Council bids won by Yow and Tuxhorn

Retired Code Enforcement Director John Yow and independent Keith Tuxhorn were elected to the City Council seats that were up for election.

Both Yow and Tuxhorn were on the campaign trail Tuesday. Yow said he visited more than 50 houses reminding voters it was election day. Tuxhorn said he spent the day at Brush Towers and the SIUC Student Center trying to garner student votes.

Both Tuxhorn and Jones told the Daily Egyptian that they were happy with their primary results.

Tuxhorn was elected to the third in the February council primary. He took his campaign to both the city and SIUC students, promising students better council representation and a "feeling," leadership to the rest of the city.

Both Yow and Tuxhorn were elected to the general election Tuesday, Yow said he had more than 50 houses reminding voters it was election day.

Tuxhorn said he spent the day at Brush Towers and the SIUC Student Center trying to garner student votes.

Tuxhorn easily won the 23rd precinct at Grinnell Hall and the 25th Precinct at Lentz Hall, both of which are on the SIUC campus, although he received only 20 votes at Grinnell and 40 votes at Lentz.

Both Yow and Tuxhorn were elected to the city council.

Senate pressures Reagan on exports

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee, stepping up the pressure for lifting barriers, approved a bill Tuesday ordering President Reagan to lash back at Japan in 90 days unless it opens its markets.

On a 96-9 vote, the Senate approved a non-binding resolution that the Senate said contained a section which was becoming a block to entering trade negotiations.

The resolution required the Senate to outline a new ordinance that would permit mutual security, nuclear space weapons and the sharing of technology that would permit mutual security based on defensive rather than offensive weapons systems.

The Soviet Union is demanding that the Senate lift the embargo on the research program as the price for progress on eliminating existing offensive nuclear weapons at the arms talks, which resume in 90 days to discuss long-range nuclear missiles, medium-range nuclear weapons, and defensive nuclear arms and space weapons.

A brief U.S. statement, adhering to the Senate resolution on arms, said only that the negotiating group on arms will hold its second working session on Wednesday. The third set of negotiations, on medium-range weapons, is scheduled to end April 25. A second round is expected to open in late May or early June.

Moscow may plan arms ban

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — U.S. and Soviet negotiators on space weapons met for two hours Tuesday in their second working session as Moscow was reportedly planning formal proposals aimed at halting research into President Reagan's "Star Wars" program.

Highly placed sources close to the talks said the Soviet proposals would center on measures to ban arms from space and halt research into defensive anti-missile systems, specifically President Reagan's "Star Wars" plan.

Reagan repeatedly has ruled out any possibility of halting research into his Strategic Defense Initiative, aimed at developing an anti-ballistic system that could shoot down incoming nuclear missiles while they are still in space.

The Reagan administration plans to spend at least $35 billion over the next five years to research space weaponry and has invited 17 U.S. allies to participate in the research.

Reagan and his Soviet counterparts discussed only possible non-nuclear space weapons and the sharing of technology that would permit mutual security based on defensive rather than offensive weapons systems.

Council to revise Strip liquor laws

Carbondale's Halloween ordinance, which prohibits any Class A liquor licenses on the Strip should be "prohibited and not replaced when current licensees go out of business." The agreements resulted from talks between two U.S. trade envoy, Gusted Siger, of the White House, and Undersecretary of Commerce Lionel Olmer, with Nakasone in Japan last week. The two points were among a long list of U.S. requests in the telecommunications field. "Our trade policy toward Japan is clear," the department said in a statement. "We want the same access to Japan's markets that Japanese companies have to ours. Japan needs to open its markets fully to American products and services." The United States also is seeking more open Japanese markets in the areas of electronics, forest products, including paper, and medical equipment and pharmaceuticals.

O'NEILL ACCUSES REAGAN OF IGNORING NEED FOR CUTS

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan blamed his predecessors for the budget deficit in a published interview Tuesday, but House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill accused Reagan of burying his head "in the sand like an ostrich" over the most expensive budget item -- defense spending. Even Senate Republicans are asking Reagan to agree to spend less on the military and they held another meeting with White House aides Tuesday to try and get Reagan's agreement on a budget resolution.

Meese proposes relaxed bank privacy laws

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- Attorney General Edwin Meese, pointing to increased use of bank fraud and instances of government policy that privacy laws be loosened to let officials examine customer records without telling customers. Meese noted that there were 79 bank failures and 27 savings and loan failures in 1984, the highest number since the beginning of federal controls in the 1930s. One of the proposals is that banks be required to report on any fraud immediately to authorities.

Pentagon says Soviets ahead of 'Star Wars'

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- The Soviet Union pressed its military buildup along a broad front in 1984, experimenting with laser weapons and pushing ahead of the U.S. "Star Wars" effort by developing prototype missile defenses, the Pentagon said Tuesday. The report, titled "Soviet Military Power 1985," said Moscow has expanded its buildup on the ground, in the air, and on and under the sea and in space in an "unceasing introduction of new nuclear and conventional" weapons.

Reagan's summit proposal gets Soviet reply

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- President Reagan, encouraged by a positive Soviet response to his proposal for a new superpower summit, is preparing to announce that the Soviet Union and the United States have agreed in principle to begin negotiations aimed at limiting nuclear weapons.

Armed teenager takes hostages in classroom

DETROIT (UPI) -- A teenager armed with a rifle who said he wanted "a new start in life" held three second-graders hostage in their classroom for about four hours Tuesday, and released them unharmed and surrendered, police said. The gunman entered Evelyn Mitchell's classroom at the Loving Elementary School about 11 a.m. and, after telling the teacher he needed help, took a small-caliber rifle from a garbage bag, Detroit School Superintendent Arthur Jefferson said.

Sudanese president says coup attempt foiled

WASHINGTON (UPI) -- Sudanese President Jaafar Numeiry said Tuesday he thwarted a plot last month by Moslem fundamentalists armed by Iran to carry out a coup in the southern Sudanese city of El Obeid, which has been dubbed "summit fever," Reagan confirmed that Gorbatchev had responded in writing to his summit invitation of last month. Senior administration officials said the response was positive in tone. But officials also stressed there had been no agreement on a specific time for such a summit, which would be the first full-scale U.S.-Soviet summit in more than five years.

