Blood drive sets goal of 3,300 pints

By Dave Wrono
Staff Writer

The American Red Cross will launch its SIU-C Blood Drive Sunday April 5 at 1 p.m. in the Student Center Ballrooms.

Southern Illinoisans hopefully will give 3,300 units, said Vivian Ugent, Southern Illinois blood drive coordinator.

Times for donating blood are: 1 to 6 p.m., Sunday; 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday; and 12:30 to 6:30 p.m., Wednesday. The drive extends through Friday, April 10.

Ugent, Southern Illinois blood drive coordinator, said the American Association of Bloodbanks has recognized SIU-C as the most prolific blood-donating school in the country. "The people involved here are phenomenal. They're fantastic," she said. "We are counting on people from all over the region to donate."

Ugent said statistics show that 98 percent of all Americans will need a blood transfusion at least once in his or her lifetime. "When it comes down to it, you probably will need blood sometime in your life," she said.

Blood donors have to be 17 years old or older and weigh 105 pounds or more, Ugent said. Registered nurses, licensed practical nurses, emergency medical technicians or other qualified medical people, and student workers are needed for the drive, Ugent said. Fifty students will be working at all times during the drive.

The need for blood has increased in recent years because open heart and transplant surgeries have become more routine and, consequently, more numerous, Ugent said.

Additionally, Ugent said 1,000 pints of blood are used daily in the Southern Illinois region. "Overall, the amount of blood used in the United States is huge," she said.

Although the blood drive starts Sunday, the opening ceremony will be at 9:45 a.m. Monday.

Although it is not required, donors are asked to make an appointment by calling Ugent at 457-5258 or Steve Serrot, of Mobilization of Volunteer Effort, at 453-5716.

Senate nixes highway veto

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate reversed itself and enacted an $88 billion highway bill Thursday over President Reagan's veto, ending 48 hours of furious partisan politicking capped by Reagan's desperate but futile trip to the Capitol.

Reagan, in a rare action made more surprising for its suddenness, tried to round up straying Republicans with a 90-minute appeal on Capitol Hill for political solidarity. "I beg you for your vote," Reagan said in pleading for Republican support.

"Give us this vote and let us stand as a majority that can run this party." The immediate issue was the hugely popular five-year highway construction bill, but Reagan made the ante much higher by attaching so much importance to the vote, casting the issue as one of party unity and loyalty to his presidency, under siege from the Iran-Contra scandal.

But the personal plea failed to change a single vote, and even may have done more harm than good. One senator among the wood said: "The political stupidity of this was just astounding."

Thirteen Republicans, putting jobs and money for projects back home before allegiance to party and president, voted as they did the day before and joined in the 67-33 tally that made the highway bill law.

Reagan vetoed the bill last Friday because he said the measure was a budget-buster stuffed with pork barrel projects. Supporters said the bill would provide jobs and desperately needed money for road and bridge projects.

The new law also allows the states to raise the speed limit

Road projects, speed limit highlight nationwide bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The $88 billion highway bill enacted by Congress Thursday over President Reagan's veto lets states raise the speed limit to 65 mph on rural interstates and pays for hundreds of new roads and bridges nationwide.

The five-year highway and mass transit law also authorizes funding for completion by fiscal 1992 of the nation's 42,500-mile interstate highway system, begun in 1956 by President Dwight Eisenhower.

The law authorizes about $70 billion over the next five fiscal years for a variety of road and bridge projects, from major interstates running through the heart of big cities to tiny two-lane and short access roads.

It also provides money for a variety of highway safety projects and about $18 billion for mass transit programs, including the majority of the $870 million Los Angeles subway system that is still in the planning stages.

The bill's most publicized feature is the speed limit increase, which originally split the House and Senate and kept the highway bill from passing last October when the old five-year law expired.

Under the new law, states are given the power to raise the speed limit to 65 mph on rural interstates — those running through areas with populations of less than 50,000 people. Rural interstates make up about 70 percent of the interstate system.

But the speed limit will

Dillard proposes council camaraderie

Editor's note: This is the second of two profiles of Carbondale mayoral candidates.

By Catherine Edman
Staff Writer

Neil Dillard would bring with him to the job of mayor a sense of "quiet leadership," he says.

A Carbondale mayoral candidate, Councilman Dillard describes that leadership as getting things done with and through other people rather than "tooting your own horn or talking about what I do or I did."

It means "more or less drawing out from the other council members what needs to be done, but letting them participate in the process and be a part of the process," he said.

At council meetings, Dillard said he prefers for the whole council to get credit for taking action, not only the person who sponsored or suggested the measure.

"It's important that the full council work together on those things," he said, "and as mayor I would want the council to work together to get things done."

Dillard has been a long-time supporter of downtown development, particularly the convention center. Not only will it help the city's economy, but businesses will develop around that area, he said.

"I'm 100 percent for it. Carbondale needs it. Southern Illinois University needs it. The region needs it, and the people of Carbondale need it," he said.

He also supports the proposed railroad relocation project, saying it is "a viable project at sometime in the future, and the federal

1 dead, 44 others rescued in Quebec mine explosion

MURDOCHVILLE, Quebec (UPI) — An explosion in a Quebec copper mine sparked a fire that spewed clouds of black smoke through a tunnel, killing one miner and trapping dozens deep below the earth's surface for up to 25 hours, officials said Thursday. At 6:30 p.m., rescue workers wearing self-contained breathing apparatus led the last 27 of 44 miners up out of the Gaspe Copper Mines in Murdochville, about 530 miles northeast of Montreal.

Soviets grant asylum to American soldier

MOSCOW (UPI) — An American soldier, "subjected to persecution" in the Army while based in West Germany, defected to the Soviet Union with his West German bride and was granted asylum, the government said Thursday. Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov identified the American as W.E. Roberts and the woman as P. Neumann but had few other details on the couple that he said had settled in Turkmenia, a Soviet republic bordering Iran and Afghanistan.

Pope urges Chileans to move toward peace

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Pope John Paul II met with military ruler President Augusto Pinochet Thursday, listened to slum dwellers' anti-government complaints, then called on Chileans to forsake violence and move peacefully toward democracy. A man was shot and killed when troops opened fire to evict homeless families from squatting on waste land on the northern outskirts of Santiago, a Chilean Human Rights Commission lawyer said. Another 20 people were injured and 150 arrested during the attempt to set up a tent city.

Israeli court rejects Demjanjuk appeal

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel's supreme court Thursday rejected a defense appeal to dismiss the three judges hearing the war crimes trial of John Demjanjuk, the retired Cleveland autoworker accused of being the sadistic Nazi death camp guard "Ivan the Terrible." The defense attorneys charged in their appeal last Sunday that the three Israeli judges hearing the non-jury death penalty trial are biased against them and Demjanjuk.

U.S. rejects Iraqi offer for transport planes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration turned down an Iraqi request to purchase U.S. military transport planes and a Jordanian request to transfer U.S. artillery radar to Iraq, U.S. officials said Thursday. The requests were rejected in January following revelations of secret U.S. arms sales to Iran, the officials said. "They backed off and didn't press on it," said an official who requested anonymity.

King's papers to be published in 12 volumes

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Coretta Scott King, wife of the late Martin Luther King Jr., announced publication Thursday of a 12-volume edition of the slain civil rights leader's papers that will chronicle his life. "With the publication of the King papers, we will have an invaluable source of information about the civil rights movement that revolutionized American society," King said at a news conference. The papers, published by the University of California Press, will include early letters and recordings, articles, books, speeches and correspondence, King said.

Whitehead, 29, accompanied by her husband, Richard, 36, vowed to appeal the Tuesday's decision that rejected her attempts to reclaim the girl now known as Melissa Stern. "I will not give up," she said. "I will fight to the end."

SPC funding request sliced from $7,000 to $3,004

By Tracy Bartoni
Staff Writer

The Student Programming Council can expect $3,004, instead of the requested $7,000, to be allocated to it from the Graduate and Professional Student Council who voted nearly unanimously to put $10,000 into the professional development fund.

After much discussion, council members reached a consensus that adding monies to the professional development fund would be more academically beneficial to graduate students.

The council also voted to take $4,000, rather than $2,000, from the carryover of the budget into professional development. There have been 47 more requests this year for these funds than last year, Paul Antonacci, vice president of administrative affairs, said. The council also decided to limit the budget of professional development to $12,000. Once they have reached this limit no further funds would be available to graduate students, Antonacci said.

GPSC president Kelli McCormack told the council that Bruce Swinburne, vice president of student affairs, has hired an architectural firm to do a feasibility study, at an estimated cost of $6,500, for construction of a new building for Rainbow's End Daycare Center.

McCormack said there would be large increases in student and housing fees for the '87-'88 school year: $4 to $5 in health fees, 50 cents to $1 fee increase that will go to the USO and GPSC to help increase their budgets, and 50 cents to legal fees in addition to the $20 increase that has already been approved. "That is an increase of $25 for the next two years," McCormack said. "At the same time we've had a 4 percent increase in tuition and a 2.8 percent in housing."

