Murphysboro bank robbed by lone man

By John Krukowski
Staff Writer

A Murphysboro bank was robbed late Tuesday afternoon by a lone suspect who escaped on foot, a representative of the Murphysboro Police Department said.

Sgt. Don Castleberry said that when he and another officer responded to an alarm at the City National Bank of Murphysboro, they were told by bank personnel that no one was in the bank.

Castleberry said that when a helicopter and the Williamson County K-9 Patrol arrived to help scout the area for the suspect, Castleberry described the suspect as a white male in his mid-20s, weighing 180 to 200 pounds and 5 feet 6 inches to 5 feet 8 inches tall. He had a reddish mustache and was wearing brown jersey sleeves and an olive green vest. The suspect also had the hood pulled tight around his face.

Castleberry said that people who were at the shopping center at the time of the robbery or who live in the vicinity and have information about the incident should contact the Murphysboro Police Department at 684-5254.

Carbondale requested low-income housing grant

By Lisa Eisenhauer
Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council instructed the staff Monday to draw up an application for an $10,000 state grant to help improve housing rented to low-income families.

The council also decided not to reconsider endorsing a plan to aid utility customers who have problems paying their winter heating bills. The grant application would be submitted to the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs by Dec. 14. The grant application would ask for aid to provide up to $50,000 to low-income rental units to upgrade their properties. The plan would be aimed at private landlords.

At the request of Councilwoman Patricia Patrekar, councilman Ron Pellett suggested an ordinance providing for the "rental rehabilitation program" that were suggested by the city staff to encourage landlords to continue to rent to low-income families if the initial renters move out.

The council also approved the recommendations by the Liquor Advisory Board for an ordinance requiring mandatory age identification checks and hand stamps for patrons entering bars was also recommended and approved by the council.

The council also approved three other recommendations from the board.

The council voted to support stricter penalties on bar owners who violate the liquor code and increase police enforcement of drunk driving.

Also approved was a recommendation to encourage bar owners to enforce underage liquor licenses.

Two inmates escape from Menard center

By John Krukowski
Staff Writer

Two inmates escaped from the Menard Correctional Center Tuesday morning, throwing the prison into a state of alert since a guard was murdered there by an inmate Friday.

The two prisoners, John Edward Jr., 61, and Benjamin J. Gibson, 46, apparently walked away from a medium-security section located outside the prison walls sometime after 10:30 a.m., according to spokesman Nick Howell of the Illinois Department of Corrections in Springfield.

The two were discovered missing during a check of prisoners, Howell said.

Both men had been assigned as mechanics at a medium-security maintenance garage at Menard and were each serving sentences for murder convictions.

Howell said the escapees, who Howell said should be considered dangerous, had not been cited as of 4:30 p.m. Tuesday. Local law enforcement authorities as well as officials from other correctional facilities such as the Centrulia Correctional Center have been called in to aid in the search, Howell said.

Howell described Edwards as a white male, 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighing 165 pounds. He has black hair and green eyes. Gibson was described as a white male, 5 feet 11 inches tall, weighing 160 pounds and having brown hair and green eyes.

A preliminary hearing for William Crews, 31, a Menard inmate charged with the killing on Friday of guard Cecil Harrison, 30, has been scheduled for December 17, according to a representative of the Randolph County State's Attorney's Office.
WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration’s drive to cut the “unacceptable” level of federal spending has President Reagan and his aides looking beyond a freeze on outlays and studying deep cuts to keep the budget from growing. Reagan, who resumed his budget discussions Wednesday, tentatively agreed after a series of meetings Monday to try to slice spending on the farm-price support program by roughly half from its projected cost by 1988, according to an administration official who spoke on condition he be not identified. Administration figures place the projected cost of such supports under current law at about $13 billion in 1987 and 1988.

Appeals court hears school silence law defense
WASHINGTON (AP) — State laws that allow public school students to begin each day with a moment of silence for prayer or meditation do not put any official stamp of approval on religion, the Supreme Court was told Wednesday. Such an Alabama law merely provides an opportunity to pray for or about God, Justice William J. Brennan Jr., told the court. A federal appeals court said the Alabama law, which allowed each school day to start with a period of silence “for meditation or voluntary prayer,” violated the constitutionally required separation of church and state. But Baker said the law “does not endorse religion, or one religion over another. It coerces only silence.”

Bishop denounces U.S. policy on South Africa
WASHINGTON (AP) — Black Anglican Bishop Desmond M. Tutu called President Reagan’s South African policy “immoral, evil and totally un-Christian” on Tuesday and offered to meet with the president before flying to Europe to receive the Nobel Peace Prize. Reagan’s chief spokesman said no meeting was planned. Tutu also called members of the House Foreign Affairs committee “imbeciles” and “un-Christian.”

Armed man holds 10 people hostage in bank
SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — An armed man held at least 10 people hostage Tuesday in a bank robbery attempt at a Security Pacific National Bank, police said. “We’re not sure how many hostages were inside, but there are at least 10.” Sgt. Bill Trudeau said, adding that the condition of the hostages was unknown. Police were alerted when an employee of the bank on North El Camino Real hit an alarm, he said, adding that he was informed by officers at the scene that the gunman may have been hit by police gunfire.

Salary issue still unresolved in Chicago teachers’ strike
CHICAGO (AP) — The teachers’ strike paralyzing the nation’s third-largest school district moved in its second day Tuesday with reports that two issues — salary and the length of the school year — remained unresolved by negotiators. There were conflicting reports on how long the strike by 28,000 teachers and 12,000 non-teaching employees may last. Schools remained closed, with 430,000 students. Talks were resuming Tuesday afternoon between negotiators for the board and striking school workers after a 10-hour bargaining session Monday. The union reported 98.5 percent of the system’s teachers were participating in the walkout.

Jackson to travel to South Africa next year
CHICAGO (AP) — The Rev. Jesse Jackson said Tuesday he will visit South Africa in January to focus attention on the plight of blacks living under apartheid, a system he said has been “reinforced” by the Reagan administration policies. Jackson said South Africa’s ambassador, Bernardus Fourie, told him Monday his application for a visa had been granted. He had reapplied for a visa after a request to visit the white minority-rulled nation was rejected earlier this year.

