The Illinois Division of Labor Law Enforcement will investigate several off-campus resident hall cafeteria contracts in connection with the minimum wage laws, said a spokesman for the department in Marion.

A complaining, officials of one cafeteria with a location below the minimum wage, has been filed with the Illinois Department of Labor by the spokesman.

Several student kitchen workers at Stevenson Hall have filed a complaint that they are earning less than the minimum wage.

A slightly improved minimum wage rate, has been filed with the Illinois Department of Labor by the spokesman.

Money problems slow down women's transit system

By Jean Verna
Staff Writer

Despite a delay in funding from SIU, the Women's Transit Program expects to get its service in gear by Thursday, Marie Kingsbury, coordinator of the program, says.

The transit service, designed to reduce possible rapes by providing transportation for women who would otherwise travel alone, was to begin Wednesday.

However, SIU's part of the funding obligation was not yet available. Thursday Kingsbury said the SIU money was necessary to begin the service because it would have paid $8, the rental of a van to be used in the program. She estimated the cost of the van at $15 per month.

The University's problem is in deciding which accounts to draw its $1,206 payment for the service from. Kingsbury said

Although Kingsbury expects the University to come through with the funds within a few weeks, she said SIU would notify the city of the delay in a letter so that city funding could be started. "SIU is still negotiating where the funds will come from," Kingsbury explained. "Carroll Fry (Carbondale city manager) said he would release us the part of the funding he has if he receives the University's letter.

The cost for the 3-month pilot program is $3,100. Kingsbury said over three-fourths of the budget will be divided between the city and the research fund.

The remainder of the budget will be supplied by the $25 donations which will be charged for use of the van service, and by the Women's Center.

Offering evening service, the vans will run from 6 p.m. to 1 a.m. on Friday and Saturday, and from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. Sunday through Thursday - a total of 26 hours per week.

Kingsbury said the women's transit van will leave on each hour from the Women's Center and make 10 stops:
- At 00:00 the van will stop at the Morris Library book drop parking lot.
- At 00:15 the van will stop at the turnaround between Woody Hall and the Home Economics Building.
- At 00:16 the van will stop at Thompson Point intersection on Lincoln Drive.
- At 00:30 the van will stop at the Student Center circle drive.
- At 00:45 the van will stop at Park Street north of Grenele (6SI).
- At 00:55 the van will stop at the intersection of University and Grand streets.
- At 00:56 the van will stop at the City Hall parking lot south of the Fire Department.
- At 01:00 the van will stop at the East Gate Shopping Center, near the phone booth.
- At 01:45 the van will stop at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale's north parking lot.

The van will then return to the Women's Center on the hour. Emergency stops will be made for women who call the Women's Center at 622-6047. "The van will veer from routes for emergency calls," Kingsbury said, but she stressed that special stops would be made only for stranded travelers.

Mais are restricted from using the transit service. Kingsbury noted.

'\nIt's curtains' for dormitory windows

By Lesl Amend

"A closed window will really be a pane in the glass." The slogan in part of the East Campus Resident Affairs Council's (ECRAC) campaign to prevent windows in the high-rise dorms from being sealed shut.

University Housing is planning to indefinitely close the windows in both University Park and Brush Towers if any additional objects are thrown from the windows, said Steve Warnelis, ECRAC director. Housing's action comes as a result of continued damage and injury caused by objects thrown from windows in high-rises.

Last semester, a Neely resident's leg was cut by a bottle thrown from Mac Smith and a maintenance worker was also injured. Warnelis said Cushman truck windows have been broken by water-filled balloons thrown from Brush Tower windows.

Two-inch stops are being placed on the upper floor windows in Mac Smith overlooking the loading dock where most incidents have occurred, according to Sherry Miller, coordinator of resident life.

A Schneider Tower custodian said stops have been placed on windows on several of the upper floors. ECRAC plans to spend between $500 and $300 on at least three poster campaigns informing students windows will be sealed shut if any objects are thrown out of them, Warnelis said.

ECRAC has worked for the last three years to keep the windows open, Warnelis said, but the council recommended that all areas cause window stops to two inches if another incident occurs.

"We can no longer support keeping the windows open if these incidents continue," Warnelis said. "Having windows open is a privilege, not a right." Warnelis said that many Brush Towers residents do not realize they may be evicted from the housing area for throwing things out of windows because the guidebook does not state this. University Park and Thompson Point's guidebooks do.

1. AC plans to distribute cards informing residents of the possible consequences if they are caught, but Warnelis said he would like to see the guidebooks standardized on this point.

Although Gasser, housing's associate director of operations, said the difference in the guidebooks is the area management approach to the situation.

Doctor fears 'terror reign' in mental health code

CHICAGO (AP) - A "reign of terror" would be unleashed in Illinois if proposed changes in the state mental health code are approved, the past president of the Illinois Psychiatric Society, said Thursday.

Similar changes in California's laws were followed by 72 murders, suicides and "other unfortunate incidents," added Dr. Alan J. Spadoni.

In testimony before the legislature's Special Joint Committee on Revision of the Mental Health Code, Spadoni said the proposed changes are "unreasonably narrow" and would interfere with a doctor's judgment in an "voluntary commitment case."

The proposed changes would prohibit involuntary commitment of persons unless they have committed an "act that shows" them to be dangerous or helpless.

More than 6,000 persons were involuntarily committed to state and public mental hospitals in Illinois last year, Spadoni said.

He said the proposed " overt act" requirement would delay treatment until a patient hurts himself or someone else. "What's the point of them dying with their rights on," he asked.

The changes are also objected to a proposal that doctors issue warnings similar to the Miranda warnings given to criminal suspects by police officers.