McCormack said Swinburne wanted to find out how student leaders felt about a $5 fee increase to help finance a new facility for Rainbow's End. She said Swinburne said he did not see any way the state could finance Rainbow's End. He suggested that the University pay for one-third of the cost, and students pay for two-thirds. This fee could be administered from two to four semesters, she said.

"We all agree it's needed, but we do not all agree how the money is to be generated," she said. McCormack said Swinburne told her it could cost as much as $1 million to construct Rainbow's End for 150 students.

In other business, nominations for officers of the GPSC and Graduate Council were taken. At the previous meeting of the GPSC, Paul Antonacci, Darrell Johnson and Marilyn Karaffa were nominated for the offices of president, vice president of administrative affairs and vice president of graduate school affairs, respectively.

At Wednesday's meeting, Karaffa declined her nomination. Nominations for GPSC officers at Wednesday's meeting were Darrell Johnson and Charlotte Bowns for president, Charlotte Bowns for vice president of administrative affairs, and Tim Keller, Joe Philips and Paul Antonacci for vice president of graduate school affairs.

Forum set on ward, at-large systems

An educational forum exploring the differences between ward-aldermanic form of government and elections versus at-large system will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the City Council Chamber, 609 E. College St.

Carbondale Councilman and SIUC law professor Patrick Kelley will represent the viewpoint favoring the at-large election while Glenn Richardson, a graduate student and teaching assistant in political science at SIUC, will speak on behalf of the ward-aldermanic system.

The present form of government, which is elected at large and consists of a mayor and four council members, has been under attack by some who say it causes both underrepresentation and overrepresentation.

Voters will have an opportunity to choose between the two forms of government in the April 7 election.

Hoffman, Carter defense strategy: 'Put CIA on trial'

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (UPI) — Aging radical Abby Hoffman and young Amy Carter face trial this week in a trespassing and disorderly conduct case promising courtroom dramas and much more.

Prosecutors merely want a six-member jury to convict the 1960s activist and daughter of former president Jimmy Carter on simple misdemeanor charges stemming from a campus protest against CIA recruiting.

Defense attorneys, however, hope to "put the CIA on trial" in the county courthouse in a New England college town known for its countercultural lifestyle leftover from Hoffman's heyday.

"I think there are people in this country who are offended that the CIA is ignoring the will of Congress," said defense attorney Thomas Lesser of Northampton.

Fourteen people, including Hoffman, 50, and Carter, 19, a sophomore at Brown University, stand trial beginning Monday for a protest last year against CIA recruiting at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

Some 60 people, including the 14, were arrested last November after they occupied a university building. All but the 14 had their cases disposed of in Northampton District Court, mostly by no-contest pleas.

Since the arrests, defense lawyers and a newly formed University of Massachusetts group called the "CIA on Trial Project" have been working toward a strategy for proving the protesters' innocence based on allegedly illegal CIA activities.

Alleged covert CIA activities in Central America and the Middle East will be among the subjects discussed by the defense team and its witnesses during the trial.

The defense has lined up witnesses who will "expose the crimes against humanity being committed by the CIA," said Rachel Kolman, an organizer with the CIA on Trial Project.

Among the witnesses expected to testify on behalf of the protesters are former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark, Daniel Ellsberg, the man who leaked the Pentagon Papers to the press in 1969, and former CIA agent John Stockwell, who has openly criticized his one-time employer.

Opinion & Commentary

Ward referendum deserves support

OPponents of A referendum that would change the city's election system from an at-large to a ward-alderman system claim they are acting in the interest of city unity. Dividing the city into wards, they say, would create divisiveness in the city, and promote parochial representation in which council members work only for their own neighborhoods.

While this is a legitimate concern, it does not necessarily follow that the problem is unique and endemic to only the ward-alderman form of government. In Carbondale now a majority of the council members — three out of five — live in one neighborhood on the largely white, affluent southwest side.

Clearly, the potential for parochialism in this situation is great and has implications reaching far beyond the potential of a ward-alderman system. At least in the latter case the interests of many neighborhoods would be articulated and pursued.

The validity of the argument that council members elected at-large can understand issues facing the whole city also is highly questionable. For instance, it is doubtful council members residing on the southwest side can fully comprehend the problems and needs of the predominantly black northeast side as well as someone living in that district can, and vice versa.

The fact is that the at-large system has failed to allow blacks and students adequate representation. Both groups are concentrated in two areas of the city and the at-large system dilutes their electoral strengths. Only a ward-alderman system will allow blacks and students the representation they deserve.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT FACT that opponents of the referendum seem to have overlooked is that Carbondale has a built-in hedge against partisanship in local government. That hedge is the city manager.

The council-manager form of government was intended to place important decisions concerning city development in the hands of an impartial professional. While the City Council has the final say on all projects, it is the city manager's duty to guide the city's overall development. In this way, he or she can alert council members and the public to unnecessary projects.

Contrary to the opponents' argument, a ward-alderman system actually may help prevent excessive divisiveness in the city. If the referendum is not passed, the city will be open to a law suit. In a similar suit against the city of Springfield, a judge ruled that the city's at-large commission form of government violated the Voting Rights Act by depriving blacks of adequate representation. Surely, enacting a ward-alderman system would be better than a bitter and costly court battle that the city is likely to lose anyway.

Voters should save the city some trouble and vote in favor of a ward-alderman system.

Opinions from elsewhere

Haig may have chance

The Washington Post

Of course George McGovern, could never be nominated (too extreme, too unprepossessing) and Ronald Reagan couldn't either (too extreme, too old). We remind you of these humiliations of the punditariat in case you're having too good a time with the incredulity being expressed that Alexander Haig is really running for president. Think what you will of his chances, it's historically imprudent to greet the candidacy of anybody these days with a dismissive chuckle.

Haig has always been an enigma: brilliant in some respects, unaccountably thick in others; he is a man much given to that internal manipulation, jockeying and knifework known as "office politics," yet has proved movingly bad at it.

The public has only known Haig in his work for others. In this campaign, we will see him as Alexander Haig, self-employed candidate. We expect he will go after the Reagan administration from the disenchanted foreign-policy establishment right. We can't say we believe Haig is on his way to the White House; but, as the fellow said, you skeptics better caveat that.

Gentrification of USSR

ON THE SAME recent day a Soviet official acknowledged what the world has long known — that the Soviet Union has chemical weapons — and a Soviet agency acknowledged what no one ever doubted — that there is inflation in the Soviet economy — there was a third and comparably dramatic development on the glasnost front. It was reported that glasnost had a glittering pedigree: Lenin loved it.

It seems that Lenin used the word "glasnost," meaning openness, 46 times. That is not a promiscuous use when spread through 55 volumes of his writings, and some uses are of almost delphic inscrutability: "Glasnost is a sword which itself can heal the very wounds it may inflict" and (Lenin loved martial metaphors) it is good to use "the artillery fire of party glasnost to combat vice and error."

Pravda recently published a long celebration of the 65th anniversary of the golden day when Lenin first used the word "perestroika." It means "reconstruction," and Gorbachev adores it. Two words Lenin used frequently were "bureaucraticism" (600 citations) and "discipline" (400). Lenin deplored bureaucraticism and praised discipline, as does Gorbachev, whose recent rhetoric praises "resolute struggle against negative phenomena, permissiveness, mutual protectionism, slackening of discipline."

A GORBACHEV aide appearing on American television was asked how Gorbachev could promise more democracy, given that Soviet ideology for 70 years has said the Soviet Union has perfect democracy, defined by Lenin as "democratic centralism," meaning rule by the party, which as the vanguard of the proletariat always knows best. The Gorbachev aide explained: "We want to have more of the same. Democratic centralism is here to stay."

Glasnost is more of the same Leninism. It is the ostentatious "pardoning" of a tiny portion of political prisoners — the word "pardon" underscoring that dissent is criminal — combined with a more than countervailing crackdown on Jewish refuseniks. During Krushchev's fall in the early 1960s, liberalization rose from below, and the line between permissible and impermissible behavior became blurred. Gorbachev's thaw is imposed from above, reasserting the regime's unbridled capriciousness. For example, "Dr. Zhivago" will finally be published, but the regime quickly squelched publication of Solzhenitsyn's "Cancer Ward."

NOWADAYS IT IS obligatory in polite society to say that if Gorbachev means what he says, we should hope he succeeds with his reforms. But is anyone listening to what he says? His reiterated aim is to make the Leninist system ("more of the same") more efficient. Why is that in the West's interest?

Gorbachev has been Soviet leader for more than two years and probably has been dominant for longer. Thus it is surely indicative of his values that the Soviet press is still full of Goebbels-like lies. One now being spread in Soviet "journalism" is that the AIDS virus was concocted by American biological-weapons scientists, and that AIDS outbreaks around the world "are as a rule represented in the areas near American war bases."