Man convicted of murder seeking parole
VIENNA (AP) — Convicted killer William Heirns, sentenced to life in prison for the deaths of a 6-year-old girl and two women, was granted more time Tuesday to prepare his arguments for parole. Heirns, 55, appeared before the Illinois Prisoner Review Board, which tentatively rescheduled a hearing for the case Jan. 16. Heirns received three consecutive life prison sentences in 1946 for the slayings of Suzanne Degnan, 6; Frances Brown, 26; and Josephine Rose, 43.

Gas leak survivors are threatened by blindness, sterility

BHOPAL, India (AP) — The poison gas leak from a pesticide plant has killed 1,000 people, doctors say, and many of the survivors in this central Indian city are threatened by blindness and sterility.

The doctors say many of the dead were children and the elderly, who were not strong enough to withstand — or outrun — the lethal cloud that spread over 25 square miles of this city of 900,000 on Monday.

The methyl isocyanate gas had begun leaking at 1:15 a.m. from an underground storage tank at a Union Carbide pesticide plant in a poor area of Bhopal. The leak was stopped after 40 minutes, but the gas seeped silently over the city through the early hours of the morning.

Police on Monday arrested five plant officials on negligence charges and sealed off the factory. Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi, who toured the city Tuesday, said it would never reopen.

Bimla Devi, 37, who lost her hand and her only child, said the acid gas sent winds of people screaming in panic. She said most of those who fell, coughing and crying, were old people and children.

Volunteers helped cremate 22 Hindus on blazing outdoor pyres that flickered bright orange against the dark sky Tuesday night. Other volunteers helped dig graves to bury Monday's 11 children in common 15-foot-long graves.

Doctors said the gas makes the lungs produce so much fluid that victims drown, sometimes days after the exposure.

Drs. Parveen Chaudhary and S.K. Srivastava of Hareli Hospital told The Associated Press they counted 500 corpses at the city's major hospitals and had reports of at least 500 more dead brought to the city's outskirts. The United News of India news agency said there were not less than 1,000 dead.

Doctors said as many as 200,000 people were affected by the gas and Chaudhary said 20,000 may suffer serious after-effects. He said some may lose their sight, and some women may not be able to bear children.

The gas slowly dissipated into the atmosphere through the day, but air samples on Tuesday still showed traces of poison in the air.

Gandhi toured the area, visiting hospital wards and talking with orphaned children. He vowed to stop the production of dangerous chemicals in urban areas.

Officials at Union Carbide's U.S. headquarters suspended worldwide use of methyl isocyanate, a deadly gas when it comes in contact with water.

S. Mitra, a plant official, said one underground storage tank containing 15 tons of methyl isocyanate was still intact at the plant.

He said the gas escaped from another 15-ton tank that had not been tagged since October. So much pressure had built up within the tank that it had "over-rushed" a safety filter, he said.

WASHINGTON — Backed by environment and industry groups that are often at odds, the government is about to propose the first federal pollution tax, intended to make truck and engine manufacturers pay the costs they escape by not meeting clean air standards.

Companies would be allowed to make products that violate the standards, but the tax would give them incentives to bring their trucks and engines into compliance as soon as possible.

Highly polluting products would still be banned.

The Associated Press obtained a copy of the Environmental Protection Agency proposal, which grew from an agreement in October by 23 representatives of environment, industry and trade groups. None of the parties have backed out since then, said an EPA spokesman who asked that he not be identified.

It is not known how much revenue the tax would raise or whether the proposal will be modified during a complex rule-making procedure that could take months.

Agreement by environmental groups, however, removed a major source of opposition.

Economists in general long have favored "pollution taxes" as an efficient way to reduce pollution, but many environmentalists have argued that such taxes are "a license to pollute" by companies willing to pay the price.

David Doniger, an attorney for the Clean Air Coalition and a key member of the negotiating panel, said that before the talks, manufacturers were concerned that the sums they would have to pay might be "outrageous."

And he said environmentalists would never have agreed if it had been a "gun issue," such as dangerous radiation. "We're not arguing about how safe is safe," he said.

Under the proposal, the tax would be based on how much money the company would have to spend to bring its products into compliance with the standards.

The fountain between Shryock Auditorium and Davies Gymnasium was damaged by vandals Monday night. This is the second act of vandalism involving the statue this semester. The first occurred Oct. 7 when the statue's umbrella was taken.

Suit against police dismissed

By John Krukowski
Staff Writer

A law suit against three members of the Carbondale Police Department was dismissed Tuesday in Jackson County Circuit Court when the plaintiffs, an inmate at the Centralia Correctional Institute, failed to show up for his case's first appearance in court.

Judge Richard Richman said he decided not to proceed with the case because of a lack of evidence to support the case of Jerry E. Wilson, the absentee plaintiff who is serving a sentence stemming from a 1982 house burglary.

Wilson's complaint alleged that the Carbondale police are illegally withholding certain items of his property which were confiscated at the time of his arrest March 20, 1982.

The suit named Carbondale Police Chief Edward Hogan, Don Robbins, evidence custodian; and Detective Tim Moss. All three denied the allegations and all three were cleared by Richman.

Wilson had requested that his case proceed while he is still incarcerated and apparently chose to represent himself. It was not clear why he was not present Tuesday.

Hogan said after the hearing that much of the property Wilson was suing for was not listed in the Police Department's inventory even at the time of Wilson's arrest.

Fanaticism in American society
basis of abortion-related violence

THE ENTRIES in the daily log are almost routine now. A death warrant, D.C. Two more in Maryland. Another in Pennsylvania. A lynch-club-covered lmg-blade knife found against a door in South Dakota.

Nothing extraordinary. No devices have gone off this week. Nobody has been hurt. You might even say that things have settled down since Nov. 15 when an abortion clinic and a family planning clinic, both in Maryland were bombed. Certainly there has been no event as freakish as the one in Alabama on Nov. 15, when a part-time abortion counselor who had been harassed by anti-abortionists, came home to find her car decapitated.

But Barbara Radford, the head of the National Abortion Federation that keeps track of these acts, has no illusions that the worst is over. Quite the contrary. "We've seen a rise in bombings, a rise in arson, a rise in death threats to clinic personnel. In the past year alone 24 centers in seven states have been damaged by fire or explosion and lost their NAF office. In addition, there have been 377 incidents of vandalism and harassment."

