Fishel and Hamilton Listed With All-Egyptian Selection

Captain-elect Glenn Fishel and retiring captain Marvin Hamilton of the S. I. N. U. gridiron squad were accorded positions on the all-Egyptian all-stars by the McKendree Review that selects a team each year from four colleges located in Egypt, namely S. I. N. U., McKendree, Blackburn and Shurtleff.

Both men selected probably represent Carbondale's best. Fishel, a veteran of two years, has gained the reputation of being the best linesman in Egypt. He was selected to represent the S. I. N. U. last year as well as this. Marvin Hamilton, retiring captain, is also a veteran of two years, and as the Review states is probably the best fullback presented by any of the four teams concerned.

MAROONS WALLOP SPARKS 49-31

The S. I. N. U. quintet added another victory to its growing string last Friday night when Captain Allen's men romped over the Sparks College five to the tune of a 49-31 score. The game, despite the one-sidedness of the scoring, was fairly fast and interest was kept alive by the floor work and the shooting of the home team. Sparks presented a large and speedy team, but their best efforts failed to beat the defensive work of the Normal whizzes.

The game during the first half promised to be rather closely contested and the Normal was leading by but seven points at the end of the first period. From this point on through the Whizzes began a massacre which resulted in their netting a total of thirty-one more points before Mac withdrew them in order to give the subs a chance. The score would undoubtedly been much larger had the first five played the entire game.

With the exception of Carter the Maroons took turns in scoring, and this was frequent. Captain Allen nearly caused the galleries to give way when he netted a darby long shot from center early in the game. And when he repeated this on two more occasions two hundred mouths opened simultaneously and the girls just gasped, "ain't he grand." Brooks led the scoring with seven baskets to his credit. Valentine and Chance tied for second honor with six apiece. Chance netted three free thrown and Valentine scored one. Smith, substitute, made one field goal. McLane led the scoring for the visitors with five baskets. Fleming was credited with one basket and seven free throws. Warren, the rangy rearward loomed in three and Durland secured one.

The game began with the teams evidently fairly matched in skill, while the visitors outclassed the Maroons in altitude and tonnage. The first period was fast and neither side seemed to be in advantage. Valentine could not make his long shots stay put and failed to score until the latter part of the first when he suddenly began contributing his share via the tip in route, with a tantalizing degree of regularity. From the first minute of play in the second half the Whizzes went on a scoring spree with Chance, Brooks and Valentine perched in the limelight. Basket after basket by the Whizzes, with an occasional marker from Sparks to keep them from being down hearted, caused the score to rise

Y. W. C. A. Cabinet Council

Last Friday evening the Y. W. C. A. cabinet decided to combine pleasure with business in holding their regular council. If fishes could talk we would probably get a more complete account of what took place at the Barrow cabin at Thompson Lake on that evening when the girls the cabinet prepared to spend the night there. They SAY they slept—but we noticed they were very sleepy Saturday for some reason or other. But, whether they slept or not, they were all able to partake heartily of an early (?) breakfast the next morning. After breakfast the forenoon was spent discussing plans and business for the ensuing term. At this time, in addition to the regular business Mrs. Stewart Chandler of our Advisory Board presented the subject in a very able manner. Miss Alice Barrow explained the duties and importance of the office of Undergraduate Representative, commonly spoken of as the "U. R." and a comparatively new office in the Association. Miss Emma Bowyer and Miss Lucy K. Woody, of our Advisory Board, were also with us and assisted very much by their sound counsel.

The Association deeply appreciates the interest shown, and help given us this year by our entire Advisory Board and we regret the other members, Misses Ru' and King, had other duties which prevented their joining us in this Council meeting.

After the adjournment of the business, some of the cabinet amused themselves by a row upon the lake. Hot lunch was served at one o'clock following which the entire cabinet joined in making short work of the fishes and at two o'clock the Barrow cabin was once more enjoying its customary winter peace and quiet.

The cabinet feel very grateful to Dr. and Mrs. Barrow for the loan of their cabin which was the means of such a delightful mid-winter outing.

Like the mercury in thermometer on a Southern Illinois summer day. The latter part of the final half Coach McAndrews substituted the second team. The subs started off good but were unable to score. While Sparks, sensing an opportunity for a little revenge, began to glow with new hope and staged a momentary rally. Four baskets and a free throw counted before the cruel blast of the referee whistle extinguished the revenge burning Sparks.