Vassily Aksyonov, who was expelled from the Soviet Union in 1980, recently went to a library to peruse some glasnost-era Soviet publications. He concluded: "What's new? Can I distinguish today's Soviet papers from those of yesteryear, which made me instantly nauseous? Yes, there are things that are new: the mention of some previously taboo problems, a certain critical intonation borrowed from dissident groups of the 1960s, some steaming rebukes to the 'bureaucracy.' But...should I state it openly? The papers still make me nauseous."

Aksonov is not talking about frauds like the AIDS story. He has other, subtler mendacities in mind:

"The First Thaw, back in the 1960s, produced a group of people with a penchant for winking. Those went beyond winking and dared to call a spade a spade were brutally kicked out of the country. Apparently those winking liberals are going to be in fashion again, with all their paraphernalia of euphemisms, hints, vague allusions, and ideological duplicity."

When a new generation takes over an old neighborhood and makes tidying improvements to Victorian houses, while preserving their essential structures, the process is called "gentrification." Gorbachev's glasnost has been properly called the gentrification of totalitarianism.

government will decide when."

The current R-1 zoning ordinance also receives Dillard's full support. There must be areas in the city that are regulated, he said, to keep in line with the lifestyles of families with small children and adults that want to interact with each other.

Without the ordinance, which limits to two the number of unrelated people that can live together in some city areas, Dillard said property values might plummet.

Underage drinking at bars and restaurants should not be allowed by the bar owners, but that doesn't mean that people under 21 should be barred from entering, Dillard said.

Going to the bars is a form of entertainment for many college students, he said, that should not be taken away from them.

Speakers found; owner sought

Carbondale police are looking for the owner of a pair of car speakers that was stolen March 27.

Police have recovered the speakers, but need the owner to come to the Carbondale Police Department, 610 E. College, to claim them.

Police believe the recovered speakers were mounted in the rear deck of a four-door Chevrolet that was burglarized at 1001 E. Park St.

If you are the owner of the speakers, contact Det. Don Barrett of the Carbondale Police at 549-2121. If Det. Barrett is unavailable, ask for Art Wright.

on rural interstates — about 70 percent of the nation's interstate network — to 65 mph.

Wednesday, the Senate sustained Reagan's veto, but Democrats immediately used a parliamentary maneuver to force a second vote and persuaded the one Democrat who voted with Reagan — Terry Sanford of North Carolina — to change his mind.

That put the pressure on the president and the GOP leadership, sending them on a futile hunt for one vote, and the lobbying on the 13 Republican defectors was "pretty intense," said Sen. Mitch McConnell, R-Ky.

After Senate leaders Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., and Robert Dole, R-Kan., finished speaking, the chamber became almost silent for the vote.

Many senators were rooted to their seats and, in a custom required only in impeachment trials, most of them rose to announce their votes.

The normal hubbub swelled after the 13 Republicans voted and just before the final tally was announced. In victory, Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., raised both arms, fists clenched.

After the vote, the White House issued a statement from Reagan saying: "I am deeply disappointed by today's vote. My efforts to control spending are not diminished and I remain firm in my pledge to the American taxpayers to speak out against such budgetary excesses."

But presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater tried to minimize Reagan's loss and

Cold cut

Mikell Miskell of Carbondale mows grass outside 1st Federal Savings and Loan Thursday despite a cold afternoon that saw a high of just 46 degrees. Today's temperatures are expected to range from a low in the 20s to a high in the 40s.

remain at 55 mph for all other roads and will stay that way on rural interstates unless states authorize the increase.

Since 1974 — when the 55 mph speed limit was imposed in the wake of the Arab oil embargo — states have been free to raise the speed limit as high as they wished, but if they did, they risked losing crucial federal highway dollars.

Another controversial part of the bill is money for 152 "demonstration projects," which supporters said are vitally needed and which opponents, including President Reagan, dubbed "pork barrel."

Those projects include major road widenings and construction programs as well as smaller projects, such as a 3,600-foot road to connect Liberty Road and State Road 21 in Belcher-town, Mass., and a 10-mile access road in Bottineau and Renville counties, N.D.

The bill also contains money for bigger projects, such as the Central Artery in Boston — a major downtown interstate project — and construction of a third tunnel under Boston Harbor, connecting downtown with the northeastern suburbs and with the major road to Boston's Logan International Airport.

Those projects are viewed as a congressional "gift" to former House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., who retired last year.

suggested the 67-33 vote to override the veto as a moral victory.

"He was willing to take a risk. He is willing to go to the Hill and put his prestige on the line and do that time and time again," Fitzwater said.

Byrd, reflecting before the vote on Dole's efforts, said the president "fought valiantly and like the Apostle Paul I think he can say, 'I fought a good fight, I finished the course, I've kept the faith.'"

Sen. Pete Wilson, R-Calif., cautioned Democrats against gloating: "This will not have any impact on his (Reagan's) ability to deal with Congress.

If the Democrats are celebrating his demise, they are doing so prematurely and will be in for a rude awakening."

Last month, the bill was passed with seemingly veto-proof margins but despite advice from lawmakers and from his own inner circle to avoid a confrontation with Congress, Reagan vetoed the bill.

Tuesday, the House overrode Reagan's veto 350-73. In the Senate, members were bombarded by administration officials with political treaties to uphold the veto.

Movie Guide

Angel Heart — (Varsity, R) William Hjortsberg's fascinating novel "Falling Angel," which delves into voodoo and satanic rituals, features so many graphic descriptions that it seemed destined never to hit the big screen. Cut from an "X" to an "R" rating, it features Mickey Rourke as detective Harry Angel, Lisa Bonet as voodoo priestess Epiphany Proudfoot and Robert DeNiro as the demonic Louis Cyphre.

Beyond Therapy — (University 4, R) Jeff Goldblum ("The Fly") and Julie Hagerty ("Airplane!") co-star with Glenda Jackson in this romantic comedy.

Blind Date — (Fox Eastgate, PG-13) Bruce Willis ("Moonlighting") turns his affections from Cybill Shephard to Kim Basinger ("9 1/2 Weeks") in the comedy directed by Blake Edwards ("10").

Brazil — (Student Center Video Lounge, 6:30 and 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday.) Former-Monty Python member Terry Gilliam creates a futuristic world in which office worker Sam Lowrey, played by Jonathan Pryce, unwittingly becomes involved with an underground terrorist movement. Co-stars Robert DeNiro, Michael Palin and Katherine Helmond.

Burglar — (Saluki, R) Whoopi Goldberg's third film casts her as a fun-loving thief with a psychotic sidekick — comedian Bob Goldthwait.

Crocodile Dundee — (Fox Eastgate, PG-13) Paul Hogan stars as an Australian adventurer who is brought to New York City by a female reporter. One of the biggest hits (and knives) of the Christmas season.

Crimes of the Heart — (Saluki, PG-13) Diane Keaton, Jessica Lange and Sissy Spacek co-star as love-starved sisters in Bruce Beresford's film based on the stage play by Beth Henley. Spacek was nominated for best actress for her role as a naive attempted murderess.

D.O.A. — (Student Center Video Lounge, 11:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, 8 p.m. Sunday.) This documentary about the punk-hardcore movement in the late 70s England contains one of the last screen appearances of Sid Vicious and his girlfriend, Nancy Spungen. The Sex Pistols and Generation X are two of the bands featured.

Heat — (University 4, R) Burt Reynolds returns to the screen in a vehicle that resembles Clint Eastwood's "Dirty Harry" and Reynolds' own "Sharkey's Machine."

Hooiers — (Fox Eastgate, PG) Gene Hackman stars as the coach in this uplifting true story of a small, rural high school that miraculously won the 1951 Indiana state basketball championship. Barbara Hershey ("Hannah and Her Sisters") and Dennis Hopper ("Blue Velvet") co-star.

Lethal Weapon — (University 4, R) Mel Gibson and Danny Glover co-star as cops tracking down cocaine dealers in this action-packed crime-drama.

Mona Lisa — (Student Center Auditorium, 7 and 9 p.m. Sunday and Monday) Bob Hoskins won the best actor award at the Cannes Film Festival for his portrayal of a small-time criminal who becomes involved with the prostitute he is hired to chauffeur. Cathy Tyson and Michael Caine co-star.

A Nightmare on Elm Street — (Liberty, Murphysboro, R) Freddy returns to terrorize more sleepy teens in this film, subtitled "Dream Warriors." This sequel should be much scarier than "Elm Street 2," because Wes Craven, who wrote and directed the original, has returned as co-writer.

Platoon — (University 4, R) Vietnam veteran Oliver Stone wrote and directed this controversial film, which may be the best depiction of the Vietnam War to date. Actors Charlie Sheen, Willem Dafoe and Tom Berenger went through pseudo-combat training to prepare for the film, which won best picture at this year's Academy Awards.

Police Academy 4 — (Varsity, PG) The cast from the original "Police Academy" returns to cause more trouble for law breakers and the population at large.