"Doctors are not policemen and are not criminals," said Dr. Robert De Vita, director of the Illinois Department of Mental Health, testified Tuesday that the proposed revisions "go too far" toward protecting the rights of a patient over society.

The changes were before the Governor's Commission on Mental Health, which President George Bush appointed last week.

Joseph Schneider of Chicago.

Schneider testified Wednesday that the proposed changes were part of a "continuing" of recent court decisions and federal laws designed to protect patients rights.

Schneider warned that if the state didn't voluntarily make changes, the federal government would force the changes.

Southern Barbecue deserves better deal

"Good evening, Mr. and Mrs. Mideast. Can this marriage be saved? Our panel of experts here in the studio is waiting to hear the story of your wedded bliss and fix the blame. Would you like to go first, Mrs. Mideast?"

"So, call me Israel. All I wish to say is for 30 years we have been married and never a moment's peace. Fight, fight, fight. In 1972—on Yom Kippur, mind you—he hit me when I wasn't looking. That's fair! Since then..."

"Hold up, Israel. What do you have to say to that, Mr. Mideast?"

"You may call me Egypt and she had it coming. In 1967, she treacherously threw me out of my half the house when I wasn't looking. Now she won't let me back in and she tells everybody it's my fault because..."

"Let you back in, you'll murder me in my bed the way you tried in '66, you no good..."

"What about '56 when you and your friends ganged up to kick me around. For two paintiers, I'd..."

"Pleased! Please! Egypt and Israel, let's break it up. And speaking of that, Israel, we understand you two have had a trial separation since 1972..."

"That's right. The marriage was a trial; the separation was a trial. All I ask is he should leave me alone. But, no, he's got to come sneaking around, flowers in hand, saying he wants to make up. Make up? Make trouble, I say..."

"I am a saint and that's the thanks I get from her. I humble myself to call, bat in hand. All my relatives tell me I'm crazy. No, they want him to be. It's so sad, I went to an old friend, the Goldmine, and he pointed out the changed environment..."

"Millions of relatives he's got and every single one hates me. I should want a family like that in my house?"

"Your house? Listen here...

"Please, Egypt, put down that chair. Thank you. I want to hear what happened to the reconciliation. Here's a picture of the two of you with your arms around each other taken only last month. You look like a couple of lovers...

"A temporary aberration. I make him a nice little dinner at which I inform in a friendly way that he's a cock-eyed baboon. So he goes home and tells the whole world I'm a cheap Shylock. Talk about your anti-Semitic Semites!"

"Thank you, Israel. Tell us, Egypt, are you two now not speaking?"

"I don't know. What day is it?"

"Thank you, Egypt. Have our experts reached a decision? They have! Oh, it's good news, Egypt and Israel. Apparently it's over. Apparently it's over. Apparently it's over..."

"What do you have to say to that?"

"End of the line for this marriage. We both..."

"...will be free to live together now..."

"...and that's the end of our interview. Back to the studio..."

Mr. and Mrs. Mideast: Can this marriage be saved?

By Art Hoppe

Southern Barbecue was denied a liquor license last week by the Carbondale Liquor Control Commission because the commission said it wanted to halt the spread of liquor businesses on South Illinois Avenue. But the Liquor Control Commission doesn't always follow its own guidelines when it considers license applications.

The commission needs to develop clear guidelines and apply them equitably and fairly. Its present policies are both inconsistent and arbitrary.

Seventeen businesses were granted liquor licenses in June: Silverbell, the Goldmine, Truck-On-In (now Le Bistro), Papa C's, American Tap, Pagliai's Pizza, Booby's, Emperor's Palace, Merlin's, Jim's Pizza, El Greco's, Quatro's Pizza, Buffalo Bob's, Das Fas, Pizza King, Gatsby's and The Club.

Most of the licenses granted in June were renewals or upgrades of existing licenses. But the city has to reexamine liquor licenses every year. Its reappraisal of these licenses makes a mockery of its alleged campaign against liquor in the downtown area.

The commission also issued a brand new liquor license last year. Just a few blocks down the street from Southern Barbecue is Hangar 9, a bar which will soon open. Allowing a new tavern in the middle of the "strip," while denying a liquor license to an established and reputable business like Southern Barbecue indicates the commission should examine its whimsical use of power.

Southern Barbecue requested a liquor license to compete with other downtown restaurants that already serve liquor. Pagliai's Pizza, Booby's, Quatro's Pizza, Jim's Pizza, Papa C's, the Goldmine and Emperor's Palace are restaurants within a few blocks of Southern Barbecue. All of them hold liquor licenses. The city's denial of a license to Southern Barbecue creates an unnecessary burden for that restaurant in competing with neighboring establishments for customers.

In addition, the facilities, restrooms and general cleanliness of Southern Barbecue far surpass those of many neighboring bars.

Commission member Helen Westberg has said businesses would be discouraged from moving to Carbondale if the number of liquor establishments continues to increase on South Illinois Avenue. But capricious action like this by an elected membership would encourage businesses to come to Carbondale; it will only discourage them from coming here.

Examples of the commission's inconsistency abound. When it denied a liquor license to Dairy King (now Deli King) in September, the commission reasoned that it wanted to prevent further expansion of the liquor business in the downtown area. When the commission denied Bogart's liquor license in April, it cited a lack of parking spaces for the proposed restaurant-bar.

But not all of the bars on Illinois Avenue don't have adequate parking facilities. Why was Bogart's singled out for a denial?

The real reason that Bogart's was denied a license was because the bar's proposed location would have been near: the First National Bank.

The commission's latest action simply makes no sense. Why deny a liquor license to a reputable family establishment, Southern Barbecue (which had a liquor license until it voluntarily gave it up in 1972), and then hand one out to a couple of bars on Illinois Avenue?