U. H. S. Lose Three But Get Revenge On C. C. H. S.

Normal Band Accompanies the Team to Murphysboro

It takes a good team to play another good basket ball team and the referee also. That's what the University High learned when they lost to the Murphy Hi in a ten-minute overtime game by a score of 21-22. The game was very close all the way through and during the last few seconds of the extra minute period a foul was committed by Murphy in the 17 foot zone which would have given U Hi two throws but when Capt. Hickey started to shoot the fouls the time-keeper ended the game. The referee gave the Murphy Hi the benefit of the doubt every time and several shady plays were pulled off before him by that team which he failed to see. Meffert and Capt. Hickey starred for the U. Hi. Many fans from Carbondale went over and we want to thank the Normal band very much for the services they rendered.

U Hi lineup was: Meffert, Capt. Hickey, Renfro and Crawshaw, forwards; Brimm and Whit', centers; Birkner, Loy, Epperson and Bridges, guards.

U. H. S., 8-Pinckneyville, 33.

The U Hi got a real trouncing at Pinckneyville Friday, December 5, when they were beaten 33 to 8. Playing on a small floor they could not do as well as the Pinckneyville lads but even at that they held the lead the first half. The second half Pinckneyville got "guttty" and couldn't miss. The Pinckneyville boys were very large and tried to get rough but Capt. Hickey had his men play more of a defensive game, holding them in reserve for the game with Murphysboro the next night. U Hi lineup was: Meffert, Hickey, Renfro, Crawshaw, forwards; Brimm, center; Birkner, Loy and Bridges, guards.

U. H. S., 28-C. C. H. S., 26.

The U Hi boys fell into their old form last Wednesday night and defeated the Carbondale Community High in a fast ten minute overtime game. On a small and slick floor they were playing at a disadvantage but they proved too much for the C. C. H. S. and passed all around them. Meffert and Capt. Hickey starred for the U Hi in the last twenty minutes of the game they couldn't be stopped and would break through the

KNOX BASKETBALL TEAM INVADES THE EAST

The Knox basketball team, ten strong, left for the East, Dec. 31, on another tour similar to the successful one of last year. Their first game is with Dartmouth. Other encounters will be with Williams, Harvard, the Army at West Point, and the Navy at Annapolis.

Knox hopes to convince some of the Eastern colleges that we have real athletics in the "wild and woolly West."

J. H. S. 24—MURPHY 7

Last Saturday evening the boys of the Junior High School, accompanied by Coach Goforth and Mr. Cisne, journeyed to Murphy to administer the medicine of defeat to the basketball team of Longfellow school.

The game started snappy and full of pep. The J. H. S. boys took the lead from the beginning and kept it to the end.

The first quarter ended 8 to 0 with the J. H. S. boys shining ahead. Phillips accounted for the first goal. Cherry and Muckelroy one each and Capt. Lutz one. The second quarter started with the teams as full of fight as before. The half ended 12 to 3 in favor of J. H. S.

The third quarter started with scoring on both sides but mainly on Carbondale's side. The Murphy boys accounted for one goal only. But the J. H. S. accounted for 2. The fourth quarter started with a look on Murphy's face to do or die, but they were unable to come through the J. H. S. five men defense which they worked like a charm.

Thompson and Lutz starred for their brilliant work at guards. Also Lutz as his ability for making long ones.

Muckelroy and Cherry played a very fast game at forwards and it seemed as if they couldn't miss a shot. Phillips showed up for his floor work and ability to make short shots. The final score was 24 to 7 in favor of J. H. S.

GRACE EAGLESON LEADS THE ZETETS

On the opening night of the term Miss Grace Eagleson 23 was installed as president of the Zetetic Society. Miss Eagleson is not only the first girl president of the Zetets but the first girl president of any mixed campus organization to be elected this year.

Miss Eagleson's opening address showed that the society had made no mistake in electing her to the highest office in its power to bestow. The other number on the program was a play of unusual interesting features. With such a start for the year the Zetets feel without a doubt that they will not be satisfied with winning one scollion of the inter-society clash but will annex both the boys' and girls' games.

The annual Zetetic banquet will be another red letter feature this year. Food will again be shipped from Chicago and St. Louis to supply the delectable taste of the Zetets.

The presentation of the Loving Cups to the member of the faculty and to the member of the student body who has done the most for school spirit during the year will be the custom again this year.

