Rain drenches 8,000 fans but the day was no washout

By Paula J. Finlay
Staff Writer

Attired in raincoats and plastic trash bags, about 8,000 fans braved heavy rain and 34-degree weather to see the Salukis battle the Indiana State Sycamores in NCAA playoff action Saturday.

A half hour before gametime McAndrew Stadium was nearly bare, but by the time the Salukis ran onto the field for the kickoff, they were greeted by a group of rowdy die-hard fans who didn't leave until the game was over and the goalposts were down — but not necessarily in that order.

Even the costumed Saluki mascot was ready for the inclement weather — wearing a "How 'bout them dogs?" sweatshirt and carrying a maroon and white umbrella.

Both stands were seas of umbrellas of every color as game-goers attempted to protect themselves from the elements. But the rain didn't dampen the spirits of the fans, and many stood from kickoff to the final gun.

Saluki fans in the east stands matched a tune from the ISU band with chants of "Go home!" and even the Sycamore pompon girls, wearing brightly colored raincoats and blue sweatpants, didn't impress the SIU-C fans. When the girls performed at halftime to their band's rendition of "Wabash Cannonball" Saluki fans responded with a recurring yell — "Boring, boring."

The Saluki Shakers appeared in shorts and sweaters and received a much warmer welcome from the crowd as did the ever-popular Marching Salukis in their half-time performance of a jazzy set of songs in their own crazy style.

Although there were complaints of frozen feet and chilly hands, the crowd seemed to be having too much fun to mind the cold, especially when they considered trading places with the wet-to-the-skin players skidding around with bare arms and legs on rain-soaked artificial turf.

In fact, the fans seemed to be more amiable than usual — that was demonstrated late in the third quarter when Corky Field fumbled on the one-yard line and the fans supported him with a cheer.

Even though the cheerleaders, wearing gray sweatpants and SIU jackets instead of their usual lighter costumes, were cheering their hearts out, many of the yells coming from the stands were fan-originated. When it became apparent in the third quarter that the Salukis would be seen in next week's televised playoff semifinal action, people in the east stands began chanting "CBS, CBS."

And when the Saluki offensive squad left the field with only seconds left on the clock and SIU-C leading 23-7, the crowd responded with a standing ovation and kept on cheering, this time, "Defense, defense."

When the clock was stopped twice in the final seconds, Yack had to ask the fans already assembled for a victory celebration to clear the field. Attempts by Bruce Swinburne, vice president for student affairs, announcer John Yack, and campus police to keep the goalposts intact were unsuccessful as the fans tore them both down — the north goal going before the final gun went off.

Then it was time for a celebration Saluki-style with chants of "We're Number One!" coming from throughout the stadium.

8 Marines killed by Druse; Syrians down 2 Navy planes

BEIRUT (AP) — Eight U.S. Marines were killed and two were wounded when Druse gunners opened heavy fire on the Marine base at the Beirut airport Sunday night, a Marine spokesman reported.

Maj. Dennis Brooks said the Marines came under intense fire about 12 hours after Syrian soldiers shot down two U.S. Navy jets that had been in the first American air strike in Lebanon.

U.S. Navy ships opened fire on the anti-government forces that were pounding the Marine encampment with rockets, small-arms fire and artillery barrages.

Brooks said the naval gunfire "was the result of heavy, sustained ... fire that the Marine positions have been under since approximately 7 p.m. (12 noon EST)."

He said "the entire airport perimeter" had come under fire. The thunderous barrages from the warships firing into the Druse positions in the mountains overlooking the airport rattled buildings in Beirut.

"We have eight dead and two wounded," Brooks said. He added the Marines were responding with automatic weapons and M-60 tank fire.

In Washington, White House national security spokesman Robert Sims said, "I know we've had an attack from Druse and probably Shiite positions around the airport at Beirut and

New York man charged in $10,000 robbery

By John Stewart
Staff Writer

A New York man faces federal bank robbery charges in connection with the Thursday robbery of $10,000 from a Campbell Hill bank, and investigations are continuing which could possibly tie him to two other robberies.

According to Jackson County State's Attorney John Clemons, a federal warrant was filed Friday in East St. Louis against Richard Kennedy, charging him with bank robbery, use of a deadly weapon, taking a hostage in the commission of a crime, and flight to avoid prosecution.

Clemons said Sunday that he expects to file state charges Monday, if he receives reports from all law enforcement agencies involved in the case.

Clemons said state charges might include armed robbery, several counts of attempted murder, and aggravated kidnapping. He said all of those charges are Class X felonies, carrying a 30-year maximum sentence. Clemons said particularly heinous crimes, "of which I consider this to be one," could carry penalties of up to 60 years per charge.

According to the Jackson County Sheriff's department, Kennedy and a female accomplice, later identified as Cathy Cremer, 27, of Marion, ran a roadblock in their hostage's car heading north on Ava Blacktop, five miles north of Murphysboro.

Deputy Kenneth Akins pursued the car driven by Kennedy in a high speed chase until it ran into and overturned a car driven by Sue York, of Murphysboro, according to the sheriff.

Kennedy's car ran into a ditch and the alleged hostage, Rebecca Graff, 33, of Ava, ran into a field. Kennedy pursued until a Department of Transportation helicopter piloted by Alan Satterfield moved in between Kennedy and Graff,

FAA ups surveillance of Air Illinois

By Anne Flasz
Staff Writer

Federal Aviation Administration action calling for 100 percent surveillance of Air Illinois operations and procedures has been called "needless" by Air Illinois President Roger Street.

The action, which came last week during National Transportation Safety Board hearings on the crash of Flight 710, was "unwarranted harassment," Street said in a press release Saturday. He contended that his airline was caught in a battle between the two government agencies.

Additional FAA inspectors will be brought in to examine Air Illinois' maintenance operations in both Carbondale and Evansville on an almost continual basis, according to an FAA spokesman. They will also accompany some crews on scheduled flights throughout a five-state area.

The increased surveillance, which was reportedly brought about by the NTSB hearings, will continue for several weeks.

Street expressed concern that the hearings on the crash of Flight 710, in which 10 people died near Pinckneyville, were "dragging" and dismay that the NTSB recessed the hearings Saturday afternoon.

NTSB Chairman Jim Burnett recessed the hearings, which ran three days longer than expected, until sometime in January.

At that time, the NTSB is expected to resume the investigation in Washington, D.C., calling as witnesses three Air Illinois vice presidents.

Other witnesses to be called in Washington may include maintenance personnel and others directly involved with the upkeep of the two generators on the plane.

The British Hawker-Siddeley 748 allegedly had generator problems, and Air Illinois has contended that the crash was due to electrical malfunctions in addition to a shutdown of both generator systems.

Prior to calling a recess for the hearings in Carbondale, Burnett deemed the investigation a success and said the hearings had already resulted in improvements in air safety and probable future improvements.

Part of the 42 hours of testimony by 19 witnesses indicated that Air Illinois employees may not have used standard FAA procedures to record maintenance problems.

Charles Dougan, acting manager of the General Aviation District Office in Springfield, said Saturday that if inspectors had checked both

Marine presence in Lebanon a no-win situation, experts say

By Phillip Fiorini
Staff Writer

Three SIU-C political science professors agreed Sunday that the U.S. Marines in Lebanon remain in a "no-win situation" after Syrian soldiers opened fire on the Marine base at the Beirut airport Sunday night, killing eight U.S. Marines and wounding two more.

Manfred Landecker, who teaches a course in foreign policy, said that American military strength "can't resolve the political situation" in Lebanon. He said the United States "will continue to be too deeply involved."

The Marines came under intense fire about 12 hours after Syrian soldiers shot down two U.S. Navy jets involved in an air strike in Lebanon earlier Sunday.

Landecker said the administration has been "very naive" in hoping that if the Israelis would withdraw, than the Syrians would withdraw.

"The Syrians haven't, though," he said. "And their long-range interest shows that they aren't about to pull out of Lebanon."

Landecker said that it was true that the United States has a "symbolic presence" in the conflict to the extent that they are a strong military force representing a superpower.

"But a few more Marines around the airport aren't going to make a difference," he said.

Landecker said that the situation isn't going to be resolved overnight, but he said that he "hates to see Marines sitting there for 18 months," which Congress has established as a time limit for the Marines in Lebanon.

William Hardenbergh, who teaches a course in Middle East affairs, said that it was "unfortunate" that more Marines had been killed, and he said the tension in Lebanon was "sure to continue."

Randall Nelson, a professor in constitutional law, said that he feels the Marines are still in a "no-win situation."

Center land on council agenda

By Paula J. Finlay

Plans for sewer relocation for the downtown conference center are up for approval at Monday night's council meeting, but Tuesday the council will review what could be another snag in the troubled project.

The council is expected to go into a closed session at its special meeting Tuesday to hear from the city staff information affecting the land acquisition for the center.

Land for the project is scheduled to be exchanged on the Dec. 15 deadline, and while city officials have admitted they will have difficulty meeting that deadline, they have insisted that the project is not dead and plans have continued.

reviewed the sewer relocation plans and indicated approval of them, Mayor Helen Westberg responded, "I sure hope we get a chance to use these."

In other business, the council will vote on an ordinance which will allow child and adult care facilities with special use permits to operate in zones that previously didn't allow them.

Day care centers are defined in the proposed ordinance as facilities "at which an agency, organization or individual regularly provides care for less than 24 hours a day to more than four persons who are not residents of the facility." Daytime programs such as those run by schools and the federal government are not included.

Allen, Jackson County Landfill owner, had proposed building a $1 million enclosed refuse processing center on the site, which is within the city's 1.5 mile zoning area.

The council indicated its support for the general concept of waste transfer stations as economically and environmentally sound last week, but said a waste transfer station at that location, which is near the Lakewood Shopping Center, would not be appropriate. The council indicated its support for a transfer station in Carbondale and directed the city staff to assist in the search for a suitable site for it.

