the Bracy Building in Marion, but that he was unsure exactly where the funds were in the acquisition process.

John Fricke, an analyst with the state Bureau of the Budget, said no funds have been released by the BOB, but that the CDB has been authorized by the governor's office to negotiate a price with the building's owner.

"We haven't released anything," Fricke said. "We don't know how much is going to be released and we won't know until a price is agreed upon."

After his initial announcement, Pauly said that the CDB is formulating an offer and determining conditions of the sale.

Harry Melvin, the son of Virginia Cline, who owns Bracy, said Tuesday that he had not been contacted by the CDB.

"I don't know what they expect to talk about," said Melvin, who is his mother's legal representative. "The contract says $1.6 million."

If the funds have not been released yet, Pauly said, they will be released in the near future. He said he could not offer a timeframe for the negotiations.

"The funds have to be released before a formal offer can be made to the owner," Pauly said.

But again, Fricke said this was not the case.

"We can't release any funds until we know the price agreed upon," he said.

On Monday, Melvin and Mrs. Cline both said that the University agreed in August 1982 to purchase the building.

Chancellor Kenneth Shaw and Richard Higginson, University legal counsel, said that the University had never entered into any agreement to purchase Bracy.

City accepts two deeds on Strip

By Bruce Kirkham
Staff Writer

The City of Carbondale on Monday formally accepted the deeds on two properties recently purchased by the city in the downtown redevelopment area.

A deed from Eleanor Steinbrich for the property at 212 S. Illinois Ave., the former home of the Feltish, and a deed from Jack and Mary Lou Atwood for the property at 224 S. Illinois Ave., the former Atwood Drugs, were accepted in a unanimous action by the City Council Monday night.

City Manager Bill Dixon said that the city has also completed negotiations for the purchase of the property at 220 S. Illinois Ave., the former Southern Barbecue.

Acceptance of the deed of the former Southern Barbecue will come before the council at its next formal meeting, Dixon said.

The council authorized the purchase of the three properties on March 19 for a price not to exceed $220,000, which will come from the city's $2.971 million Urban Development Action Grant.

The acquisition of the three properties gives the city 12 of 14 tracts of land targeted in one of the blocks designated for downtown redevelopment.

The two remaining tracts not owned by the city in the block are McNeill's Jewelry at 214 S. Illinois

Blood drive exceeding expectations

By Morgan Falkner
Student Writer

The SIU-C spring blood drive, by virtue of collecting 455 units on Tuesday, is way ahead of the game, Mark Beveridge, Mobilization of Volunteer Effort coordinator, said Tuesday.

Beveridge said that in the first two days of the drive 843 units of blood had been collected, roughly 150 more than expected.

Beveridge said that the problems of organization encountered during the first day of the drive have been eased with the addition of more volunteers, and that the goal of 1,850 units is clearly in sight.

MOVE and the Arnold Air Society are the two SIU-C student groups coordinating the blood drive.

The drive will continue throughout the week in Student Center Ballroom D Wednesday and Thursday, and in Ballrooms A, B and C on Friday, from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. each day.

Inquest pending in student hanging

By Jeff Wilkinson
Staff Writer

A coroner's inquest into the hanging death of an SIU-C student in the county jail March 18 will be held as soon as a toxicology report is received from a state crime lab in Chicago, according to Jackson County Coroner Don Ragsdale.

Ragsdale said he sent evidence to the lab the day after the hanging and that it would take two to three weeks to receive a report.

The sheriff's department has labeled the hanging of Michael J. Strandell, 22, of Wilmette, an apparent suicide. Jackson County jailers found Strandell's body hanging in his cell early on the morning of March 18. Ragsdale said Strandell had ripped up a mattress cover and used the strips to make a noose.

Courthouse after he became abusive while protesting the arrest of fellow TKE member Steve Mowatt. Mowatt and Strandell were stopped in Desoto by Jackson County deputies at about 4:20 a.m. March 18 for making an illegal U-turn and Mowatt was arrested for driving with a revoked license.

Sheriff Bill Kilquist said Strandell appeared at the courthouse to make an appeal for Mowatt's release, became abusive and was arrested for disorderly conduct.

TKE president Mark Styringer said the two had been drinking at DuMaroc's nightclub, north of Desoto, on the night of the arrest.

Pending completion of a Illinois Law Enforcement investigation, Kilquist would not comment on why Strandell had been removed from the general male population in the jail and was placed in a women's Mondale claims N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter F. Mondale, re-establishing himself as the man to beat for the Democratic presidential nomination, moved to a comfortable lead Tuesday night in the delegate-rich New York presidential primary. He claimed victory and expressed satisfaction.

"We had a very good day today in New York," Mondale said. "Apparently we did well across the board."

The television networks said Mondale had won a lopsided victory. Based on polling-place interviews, the networks said Hart was in a closer-than-expected contest for second place with the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

Jackson was polling exceptionally well in New York City, apparently winning about 80 percent of the black vote.

With 13 percent of the vote in, it was: Mondale, 65,044 or 49 percent; Hart, 47,570, 36 percent; Jackson, 17,329, 13 percent.

The rest was scattered among Democratic dropouts.

Mondale's showing was dramatic evidence that the former vice president had completed a comeback in the Democratic fight, and an indication that Hart's "new ideas" candidacy faces difficulty in the weeks ahead.

Only three weeks ago Hart's candidacy was on a roll. He had won several early primaries and caucuses, and Mondale was reeling.

But the former vice president switched style from a serene front-runner to an aggressive challenger, and he defeated Hart in the Illinois primary before taking aim in New York.

All three men made election-day appearances in New York City, hoping to squeeze every last vote out of a state where 3.5 million people were eligible to cast ballots.

"I think the race is very, very close," Mondale said as he greeted voters. "I want to win New York ... but I've lost before."

Hart visited a day-care center in Harlem and then headed for Pennsylvania, next week's primary battleground.

Wisconsin Democrats held a "beauty contest" primary Tuesday, in advance of next Saturday's caucuses when 75 convention delegates are at stake.

City bidding process criticized

By Paula J. Finlay
Staff Writer

Bidding for next year's city mowing contract has raised questions about the bidding process from City Council members and one bidder.

Clark Vineyard, manager of the Carbondale Mosquito Abatement District, called the bid requirements "asinine" and confusing. The CMA was replaced as the city's weed mowing contractor by low bidder Roger Rains of Murphysboro at Monday's council meeting.