The Annual Spring Play will indeed be a fitting close for the work of the school year. The name Annual Zetetic Spring Play, alone, always brings hundreds of people when they recall such plays as "The Amazing Cure," "The Show Shop," "What Happened to Jones," and "Peg O' My Heart."

If you are not already a member of the Societies, affiliate yourself with the Zetetic at once.

The optional by George Lirely was an interesting and instructional talk on the organization and work of contesting associations.

At the regular business meeting the Club decided that preparations for the Annual Ag Club banquet should begin at once. Committees on various arrangements were appointed. The banquet will be given sometime near the close of the winter term. Everyone should become a member now, in time for the best society event of the year, the Ag Club banquet.

"Babbitt"—Lewis

When we first heard of "Babbitt" we had the idea it was something about a college girl named Babbitt. Never were we more mistaken. He isn't a college girl at all, he isn't even a college man. He isn't even a—we started to say he isn't even a man, but we'll take that back for we've seen hundreds of men just like Mr. George F. Babbitt. Did you ever see anybody that you'd like to hold off and hit even before you'd tried to find out the good that might be in him? Well, that's how we felt about old brother Babbitt about the first page-full. He is a hustling, prosperous real estate brother—of course nothing wrong about that, but—well, lead it for yourself and then tell us. He was a regular devil in the morning if things didn't go just right. Why is it such demons always have such meek wives? You would like to get hold of Mrs. Babbitt and shake some decision into her. However, after all, it's through her that Babbitt changes; the surprising and dramatic part of the story is near the end and keeps it from being another "Main Street."

We were particularly interested in the vivid pictures Sinclair Lewis draws of American life today. We've all visited homes just like the home in the Floral Heights. Because all the towels are wet when he finally decides to amble into the bathroom he gets peeved and feels most awfully abused. Then he finally gets dressed after causing his wife no end of trouble.

"Last he stuck in his lapel the Boosters' Club Button. With the conciseness of great art the button displayed two words: 'Boosters—Pep!' It made Babbitt feel loyal and important. It associated him with Good Fellows, with men who were nice and human and important in business circles. It was his V. C., his Legion of Honor ribbon, his Phi Beta Kappa Key.

"With the subtleties of dressing ran other complex worries. 'I feel kind of punk this morning,' he said. 'I think I had too much dinner last evening. You oughtn't to serve those heavy banana fritters,' etc., etc. Would that we could have stepped into Mrs. Babbitt's shoes just long enough to find the old reliable rolling pin!

But he comes out of it all and changes so that you pity him later and think he isn't so bad after all.

So Mr. Lewis loves to write, Enthroned upon his nice veranda. These books that aren't novels quite. But satires mixed with propaganda.

Poor men, poor men! in every clime, In every nook that folks inhabit They're bossed and hector'd all the time.

Like Sinclair, me and George F. Babbitt!

STRUT AND FRET

All who attended "Strut and Fret" last week were entertained by a farce in one act, by the title of "Art For Breakfast." The characters were:

Harry Hustle, working his way thru college—Joe Thomas.

Willie Willing, his chum—Ray Hamilton.

Rene Rich, Harry's sweetheart—Merle Gould.

Mary Manners, Willie's sweetheart—Harriett Marvin.

Story of the Play

Harry, a young artist, and Willie, his chum, are trying to live thru the summer on their own exertions, but are reduced to such straits that they are hiding lest their friends find out their plight. They are so far gone that they have not even food enough for breakfast. Rene, Harry's sweetheart, discovers their hiding place, and dressing up as an old woman, enters the studio as a client. She offers to pay ten dollars for a painting of some sandwiches and fruit which she piles artistically on the table. The hungry artist at once accepts the job, and the moment their client is gone, both boys fall upon the food and devour it. Rene, returning with Mary, Willie's sweetheart, pretends anger, but soon throws off her disguise and promises not to reveal how the boys ate up their "Art For Breakfast."

The Strut and Fret has never kept its operations during the winter term before, it is going to this year. Here's to its success!

Afterwards they all attended "Miss Lulu Fett" at the Barth Theatre.

A TRIP ACROSS THE SEA

(Miss Jones continues the charming story of her trip to Europe.)
Rheims and the Surrounding Battlefields.

One wishes for the pen of an artist to convey the true impression of the wreckage the Huns wrought in France. Rheims, a city of wondrous beauty, wrecked and rebuilt in true United States western frontier style of the most sordid ugliness. Temporary structures, they say, but quite permanent as far as near prospect is concerned. The wonderful cathedral, a mere shell, only suggestive of its former majesty, is still surrounded by war wreckage.