Westberg said the commission gave liquor license approval to Hangar 9 because it didn't want to discriminate against the young men who own the bar. Apparently it's okay for the commission to discriminate against a 50-year-old establishment, Southern Barbecue.

Southern Barbecue deserves a better deal from the city it has served for more than half a century.

And the Liquor Control Commission should change to "eency-meeny-miny-moe" method of deciding who gets liquor licenses in Carbondale.

Student workers keep registration going

Almost everyone associated with SIU is aware of the problems that were encountered with getting this spring semester underway.

Weather conditions, combined with a major computer break down particularly affected our operations in registration. We lost two full days of processing program changes and late registrations. This period caused a backup of thousands of individual transactions.

It could have been a disaster, but for a small group of individuals, there weren't tall roads or huge snows, but they worked day and night behind the scenes to process the many changes and registrations needed by our students. They were not faculty or civil service people, but they helped our students.

Not all landlords are 'common enemies of students'

For every rule there is an exception, so I'd like to take the opportunity to point out that not all landlords are the "common enemy of students," as voiced by Judith Anderson in Tuesday's Daily Egyptian.

For the past three years, I've lived at 906 E. Park St. The owner, Randall Chapman, has been the epitome of the good landlord. Chapman lives on the premises and he stresses that he is always available if problems should occur.

Last winter it was Chapman who dragged the gas man out at 3 a.m. to refill the empty propane tanks. and it was Chapman who lay on his back in the slush, thawing out frozen pipes while his wife served hot soup to the and lighted match welfare.

Poor snow removal handicaps wheelchair students

Last night I had the fortune and misfortune to help a handicapped person in a wheelchair to campus.

As we walked, she explained to me the hardships she has faced this past winter. She said cars and the ice were the main hazards. Furthermore, she explained, the snow covers up those paths, sidewalks and entrances that are niced with snow. It's hard enough for students to walk through that, but it's virtually impossible for those confined to wheelchairs.

I escorted the woman to class because the snow conditions seemed to warrant my assistance. I was shocked to see that a University of such magnitude could not afford better snow removal services for its students, especially the handicapped.

From this experience, I remember how fortunate I am to be able to walk. My misfortune was in learning there is a GUT in my other.

I realize there was a great amount of snow, but let me tell you, wheeIing this woman to class was a very tiring and strenuous ordeal for me, and I am a healthy, walking person. Imagine being confined to a wheelchair. I give them all a lot of credit, and share with you my disappointment in SIU's snow removal methods.

Paradox: U.S. support of both human rights and Iran

I ask Grandjean Yves' (letter, Jan. 31 D.E.) forgiveness for my misunderstanding of his concern for the oppressed in Iran. However, I don't think he realized the paradox we have here in the United States.

Our economy is based on free enterprise. That is the reason our country is so strong. We would like to see the same thing happen in the Third World but as well as we are. Why do you think we give support to countries like Iran, South Africa and the Philippines? We are supporting their human rights.

Unfortunately, some small people get stepped on, but after all, it is for the betterment of their country.

Amtrak critic failed to understand history of American railroads

This letter is in reply to an article which appeared in the Dec. 7 D.E. by Daniel Condiese, a student writer. The article dealt with Condiese's apparent disagreement with an editorial reprinted to him by Amtrak.

Mr. Condiese really know what he said when he made the statement that Amtrak's motive should be: "We don't care and we don't have to. Amtrak didn't care they would have given up five years ago when they really were in trouble. They had so many averaged, overloaded and unreliable cars that the railroads wanted to just give them away. But they, stuck it out and bought new cars and engines, and upgraded older equipment. Next time you ride the train, take a glance at the underframe to see where the cars were built. They even paid railroads to upgrade their roadbeds for higher speeds."

I surmise Condiese never tried to run a transportation system, especially a railway system, when he stated that Amtrak ran only one reserved train on such a busy traveling date. What about the other 30 completely reserved trains that Amtrak ran that day from other destinations?

The conductor is right when he told Condiese that Amtrak didn't have enough passenger cars. Of course they have extra cars in storage for emergencies, but you can only have so many extra cars for each train before you run out.

Maybe Condiese doesn't understand the history behind Amtrak. American railroads, with the exception of a few, wanted out of the passenger business because they lost money. The Amtrak National Railroad Passenger Corp., it knew that too many railroads ran passenger trains on chaotic on today's highways. The best thing that Congress did was to pass the ion, which sent railroads to all means of passenger transportation in economical and pleasurable way to realize Amtrak.

Start collecting overdue
staff parking violations

As a student who has paid an overwhelming amount of parking fines for parking privileges on campus. I cringe to think of the accumulated $18.89 worth of parking fines that remains unpaid by the faculty and staff. Furthermore, the recently released facts that 45 percent of the registration and student office staff over $50, and former employees owe $1,962 are disturbing.

It is not justifiable for students who fail to pay their parking fines to be placed on Bursar's hold, which prevent them from registering, and for staff and staff fines to be overlooked for such a long period of time. We, as concern. Class representatives claim that no efforts have begun to collect the funds suggests that this matter seems to be of little importance.

However, as a student, I feel this matter is of great importance and should be corrected. It seems to me the students have the right to the advantage of and compensation should be made.

Tryouts scary but satisfying

Your hands begin to sweat. Then you feel a slow chill run up your spine. Your legs begin to shake rather uncontrollably and your mouth feels like it's going to pop right out of your head.

But when it's all over... a feeling of actualized terror soaks your nervous stomach.

The temporary nervous condition might be prevalent among actors, actresses, and dancers auditioning for the Summer Playhouse '74 on Saturday.

Auditions begin at 10 a.m. Saturday at the University Press in the Communications Building.