Tin Men — (Varsity, R) Danny DeVito ("Ruthless People") and Richard Dreyfuss ("The Goodbye Girl") co-star as rival aluminum siding salesmen in this comedy from Disney Studio's Touchtone Films.

True Stories — (Student Center Auditorium, 7 and 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday) Talking Heads member David Byrne sets his first feature film in the fictional town of Virgil, Texas. The comedy features new music by the Heads and such characters as the laziest woman in the world and the husband and wife who never speak to one another, who are based on tabloid stories.

ABILITY EXPERIENCE KNOWLEDGE VISION

Paid For By The Committee To Elect Dillard For Mayor

Kathleen Baker, left (Inez), Kevin Kelch featured in Calipre Stage's production of "No Exit," which runs through Saturday.

'No Exit' alters perception of hell

By Mary Caudle
Staff Writer

Jean-Paul Sartre's "No Exit" reminds the audience that visions of hell don't need thumbscrews or physical pain to be complete.

Scheduled for performance at 8 p.m. today and Saturday in the Calipre Stage, "No Exit" centers on three individuals who must alter their own visions of hell, finding the worst hell inside their own minds when they have no escape from themselves or each other.

It is the story of two women and one man who are locked forever in a room with no windows or mirrors, left with no image of themselves but what is reflected by the other two.

The characters, Cradeau, Inez and Estelle, have no choice but to face those reflections, which often are unpleasant, as they become each other's torturers in a "hell" that doesn't fit their preconceptions, but nevertheless is a torture chamber.

The cast, consisting of Kevin Kelch as Cradeau, Katherine Baker as Inez, Colleen Knight as Estelle and Ian Henderson as the valet, have difficult roles to carry in a production that is emotionally intense and removed from reality as we know it.

Katherine Baker gives a strong performance as the embittered lesbian Inez, who is the most memorable character. Inez woos Estelle throughout the course of the play, well-aware that her ultimate rejection will be another element of the hell they are meant to create. Her anger and painful honesty is brought out well by Baker, although at times the character's motivation appears unbelievable.

Kevin Kelch is a convincing Cradeau, a man who saw his own damnation coming but looks back with no regrets. Kelch's performance adds to the credibility of the production. Cradeau, who tries to avoid the others and the torture the three are meant to cause each other, only to find himself compelled to face them, and hence himself in the end.

Colleen Knight is delightful in the role of Estelle, a "society woman" who must face the harsh truth about herself through confrontation with the others, originally insisting that her presence there is a mistake. Knight's performance brings a lightness to what otherwise could be a bleak and depressing production.

Ian Henderson completes the cast with a fine portrayal as the impersonal and mysterious valet who brings the three together in the room.

Admission for the production is $2.50 for adults and $1 for children. Tickets can be purchased at the Calipre Box Office in the Communications Building or ordered by phone at 453-2291.

In our view this band is the best "musical" country band in the Midwest.

Two years ago Cedar Creek and Country Luvin broke up. Last fall members of both groups reformed into a seven piece group called Nite Life. They excel in the four-part harmonies of the Oakridge Boys and the Statler Brothers. They have a female singer that can knock your socks off (knowing that, when you come to Fred's, make sure your feet are clean), and a sax player that gives them a sound dimension unheard of outside a Nashville studio.

Aerobics class size swells as students go for trim look

By Shelley Fichtel
Student Writer

Jump, stretch, lift. Grunt, groan, sweat. "Hey everybody, are you having fun yet?"

Aerobics plus fun — better known as Carol's Class.

Carol Cronholm, the "Pied Piper" of the Student Recreation Center's aerobics program, has a following of fitness fans that fills three gymnasiums. The group's size has forced the Rec Center to limit participation in her class to a first come-first served basis.

"Carol's class is the best out of all of them," said Debbie Widmann, a regular class participant. "It's fun, energetic and something to look forward to."

Cronholm is a cross between athlete and cheerleader: sculptured arms, rock-hard stomach, powerful legs, short blond hair, encouraging eyes and flashing smile.

No one will have more fun than Cronholm for the next hour.

"I like to make it as fun as possible," she said. "Exercise shouldn't be work. It should be fun."

But she is very serious when it comes to giving her class an effective and safe workout. She frequently reads articles from health magazines that are provided to the aerobics instructors by the Rec Center Sports Department. She also gets advice from the Sports Medicine office.

"The Rec Center has a great aerobics program," Cronholm said. "First the instructors show their routines to the staff, then the staff picks apart the routines and tells the instructors which exercises are good and which are harmful."

Cronholm and another instructor took first place last year in the doubles category at the University's aerobics competition sponsored by the Rec Center.

"It was a blast," she said.

Ballet company breaks from tradition

By Ellen Cook
Entertainment Editor

An appreciative audience viewed a unique ballet company at Shryock Auditorium Wednesday night — the Ballet Eddy Toussaint de Montreal.

Much of Toussaint's choreography featured non-traditional movements and non-traditional music, but classical ballet movements also were present in each of the four works.

Two of Toussaint's works, "Missa Criole" and "Cantates," contained heavy religious overtones — the former, Christian in nature; the latter, a mixture of several religions.

"Missa Criole," depicted an Easter mass accompanied by

A Review

Latin folk music. Denis Dulude served as the Christ figure for the piece in which 19 dancers graced the stage. The piece required skill and precision from the performers to make the non-synchronized movements work together, and the dancers succeeded in their task.

"Cantates" featured the classical music of Johannes Sebastian Bach, but the dance was anything but traditional. The male members of the company, dressed in long white skirts, resembled Greek oracles and Egyptian priests. Despite the non-traditional costuming, each of the performers, including principal dancer Louis Robitaille, exhibited power and strength throughout the piece. Toussaint's choreography mixed traditional ballet movements with elements of modern dance in the graceful, yet confusing, religious piece.

The influence of modern dance also was present in "Concerto En Movement." A large mural of a bird in flight hung behind the stage, and members of the company joined together in a dance that celebrated the freedom of flight. Robitaille, Dulude and Anik Bissonnette stood out among the many dancers in the lyrical piece.

Bissonnette's twin sister,

Sophie, was featured in "Souvenance," a pas de trois that also featured Dulude and Mario Thibodeau in an unhappy love triangle. Lighting and costuming proved integral to the piece by separating and distinguishing the dancers from one another.

"Souvenance," the most beautiful of the dances, was a return to classical ballet, showing Toussaint's skill at choreographing both traditional and non-traditional dance.

AEROBICS, from Page 8

"Some really great instructors from all over Southern Illinois entered the competition."

But winning the competition hasn't been the aerobics highlight of 1987 for Cronholm. Increased participation in the Center's aerobics program is what really gets her heart rate up.

"This semester's participation is the best. The number of guys has really gone up," she said. "There used to be about three or four in the whole class. Now it's 35 to 40 percent guys."

Cronholm partially attributes the increased male participation to her unisex exercising style.

"I try to make routines for guys and girls," she explained. "I know guys don't like to do things like high kicks, and they really want to get a good workout."

And it works, says Tom Wentland, a medical student and a regular participant in Cronholm's class.

"Carol's is a dynamic, excellent class. It combines flexibility and stamina for a more technically supported workout," he said. "Her enthusiasm is great. She really motivates people to push themselves."

Cronholm got much of her motivation while growing up in Lockport, where her friends and family called her "Smiley."

"I have a great family and they're all very athletic. My brother is a golf pro, and my mom, dad and I also like to golf," she said. "Everybody's always moving, doing something."

Cronholm teaches aerobics on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 5 p.m.. On Tuesday and Thursdays, she usually lifts weights or rides the stationary bike. On weekends she "might play ultimate Frisbee or go to a party," she said.

"You shouldn't beat your body," Cronholm said. "Exercise is a big part of my life, but it's not necessary seven days a week."

About her eating habits, she says, "For the most part, I try to eat healthy. But mention Dairy Queen and I'm there."

Cronholm will be graduating in May and pursuing a career in dental hygiene and health care management. She is working as a dental hygienist at the School of Technical Careers Dental Hygiene Clinic.

Tennessee rockers plan summer release of album

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

"Looking into the Windows" has become a new pastime for Warner Brothers, Atlantic and RCA recording companies and may hold a new future for a four-piece band that has regularly played in Carbondale for six years.

The Windows, a Martin, Tenn. band, will celebrate its seventh anniversary in May. It has been recording at Ardent Studios in Memphis where such artists as ZZ Top, Steve Perry and Joe Walsh have made use of the technical facilities.

The band has recorded about a dozen songs, but will put only eight on its debut album, which will be released this summer. The Windows hope to have the album released by one of the companies with which the group is negotiating, band

'The Windows' to play in local bar

The Windows, of Martin, Tenn., will perform tonight through Sunday at Gatsby's. Their show includes straight-ahead rockers from The Who, Powerstation and David Bowie, Top 40 favorites from Simple Minds, INXS, Daryl Hall and Robert Palmer, as well as a number of original compositions.