The CMA bid was rejected because it varied from specifications. Another bid from Smith Mowing was rejected because it was unsigned and the bid bond was incorrectly calculated at 35 cents below the required 10 percent.

Robert Hisgen, purchasing agent, said the city has "always drawn the line hard and fast" on procedural violations in bidding.

Vineyard said that even after several years of bidding he still found the bid requirements confusing, and recommended that the city try to make them understandable.

Councilman Neil Dillard questioned the rejection of Smith's bid, which would have been the low bid for part of the work if it had not been disqualified. Councilman Keith Tuxhorn said he had "a real problem" with the way Smith's unsigned bid was handled. City staff should have contacted Smith and asked him to sign the bid, he said, and the 35-cent error in the bid bond was not significant.

Scott Ratter, assistant city manager, said that the bidding procedure must be closely adhered to, and cited a lawsuit that the city lost about 12 years ago over technicalities in the award of a mowing contract.

A three-member majority indicated that it will reject a request from Rodney Qualls to rezone a 12.7-acre parcel of land north of Route 13 east of Carbondale from general agriculture to secondary business, saying that it would prefer the control of a planned business zone.

number of routine items could be passed in one motion.

Council members and the public would still have the right to request that any item in a consent agenda be considered separately.

New items would be considered under a "new business" heading after all formal items have been considered.

City Manager Bill Dixon said that the trial basis could begin in May and could be reviewed by the council in October.

The second Monday was chosen as the off-date for meetings because of the compatibility with the schedule of the planning commission, Dixon said. Councilman Patrick Kelley, who supported the change, said that the alternating Monday format would give the public a better opportunity to express views to council members.

In addition, the new format would not impair the amount of time required for an item to receive council action, Kelley said.

Councilman Keith Tuxhorn opposed the new format, saying that the current meeting schedule is predictable and makes the council more accessible to the public.

News Roundup

Soviet flare incident sparks talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — An incident Monday in which a Soviet aircraft carrier fired eight signal flares at a U.S. frigate has sparked a meeting in Moscow next month between representatives of the two navies, Defense Department officials said Tuesday.

The flares fired from the 37,000-ton Soviet carrier in the South China Sea caused no structural damage or injuries to the crew of the 3,900-ton frigate, the officials said.

A U.S. Navy delegation will meet with Soviet admirals next month for discussions aimed at heading off potentially explosive incidents at sea between their powerful navies.

Rend Lake to resubmit loan request

CENTRALIA (AP) — The Rend Lake Water Conservancy District may have a second chance to get a multimillion-dollar loan needed to increase its water supply, an official said.

Last month a broken 36-inch pipe deprived some areas of water for five hours during a two-day emergency that forced the closing of some schools, factories and businesses.

A second loan application, for $22 million, will be filed with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development in three or four months, officials said. The first request was turned down several years ago.

Military takes control of Guinea

DAKAR, Senegal (AP) — The armed forces seized control of Guinea on Tuesday, eight days after the death of longtime President Ahmed Sekou Toure, in what the military said was a bloodless coup aimed at preventing another "ruthless dictatorship."

The new leadership, calling itself the Military Committee of Rectification, moved swiftly into the power vacuum caused by Sekou Toure's death. It immediately sealed all borders of the impoverished West African country, barred public gatherings, suspended the nation's constitution and abolished the only legal political party.

Council may alter meeting schedule

Bruce Kirkham
Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council may soon be meeting only three times each month.

The council will decide in two weeks whether to change the meeting format on an experimental basis to conduct meetings on first and third Mondays of each month with the fourth Monday reserved for an optional meeting.

The fourth Monday would be targeted for public hearings and special reports and could be cancelled if no urgent business were scheduled.

The experimental format would not change the process of council action, but would change the content of council agendas.

Items would continue to appear before the council on an informal basis for discussion and would be returned at the next meeting on a formal basis for final discussion and action.

Meetings are currently devoted primarily to consideration of formal or informal items, with formal and informal meetings being alternated.

Agendas would be restructured under the new format to include "consent agendas," in which a

Student's allegations denied by Community Services staff

By Jay Small
Staff Writer

A student's complaints about hiring policies and delay of a master's degree program in the Division of Social and Community Services have been sharply rebutted by the director and a faculty member in the division.

In a letter dated March 28 to local newspapers and SIU-C administrators, Robert Lockhart, senior in business, charged that the division was admitting students for summer to a new master of social work program even though the program had been held up until fall.

Five students were admitted who intended to participate in the summer program, according to Arthur Cox, director of social and community services. He said those students knew that the summer schedule was not etched in stone because accreditation for the degree program was in the works.

"The decision was made not to open the program because we were in the process of pre-accreditation," Cox said Tuesday. "We decided not to admit those students for summer so that we would not be jeopardized in terms of accreditation."

THE SUMMER session, an "advanced standing" program, would have given students with undergraduate degrees in the field an opportunity to begin graduate studies early and enter in the fall as second-year graduate students.

All students who were affected by SIU-C's decision to delay the program were notified last week of the charge, Cox said.

Lockhart also questioned the conditions under which the division hired two faculty members. He wrote that an instructor was hired who was also "a full-time employee with the Chicago Board of Education." That instructor, Mary Davidson, has spent less than two weeks on campus since being hired, he charged.

Lockhart questioned the legality of allowing Davidson to hold the faculty position if she were already a full-time public employee. He cited Illinois Public Act 761343, which, he claims, prohibits public employees from taking a second job without specific written permission.

But Davidson said Tuesday that she holds neither a full-time position with the board nor one with the University. She said that she is a part-time consultant for the Desegregation Monitoring Commission of the board, and that she will be paid at a rate of 75 percent of her full salary as associate professor at SIU-C until she begins teaching in the fall.

AT THAT TIME, she will become a full-time University faculty member in residence and will begin teaching. Until then, her charge is to develop a curriculum for the master's degree program, she said.

"I've carried out all duties expected of me," Davidson said. "And from what I'm told, if I'm a consultant with the board and not on a full-time job, the law he (Lockhart) mentions does not apply."

USO book-charge plan for bookstore in limbo

By John Stewart
Staff Writer

A proposal to allow students to charge books at the University Bookstore has stalled, as the University administration has been reluctant to share the financial risk of such a program with the bookstore.

The proposal, first proposed in July by Bruce Joseph, president of the Undergraduate Student Organization, would cost the University about $50,000 in start up costs and interest on outstanding book charges, according to John Corker, director of the Student Center.

Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, said Tuesday that he believed the increased sales from the charge plan would more than make up for costs and bad debts which would occur. A committee has met to examine the proposals, and slowed cash flow through the bookstore appears to present the greatest obstacle to the charging idea becoming reality.

Before implementing the plan, Corker said, the bookstore would need administration support and partnership in

Third student enters race for trusteeship

William J. Goodnick, a senior in political science and psychology, has announced his candidacy for student trustee.

Goodnick said that, if elected, he would establish office hours and an open forum for students to express their opinions.

He said he wants to gain legislators' support for SIU-C and give the student trustee a binding vote at board meetings. He also said increased participation and student input will enhance the prestige of the University.

A former student senator at Belleville Area College, Goodnick said he's willing to learn and keep an open mind should he be elected trustee. He has been active in the Belleville area in organizations which seek to prevent chemical dependency among adolescents.

Opinion & Commentary

Signed articles, including letters, Viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Editorial Committee, whose members are the student editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a Journalism School faculty member.

Letters for which authorship cannot be verified will not be published. Students submitting letters must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department, others by residential or business address. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 500 words. Letters of 226 words or fewer will be given preference for publication.

A complete statement of editorial and letters policies approved by the Daily Egyptian Policy and Review Board is available in Communications 1247.

Fewer meetings could benefit public, council

CARBONDALE CITY Council meetings will be fewer and faster and, perhaps, a bigger draw under a proposal to reduce the number of monthly meetings from four to three and limit discussion on non-controversial agenda items.

The move to streamline council meetings may be what is needed to counteract low public attendance at the meetings.

Currently, the council has a roll call vote on every formal agenda item. Under the "consent agenda" method under consideration, routine items such as approving equipment specifications and routine payment of bills would be combined into "agendas within agendas" that could be passed with a single vote. Any council member or member of the public who wished to discuss an item could ask to have it taken off a consent agenda.

Most people who attend council meetings come to hear one specific item discussed. But if the uninteresting items are combined, residents who might be inclined to come to a meeting would be discouraged by the thought of waiting for the council to discuss the optimal engine size of street department pick-up trucks before it gets down to the exciting stuff.

BY HOLDING council meetings on the first, third and, optionally, fourth Monday of a month and combining the formal and informal meetings, some continuity would be lost along with weekly public contact with the council. But what would be lost in continuity would be gained in giving the members more time to deliberate.

And, as Councilman Patrick Kelley has pointed out, the quality of council candidates may go up as well — the thought of weekly meetings turns away some residents who might be interested in running for council.

The new method of handling city business deserves at least a trial run. It would require a more watchful eye from the press and public, to make certain the council is not slipping anything by in its rapid votes. But watchful eyes are better than sleepy ones.

Viewpoint

U.S. ignores jailing of Turkish pacifists

ON HIS WAY to prison in his native Turkey last November, a man named Mahmut Dikerdem managed to dash off a note to his son: "I still don't know what I've been charged with."

Dikerdem, 68 and suffering from prostate cancer, had loyally served his country as a diplomat for 40 years, 20 as an ambassador. In 1977, under the umbrellas of the Istanbul Bar Association, he organized and became president of the Turkish Peace Association. Its goal was to stimulate public discussion of the country's military policies. It called for an end to Turkey's role in the arms race, the abolition of nuclear weapons, a greater funding for social programs and less for armaments and an end to violence among nations.

IN ITS pacifistic approach, the Turkish Peace Association was bonded philosophically to the Green Party of West Germany, the Committee For Nuclear Disarmament in England and U.S. organizations like the War Resisters League, the American Friends Service Committee and the Nuclear Freeze campaign.

Four months ago, Dikerdem and 22 other association

Colman McCarthy
Syndicated Columnist

members were sentenced by a military court to severe prison sentences of up to eight years. No appeal has yet been allowed. The peace criminals included the presidents of both the Turkish medical and bar associations, two columnists for the country's most respected newspaper, four members of parliament, the wife of the former mayor of Istanbul and several professors.

THEY WERE nonviolent middle-aged mainliners who had nothing in common with the left- and right-wing terrorist groups which had turned Turkey into a chaotic war zone of ideologies from 1975 to 1980. All they had done was raise the question that perhaps Turkey, whatever strategic plans the United States had for it, should rethink its military commitments.

They were charged with subversion, forming an illegal organization and pushing the Soviet line. The script might have been written by the heinous Pinochet of Chile or Marcos of the Philippines. The Turkish generals did elevate themselves at least slightly from the standard level of authoritarian brutality: They went through the motions of a trial before jailing the peace group.

THE SILENCING of the Turkish peace movement coincides with the increased militarization of the nation by the United States. The House Foreign Affairs Committee recently gave initial approval to another enormous payout — $716 million — in military aid. The largest economic investment in Turkey's history is now under way: a $4.3 billion project to purchase and co-produce with General Dynamics 160 F-16 fighter jets.

The Reagan Administration is on a military spending spree in Turkey. Simultaneously, it is reducing economic aid desperately needed in a country with an average per-capita income of $1,300. In 1980 economic aid was $198 million and military aid $208 million. For 1984, the economic aid dropped 30 percent to $136 million while military aid soared by 244 percent to $716 million. Instead of better farms or factories, give the Turks bigger bombs.

ONE OF THOSE at the Foreign Affairs Committee hearings last week was Mehmet Dikerdem, 34, a sociologist who lives in London and the son of the jailed peace association president. He was comforted by language in the aid legislation that calls for "respect" for human rights. But he knows the cold truth: The Reagan administration's drive to militarize Turkey makes the jailing of 23 peace activists a minor issue. Congress complies. No one has yet to suggest, much less insist, that military aid be halted until the treatment of the peace association be explained. No other NATO country has jailed its peace movement.

Like his father, who served Turkey professionally, Mehmet

Dikerdem has a personal loyalty to his homeland. He speaks with the affection of a patriotic native son about Turkish art, music and literature. He cares too much about his country to go away docilely when a military court is allowed to rape justice. "These astounding sentences on our peace leaders," he says, "serve only to damage our country's dignity and image abroad."

THAT IMAGE has been improving lately. Progress toward democratic rule has occurred. Martial law has been partly lifted, parliamentary elections were held in November and local elections are scheduled. But the press remains muzzled by a paranoid military. Columnists don't dare criticize the jailing of their brother columnists in the peace association.

Turkey's new government is asking the world for a chance to prove its commitment to democracy. It is asking too much, as long as the peace association remains jailed. With Turkey being militarized, patriots like Mahmut Dikerdem should be given a platform to speak from, not a jail cell to rot in.