It seems so strange that the people of Rheims should look serene after their years of war horrors. Even the small children born and bred, in shell fire were like other children.

We motored with a Cook party over sixty miles of the devastated region and battlefields. The country is dead. Dead trees, dead soil, no vestige of human habitation left on former village sites. Here and there a few courageous souls, sheltered by hovels built of war tanks left in the district, are taking up their lives again in the region. The French government is attempting to clear away the wire entanglement material but no impression of such clearance was apparent, as mounds of it remained everywhere.

We crossed the famous Hindenburg line with its underground forts and comfortable concrete dugouts and, in contrast, visited the French officers' dugouts which were hardly fit for rats.

Our objective was Craonne, the eastern extremity of the Chemin Des Dames, a strategic ridge commanding the surrounding country to which the Germans retired after the first Marne offensive and which they held during the four years of war. It is a region where many thousand brave French boys made the supreme sacrifice. In just one attempt to take the spot France lost 40,000 sons. We were, indeed, on sacred ground.

Marseilles

La Belle France is well named. A trip to Southern France down the Rhone valley through a country of landscape gardening which seems incident to French farming shows every highway and even the canals lined with trees beautifully groomed. The columns of Lombardy poplars in the hazy atmosphere of the distance, with the church spire of a picturesque village here and there, present the aspect of a dream country. As one goes farther south through the wine district, the grape vine and the picturesque villa with the Pyrenees in the background, the ruins of an old Roman Castle here and there among the crags of the foothills, are the prominent features of the country. Later on the vine gives way to the gnarled olive tree with its beautiful foliage.

Marseilles is not only the center of the olive industry of France but is also one of its most important ports. It is a queer city, provincial and strangely quaint, and at the same time a little cosmopolitan, as it is the port for both the African Colonies and the Orient. In its streets roam many varied types of humanity. This was particularly the case during the past summer when France held in Marseilles a most interesting Colonial Exposition depicting the achievement of its colonies. The most striking feature of this exposition was the wonderful exhibit of aesthetic interest created by Africans, as well as by Orientals. A visit to the grounds affords a very interesting glimpse into strange far away lands which are keenly alive in an aesthetic sense.

Street cafe life is a prominent feature of Marseilles and here the French people seemed more care free and joyous than in Paris. Eating and drinking and being merry is the mood of the city.

Returning from the Exposition Grounds to the city of the Corniche Way, a street cut through the rocks of the precipitous coast, we experienced for thirty minutes a real joy ride. At our feet was the wondrous blue of the Mediterranean as blue as the blue of dreams, so beautiful and joyous that the motorman sang at the top of his voice all the way. Apparently there are no labor troubles on the Corniche Ways of the Mediterranean Coast.

Riviera

Contrast indeed of old world rocky Marseilles to Nice with its fine beach, magnificent villas, palatial hotels, and casino life. Fascinating doubtless if one can indulge in luxurious living on this beautiful coast.

A trip through the French Riviera means a visit as a matter of course to the famous casino at Monte Carlo. That the beautiful drive from Nice through the Grande Corniche, a road cut by Napoleon midway up the straight mountainous wall of rock, with the glorious blue sea below and a fringe of snow capped mountains above, should end in the sad sight of Monte Carlo's Casino with its pitiful habitues, is an ending unworthy of the heavenly beauty of the surroundings. The atmosphere of the place is both grim and tragic. Well dressed, seemingly respectable old men and women watching the roulette wheel hour after hour, day after day, even weeks and months and perhaps years, with a view of working out a system which will penetrate the mysteries of its movement and thus enable fortune to come their way.

As we go to the cities of northern Italy through the Italian Riviera, the pleasure of travel is somewhat marred by the passage through many tunnels made necessary by the mountainous nature of the country. Railroad building in northern Italy is a most expensive operation and tunnels occur by the hundreds.

(To be continued next week.)

JUNIOR KID PARTY

"Backward, turn backward,
O Time in thy flight,
Make me a child
Again for tonight."
"All the little "kiddies" of the Junior Class met together for a frolic in the school gymnasium Tuesday night when the clock struck seven. After all the kiddies greeted each other, they were led in a grand march named "Hall, Hall, gang all here." All 150 stumbled through front door and out back door of "Stumble Inn."