Astronauts repair lab equipment

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — After talking by radio to the king of Jordan, a "happy bunch" of handyman astronauts used a makeshift darkroom inside a bedroll to fix a jammed camera Sunday, then repaired and fired up a twice-broken furnace.

Spacelab scientist Owen Garriott reached fellow ham radio buff King Hussein, who told him, "We're very, very, proud of you, and we share this pride with all the people of America, all the people of the world."

Bob Parker and Ulf Merbold of the Red Team — one astronaut shift — and Garriott and Byron Lichtenberg of the Blue Team got out tools and instructions Sunday to repair a series of broken experiments aboard their orbiting Spacelab.

Union, Greyhound draft settlement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Late-starting Democratic presidential hopeful Jesse Jackson launched a broad assault Sunday on the party's rules for picking its 1984 presidential nominee, saying the regulations lock out women and minorities.

"I challenge these rules because they threaten my quest for the nomination," Jackson said on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" program.

"Neither (1972 nominee George) McGovern nor Jimmy Carter could win under these rules and neither can I," he said.

Jackson blasts Democratic rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Union leaders are expected to push hard for ratification of a contract agreement aimed at ending a bitter, month-long strike against Greyhound Lines, although one union official acknowledged "we bit the bullet" on wage concessions.

After two days of make-or-break bargaining, the Amalgamated Transit Union and Greyhound reached a tentative settlement on a new contract, with a ratification vote planned before December 20, according to federal mediators.

Neither side would comment publicly on details of the pact Sunday.

USO BOOK CO-OP

The Undergraduate Student Organizations' Book Co-op is a beneficial program provided by your student government. This service enables students to turn in textbooks and set the price for the books that they desire. YES! NO more receiving 50% of what you paid for a textbook.

The Co-op process is easy to do, and takes only a few minutes. Books are collected in the Student Center and a simple contract including book information and set price, is signed between USO and the student.

Textbooks are then sold to students by the Undergraduate Student Organization, and money from the books is then distributed to students.

You too could benefit from the Undergraduate Student Organization Book Co-op Service.

it is pretty intense. We have had some casualties and we have repounded with tank and naval gunfire."

White House spokeswoman Sheila Dixon said President Reagan had been briefed about the development.

After Syrian forces shot down the U.S. planes, one flier was rescued, at least one was captured and Syrian soldiers said a third died of injuries.

The Pentagon said a two-man A-6 and a single-pilot A-7 fighter-bomber were downed when 23 U.S. planes attacked Syrian positions in Lebanon's central mountains at about 8 a.m. (1 a.m. EST) in response to earlier attacks on U.S. reconnaissance planes.

The White House said President Reagan authorized the raid. Reagan vowed to order more strikes if Syrian anti-aircraft batteries continue to fire at American surveillance planes.

"We are going to defend our forces there," Reagan told reporters at the White House. "If our forces are attacked, we will respond."

Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger said the Syrians were believed to be holding two of the fliers. "We are attempting to negotiate their release," Reagan said.

But a Lebanese photographer on assignment for The Associated Press said he saw a captured American at one crash site, as well as another severely injured crewman taken away by Syrian soldiers. The Syrians later told reporters one American died of his injuries.

A Syrian communique mentioned only one pilot held.

The other U.S. planes returned safely to the aircraft carriers USS Independence and USS Kennedy off the Lebanese coast, the Defense Department said.

A Lebanese army officer who witnessed the raid from a mountain village said the U.S. jets were lined up abreast as they swept in from the Mediterranean for the attack.

He said he thought the planes must have been visible to Syrian lookouts and radar stations for several minutes before they struck.

As the planes crossed over Syrian lines, missiles and anti-aircraft fire rose "from all sides," he said.

A Defense Department spokesman said at least 40 shoulder-launched SA-7 missiles and vehicle-launched SA-9 rockets were fired at the planes, along with heavy anti-aircraft fire. The SA-7s and SA-9s are Soviet-made weapons.

The Pentagon said its planes dropped a variety of explosives, including conventional 1,000-pound bombs and cluster bombs. It gave no report of the damage caused.

Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul-Halim Khaddam said two Syrians were killed and 10 wounded in the raid. Syria also said it lost one vehicle and an ammunition dump.

Carbondale man charged with grocery robberies

About 10 hours after the Carbondale Boren's IGA Foodline West was robbed of an undetermined amount of cash Saturday, a Carbondale man was arrested for that and two other armed robberies which occurred last week.

Alvarnado Payne, 43, was arrested at 2:15 a.m. Sunday by Carbondale police after a high speed chase which ended after Payne wrecked his car behind the SIU-C Communications Building and was apprehended after a short chase on foot. Police said they had stopped Payne for a traffic violation on U.S. Highway 51 south.

Police said Payne was charged with robbing the IGA-West, 1620 W. Main St., at 3:40 p.m. Saturday, when he allegedly entered the store carrying a sawed-off shotgun and demanded money be put in a brown paper bag he carried in with him.

"A substantial amount of money was recovered that is believed to have come from the robberies," said Lt. Larry Hill. Carbondale Officer Bob Collier was treated and released from Memorial Hospital for minor injuries sustained during the chase.

Payne was also charged with the armed robberies of IGA-East in the Lewis Park Mall Wednesday night and the Convenient Food Mart on U.S. Route 51 Tuesday morning.

Both stores were robbed by two black men, one carrying a sawed-off shotgun. The amount of money taken from IGA-East was not released. Over $300 was taken from the Convenient store.

Payne was transported to Jackson County jail to await an initial court appearance. Police said investigation of the three robberies will continue.

according to the DOT.

Kennedy then turned to fire at the helicopter, and deputy Curt Ehlers fired from the helicopter while deputy Akins simultaneously fired from the ground, according to the sheriff's department. Kennedy went down, but began to get back up when Akins shot him again.

Kennedy suffered wounds to the head, hand and knee, and was brought to Memorial Hospital in Carbondale before being flown to St. Louis City Hospital for further treatment.

Sheriff William Kilquist said Friday that Kennedy would be moved to St. Joseph Hospital in Murphysboro, but he was not registered there as of Sunday.

Cremer was treated for injuries Thursday at St. Joseph and is now in Jackson County Jail. She was named, but not charged, in the federal warrant filed Friday.

Graff and York were treated at St. Joseph for minor injuries and were released Thursday, according to the sheriff.

The bank robbery occurred in Campbell Hill, located 30 miles northwest of Carbondale, about 12:20 p.m. Thursday. First National Bank President Bill Richelman said $10,000 in cash was taken. A nearby market owner, who called the police after the bank alarm went off, saw a man escape in a brown station wagon.

A car matching that description was later found abandoned and was impounded by the Jackson County Sheriff's department. The car is possibly connected to the robbery of a Percy pharmacy Wednesday night.

the flight log and the maintenance log, they should have noticed discrepancies in the way things were recorded in the flight log.

When asked by Burnett if he would make any suggestions regarding the FAA's inspection operations from what he had learned at the hearing, Dougan replied that he would suggest "full-time inspectors for Air Illinois because of its increasing complexity."

Dougan also said that prior to Oct. 11 the FAA did step-up surveillance on the commuter-regional airline, but said he could not recall the reason behind the increase.

Paul Evans, an air carrier specialist at FAA Great Lakes Region Headquarters in Des Plaines, said Saturday that the number of inspectors employed by the regional office has dropped within the last five years.

Under questioning by Burnett, Evans said he was not sure whether there might be cuts made at the Springfield office, adding that "a lot of things are still up in the air."

A Spine out of Balance

If you're feeling out of sorts, with a vague discomfort in your back, your spine may be out of balance. Your spine serves a vital function in many ways. The spine and nervous system attached to it, in fact, have a direct effect on many of the functions of your body. It's important to keep the spine in proper balance. The spine is connected to a foundation made up of your pelvis and legs. If this foundation is well-balanced and working normally, it helps to keep your spine in balance, otherwise it can cause pain and discomfort. For example, if a house's foundation is crooked or walls. You'll see cracks in the plaster. Doors won't fit properly. Windows may not open. You can repair the cracked plaster and trim the doors and windows to fit again. But how long will these "cover-ups" last? Your body also needs a good foundation. If your spine is out of balance, seek the treatment you need to put it right again.

Fights over a doll? Ah, 'tis the season

'TIS THE SEASON to be violent — especially if you wish to give or receive a Cabbage Patch Kid doll for Christmas.

Across the nation, reports abound of violence and injuries resulting from oh-so-intense scrambles at toy stores for the dolls. The pumpkin-faced, one-of-a-kind figures are in very short supply this holiday season.

The managing editor of the Idaho Press-Tribune even reported that a doll he had bought for the holiday season was kidnapped (dollnapped?) from his locked trunk. A ransom note warned, "Don't call the cops or your Cabbage Patch Kid will be coleslaw." That particular editor suspects a practical joke from members of his staff. But his story sheds a humorous light on a situation that, in some cases, is getting a bit out of hand.

WHY ARE THESE dolls so popular? Because many children consider it novel to have a doll that's a little different from everyone else's. And adults, we suspect, are beginning to consider it a conquest of sorts just to find a Cabbage Patch Kid on toy store shelves.

Somebody, somewhere is making a barrel of money from this line of thought — the same rationale that made people rush for hula-hoops, mood rings and pet rocks. If you bought or received any of those items for Christmases past, make room beside them in the attic for your Cabbage Patch doll. It's certain to wind up there.

And as those trendy gifts gather dust, they ought to make us realize that Christmas isn't the time to worry about being first on our block, or first to the check-out line.

Statistics are irrelevant

In the Nov. 15 DE, there appears a letter from Jane Ellison of Oxford University in which she speaks out against the death penalty. She writes, in particular, that "statistical evidence and thorough research have never shown the death penalty to be an effective deterrent" (meaning, presumably, a deterrent to commission of a capital crime).