"The Windows are a very tight, professional and well-directed band," said Gatsby's entertainment coordinator Robbie Stokes. "They deserve to make it more than any of the other bands (at Gatsby's) that don't have records out."

manager Dolphus Blackmon said.

"Running Alone," "Photograph," "Motorcar" and "Big Enough" are among the songs included in the upcoming album. Unlike most of the band's songs, which are written by lead singer-guitarist Larry T. Brewer, "Big Enough" was written by keyboardist Kirby Jackson and Windows' light technician Roger Elmore.

Brewer said the band prefers to perform its own music, but the Windows have to play some cover tunes in order to get work.

"The thing that we're really serious about is our original music," Brewer said. "The other stuff is just to eat, make money, travel and play clubs." Brewer and Windows'

Wife's crush caused evangelist scandal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tammy Faye Bakker's "crush" on a country music singer drove her jealous husband, TV preacher Jim Bakker, into the arms of another woman and led to the scandal embroiling religious broadcasting, the Washington Post reported Thursday.

Gary Paxton, a Grammy Award-winning singer-songwriter who made his fame with such songs as "Alley Oop" and "Monster Mash," helped produce Mrs. Bakker's musical albums in the late 1970s and often the two worked late into the night in a recording studio in Nashville, Tenn., the Post said.

"She was in love with Gary, or thought she was and she knew I knew it," Paxton's ex-wife, Karen, told the Post.

"I was devastated, I was hurt," Karen Paxton said. "I don't want to sound like a vindictive woman. I love Tammy. We were very close. I thought she was my best friend, but my best friend and my best husband let me down."

Jim Bakker, who was in Fort

Mill, S.C., concentrating on building his PTL ministry at the time, got word of his wife's close association with Paxton and was "afraid" they were having an affair, according to Linda Wilson, Mrs. Bakker's former private secretary.

First, the evangelist sent his wife roses, then he refused to allow Paxton to appear on his television program, "The Jim and Tammy Show," as the singer had many times previously, Wilson told the Post.

Eventually Paxton sent Bakker an eight-page letter begging forgiveness, which the minister returned unopened, the newspaper said, quoting Wilson.

Karen Paxton, who divorced the singer in 1980, told the Post that Bakker repeatedly telephoned Paxton in Nashville.

The Post said Tammy Bakker had a "crush" on Paxton, a brawny, bearded, colorfully dressed entertainer, who told the Post he and Tammy Bakker were "just friends, never more than that."

bassist Paul Doege formed the band in 1980. Personnel changes in 1985 included the addition of Brewer's brother Alan and Jackson. The new members performed together in the band Flicker.

The Windows opened for Starship in October in front of a home crowd in Martin and has opened for the Beach Boys, the Producers and Phantom, Rocker and Slick.

The interest generating in New York is not the first taste of fame for the Windows. The band's recording "Hello, Hello" earned it Pop Record of the Year in 1983 from the Jackson, Miss., Music Association.

Washington leads in polls of Windy City mayoral race

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mayor Harold Washington appears headed toward a easy re-election victory thanks to a crowded field of opponents unable to shake the mayor's nearly monolithic black support in the nation's third-largest city.

But Washington, the city's first black mayor seeking election to a second four-year term, isn't taking for granted pre-election polls that show him with a 30-point lead over his closest challenger in Tuesday's election.

"As Yogi Berra said, 'The game's not over 'til it's over,' and I don't assume anything until we count the ballots on Election Day," Washington, 64, said last week as he entered the final days of his campaign.

Republican Don Haider and two leading Chicago Democrats running as third-party candidates, Thomas C. Hynes and Edward R. Vrdolyak, also continued their uphill battles to dethrone the mayor.

Washington picked up 53.44 percent of the vote in the Democratic primary last February when he faced only one opponent, former Mayor Jane M. Byrne, in an election that was largely split along racial lines. The mayor received about 97 percent of the black vote and 15 percent of the white vote.

An estimated 1.5 million voters are eligible to vote in Tuesday's election.

Byrne, the city's first female mayor, got a one-on-one shot against the mayor when Vrdolyak, chairman of the Cook County Democratic Party, and Hynes, the Cook County assessor, decided to run third-party campaigns in the April general election.

Haider, 45, a Northwestern University professor and finance expert who jumped off the donkey and onto the elephant in order to run in the GOP primary, tried to capitalize on the infighting among the city's Democrats since the death of the powerful Mayor Richard J. Daley 10 years ago.

State seeks damages from firm

CHICAGO (UPI) — The state filed a lawsuit Thursday seeking more than $20 million in damages from contractors and bonding firms involved in designing, making and installing the ventilating systems at the State of Illinois Center.

The suit was brought by Illinois Attorney General Neil Hartigan on behalf of the Capital Development board against 10 firms and three bonding companies, accusing the contractors of faulty design work, improper manufacture and incorrect installation.

The glass-shrouded downtown structure, built at a cost of $173 million, has been the subject of controversy since it opened in the spring of 1985 because of problems with its air-conditioning and heating systems. State office workers have complained of sweltering heat in the summer, and some said they were forced to wear coats and gloves and bring space heaters in the winter.

"This has been a problem in the building for two years and we have been looking into it for two years," said Jeanne Marie Schultz, a spokeswoman for Hartigan. "The CDB (Capital Development Board) came to us last summer and asked to file suit." The investigation into the heating, air-conditioning and ventilating problems continues, she said.

"There is a repair under way that is due to be completed in June," Schultz said. "The Legislature approved $10.9 million to make the system work. Part of what we're seeking is that money."

The suit asks for a minimum of $15 million in damages, plus court costs. In addition, the state seeks $5 million in damages from Chester-Jensen Co., for allegedly misrepresenting the performance of thermal banks and equipment it supplied.

State infant mortality rises for first time in 20 years

CHICAGO (UPI) — Illinois' infant mortality rate rose last year for the first time in 20 years, state officials said, while Chicago's infant death statistics showed a slight decline.

The Illinois death rate rose from 11.6 per 1,000 live births in 1985 to 12.1 per 1,000 in 1986, said Dr. Bernard Turnock, director of the Illinois Department of Public Health.

At the same time, preliminary figures show Chicago's infant mortality rate declined slightly, by less than 5 percent. The 1985 infant death rate was 16.5 per 1,000 live births.

Until last year, officials noted Illinois' infant mortality rate had been dropping. In 1965, the statewide rate was 25.7 death per 1,000 live births.

The 1985 Illinois rate of 11.6 exceeded the national infant mortality rate that year of 10.3, officials said.

Chicago's 1985 infant death rate was exceeded by rates found in East, St. Louis, Kankakee and Waukegan, as well as by two suburbs, city health officials said.

Minister asks churchgoers to stall daylight-savings time

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — A Lutheran minister has asked his congregation to wait until after Sunday morning services to "spring forward" into daylight-saving time, instead of setting their clocks ahead with the rest of the country at 2 a.m.

"Why should they lose an hour of sleep because people decided Sunday would be the least disruptive day to change to daylight-saving time?" the Rev. Guido Merkens, pastor of the Concordia Lutheran Church, said Wednesday.

Merkens told the San Antonio Light the annual change to daylight-saving time severely cuts down on attendance and revenue for churches nationwide.

This year, Concordia Lutheran officials are asking church members to delay turning their clocks ahead one hour and to attend morning services at 8:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. on Central Standard Time. Merkens said a short ceremony at the end of each service will mark the change to daylight-saving time.

In the past, the switch to daylight-saving time occurred on the last Sunday in April, but Congress recently moved up the change by three weeks to the first Sunday of the month. The date daylight-saving time ends and America "falls back" to standard time remains the last Sunday in October.

Merkens said he supports the concept of daylight-saving time, but the church's delay in "springing forward" is a peaceful protest against the day of the week selected for the switch.

"I'd like to see what businesses would do if they made the change on a Monday," he said.

Sunday's evening services at Concordia Lutheran, which has 4,000 members, will be held on daylight-saving time, Merkens said.

Lobbyist: 3-week jump on time is money

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An early proponent of beginning daylight-saving time sooner in the spring says this year's three-week jump on setting clocks ahead by an hour will prove, once again, that time is money.

Beginning daylight-saving time on the first Sunday in April this year instead of on the last Sunday of the month will generate an extra $4 billion in sales and services and reduce traffic accidents and violent street crime, J. Phillip Halstead predicted.

"The whole country will benefit from the new daylight-saving time," said Halstead, who began efforts to amend the daylight-saving law four years ago while working for the Clorox Co., which makes Kingsford Charcoal.

His motives were clear.

"More light equalled more barbecues — and more charcoal briquettes," he said.

Halstead formed a lobbying committee with help from the National Association of Convenience Stores, the Retinitis Foundation, American Softball League and other groups. He now is president of Halstead Standard Issues Systems of Alameda, Calif.