A prize was awarded to Miss Edna Roberson for finding the most peanuts in the Goober Pea Hunt. After a number of games were played everyone enjoyed eating ice cream cones and all day suckers.

When the clock struck nine the kids had to be told it was time to go home by piano beginning to play Home, Sweet Home.

The party was chaperoned by Bowyer, Hickson, Clark and Mac.

EGYPTIAN OFFICE WINDOW

By Special Panel

This is a nice crisp January morning. The sky is cloudless and from the looks of Frank's face, who has just unlocked the Auditorium doors, we predict a cheerful day. Here comes Mr. Goddard; he walks as though he were cold, and he has a frown on his face that seems to show that Mrs. had the breakfast coffee too hot. He always betrays the quarrels with his "better half" by his looks. A rather honest and kindhearted fellow he is indeed.

We hear some steps behind us on the stairs. Sounds like Gus, the business manager. This Egyptian is certainly wearing on Gus, he looks thin and weary, but then some people say it is, because he goes to the Dorm to see Velma too often. Well, he can't be any worse than Julian (the Obelisk manager). Her and Bulio are just simply as thick as molasses in February. Up we go! Yes, Gus, Gus always opens the windows when he comes whirling in like a cyclone.

There is some life on the driveway now. That pretty new car rolling in, so philosophically is Mr. Hunt's Cleveland. We wonder if he ever goes over 15 per. Sherretz, the Editor, comes next with a dignified face. Just see him step from the car with that calm look at my trousers, please, look. Yes, he wears those half brothers to the hoop skirt. Mr. Wham's Haynes is working fine this morning. Wonder how many of those Prin. of Ed. papers posing in the front seat beside the driver are marked 95?

What is that little Ford? Oh, yes, that is Coren's coupe. Myrtle came with him, they walk up the steps to the Auditorium and just think Coren is so engrossed in the conversation that he forgets to "anchor" Lizzie with that big lock and chain.

A noise behind us. This time five or six voices: It's Cecil Davis with five girls. Isn't he "it" though when it comes to ladies? We suppose he is making out his week's schedule of dates. A. L. Shelton is going over to Practice. He is the precise but hard hitting debater of whom the Forum is so proud. Ford Dulaney just dropped into the office. We can tell by the noise. He has more "pep" than pepper.

We just heard Mr. Bryant call "Hello" to some Hall girl over on the Library steps. He knows them all and distance doesn't seem to be a barrier to him. Here he comes swinging his brief case. Mr. Boomer is just coming in a semi-trot. It must be about time for the first bell. Yes, there it is now. My what a scramble and rush out there in the corridor—it is becoming less—the second bell rings. A few stragglers are heard hurrying along the corridor.

All is quiet, everybody is settled down to a day of work.

COMPENSATION

The other day at dinner we heard an old battle-scarred campaign veteran of a dozen presidential campaigns bewail the loss of the pageantry that came along every four years. The parades on the afternoon, the speeches of the candidate, and last, but not least, the torch light procession at night. A band lead, the "patriots" that were to save the country from the deminution bow-wows (of the party in power) followed, heads erect, conscious of the good work they were doing. "Turn the rascals out," was the slogan heard on every side. Sometimes the men rode on horseback dressed in campaign costume. If this happened at night, each man carrying a torch, the sight was most impressive. People went to the polls then; there was an incentive. Nowadays things are too dull, one does not know that a campaign is on, unless the pictures of the candidates on dead walls and on telephone poles are reminders of such. There is some truth in this, we admit.

But the other side of the shield shows up the pictures of "patriots" just as anxious to save the country as the Cleveland voters were. A look at the picture of these men gives one an idea whether the candidate is a fit one for the office. The study of the physiognomies of the candidates as depicted on the walls ought to tell an intelligent voter for whom to vote. No "bad" face stands so prominently displayed.

Our school children even take an active part in this "face reading." They form judgments that are in many instances wonderfully accurate. What effect this may have on future elections we can not even guess.

These pictures may serve as models of art to the art hungry. To be sure, some of them are poorly executed, but improvement will come surely since women are entering the campaign arena.

And this reminds us of the fact that women will have their pictures exhibited publicly. A race between the two sexes is sure to follow. The result is easy to guess. Instead of the stern masculine face with the heavy eyebrows and jaws, we shall see woman, petite, charming, etc. What will be the effect on art? What on politics? The brain of mere man reels at the thought. Excuse us here.