Action not official blood drive sponsor

A point of clarification: It is MOVE (Mobilization of Volunteer Effort) and the Arnold Air Society who are the official sponsors and organizers of the American Red Cross blood drive being held this week in the Student Center.

As president of the Action Party, a new student political group on campus, I saw a chance to get our party's name and philosophy known while encouraging our fellow students to give blood.

However, when politics enters the picture nothing is that simple. For the record, the intent of the Action Party's endorsement of the blood drive was not to claim responsibility for its existence, but to emphasize our concern for our fellow students and the community at large.

Neither MOVE nor the Arnold Air Society can, or would want to, endorse any political group, as far as I know. That is why their names did not appear on our flyers. However, the Action Party could be considered an unofficial blood drive sponsor only in that we paid for the 2,000 flyers with our own campaign funds.

We look at it this way: The

Error in D.E.'s kick at Buzbee

I was sorry to learn that the Daily Egyptian found Senator Buzbee's decision to retire from politics regrettable (D.E. editorial, March 28).

However, I found even more regrettable the inability of the editorial writer or writers to get their facts straight in the example they cited of Buzbee's supposed sour grapes attitude.

Richard Nixon's announcement that the press "wouldn't have Dick Nixon to Press hindered by libel threat, lack of support, reporter says

By Karen Wiltberg, Student Writer

American investigative reporting is not as effective as it could be because of libel dangers and lack of public support, according to Washington, D.C. investigative reporter Les Whitten.

"But as bad as we are, the press is all there is," said Whitten, a long-time associate of syndicated columnist Jack Anderson.

Whitten, who will spend the next two weeks as a visiting lecturer in journalism, said that many unreported stories in Washington are not about politics, but about major corporations, labor unions and special interest groups.

There is more libel danger uncovering a scandal in a corporation than in the political scene, he said.

"We don't write about it because of law suits," he said. And that is why the public only gets "a little tiny bit of what's going on," Whitten said.

But Whitten, who has faced libel suits and contempt of court charges for refusing to name a source, said he would "be damned" if he would let a good story slip by.

Whitten said he would never turn his back on a source to whom he had promised confidentiality.

"Your source is everything. If you lose your good name, you're finished," said Whitten, who has worked for Anderson, the Washington Post, Hearst Newspapers, United Press politicians, businessmen and criminals.

In the course of his career, Whitten said he has "conducted midnight interviews with Mafia informers, interviewed Vicecong fresh off the battlefield and exposed the hanky-panky of numerous congressmen."

But Whitten said the public does not support investigative reporting.

The public seems to think that if it weren't for reporters, there would be "no trouble in the land," he said.

The Washington press will be very skeptical of former U.S. Rep. Ken Gray if he returns to Capitol Hill, Whitten said. He said Gray, who recently won the Democratic nomination for the 22nd District congressional seat, said Gray left office "under a cloud" when he retired in 1975.

Whitten said he has been living the "good life" of a novelist since 1978, but still works occasionally with Anderson.

A founder of Investigative Reporters and Editors, Whitten has covered the White House since Dwight Eisenhower was in office. Other investigative "targets" have included

Year-long cable TV negotiations nearing City Council settlement

By Paula J. Finlay
Staff Writer

A settlement in cable television negotiations, which began last June, could be reached in about two weeks. The revised report of the Cable Television Special Negotiating Committee was favorably received by the City Council Monday and will be returned April 16 for formal approval.

Councilman Patrick Kelley, however, was not satisfied with the report's proposed channel line-up, which does not include St. Louis Channel 2. Kelley said the council should "back up the negotiating committee with some muscle" and tell Telecommunications Inc., Carbondale Cablevision's parent company, that Channels 2 and 4 are needed to meet the expectations of customers that are in opposition to "fringe" stations such as Cable Health Network or Nashville Network. Craig Perica, Cablevision manager, said TCI is looking for variety in packaging and trying to get away from network duplication.

In a move to provide more variety in programming, the Cable Television Commission agreed in January to give up St. Louis Channels 2 and 4 to bring in Nickelodeon, which is billed as a family-oriented station, and Atlanta superstation WTBS. After a March 6 public hearing, the proposed channel line-up was revised to include Channel 4 from St. Louis with no additional rate increase in a 21-channel service package.

Through time-sharing, Carbondale Cablevision will provide 23 channels of service on 21 channels in the proposed line-up beginning within one year of rate determination by the City Council. A $2.75 rate increase is recommended in the report.

The report also calls for performance quality standards to be added to the franchise, which would require the franchise holder to maintain the minimum technical standards required by the Federal Communications Commission.

TCI would be required to provide an annual financial statement to the city and allow city inspection of the company's financial records under another proposed franchise amendment.

Student senator starts new party to spur re-election

Hoping to spur discussion of issues separate from campus party politics, a student senator has started a new political party running only one candidate: himself.

Mike Majchrowitz, a senator from the College of Communications and Fine Arts, will appear on the election ballot as the sole candidate for the Independent Incumbent Party. Majchrowitz is a junior in radio and television and political science.

"I didn't want to choose between the two parties," he said. Majchrowitz, Andy Leighton and Lamont Brantley were all Trojan Party senate candidates elected last spring. All three ran for the Trojan presidential nomination this spring, which Brantley won.

Leighton has since formed the Action party and is running a nearly full slate of candidates, including himself for president.

"I have friends in both parties, and neither do I want to choose nor get caught up in party politics," Majchrowitz said.

"I'm running on my record as a senator," he said. He said he has worked for recognition of communications groups, opposed the sale of the Bracy Building and tried to preserve the pass-fail option for General Education courses.

Green Earth uses wild areas to educate public about nature

By Sheila Rogers
Staff Writer

Green Earth I and II are pieces of land used for educating people about nature and the process and interrelationships that exist in nature.

The land is owned by Green Earth Inc., an organization dedicated to preserving land in the Carbondale area. The group began in 1974.

Green Earth I is a 23-acre piece of land located on Brush Hill, on Park Street on the southeast side of Carbondale, said Tom Dilley, executive director of Green Earth Inc. The Green Earth I trail was purchased in 1978. Such sites as fields of wildflowers, streams, birds and trees such as oaks and hickories can be seen from the trail. Students from the Carbondale and Murphysboro schools take field trips on the trail and teachers use the trail as a teaching tool.

Green Earth II is located on the north side of town on North Oakland Avenue. The land covers about seven acres and was acquired in 1978, Dilley said. The present vegetation is in the shrub and thorny thicket stage of maturation, also known as secondary succession, he said.