THERE IS NO proof that pro-life groups are behind these incidents, nor do we know for sure that these acts are connected. But we do know that the bombings, the fires, the crimes are occurring in an atmosphere of general frustration, of escalating anger, and mounting pressure for action among anti-abortion activists.

These groups have not won a legislative victory or legal victory and have been waiting for the radical fringe pushed to extremes. Once, a man like Joe Scheidler, the head of the Chicago-based Pro-Life Action Group, was scorned by the mainstream. Now he is the super-villain of the pro-life movement.

Scheidler calls the moderate leaders the "wimpish pro-lifers," "the hippylads for life." Yet this year, he was not only welcome at the convention of the National Right to Life Committee but in the White House. He joined other anti-abortion leaders when they met with President Reagan. As the center shifted, so has the radical fringe moved further into more dangerous territory.

The acceptance of aggressive tactics by moderates makes it easier for the bombers and burners to flourish. The radical ground is fertilized with justifications and rationalizations.

Scheider, for example, says that "we intend to shut down the (abortion) industry. The bombings and the arson will make the Villain of Vietnam."

THE CENTRAL QUESTION that will decide CBS's fate is the same question that has been deciding libel cases for 20 years: Did CBS falsely accuse Westmoreland of distorting enemy troop strength and did they broadcast, knowing it was false?

The actual malice lies that first appeared in the landmark 1964 case, New York Times v. Sullivan, still holds. Westmoreland is about as public as they come, and it will be up to his lawyers to prove beforehand that the accusations were false but chose to make them anyway.

Proponents of the controversial program have already been proven inaccurate. But in order for Westmoreland to cash in the $120 million — even if he wins, it is doubtful that he will be awarded the full $120 million — he will have to prove that the CBS story is more than mere inaccuracy in facts. He must prove that CBS made the accusations with a high degree of knowledge as to their falsity.

In another Libel Case receiving national and international attention, former Israeli Defense Minister Ariel Sharon is seeking $350 million from Time magazine for a story it ran in 1983 hinting that Sharon was responsible for the murder of several hundred Lebanese civilians during Israel's 1982 invasion.

The major difference between the two suits — aside from the fact that CBS has a problem aired in the United States, whereas, according to Westmoreland, the CBS broadcast was a conscious editorial decision to run a knowingly false report — is that the Time story seems to have been the result of poor reporting, whereas, according to Westmoreland, the CBS broadcast was a conscious editorial decision to run a knowingly false report.

Since the landmark Sullivan case, the heavy burden placed on public figures to prove actual malice has resulted in relatively few successful libel suits. A decision rendered against either of the two media organizations could open the door to a flood of libel suits by public officials. This would have an unfolding chilling effect on newsgathering in the future.

ICE beneficial to student body

In the past few weeks the International Student Council has faced its most serious problem.

However, the majority of this publicity has been negative and has been based on a few minor internal problems that are not indicative of what ISC is all about.

It is true that there is a question of priorities and the need to establish a weekly international lunch at the student center. But this is a minor problem.

The ISC also represents SIUC's official student organization at the annual meetings of which is the National Association of Foreign Student Affairs — an influential body concerned with all aspects of foreign student affairs in the United States.

Yet more proof that the ISC is not a cream puff organization can be readily obtained from its budget. In 1982, it was allocated $1,800, in 1983 it was allocated $7,500, and in 1984 it was allocated $14,700 — a 700 percent increase over its 1982 budget. This, if nothing else, should indicate that the ISC not only is performing its functions, but is an organization to be reckoned with in the crowded international student organization on our campus.

By Garry Trudeau

Scheidler of, for example, says that "we intend to shut down the (abortion) industry. The bombers and burners will merely report, "I don't condemn them. I don't promote them. What we've seen is some damaged real estate. It's like blowing Dachau and getting away without hurting anyone." So, in the eyes of CBS lawyer Curt Beseda, convicted of four felonies in 1980 for actions against clinics in Washington state, uses this same reasoning to justify his acts: "Tomorrow, no child will be put to death there."

The Tactics of "direct action" have evolved into a form of domestic terrorism. A small band of fanatics have set out to impose their political will through fear rather than persuasion. Those who cannot change the law by peaceful means, use violence. The most bizarre among them are even risking murder out of the conviction that they are preventing murder.

Scheidler has had no measurable effect on the number of abortions being performed. Women have been scarred or harassed into a new and different form of illegal abortion but it does offer a close-up, a look into the debates of our culture. Fanacism wears the same face whether it's in Lebanon or Maryland. Sometimes it even carries the same weapons.

President Reagan once described terrorists this way: "They are possessed by a fanatical intensity that individuals in a civilized society can only barely comprehend."

Last week, his administration launched its program to "get tough on international terrorism. But we're still waiting for the condemnation of domestic terrorism that has taken place right down the street from the White House."

Letters policy

Signed articles, including letters, Viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinion of their authors only. Unsigned editorialists represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Editorial Committee. The editor, the student editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a Journalism School faculty member.

Letters to the editor may be submitted by mail or directly to the editorial page editor, Room 2747. Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten, double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 50 words. Letters less than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academics by position and department.

Letters submitted for publication should include the author's address and telephone number. Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.
Model train enthusiasts meet, display their prized collections

The common bond among most display and static model train collectors and engineers is the fact that somewhere in the family history, someone — an uncle, father or grandfather — has worked with the railroad.

This thread was evident Sunday as the Southern Illinois Train Collectors held their second annual train show at the John A. Logan College gymnasium in Carbondale.

Dozens of model railroad engineers gathered to display their collections to the general public, and some to buy and sell individual train set pieces. Some award-winning collectors have constructed their sets after Illinois towns and cities, such as Decatur and Ashland.

Collecting model railroads is a family affair. Chuck Roehm Sr., and his son Chuck Jr., have been collecting toy trains since 1960 and are reported to have the largest collection in the country.

The Roehms are part owners and on the engine crew of the Crab Orchard and Egyptian Railroad in Marion, one of the few “railroad companies which still uses steam locomotives. The elder Roehm is the vice president of SITC and has been collecting since 1931.

“Of all hobbies, the one that gets the most attention, the one most avidly watched is train collecting,” he said. “They’re larger than life. Computers are nice, but I’ll always take an electric train for a kid.”

Tom Adams is the president of SITC, a not-for-profit group which was organized in January 1983. In two years, membership in SITC has grown from 17 to 72, and includes people from Southern Illinois to Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Mayfield, Ky.