THREE PURPLE PLAYERS IN ALL-STAR EGYPTIAN SELECT'N

Selected by the McKendree
Review

All-Egyptian Football Team As
Left end Potter—Shurtleff
Left Tackle Cralley—McKendree
Left guard Fishel—Carbondale
Center Rice—Shurtleff
Right guard Hall—McKendree
Right tackle Riehl—Shurtleff
Right end Maxey—McKendree
Quarterback Downey—Blackburn
Left half Walton—Shurtleff
Right half Shroat—Shurtleff
Fullback Hamilton—Carbondale

The Review has to say of the all-star team:

At the close of the football season, the Review undertook the selection of an all-Egyptian football team chosen from the four schools, Blackburn, Shurtleff, McKendree and Carbondale Normal, represented in Southern Illinois football. Letters were sent to the coaches of these schools and to the various officials who handled the different games, asking for a selection of opinions. From the data received the Review has made the selection printed above which is believed to represent the composite opinion of those best fitted to judge the real worth of the players.

The abundance of good material in some positions and the decided lack of it in others made the selection unusually difficult this autumn. The Shurtleff team, which defeated each of the other colleges considered, is represented by five players; McKendree is given three places; Carbondale two; and Blackburn one.

Walton of Shurtleff is easily the outstanding half back of the year, while light, is well adapted to the open game. Shroat, his running mate, is heavier, a better plunging and interfering back. Hamilton, the Carbondale captain, is probably the best of the fullbacks though Hall outbucked him in the McKendree-Carbondale game. Downey played on a weak team at Blackburn where his ability as a quarterback, both as a field general and at backing up the line, could not be fully appreciated.

Of the ends, Potter of Shurtleff is a good defensive player, handles the pass well, and his ability to follow the ball won at least one game for his team. Maxey is just as good an offensive player and probably better on defense. Like Potter, he has shown well at covering kicks and has recovered several muffs for nice gain. Cralley of McKendree and Riehl of Shurtleff are both experienced tackles whose play in important games proved them the class of the men in these positions.

There seems to be but few guards up to the standard of the players in the other positions. Hall, of McKendree, whose aggressive play featured the work of the College line, is easily the outstanding player; Fishel, a tackle at Carbondale, is shifted to the other position where his weight and experience would make him a valuable man on any center trio. Rice, besides passing nicely on the complicated Shurtleff shifts, put up an excellent game as a roving center and earns that position handsly.

While this selection undoubtedly omits some really excellent material, the lineup as chosen would possess exceptional strength. Not only would the team be unusually good on the defense but would possess an attack much superior to any shown by any college team in this vicinity. Downey could stage a great passing or kicking game with such a backfield and ends; he could expect high class interference for Walton and himself on his running attack, and behind a line of this caliber, could resort to straight football with Hamilton and Shroat with every prospect of success.

U. H. S. LOSE THREE BUT GET REVENGE ON C. C. H. S.

Community High's strong defense for the points which made us even with our local rivals and finally beat them. Coach Snider says that the U H team is just beginning to come into their own.

U. H. S., 16 Dongola, 18

The University High basket ball team gained back their reputation as "miss-outs" last Thursday night when Dongola showed them up on U H's floor. The game was very slow up until the last quarter, when Capt. Hickey got desperate and caged several nice baskets from the center of the floor.

Meffert, our other star forward, also did his share of the scoring. Dongola took the lead and kept it up until the final whistle blew, but U H rallied the fourth quarter and came very near beating them. Lollar refereed. U H lineup was, Capt. Hickey, Meffert and Renfro, forwards; Brimm and White, center; and Loy, Epperson and Birkner, guards.

Richard and Wesley Dickson, who have been attending school at Monmouth College for the past two and one half years have entered here.

AUNT MIN COLUMN

If you have a worry,—some question you are pondering over, whether it be of a serious or frivolous nature, I will gladly advise you. I specialize in matrimonial subjects.

AUNT MIN.

Dear Aunt Min: I have heard that a Man-Haters' Union has been formed by some of the S. F. N. U. "student-isses" Do you think there is cause for worry on my part,—or to be more explicit, do you think Halene will join?

JUNIOR.

Dear Junior: I have heard that so far the organization is so small that each member can hold office and prospects for new members are not very bright,—anyway Halene is not of that kind.

AUNT MIN.