The group plans to allow Green Earth II to go through its natural stages of development until — with proper management — the vegetation becomes a mature wet forest of trees and wildflowers.

Dilley said that the group would like to start a summer youth program this year. The program would allow 16- to 20-year-olds to work with the lands. The youths will work on trail maintenance and rerouting of some of the trails. Some of the youths will also be trained as guides and will put in trail markers.

SIU-C recreation, education and forestry students volunteer to take children on tours and to help with maintaining the land, said Nancy Peterson, former environmental education director. Students can also receive class credit. "The SIU students are a critical part of the program," she said.

The not-for-profit group has seven board members and is trying to increase its membership, Dilley said.

In the early 1950s, Carbondale, like other cities, was growing with businesses such as fast food restaurants, and as a result pushed farmers to the outskirts of town, said Judy Faulkner, who works with the Illinois Nature Conservancy.

Jack White was coordinator of the Illinois natural area inventory study at the time. As part of a federally funded study he inventoried the untouched lands in Illinois. He mapped out the best of what was left in Carbondale, Faulkner said, and it is that land that Green Earth Inc. is trying to preserve.

Dilley said that a date for the next meeting hasn't been set but he can be reached at 549-4310 for anyone who is interested in attending.

If a group is interested in a guided tour of Green Earth I or II, Maureen Murrin, the education coordinator for the organization, can be reached at 457-6818.

Black Studies program to provide forum

The Black American Studies Program will present three lectures this month in the Brown Bag Luncheon Series.

The purpose of the series is to provide a forum through which black professionals, students and members of the black community can discuss relevant issues in an informal setting. The meetings will be held from noon to 1:30 p.m. on the first three Wednesdays of the month in the Quigley Lounge.

On Wednesday, Carlton Smith, community activist for the NAACP will be the guest speaker. On April 11, Dora Weaver, president of the Community Development Organization of Carbondale, and Norvell Haynes, co-founder of the organization, will be the speakers. The April 18 lecture will emphasize concerns of the Coalition for Illinois Divestment from South Africa. Luke Tripp, coordinator of the Black American Studies program, will be the lecturer.

Being a Marine Corps Officer can open the door to opportunities you may have thought were beyond your reach. It helped Marine Officer Charles Bolden become a NASA astronaut. And if you're willing to make the commitment, it could help you also. You can get started while you're in college with our undergraduate officer commissioning program. You could take advantage of getting:

- $100 a month while in school
- Freshmen and Sophomores train during two six-week summer sessions each paying more than $1100
- Juniors train in one ten-week summer session and earn more than $1900

- Free civilian flying lessons
- A starting salary of more than $17,000

Immediately upon graduation you could become a Marine Officer. It's your choice. Maybe you're the kind of man we're looking for.

Vrdolyak keeps Democratic Party chair

By James Little
Of the Associated Press

CHICAGO (AP) — The rooms are still filled with smoke, but the deals no longer involve a few men crowded around tables in the semi-darkness.

No matter — Edward R. Vrdolyak operates as well before television lights as no lights, with few bargainers or many. And he still wins.

He won Monday when he beat back a challenge from Mayor Harold Washington, the latest in a long line of formidable political opponents, to win a second term as chairman of the powerful Cook County Democratic Party.

"I'm proud to accept. I wanted it. I wanted it from the first day I got into politics," Vrdolyak said after defeating 6th Ward Alderman Timothy Evans, slated by Washington's supporters.

It was another impressive trophy for the 47-year-old Vrdolyak, one of six children born to Croatian parents in a small apartment above the tavern his father operated. And Vrdolyak's acceptance speech reflected the philosophy he has held since stepping into Chicago politics during the heyday of the late Mayor Richard J. Daley.

"Politicians are real, modern cavemen who still carry clubs, but wear suits and ties" he said.

Vrdolyak, an attorney who fashioned a million-dollar law business around personal-injury claims, began accumulating power in the early 1970s. He organized the "coffee rebellion," a group of aldermen who met to grouse about the heavy-handed tactics of Tom Keane, Daley's City Council floor leader. Vrdolyak won grudging admiration from Daley, a club-wielder himself.

Jane M. Byrne, who defeated Daley's handpicked successor, Michael Bilandic, in the 1979 mayoral race, promised to rein in Vrdolyak, whom she called the leader of an "evil cabal" bent on destroying the city.

But Vrdolyak forced Mrs. Byrne into a series of accommodations, then slowly won her trust. In so time, he was Mrs. Byrne's council floor leader and accepted her help in dumping George Danne, the last warhorse in Daley's political stable, as chairman of the Cook County Democratic Party.

After Washington defeated Mrs. Byrne and Richard M. Daley, son of the late mayor, in the 1983 Democratic primary, he promised an end to "business as usual."

The first targeted politician was Vrdolyak.

Washington's attack added a new and divisive element to the kind of political brawls Vrdolyak had won before — race.

As the city's first black mayor, Washington had little trouble stirring up dislike for the man he accused of being "an obstructionist."

Vrdolyak rounded up members of the Old Guard who had survived Washington's election, crafting a majority of 29 aldermen and drafting a secret plan to keep control of the City Council. When, during his first council session last May, Washington realized what had happened, he gavelled the meeting to a close and walked out.

But Vrdolyak, living up to his "Fast Eddie" nickname, rammed through all his proposed measures, virtually shutting the mayor and his supporters out of positions of power in the council.

Since then, both sides have been forced to give and Vrdolyak appears to have won at least grudging respect from the mayor.

Prose memoir to be present at Calipre

Hilda Doolittle's prose memoir "The Gift" will be presented on the Calipre Stage at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday.

The work was adapted and directed by Judith Cassery, a graduate student in speech communications. The story is set during the bombings of London during World War II, which triggered the author's memories of childhood and life.

Tickets are $2.50 and may be purchased between 1 and 4 p.m. through Friday at the Calipre Box Office, located in the main office of the Department of Speech Communication.

Tickets may also be purchased outside the theater, located on the second floor of the Communications Building, before each performance.

Ave. and Stones By George at 218 S. Illinois Ave. The city will continue to negotiate with the owners for the purchase of the two properties, Dixon said.

If the city can acquire the remaining two properties in that block of the redevelopment site, the city will have a better chance of attracting a developer for a redevelopment project, Dixon said.

