★ ★ 'Heritage' Room Opens At Library

The American Heritage Room on the third floor of Morris Library will be opened today at a reception from 2 to 4 p.m. for Mr. and Mrs. James S. Schoff of New York City. The occasion honors the publication of "Behind the Guns: The History of Battery 1, 2nd Regiment, Illinois Light Artillery," which was published by the Southern Illinois University Press.

Schoff, a department store executive, collects unit histories and documents and photographs of the Civil War, and is a sponsor of the new book, Ralph E. McCoy, director of SIU libraries, said. The book is Southern's contribution to the Civil War Centennial.

The American Heritage Room is set up to reflect the days of Abraham Lincoln. It will contain a collection of books about Lincoln, two Lincoln portraits, a Victorian hall tree and bookcase used in Lincoln's time and an inlaid cherry chest of drawers made by Thomas Lincoln, his father.

Other pieces to be housed in the room are an American organ built about 1850, a walnut desk used by Daniel Baldwin Parkinson, fourth president of SIU, and a mahogany tilt-top piecrust table used in Anthony Hall when it served as a women's residence hall at the University.

In addition to the displays in the Heritage Room, library visitors may see an exhibit of etchings by Edwin Forbes.

HAS SPRING SPRUNG? — No it hasn't, at least not officially, but you couldn't tell it Wednesday. Temperatures climbed into the 60s and students put aside their heavy coats and took to the balmy outdoors. The University Center patio was one of the most popular spots on campus as a result of the unseasonably warm weather.

$80.22 Million Approved

SIU Studying Effect of $15 Million Cut In Budget Request for Next Two Years

The approximately $15.4 million reduction in SIU's budget request will mean that the University's growth in some areas will be slowed and other projects will have to be postponed, University officials said Wednesday.

They expressed disappointment but added that they felt SIU had an adequate hearing.

President Delyte W. Morris and other SIU officials spent several hours Tuesday presenting the University's proposed budget for the next two years to the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

After the presentation the Higher Board voted to go along with its staff's recommendations and approved an $80.22 million budget for SIU for the next two years.

SIU had requested approximately $95.55 million, an increase of some $39 million over the present two-year budget. However, the Higher Board granted only a $23.67 million increase.

SIU's budget now goes to the State Legislature for final approval. The State Legislature approved the University's last budget of $54.4 million without making any major cuts.

One University official explained that most of the trimming of SIU's proposed budget was done in "bits and pieces" throughout the budget. However, the greatest amount was trimmed from an area earmarked for improved programs.

He explained that the funds requested under this heading were to be used for improving present program as well as adding new ones. He added that they included every type of program the university offers — "academic, business, student affairs, all down the line."

"If we had received all the money requested we would have been able to broaden and enrich many existing programs as well as adding others," he said. "Without it, we won't be able to accomplish as much as we had hoped."

There also was a cut in terms of salary increases. SIU had requested approximately $4 million for salary increases over the next two years and this figure was trimmed approximately $1.2 million.

While SIU still has an opportunity to appeal to the Legislature to have the cuts restored, Morris reportedly said he did not plan to make such an appeal.

Salukis Continue Mastery in Arena

By Bob Reincke

Southern picked up the pace in the second half last night to walk away from Washington University in a 77-54 victory.

The win was the third in a row for the Salukis as they kept alive their string of five straight victories in the new Arena. It also ended Washington's six-game winning streak.

The game got off to a slow start as the Salukis showed some signs of their three-week long layoff from competition. After taking a 4-2 lead with less than a minute gone in the game, the Salukis hit a cold spell and failed to score for almost three minutes. The Bears took advantage of Southern's slump to build up a 10-4 lead. Wayne Williams, the Bears' 6 foot 5 inch forward, paced the drive as he poured in six points from the field.

Joe Ramsey broke the ice for Southern with 16:21 remaining as he pumped in a 22-foot jumper to make it 10-6. From there the Salukis fought their way back to knot the score at 12-12 when Dave Lee stole the ball and raced the length of the court on a beautiful drive.