Anyone auditioning should have a one-minute monologue and two songs prepared. An accompanist will be provided.

Tap dancers should bring their tap shoes and have a short routine to perform.

The shows to be performed this summer are: "Come Blow Your Horn," a comedy by Neil Simon; "Anything Goes," a musical by Cole Porter; "The Unexpected Guest," a play by Agatha Christie, and "Man of La Mancha," a musical by Mitch Leigh and Joe Darwell.

The score for "Come Blow Your Horn" is for three males and four females.

The story revolves around a character who is the owner of a bawdy, artificial fruit business, and her two sons, Hans and Buddy. Buddy, the more conservative and obedient son, rebels and moves out with his playboy brother. Hans. Comic complications ensue.

"Anything Goes" is a musical on shipboard. A big tap-dancing show, the plot concerns a woman,"Get A Kick Out Of You." "Anything Goes," and "Blow Gabriel, Blow" - "The Unexpected Guest" requires seven males and three females. The melodrama concerns a stropper who walks into a house to find a man murdered and his wife standing over him with a gun. "Man of La Mancha," a musical based on the playwright Miguel de Cervantes and his novel, Don Quixote, has three lead roles - Quixote, Sancho and Aldonza.

A company of 25 singers, actors and dancers will be hired to perform the two plays and musicals.

Weekend Music

By Mary Field

Big Twist and the Mellon Fellows aren’t so morose anymore. The group, probably Carbondale’s finest rhythms and blues act, broke up on New Year’s Eve.

Pete Special, guitar/manager of the band said the breakup was due mainly to the fact the band was burned out as a group. We were playing the same opening acts four nights a week for a long time.

For the last three years the band had been entertaining audiences in the local bars with their own original brand of music, some of it their own original compositions. In those three years the group has gained quite a following among both students and townpeople.

Due to the large following, STMF found that they could work every night if they wanted to.

“We were really in demand, and because we were playing every night, we put little time in rehearsing. We felt everything got stale, so we disbanded,” Terry Ogolini, the group spokesman said.

Special and Ogolini formed the group which, along with Twist Larry Nolam, included: Dennis Best, Ronald West Sr, Ronald West Jr. (Tygo), and Larry Williams.

Ogolini said that with a group that large, everyone began to pull in different directions:

“There was a need for a change.”

The decision for the group to disband was a calculated one according to Special.

“About September we decided to breakup. We wanted till New Year’s Eve because we needed to make a lot of money that night. So we worked together till then, and dissatisfied.

Since the group broke up the members have moved in different directions. Special, Ogolini and Twist are staying together and have moved to Chicago. They are planning on adding a musician or two to supplement their new group, as yet unnamed.

Special said that they already have quite a few bookings and that the new band will be doing a lot of traveling. Big Twist will remain the featured performer in the new band.

As for the other musicians in the group, Tonga and Ronald West Sr. are playing in Dallas Texas. Dennis Best and Springfield playing a gig, and Larry Williams is according to Special,” leaving back to Carbondale for now.

Fan of Big Twist and the Mellon Fellows can look forward to early summer when the band will have an album coming out, comprised of songs recorded before the band broke up.

“Bob and Friends Play Big City Blues” on the Rolling label includes two of the bands regular numbers “Grits Ain’t Groceries” and “We’re Gonna Make It.”

The last song is applicable to the new group because as Twist said.

“The last group was good, but this one’s gonna be better.”

Illinois task force reports forestry not major source of water pollution

By Brenda Hood
Staff Writer

An Illinois task force investigating agriculture-related pollution reports that forestry is not a significant source of water pollution.

"Responsible forestry is not causing a serious water quality problem," Aubertin said. "The problems are caused by a few irresponsible operators." Most problems are not caused by actual forestry practices, he said. The use of the forests by off-road vehicles, the grazing of forests by livestock, and the conversion of forests to other uses are the worst offenders.

A report from each committee will be submitted to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA), which will develop a plan to reduce water pollution in Illinois and give it to Governor Thompson in November. The plan is in keeping with the law that mandates each state to develop a plan providing for fishable and swimable waters by July 1, 1983.

Civil service applicants can take exam in April

Applications to take the U.S. Civil Service Commission Professional and Administrative Career Examination (PACE) must be sent to the CRC Regional Office in Chicago between Feb. 1 and Feb. 28. The examination will be given on a Saturday in April in Lawson Hall. There is no charge.

This is the last opportunity to take the exam this academic year, and the next time it will be given is early 1979.

The test application form may be picked up from the Career Planning and Placement Center at Woody Hall, Room B-304. The PACE is a four and one-half hour written examination used to qualify people with a college degree or equivalent experience for a wide variety of entry-level jobs in Federal agencies across the country.

Two arrested for burglary

Carbondale police have arrested two juveniles in connection with six burglaries in downtown Carbondale in January. John Houston, 17, of Carbondale and a juvenile who police wouldn't identify were arrested Wednesday following an investigation of the burglaries.

Loophole lets stores sell porn, children's books

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A loophole in a new anti-pornography law is allowing adult bookstore owners to carry on as usual by adding more books like "Trip to Tinsland" to shelves that also carry romance reading such as "Bedtime Bondage" and "Red Hot Romances." The state law that became effective Jan. 1 makes illegal "any operation where one type of sex-related business in a single building" but no examples were given. The law was passed in response to complaints by parents who said they were surprised to find adult books in malls and other public places. A loophole lets stores sell porn, children’s books.

Survey indicates rising costs of groceries for the new year

The first month of the new year brought a raft of warnings to shoppers who found a widespread and growing tendency toward higher prices for everything from hamburger along with scattered increases in the price of other items, an Associated Press/Euro Marketeck survey shows.