Dixon said Monday that the city does not have a specific development project slated for the area. The city owns four of 12 targeted properties in the adjoining 300 block of South Illinois Avenue, originally slated to be the site of the hotel and conference center.

The council also formally approved the 1984 Motor Fuel Tax Maintenance Program in the amount of $271,834. The city received about the same amount of Motor Fuel Tax funds for use in capital improvement projects.

The council approved an amended plan that delayed resurfacing of Monroe Street between University and South Illinois avenues in the event that sewer work is needed for a downtown redevelopment project.

The council also gave informal approval to a plan by Dixon that would provide for the city to pay the cost of a 32 percent increase in health insurance premiums for city employees.

Blue Cross - Blue Shield officials notified the city of the rate increase on March 20, which gave the city too little time to thoroughly examine all the alternatives, Dixon said. The tentative fiscal year 1984-85 city budget provides for a 10 percent increase in health insurance premiums.

Davidson said she asked to be cut to 75 percent of her full-time salary so she could complete the work required of her both in Chicago and here. She said she has spent at least 14 working days in Carbondale since being hired, but that the work required of her did not necessitate being in Carbondale all the time.

Cox said Davidson's work with the Chicago Board of Education was a boost for her academic reputation. "When we hired her, we felt that it was significant that she be there," he said.

Lockhart, who could not be reached for comment late Tuesday, claimed in the letter that Davidson hired Cox as a consultant for the Chicago board. Lockhart called the action "more than a coincidence."

BUT DAVIDSON said Cox was never actually hired by the board, though he was reimbursed for travel expenses for two days of consultation.

Cox said he has been "setting up a research design" for the board - an activity which he said was not a type of consultation service he would charge for. He said that if he is consulted again, he may charge $150 per day depending on the type of work performed.

Finally, Lockhart claimed that another professor, Paul Kim, was hired last year at a salary almost $5,000 per year more than his "base salary" - a term which Cox said has no meaning at SIU-C.

"There is no base salary for Dr. Kim's position," Cox said. The figure Lockhart gives as the "base salary" is actually the median salary for faculty members of Kim's rank in the College of Human Resources, he added.

sharing the monetary risk involved. The bookstore would probably need the University to provide temporary cash to tide the bookstore over in June and September, he said.

Students sometimes can't afford to buy books when classes begin after paying housing, tuition and fees, which are greater priorities to the University, according to David Strong, USO student welfare commissioner. Only a limited number of short-term loans are available, and first semester freshmen are excluded from taking them out. Amounts of the 60-day loans aren't always enough to pay student's total book bill.

Also, student workers don't receive their first paychecks until four weeks after they begin work, and financial aid credit checks are typically not mailed until the third week of each semester.

The University of Illinois has a book charge system, in which $700,000 worth of charges cost its accounts receivable division $40,000 each year. The U of I covers items which are charged, which eliminates any cash flow problems.

But at SIU-C, departments are only reimbursed for items after the charges are paid, according to Jim Belt, assistant to the vice president for financial affairs. Students can currently charge prescriptions at Health Service Pharmacy to their University accounts, but inventory can only be replaced when charges are paid after students pay their balances.

There is a multitude of logistical problems with the current proposal, however. Corker said no provisions have been made for buy-back and return policies, which might allow students to charge books and then make cash selling their books back.

Swirburne said the University shouldn't create a mechanism which would simply allow students to delay paying their bills. Belt said there should be specific criteria to limit charging to only needy students.

Kilgust said Strandell's cell had been checked by guards "about every thirty minutes" and that although video surveillance is used in some parts of the jail, no camera is used in the women's cell.

Police said Strandell had been eligible for release on $100 bond. According to Styninger, several TKE members had paid Mowatt's bail and returned to the fraternity house for more money to post bail for Strandell. When they returned to the courthouse, Strandell was dead.

Friends of Strandell expressed surprise over the apparent suicide. They said Strandell was outgoing and, although he was not living in the TKE house, was active in the fraternity. One friend said Strandell had a tendency to become argumentative, especially when he had been drinking.

"He didn't use drugs, had a lot of friends and went out with a girl in one of the sorority houses," Styninger said. "I can't imagine him doing anything like this."

Strandell had first attended SIU-C in the spring of 1980. Styninger said he had then transferred to Northwestern University. Northwestern officials said Strandell had attended the university's College of Continuing Education in the fall of 1982, but did not have records stating he had attended at any other time. Strandell returned to SIU-C this semester.

the rings with his 9.65 average, .07 better than the closest competitor. Brendan Price took the top spot on the vault with his 9.71 average which beat Illinois' Charles Lakes' 9.65 average. Price also tied for fourth on the parallel bars with a 9.54 average.

Herb Voss finished third on the pommel horse with his 9.8 average. Finishing ahead of him were Joe Kieso (Northern Illinois, 9.88 average) and Joe Ledvora (Illinois, 9.81). Lawrence Williamson took the second spot on the floor exercise with a 9.69 average.

Williamson also took a seventh spot on the vault. All-arounder John Levy finished seventh in all-around with a 55.92. Illinois' Lakes placed first with a 57.14. Levy finished 10th in the region on the high bar with a 9.66 average.

Cardinals rough up Valenzuela

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Darrell Porter homered, tripled and singled as the St. Louis Cardinals pounded Fernando Valenzuela and the Los Angeles Dodgers 11-7 in Tuesday's season opener.

Porter lashed a solo homer in the second inning and tripled in another run during a five-run Cardinal outburst in the fourth that gave them the lead for keeps.

Valenzuela was tagged for six runs on eight hits and two walks in the three-plus innings he worked. Danny Cox, who replaced St. Louis starter Dave LaPoint with two runners on base and none out in the third, pitched four scoreless innings to get the victory.

Los Angeles, opening before a crowd of 50,503 at Dodger Stadium, jumped to a 3-0 lead in the first inning on Mike Marshall's two-run double and a run-scoring single by Candy Maldonado.

Porter's homer and a run-scoring single by George Hendrick trimmed the deficit to 3-2. St. Louis then moved ahead with its five-run fourth and made it 9-3 with two runs in the seventh.

Terry Whitfield, returning to the major leagues after playing three years in Japan, blasted a three-run homer during a four-run Los Angeles rally in the seventh that cut the margin to 9-7.

Davis' double lifts Cubs to win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The season was not yet an inning old Tuesday and Chicago Cubs catcher Jody Davis already was feeling rotten.

A couple of hours later, after his two-run double combined with solo homers by Keith Moreland and Ron Cey to lead the Cubs to a 5-3 victory over the San Francisco Giants, Davis was a lot happier.