Underworld figures found guilty in gang feud

ST. LOUIS (UPI) -- Underworld figure Paul Lessire and four associates were found guilty Tuesday of participating in a three-year gangland feud with a rival faction that killed three people and injured three others. A jury of six men and six women deliberated 12 days in reaching its verdict. The five were prosecuted under federal racketeering statutes because the violence was said to have started over a struggle for control of a gambling business or offices.

Out-of-state bank offers to buy failed Ohio bank

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) -- An out-of-state bank has offered to buy the closed Home State Savings Bank, the second largest thrift institution in Ohio, and guarantee depositors full protection of their frozen savings. Gov. Richard F. Celeste said Tuesday. Celeste did not identify the bank he said has offered to buy Home State, which has been closed since March because of a run on deposits. He said he has asked the Ohio General Assembly to meet Thursday and Friday to pass a bill permitting the sale to an out-of-state institution and that he will give Ohio banks until Thursday to make a better bid.
Council to retain insurance for retired city employees

By Rob Titla
Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council voted Monday to allow retired disabled city employees in the city's group insurance plan instead of requiring the former employees to accept other insurance plans. The council also approved several operating procedures for insurance coverage for city employees Monday.

Several retired and disabled employees led by retired city manager Carroll Fry were there to protest an insurance report by City Manager Bill Dixon.

Dixon suggested in the report that retired and disabled city employees be allowed to remain part of the city's group insurance until they reach age 65 or become eligible for Medicare supplemental insurance.

SPEAKING FOR the group, Fry said Dixon's report should not be accepted as "holy writ." He said the Medicare supplemental insurance would not provide the same type of group insurance coverage as the current city group insurance plans from Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Illinois or Shawnee Health Maintenance Organization.

He said the Medicare plan puts a "cap" on the amount of money that will be paid for medical treatments. He said the cost of medical care exceeds the cap and the city supplemental insurance pays would have to be paid by the individual.

Dixon said the report said that the experience rating of the city group was being driven up because of the risk of retired disabled employees. The experience rating determines the cost of the group insurance and is based on the amount of insurance money paid out by the insurance company.

THE RETIRED and disabled employees pay their own premiums, but the group can leave the group and continue paying group premiums, according to Dixon. Current city employees pay only part of their insurance rates with the city picking up the rest.

Fry said that SIUC has a similar employee health care program. He said councilmen Patrick Kelley and Neil Dillard, both SIUC employees, will be allowed to retire from group coverage at a certain cost when they retire. He said Mayor Helen Westberg comes under the group coverage because her husband is a retired black professor.

Fry charged that the city cannot force the retired employees to leave the group plan if they are carried by another group. He said the $20,000 group insurance Providence between the city and its retired and disabled employees. Fry said keeping the pensioners in the group has been the city's practice for 25 years.

He also asserted that the administration did not seek the opinions of the former employees before proposing the coverage.

OTHER SUGGESTIONS for operating procedures concerning employees' insurance were:

- The council agreed to increase the amount of time a new employee must work before becoming eligible for city group insurance. The current length is 30 days. As of May 1, 1990, that will increase to 60 days.

- Permanent part-time employees hired after the beginning of the new fiscal year will have to work 1,000 hours in a year before being eligible for insurance. The amount the city pays toward part-time employees' insurance will be based on the number of hours they work a year.

An audit was approved by the council for all employees to determine if they or members of their immediate family are covered by other group insurance plans. Rate increases for SIUC employees in group insurance will be based on the number of hours they work a year.

The council agreed to a proposed change in the city's expense account in insurance deductions for one pay period. The city insurance program delayed the increase which was supposed to take effect April 12. The city will pay $5,000 for the new deduction. The new deductions will begin with employees' April 26 paychecks.

Grand jury indicts dentist and wife

By Jane Grandallo

Diane E. Hebel, wife of Carbondale dentist Robert L. Hebel, was indicted by a Jackson County grand jury Wednesday on one count of child pornography.

The charge is that Hebel took a picture of her 1.0-year-old daughter and, while her husband was at work, Hebel kept the photo and kept it as a "holi writ." Hebel said Dixon's report should be submitted for consideration by other group in insurance plans. Rate increases for SIUC employees in group insurance will be based on the number of hours they work a year.

Although the IBHE study addressed only faculty salaries, salaries for non-teaching professionals are equally depressed. This is for the exception of our top administrators. A recent "Fact File" published in The Chronicle of Higher Education (March 20, 1995) shows that salaries paid SIUC administrators fall significantly above the median for public administrators at "All Universities." In a world where corporate executives earn millions of dollars a year, a $20,000 per annum salary to a four-year-old boy is a journeyman shortstop earns more in two years than an outstanding school teacher earns in a lifetime, inequities between top administrators and the faculty and staff may be even worse.

Although the amount of an issue but what that inequity symbolizes that most troubles us. The University Professionals of SIU and the AFT believe that this is our function to devote ourselves to the limit. A black peasant and financial resources to right this balance—to enhance the rewards for SIUC faculty and staff by both increasing the size of the SIU pie and increasing the share that goes to faculty and professional staff.

What this does is to make the local economy more prosperous by increasing the tax base and increasing the workforce.

We can do this because collective bargaining can make us and the other university locals in Illinois a potent political force.

To illustrate what a union can do, we should note that while Illinois university salaries increased by under 15 percent during the last three years, the United University Professionals, the AFT-IAUP union that represents faculty and staff in the State University of New York, got increases totaling 25 percent. And several years before, when the state of New York was going to cut SUNY's budget by $223 million, a move that would have cost nearly 1,500 jobs, the university's effective lobbying in Albany persuaded the legislature to restore the funds.

We anticipate the FY1996 will be a better year than any in the last decade, but it is likely to be a merger on the edge of reality. The better times ahead may be a short-term benefit to the university: equipment, adequate travel funds, financial aid for students, and so on. Without a union, we can, of course, resort to prayer. With a union, we can use political power, and save the prayers for emergencies.

Where prayer has failed, the union will not

A loss of funds?

A city report recently released indicates that President Reagan's cuts amount to $533 million in federal general revenue funds.

The 1985-1986 general revenue sharing program, whereby local communities receive a percentage of their annual budget funding, has been put on the block by Reagan, who says that the program is too costly and, ultimately, unnecessary.