Adams — like most SITC members’ — own interest in collecting came when his father worked for the railroad. He said the fun in train collecting is much like that of coin collecting: “They’re numbered differently. It’s not the age of the trains, but the rarity that counts.”

Starting a collection, whether Lionel, HO or N-trak, isn’t too expensive; a basic set with transformer and engine costs as little as $25, with a car kit running as low as $5. Constructing a module — a table

Local actors give play 'polish'

George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man" presented at John A. Logan last weekend was given polish by the appearance of two experienced local actors, Mike Seagle and Steve Falcone. They have both the wit and the style necessary to accommodate Shaw's sophisticated dialogue.

Without them the production would have remained enjoyable, but lacking sparkle and excitement.

Madrigal dinner starts Wednesday

The pageantry of merry old England will come alive at the Student Center starting Wednesday, when the eighth annual Madrigal dinner is held in Ballroom D.

Sharon Silverstein, graduate assistant of special programs at the Student Center, describes the dinners as a combined effort of many campus departments. Each year the entertainment (held Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 6:45 p.m.) is never quite the same as the year before.

This year, among other things, there will be a fencing match and a romantic comedy, which will be performed in proper Elizabethan fashion.

Tickets are $12.50, and are on sale at the Student Center central ticket office. Reservations can be made in person, or by mail order accompanied by a check in full amount.

Student schedules percussion recital

A senior percussion recital by Donald Gruber will be given at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Shryock Auditorium.

Among Gruber's selections will be Basta's "Concerto for Marimbou and Orchestra," Chick Corea's "Crystal Silence" and Mollenhof's "Music of the Day."

Tom Higgenson will accompany Gruber on piano and the groups "Mercy" and "The New Arts Jazz Quintet" will also play with Gruber on some of his recital selections. Admission to the recital is free.

Tri Star Pictures is on a definite losing streak. They recently claimed the dubious honor of being forced by an outraged public to pull their mad slash thriller, "Silent Night, Deadly Night." From the roster of Christmas releases, "Supergirl" is not a good bet to recoup their losses.

The film stars Faye Dunaway as Selina, the self-styled Siren of Endor and villainess who runs afoul of the super-heroine. Dunaway is neither funny, although she makes pathetic attempts to be both, sometimes at the same time. Selina, known as the sly sidekick, Bixna, played by Erenda Vaccaro, is a sort of oasis, house of horrors in an abandoned amusement park.

Meanwhile back in Argo City (sounds like an East Texas oil town), Cara aka SuperGirl, loses the power source of the city, the Omega Hedron, which powers the city. Meanwhile, the Omega Hedron rockets to earth and lands conveniently in Selina's picnic. Selina, no mighty intellect herself, does not at first realize what she has her hands on. Once she figures it out, world domination heads her things. Must-do today list. SuperGirl to the rescue.

Helen Slater makes her film debut as SuperGirl. She is an attractive young lady, looks super in a leotard, and "flies" in a balletic one-knee-up position. Maybe SuperGirl can act, too. It's hard to tell.

The cast contains some big names and proven actors. Along with Dunaway and Vaccaro are Peter O'Toole, Mia Farrow, Peter Cook, Simon Ward and Hart Bochner. Why they became involved in this project, it is a mystery.

It's time for the producers to start the search for new ideas. The superhero legend has been pumped dry. "SuperGirl" proves it.

Is there anything positive to say about this movie? Parents concerned about too much sex and violence will find "SuperGirl" mild enough for their children. But parents beware. If your kids are over age 12, they probably will not thank you for taking them.

Guyon to speak at GPS conference

The Graduate and Professional Student Council will take a rest from considering fee issues this week at its final meeting of the semester Wednesday.

The only major item on the agenda will be a talk by John Guyon, vice president for academic affairs, said Nancy Rounds, GPS vice president.

"We really don't want to get into any heavy issues at this time of year," she said.

Guyon will focus on some ideas for the future in computing affairs, general education course changes and Morris Library.

The meeting will be at 6:45 p.m. in the Mississippi Room.

Train, scenery and skybox — can be costly, however. Mike Pieper, who has been collecting trains for 25 of his 31 years, said a basic table can start at $40. He also said that brass engines and cars run from $100 to $800.

"But it's the fascination of watching trains run, making them perform," Pieper said. "Doing the work, hauling, and the equipment for the models — they're real trains, just done to scale."

The SITC meets the third Thursday of each month in the Batteas Room at Logan College. Dues are $5 per year and the organization is open to anyone with an interest in electric trains, Adams said.

Train, scenery and skybox — can be costly, however. Mike Pieper, who has been collecting trains for 25 of his 31 years, said a basic table can start at $40. He also said that brass engines and cars run from $100 to $800.

"But it's the fascination of watching trains run, making them perform," Pieper said. "Doing the work, hauling, and the equipment for the models — they're real trains, just done to scale."

The SITC meets the third Thursday of each month in the Batteas Room at Logan College. Dues are $5 per year and the organization is open to anyone with an interest in electric trains, Adams said.

High Court urged to reinstate antitrust suit against academy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court was urged Tuesday to reinstate a federal antitrust suit brought by two Midwestern doctors against the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons.

Michael T. Sawier of Chicago, a lawyer representing the doctors, said his clients were victimized by "a radical and unjust (ruling) denying them any day in court with regard to their federal claim."

R. Anthony Marrone of Evansville, Ind., and Michael R. Treister of Chicago, both orthopedic surgeons, charged that the surgeons academy denied them membership because they competed too vigorously with others in their profession. Their suit also said Treister was excluded because he testified for an individual who sued an academy member for alleged malpractice.

The 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, by a 5-4 vote last January, threw out the federal suit because an Illinois court previously dismissed the two doctors' original lawsuit filed in the state courts there.

BEER: Pitchers ban urged in the past. He said, however, that the program died because employees change often at the bars and managers failed to instruct new employees to attend the class.

Hogan said the department would be willing to operate the training session if bar employees would attend.

Councilman Keith Tuxtorn said the city should implement a certification program for bar employees, similar to the food handlers card issued to people who work with food.

"I don't think we're going to put together a total solution," Tuxtorn said. "But this is a first step and I'm in agreement with them."

The council steered away from the proposal made by Hogan to ban people under 21 from entering any liquor establishment where 60 percent of the business was derived from liquor sales.