The Giants, though, already were saying "Wait 'til next year" as they disappointed a crowd of 52,700 by dropping their season opener for the fifth straight year.

Davis' throwing error on an attempt to stop John LeMaster from stealing second base in the first inning sailed into center field and led to a 1-0 Giants' lead. LeMaster went to third on the play and scored on Manny Trillo's single.

"I was awful nervous out there with the big crowd, opening day and everything," Davis said. "I threw it well but I had no idea where it was going. Thank goodness I got that run back, plus one."

Davis also was pleased to be batting sixth in the lineup of new Manager Jim Frey.

Kush says Colts will compete

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Coach Frank Kush isn't promising a championship for Indianapolis yet, but he's confident the Colts are "making the type of progress you'd expect of a young football team."

The National Football League "is very competitive," the coach of the newly relocated franchise said. "In college football, you're going to blow some people out. You can point to certain games and know you should win."

"In professional football, that doesn't happen. Teams are relatively equal. It takes time and it takes experience (to build a consistent winner). But if you're relatively competitive, you'll stay in with most teams."

"The key is being competitive," said Kush.

The Colts, who transferred here from Baltimore last week, were winless in Kush's first season during the strike-shortened 1982 campaign. They won four of their first six games, then tailed off to a 7-9 finish last year. The team is still young, the coach said.

"We started off extremely well (in 1983) and then hit a dry spell, probably because of a lack of experience," Kush said.

"We're going to have a very tough schedule this year. We will be a better football team but possibly not have as good a record."

"We are going to be looking for defensive backs and defensive down people," he said of the Colts' top priorities in this year's college draft. "We have eight picks in the first five rounds, and we think that will be extremely beneficial to us."

The Colts' offense is led by Curtis Dickey, who rushed for 1,122 yards and caught 24 passes for 483 yards a year ago, and Randy McMillan, who gained 802 yards on the ground and another 195 yards on 24 pass receptions.

Kush described Dickey and

McMillan as one of the "best combinations" in the NFL and said the team would remain "ground oriented" even with the return of quarterback Mark Herrmann, who missed most of last season with a broken collarbone.

Herrmann, a former All-American at Purdue, is a native of Carmel, an Indianapolis suburb.

"I'm going to put a lot of pressure on your guy, Herrmann," Kush joked. "He and (starting quarterback) Mike Page are very compatible. Mark has more experience, and if he had been healthy, we probably would have used him more."

Kush said the abrupt move to Indianapolis and the possible legal action by Baltimore shouldn't affect the players.

Kush said the Colts will conduct a mini-camp in the 61,000-seat Hoosier Dome in late May.

Royals beat Yankees

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Bud Black and Dan Quisenberry combined on a three-hitter, and Ontz Concepcion hit Ron Guidry's first pitch of the season over the left-field fence, boosting the Kansas City Royals to a 4-2 victory over the New York Yankees in the teams' season opener Tuesday.

Black retired the first 12 Yankees he faced before he gave up a leadoff single to Don Baylor and a home run to Dave Winfield in the fifth. Quisenberry, whose 45 saves last year set a major league record, earned his first save of 1984 by pitching the final two innings, giving up one hit.

Guidry gave up eight hits and all four Kansas City runs in five innings.

Frank White doubled with one out in the first and made it 2-0 when Steve Balboni hit an RBI single.

Phoenix places five cyclists

The SIU-C-Phoenix race team placed five cyclists in the top 15 at the St. Louis Spring Criterium Series, which ended Sunday.

The series, run the past three Sundays, was raced on a 25-mile criterium with a 0.8-mile loop.

In the women's division, Sue Powell took second overall after finishing first, second and third in the three races. Brad Wingate placed fifth overall, while Bob Shaffer took 14th overall in Category 4. In Category 2 competition, Lynn Irons placed third and Mick Letourneau took fifth. Irons and Letourneau placed second and third, respectively, in Sunday's race and were helped by Dave Brown's blocking.

Softballers split as offense slumps

The SIU-C softball team split a doubleheader it should have swept Tuesday, according to Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer. SIU-C edged Southeast Missouri 4-3 in the opener but were shut out, 4-0, in the nightcap.

"We just didn't get our offense going," said Brechtelsbauer. "We didn't take it to them. We didn't see the same kind of confidence we had been seeing. I believe we're a better team than we showed today."

Brechtelsbauer thought the Salukis lacked intensity at the plate, and made too many mistakes in the field.

SIU-C won the first game behind the pitching of Sunny Clark, who, once again, pitched well enough to win. Clark had a tooth pulled the night before the game, said Brechtelsbauer, and "wasn't as sharp but considering the circumstances she was alright."

The Salukis took a 3-0 lead in the fourth inning, when Toni Grounds cleared the bases with a double into the gap in left center field. Nancy McAuley, Kathy Freske and Cindi Knight all scored. McAuley and Freske had reached on errors and Knight had singled.

Southeast Missouri tied it in the fifth inning, when Clark allowed four hits, the only hits the Bears managed during the game. An error led to the uprising; third baseman Chris Brewer threw low to second base on a force play and Freske couldn't make the play. The three runs all scored after two were out.

Bouncing back, SIU-C scored the winning run in the fifth, when Knight singled home Flens, who had singled and went to second on a passed ball.

The Salukis had just three hits in the second game and wasted a fine pitching effort by Eileen Maloney. Maloney had one bad inning, allowing four hits and two runs in the sixth inning, but was let down by errors, including one of her own, in the seventh inning when the Bears also scored twice.

"Eileen improved today," said Brechtelsbauer. "She threw some good pitches. Her form is much better."

The doubleheader was originally scheduled to be played at Cape Girardeau, but heavy rains Monday night canceled the game. The Saluki diamond, protected by a tarp, was in good shape, said Brechtelsbauer, so the games were moved.

Only Sox will repeat as divisional champs

It's time again for the Great American Game. That's right folks, it's baseball season.

This year's season promises to be exciting, with close finishes in the American League East and both divisions of the National League.

In the AL East, look for the young, upstart Toronto Blue Jays to finish a couple of games ahead of the veteran Baltimore Oriole squad.

The Jays are loaded at every position except for third base, catcher and in left-handed pitching. But Manager Bobby Cox knows how to get the most out of his players.

The Blue Jays have the most talented, young outfield in the big leagues. Look for Jesse Barfield, Lloyd Moseby and George Bell to launch out 20 homers each.