There was an estimated 3 percent decline in beef production in 1977 and the American Meat Institute predicts a continuing further decline of 3 percent in 1978. There has been particularly sharp drop in the slaughter of ungraded cattle - the kind that wind up as chopped meat and other less expensive cuts. That decrease in supply is expected to boost the price of hamburger by 10 percent to 15 percent this year, the meat institute says.

The AP survey showed that the total bill for the commonly purchased food and non-food products at one supermarket in each of 13 cities rose an average of 1.2 percent during January. That compared with 2.3 percent boost in December.

The survey was based on a random

Canal treaty could reduce risk of armed defense, Carter says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said Wednesday night he would not hesitate to send U.S. troops to defend the Panama Canal — “and I have no doubt that even in sustained combat we would be successful.”

But Carter said the treaty to yield control of the waterway to Panama in the year 2000 would diminish the risk of any need for armed intervention to defend it.

Urging public support for Senate ratification of the Panama Canal treaty, Carter’s firm pledge confronted one of the major points raised by opponents who contend that the pact does not spell out American guarantees.

That opposition argument deals with the situation after the year 2000 when the canal would be under Panamanian control. Carter, of course, would not be president.

In a nationally broadcast and televised “fireside chat,” the second of his year-old presidency, Carter said approval of the treaty is “in the highest national interest of the United States and will strengthen our position in the world.”

He warned that, if the treaty were not approved, over $400 million, the cost of the treaty, due to come up for debate in the Senate next week, “is based on misunderstanding and misinformation.”

Carter said military experts agree even with an alliance with Panama “against the common enemy, it would take a large number of American troops to ward off a heavy attack.”

Carter said there is a much better option than sending out armed guards to fight in the jungles of Panama and that is implementation of the treaty.

He said that will help to avoid any attack on the Panama Canal.

The president argued that ratification will strengthen U.S. security interests, improve trade opportunities, honor a commitment to keep the canal open to world commerce at a fair price and “demonstrate that as a large and powerful country we are able to deal fairly and honorably with a group but smaller sovereign nation.”

Technically, there are two Panama Canal treaties, one covering the rest of the century and the other guaranteeing the waterway’s safety, openness and neutrality after Panama takes over.

The treaties also have overwhelming support throughout Latin America,” said Carter. “But predictably they are opposed abroad by some who are unfriendly to the United States and who would like to see disorder in Panama and a disruption of our political, economic and military ties with our friends in Central and South America and in the Caribbean.

“I know the treaties also have been opposed by many Americans. Much of that opposition is based on misunderstanding and misinformation. I have found that when the full terms of the agreement are known, most people are convinced that the national interests of our country will be served best by ratifying the treaties.”

The president said the treaties meet all the requirements demanded during 13 years of negotiations under four presidents of both parties:...

“... That our national security interests would be protected; that the canal would always be open, neutral and available to ships of all nations; that in time of need or emergency our ships would have the right to go to the head of the line for passage through the canal.”

UMW strike continues, draining coal reserves

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The strike by 10,000 United Mine Workers that entered its 16th day Thursday, tying a record for the union’s longest nationwide walkout as it drains the nation’s energy reserves and evokes memories of the longest strike of the past 10 days.

The illnesses are similar to those in 1970, the year a 26-day walkout won the union a pay increase and its first health and welfare fund.

Today the miners want better wages and health and pension benefits. Meanwhile, in 1970, the strike had cut the nation’s coal production and was creating energy shortages.

The current strike has halved nationwide coal production, and power companies serving Maryland, Ohio, Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia have asked customers to cut back electricity use. Columbus, Ohio, has shut off street lights and increased police patrols.

During the 1970 strike, by 600,000 UMW members, the government ordered a 350 percent over 22 Eastern states to conserve electricity.

Another similarity is the health and welfare fund issue. In 1970, President Johnson suggested doubt about legality of a UMW demand that such a fund be financed by contributions on each ton of coal.

The proposal was adopted, but today the union has found its health and welfare funds weakened by inflation and the wildcat strikes which have reduced the royalties the operators pay.

Health benefits were cut last July 1, and stopped when the strike began Dec. 6. Many retired miners received their last pension check in January.

The terms under discussion when negotiations broke off have not been made public.

International program to promote friendships

By Ray Vadek
Staff Writer

An International F-leadership program to promote interaction between American and foreign students is being initiated by the Mobilization of Volunteer Effort (MOVE), with the help of the International Student and Faculty Affairs Office.

"The idea is to pair an American student with an international student to develop a friendship," said John Woodall, MOVE coordinator for campus involvements.

"Since about 1,100 foreign students from 80 nations are represented at SIU, the campus offers a unique international environment," Woodall said.

"I know a lot of people who would like to take advantage of that fact," Woodall said.

While developing a unique friendship, persons involved in the program will gain an appreciation of the culture and language of their friend. Woodall said.

Although the friendship program has no formal structure, Woodall said MOVE, a clearinghouse for placing student volunteers in appropriate agencies throughout the community, plans to work within the structure of programs sponsored by the International Student and Faculty Affairs Office and the Bahai Club.

The organizations are involved in promoting concepts of world unity.

"The framework is already there," he said. "There are all kinds of things going on. It's just a matter of getting the names together."

Woodall said he hopes to start the program as soon as possible, perhaps initiating it as an international function on campus.

"I'll match people as soon as I get names. Initially, I want to get everybody together," Woodall said.

The International Festival from Feb. 17-19 in the Student Center would serve as a good vehicle to get the program started, Woodall said.

Woodall said once the program is established by MOVE, it may be turned over to the Bahai Club for administration.

Job Interviews

The following are on campus jobs scheduled at the Career Planning and Placement Center for Thursday, Feb. 9. For interview appointments and additional information, students should contact the Career Planning and Placement Center at Woody Hall Room 230. Students must have a resume on file with the Placement Center before they can sign up for an interview appointment.

Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., New York: Sales management development program. This is a program of approximately five years designed to provide a sound background in sales and sales management. Public given chance to say whether state officials should get pay raises SPRINGFIELD (AP) - Private citizen will have a chance next week to say whether they think government officials, judges and legislators in Illinois should get pay raises.

The blue-ribbon committee formed to study this question announced it will hold a public hearing at 10 a.m. Tuesday at the State of Illinois building in Chicago.

Maurice Scott, executive director of the committee, said the group could make its recommendations for the next governor.

Top math scorers in classes named

The names of the top scorers in all mathematics classes, based on final examinations, have been released by the Mathematics Department.

About 3,300 students participated in the course. The top scorers are:

The salary study committee, whose 28 members are appointed by Gov. James R. Thompson, was created by the Illinois General Assembly and is chaired by former Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro.

Shapiro has split the committee into three subcommittees, one to study salaries of executive officers and government agency heads, another for legislators' salaries and a third for judges' pay.

The executive subcommittee has recommended hefty across-the-board pay raises for about 60 government officials, including a $20,000-a-year salary boost in $75,000 for the governor.

Pat Quinn, a member of the subcommittee considering judges' salaries, said he is lining up public groups to testify against giving salary increases to anyone.

"I don't think anyone has proven that they deserve salary increases," Quinn has said.

Scott said each subcommittee is scheduled to make salary proposals following Tuesday's hearings.

Hearst asks conviction review

WASHINGTON (AP) — Newspaper heiress Millicent Hearst asked the Supreme Court to review her conviction for taking part in a 1974 bank robbery with members of the radical Symbionese Liberation Army.

Miss Hearst, now 33, was sentenced to seven years in prison in 1978 and is currently free on a $1 million bond under the condition that she live with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph A. Hearst, in La Jolla, Calif., near the high court.

In her brief filed with the high court, Miss Hearst’s lawyer, F. Lee Bailey, said her conviction was based in part on evidence of participation in a later holding at a Los Angeles sporting goods store.

Bailey said the facts of that crime should not have been admitted during the bank robbery trial. He said the bank robbery charges were in no way similar in other crimes. Miss Hearst allegedly took part in a dismissal of a cocaine loan to a room in Los Angeles.

They provide, he said, “no logical nexus in the crime for which the defendant was being tried.”

Full refunds won't be given after Friday

Full tuition refunds for school withdrawals will not be given after Friday, the last day to file for reimbursement, Sally Wason, student life coordinator, said Thursday.

Refunds may still be obtained as long as the student completes the paperwork involved in a refund by Friday, Wason said. Students may do so in person or by phone. Students must do so by 5 p.m. to 7 a.m. on the Student Life Office, Barracks 7-40.

Although two school deadlines have been extended between four and 10 days, no extension will be made for applying for tuition refunds.

"Likely we have more students getting refunds than we have had so far," Wason said.

Spring enrollment up

Spring semester enrollment at SIU is 11,714 students, up 27 from last year.

The total includes 19,775 students at the campus itself and 1,300 at off-campus sites such as military bases.

Full semester enrollment was 52,397.

Kery Browning, director of admissions and records, said spring totals show 17,708 undergraduates, 3,977 graduate students and 411 students in the Schools of Law and Medicine.

Swimmers ready for qualifying try at Indiana meet

By Bud Vandersnick

The heavy snows of winter have undoubtedly brought thoughts of spring break and the incoming sunshine of Florida. Skip Renner is one who has spring "week on his mind, but he then do not include playing golf, hall...a the beach.

The dates of March 16-18 will be a motivating factor for the women as the meet will be held at Bloomington. Those three days in March cannot go unnoticed because the IAAN women "break the sand" meet at Duke will be held at that time. Renner was not too sure if this will be the future.

"I want to see some people qualify for the nationals this weekend," Renner explained. "The qualifying times are scheduled to be the first time that we are taking a real shot at it. I'd like to have some girls qualify and get it over with."

Senior Mindy McCurdy is the only swimmer who has qualified for the women's nationals. The Springfield native broke the barrier in the women's 50-Yard freestyle Feb. 8 when she recorded a time of 26.31 at the Mboro Invitational. Renner was not too sure if this will be the future.

"We have cut down on our yardage considerably this week to concentrate on more quality work," Renner said. "The girls know how important this meet is and they know that we have to do it well.

The invitational will be a long-distance meet, as usual, with several and 400 Yard events. The 50 freestyle will be the shortest event and the 1,000 freestyle will be the longest. Both the medley relay and freestyle relay will be 400 yards in length.

Swimmers will be allowed to compete in as many as five events, but Renner said Mary Jane Sheets and Pam Jolly are the only Salukis to earn the maximum qualification of five events. Other swimmers as long as possible.

"I am concerned about the individual one times that I am with winning the meet. I want the girls to be able to concentrate on their events. It won't be like the Saluki Invitational when everybody swam five events."

Next week the Salukis will have an opportunity to swim before the home fans. They will compete against Eastern Illinois at 6 p.m. Wednesday at the Recreation Building. The recently-scheduled meet will be the women's first home meet of the season.

Gymnasts' coach looks ahead

By Steve Canran
Sports Writer

If rest from competition helps a team to perform better, the women's gymnastics team from the University of Louisville and the University of Kentucky figures to have their hands full in their double dual meet with the Salukis Saturday at Louisville. SIU has had three meets cancelled since its last meet, the Northern Illinois meet Jan. 31. The Salukis captured the top four scores in both the vaulting and all-around events in that meet en route to their first-place finish.