One might then conclude from her remarks that there exists statistically derived evidence relevant to the question.

I claim that is not the case: Whatever one's position on the death penalty may be, it is important to realize that there simply cannot be (in the nature of the matter) any statistical evidence bearing significantly on the question. Any such judgment can only be based on ethical considerations. — Herbert H. Snyder, Professor of Mathematics.

If you're looking for a loser, don't ask us

"WE'RE NOT LOSERS anymore!" screamed a rain-soaked SIU-C sophomore between sips of schnapps. "This is just like the big time. We're gonna be on CBS ... Erv, Brent and the Greek!"

That statement was repeated over and over again Saturday on campus, in bars, in front rooms and parties all over Carbondale. It was the undercurrent of thought from the opening kickoff. The aftershock is still rumbling.

That winning attitude has been growing all season. But beyond just pride in a winning football team, it is a attitude that is reflected in every aspect of life at Southern. We like to say we're the best at something.

I HAVE a roommate who used to hate football. As a matter of fact, the Homecoming romp was the first football game he had ever attended. Do you know where he was Saturday? Standing in freezing drizzle with 8,000 other maniacs, screaming his lungs out. Not because he enjoyed the game of football that much. Not because his girlfriend wanted to go. Not because he got turned on to a ticket — but because he wanted to be a winner.

For a long time (it seems like forever), SIU-C has been under a dark cloud of pessimism. Students cut down their respective schools and colleges. Concert-goers are apathetic and ticket sales run low, leading to cancellations. Some teachers are viewed as cut-rate (and their salaries would reflect it). Students see Carbondale as either too crazy or too dull. Imported urban liberals call the Carbondale community rural and backward. The local residents view students as radical, irrational and violent.

BUT THOSE THINGS are starting to change. The city and the University have gotten together on Halloween. The students feel they have a voice in city government with the election of Keith Tinkhorn. And most important, inside the parameters of McAndrew Stadium, we are not students or townies, conservatives or liberals. We, all of us, are winners.

The advertisements for SIU-C sports expound Saluki Pride. And no matter how hokey that sounds, the football team is instilling pride in this University.

We are proud that this working-class, no-frills, much-maligned institution can field a team capable of knocking opponents on their butts. We're proud that we have a coach who can pull a team together spiritually as well as athletically — one who wins for all of us and not just himself. We're proud because this winning season shows us that any goal we care to obtain — even goals as elusive as a national football championship — can be achieved.

BUT IT IS a fragile pride. Next Saturday's game, played at SIU-C and televised to the world, will be the apex of Saluki spirit, if there ever was such a thing. If we lose on television, everyone will be screaming

"choke" at the top of their lungs. If we win, everyone will be saying "We're great. We're the best. They're the losers."

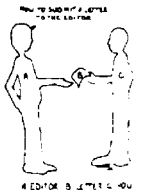

How can we keep that winning attitude? Well, the obvious answer is for SIU-C sports to keep winning and let us bask in their glory. But because fate runs in the funny cycles that it does, don't get your hopes up. We can't depend on sports to hold us together. There has to be a revolution of attitude springing from the initial euphoria of being winners. We can't look at ourselves as Illinois' second school. We are better than the likes of U of I, not because we have more money, better programs or tougher football teams, but because we have the strength that comes from adversity.

We need to say, "Sure I got through school on donations, scholarships and loans and had to eat tomato soup three times a day. Sure our school doesn't have the teachers or the funds that others do. But we're still the best because we want it more. Nobody spoon-fed me logic in ivy-covered halls. I did it myself."

THE SALUKIS have done it potential for delivering utility energy conservation investments in nearly every home and business in Southern Illinois in a cost-effective manner. Think about it.

Citizens interested in hearing more about this possibility and expressing their opinion are invited to the public hearing at 7 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 8 at 607 E. College St., Carbondale — Robert Pauls, Energy Coordinator, "The Other Utility — The City of Carbondale's Conservation and Solar Service."

A 1000 B LETTER 400

themselves — up until a few games ago when we all decided to jump on the bandwagon. Attendance was dismal. School spirit was a joke. Financial support was waning.

Everything was against them. But Dempsey and the Dogs did not resign themselves to being "also-rans" just because they weren't Nebraska or Texas or Georgia. Naw, they said to themselves, "We're winners."

And nobody is going to convince us otherwise. If we fumble, we fumble. The defense will back us up and we'll kick ass on the next series."

And that rain-soaked sophomore in the stands Saturday isn't going to be a loser just because he only has 35 cents in his pocket, has to walk to the game, is 14 chapters behind in physics or has herpes. He will be there in spite of his problems screaming "We're the best!" at the top of his lungs. He'll be waving to Brent and Irv and the Greek, secure in the knowledge that for one afternoon in December, much of America will know that SIU-C is here, we're making it and we're winners.

Townspople give time, effort, money to aid disabled man

LEMONT (AP) — Mike Heins had given a lot to this town of 5,200, and now the community is giving Heins a helping hand back.

Heins was a volunteer firefighter, a member of the Jaycees and had been the star center on the high school basketball team.

Then last summer, the 32-year-old sheet metal worker had a diving accident that left him a quadriplegic.

Word spread around this community 15 miles southwest of Chicago that he needed a specially constructed addition to his house. So next Saturday several dozen contractors, suppliers and tradesmen will converge on the family house to build — in one day — a 20-by-24 foot addition.

"It's happening at a time of the year when people are very, very giving," said Heins' wife, Linda.

"Mike was a giver, to the point where he was always doing things for people. And now they're giving back in a way we'll never be able to repay."

PART TWO of the program "Breastfeeding: A Special Gift," which is for women who are four to nine months pregnant will be presented from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday at the Jackson County Health Department, 342A North Street, Murphysboro. Registration fee is $3. Those interested may call the Jackson County Health Department at 687-HELP.

THE CARBONDALE Community Blood Drive will be held from 1 to 6 p.m. Monday at St Francis Xavier Catholic Church, 303 S. Poplar St.

A LECTURE titled "Abuse and Neglect and the Elderly: Implications for Social Work Practice" will be presented at 7 p.m. Monday in Quigley 106 by Pat Gunter, professor of social and community services. The Aging Studies Program is sponsoring the lecture.

THE BLACK Observer will have a meeting at 6 p.m.

Monday in the Black Affairs Council office. Those interested in writing for the paper next semester may attend the meeting or call Cynthia Beard at 536-1747. No journalism experience is required. Photographers are also needed.

A PUBLIC discussion on the problems and concerns of senior citizens will be held beginning at 9 a.m. Tuesday in the Mississippi Room.

THE WOMEN'S Caucus will meet at noon Wednesday in the Thebes Room. A discussion will be held on efforts to encourage women in selected professions.

A PARTY to raise money for underprivileged children in Carbondale will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday at T.J.'s Watering Hole, WIDB and Eurma Hayes Center, Division of Community Service Youth Program are sponsoring the fund raiser. Admission is $1.50 and $1 for people with a WIDB giveaway card.

1983 Fall Semester Final Examination Schedule Information

The examination schedule attempts to avoid examination conflicts by providing separate examination periods for Tuesday-Thursday lecture classes. Other information about final examinations is listed below:

1. The class final exam period is scheduled based on the meeting time and days configuration listed on the first line of the class entry in the Schedule of Classes book (which should be the same as the first printed line for the section on the registered student's schedule print-out). For example, a class section is listed in the Schedule book on two lines in the manner:

08:00 T TH
09:00 - 10:50 W

The listed starting time for the first line of the entry is "8:00". The meeting days of that first line are "T TH", and therefore are in the category "Only T or TH or T TH". The Exam Date and Period is by the attached Fall 1983 Final Examination Schedule to be Tue., Dec. 13 at 5:50 - 7:50 p.m.

2. Classes should plan to hold their final examination in their regularly scheduled class rooms. The space scheduling section of the Office of Admissions and Records will forward to departments information relative to the location for examinations for those classes that cannot hold their examinations in their regularly scheduled rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficiently in advance of the final examination days to provide sufficient notice for all.

3. Students who find they have more than three examinations on one day may petition, and students who have two examinations scheduled at one time should petition their academic dean for approval to take an examination during the make-up examination period on the last day. Provision for such a make-up examination period does not mean that students may decide to miss the scheduled examination time and expect to make it up during this make-up period. This period is to be used only for students whose petitions have been approved by their dean.

4. Students who must miss a final examination may not take an examination before the time scheduled for the class examination. Information relative to the proper grade to be given students who miss a final examination and are not involved in a situation covered in the preceding paragraph will be found in the mimeographed memorandum forwarded to members of the instructional staff at the time they receive the final grade listing for the recording of grades.

United Way fund drive brings in $46,905

By Dave Saelens
Staff Writer

The 1983 Carbondale United Way Campaign, which ended in October, will hold its Campaign '83 Victory Party from 5 to 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Egyptian Sports Center.

United Way Campaign Coordinator for SIU-C Marian Davis said the fundraiser brought in $46,905 for the 21 Carbondale community organizations which applied for funding.

Among the many groups which planned activities to raise money for the fundraiser, one organization was instrumental in collecting $1,250 from SIU-C students — the Mobilization of Volunteer Effort.

Coordinator of MOVE Mark Beveridge said that the group's goal this year was $1,000 and members were very excited when they passed that goal. He said some of the groups which helped in the drive were Alpha Phi Alpha with a donation of $200; Alpha Tau Omega with $150 and University Housing with $763.

"I think the key to our success was the effort put out by the residence halls, Mae Smith particularly," he said.

Beveridge said the Mae Smith Hall Council donated about $550 of the $763 raised from University Housing activities.