With the exception of third base, the Jays' infield is first-rate with Willie Upshaw at first base, Damaso Garcia at second and Alfredo Griffin at shortstop. The Jays also have the best backup shortstop in both leagues in Tony Fernandez. The platooning duo of Rance Mulliniks and Garth Iorg at third does provide good, solid hitting while the catching pair of Buck Martinez and Ernie Whitcomb; the AL's third-highest home run total from that position in 1983.

Toronto starters Dave Stieb, Jim Clancy and Luis Leal are a good bet to win 15 games apiece. Both Stieb and Clancy have 20-win ability, while Leal isn't too far behind. If anything causes the Jays to stumble this year it will be from the lack of wins by a left-hander. Last year the Jays didn't get any.

In the AL West, the White Sox will repeat with relative ease this year. The addition of Tom Seaver to an already outstanding pitching staff consisting of LaMarr Hoyt, Richard Dotson, Floyd Banister and Britt Burns will pay dividends in the playoffs. Having Julio Cruz for an entire year won't hurt either.

In the NL East, look for the Pittsburgh Pirates to climb to the top in the final week of the season. The Pirates have six solid starters in Larry McWilliams, John Candelaria, Rick Rhoden, Lee Tunnell, Jose DeLeon and newcomer John Tudor. The Pirates have something every team in baseball dreams of — three solid left-handed pitchers (McWilliams, Candelaria and Tudor.)

But the Pirates don't have the big bats of Dave Parker and Mike Easler in the outfield anymore, and this year's starting trio of Brian Harper, Marvell Wynne and Doug Frobel combined for just 17 home runs and 57 RBI — the big leagues last year.

The San Diego Padres look like the team to beat in the NL West this year, although the Dodgers may argue. The team looks pretty solid on paper, but the team still has some question marks.

First, speedster Alan Wiggins has moved from his left-field spot to the new environment of second base, where he looked sharp enough in spring training to warrant the release of Juan Bonilla, last season's regular second baseman. Next, this season's regular center fielder will be minor-league phenom Kevin McReynolds, who still must prove he can hit major-league pitching. Former Cub Carmelo Martinez will be the regular left fielder, although he is better suited for first base.

However, the Padres aren't about to move their regular first baseman, Steve Garvey. Last year, Garvey was on his way to his best season ever when he was injured. Another good season from him and catcher Terry Kennedy will bring the Padres the pennant.

The Padres' pitching staff is young and just coming into its own. In left-handers Tim Lollar, Dave Dravecky and Mark Thurmond and righties Eric Show, Andy Hawkins and Ed Whitson, the Padres have good balance. A bullpen with Goose Gosage, Sid Monge and Luis DeLeon isn't all that bad either.

So there are the picks this year. Look for these teams' standings throughout the year and see if they are at the top.

Gymnasts rated best in Mideast

Saluki gymnastics Coach Bill Meade was informed by the NCAA Rules Committee on Tuesday that his Salukis have been selected to participate in the NCAA Gymnastics Top 10 Championship: ps in Los Angeles, Calif., on April 22.

The Salukis, who posted a 14-2 dual meet record and a 278.14 season average, were unanimously picked as the top team in the Mideast region, beating out Minnesota. Penn State was selected as the Eastern Region representative, Nebraska the Midwest and UCLA the West.

Other teams that will participate in the Top 10 Championship are Minnesota, Ohio State, Iowa, Illinois, Iowa State and Oklahoma. Two teams that thought they might have a chance were New Mexico and Brigham Young, but their schedules and season averages were not tough enough or high enough.

Meade said it felt "great" that the Salukis made it, and that the other teams that made it were the teams that deserved to.

"Every team listed in the top 10 has scored a 279 or better at least once this season," Meade said. "There are no dogs in that lineup — other than the Salukis."

UCLA easily was top team in the West, averaging 282 points in an undefeated season. UCLA might get the edge in the meet because it is being held on UCLA's home court, the Pauley Pavilion. Nebraska averaged 279.47 and Penn State had a 279 average. Even though Ohio State had a 279.61 (second best in the nation), it still had to bow to Minnesota (276.86) because Minnesota won the Big 10 Championship. The same goes for Illinois (278.07) and Iowa (276.30). Oklahoma's 278.99 average was exceptional considering the team had a 273 average in early February.

The final rankings from the Mideast region also came out and some Salukis found themselves on top. Gregg Upperman took the top spot on

Baseball team gets rained out again

By Daryl Van Schoewes

Rain washed out the Saluki-Evansville double-header scheduled for Tuesday, marking the sixth time SIU-C has been rained out this spring. Five games slated for Aoe Martin Field have been rained out this season. SIU-C, 6-11, has yet to play a home game.

The weather is probably giving Coach Ichy Jones and his players ugly flashbacks to last season, when 22 games — 15 at home — were canceled. Courting the last four games of last season, the Salukis have had nine straight rainouts.

"We need to play," Jones said Tuesday. "We need to swing the bats and play on our home field before the conference gets under way."

The Saluki home opener has now been pushed back to Saturday, when SIU-C and Bradley begin a four-game series. The MVC foes will play double-headers on Saturday and Sunday.

The Salukis, who have struggled of late, had a spirited practice at Abe Martin Monday, and were eagerly awaiting Tuesday's games.

"It was important for us to play on our own field, in front of our own fans," Jones said. "Now, both Bradley and us will be playing on it for the first time. If nothing else, it's important that we get our fans to generate some enthusiasm and get behind us."

The Salukis travel to Murray State Wednesday for one game against the 9-7 Racers, who own a four-game winning streak.

Last weekend, the Racers beat Western Michigan twice and took two of three games from Iowa in their cozy ballpark. Murray slammed 14 home runs in that stretch, boosting its season total to 34, and scored 44 runs. Their big hitter is Gary Blaine, who has 10 round-trippers and 20 RBI to go along with his .328 average. He collected five homers and 10 RBI last weekend.

Chris Barber leads the team in hitting (.420) and has four homers and 10 RBI.

The Racers' eye-popping statistics are probably deceiving, in light of their home ballpark's cozy dimensions: 320 feet down the foul lines, 256 to the power alleys and 360 to dead-center field.

The Salukis will probably start Paul Saikia, whose 3.38 earned run average is the best among SIU-C starters. Saikia is 1-0. Jones said he'll probably use Rich Koch and possibly some other pitchers "to get ourselves shaped up for the weekend."

Murray State's probable starter is junior left-hander Don Neufelder. The Racers' southpaw is 1-1 with a 2.53 ERA.