The funds Carbondale would lose as a result of Reagan's cuts account for 4 percent of the budget for repairing streets and sewers, 60 percent of the Human Resources Division budget and 40 percent of the Comprehensive Child Care budget. Scraping the revenue-sharing program would seriously impair, if not eliminate, these programs.

In his budget frenzy, Reagan has spared no expense in finding inappropriate and unnecessary programs to axe. Like his proposal to cut all funding of Amtrak, Reagan's answer to the $4.5 billion recently allocated for the General Revenue Sharing program is to kill it outright. The results of such a cut could be disastrous to Carbondale.

The president's zeal in trimming the fat from the budget is, on its face, unpersuasive, but the deal with which he would eliminate such "wasteful" and "unnecessary" programs as general revenue sharing is to be looked on with contempt.

With $15 billion recently allocated for 23 MX missiles, and an outrageous $38.5 billion a year going toward military pensions, the justification for eliminating such worthwhile programs as revenue sharing is little sense to people who programs with the immediate impact on local communities, like Carbondale, when defense contractors like General Electric are caught purposely misusing taxpayers' dollars. When billions upon billions are laid on the Pentagon's doorstep.

Blue Jeans Day

Blue Jeans Day is upon Carbondale once again, and with it the controversy concerning gay rights and the wisdom of using blue jeans as a symbol of homosexuality.

A week of activities aimed at raising awareness as to the reality of gay life style is beginning this week; using blue jeans as a symbol of homosexuality, however, isn't.

The Gay and Lesbian People's Union says that blue jeans were once symbolic of homosexuality, but they are now as common as tennis shoes; earrings in the right - as opposed to the left - ear, are now the "in" symbol of homosexuality.

Regardless of what clothing or jewelry happens to be "in," the very act of patterning one's outward appearance to signal sexual preference is hypocritical and self-defeating.

If indeed the essence of the gay movement is to prove that there is no visible difference between heterosexuals and homosexuals, then why to the trouble of calling attention to one's sexual preferences? Furthermore, doing so only perpetuates the myth of what the gay movement is trying to dispel.

Come Thursday, it will be impossible to determine who's gay and who's not, based on who's wearing blue jeans. Wearing blue jeans is a cosmopolitan action - everybody wears them. Blue Jeans Day only serves to perpetuate the stereotype that the gay community, as a whole, is not in control of its public image.

The reason for 'hot' library

I would like to take this opportunity to respond to the letter in the March 26 Daily Egyptian, which said the "36" degree temperature is "just a little bit too warm" for the library. The library administration, staff, faculty and most users will agree with Mr. Sohn that on several afternoons the temperature in the library has been too warm. Several cold nights and a warm fall will bring reverse problems.

Frequent meetings have been held in the past in an attempt to discuss temperature control problems in the building. The system is old, about 27 years, and a complete installation or replacement of the system is needed, but this will be a major expenditure.

We will continue to report extremes in temperature to the Physical Plant and they will be investigated and corrected in the future.

AFFIRMATIVE ACTION OFFICER SEARCH NETS 5 CANDIDATES FOR INTERVIEWS

By Karen Willberger Staff Writer

Five candidates for a University affirmative action officer are scheduled for closed session interviews in April with faculty and staff and open session with the public, said Susan Rehwaald, assistant to the president.

The second national search for the officer may fill the almost 26-month vacancy. The tentative starting date for the position is Aug. 13.

The first national search, which began in spring 1984, ended in August with an empty liquor license. Localarend in Oct. 1984, mission almost always rules in have a monopoly because no Councilman Neil Dillard nearly impossible to revoke a license, which began in spring 1984.

The indictment replaced the criminal information filed against Azevedo in March, said Jackson County State's Attorney John Clemons.

Allan B. Azevedo, a Murphysboro dentist accused of arranging the shooting death of his ex-wife four years ago, remains in Jackson County Jail after a second request to lower his $300,000 bail was denied.

Azevedo, 48, also received an indictment from the Jackson County Grand Jury Tuesday morning that charged him with the murder of his ex-wife, Marie Azevedo.

COUNCIL: Liquor laws to be revised

"I just hope we aren't creating more problems than we are solving," she said.

Walter said that it is nearly impossible to revoke a liquor license because the Illinois State Liquor Commission almost always rules in favor of licensees. She suggested that the city adopt a maximum number of bars on South Illinois Avenue.

Tuxhorn said the council is protected against problems with license revocation because it can monitor licensees and decide not to renew licenses belonging to potential violators.

South Illinois Avenue bars have a monopoly because no new licenses are being issued. Walter said that by allowing new licenses, the city will improve the quality of the bars without necessarily increasing the quantity.

Councilman Patrick Kelley said the ordinance is unfair to potential businesses, and that open competition would improve the condition of the downtown area.

Councilman Neil Dillard said that some establishments have been bought or sold just to acquire a liquor license.
Money-back guarantee offered as incentive to see theater show

CHICAGO (AP) — Hell hath no fury like an audience scorned. With that in mind, a Chicago theater group has devised a novel way to attract patrons to Shakespeare's King Lear — a money-back guarantee.

The Chicago City Theater is having trouble drawing an audience for its rendition of the 300-year-old tragedy. So Joseph Ehrenberg, producing director, cooked up the refund offer.

"We invite you to a performance of... King Lear at the appropriate admission price," the theater's latest advertisement says. "If you find it without redeeming theatrical value, we shall cheerfully refund your money.

But to be reimbursed for the $10 ticket price, a patron would have to leave before intermission, Ehrenberg said. So far, no one has asked for a refund.

But, how sharper than a serpent's tooth, attendance is averaging just 30 patrons a night since the play opened Feb. 20 in the 144-seat North Side theater, located in the city's rundown Uptown area, Ehrenberg said.

In another marketing ploy with a twist, Ehrenberg is drawing attention to the slings and arrows of his play's misfortunes by publishing excerpts from bad reviews alongside bits from favorable critics.

"I think the point of publishing the bad reviews is that two of them appeared in publications which are widely read," he said. "To deny they exist is ridiculous."

Instead, he is using the differing reviews to urge people to make up their own minds by seeing the production.

"It ain't a hit 'til it hits you," Ehrenberg said, quoting poet Carl Sandburg.