Coach Herb Vogel recalls last year's meet against Louisville, which ended with SIU on top, 106-103. "Last year, the only difference between the two teams was depth," Vogel said. "Louisville had a leading performer to pull down the meet.

This year's Louisville team has five leading freshmen on its squad and along with Kentucky, which is considered to be the most competitive team in the Southeastern Conference, should provide some excellent competition. But Vogel looks at the meet differently. "It will be a chance for us to warm up for the Indiana State meet," he said. (The Salukis are scheduled to take on IU at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Athena.) "We will be trying to recover a bit of pride after losing a dual meet to them last season for the first time."

The Salukis, 7-0 on the year, started the season with what Vogel called his "no-name offense." SIU led the All-American returning from the previous season in sophomores Cindy Moran and Junior Linda Nolos but that summed up the Saluki experience of the team—the rest of the team consisted of four freshmen—Chris Wunsch, Pam Anderpol, Pati T chemical, Ellen Barrett. SIU did gain a little more experience at the end of last semester when it picked up sophomore transfer student Maurice Hamms, and also added freshman Linda Nolos to its roster.

But those names are unknown to women's gymnastics followers are making them names known and known well.

While Moran and Nelson are performing at All-American levels, the freshmen have been performing admirably. Barrett has come up with a 9.4 score in vaulting, which earned her a first place. Vogel gambled a little bit to improve all the women's scores in vaulting. He has all his gymnasts doing doubles, quadrupling vaults.

"As last year's nationals, the first four places were won by people doing double-quadrupling vaults," Vogel said. "They were the only rules that gave us some competition to do them so we've been emphasizing the girls' vault vaults in the past.

But we're gambling because if we pass them, (don't land right) we don't get any points at all."

Johnson: Future bright for Tulsa

By Jim Minnemas
Staff Writer

The weather bureau forecast for hurrican* at all bad news—high winds, rain, flooding. That's why the Tulsa Golden Hurricane basketball team could be "mildly-bad news" over this year's 24 Missouri Valley Conference (MVC) record and 214 met performance overall. It is a big start, Lester Johnson, a 6-4 forward (Tulsa, Okla.), who could be in for smoother sailing. We've got six of our last eight conference games at home, Johnson said. Our last two opponents, Golden Hurricane basketball squad this season has been injuries. Tom Vincent, its starting center, James Johnson, and Ed Lundblad have been sidelined for the meet with two injuries. Steve McDowell, Bob Stevenson and Jim Lacy were all injured, but have returned for duty.

"We've seen it all," noted Johnson. "We've had all those injuries, and it's just a matter of getting healthy games for the conference tour-

Tulsa began its homestand with a game against Missouri State. The Salukis visited Tulsa for a 7:30 p.m. game and won 87-80. Johnson, a sophomore, came to Tulsa after spending one year at Iowa Western Junior College. Johnson said he was forced to attend a junior college because he earned a 3.9 grade point average at high school. NCAA rules state an athlete must be at least 19 years old to compete in sports in freshman year. He said he had not yet decided whether he would be eligible as a freshman because a number of schools from recruiting him. He went on to average 21 points and 12 rebounds a game this year.

Johnson has averaged 15 points and nine rebounds a game to lead Tulsa in both categories. He scored 16 points and garnered nine rebounds against SIU in Tulsa's 87-80 loss Jan. 14 at the Arena.

Women cagers to play two on road

By Bud Vandenheuck
Sports Editor
There is a sign that is often seen at Salukion home basketball games that says, "We're rollin' now! zaw Cindy Scott says her women's basketball team is not yet worthy of that slogan, but she admits that two wins this weekend could persuade her to change her mind.

The women will take a modest two-game winning streak and a 5-2 record to Terra Haute, Ind. for games with Ball State Friday night and Indiana State Saturday afternoon. Scott will be trying to avoid the Terra Haute jinx that has seemingly befallen another team in that city. Remember "The Larry and Harry Show?"

The second of the Salukins' two wins last weekend was a 61-48 decision over Illinois State, the second state defending state champions. It was the second win of the season for the Salukis over the Redbirds.

Although Scott was pleased about the weekend's results she lost part of her smile after going to the movies.

"After looking at the films of the games I saw that we were still making far too many turnovers," Scott explained. "We could have played better."

Scott's smile returned after watching her team in practice this week. She said she has been working on new things and she is anxious to see if any benefits will be received in this week's drills.

"We can shoot anybody if we play as we have in practice this week," Scott praised. "We have been working on running the ball and our break has looked good. We're playing the best we have all year."

The first-year coach has seen, what he termed "a much improved defense all year, but her team has not responded. She said a concerted effort will be made to speed up the game this weekend.

On defense Scott has had a security blanket in the form of a 1-3-1 zone defense. She is also ready to shed that to a certain extent in favor of a man-to-man defense.

She said she may open both games in a man-to-man defense and she hopes to switch defenses often during the course of the games.

The Salukas defeated both Ball State and Indiana State last year, but Scott said she knows nothing about the this year's versions of the Cardinals and Sycamores. Ball State is 2-1 on the season and Indiana State is 4-3. Ball State's base was a 90-52 decision in Indiana, a team that占1 defeated 62-30 in December.

The games are important for the women cagers because they could have a bearing in post-season play.

"We have won both games because both Ball State and Illinois State are in our region (Midwest)," Scott said. "Only the state champions get an automatic bid to the conference tournament, so we have to have a good record to give us an at-large team. You can't afford to lose to anyone in your region."

Bonnie Foley is the team's leading scorer after eight games with a 16.30 average. She is followed by freshman Sue Faber at 13.30 and junior Jori Huffman at 12.4. That front court trio will be joined in the scoring lineup by sophomores Lynne Williams and junior Sue Schaeffer. Scott said Robin Dernyc, Jill Pomeranze and Helen Meyer should also see plenty of playing time.