Linda Hagerman, a graduate student who works with the Mae Smith Hall Council as an advisor, said residents of Mae Smith participated in a variety of events to raise money for the student drive.

One of the biggest moneymaking events the council sponsored, she said, was a telethon held for one hour at Mae Smith, which raised $265.

Publisher refuses to identify himself during court hearing

CHICAGO (AP) — Larry Flynt, publisher of Hustler magazine, refused to identify himself before a federal magistrate Sunday on charges of violating travel restrictions of his bond in a flag desecration case in California.

At a hearing Sunday morning before U.S. Magistrate Olga Jurco, the publisher denied he was Larry Flynt and said he was invoking his constitutional right to a formal identification hearing. That was scheduled for Tuesday.

The 40-year-old Flynt, a paraplegic, was arrested by FBI agents Saturday night in a departure lounge at O'Hare International Airport and was charged with bond forfeiture. The bond was set after he was indicted by a federal grand jury in Los Angeles last month on charges of desecrating the American flag by wearing it as a diaper at a court appearance.

Assistant U.S. attorney Victoria Meyers said that if necessary, witnesses will be called from Los Angeles, where Flynt lives, to identify him in court. Flynt was being held at the Metropolitan Correctional Center pending his appearance Tuesday.

Flynt's arrest Saturday night, while awaiting a connecting flight to Cincinnati, was his second in three days on the bond forfeiture charge.

He was picked up in Alaska on Thursday while trying to retrace the flight path of the Korean airliner that was shot down over Soviet airspace on Sept. 1.

Flynt, who was crippled by gunshot wounds in a 1978 murder attempt, had said he would parachute from a plane at the spot that the Korean jet was shot down in order to prove his "conspiracy" theories.

The publisher has been in and out of federal court since he revealed he had a tape that purportedly showed that auto magnate John Z. DeLorean and his family were threatened if DeLorean did not participate in a $24 million cocaine deal.

Campus Greeks bearing gifts give a party for daycare kids

By Debra Colburn
Staff Writer

Johann, 5, wants Santa to bring him a sword to fight dragons with and a whole set of trains for Christmas. He was one of the children at Operation Merry Christmas, a party for daycare age children held Friday by the Inter-Greek Council.

About 65 children between the ages of 3 and 5 were expected, according to Bob Craig, ICG chairman. The Council has been holding the party for several years now.

Christopher, 4, said he wants a big towel; so it will be low to his feet. Three-year-old Julia said she wants a Teddy Bear and a kitty cat. "I'll call him Teddy Bear," she said. The cat will be named Tonto, she added.

Some of the more traditional toys children asked for included books, GI Joe dolls, cars and a talking radio. One child wanted a Christmas tree, while another summed up his list by saying he wanted everything.

Santa Claus, played by Bob Gatelis, was on hand to give out gifts of puzzles, lego trucks, crayons and coloring books to the children. Gatelis is a sophomore in business administration and is from the fraternity, Delta Chi.

"When they asked me, I was real up for it, excited," he said. "I think they believe I'm Santa."

Ten of the 21 sororities and fraternities on campus took place in the party, according to Bob Melcher, IGC member.

The children participated in a tree decorating contest, a game of pin the nose on the reindeer, a bean bag toss and other games.

Bob Gatelis, alias Santa, takes another Christmas order.

Alpha Phi Alpha put on a puppet show called "The Tinder Dox".

The movie, "The Day Before Christmas," was shown and a Christmas story was read to the children.

Candy Davis, mother of Nancy, 3, and Paul, 8 months, said "I think it's a neat idea."

Suspect detained by Illinois police

JACKSONVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A suspect has been detained by Illinois police for questioning in the "puzzling" slayings of a social security worker and her disabled mother.

Calhoun County Coroner Ralph Phillips said Linda Gail Griffith, 42, and Willie Griffith, 74, both of Jacksonville, died from multiple stab wounds to the face, head and back. Their bodies were found on the floor of their sitting room Friday night by a neighbor, he said.

Craft show features everything from wooden insects to guitars

By Debra Colburn
Staff Writer

"If Gene Jantzen's owls could, they might have eaten Don Waddell's insects, and if they had, those wooden owls would have had mouths full of metal.

The owls and insects, as well as musical instruments and glass bulb Christmas ornaments, were among the more unusual crafts being sold Thursday and Friday at the Holiday Arts and Crafts Show in the Student Center.

Jantzen, a woodcarver from Carlyle, started whittling items for his mother when he was 10 years old. He has worked with wood ever since.

"You either have it or you don't," he said.

He prefers to do highly stylized woodwork, but said, "It has to look like the real thing or people don't pay attention to it."

He also carves other animals, walking sticks and match holders.

Waddell's craft began with his fear of bugs. Now, he calls them beautiful and said, "There is some beauty about all kinds of insects."

The Makanda resident has been sculpting bugs for the past 13 years and can produce three sculpted insects in a day. He has used spark plugs, spoons, typewriter and sewing machine parts, and reeds from an organ to create his incredible insects.

"It's like digging for treasure when I take a part a typewriter," he said.

Bill and Lora Berg, of Equality, build dulcimers, mandolins and guitars for a living. Berg began his craft by working under a master violin maker in Chicago in 1970. Lora joined him in the business five years ago. They use woods from cherry, walnut and poplar trees as well as exotic woods from Hawaii.

The mountain dulcimer and the banjo are the only traditional American instruments, according to the Bergs. The dulcimer is the easiest musical instrument to learn to play, Lora said.

The Berg's dulcimers come in several shapes and woods. Each instrument has its own distinct sound due to its construction, wood, shape and size. Tone holes are carved by hand into the instruments. Some of the designs are traditional and others are the Bergs' own.

"We are trying to produce the best musical instrument as possible as far as a dulcimer is concerned," Lora said.

Colored glass bulb Christmas ornaments created by students in the glass blowing program in the School of Art were also sold at the show. Students donated their work and proceeds will go back into the program.

To make the bulbs, molten glass was gathered from a furnace set at 2,000 degrees on the end of a hollow stainless steel pipe called a blow pipe. Air pressure was forced through the pipe and into the interior of the glass. The glass bulbs hardened as they cooled.

Student falls to death in college prank

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — A 20-year-old Ithaca College student fell four stories to his death after companions dared him to try to jump into a stalled elevator car, authorities said.

Paul A. Cohodes, a sophomore from Highland Park, Ill., was trying to jump into an elevator stopped between the fourth and fifth floors of a 14-story dormitory Saturday night, said college spokesman John Lippincot.

His companions had stopped the car between floors by prying open its doors, and apparently dared Cohodes to try to jump up into the exposed, bottom half of the car from the fourth-floor hallway, said Lippincot.

Maps given as part of service

If a tornado warning for Williamson County appears on Carbondale residents' television screens, it's likely that most of them will not be alarmed, because most Carbondale residents don't know that Williamson County adjoins their own, says David Arey, Geography Department head.

Three years ago former SIU graduate student Richard Newcomb conducted a poll on tornado awareness in tornado belt areas, and discovered that out of 200 people, only eight could name one county adjacent to their own.

The importance of having this knowledge lies in the fact that the National Weather Service uses counties as reference points in reporting tornadoes and other severe weather warnings and watches, said Arey.

Last summer the Geography Department started a public service to eliminate local ignorance on the subject; letters were sent to 50 radio stations in the region stressing the importance of knowing adjacent counties. Area maps are being distributed identifying counties in Southern Illinois, southeastern Missouri, southwestern Indiana, western Kentucky and western Tennessee, and showing locations and names of television weather radar centers.

The maps are free and available to everyone, Arey said. Anyone who wants a map should send a stamped, self-addressed business-size envelope to: County Map, Department of Geography, SIU, Carbondale, Ill. 62901

Master storyteller celebrated with song, dance in McLeod

By Terry Leveck
Entertainment Editor

It was a child's world this weekend in McLeod Theater as forces from the Theater Department and the School of Music presented "Hans Christian Andersen."

Music, song and dance were packed into the near two-hour performance which told the tales and gave a glimpse of the life of the man who became known as the master of storytelling.

It was a cast and an audience of all ages. The children's ensemble performed quite maturely but retained their stage-presence innocence, making for quite an entertaining show.

Graduate student Charles Parker played Hans Christian Andersen and was supported by an equally talented Terry Lyles, who played Peter, Andersen's apprentice cobbler.

Parker's projection was weak, and was sometimes inaudible over the orchestra and children's ensemble. Lyles, however, had a well-developed, pleasing vocal. Twelve-year-old Lyles is a Murphysboro resident.

The tales of "Thumbelina," "The Ugly Duckling," "The Little Mermaid," and "The King's New Clothes" were portrayed mostly through song, which was a little disappointing. However, Parker demonstrated his story-telling ability in his characterization while telling the story of "The Ugly Duckling."

Linda Kostalik's performance in "The Little Mermaid" was a high point of the show. Her performance was accented with creative staging of the mermaid and her cohorts swimming and playing in the sea. Kostalik, a member of the dance faculty, was supported by another top dancer, Randy Bettis, senior in physical education.

The set employed a clever symbol, using a book as the frame of the backdrop and turning pages to change the scenes.

This production was one of the biggest and most well-done costuming efforts of the season. The gowns of Madame Doro and the Sea Witch's costumes were particularly outstanding. Costumes were designed by Eelin Stewart-Harrison and constructed under the supervision of Richard Boss.

Unfortunately, the imagery of the story was not as vivid as the costumes. Although the show was geared to children, that age group probably had difficulty following some of the story line because of words like "mercenary" and "immortality."

Because it was difficult to hear some of the key lines sung by Parker, it also caused confusion and added to the failure to get some points across.

There were also some disappointing performances in the key areas of this production. Many of the dance ensemble pieces were clumsy and shaky, and the orchestra was overshadowed by a squeaking trumpet player.