One bad review in the theater's ad was one from the Chicago Sun-Times, which used the word "painful" to describe Ehrenberg's production of Lear, about an old monarch who divides his kingdom among his daughters, who then destroy themselves through their greed.

"Dien x a broken heart."

Underneath the "painful" ad was a Chicago Tribune excerpt saying the production "acquires itself admirably" and "comes remarkably close to touching the heart of the masterpiece."

The Chicago Reader, a free weekly, said the group was "simply foolish" to try to put on Lear.

But a reviewer for Gaylife, another weekly, said the "honest, clear" production is "not to be refused."

"All four people saw a performance on the same night," said Ehrenberg, who also plays Lear. "Two reviews said I was pretty good and two said I was pretty bad. You'll have to see for yourself."

Ehrenberg said the biggest problem for the group was the location of the Leo Lerner Theater, in a rough part of town.

Upcoming first-run play to tell life of clown creator

The very first showing of "Grimaldi: King of the Clowns," a biography of Joe Grimaldi, creator of colorful characters known as clowns, will be held at 8 p.m. April 8 and 9 in the Student Center Ballroom D.

Clowns are part of everyday life, in pain, sorrow, loneliness, humor and laughter, said Randy Murray, academic adviser in the Theater Department and playwright of "Grimaldi: King of the Clowns."

Murray's play stages the realistic portrayal of Grimaldi's life. Grimaldi lived a hard life, Murray said. He is known for having created the clown, but after the '50s of his life, he faced nothing but troubled times.

The play has something of interest for everyone, Murray said. "It's directed toward an adult audience to help them gain an understanding of the everyday clown."

Music and comedy are combined in this piece of dramatic entertainment, directed by graduate student Jimmy Spyre.

Theater majors Hez Odum and Veronica Petritto, and a 17-member cast will perform the play, written as Murray's master of fine arts project.

Murray said the production is being considered for next season at MCC and Theater.

This season the production is being sponsored by the Student Theater Guild in cooperation with the Student Center.

The Student Center ticket office is selling tickets at $10 for students and senior citizens and $13 for the general public.

Three "family-oriented" plays will be performed at the Theater Department's "Evening of New Plays," to be held at 5 p.m. April 5 in the Communications Building Laboratory Theater.

The plays, "The Video Prince," by graduate theater student Tim Bryant; "The Rehabilitation of Beulah Sims," by Pam Billingsley; and "Mendel Marantz Housewife," by Inga Cazers, emerged the winners of an annual playwriting contest sponsored by Christian Moe, professor in theater.

According to Bryant, the plays are ideal family entertainment because none of them have heavy subjects or bad language.

BRYANT AND CAZERS, who both work as publicists for the Theater Department, believe that family entertainment has been neglected by the Theater Department at SIU-C recently. According to Cazers, who judged some of the entries, the quality of the plays "ranged from great to lousy. However, she explained that most of the poorly-written scripts were written under deadline pressure.

"The Video Prince" tells the story of a young bully who gets his due when the physical manifestations of his many lies come through the television screen.

BRYANT, WHO HAS written Adam Shun, left, and Richard Carter decided what to do with a day off school during Thursday's rehearsal of "The Video Prince." "The story of a young bully who gets his due when the physical manifestations of his many lies come through the television screen."

"The Video Prince" is one of three plays in "Evening of New Plays" being performed Wednesday through Sunday at the Lab Theater.

Three parties run candidates for USO seats

By Cynthia Weiss
Staff Writer

The Independent Party, the Phoenix Party and Sun-Yat-Sen’s Revolutionary Action Party have candidates in the Undergraduate Student Organization election on April 18.

Heading the slate of the Independent Party are Dan DeFosse, president, and Mark Case for vice president. DeFosse, 28, and Case, 22, both stressed representation of all student groups as a basis of their party.

“We are an open party. Anyone can be a member,” DeFosse said. “We are the student body voice opposed to the idea of increasing student fees to provide for the bus service. DeFosse said he would stop pursuing the idea.

The Phoenix and the Sun-Yat-Sen parties are considering similar systems as part of their platforms. From the Phoenix Party, Tony Appleman, a public relations major, is running for president and Tracy Stone, a speech communications major, for vice president. Appleman, 24, described why his party chose the name Phoenix.

“The Phoenix is a mythical bird that consumed itself in flames and resurrected from the ashes in a more vigorous body. The goal of the Phoenix Party is to burn away apathy and resurrect from the ashes a more vigorous student body,” Appleman said.

APPLEMAN SAID he believes the USO would be a much more effective student government body if it had more students’ support, if the Board of Trustees believed students were behind the student government, it would pay more attention to USO concerns. Appleman said.

Appleman and Stone, both said students need to band together to fight education budget cut proposals.

Sun-Yat-Sen’s Revolutionary Action Party has pledged to uphold China’s three principles to the people: democracy, constitutionalism and the livelihood of the people. Rutledge said.

Rutledge said he would like to see a system of cooperation instead of confrontation between the USO and the SIU-C administration. Sun-Yat-Sen’s Revolutionary Action Party senators will stress negotiation and compromise if elected, he said.

“This doesn’t mean we’re going to be slaves of the administration. We expect cooperation on their part, too,” Rutledge said.

SUN-YAT-SEN senators would address such campus problems as the need to upgrade Morris library’s facilities and materials.

Members of Sun-Yat-Sen’s Revolutionary Action Party would also like to see a book certificate plan that would allow students who are waiting for grants and loans to buy books at the start of the semester and pay for them as their funds arrive. Rutledge said.

Appearing on the ballot April 18 will be seven senatorial candidates from the Independent Party, seven from the Phoenix Party, four from Sun-Yat-Sen’s Revolutionary Action Party and three Independents.

Only 25 students filed to run for 41 available USO senate seats. Four of the 25 students who filed have been found ineligible, said Lamont Brantley, USO elections commissioner.

Interested students may run write-in campaigns. Write-in candidates must meet senate eligibility requirements, which are good academic and disciplinary standing. Brantley said.
The highway project would begin in the Grand Tower area on the Mississippi River and run east to just south of Cave-in-Rock State Park on the Ohio River. In between, the road would "take you to just about every major tourist area in the national forest," Poshard said.

The highway has been estimated to be 75 to 100 miles long once completed and would link and improve existing gravel and dirt roads, Poshard said.