56 percent of businesses ban smoking, surveys say

ATLANTA (UPI) — Surveys show as many as 56 percent of American businesses are banning or restricting on-the-job smoking, but bosses who smoke and small businesses are trailing in such action, federal health officials said Thursday.

The surveys were conducted by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (covering 1,600 companies), the Bureau of National Affairs (1,967), and Loyola University (1,100), the federal Centers for Disease Control said.

Dr. Ronald Davis of the CDC's Office of Smoking and Health in Washington said the surveys showed that 32 percent to 56 percent of employers were banning or restricting workplace smoking.

One survey also indicated that smaller businesses with less than 10 employees were less inclined to ban worksite smoking or to have a written policy on smoking than firms with 11 to 99 or more workers.

Davis said the trend toward restricting or stopping smoking at the worksite began before the December 1986 release of the Surgeon General's report showing the adverse health effects of involuntary smoking, "but that trend has increased in pace significantly since the release of the report."

Have a meaningful relationship this summer.

Sun rising on Northwestern's lakefront campus

Quick. What do George Balanchine and Margaret Mead have in common? Good question, right? Yesterday lunchtime got into a long conversation about it with a guy taking a course here at NU called ethnography of performance. Talked for over an hour. Sure beats usual summer drive about tan lines. Mine's good by the way.

The Rev. Richard Watson directs a sing-along physboro. Golda Cook, of Carbondale, at the Jackson County Nursing Home, Mur- provides accompaniment on piano.

Former physics prof trades motion laws for clergy robe

By Bill Sullivan
Student Writer

At age 74, most people are enjoying their golden years and the pleasures of retirement, but not Richard Watson.

Watson, a retired SIU-C professor, is starting a new chapter in his life as a Lutheran minister.

After 20 years as a physics professor at SIU-C, stimulating people's intellects, he said he wants to stimulate people's spirituality.

Watson attended Concordia Seminary in St. Louis for four years and is interning at the Lutheran Student Center in Carbondale.

As a minister, Watson says he hopes to continue to improve his preaching ability and to do some counseling and Bible teaching. Watson said, "I hope to be an instrument of the Lord working in a person's life."

He wants to work with the elderly members of a congregation. As part of his dedication to the elderly, he conducts hymn sings at the Jackson County Nursing Home.

Everything I've done in my life has led me to becoming a minister, Watson said.

The "main event" that brought perspective into his life was his experience in World War II, Watson said.

The feeling of not knowing if he would come back caused him to think: "If God would bring me back safe that I would look for Christian people."

Watson says that he has always been involved in teaching Sunday school and Bible studies. So when he found the time, he pursued his interest in religion.

Watson says he has much to share with others, but still has much to learn. In the future, he may want to do some writing, he said, but for now, "I'll just take one step at a time."

After being ordained, Watson will work as assistant pastor at the Lutheran Student Center, 700 S. University.

Vietnam officials OK visits from servicemen, citizens

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Vietnamese tourism officials have agreed in principle to allow visits by former U.S. servicemen and other Americans to show them "a Vietnam they never knew," an American tour consultant said Thursday.

"I got an agreement to bring in as many tourists as I can on a regular basis," said Greg Kane, head of the New York-based Indochina Consultant Group.

Vietnam will offer 16 tours lasting four to 21 days, Kane said, adding that his groups will concentrate on six itineraries — including trips to Hanoi, Ho Chi Minh City and a journey along Highway One, the main north-south route.

Kane has been trying to reach a tourism agreement since 1982. He said he obtained written approval in principle during a two-week visit to Vietnam with 15 other Americans that ended Thursday.

"The purpose of the tours is not to be a war revisited but to introduce a Vietnam they (U.S. veterans) never knew. Most veterans know very little about Vietnam since many spent time in a very defined area," Kane said.

Eight-hundred Americans, at least half of them veterans, already have expressed an interest in joining a tour, Kane said.

In a separate agreement, Vietnamese authorities approved the visit of at least 300 former U.S. servicemen during the 1988 Lunar New Year, called Tet in Vietnam, Kane said.

The period will mark the 20th anniversary of the Tet offensive — a North Vietnamese assault on targets in South Vietnam that sparked widespread U.S. public opposition to American military involvement in the Vietnam War.

Kane said Vietnamese approval of the proposed tours reflected a desire by Hanoi to strengthen its economy.

"The business types in the system now have power to make decisions without being overly influenced by the politicians," he said.

Windsor jewels reap high bids

GENEVA (UPI) — A pair of cufflinks and a heart-shaped brooch owned by the Duchess of Windsor, the woman who cost a king his throne, brought more than $700,000 Thursday night on the auction block.

The 306-piece collection attracted prices that far exceeded expectations. Bidders at the sale in Geneva and at the New York office of the British auction house Sotheby's paid as much as 40 times the estimated value of some pieces.

"On average, items are fetching 10 times the maximum estimates," a Sotheby's official said.

The auction house had estimated the collection would sell for $7.5 million, but speculated the sale could bring in much more money because of the historical and romantic backgrounds to the jewels.

The duchess, a twice-divorced American named Wallis Warfield Simpson, married King Edward VIII in 1936, forcing him to give up the throne in one of history's most memorable love stories.

The duke died in 1972. The duchess, who died last year, bequeathed the collection to the Pasteur Institute of France in recognition of France's hospitality toward the royal couple, who lived in Paris after the abdication.

The institute, which is heavily involved in the search for a cure for the deadly disease AIDS, placed the jewels on the auction block.

The collection was to be sold Thursday night and Friday afternoon. The first session began at 9 p.m. and was scheduled to end about 11:30 p.m. But by 11 p.m., only half of the first batch of 95 jewels had been sold because of the fierce bidding.

A pair of the duke's cufflinks whose value was estimated at $10,670 fetched $400,000. A heart-shaped 20th wedding anniversary brooch given to the duchess by the duke brought in $273,330 — 41 times the estimated value of $6,670.

Warhol's final pictures unveiled in Denmark gallery

ODENSE, Denmark (UPI) — The last finished work by the late American artist Andy Warhol — eight prints inspired by the writings of Hans Christian Andersen — went on display Thursday in the picturesque city where Andersen was born.

The works were unveiled at an art gallery in Odense, the city 100 miles west of Copenhagen where Denmark's fairy tale king was born in 1805. Entitled "The Hans Christian Series," the serigraphic prints were made by Warhol using paper cutouts first planned by Andersen, said officials of Art Expo, a Danish art publishing firm that commissioned the work last year.

The pictures, produced in 25 copies each, include a portrait of the 19th century writer at 57. Warhol approved the prints, his last completed work, in November but did not sign them before he died Feb. 22 at 58, said Art Expo spokesman Peter Thomsen.

Mu Phi recital scheduled for Baptist Hall

A Mu Phi Recital will be presented at 8 tonight at the Old Baptist Foundation Recital Hall.

Eleven School of Music students will perform such works as "Duet No. 2" and "Ronda" by Beethoven and "Schlangende Herzen," "Seitdem Dein Aug'" and "Standchen" by Richard Strauss. The works of six other composers, including Samuel Barber and Vincenzo Bellini, also will be featured.

Performing vocalists include sopranos Patricia Bedford, Peth Dedert, Luanne Goodson, Robin Harris and Cecilia Wagner and mezzo-soprano Paula McElwain.

Pianists Paul Asfour, Mark Hiltand and Nga-Hean Ong; cellist Sarah K. Smith and violinist Donna Lagerstedt will accompany the soloists. Admission is free.

After a two-week lay-off, Saluki men's tennis coach Dick LeFevre said the team faces "some excellent and real tough tennis this weekend!" when the Salukis play their spring home opener in opposition to Southwest Missouri, SIU-E, and Murray State at the Arena tennis courts Saturday and Sunday.

The 2-13 Salukis will be pitted against a "very good" Southwest Missouri State team at 9 a.m. Saturday. After concluding that match, they will take a lunch break and return to action at 2 p.m. to face SIU-Edwardsville, which has won the national division II NCAA championship for the last seven or eight years, LeFevre said.

"If our players are playing well and the opponents are a little bit off, we'll win," LeFevre said. However, he added that he isn't merely looking for victories, but also will observe his troop to see how well they respond to the lay-off.

Once Saturday's action is complete, the Salukis will focus their thoughts on Sunday's 9 a.m. engagement with Murray State.

"Whenever we play Murray State, it seems that all of the marbles are at stake," LeFevre said. "They can very easily be the toughest team here this weekend."

"Last year we had a real tough match with Murray State and lost in a third-set tiebreaker on a highly disputed call."

Hagler:

Loses WBA belt, talks good fight to eliminate Ray

By Dave Raffo
UPI Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Marvin Hagler Wednesday said the last thing he wants to do is turn over to Ray Leonard the middleweight empire he has built for 14 years.

"I'm going out as undisputed champion, I'll tell you that right now," Hagler said at a press conference for Monday's World Boxing Council 160-pound title defense against Leonard.