City Manager Bill Dixon said that banning people under 21 from the bars is still a valid idea and may still be imposed if alternatives are not successful.

Board Chairman John Mills said the bars on South Illinois Avenue are an entertainment outlet for SIU-C students. He said the bars provide the only live music in the city.

Dixon said "beer riots" at other universities such as Illinois State University indicate the problems that college communities have in regulating underage drinking.

"If all these people cannot go downtown where are they going to go?" Mills asked the council.

The Rev. Les Pappas of Carbondale spoke in favor of Hogan's proposal and said the board's recommendations do not address the problem of underage drinking.

"You must remove one or the other — the underage patrons or the bars," he said. "Chief Hogan's proposal has a lot of merit."

"There is no magical cure,” Mills said. "We need to bring it (the problem) to a limit to which it can be operated.”
Emeritus College is ‘grandparent’ of University

By Joyce Vonderheide
Staff Writer

If SIU-C students are the children of the University and the administrators and faculty are the parents, then the Emeritus College is the grandparent. The presence of three generations is good for the University, said Arnold Auerbach, coordinator of the Emeritus College.

The relationship between a grandparent and child is often closer and more friendly than the parent-child relationship, Auerbach said. Retired faculty members are less threatening to students because they don’t grade a student’s assignments and are more accepting. And emeriti aren’t threatened because they don’t have to worry about anyone taking away their job.

THE EMERITUS College is a group of 240 retired faculty members living in Southern Illinois. That number represents about two-thirds of the retired faculty members, Auerbach said. The other one-third have moved from Southern Illinois.

The college is an official part of the University with its own budget and office, although both are small. The group has representation on the Faculty Senate and a 30-member advisory committee that meets every six weeks.

Auerbach said no other university has such a group as an official part of the university. He credited President Albert Sumit with creating the idea of an emeritus college and encouraging its formation and development. The college is “one of his big contributions as president of this University,” Auerbach said.

AUERBACH has received about a dozen serious inquiries from other universities who are interested in forming an -emeritus college like the one at SIU-C. He recently presented a paper about the Emeritus College at a meeting of the Gerontological Society of America in San Antonio, Texas.

Formed two years ago, the college’s main purpose is to provide service to the University and the community without taking away anyone’s job, said Auerbach, former chairman of the SIU-C Department of Social Welfare.

“We want to give older people who still have a lot to give an opportunity to get involved with an organization, with a community,” he said.

After teaching here, some former faculty naturally gravitate toward the University. However, when they go back to their old department, they may feel that they are cut in left field because faculty and students don’t know them.

THE EMERITUS College is a way for retired professors to “keep their creative juices flowing,” Auerbach said. Emeritus College activities include helping recruit new students by gathering materials and to present to junior colleges and high schools, working with the Alumni Association and organizations such as The American Red Cross, and conducting research.

Another activity is conducting pre-retirement seminars to prepare other SIU-C employees for retirement. Retirement is a cultural shock, Auerbach said. “It’s like a man suddenly becoming a woman or a white suddenly becoming black,” he said.

Auerbach said he wants to dispel the feeling that older people are helpless, poor and needy. Some older people do need help, but “the stereotype of old people as being helpless and sick and poor and frail and senile is very incorrect if applied to most of the old people,” Auerbach said.

Illinois Student Association to discuss $1 fee

By David Liss
Staff Writer

A $1 student fee referendum will be one subject brought up at the first Illinois Student Association Campus Committee Wednesday.

The group will meet at 4 p.m. in the Student Center Illinois Room.

The referendum, which would appear on the student government election ballot next spring, will call for a $1 fee to go to a statewide fund for the ISA, said Nicole Glasser, student senator and committee member.

The fee would help support ISA activities as the voice of the students to Illinois education officials and policy makers,” Glasser said.

One goal of the ISA is to educate the students on higher education issues affecting them,” Glasser said, including funding and financial aid. The ISA also works to “get students involved.”

ISA conferences are held periodically, she said, bringing together students from state universities and colleges to coordinate activities dealing with student issues. A $1 fee would go toward paying for a full-time ISA staff, which the ISA currently does not have, Glasser said. A full-time staff would provide information to help students voice their concerns, she said.

The fee would also help pay transportation costs to conferences, Glasser said.

A USO survey will be conducted in February to find out how students feel about the proposed fee, Glasser said. Referendums are also being considered at the University of Illinois, Glasser said, and possibly at Eastern Illinois University.

Ebony fashion show dazzles, provides money for charities

By Cynthia Beard
Student Writer

The Ebony Fashion Fair show has proved to be more than just a fashion show since it began 21 years ago. The event raises over $17 million last year for various charitable organizations.

"The proceeds from the fashion show are donated to charitable organizations nationwide to benefit persons of every color, but Ebony's biggest donation goes to the United Negro College Fund," said Panmela Fernandez, Ebony's model-commentator.

This year's show, "A Color Fantasy," was sponsored by the graduate chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha, a social service sorority that has sponsored the event for three years. This year, three local high school seniors who will major in pre-med were chosen for academic scholarships.

The team of 13 models, 11 female and two male, dazzled the audience with clothes by distinguished British, French and Italian designers and American designers Nina Ricci, Bill Blass and others. "American designers are coming of age," Fernandez said. "Fashions by over 50 American designers were featured in this year's tour," she said.

To give the show a different twist, skits were performed to introduce different segments of the show. Fernandez proved to be much more than just a commentator and model. She delighted the audience with a song that introduced the second act which featured twin Rodrick Fuller, who is known as "part one of Ebony's dynamic duo." Currently, Ebony tours 178 cities during eight months out of the year, beginning in September. The models are not under contract but generally stay with the troupe about five years, Fernandez said.

The clothes that are modeled belong to Linda Johnson-Rice, the show's fashion coordinator, and daughter of Johnson Products president, John Johnson.

"After each modeling year the clothes are incorporated into Mrs. Eunice Johnson's closet, which contains almost all of the clothes ever modeled in the Fashion Fair," Fernandez said. The clothes not retained are auctioned and proceeds go to charitable organizations.

S-Sentate to review fee boost bills

By David Liss

The Student Senate will vote again Wednesday on whether to repeal its resolutions recommending increases in Student Center and Recreation Center fees and housing rates.