Besides giving tourists easier access to the focal points of Southern Illinois, Poshard said the project would give local residents a dependable highway during floods.

Poshard said the bill is in the Senate Rules Committee now, and will be going before the transportation or conservation committees within two weeks. He said he hopes a feasibility study on the project can be completed within one year, and that the highway can be functional by 1992.

Morgan told police that Hoback was trying to avoid Qualls' vehicle which was traveling north in the south-bound lane.

Gardeners reap profits, ag specialist says

By Rodney Sanford
Staff Writer

Warm weather is often accompanied by outdoor projects for health, fun or profit. Gardening combines all of these advantages, said Irvin Hillyer, a vegetable recreation specialist at the SIU-C School of Agriculture.

He estimates a family of four can save $80 with an average-size garden. However, there's more to successful, profitable planting than just burying seeds and praying for rain.

Beginning gardeners, Hillyer said, should produce only the amount of food they're sure they'll use. Tomatoes, leaf lettuce and pole beans are good "beginners'" crops, Hillyer said.

Before any tools break the soil, plans must be made about garden size, variety, location and other physical aspects.

Chancellor brings food, won't talk

AMHERST, Mass. (UPI) — The University of Massachusetts chancellor brought hamburgers and cold drinks Tuesday to about 30 students staging a sit-in but refused to address their grievances over planned fee increases and the closing of two buildings from student concerns.

Chancellor Joseph D. Duffy promised not to arrest the protesters, who camped out for a second straight day in the vice chancellor's office at the Whitmore Administration Building, a university spokesman said.

The students, who occupied the building Monday following a rally and march by 250 protesters, vowed to remain until their demands were addressed.

"The students can be there as long as they are not disrupting anything or damaging anything," said university spokeswoman Jeanne Kokloph Stover.

"(Duffy) is certainly interested in knowing the students' concerns. But he hasn't negotiated with the protesters and he doesn't plan to. I don't think he wants to get into a situation where he is negotiating with a bunch of protesters."

Duffy was unavailable for comment.

Practical sales experience offered to COBA students

By Kelly Beatty

The College of Business and Administration Student Council offers this kind of experience that can't be found in books, said Kathy Hartman, president of COBA council.

"We try to apply theories learned in class to practice," she said. Students acquire practical experience by solving funds from area businesses to help finance COBA.

"They make cold calls, just like in the real world," said Mike Gonzalez, president of student activity fees.

COBA counts approximately 12 business organizations, 12 independent representatives and the executive council. "We are an umbrella organization that offers members excellent opportunities to develop their skills and knowledge necessary to be an informed and effective business person," said Mike Bahe, independent representative for COBA.

COBA collaborates with an External Advisory Board, made up of 20 vice presidents from businesses such as Pepsi, to help answer any questions students may have about the business world, Hartman said.

COBA also helps in providing "the edge," Hartman said. This edge consists of learning how to be professional, how to talk to professionals and how to manage your time.

"In all the activities and events COBA is involved in, managing time is very important," she said.

Career Enhancement Week is one of the major events that COBA sponsors. The week focuses on business opportunities and the skills needed to get a job. Skills such as selling and interviewing are featured, Hartman said.

COBA is also involved in honoring outstanding members of the council and faculty in the College of Business through the COBA Cup and The Parade of Honors, she said.

COBA Cup is a trophy awarded at the end of the year to the member who has participated the most in all COBA-sponsored events, Hartman said.

The Parade of Honors awards members of COBA and faculty who have "gone above and beyond the call of duty" to help COBA, she said.

Washington wants Georgetown to recognize campus gay groups

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The District of Columbia is willing to approve a $70 million bond for Georgetown University renovation if the Roman Catholic school agrees to recognize campus gay groups, the city said Tuesday.

Pauline Schneider, director of the district's intergovernmental affairs, said a city council panel on Monday approved a bond for the university. But she said all applicants for bonds must agree to comply with the city's human rights laws.

There is a question over Georgetown's eligibility for a bond because gay students complain that the university does not give them equal access to its facilities.

Georgetown officials refused comment on the matter.

But Mac Gonzalez, president of the Lesbian and Gay men of Georgetown, said, "We're just asking that the school recognize that there are gay students on campus. I think the school will grant us our rights now. I'm very optimistic."

"When it all comes down to brass tacks, it will depend on how bad they want the money," Rob Keys, president of a gay group at the Georgetown Law Center, said gay organizations were not allowed a charter, blocking them from receiving school funds or space in the law center.

Keys said a lawsuit was first filed against the school in 1979 in an effort to gain school recognition.

But a Superior Court judge ruled that the school did not have to grant a charter to the gay groups because of the Catholic Church's disapproval of homosexuality — as long as students are allowed to meet on campus.

Keys said gay leaders have appealed the decision.

Senators to decide fee allocations

Student senators will decide Wednesday night whether 6 SIU-C clubs and organizations will receive fee allocations totaling $193,370.66 for the 1985-1986 school year.

The money comes from the student activity fee paid as a part of tuition and fees, said Mark Skowronski, Undergraduate Student Organization finance committee chairman.

Wednesday night's meeting at 7 p.m. in the Student Center Renaissance Room will be the culmination of a process begun in February, Skowronski said.

The senator will also consider general funding bills totaling $948 for nine clubs.

Terra cotta warriors uncovered by archaeologists in eastern China

PEKING (UPI) — Archaeologists in eastern China have uncovered more than 1,000 terra cotta figures that they believe to be the tomb of a duke who died more than 2,000 years ago, the official Xinhua News Agency said Tuesday.

Xinhua said archaeologists described the find as the most important since the 1974 discovery of 7,000 terra cotta figures near the central Chinese city of Xian.

"Archaeologists have discovered more than 1,000 terra cotta figures of warriors and horses in Xuzhou, Jiangsu Province," the agency said. "The pit from which the terra cotta figures were excavated is believed to be a tomb of a duke of the Western Han Dynasty, which would make them over 2,000 years old."
Cubs hope to go one step further in 1985 season

CHICAGO (UPI) — For the first time in four decades, a championship pennant will be hoisted in center field at Wrigley Field and will flap in the breeze off of Lake Michigan for the 1985 season.

The question facing the Chicago Cubs now is whether they can exchange that flag for a league and a World Series pennant.