"Leonard's standing in the way of what I want to do. The only way to do it is to eliminate him."

Hagler will make his 13th title defense against Leonard at Caesars Palace. If he wins, Hagler in his next bout can tie Carlos Monzon's division record of 14 championship defenses.

Hagler's reign over the middleweight division began Sept. 27, 1980 when he stopped Alan Minter in three rounds in England to win the WBC and World Boxing Association titles. When the International Boxing Federation was formed in 1983, that group also recognized Hagler as champion.

"I plan on not letting Leonard take anything away from me," Hagler said. "It's a scary feeling, because if I lose, this man can control everything I've built."

"I got a thing about losing the security of my title. Nobody takes nothing away from me. I've always been that way."

Hagler has won his last 16 fights and has not lost in 37 bouts spanning 11 years since a 10-round decision to Willie Monroe March 9, 1976. He avenged that loss with two subsequent victories over Monroe. His other defeat, another decision to Bobby Watts earlier in 1976, was also avenged.

Hagler was one of the few men recognized as undisputed champion during most of his reign. However, his empire is starting to crumble even without a loss. The WBA has stripped Hagler for not defending his title in more than a year, and the IBF is considering doing the same.

Neither of those groups was asked to sanction Monday's fight against Leonard.

Hagler lost a court bid Tuesday to have the WBA's ruling overturned. At the request of his attorney, he refused to talk about the court ruling Wednesday. The ruling is under appeal.

Leonard said the WBA and IBF should have no objections to Hagler defending his title against the former welterweight and junior middleweight champ.

"They should make an exception for him fighting a champion who has represented those (ruling) bodies like I have," Leonard said. "My record speaks for itself."

"But life is not fair. That's something Hagler has to resolve himself."

Would Leonard do the same thing if he was in Hagler's situation?

"In a heartbeat," he said.

Saluki gridder calls it quits

Call to hit books instead of line, will miss drills

By Steve Merritt
Staff Writer

With spring, along with baseball and bicycles, comes football drills, the preseason practices that gridgers eagerly anticipate during monotonous winter hours spent in the weight room.

But this spring promises to be different for senior Pat Call, a radio and television major who would've been a fifth-year member of SIU-C's football team. The three-year letterman decided to pass up a good shot at starting on the Saluki offensive line this fall to more vigorously pursue his college degree.

"I felt I had served my purpose as a football player," Call said. "It was a hard decision, but one I think will be best for me in the long run."

And so, for the first time in 13 years, Call will not participate in spring football drills.

At 6-2, 260 pounds, Call broke into college football with expectations as big as his size.

After four years as a defensive standout at Admiral King High School — where he won every award imaginable, including most valuable player and all-state honors — Call came to SIU-C and became a redshirt. The Salukis won the national championship that year, and Call was impressed with life as a collegiate football player.

"You couldn't have told me I wouldn't play pro ball," Call said.

Call switched to tackle during his freshman year of eligibility, and responded by winning most-improved offensive lineman honors. It wouldn't be the last time Call changed positions.

The next year, Call moved to backup center, where he played behind Tom Baugh, now with the Kansas City Chiefs. Last season, Call played backup for another impressive center, freshman Bob Grammer, and logged some time at two other positions on the offensive line.

"Having your position changed so often is never an ideal situation for a player," Call said. "And you'd always like to get more playing time. But in no way am I bitter — I've had a good time. The decision to quit is based on academic reasons."

Call said he was happy with his overall GPA of 2.95 and the 3.45 GPA he posted last semester, but added that he wants to improve both now that he isn't playing football.

the afternoon and most of them conflicted with the scheduled football practices," Call said. "I'll have a lot more time to concentrate on my degree."

He thoroughly discussed his decision with coach Ray Dorr.

"I don't think there are any bad feelings," Call said. "He told me I was penciled in as a starter, and he wanted me to stay. But he seemed happy with my reasons — he didn't want me to just quit."

Call made his decision to end his football career during Christmas break. The adjustment to life as a non-athlete has been a tough one, he said, but he hopes the early timing will help him cope with not playing this spring.

"Spring drills are something I've been doing since I was in the fifth grade — it's like a part of life," Call said. "It'll be a strange spring, but the real test will be the fall. That's when I'll hurt the most."

Besides spending more time with his studies, Call said he plans on keeping his mind off football by continuing to work out and play basketball.

"I could never just sit around," Call said. "I'd go nuts, so I'll have to keep my body busy by playing basketball at the Rec a few times a week."

Dorr left the door open in case he wants to return, but Call said he's happy with his decision, at least for the time being.

"Over Christmas, I began to realize the fact that my football career would be coming to an end pretty soon, anyway," Call said. "If I had a shot at the pros, I'd stick around and work at it."

"I'll be there rooting for them this fall. I'll be their biggest fan. I hope they go 11-0 and win the national championship. I hope I make it to every game — I could never stop being a Dog at heart."

Salukis to strike Panthers in Gateway softball opener

By Wally Foreman
Staff Writer

The women's softball team, which received 60 points to finish fourth in the 1987 Gateway Conference pre-season softball poll, will open league play Friday with a doubleheader against Northern Iowa in Cedar Falls, Iowa.

The Salukis, 9-8, will follow with a conference doubleheader against Drake, Saturday in Des Moines, Iowa.

Illinois State received a first place prediction in the poll with 97 points. Of the weekend's opponents, UNI was picked seventh and Drake last.

The Salukis defeated the Panthers 3-0 last week at the Illinois State Invitational and captured two wins last year at home 1-0, 6-3.

"We didn't see the No. 1 pitcher for Northern Iowa (last week) and it was a tight ballgame," coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said.

Because of the snow that hit Iowa, the doubleheader against the Panthers will probably be played inside at the UNI-Dome on Astroturf.

Brechtelsbauer said the hitters will have to get on top of the ball when they hit to make it bounce. "We'll also have the infielders play deeper so the ball will not bounce over their head."

If the weather conditions in Iowa are better by Saturday the Salukis will play Drake.

The Salukis beat the Bulldogs 1-0, 3-1 last year. "Getting those wins was like pulling teeth," Brechtelsbauer said. "Every conference game can be tough, whoever happens to be up usually wins."

One Saluki that is questionable for the weekend is Becky Rickenbaugh because of severe back spasms.

Two freshman Salukis are making progress from their injuries. Infielder Patty Barker, who has had problems with her thumb, has been fielding ground balls and is starting to grip a bat in practice. Brechtelsbauer also said she hopes pitcher Beth Schmitt will be ready."

NFL agent confesses payola

Scam may spread from Iowa gridder to national scene

By Rod Boshart
UPI Writer

IOWA CITY Iowa (UPI) — Iowa football coach Hayden Fry refused to comment Wednesday on an in-house probe of one of his former players, but said he expects some "unbelievable" revelations to come out of investigations nationwide into sports agents paying athletes during their college careers.

Fry told reporters he had been advised not to discuss a probe by a special University of Iowa committee into allegations that former Hawkeye running back Ronnie Harmon, now with the NFL's Buffalo Bills, received more than $54,000 from an agent from 1984 to 1986. Such payments violate NCAA rules.

"I've been told not to make any comments because the university officially has appointed an investigative committee and they right now are in the process of interviewing various people to gather all the knowledge they can," Fry said at a news conference focusing on his team's spring drills.

"I will say this," Fry added. "The whole smear of agent wheeling and dealing and all this, by the time the smoke clears whenever — next week, in two months, two years from now or whenever — I think it will be unbelievable.

"I'm talking about nationwide," the Iowa football coach told reporters, "when the NFL, the FBI, the individual investigative committees on various campuses across the nation, etc. — by the time the whole thing is over with, it will give you all copy for a long time to come."

One sports agent, Norby Walters, has admitted that he signed players while they were still in school and, in some cases, gave them money. Walters, who with his partner Lloyd Bloom, represented Harmon has said in published reports that he gave Harmon more than $54,000 while the running back was attending Iowa.

The NCAA allows undergraduate athletes to consult agents, but prohibits them from entering into an agreement or accepting cash, or discussing financial arrangements before their eligibility expires.

Fry said now he is "right on top of all that," but admitted that initial allegations about Harmon receiving payments while at Iowa caught him by surprise.

"I'd be the last coach to even think that any of our guys have done anything wrong and I'm not convinced that Ronnie's done anything wrong, but the investigation will verify that," Fry said. He declined to say whether the UI committee is looking into the Harmon situation only or the entire Hawkeye football program.

"We probably do as good a job of educating our players on what they can do and cannot do or NCAA rules as any staff in America," the Iowa coach added. "I mean we really go to extremes. I bring in professional people, NFL people the FBI — I bring in all kinds of people."

The university set up the committee last month after reports of the alleged payments to Harmon and several athletes at other schools surfaced. Since that time, it also has been reported that the FBI in Dallas has begun probing alleged threats of violence in a battle of sports agents to represent college football players.