Both the proposed increase separately were drawn up by the Undergraduate Student Organization Housing, Tuition and Fees Commission after researching new information provided by the University administration.

The Senate voted down a bill last Wednesday to repeal all three resolutions together.

"Last week we didn't have the facts and figures, we were going on hearsay," said Jeff Thompson, assistant to the Housing, Tuition and Fees commission. "Now we've done our homework."

The information that the commission received included actual line-by-line budgets for fiscal years 1984 and 1985, Thompson said, which allowed it to compare specific increases.

Concerning the increase in Recreation Center increase, the commission decided that the proposed spending increases were "unjustified as presented," Thompson said.

The data given were insufficient and contained accounting errors, showing an excess of 5 percent, and because of the presentation of information, Thompson said, unlike the Recreation Center proposal.

The commission calls for the rejection of the resolution recommending a 7.3 percent housing rate increase, partly because utility rate increases have increased "far less than the budgeted 9 percent," Thompson said.

"Administrative and office expenses also have increased much greater than inflation with less students enrolled," according to the bill.

Three students arrested for attacking SRA

Three residents of Neely Hall were arrested last Sunday morning after they allegedly attacked a "student resident assistant." According to an ISU-C Police Department report, the officers found SRA Sue Ellen Lewis, 20, pinned to the wall and surrounded by several male residents.

Robert Matejka, 19, of Allen Hall; John Molchin, 19, Allen Hall; and Steven Gore, 22, Neely Hall, were arrested after Lewis said the three had attacked her after she tried to break up a party where alcohol was present.

According to the report, Lewis had wounds on one of her arms, allegedly from the attack. The police report stated that all three suspects were disruptive and intoxicated during their arrest, and that Molchin did not allow his fingerprints to be taken.

Tom Downing, assistant Jackson County state's attorney, said that Matejka and Molchin were charged with simple battery Monday, and Gore with aggravated battery, although his charge was being reduced.

No trial date has been set and Downing said he expects all three will be tried together.
"The University represents the major economic force in Carbondale," said the 25-year-old Luczak, who added that students represent around 50 percent of the city's voting population. "Students should assert their rights by having a representative in the city's governmental affairs."

Since students make up a large part of Carbondale's population and contribute greatly to its economy, the council should be better aware of students' needs when decisions are made, Luczak said.

"The quality of life in Carbondale is of great concern to students," he said. "It seems reasonable that they should have a decision on which course the city takes."

Luczak said he has received support from students and faculty when talking about his desire to run for the council, and added that he has already discussed some issues during meetings with a "campaign committee" of about 12 friends, some of which include president and vice president of College Democrats, Lamont Brady and Mary Carroll.

Although hesitant to comment on particular city issues until he discussed them further with his committee, Luczak said some of the issues he is particularly concerned with are student housing, health and safety of bars, economic development and city beautification.

Luczak conceded that residents might not like the idea of a student running for the council, but said if he shows he is a clear thinker, he might have a chance on winning.

"The community is going to be hesitant and probably skeptical," he said. "Because of that, I'll have to show I'm a cautious, realistic decision maker, even more so than I would have to show to the student community."

Luczak said a student running for city council is particularly susceptible to be labeled a "radical." But he added that, "If I have good ideas and present them in a professional manner, then it doesn't matter what label you wear. The ideas will stand on their own merit."

"It's not a matter of taking on the world; it's a matter of living one's convictions," he said. "I think there's a job to be done, and this is the natural way of going about it."

Like some other students, however, Luczak is going to try to make his idea a reality— he's going to run for the council.

Sitting in his Carbondale apartment on Sunday, Luczak said that, when he transferred to Carbondale from Springfield's Lincoln Land Community College a year ago, he noticed the size of the SIU-C compared to the city and thought it was only natural that there should be student representation on the council.

Cubs acquire Fontenot in trade with Yankees

HOUSTON (AP) — The New York Yankees on Tuesday sent pitcher Ray Fontenot and infielder-outfielder Brian Dayet to the Chicago Cubs for four players in the first trade of the 1984 winter meetings.

In return for their two players, the Yankees will receive catcher Ron Hassey, outfielder Henry Cotto and pitchers Rich Bordi and Porfi Altamirano.

Fontenot, 27, was 8-9 for the Yankees in 3.61 earned run average in 35 games last season, his first full one in the major leagues. He appeared in 15 games for the Yankees with an 8-2 record in 1983.

Dayet, 27, split the 1984 season between Columbus and the Yankees. He batted .301 in 45 games at Columbus and .244 in 64 games with the Yankees.

Hassey, 31, came to the Cubs from Cleveland last year, hitting .333 in 19 games at Chicago. Cotto, 23, played in 106 games with the Cubs last year, batting .274.

Bordi and Altamirano, both right-handers, were used primarily in relief by Chicago. Bordi, 25, was used in 31 games, all but seven of them in relief, and had a record of 5-2 with a 3.46 ERA and four saves.

Altamirano, 30, spent most of the season with Chicago's Class A club in Iowa, where he had 17 saves, a 4.4 record and a 3.03 ERA. He had no record and no saves in five appearances with the Cubs. His ERA was 4.76.

Manager Jim Frey said he envisioned using Fontenot, a left-hander, primarily as a relief pitcher.

"Right now, I'm thinking about using him in relief," Frey said. "We made it through last year without a left-hander in the bullpen. I haven't seen him. They say he can be a starter and reliever."

The Yankees plan to put Cotto and Altamirano on their Triple A Columbus roster.

General Manager Clyde King said Cotto would be given a chance to fill what the Yankees perceive as a gap in center field.

We know he is an outstanding defensive center fielder and he has potential to be a good hitter some day," King said. "He'll have the same opportunity to make the team in spring training as anyone else.

King said Altamirano would act as an insurance policy of sorts.

Brigham Young remains No. 1, but Oklahoma moves closer

By The Associated Press

The regular season is over and the countdown to college football's national championship is under way. Realistically, there are four contenders: No. 1-ranked Brigham Young, runner-up Oklahoma, No. 3 Florida and fourth-ranked Washington.

BYU held onto first place Tuesday for the third week in a row in The Associated Press' final regular-season poll despite last weekend's ABC-TV telephone poll, which branded the Cougars as anything but the nation's top team. BYU's 191-336, received 16-5-1 over Oklahoma, which moved closer to the nation's only unbeaten team.