The lead then switched back and forth several times before George McNeil hit a pair of 25-footers to put Southern ahead 18-16. From there the Salukis, led by Walt Frazier, built up their biggest lead of the half, 27-21, before Washington came back to tie it at 27-27.

But the tie was short-lived as Bill Lacy, who came in for Lee, scored on a driving layup to put Southern out front to stay at 29-27. The first half ended with the Salukis holding a 34-31 lead.

Frazier paced Southern's scoring in the first half with 12 points and six rebounds. Frazier's fellow sophomore, Ralph Johnson, led in rebounding by pulling seven off the boards in that half.

The tempo of the game picked up considerably in the second half, however, as the Salukis seemed to shake off the effects of the Christmas break. Southern hit for seven

Mitchell Gallery to Give 1st Exhibit in U.S. Of Masterpieces From Chesrow Collection

The Mr. and Mrs. John Russell Mitchell Art Gallery will parade works never before shown in the United States when it opens its exhibit, "Masterpieces of Renaissance and Baroque from the Collection of Frank W. Chesrow," on Jan. 31.

"This is the first exhibition at our gallery with such great importance," said John L. Taylor, supervisor of University Galleries. Many of the artists represented in this collection are not represented in the major museums and galleries of the midwest, he said. These works primarily are those of great Italian and French artists of the Renaissance and Baroque periods.

Included in the 41 works are 39 oils and 3 drawings. Among the leading works, which will be on exhibit, are "St. Peter and St. Paul the Younger," and "Ecstasy of St. Paul," by Michelangelo Caravaggio; "Marriage of St. Catherine," by "Carreggio" (Antonia Allegri); "Prince Nassau of Orange," by Anton VanDyck; and "The Holy Family," by an unknown 16th Century Urbinal Master.

Also included is a picture entitled, "Head of an Old Man," which was once attributed to Rembrandt. It is now known that Govart Flinck, one of Rembrandt's outstanding students, did this work.

Other artists included in Chesrow's collection include Luca Giorgio, Peter Paul Rubens, Giovanni Pinnini, Nicolas Pussin and Twan Watteau.

The University Galleries are making tentative plans to extend the gallery hours so that more people will be able to attend the exhibit. Tentative hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday; and 1-4 p.m. on Sunday.

Salukis on the Trail

Even before the first basketball sailed for the hoop back in November, SIU basketball Coach Jack Hartman was admitting this year's basketball Salukis could be the best in the school's history — "if everything goes well."

Experience was abundant, there was speed to burn and the depth chart read like a who's who. Only the old bugaboo of Saluki mentors for years, lack of the good big man seemed to be missing.

It was with this outlook that Hartman's cagers opened the season in their new basketball palace against 15-point favorite Oklahoma State Dec. 1. The game was supposed to be a good drawing card but few expected Hartman's club to stay close to his alma mater coached by famed Olympic basketball tutor Hank Iba.

Apparently, though, somebody forgot to tell the personable Saluki third-year coach, who initiated Saluki fans to upsets over the big boys when his first team (1962-63) at Southern won an almost incredible six of seven battles with the cage giants.

After trailing the Cowboys 29-27 at the half, the hungry Salukis began to move early in the second stanza and, sensing an upset, reeled off 13 straight points to move from a four-point to a commanding 17-point lead that all but quieted the Cowboy's guns.

The victory that "couldn't be" ended 78-55. What would have been an even bigger shock a week later against Kansas State, then nationally ranked at eighth, fizzled in the last seven minutes as the Salukis blew a one-point lead and lost 61-48. But SIU had caught the eye of the nation's basketball pollsters.

The locals have since ranked everywhere from third to seventh in the nation's press service small-college ratings, although they were excluded from the latest listing because of their inactivity over the holidays.

Now 4-2, the squad returned to campus Dec. 28 and has been working out twice daily in preparation for its two home contests this week — Wednesday night against Washington University and Saturday against Indiana State — before opening a 9-day, 3-game set that should go a long way toward ascertaining its true strength.

The toughest week and a half of their schedule begins Monday with a second invasion of Kansas, where Wichita's Wheatshockers and All-American Dave Stallworth lie in wait.