The low energy level of Friday night's performance could have been accounted for in the energy spent in the matinee performed earlier that day.

Regardless of the show's lacking areas, the musical had many humorous moments and provided family entertainment with light songs and large production numbers which most of the audience seemed to enjoy, both young and old.

What's up, Doc? Animation drawings from Disney on sale

By Lisa Nichols
Staff Writer

Original animation cel paintings of famous Walt Disney and Warner Brothers characters including Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck, Wile E. Coyote, Donald Duck and Mickey Mouse will be on sale in the south escalator area of the Student Center from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. Monday and Tuesday.

The prints, which may be purchased for $25 to $75, have been authenticated by specialists in original animation art work from Gallery Lainezberg of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. A representative from the gallery will be on hand to answer questions.

Animation cel paintings are the paintings actually filmed in making animated cartoons. Each character is painted by hand on a clear sheet of acetate, placed against a background painting and photographed, one frame at a time, to create the illusion of the cartoon character in motion.

Some of the cels have been signed by Academy Award-winning animators Chuck Jones and Friz Freleng, which make them more valuable. Many people have begun collecting cels because of their rarity and investment value.

More and more cultural value is being placed on animation art, as evidenced by exhibits on display in New York's Museum of Art and the Museum of Modern Art. Special exhibits have also been held at the Library of Congress, New York's Whitney Museum and the Montreal Museum of Art.

The sale is being sponsored by SPC Fine Arts and the Student Center Craft Shop.

Rundgren pleasantly familiar

By Terry Leveck
Entertainment Editor

Opening to an enthusiastic crowd who gave him a standing ovation before he even played a note, Todd Rundgren began and continued the show at Shryock Auditorium Saturday night just about the same as he did two years ago.

The skinny, black-suited entertainer combined videos and pre-recorded backups by Utopia with his virtuoso guitar playing and vocals and his not-so-well-rehearsed piano playing.

The audience sang along with many of the familiar songs, and many could probably have told his familiar jokes as well. Despite his redundancy, however, Rundgren's shows never fail to be entertaining.

Rundgren did show a new video he has been working on, which he introduced as "How I spent my summer vacation." He described the video as "Me by me starring, all about me" which he made for British television.

Rundgren enjoys doing these shows, he said in a video interview with WIDB Rock Director Ken Krause after the show, because they're easy — easier on him and the crew and also more financially practical.

Rundgren also showed his sensitive, depressing video that accompanies the song "Baglady."

Rundgren's sense of humor, which is a big factor in his character, was continued after the show. When preparing for the short SPC video interview, he sat down and checked the plant sitting on the table next to him, remarking "Is it the FBI?"

Rundgren was a pioneer in the music-video concept, but his videos never show up on the nation's biggest video vehicle, Music Television. When asked if he was resentful for the absence of his videos on that station, he quickly replied with a note of optimism, "No, I don't care."

"Most of what I on MTV I don't find enjoyable to watch anyway. It's not a question of disappointment, it has to do with the content of our videos. I usually try to do something different than what's on MTV, and they want something that's the same as what's on MTV. They want girls being shot, and semi-nude women having acts of violence committed on them," he flippantly replied.

This is only the second date Rundgren has played on this tour. Maybe that's one of the reasons for his blatant mistakes on piano and missing a singing cue.

He admitted to the below average performance after the show when Krause paid him a "Fabulous show" compliment by making a face of disgust.

Members of the audience joined Todd on stage for his hate-work anthem, "Bang The Drum All Day," which was played two years ago but not released on a record until his '83 Spring release, "The Ever Popular Tortured Artist Effect."

It was disappointing that Rundgren did not play more off his newer LPs, "Healing" and "Tortured Artist," but the music wizard still has enough in him to let him get away with

School of Art to hold annual print sale

The School of Art's third annual print sale, which will be running Wednesday through Friday, promises to offer original Christmas gifts at prices that are designed to fit even the tightest budgets.

In an effort to raise money for equipment for print making in the School of Art, faculty members, selected students and visiting artists have donated some of their etchings, wood cuts, lithographs and silk screens which will be sold at lower prices than they can be purchased elsewhere.

The sale will feature prints by Herbert Fink, Ed Shay and Joel Feldman.

The sale will be held 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Friday in Room 202 of Allyn Hall.

'Running Brave' wins the gold as tale of Olympic hero's life

By Lisa Nichols
Staff Writer

Billy Mills is the first and only American to receive a gold medal in the Olympic 10,000-meter competition. Of American Indian descent from an impoverished South Dakota reservation, Mills found the determination and strength to overcome great physical and mental obstacles to become an Olympic champion in what is widely regarded as the most sensational upset in the history of the Games.

"Running Brave" stars Robby Benson in the story of Mills' life, from a 12-year-old boy whose favorite pastime was running across the vast Dakota prairies, to an 18-year-old student on an athletic scholarship at the University of Kansas, to the surprise long-shot winner of the Olympic 10,000-meter competition. Benson, an avid runner himself, gives a very realistic portrayal of the hal-Sioux running champion. In fact, it was Mills himself who chose Benson for the role.

Pat Hingle puts in a believable performance as Bill Easton, Mills' overbearing coach at the university.

Easton tells the track team, "I'm not interested in how you play the game or if you did your best. That just makes you feel better if you lose. I'm interested in winning."

This puts the pressure on Mills, who must not only win in track and keep up with school work, but must also try to fit into the white man's world. He finds a couple of friends, but as an Indian, isn't allowed into their fraternity.

Claudia Cron plays Pat Harris, Mills' girlfriend who eventually marries him. Pat gives Mills some of the support he needs to finish school and strive to succeed in athletics. But ultimately, it is Mills himself who must resolve his inner conflicts to obtain his goal of Olympic gold.

"Running Brave" is a touching film that is well worth seeing. The suspense-filled scenes of the Olympic races involve the viewer and make him feel as if he were actually watching history in the making. Although some scenes drip with sticky-sweet sentimentality, the action scenes step up the pace.

The film is a success in that it shows Mills as a person, not Mills as an athlete or Mills as an Indian. "Running Brave" shows Mills as someone much like the rest of us — someone trying to find a place for himself in the world, and succeeding brilliantly.

just about anything he wants with his fans. His humor and entertaining ability grow old very slowly.

Rundgren has been in the business since his work with Nazi in the late '60s. He has a lot more going for him than just his solo work and his work with Utopia. It seems like his other interests are beginning to take the front seat to his previous priorities.

"I can change what I'm doing at any time. There are other things beside media type things that I'm interested in," he said. "I've been involved in this thing long enough to know that I don't do it for fame, so I do not have to have people watch me all the time, what some people feel is a necessary part of their existence."

School board split on how to choose outstanding teachers

By Patrick Williams
Staff Writer

Some form of reward for outstanding teachers — but not merit pay — will be created, if the Carbondale grade school board has its wish.

But first, a way has to be found to identify those teachers.

The board was split between those who wish to establish a reward system to "give some strokes" to teachers. District 95 Superintendent Robert Thomas said, and those who fear politicizing the classroom, such as board member Gary Highland.

Five of the board's seven members voiced support for a reward system, provided that the district can devise a fair, workable method of evaluation.

Board member Jack McKillip said he thought the idea was a good one, as long as the rewards are not a condition of employment, wages or hours. McKillip said he could envision a single large award per year for the outstanding teacher.

But Highland said any type of rewards would be political and detrimental to teachers' morale.

Board member Margaret Crowe agreed with Highland. Teaching is an art, she said, and any judgment of best teacher would be subjective.

Crowe said she would rather see all teachers in the district get a decent salary, rather than singling out a few.

Board President Donald Garner, who brought up the issue of rewards, said that teachers are judged and rewarded when they apply for a position and when they are awarded tenure. He said he didn't see why the process of evaluation and reward should stop once teachers join the district.

Thomas said he, too, would like to see some form of recognition for teachers.

Board of Health's budget cut, but employees to get pay hike

By Dave Saelens
Staff Writer

Although the Jackson County Board of Health's proposed budget for next year was cut by $15,000 by the Jackson County Board, health department employees will be receiving a 6 percent pay raise effective Dec. 1.

At a meeting in their Murphysboro office Thursday, health board members discussed the county board's recent decision to lower the department's proposed budget from $200,000 to $185,000.

Director Fred Siebenmann said the county board also authorized the health board to increase health department salaries as much as 8.5 percent, but in an executive session, health board members voted to raise salaries only by 6 percent.

Siebenmann said the tuberculosis board, which is under the same rent agreement as the health department, also received a budget decision by the county board — their funding from the county was eliminated.

"I don't understand the thinking of county board members," said health board member Jo Ellen Leavitt. "It is despicable."

Health board president Dr. Antoinette Thomas said the county board's decisions sounded like "pure vindictiveness."

Because of the decisions made by the county board, health board members reconsidered the idea of moving their Murphysboro office facilities to Carbondale.

Leavitt added, however, that if the board decided to "play cat and mouse games with the county board" by moving the office to Carbondale, the only people who would suffer would be the people which are served by the health department.

Board members decided to keep the county board's actions in mind for future decisions and ratified the rent agreement with their landlord, Mark Kennedy of Kennedy's Real Estate. The new lease was created at a special meeting of the department last month when board members negotiated with Kennedy on a one-year lease at $1,450 per month.

At that meeting, the board decided to keep their Murphysboro residence, but keep looking for a site to build an office which will combine the Carbondale and Murphysboro offices.

At the meeting Thursday, Siebenmann presented a list of potential building sites which included the old Kroger building in Murphysboro, and a site at 600 E. College in Carbondale.

The board then voted to give Siebenmann the authority to open negotiations with the owner of one potential site located between Carbondale and Murphysboro.

Although Siebenmann asked that the landholder's name not be revealed until negotiations had been started, he did say the department will make a $35,000 offer on the 5.5 acre site.