The Top Ten remained unchanged from last week. Florida, which closed out a 9-1 season by beating Florida State 27-17 for its ninth consecutive victory — the Gators are ineligible for a bowl game — received six first-place votes and 1,083 points. Last week, the Gators were No. 1 in five ballots and received 1,048 points.

This week's other first-place vote went to Washington, 10-1, which received 963 points. The Huskies were followed by Nebraska, 9-2, with 888 points. Sixth-place Ohio State, 9-2, which meets Southern California in the Rose Bowl, received 811 points to 808 for No. 7 South Carolina, 10-1. The Gators are ineligible for a bowl game.

Eight-place Boston College concluded a 9-2 regular season by trouncing Holy Cross 45-10. The Eagles, who meet Houston in the Cotton Bowl, received 267 points. Oklahoma State, the No. 9 team at 9-2, received 725 points while Southern Methodist, which defeated Nevada-Las Vegas 38-21 to finish at 9-2, received 608 points. The Mustangs have an Aloha Bowl date with Notre Dame.

The Second Ten consists of LSU, Maryland, Miami, UCLA, Florida State, Auburn, Notre Dame, Southern Cal, Texas and Wisconsin, which made the Top Twenty for the first time this season.

Last week, it was Auburn, Florida State, Texas, LSU, Maryland, Miami, UCLA, Georgia, Notre Dame and USC. Georgia, which had been in the Top Twenty for 11 straight weeks, fell out by losing to Georgia Tech 35-18. That made room for Wisconsin, which finished the regular season 7-3-1. In other weekend games involving members of the Second Ten, Florida State lost to Florida, Auburn was upset by Alabama 17-15 and Texas was trounced by Texas A&M 37-12.

Cardinals' Smith out with knee injury

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Strong safety Leonhard Smith underw ent arthroscopic knee surgery and will be out of the St. Louis Cardinals' lineup for at least three weeks, the National Football League club said Tuesday.

Cardinals spokesman Greg Coley said Smith was operated on and he has not decided on whether to place Smith on the league's injured reserve list, which would make him ineligible for four weeks. The only two regular season games remain in the 1984 season.

Gladysiewicz said veteran Lee Nelson will start at strong safety in place of Smith in Sunday's NFC East showdown with the New York Giants. The Giants are tied for first in the division with Dallas and Washington, one game ahead of St. Louis. If either team wins both its remaining games, it will make the NFL playoffs.

On Monday, Cardinal Coach Jim Hanifan said he may use wide receiver Cedric Mack Jr. as a cornerback against New York to reinforce the defensive backfield. Mack was converted to wide receiver from defensive back before this season.

Officials’ flag football tournament ends fall intramural activities

By Stan Goff

Nipes and Co. won the Intramural Officials’ Club flag football tournament last weekend, as Coach Joe’s activities concluded for the intramural sports program at SIUC.

Captained by Kimball Sanders, Nipes and Co. followed the Scoregmas 26-12 in the championship game of the nine-week tourney. The Nipes, who swept four games in the tourney, were led strong play from Robert Jones and Oliver Gregg.

The Scoregmas, led by quarterback Kevin Abbott, won their first two games by the scores of 31-0 and 24-0 before falling in the title game. After cutting their deficit from 14-0 to 14-12, the Scoregmas couldn’t come any closer in the fourth quarter.

Halftime buddy Strube and wide receiver Rick Jones led the Nipes’ offense while cornerback Doug DeMaran paced the defense.

After Sunday’s title game played in the rain at McAndrew Stadium, Bruce Swinburne, vice-president of student affairs, and Harvey Welch, dean of the student life office, presented plaques and trophies to the finalists.

“The tournament went well and the Officials’ Club did an excellent job of organizing the event,” Intramural Coordinator Bill McMinn said. “It was very competitive, yet the sportsmanship was excellent and everyone had a lot of fun.”

In the intramural flag football season, which concluded before the Officials’ Club tourney, the Hosers won the men’s A title and the Rec Chicks won the women’s A title.

The Hosers, captained by Mark Mazzia, won their third consecutive men’s A title by defeating Brown Helmet 6-0 on a three-yard touchdown run by quarterback Gary Kroll. The Hosers’ defense, headed by Tom Ayers, put on a goal-line stand in the final minutes of the game to clinch the victory.

Five interceptions by the Hosers defense helped them defeat Nipes and Co. in the semi-final game. Paul O’Meara and Toast Mazzas each intercepted two passes for the Hosers, helping them advance to the finals.

The Rec Chicks capped off an undefeated season by winning 26-0 in the finals of the women’s A league, as quarterback Kari Lindbeck had a big game.

Captain Jackie Skyrd also received strong play on offense from Kim Frick, Kathy Letko, Peggy Krossner and Joanne Ralf. The Rec Chicks’ defense was guarded by Kris Sherrill.

The intramural sports program will sponsor volleyball, badminton and table tennis tournaments Jan. 7-11. The tournaments will be open to all, but are designed to give the international students at SIUC something to do between semesters.

“I hope all the participants had good experiences with intramural sports this semester, and I’m real excited about the upcoming semester,” McMinn said.
Cubs, Sutcliffe remain apart

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Cubs pitching ace Rick Sutcliffe said Monday other clubs have offered him far more money than the Cubs to pitch for them next season.

"I'm a little disappointed in the Cubs," said Sutcliffe, who won the Cy Young Award in leading the Cubs to the National League Eastern Division championship with a 16-1 record last season.

Sutcliffe, a free agent, was selected by the Cubs and seven other clubs in last month's re-entry draft.

Speaking from his home in L.A. via satellite, he said, "They're pushing the ball to get more money. That's what it is."

The Cubs have made Sutcliffe two offers — one for three years and $9 million and another for five years and $15 million.

Sutcliffe has been heavily courted by the Royals.

"My family and friends are here. Playing here is something I've dreamed of since I was a kid," he said.

But he also told The Tribune that "my heart is in Chicago. It's just that other teams have gone out of their way to show how much they want me."

The Cubs' division championship last season marked their first title of any kind since 1945.

"We have to work harder for the ball to get more rebounds," Van Winkle said. "We need to get more rebounds out of the two big men, Bibbes and Perry."

Bibbes, a 6-6, 200-pound forward, is averaging 6.3 rebounds and has been outrebounded by opposing centers, 15-12.