There appears to be two camps within the Cubs’ surprising — some say miracle — 1984 campaign. One will argue that the Cubs have the best talent thanks to shrewd dealing by General Manager Dallas Green. The other side will say it was a fluke and the Cubs managed to get into the playoffs thanks to a weak year for the rest of the division.

“I suppose that’s what we are going to find out,” Cubs’ manager Jim Frey says. “What did it take to win it last year? We are going to find out. We will settle for 120 and take my chances.”

It’s not predicting a 120-victory season by the Cubs. He prefers to talk in terms of improvement.

“We won 71 games the year before that and improved 25 games. That’s something. If we improve half as much as that, it should be good enough to win,” Frey says. “But this division isn’t a cakewalk. You can go down as fast as you go up, if you don’t do that.”

The Cubs start the 1985 season with several players who were on the team this time last year. Rick Sutcliffe, the 1984 Cy Young award winner who won 16 games after his acquisition June 13, will be the starting opening day.

“I think it means a lot to me to have a full season with the Cubs,” Sutcliffe says. “Being traded in mid-season is never easy. I don’t know whether the numbers will be the same but we have some other guys who are going to give us help, too.”

Also returning from last year is Dennis Eckersley, who didn’t come aboard until May 25. That is one of the starting rotation, backing up Scott Sanderson and Steve Trout. George Frazier, who came to the Cubs in the Sutcliffe deal, also is on hand for the full year.

Also added is left-hander Ray Fontenot, who gives Frey a second left-handed pitcher on the roster and his first southpaw to look towards in the bullpen.

The Cubs also have a new shortstop in rookie Shawn Abner. The Cubs are working on a five-year deal with Larry Bowa.

But the Cubs will be without some players they started the season with last season. Bill Buckner didn’t play much in two months but he was a force on the bench, something the Cubs don’t have this year.

Henry Castro, one of the surprises of the bench last year, filled in the outfield last year and kept the Cubs surging. Castro went to the Yanks in the Fontenot deal. Also gone is Tim Stoddard, the hard-throwing right-hander, who was No. 2 out of the bullpen but who did not re-sign with Chicago.

“We hated to give up on Castro but in order to get something like a left-hander we had to give up something,” Frey says.

Ron Cey and the recently unrested Bowa comprised the left half of Frey’s infield and are one-year older. Both have slowed down, if not at the plate then in the field.

Fielding may also be a problem in left field where Gary Matthews’ bat helped overcome his defensive shortcomings and where Keith Moreland’s rifle arm in right center.

He’s good at what he does, filling a reserve role with the Padres, and the whole country saw that for itself on national TV last fall when he came up with a couple of key hits in the playoffs with the Cubs and then connected safely in his only pinch hit appearance against the Tigers in the World Series.

Flannery, senior member of the Padres in terms of his length of service with the club, is describing the section in Tijuana called Colonial Reforma, an area which makes Skid Row look like Park Avenue.

“Most of these people were homeless and lived in the streets before,” Flannery points out. “The government wasn’t happy about them doing that because they were tending the sick and they were herded way back in the hills.

“The idea of them is forced to live in cardboard shacks. It’s terrible. The way I look at it, I’ve been blessed more than I deserve. I was lucky to be born on this side of the border. They weren’t. When you think about it, that’s just an accident of birth. People are people. It doesn’t matter where they were born.”

Flannery is a professional ballplayer. He’s good at what he does, filling a reserve role with the Padres, and the whole country saw that for itself on national TV last fall when he came up with a couple of key hits in the playoffs with the Cubs and then connected safely in his only pinch hit appearance against the Tigers in the World Series.

All this was a follow-up to his best year in the majors, one in which he fashioned a .273 figure in 86 regular season games and hit .313 in those games started.

Flannery gets a little embarrassed whenever anyone characterizes him as some kind of Good Samaritan. He doesn’t think of himself as one although that’s what he actually is.

A native of Tuluca, Okla., and resident of Encinitas, Calif., which is about 25 miles from the Mexican border, Flannery was getting ready for a workout in San Diego in January of 1983 when he saw trucks being loaded with all sorts of food stuffs and building materials.

Curious about it, he inquired about the operation. The man overseeing it was Terry Caster, who runs a contracting business in San Diego. Caster told Flannery he felt sorry over the plight of the poor in Tijuana and was voluntarily trucking supplies to them.

Flannery liked the idea and asked if he could help also. Caster said sure. What Flannery is doing now isn’t anything really entirely new for him because his father, Rayon, was a preacher in the Disciple of Christ Church and when Tim was still in junior high school, he’d build missions for the poor.

Essentially, Flannery is an infielder, not a missionary. Still, without having to do a big selling job on them, he has involved Houston reliever Dave Smith and two of his own teammates, Mark Thurmond and Dave Reavcy, to pitch in and help.

“Some of the sights you see can hardly be described. We went down to Tijuana one day when the rain was really coming down hard and we saw a lady living in a cardboard shack with her four kids. They had no shelter or anything and they were just sitting there in the mud with a little river running past them.
Sutton named Kentucky coach

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UPI) - Eddie Sutton, whose Arkansas team made an early exit from the NCAA tournament, was named head coach at Kentucky Tuesday, becoming just the third man in 30 years to pack the Wildcat bench in the last half-century.

Sutton, repaying six goals and contributed 11 assists last season for Baylor High School in St. Louis to St. Louis plans on moving Moyer, who was twice a first-team all-conference selection, from the midfield to a reserve role at halftime.

"We had a good midfield last year, but we didn't have much depth," Illner said. "With the recruits we've signed, we'll have a real depth at midfield." Tavares will backup Laurie Atkinson at left wing and Cindy Delfino at right wing early in the season, but Illner expects her to battle for a starting position at the mid­field post this season.

"She's been out for a year so it's going to take her a while to get back in the game," Illner said. "I think the addition of Tavares will improve the wing players and the competition will force them to work harder."

For the third year in college, Tavares and Shishti midfielder Dana Biedel will be teammates. Both were teammates on Mitchell's junior college national championship team.

Illner said Moyer will likely be used as a reserve this fall.

Sutton signs two recruits to give team added depth

By Steve Keulen

Shawn Sutton, a former Kentucky basketball player, was hired Tuesday as the assistant coach at Tulane University.