IBHE approval of programs expected

By Phillip Florini
Staff Writer

John Guyon, vice president for academic affairs, said he anticipates "positive action" from the Illinois Board of Higher Education for approval of an associate degree program in Aviation Flight and a master's degree program in Telecommunications.

The IBHE will consider the recommendations Tuesday and also act on a proposal that would grant $86,145 to Morris Library to complete the conversion of materials for borrowing and lending through the state's Library Computer System, which is already being used.

Through the grant, SIU-C would begin converting periodicals, serial holdings, analytics and dissertations. SIU-C has completed conversion of all other materials through a previous grant.

Guyon said that he knew of no rationale by the IBHE for not approving the new degree programs, which have been "in the making" for a couple of years.

The aviation flight program, which would be offered by the School of Technical Careers, would combine existing courses leading to eight more Federal Aviation Administration flight certificates with the general education requirements expected for an associate degree program.

Graduates would be prepared to serve as professional commercial pilots in the industry, the proposal states.

STC already offers 11 FAA flight certificates and associate degrees in avionics and aviation technology and a bachelor's degree in technical careers, aviation management specialization.

A telecommunications master's program would address "new and emerging telecommunication technologies," the proposal states. The program would be offered by the Radio and Television Department in cooperation with the Cinema and Photography Department.

The curriculum would consist of course work in research and policy, audience analysis and ratings, management and the effects telecommunications have on society.

The proposal states that graduates would be prepared for leadership positions in broadcasting, cable systems and industries using telecommunication technologies.

In 1982, the master's program in Public Visual Communications was eliminated because it "was not well defined," the proposal states. The new program would attempt to address the needs that the other program failed to.

Guyon said he sees a "positive outcome" from the programs for communications, fine arts and STC faculty.

"Most faculty in those departments will be happy to get final approval of the programs and get on with the implementation process," he said.

If the University's request is approved, implementation would begin in the fall of 1984, when students would be admitted into the programs.

The IBHE approved a $200,000 appropriation for fiscal year 1984 for the state's program, and Eastern Illinois University received $67,100 of that in July.

we're not making any excuses about the game. We never got out of the hole after our first drive."

Raetz refused to use the weather as a possible factor that might have hurt his squad. "We had to play in the rain against Florida State (in a 17-13 loss)," Raetz said. "Both teams had to play in the same weather conditions and Southern's defense took away a heckuva lot more than what the weather did."

AFTER ISU TOOK A 7-0 lead at 6:42 of the first quarter, the Salukis mounted their comeback.

A 34-yard field goal by Ron Miller, who tied an SIU-C record for field goals in a game with three, made the score 7-3 with just under two minutes left in the first quarter.

Two Saluki drives later found SIU-C starting at the ISU 43-yard line. Quarterback Rick Johnson completed two passes in the drive, one to split end James Stevenson for 17 yards and the other to tight end Carey Shephard for 18 yards. On fourth-and-goal from the 1-yard line, fullback Corky Field scored his first of two touchdowns to put SIU-C ahead for good at 10-7 with 9:28 left in the half.

SIU-C picked up where it left off on its next drive. Starting from the ISU 38-yard line, Johnson completed a 22-yard pass to Shephard in a drive that moved 31 yards before Miller ended the first-half scoring with a 24-yard field goal to make the score 13-7.

DEMPSEY SAID the special teams had to make something happen Saturday, and they did. Punting from about his 10-yard line midway through the third quarter, ISU's Chuck Standiford grabbed a bad snap and was tackled by cornerback Terry Taylor, who had just barely missed blocking an earlier punt, at the 11-yard line.

Saluki tailback Derrick Taylor ran around right end on first down to the 2-yard line. Two plays later, Field plowed across the goal line from the 1-yard line to make the score 20-7 with 5:34 left in the third quarter.

The two squads exchanged fumbles on their next two series before SIU-C took over the ball at the ISU 34-yard line. After moving 14 yards on five plays, Miller kicked a 37-yard field goal that put the Salukis up 23-7.

More importantly, though, after the field goal, ISU needed two touchdowns and a pair of two-point conversions to tie the game.

ISU's last two chances to put something together splashed away a little bit more each time one of Miller's six straight incompletions on two consecutive drives hit the artificial turf.

SANDWICHED BETWEEN those two ISU drives was a 10-minute, 14-second Saluki drive that, although it ended in a field goal attempt that slipped through holder Darren Dixon's hands, left the Sycamores just 2:30 on the clock and 85 yards away from the end zone.

The Salukis' three-week layoff from their regular season finale to their first playoff game resulted in a healthy SIU-C squad, especially Terry Taylor, who may have played his finest game of the year Saturday.

Taylor intercepted two passes and recovered one fumble, and he did it with three professional scouts watching, Dempsey said.

"The layoff helped me a lot," Taylor said. "I got a chance to heal. My knee's not bothering me anymore."

Both of Taylor's interceptions came when the secondary was in man-to-man coverage. After the Illinois State game, Dempsey said Taylor had told him he could play only zone defense because of his injured knee, but Saturday Taylor was in line form, as was the defensive front line.

"THEY WHIPPED them at the line of scrimmage," Dempsey said. "Ken Foster was just outstanding."

Foster, a defensive tackle, made 11 tackles, five of them for losses, one fumble recovery and one and half quarterback sacks.

Foster said that playing Indiana State earlier in the season was a plus for the Salukis.

"It worked out to our advantage," Foster said. "We had studied the offense that they ran, real well."

Johnson led the Salukis, completing eight of 12 passes for 129 yards and a 13-7 halftime lead, but he said he was not surprised by his success in the rain.

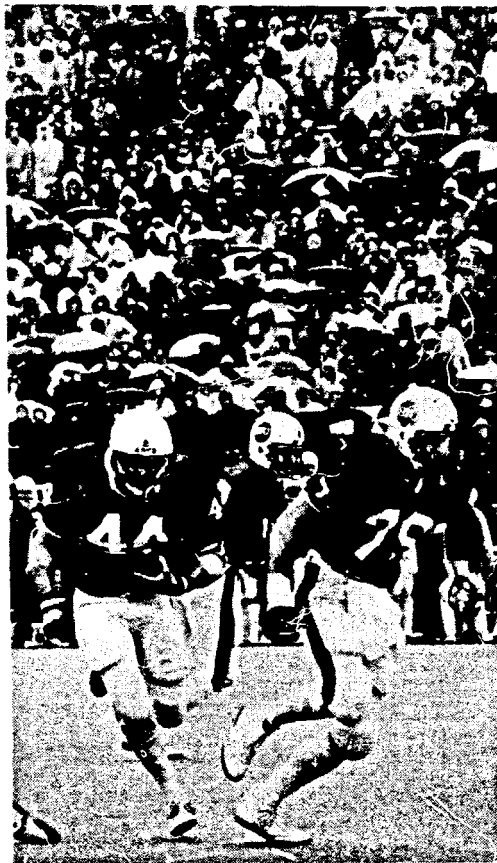

"When I was in high school," Johnson said, "a guy told me that when it was wet and you had a dry ball, the advantage was to the offense."

Johnson said that the defensive backs were at a disadvantage of not knowing where the receivers were going to make their cuts on the wet field.

THE SALUKIS were forced to come from behind, but Johnson said he does not mind doing that.

"I've said it before that sometimes it's fun to come back from behind," Johnson said, "but I'd rather score the first touchdown."

Johnson finished the game with 12 completions in 23 at-disappointed with the performance of his squad.

"I know the girls are a little let down by this. I just hope they have the confidence in themselves to bounce back from it," Hill said. "I'm not disappointed with them."

Top finishers for the women Saluki's were Armi Airaksinep, who was third in the 200 free, sixth in the 200 fly and eighth in the 100 free. Wendy Trick also turned in some good performances, finishing fifth in the 200 backstroke, and 10th in the 100 back and 1,650 free.

Roxanne Carlton was third in the 1,650 free and seventh in the 500 free. Stacy Westfall was sixth in the 1,650 and 12th in the 200 fly. Amanda Martin was fourth in the 100 and 200 breast and Pam Ratcliffe was sixth in the 200 IM and ninth in the 400 IM.

Janie Coontz finished seventh in the 400 IM and 12th in the 200 free.

"We paid the price for all the hard training," Hill said. "The other teams were rested and ready to go."

"We'll save our tapering and shaving for meet a little closer to the NCAA's."

fray.
"We knew that he might go in and pick up the fifth foul and come right back out, but we felt like he had to be in there," Van Winkle said. "Wisconsin is bigger and stronger at the basket so we felt like we needed him in there."

THE SALUKIS went inside to Perry and Bibbens often, especially in the second half when the duo combined for 30 of SIU-C's 36 points. Bibbens collected a personal season-high 20 points, and seven rebounds.

The Salukis continued to shoot well from the field, hitting 57 percent from the floor. Nate Buford, a 71 percent shooter this season, made six of eight attempts for 12 points. Perry was 11 for 13. Campbell, a 60 percent shooter going into the game, slipped to four of 15 against the Badgers but dished out 11 assists.

Wisconsin hit 47 percent from the field, 61 percent in the second half. Four Badgers scored in double figures. Forwards Cory Blackwell and Scott Roth had 18 points and guards Miller and Rick Olson had 16 and 14 points.

Blackwell, Wisconsin's star forward from Chicago who was fifth in the Big Ten scoring race last season with 18.8 points per game, had 12 points in the first half, including six in the crucial final seven minutes. His 10 rebounds led the Badgers.

OLSON Poured in 10 of his 14 points in the second half, eight of which came from long range.

The fact that the Salukis came so close to defeating a Big Ten team on the road offered little consolation for Van Winkle.

"We had an opportunity to win," Van Winkle said. "If Campbell hits that shot we've got them inbounding against our press with us down two and 21 seconds left."