"I'm not too concerned about Kenny, I feel his rebounding will come along," Van Winkle said.

"But I'm concerned about our team rebounding, which has to improve," he said.

After the St. Louis game, the Salukis return to the arena Friday night and face Navy in the Saluki Shootout II. The opening game will feature Texas-EI Paso and Western Illinois.

Petra Jackson leads the Saluki offensive attack so far, averaging 21 points per game.

The 5-9 junior is also top rebounder, pulling down an average 8.3 boards from the guard position.

She's a leader on the floor and she has great confidence," Scott said.

Bridgeitt Bonds will start again Wednesday night. The 5-11 freshman scored 24 points against Evansville and had 19 points before fouling out in the Memphis State game.

Scott said they may go with Ellen O'Brien as a starter.

O'Brien is averaging 9.0 points and 3.7 rebounds for the three games she saw action.

Scott expects a crowd of 2,500 at Diddle Arena, a tough place for a visitor. In two trips to Bowling Green, the Salukis did not defeat the Lady Toppers but enjoyed a perfect record for the three visits WKU made to Carbondale.

Sutcliffe is averaging 21 points per game.

Hard work benefits Williamson

By Stan Goff
Staff Writer

When Lawrence Williamson came to SIU-C, he planned on getting a good education in architectural engineering technology and working out with the Saluki gymnastics team. Williamson has greatly surpassed his expectations with hard work and determination, becoming one of the best floor exercise specialists in the country.

"Without a doubt, he's shown more progress than 90 percent of the gymnasts I've had; more than 90 percent of the walk-ons," SIU-C Coach Bill Meade said. Williamson, the only senior on the team, joined the Salukis after his graduation from Simeon High School in Chicago, which does not sponsor gymnastics. He gained his early experience as a cheerleader.

"At first, gymnastics was just for fun for me. I learned a few new tricks my first year, but I didn't expect to compete for SIU at first," Williamson said. Williamson has worked hard since making the gymnastics' squad his sophomore year and has become a quality vaulter as well as a top-notch floor exercise specialist. Last season, his 9.60 average on the floor exercise was the second-best in the Midwest Region, and his 9.34 on the vault was sixth in the region.

"I took things one step at a time and learned a few difficult tricks each year," Williamson said. "My sophomore year, I was up and down but, last year, I finally became consistent." Williamson, who won the floor exercises title at the Big Eight and Windy City Invitational earlier this season, is working hard to maintain his consistency in his routines this year.

"I'd like to come up with some totally new tricks. Once I gain the confidence to go beyond a difficult trick, I just go for it," he said. "Lawrence is really working hard and he's really enthusiastic about winning this year." Saluki teammate Brendan Price said.

Williamson, who is not too flexible, has worked on improving his scores. "A vaulter is not too flexible and graceful, so he works on his strength, high tumbling. He knows the desire to get better, and he's very determined," Meade said.

At last year's nationals, Williamson scored a 9.60 on the floor exercise to place 14th as the Salukis finished seventh with a team score of 276.40. This year, he plans to improve greatly and place high in both the floor exercise and the vault at this season's nationals.

"I'd like to become an All-American at least in the floor exercise, but it would be nice to accomplish that in the vault, too," Williamson said.

"Lawrence has a very good chance to be an All-American, and that's a fine accomplishment for a gymnast who came from where he started," Meade said.

Williamson plans to graduate in May, but until then, he hopes he can help some of the younger Salukis improve with some helpful advice and instruction.

"When I first came here, the older guys helped me a lot and I definitely appreciated it. Now I can do it for some of the other guys, especially the freshmen," he said. "I'd say I have a little bit of talent, a good coach, and a lot of determination," he said.

"He's worked hard in school and gymnastics and he's won many championships. I'm very proud of him," Meade said.

Unbeaten men cagers travel to St. Louis

After winning three games at home, the SIU-C men’s basketball team takes its show to the road Wednesday night against the University of Miami. Tip-off is set for 7:35 p.m. at Kiel Auditorium.

“I expect a tough game from them because they almost came back and defeated us last year (69-67) at the Arena,” Saluki Coach Allen Van Winkle said. “They have good outside shooting to bolt to a lead early in the game, but our defense and strong outside shooting will keep us in the game.”

Southern’s pressure defense is too well known to the ball handlers of the Salukis and leads the team in assists with 14.

GRAVER SAID the Billikens have used a variety of defenses this year and won’t key on any particular SIU-C player, because the Salukis are too well balanced inside balanced with each other using three figures.

SIU-C’s starting lineup will consist of point guard Roy Birch (12.3) and off guard Nate Buftord (15.3), forward Bernard Campbell (10.7) and Cleveland Bibbens (11.3), and center Kenny Perry (10.3). Through the first three games, Van Winkle has been pleased with the Billikens’ shooting (54.6 percent from the field) and defense and has been pleased with their rebinding. They have rebounded by a 92-61 margin.

GraVer said the Billikens are so strong that they can still win even if one of its players in a number of ways. Each school has a balanced scoring attack, a forward leading the team in rebounds and three-made defense.

No. 1 grid team has hard shoes to fill

Who’s No. 1?

That’s a question that probably will be debated till the end of time.

Every year, there is some sort of dispute over which college team should be No. 1, and every year someone is left unsatisfied.

This year, Brigham Young is 13-0 but many coaches remember that year when No. 1 Nebraska in the Orange Bowl. But Auburn felt it deserved that No. 1 spot, who felt Oklahoma should be the No.1-ranked team. It’s par for the course.

The Salukis’ men’s basketball team’s weakness will be challenged by the strength of the Western Kentucky University Lady Toppers when they travel to Bowling Green, Wednesday night. The game will start at 2:30 p.m.

"We are capable of playing with anybody if we can win if we do what we’re supposed to. But we aren’t good enough to win and then some," Coach Cim Scott said. "Western Kentucky plays pressure defenses to try and make you mistakes and win enough at that so they may have a chance to win." More confidence and composure would help eliminate Saluki mistakes, Scott said.

Scott said the Salukis also need to stop about nine or so Lady Toppers who play even more than they did in the past.

"They are very sound, and we have to get them to get into the game and I hope they have a good game," Scott said. "The Salukis must be in the top 10 of the game. It will be a tough game. SIU-C will once again have to be patient on the offensive end.