Dear Aunt Min: I am very much interested in a very handsome, altogether likable and charming young man in the Senior class. He is very prominent in Socratic affairs and is an officer. How old is he and is he married.

EASHFUL BETTY.

Bashful Betty: I believe you are referring to Leland Elliott. As to Leland's ego, ask him, he won't be a bit ferocious about it. He is not married, I believe.

AUNT MIN.

Dear Aunt Min: Is it really true that Homer Laney received a book entitled "How to Behave at Anthony Hall" from Santa Claus?

IUSY BEE.

Dear Busy Bee: I really don't think you should be named Busy Bee, however, I believe Homer Laney did receive the above named book and its sequel "The Abolition of Porch Lights." I understand these gifts were highly appreciated by Homer. I am not sure, but I think some meddling person has told him there is no Santa Claus.

GINGER SNAPS

Love is not a matter of sense—it's measured in dollars.

Viola—I wish God had made me a boy.

Shan—He did; I'm he.

Central—Number, please.
Chas. Hunter (dreaming)—63-82-76-Shift.

Women have uncovered their ears but that doesn't mean they are going to listen to reason.

Nurse—Well, it's a girl.

Father—And I just sold the porch swing this morning!

"It must be out of order," said Mr. Bailey, as he tried to fill his eversharp in the inkwell.

There is just one kind of girls: those who say they've never been kissed and those who have.

Henson—You look almost sweet enough to kiss.

"Pittsburg"—I intended to look a little sweeter than that.

Nelle Doolen—See the chalk dust on Chicken Brown's shoulder?

John Epley—Yes.

N. D.—That's not chalk dust.

Coleta—Did you ever read "The heart of a croquette?"

Marie (in disgust)—No, but I have read "The heart of a coquette."

Mr. Hotten—This coffee is nothing but mud.

Joe Montgomery (Stumble Inn)—Yes, sir, it was ground this morning.

Everett Hart—But you know the old proverb, my dear, that love is blind.

Geneva C.—But Miss Rue isn't, so turn out the lights.

Olive Johnston—That a picture of your fellow?

Helen Street—Yes, what do you think of it?

O. J. —Pretty nice frame, isn't it?

What would you do if you were driving along a lonely road with a beautiful girl and she said, "How wasteful and gasoline 30 cents a gallon?" Well, I did the same thing.

Maud—I'd like to see you kiss me again

Merritt (the cave man kid)—"All right," and he prepared to renew the combat. "Keep your eyes open this time."

Bounce—See where a bell-hop got his right eye burned out.

Dwight—Yeah? Howzzat?

Bounce—Saw a lighted cigarette in the dark and thought it was a key-hole.

Pearl White—Mr. Boomer, does electricity flow lengthwise or sideways?

Mr. Boomer—Fools ask questions that wise men can't answer.

Pearl—I guess that's the reason I make such poor grades on exams.

Census Taker—Have you any brothers?

Boy—One.

C. T.—Does he live here?

Boy—Naw, he goes to college.

C. T.—Any sisters?

Boy—One.

C. T.—Does she work?

Boy—Naw, she don't do nothin' neither.

MISS ROGERS '17 ELECTED
PRINCIPAL OF HIGH SCHOOL

(Taken from Lawrenceville Paper.)
The schools of Lawrenceville reopened this morning following the vacation period for the Christmas holidays.

The school board of the township high school met Monday afternoon and appointed Miss Ina Rogers, principal to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Beanblossom.

The board had a number of applications for the position, but felt that Miss Rogers' qualifications and familiarity with the school was the best for the interests of the pupils under the circumstances.

Miss Rogers has been a member of the faculty of the high school for the past sixteen years, coming to Lawrenceville as a teacher in the high school before the township high school was organized and has been here ever since. She is a graduate of Southern Illinois Normal and has been the regular Latin teacher.

"A person who had never been in Carbondale wouldn't have a thrill because Normal avenue was benig paved," says Miss Trovillion but if they had taken a trip down it before last month they could have had several thrills.

If The Wreckers want to do something constructive, they might conduct a crusade against the person who reads your paper over your shoulder.

OUR FIRE WHISTLE

There are fire whistles and fire whistles in the world. Some blow, some ring, some scream, some shout and still others just whistle. The last named is the kind we have. The nearest we can make out, our city fire signal is supposed to sound like a wild cat, but that's really wrong, for when it cuts loose it sounds like seventeen wild cats, having a wild night in their native Bengal.