While Sulivan basketball field hockey coach Julie Illner didn't bring in any immediate help with her latest two recruits, she was able to add some much-needed depth with the signings of Naemi Tavares and Julie Moyer.

Tavares, a transfer from Mitchell College in New London, Conn., is projected as a backup at both wing positions for Sulivan. She scored seven goals in the 1983 season to help the team win the junior college national championship before taking a one-year absence from school last year to work.

She compiled six goals and contributed 11 assists last season for Baylor High School in St. Louis to St. Louis plans on moving Moyer, who was twice a first-team all-conference selection, from the midfield to a reserve role at halftime.

Eight suspect arrested in Tulane basketball point-shaving scandal

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) - An eighth suspect was arrested in the growing Tulane basketball scandal, and prosecutors gathered more evidence in anticipation of getting indictments Thursday.

Mississippi Parish District Attorney Harry Connic has said he hopes this week to complete an investigation into alleged point shaving by Tulane players. Other students and professional bookmakers have been charged with helping the players.

Craig L. Bourgeois, 23, of New Orleans, was arrested Tuesday on five counts of sports bribery and one count of conspiracy to commit sports bribery.

Charges against Bourgeois are the same as those filed last week against Roland Ruiz, 48, of New Orleans, a man described by Connic as "a professional bookmaker."

A spokesperson for Connic described Bourgeois as a "non-student." He and Ruiz are the only suspects arrested so far who are not students at Tulane.

Three players - NBA prospect John "Hot Rod" Williams, senior Bobby Thompson and sophomore David Dominique - were charged last week with sports bribery.

Two other Green Wave players - seniors Clyde Eades and Jon Johnson - have been granted immunity from prosecution and testified last week to the grand jury hearing the case. A New Orleans newspaper reported Monday that Thompson has told prosecutors Ruiz paid him $6,000 for Thompson and four teammates to shave points in a Feb. 20 game against Memphis State.

Thompson told authorities he received the money through a middlenan and shared it with other players, according to The Times-Picayune - The States Item. The $5,000 from Ruiz was in addition to about $10,000 the players received from a group of students who also participated in betting on the Memphis game and a Feb. 2 game with Southern Mississippi, the newspaper reported.

Tulane student athletes accused of giving the players drugs and cash to fix games, have been charged with conspiracy to sports bribery. They are Gary Krantz at New Rochelle, N.Y.; David Rothschild of Wilton, Conn., and Mark Olenisky of Fair Lawn, N.J. Krantz and Olenisky also faces narcotics charges.

Lawyer Edward Kolke, who first brought the case to the attention of authorities, said the scheme was devised by students who wanted to win sure bets.

Moyer will get playing time this year but it's hard to predict how much she'll get," Illner said.

"She needs to get some experience next year, learn our system, and make the transition from high school to college hockey, I think she'll start for us the last two years, possibly even in her sophomore year."

Overall, Illner has signed a total of five players to partial scholarships. She has already signed goalie Christine James of North Stafford High School in Stafford, Va., midfielder Robin Meaney of Ocean Community College in Toms River, N.J., and attacker Cindy Delfino of Chamin Sullion," Mitch­ell basketball coach at Kentucky for 42 years."

Men's tennis team loses singles, falls to Murray St.

By Mike Frey
Sports Editor

A tired SIU-C men's tennis team lost to Murray State 7-2 Tuesday in a match played at the Arena tennis courts.

Murray State won all six singles matches in gaining the easy win against the Salukis, which had traveled over 1,000 miles last weekend to play in the Midwest Invitational at Oklahoma City.

"We figured it would go 5-4 either way, but we were tired, limitless," SIU-C coach Dick Lefever said. "I think the trip took a lot of spark out of us."

Per Wadmark, SIU-C's No. 1 singles player, lost to Tony Wrethalnd 6-4, 6-3. Both players are natives of Sweden.

Gabriel Coeh was defeated by Jens Bergraham 6-3, 6-2 at No. 2 singles and Chris Visconti lost to Aubrey Montgomery at No. 3 singles 6-3, 6-1.

Murray State's Steve Massad defeated Rollie Olguino 6-4, 5-7, 6-2 at No. 4 singles. Scott Kruedger lost to Joe Carter 6-2, 6-4 at No. 5 singles and Lars Nilsson was defeated by John Brunner 7-6, 6-2 at No. 6 singles.

Olguino, who teams with Wadmark at No. 1 doubles, had to leave the match early because of an exam, and was replaced by Robert Hoft. The pair lost to Wrethalnd and Massad 6-3, 6-1.

The Salukis gained their first win at No. 2 doubles, where the team of Coeh and Nilsson defeated Montgomery and John Farmer 6-4, 3-6, 7-6. The Salukis also won the No. 3 doubles competition, as the team of Kruger and Visconti lost to Carter and Brunner 4-6, 7-5, 7-6.

The loss dropped the Salukis record to 7-1. They will remain idle until Tuesday when they host Southeast (Mo.) Baptist. Southwest is the defending NCAA national champion.

LeFever said the layoff should help his team. "We need the rest," he said.

Villanova fans greet national champions

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Tens of thousands of fans lined Center City streets Tuesday to welcome home the national champion Villanova Wildcats from the completion of a seemingly impossible dream.

A crowd estimated by police at 25,000 to 30,000 cheered the Wildcats as they rode a police horse-drawn flatbed truck through a luncheon rally at JFK Plaza.

The team had arrived at Philadelphia International Airport from Lexington, Ky., in the morning and was bused downtown.

"Isn't this something?" Villanova coach Rollie Massimino said after the one-hour parade and rally had ended. "It's mind-boggling. I thought we'd just have a pep rally on campus. But to see the people here is a great thing for Philadelphia and Villanova."

The Wildcats prominently displayed the NCAA championship trophy they received after Monday night's 66-64 upset of top-ranked Georgetown, passing it from the hands of tournament MVP Ed Pinckney to Chuck Deyton to assistant coach Marty Marbach.

Detroit pounds Cardinals 14-2

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — The New York Mets' Tuesday traded shortstop Jesus Oquendo and minor league pitcher Mark Davis to the St. Louis Cardinals for shortstop Argenis Salazar and another minor league hurler, John Young.