Scott is happy about those scoring numbers on the front line, but she hopes to get more point production from Williams and Schaeffer. She also hopes Pomeranze can provide some scoring punch off the bench.

Snowy days...will be here.

Late surge leads Salukis past Drake

By Bud Vanderbilt

The fact that Drake has played many good teams close is nothing new to Coach Bob Ortega. He would like to win one of those close ones.

He and his Bulldogs were in the same boat Thursday night as they dropped a 15-4 decision to the Salukis, who came from behind in the last two minutes to steal the victory, 90-87. It was Saluki Coach Lew Hartzog's 100th career victory at Williams, and he took his bulldogs from two points behind to win.

The Saluki score sheet undoubtedly had Coach Paul Lambert singing praises because he had four players in double figures, three of whom scored over 20 points. Milton Huggins led Saluki with 27 points and his four free throws in the last 13 seconds put the game on ice. Barry Smith also had a career-high 25 points and his basket gave the Salukis the lead for good at 86-85. Gary Wilson added 20 points and was followed by Wayne Abrana with 18 and Chris Giles with 8.

Wilson's 20 points pushed him past the 1,000 mark in career points and he is now 18th on the all-time SIU scoring list.

Drake center used his 8-4 frame well, controlling the boards and scoring a game-high 20 points. Napoleon Gaither added 16 and Wayne Kreekow had 15.

The Salukis had a 10-point lead late in the first half, but any thoughts they had of a rout dissipated when the Bulldogs came hot in the second half, cutting SIU's margin to 42-40 at the intermission.

The Drake surge continued after the second half tip-off when Nelson scored the first five points of the half. The Bulldogs led for much of the second half.

Smith's heroics began when he made two free throws to cut Drake's lead to 81-80 with a little over two minutes remaining. Wilson added a basket after Nelson made two free throws, but two more free throws by Gaither kept Drake in front by three, 85-83.

Gibbons then scored one of his tournament-high six three-pointers and the Salukis' third Valley road trip should begin with a win.

Illinois heavyweight Pete Froehlich defeated SIU's Ken Karrwowski 15-4 in the final bout to break a 16-16 tie as the Illini toppled the Salukis 20-16 in a dual wrestling match Thursday night at the Activities Building.

The loss dropped SIU's dual match record to 5-10. Illinois is 1-2. SIU hosts Oklahoma Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. at the A.B. at the Friday in its next match.

Saluki Jon Starr defeated Al Sullivan because of an injured shoulder after 57 seconds in a 134-pound bout and Illinois led 10-6.

But Hibbs and Eggert posted consecutive wins for a 13-5 SIU lead after five matches.

Hibbs displayed an aggressive style as he took down John Clay (2-2) in the second period to score two points and lead 12-6. Eggert scored a takedown with one second left in the match to edge Ralph Cortez 7-4 in the night's most competitive match. Eggert, who raised his record to 15-8, then scored a takedown and three escapes to Cortez's two takedowns.

Salukis Russ Zintak and Mark Milch are both ranked in the top 16 but they lost to number one and six Illinois.

The Salukis led 12-9 but Saluki Coach Dick Johnston was both disqualified at 190 pounds for stalling.

Chris Giles (with ball) and Gary Wilson seem lowly as they head up the court in the Salukis' game with New Mexico State. Both players were instrumental in SIU's win over Drake last night at Las Alamos.

Saluki-Illini rivalry to renew in Intercollegiates

By George Conklin

Bitter rivalries between sports teams have been known to produce strange effects from the sideline.

Adrenalin begins to flow and blood begins to boil right behind the doors where the teams are preparing for their annual showdown.

Probably the most bitter rivalry in the state is between Illinois and SIU in track and field. Each team knows the other team's weaknesses and they capitalize on them.

Probably the teams are preparing for their annual showdown at the Intercollegiates for the Illinois Intercollegiates.

Saluki Coach Lew Hartog has already tabbed the Illini as favorites in the 20-event meet, but was optimistic about his charges.

"I feel we've come along far enough that we can compete with them," Hartog said. "We've got one of them competing as we quite often do up there. We've got a chance to win it."

Hartog said in reference to his unheralded squad.

The team was able to practice outside the first three days of the week, and spent the day Thursday resting for the meet.

The weather has limited the trackmen to only five days of practice since Jan. 18. "I'm sure the guys will get up for the meet—I know I can get out of our kids—but I know that they will be ready, too," Hartog explained. "Our mile relay runners will run with the best of the other teams."

Bob Roggi, Tim Malcolm, Chip McArthur and Dee Turner will be entered in the high jump and John Marks and Stan Podolski will throw the shot and the javelin respectively and will throw the 20-pound weight.

Busse won the mile for the first half (with O'Hara) an 80-yard dash. Hartog said that George will also be entered in the mile.

Lee and Lively will run the 400-yard dash and Tom Johnson, Clay and Mike DelMattio and Paul Major will pole vault.

Johnson is the defending pole vault champion at the Intercollegiates.

Andy Roberts and Meredith will compete in the high hurdles. Roberts took second last year, Mike Sawyer, who took second in the 1,000-yard run last year at the meet, will be the lone Saluki to compete in the event. Sawyer will also run the 800. He holds the record for the meet with a 1:50 30 set last year. Tom Fitpatrick will also run the 800.

Drumley will run in the 800-yard dash and Mike Kee, Rick Rock and football running back Clarence Robinson will make his debut in the 300-yard dash.

"I'm very disappointed in Kee and Rock in the 300," Hartog said. "They are quality sprinters, but they haven't done well lately. I hope they come around at the meet."

Paul Craig, Dave McAllister and George will run the 800 for SIU.