"I would say we played an even game all the way. I think we can play better than we did, though."

Eighteen hours earlier, the Salukis used excellent shooting to turn back Mississippi Valley State 87-69 before 2,961 at the Arena.

SIU-C shot 58 percent from the field en route to its third consecutive win of the year. The Delta Devils fell to 1-3.

with 20 points, 16 in the first half. Pie Walker piled up 19 points in a substitute role, Roy Birch tallied 15 and Perry and Bibbens each garnered 12.

Walker, the 6-foot-6 senior, came in with three minutes left in the first half with the score knotted at 34. Playing most of his eighteen minutes at center, he canned all eight of his shots from the field and pulled down eight rebounds.

By the time Walker sat down for a rest with 4:38 remaining in the game, the Salukis owned a 74-60 lead.

Campbell, who logged 39 minutes, played a complete game. In addition to 20 points, he contributed eight rebounds and nine assists.

BIBBENS LED SIU-C in rebounds for the second straight game. The 6-foot-6 forward had 11, eight in the second half.

Birch, a 6-foot-2 guard, had nine rebounds and four assists in addition to 15 points.

Valley State Coach Lafayette Stribling, whose team shot 41 percent from the field, was not pleased.

"That was the worst we've played, especially in the second half," he said. "Our shooting hurt us. When you don't play well and the other team does, you look bad."

Van Winkle said he had hoped to use his bench in order to keep his troops somewhat rested.

"I had hoped to spread some minutes out, but we never had the game in hand until the last few minutes," Van Winkle said.

The Salukis led 42-38 at halftime and gradually widened the margin throughout the second half.

Men swimmers take title of own meet

By David Wilhelm
Staff Writer

Despite achieving only one NCAA standard time, the men's swimming team turned in an impressive weekend of performances in the annual 5-S meet. The Salukis defeated Nebraska 497-466.5. South Carolina took third with 360 points followed by Florida State's 234 and Kansas' 188.

Coach Bob Steele was pleased with the win, but admitted it came as a shock to him.

"It was a real surprise," Steele said. "It's a credit to our kids. I never expected them to win. They just swam a lot better than Nebraska, Florida State and South Carolina. The thing about this meet was that we had so many people come through with good swims. Ninety percent of what they did was in their heads and 10 percent was physical."

THE SALUKIS made the NCAA standard in the 800 freestyle relay with a time of 6:41.1, just eight-tenths of a second faster than the standard required. Carlos Henao, Barry Hahn, Tom Hakansan and Joakim Sjöholm turned in impressive split times in the relay. Hahn recorded the fastest time of the four with a 1:39.3, which was also his lifetime best relay split time.

Steele was pleasantly surprised that the 800 freestyle team met the NCAA standard at this point in the season.

"That was interesting," Steele said, "because that's a standard we usually don't make until the end of the season. That could be a good sign that we'll make our other standards."

Giovanni Frigo turned in two lifetime best times in the 100 backstroke and 200 back. His 100 back time of 51.6 was two seconds faster than his best time last year and his 200 back time of 1:53.1 was his best by five-tenths of a second. He also swam the 400 freestyle in 3:02.7.

"HE (FRIGO) is just now learning where the walls are so he can turn better," Steele said. "He's a hard worker and will continue to improve."

Anderz Grillhammar and Gary Brinkman finished first and second in two events, the 500 free and the 1,650 free. Grillhammar defeated Brinkman 4:31.8 to 4:32.5 in the 500. In the 1,650, which was probably the most exciting race of the weekend for the Salukis, Grillhammar narrowly defeated Brinkman, 15:46.9 to 15:47.0.

Steele credited Brinkman for the impressive performances.

"He is swimming so well for being sick recently," Steele said.

Freshman Chris Crook cut a combined 22 seconds off his times in two events, the 500 free and the 1,650. In the 500, he shaved three seconds off his previous best time with a 4:37.6. Drastic improvement, however, was made in the 1,650 where he dropped from 16:33 to 16:14.

THE SALUKIS missed the NCAA qualifying standard time in the 400 free relay by just two seconds. Tom Hakansan, Joakim Sjöholm and Barry Hahn each recorded 45.3 split times and Carlos Henao swam a 46.2 split. Steele said he was very pleased with those times.

Henao came back with his lifetime best in the 200 individual medley with a 1:52.6. Sjöholm recorded a 1:53.9.

In the 100 free, Henao finished second in 45.8 and Hakansan fourth in 45.9.

Two Salukis who did not have good meets were Larry Wooley and Jimmy Griffith, but Steele was not concerned.

"Out of everybody that swam," Steele said, "there were only those two guys who were disappointed. Wooley and Griffith wanted to swim better, but they didn't. They'll get better, though."

WOOLEY FINISHED second in the 200 breaststroke with a 2:06.8 time. Steele said most of his problems were mental.

"He didn't have a good meet," said Steele. "He wasn't convinced he would, so he didn't."

Steele said he was pleased with Barry Hahn's first-place finish in the 200 free with a time of 1:40.3.

"It was a fine effort," he said. "He had been real sick and wasn't sure if he was ready. He put in a good summer of work, though. The guys with self-doubt didn't have a good summer or swim any meets."

Chris Shaw and Wooley finished second and fourth in the 100 breast, 57.6 to 58.5. Steele said that Shaw is "so much better" than his time indicates.

One senior who has not received much attention but who is making drastic improvements, according to Steele, is Mike Lloyd. Lloyd cut his time in the 200 breast from 2:22 to 2:14.1.

"HE IS working his butt off to get to the National Independent Conference meet," Steele said. "If he drops three or four more seconds, he could be there."

Hakansan and Hahn turned in personal best times in the 50 free. Hakansan finished second in 20.8 and Hahn fifth in 21.3.

Another lifetime best was Phil Wittrey's 100 fly time of 51.6. That led him to a third-place finish which may aid the Salukis in the conference meet.

"It puts us in a position to get some help in the NIC meet," Steele said. "We needed that. Phil has got to be excited at the improvement he made."

Steele said had before the meet that he expected Nebraska, Florida State and South Carolina to provide much tougher competition for the Salukis.

"I am utterly amazed that South Carolina and Florida State swam the way they did," Steele said. "That's a long way to come to swim so crummy. They were pleased with their performance, though. They had a lot of improvement individually even though they lost."

IN 1-METER diving Friday, Salukis Nigel Stanton, Tom Wentland, Jim Watson and Eric Schmisser finished third, fourth, seventh and 11th. All but Schmisser had NCAA qualifying scores.

Rob Gentry of South Carolina won the 1-meter diving with 511 points. That also qualified him for the NCAA final's. Nebraska's Rinaldo Castro was second with 507. Stanton had 506 points.

In 3-meter diving, the Salukis were topped by Stanton's first-place finish score of 54. Stanton had been in third place but moved into the top spot with good performances on his last three dives. Watson and Wentland also had NCAA qualifying scores in the 3-meter. Watson finished fourth (516.65) and Wentland eighth (478.65). Schmisser finished 10th with 434.7 points.

The Saluki coach said she was happy to get support throughout the lineup.

"I said before the season started that we have more depth than any team I've had here. We saw that tonight. We got contributions from a large number of players, and it made a big difference."

In the title game Saturday night, SIU-C was again headed by Jackson and Warring, who poured in 19 points apiece. Plab dumped in 16 points, while Price produced only six.

SIU-C opened with three-point plays by Price and junior forward Terry Schmittgens and jumped to a 10-2 lead. The Salukis held a slim 28-27 halftime lead, shooting only 32 percent from the field, with inside shots that wouldn't fail.

Petra Jackson

Washington State's Marcia Miles hit a 10-footer to open the second half and give the Couzars the lead for the first and only time.

The Salukis cranked out 10 straight points, four from Jackson, in four and a half minutes to take a 38-29 lead. Price fouled out with 6:46 left and WSU cut the lead to six, before SIU-C slammed the door by reeling off the next eight points for a 54-43 lead with 2:11 left.

The Salukis outscored the Couzars 10-4 in the final minute and a half, with Plab going six for six from the free throw line to give SIU-C a 66-51 win.

Jackson was nine for 12 from the field in the game, seven for seven in the second half, while Warring converted seven of 15 field goal attempts.

"I think our ball club turned the corner," she said. "We played like a team."

Women swimmers fifth in home meet

By Scott Rich
Staff Writer

It's amazing what a little rest and a shave can do for a swim team.

Showing up for the meet with a week of tapered training and a good shave, the women's swimming teams from South Carolina and Nebraska walked away from the six-team field in the SIU-C Time Standard Invitational over the weekend.

South Carolina finished first with 485.5 points, followed by Nebraska, 468.5; Kansas, 420.5; Florida State, 366; SIU-C, 266, and Indiana, 117.

SIU-C women's swimming Coach Tim Hill said the tapering and shaving made the difference for the top two teams.

"The tapering and shaving was the key to South Carolina and Nebraskas' success," Hill said. "They came into this meet psyched to swim and they wanted to beat SIU."

Although South Carolina took first in the meet, Nebraska was the team that shined in the pool.

The Husker women won nine events, including all of the relays, and met eight NCAA standards.

Their 200-yard medley relay clocked in at 1:47.69, meeting the NCAA standard and setting a new meet record. The 400 medley relay team of Kelley, Lammell, Powers and Sebasta also met the standard with a time of 3:55.88.

The Huskers took first in all the freestyle relay events with a time of 1:36.02 in the 200 free relay, 3:26.85 in the 400 free relay and 7:34.05 in the 800 free relay. These teams also met the NCAA standard.

Emilie Ricketts and Dana Powers were the individual standouts on the team.

Ricketts won the 200, 400, and 1,650 free events. She made the standards in the 200 and 400, but fell short in the 1,650 when she lost her cap during the race.