The fire whistle gives you the greatest and chilliest thrill—the thrill that makes a race track out of your spinal column (or is it spinal cord?) is when this terrific jungle shriek wakes you from a dead-to-the world slumber. If your dream is pleasant and the fire whistle blows, it sounds something like Gabriel's horn,—old Capt. Gabe sounding the reveille for all his angels. But if your dream is unpleasant the ungodly whistle could easily be Satan sounding his fire alarm, a signal that another angel is fallen and is about to be received into the fiery furnace.

But still we insist that fire whistles are handy things, for without them we would be forced to lead a dull existence, when all we crave is a thrill.

HEDGTS-MARTIN

It is reported that Ray Hedgts, a freshman, and Miss Edith Martin of Williamson county were married December 28. The wedding was supposed to have been kept a secret but news has been let out by friends.

NEW RESIDENTS AT ANTHONY HALL

Anthony Hall welcomes a number of new girls. Among those who are to observe the rules and regulations and are to be subjected to the 7:30 and the 10 o'clock dip, but also to the very happy life and many good times which take place there are:

- Al'ce Arnsman.
- Mary Ingram.
- Katherine Laswell.
- Ethel Smith.
- Helena Templeton.
- Dorothy Mertz.
- Merle Waite.

THE WRECKERS

We Seniors, in order to form a better school spirit, back up our teams, furnish the necessary leadership, and to put the pep into our basketball games, do bind ourselves together, into this organization to be known as "THE WRECKERS."

(Signed)

- Edward Zeiler.
- Benj. Merkel.
- Ray Hamilton.
- August Meyer.
- Ransom Sherretz.
- Alvin Felts.
- Corem Waller.
- Eugene Armentrout.
- Willard C. Campbell.
- John Bigham.
- Norvin Julian.
- James Moham.

You will see the results of the organization in the basketball games to come. Other Senior men are wanted to join.

WHOOPEE!

As we all know our life is three-fold, moral, mental and physical. In order to keep ourselves at the highest point of efficiency possible we must furnish these. The moral and mental side is being supplied by the school, church and other educative and Christian organizations. The two "Y's" in this school are founded on the triangular platform. Therefore next Tuesday evening at 8:30 there will be held a joint social to which all students and faculty members, men or women are cordially invited. If you want to have a good time, watch the Bulletin Board for further announcement of place, and take your best girl or best man and come.

"Let's Go!"

LIBRARY CIRCULATION

During the fall term, 1922, Wheeler Library circulated 4843 books, not including those used in the reading rooms. Of this number, 33 per cent were fiction, 15 per cent sociology, 14 per cent literature, 8 per cent current periodicals, 7 per cent natural science, 5 per cent history, 4 per cent each useful arts and fine arts, 3 per cent travel, 2 per cent biography, 1 per cent each language and bound periodicals, 8-10 per cent religion, 7-10 per cent philosophy, and 5-10 per cent general works.

MUSICAL TREAT COMING

The Socratic Literary has arranged a musical program for the coming Friday night. As our Maroons have a game with their ancient rivals McKendree, the program will begin at 6:30 sharp so that we will arrive at the game in time to see the boys "do their bit."

Following the usual custom of honoring great men a "Burns' Program" was presented last Friday night and from all indications was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

A three act comedy "A Bunch of Fun" is to be presented in the near future. The part of Lynn Lockwood, the man "Who takes off his face" is played by Bain Hunsaker. Another important character is Christina, a Swede maid, "stuck on the movies." All who saw Pauletta Jansen play the part "Kloomp" in "The Adventure of Grandpa" will not question her ability. "Mac" is another important character,—well, you'll hear more about it later.

MEYER HEADS THE AGORA

Norvin Julian yielded the emblem of authority in the Agora to August Meyer at the last regular meeting. Mr. Meyer is not only one of the leading men in the Agora but is also a leader in numerous campus activities.

The Agora made a wise choice as Mr. Meyer will without doubt be an inspiring leader.

Action was also taken at the meeting concerning the Annual Agora Banquet which will be held in the near future.

Mr. Merritt Allen, alias Skeezil, appeared Monday morning looking like a much wounded war hero. His head and eye wore a bandage. Skeezil still declares it was caused from cold settling in his eye and yet some of his friends suspect a woman in the case. His girl really does let her finger nails grow very long.

"Please run a lot of pictures in the paper because I can't read." was the note sent in on one of the subscription cards last week. We wonder how she was able to write that sentence.