Salazar, 23, split last season between Indianapolis in the American Association where he batted .276 and then played 80 games with Montreal, batting .289.

The Tigers, who had no regulars in their split-squad lineup, mauled John Tudor for 14 hits and 16 runs in five innings.

Detroit scored five runs on six hits off Tudor in the second inning. The Tigers added two runs in the fourth and three in the fifth off the Cardinals' left-hander.

Nelson Simmons also drove in four runs for the Tigers, two of them on a fourth-inning home run.

Jack Clark hit his third homer of the spring for the Cardinals and Tito Landrum also hit a St. Louis home run off Detroit starter Bill Scherrer.

Softball Salukis beat SEMO twice

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

The Saluki softball team extended its winning streak to seven games Tuesday afternoon, extending its season-best record to 35-6-1 after entering conference play later this week.

The Salukis held Southeast Missouri State to one hit in each game, winning both games by scores of 6-1, 12-3.

In the first game, left-fielder Kelly Powell tripled with one out and shortstop Jenny Shuprty in the fourth to make it 3-1 in favor of SIU. Salukis scored three more in the sixth, the first on an error that allowed Shuprty, who also had a lead-off single, to score from third. Centerfielder Snow then doubled Richardi home and the score was tied at one. SIU took a 2-1 in the second, when third baseman Richey from Bruno singled home Senior right-hander Rich Koch. The Salukis played again this weekend, traveling north to open conference play against Drake and Northern Illinois.

In the second game, SEMO scored in the first inning to take a 1-0 lead after Saluki pitcher Lisa Peterson walked the first two batters.

The Salukis came back in their half of the first when Snow bunted Koch at second with one out. Centerfielder Snow then doubled Richardi home and the score was tied at one. SIU took a 2-1 in the second, when third baseman Richey from Bruno singled home Senior right-hander Rich Koch, who led off the inning with a single.

Second baseman Richey dropped an RBI in the fourth to make it 3-1 in favor of SIU. Salukis scored three more in the sixth, the first on an error that allowed Shuprty, who also had a lead-off single, to score from third. Centerfielder Snow then doubled Richardi home and the score was tied at one. SIU took a 2-1 in the second, when third baseman Richey from Bruno singled home Senior right-hander Rich Koch. The Salukis played again this weekend, traveling north to open conference play against Drake and Northern Illinois.

Baseball team to host Illinois in twin bill

To Stan Golf
Staff Writer

The Saluki baseball team will have the home field advantage this weekend, as the team begins a seven-game homestand against the visiting Illinois Fighting Illini.

The Salukis, 14-7 entering a Tuesday double-header at Evanston, face a team that is off to one of the school's best record starts.

The Illini improved their record to 21-7 with a doubleheader win over the Grey Stars on Monday, and played at Michigan State University on Tuesday before traveling to Carbondale.

“We're going to host Illinois this weekend,” said Coach Dorr. “We're going to host Illinois this weekend.”

If so, the Salukis will have to stop the state's hitting, 302 as a team. The Salukis have batted at a .35; and hold off right fielder Dave Payton (343) and third baseman Dick Kanan (343).

The Salukis’ pitching staff, which has lowered its earned run average from 5.44 to 4.54 in the first 14 games of the season, should be challenged by the Illini’s attack. SIU-C has led in just two runs in its last three games; games in which Todd Nebel, Gary Boeckhorn and Jake Bellissimo each picked up their second wins of the season.

Senior right-hander Rich Koch has done the job for SIU-C coach Richard “Itchy” Koch. Out of the bullpen, Koch is 2-1 with a 0.49 ERA, and leads the team in appearances with eight and saves with three.

The Salukis bats have taken most of the pressure off of the pitchers, as SIU-C has averaged nearly nine runs a game this season. They've scored 10 or more runs 11 occasions this year, including five times during the team's recent seven-game winning streak.

NFL gains power to halt franchise moves

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Commerce Committee Tuesday approved legislation that would give the National Football League and several other sports leagues the power to block the movement of sports franchises.

However, critics of the bill say it only serves to strengthen groups of owners.

The legislation confers licensing powers on the leagues, the areas of team movement and revenue sharing, and would allow individual leagues to establish their own guidelines for restricting owners from picking up and moving their teams.

It applies to the NFL and collegiate Sports Football conferences as well as to basketball, hockey and soccer leagues. The bill does not apply to baseball.

John Danforth, R-Mo., who sponsored the bill along with fellow Missouri Sen. John Eagleton, a Democrat, said the legislation, if passed by the committee, “re-establishes some order out of what has become chaos” in professional sports leagues.

In addition, Danforth said NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle assumed him in a letter that should the legislation pass, Rozelle will recommend NFL owners “consider favorably” expansion by two teams by fall or 1983.

Rozelle last month told the Senate Judiciary Committee that the league has no plans for expansion, but will not support all franchise and antitrust litigation, including a suit by the USFL, is cleared up.

Sen. Bob Kasten, R-Wis., said of Rozelle’s expansion promise: “If you believe that letter, I've got a bridge to sell you.”

The Danforth measure mandates that specific guidelines be considered in approving franchise relocations, like those that saw the NFL’s Baltimore Colts move to Indianapolis last year.

These include the extent of public financial support given a team, adequacy of stadium facilities, the level of fan support of a club, the profitability of a team and the existence of a legitimate local offer to buy a team at market value.

The measure gives the leagues the power to reject or terminate owners of sports teams by a three-fourths vote of the owners in a league. It also permits leagues to establish revenue-sharing agreements in which member teams split profits.

Sen. Slade Gorton, R-Wash., whose own franchise bill did not even come to a vote in the committee, criticized the Danforth legislation as helping the leagues and short-changing fans by not requiring leagues to expand.

“We’re too heavy on videotaping,” he said. “The coaching staff watched two and a-half hours of videotape from yesterday’s practice this morning (Tuesday), and we only taped for 35 minutes.

“It’s invaluable. Last year, we didn’t hire any graduate assistants. The league thought we were buying a video camera would be more valuable. It gives us a chance to evaluate the team and find room for improvement. It also gives the player a chance to evaluate.”

Dorr said the Salukin spring practices have been well run.

“Things are going so much better than a year ago it’s unbelievable,” he said.

“Southern’s teams always have gotten better as the season progresses, and this year’s should be no different,” Jones said.