The UI committee will try to determine whether the allegations concerning Harmon are true and, if so, whether any other player, members of the coaching staff or other university employee or person connected to the university was involved.

The committee also will determine whether regulations or rules of the university, the Big Ten or the NCAA were violated, and recommend steps the university should take, if any. The NCAA has indicated that it probably would not probe the Harmon allegations since he no longer is associated with the Iowa program.

Fry said he expected the committee would conclude its probe and release its findings as early as next week.

No Bull, Pacers clinch playoff berth

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The Indiana Pacers ended years of frustration Wednesday night when they clinched their first NBA playoff berth since 1981 with a 99-94 victory over the Chicago Bulls.

The Pacers have won six straight, one shy of the team's longest NBA winning string set six seasons ago. Indiana improved to 37-35 and put them into sixth place among Eastern Conference teams. Chicago fell to 37-36.

Celtic injuries launch Bird into flight

BOSTON (UPI) — Larry Bird, trying to make up for his injured teammates, scored 30 points, grabbed 17 rebounds and handed out 15 assists Wednesday night in the Boston Celtics' 103-86 victory over the Washington Bullets.

Kevin McHale missed his third straight game because of a foot problem and Dennis Johnson played only 21 minutes after a three-game absence because of a bruised shoulder.

"I have to score a little more if they're not in and I have to handle the ball more if DJ's not in," said Bird, who registered season-highs in both rebounds and assists.

Net women gamble in pro skins contest

CHICAGO (UPI) — Move over guys, the women want a shot at their own "skins" game.

This Sunday, four of the top women's players in the world will vie in tennis' answer to the skin games.

Martina Navratilova and Billie Jean King will meet Chris Evert Lloyd and Pam Shriver in the unique doubles competition in ABC's "Challenge of the Champions" from the Scope Arena in Norfolk, Va.

Boston won its 25th consecutive game at home and the Celtics have won 71 of their last 72 at Boston Garden. Boston wins the season series between the two teams by a 4-2 margin.

Robinson captures Wooden Award

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — David Robinson, who entered the Navy as a little-recruited, undersized center, Wednesday won the 11th Wooden Award as the top collegiate basketball player in the nation.

Lopez-Bradley battle in LPGA event

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (UPI) — While Pat Bradley was having one of the finest seasons in LPGA history last year, Nancy Lopez was off having a baby.

Many point to a connection there. Would Bradley have won a record $492,021 and three of the four majors on the women's tour with Lopez around to challenge her?

Beginning Thursday, Lopez will be on hand to battle Bradley, the defending champion, in the $500,000 Dinah Shore, the LPGA's richest and first major tournament of the season. Bradley edged Val Skinner by two shots here last year, and the triumph served as a springboard for her remarkable campaign.

Still, missing from the ranks of the defeated was Lopez, who played in just four tournaments before giving birth to Erinn Shea 10 months ago.

"It wouldn't have mattered if Nancy were here or not," Bradley said Wednesday after playing in the pro-am on the par-72, 6,292-yard Mission Hills Country Club course. "The way I was playing I would have beaten anybody."

Soviets out-grapple U.S. all-stars

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI) — The Soviet national team won four straight matches in the upper weight classes Wednesday night to down the U.S. all-star wrestlers 7-3 and continue the USSR's dual-meet dominance that started in 1971.

Vuckovich enters second retirement

CHANDLER, Ariz. (UPI) — Pete Vuckovich, the 1982 American League Cy Young award winner, Wednesday retired from baseball for the second straight spring but said this time he was quitting for good.

The 34-year-old right-hander had retired last spring because he was not pitching well while recovering from arm problems. But he came back a few months later and was 2-1 in Vancouver in Triple A and then 2-4 with a 3.06 ERA for the Brewers in six games at the end of the season.

Vuckovich tried to make the club as a non-roster player again this spring but pitched poorly.

Baseballers stomp St. Louis

By M.J. Starshak
Staff Writer

For the second year in a row the Saluki baseball team (16-5) slaughtered the St. Louis Billikens (3-22) at Aoe Martin Field.

This year's tally was 14-3. SIU-C took advantage of sloppy Billiken defense and jumped to a 2-0 lead after the first inning, but St. Louis tied it when senior pitcher George Goich got into trouble in the second inning.

"George's biggest problem is that he has trouble with his control and he lets it affect him," Saluki coach Richard "Itchy" Jones said. "He needs to be more consistent."

Rich Gaebe opened the Saluki half of the second with his seventh double of the year to begin an SIU-C rally. The junior came around to score on a pair of ground outs.

Then Charlie Hillemann came to bat and got hit by a pitch for the eighth time this year. The junior outfielder stole his ninth base and scored on a stand-up double by Chuck Verschoore.

The Salukis increased their lead to 5-2 when Gaebe drove in Jim Limperis for his 13th RBI. Limperis had walked to lead off the third inning and advanced on a sacrifice bunt by Chuck Locke.

SIU-C's scoring had been but a trickle until the fourth inning when catcher Joe Hall tapped the first pitch past Billiken pitcher John Krekeler (0-4) to start the flood.

Back-to-back walks loaded the bases for Steve Finley, who entered the game with a .324 average. Finley flied out to right to score Hall and Limperis followed with a single that drove in Hillemann and Verschoore. Limperis ended the day 2-2, as did Gaebe.

St. Louis brought in relief pitcher Mike Gilliam in an attempt to close the flood gates, but Locke thwarted the effort by knocking his third home run over the left field fence to also bring home Limperis. The Salukis scored one more before closing the inning with an 11-2 lead.

Men hoopsters keep one, lose one in recruiting wars

The SIU-C men's basketball team lost out on one recruit Wednesday but stayed in the running for another.

Cairo High School's Lucis Reece, an AP and UPI Class A all-state selection, verbally committed to play college ball for Northwestern Wednesday morning.

Pilots coach Bill Chumberler said the 6-5 standout considered SIU-C and Northwestern down to the wire, but chose the Wildcats because "they stayed with Lucis from the start."

The Salukis stayed in the running for Vincennes (Ind.) University forward Cal Foster, an all-region NJCAA selection.

Vincennes coach Dan Sparks said the 6-7 leaper is being recruited by SIU-C, NCAA Final Four team Providence, NCAA selection Western Kentucky and Texas.

Foster, described by his coach as a "dunking machine," averaged 13 points, eight rebounds and four blocked shots per game this season.

Sparks said Foster is leaning toward Providence on the basis of their NCAA tourney showing, but the coach has recommended SIU-C because he felt Foster would get more playing time as a Saluki.

"I feel Cal would fit nicely into Southern's program," Sparks said. "He may have to sit out a while at Providence."

Baseballers try to defeather MVC 'Jays

SIU-C's 16-5 baseball team opens Missouri Valley Conference play this weekend in Omaha, Neb., with Saturday and Sunday doubleheaders against the 15-5 Creighton Bluejays.

Creighton boasts victories over Maine and Navy and a split with the Miami Hurricanes. The Salukis dropped two games to Miami and one to Maine during their Florida trip. SIU-C coach Richard "Itchy" Jones' squad also defeated Maine once before returning to Carbondale.

Jones has tried to save some of his better pitchers for the conference games.

NIC gives gymnasts chance

Salukis must score 280 or else no NCAA return

The Saluki gymnastics team isn't dead yet.

Although the athletes haven't scored high enough to rank in the nation's top 10, they have one last chance to earn the needed score at this weekend's National Independent Conference championships in Chicago.

The Salukis won the championships last year with a score of 277.40. Five of SIU-C's six competitors from the 1986 NIC contest will again participate.

Familiar foe Houston Baptist, which is ranked seventh, will be among the Brigham-Young, Northern Illinois, Kent State, Western Michigan and the University of Illinois-Chicago round out the field.

The Salukis enter the competition ranked 14th and will need to score at least 280 points to enter the elite top 10 group that will qualify for the April 23-25 NCAA Championships, which will be held in Los Angeles. The Salukis will receive word April 7 about the NCAA qualifiers.

HBU recently defeated California State-Fullerton, the top ranked team in the Western region. The Houston Baptist Huskies later fell to strong Midwest regional competitor Oklahoma.

The Salukis defeated the Huskies 279.65-270.05 March 1 in a meet at the SIU-C Arena, but lost to the same team 281.30-277.65 March 14 at

"This is the rubber match," Saluki coach Bill Meade said. "It should be a battle between HBU and SIU."

Meade said even if the team does not make it, at least four of his gymnasts have a chance of qualifying for NCAA individual competition.

"The three seniors (Mark Ulmer, Preston Knauf and David Bailey) have a good opportunity to qualify for nationals plus (Tom) Glielmi," Meade said.

Glielmi's 9.68 average in the floor exercises is second in the Midwest region and Knauf's vaulting average of 9.53 places him third.

If the SIU-C team does not qualify for the NCAAs, this will be the first time it failed to do so in four years.

"It's just part of the game," Meade said. "It's just part of