Powers was a standout in the sprint events. Her time of 23.69 in the 50 free met the NCAA standard as did her time of 56.34 in the 100 butterfly.

Nebraska swimming Coach Ray Huppert was exuberant over the performance of his team.

"We swam fantastic, we were really both mentally and physically," Huppert said. "I'm not disappointed that we didn't win because we really surprised a lot of people."

South Carolina won the meet with excellent performances from its divers.

In the one-meter event they took four of the top six places. Tami Merrill was first with 403.85 points, Becky Benson was second and Lisa Williams was third.

Williams took the title on the three-meter board with 465.40 points, Benson again placed third, Dawn Reilly was fifth and Kathy McPadden was sixth.

The Gamecocks fell just short of the NCAA standard in the 200 individual medley. Sophomore Leslie Ochs won the event with a time of 2:07.66, just three-tenths of a second off the qualifying pace.

Kansas qualified for the NAAs in two events. Jennifer Wagstaff met the standard in the 200 fly with a time of 2:03.85 and USC's 400 medley relay qualified in 3:56.49.

Florida State was dealt a setback when standout swimmer Sarah Linke came down with a case of the flu.

"Sarah being sick really hurt us," Florida State swimming

Sophomore Stacy Westfall sped to a 12th-place finish Saturday in the 200 butterfly.

Coach Terry Maul said "She only swam two events on Friday and didn't even swim today (Saturday)."

Linke managed to place second in the 500 free on Friday night despite the illness.

Lady Seminole Natalie

Deschamps won the 200 breaststroke with the time of 2:23.36. Deschamps also won the 400 IM with an NCAA qualifying time of 4:28.11.

Florida State also had good performance; from its divers, Sophomore Patsy O'Tool was second on the three-meter board and eighth on the one-meter.

Although his team didn't swim the meet he had expected, SIU-C Coach Hill wasn't said to be on television would be "great" for the players and the coaches.

Although the rain, near-freezing temperatures and a 15 mph wind probably held back more fans from attending the Salukis' 23-7 win over Indiana State Saturday, Dempsey said he was glad to have them.

"They made noise like 20,000 fans," Dempsey said. "I think we would've gotten about 16,000 people if it was a nice day, but I was happy to see them come out in the rain. The fans are real important to us."

Several of the Salukis said the crowd did make a difference.

"I've never heard a roar come out of a crowd like that," quarterback Rick Johnson said. "That gets the team fired up to hear a crowd like that."

Cornerback Donnell Daniel said, "I figured that even with the bad weather that the fans would come out in the thousands."

Nevada-Reno, TV next up for Salukis

Jim Lexa
Staff Writer

Welcome Nevada-Reno. That will be the Saluki cry as SIU-C will be hosting its I-AA semifinal football playoff game Saturday against Nevada-Reno, according to men's sports information.

CBS will broadcast the Saluki-Nevada-Reno game on a regional basis because the other semifinal game with Furman playing Western Carolina will also be shown on a regional basis.

It will not be known until Monday just where the Salukis will be shown, according to the sports information office. They could be shown over most of the country because of the proximity of Furman (South Carolina) to Western Carolina (North Carolina), or they might be shown over just the Midwest.

Unless McAndrew Stadium is sold out 48 hours before the 11 a.m. starting time Saturday, the Salukis will not be shown locally. McAndrew Stadium's capacity is 17,323.

Tickets for the semifinal playoff game will be on sale for season ticket holders Monday, and for the general public Tuesday.

Prices for the playoff tickets remain the same. Reserved seating tickets will be $7, general admission $5 and student tickets $2.

Playing one of their best defensive games of the season, the Salukis crushed Indiana State 23-7 in the I-AA quarterfinal playoff game at McAndrew Stadium Saturday. Before a rowdy 8,000 fans who braved the rain, 34-degree temperatures and a 15 mph wind, SIU-C's defense allowed the Sycamores just three first downs — two by penalty — after ISU scored the game's first touchdown on its initial drive.

Saluki Coach Rey Dempsey said his squad's defensive effort was "darn close" to being the best of the year and it was a "real shock" on how well it shut down the ISU offensive attack. "I just thought it was fantastic," Dempsey said. "We have shut down a lot of people this year. It feels really great."

SIU-C's defense completely dominated the second half, holding the Sycamores to minus 11 yards offensively.

Included in ISU's offensive yard total was a 44-yard run by tailback Kevin Henderson, which led to the Sycamore's touchdown. Henderson's run came on an option pitchout and brought back memories of Wichita State. Dempsey, though, said he was not worried.

"I didn't sense any fear," Dempsey said. "We worked on defending the option for a long time. We worked on it against Wichita State and we worked on it against Indiana State."

Saluki cornerback Donnell Daniel said Henderson's option run was the result of "miscommunication."

"Two people went the wrong way on that play," Daniel said. "We had them down to a tee. We knew we could shut them down. We outquicked them."

SIU-C'S DEFENSE held All-MVC first team quarterback Jeff Miller to just three completions out of 18 attempts for 29 yards and one touchdown. Twenty-three of Miller's yards came on a pass to Henderson. Miller also threw two interceptions.

Miller, though, was playing with an elbow injury that he suffered against Eastern Illinois a week ago, and re-injured in practice Thursday. ISU Coach Dennis Raetz said, "His elbow was drained four times this week, once before the game today," Raetz said. "But Playing its fourth game in six days and second within 18 hours, the Saluki men's basketball team dropped its first decision of the year 78-72 Saturday at Wisconsin.

SIU-C won its third straight game Friday, turning back Mississippi Valley State 87-69 at the Arena. The weekend action put the Salukis at 3-1.

At Wisconsin, the Salukis stayed with the Badgers throughout the contest. Despite foul trouble, center Kenny Perry led SIU-C with 22 points, 16 in the second half in which he played the final 11:40 with four fouls.

With 21 seconds left in the game and Wisconsin leading 76-72, SIU-C's Bernard Campbell missed an 18-foot jumper that would have shaved the Badger lead to two points. Both teams then exchanged turnovers before Wisconsin's David Miller's layup at the buzzer made the final score 78-72.

WISCONSIN WENT to the free throw line on 12 occasions and converted each time. SIU-C, meanwhile, continued its woes at the charity stripe, sinking two of six free throws. The Salukis are shooting 55 percent from the line.

"The game was won at the free throw line today and with Wisconsin's ability to get inside and get to the basket to collect some fouls," SIU-C Coach Allen Van Winkle said. "If you don't shoot any free throws and they do it's going to catch up with you."

Wisconsin was in the bonus with nine minutes left in the first half and with 6:10 remaining in the game.

The Salukis led 28-20 with seven minutes left in the first half after Roy Birch gathered in a rebound and went the length of the court to score on a layup. But the Badgers outscored the visitors 16-4 in the next six minutes for a 36-32 lead before baskets by Cleveland Bibbens and Campbell knotted the score 36-36 at halftime.

"THOSE SIX or seven minutes might have been the difference in the game," Van Winkle said. "They made a run at us like a good team will and we weren't able to hold it off, so we went in tied at the half."

The Salukis never led in the second half, but never trailed by more than six points. They tied the score at 46-46 and 60-60 on baskets by Perry, benched with his fourth foul with 14:25 left in the game. After sitting out less than three minutes, Van Winkle sent him back into the

Behind the double-figure point production of four players, the Saluki women's basketball team charged past two opponents and garnered the crown of the Dial Classic over the weekend in Pullman, Wash., to boost its record to 3-1.

SIU-C blasted Big Eight Conference power Oklahoma 82-62 to set the stage for a 66-51 pasting of host Washington State in the tournament championship.

Sophomore Petra Jackson led the way for the Salukis, pumping in 14 points against the Sooners and 19 against the Cougars en route to being named Most Valuable Player of the tournament and earning a berth on the all-tournament team.

Senior Char Warring was also selected to the all-tourney team, making SIU-C the only club to gain two spots on the five-player team.

Center Connie Price came out of a two-game slumber, breaking open a neck-and-neck battle in the opener against Oklahoma.

SIU-C held a 35-34 halftime lead, after the game had been tied three times and neither team boasted more than a three-point advantage. The Salukis repeatedly forfeited the opportunity to open their lead, missing the front end of bonuses three times in the final minutes of the half.

Early in the second half, the score was knotted five times and SIU-C was down 52-51 with 10:06 left in the contest. But Price, who was held scoreless in the first half, went on a rampage, reeling off 12 straight unanswered points to leave the Salukis with a rout on their hands.

Price, who scored only 17 total points in the team's first two contests, against Creighton and Eastern Illinois, finished the game with 22 points to top the club.

Warring was five for seven from the field and six for seven from the free throw line for 16 points. Jackson contributed 14, while senior point guard D.D. Plab dumped in 13.

Price was 12 for 12 at the line to break her own record for most free throws made in a game. She also tied Alondray

Rogers' record set in 1980 for best free throw percentage in a single game.

SIU-C converted 28 of 36 free throws, a whopping 77.8 percent efficiency rate. The Sooners went to the line only nine times and came away with six points, a 66.7 percent clip.

Also figuring into the Saluki win was 5-foot-11 freshman Ann Kattreh, who played only 30 minutes but went four for six from the field to collect nine points. Kattreh also pulled down seven rebounds, to tie for a team high with Jackson and Price.

In a brief 13-minute stint in the Oklahoma game, freshman Marialice Jenkins collected three points and three rebounds and helped get the Saluki offense running.

Warring came up with five rebounds in the game, while freshman Tami Sanders hauled in six.

Scott was pleased with her club's effort.

"We woke up midway through the second half and started playing with some intensity," she said. "Connie broke it open for us. We knew he'd start playing. She's capable of that offensive efficiency every game. Maybe it'll give her some confidence now."

"It was a terribly rough game. Oklahoma, to their credit, was very physical. We did a poor job of handling their full-court defense, but our players hung in there."