Rated fifth in the nation, the Missouri Valley Conference power will be out for revenge after their 77-69 holiday upset by St. Joseph's, Pa., in the Quaker City Holiday Tournament.

With the 6-7 Stallworth rolling along like last year when he averaged 26.5 points and 10 rebounds and veterans Nate Bowman, 6-10, and Dave Leach, 6-5, back, along with an improved Pete Kelly, 6-1, the Wheatshockers may be the best team a Southern club has ever run up against.

If they aren't, then the Saluki final opponent of the period, Evansville's Aces, may be, if Evansville's always enthusiastic fans have anything to say about it. The defending national small-college champions are apparently better than ever and have six major-college scalps, including Iowa, Northwestern and Notre Dame, to prove it.

Back from last year's 26-3 club are All-American forward Jerry Sloan, 6-6, the "Fabulous Fox" from McLeansboro who can do everything, Sam Watkins, 6-3, always a scoring threat, and Larry Humes, Mr. Basketball of Indiana several seasons ago, who's turned into a big scorer with a 34.6 average in nine games. The talented junior reportedly has all the moves this year and is impossible to stop in man-to-man defense.

Add to the trio Centralia's 6-3 jumping jack Herb Williams and 6-2 guard Russ Grieger and you've got what veteran observers believe is one of the top small-college teams in years. A lack of depth may be the Hoosier team's only weakness.

Between the road games with the Wheatshockers on the 11th and the Aces on the 20th, Kentucky Wesleyan's always dangerous Panthers will be making their first call at the Arena on the 15th. Although reportedly down after the loss of starters Mike Redd, Doug Walsh and Don Ratliff, Guy Storm's Kentuckians nevertheless have a rangy outfit and mustn't be taken lightly.

So by the time the Salukis head for a two-game tour of Tennessee the 25th and 26th, the cloudy basketball picture should be clearer.

This Is Going To Be One Of Those Days

State News, Michigan State University

Student Unrest in India Grows

NEW DELHI, India — The Indian government is getting disturbed about unrest among college and university students in India but apparently is nonplussed on what to do about it.

The government counted 261 student strikes during 1964—the highest number in any year since independence in 1947.

The worst of them all this year was the September-through-November rioting and hooliganism that ensued after a gang of students tried to force the chief minister of Orissa State to resign on corruption charges.

A rowdy mob of more than 600 stormed the State Assembly in Bhubaneswar while the ministers were in session. They broke windows, damaged furniture and even assaulted some of the members.

One big trouble is that there are far too many students for the number of institutions. A severe shortage of teachers exists, and classroom and laboratory facilities often are grossly inadequate.

Another disquieting fact is that the majority of teachers are so poorly paid they will accept money from the parents of a student to help him through almost any examination illegally.

Chicago's American

Hits Lack of Educational TV

How many citizens of the United States would believe it if they were told that they are only a fifth as interested in educating themselves as are the people of Great Britain?

How many Americans would believe it if they were told that they are only a sixth as interested in being well educated as their Canadian neighbors?

If Americans could find these comparisons with the British and Canadians hard to accept, then how would they like to be confronted with the statement that they are only a tenth as concerned about being well-educated as are the people of Japan?

Quite obviously they would not like it, and a lot of Americans would not believe it. But if it is true that where your treasure is there will your heart be also—and that assertion has stood for some 2,000 years—then people in the United States had better look searchingly into these comparisons.

The Disturbing Facts

At the recent Washington conference on long-range financing of educational television stations, F. Scott Fletcher, acting president of the National Association of Educational Broadcasters-Educational Television stations, presented the disturbing facts. Seventy-five ETV stations in the United States reported a total expenditure of only 20 million dollars in a year's time. Over the same span Great Britain put 100 million dollars into educational television and Canada 116 million dollars.

But Japan—ah, there's the rub! Japan invested a total of 206 million dollars of its substantially lesser national income in educational television for the benefit of its people. This, said Scott Fletcher, was one third of one per cent of the entire Japanese national income. Had the United States put its financial resources into educational TV in the same proportion as Japan, our investment would not have been some 20 million dollars plus, but more than a billion dollars!

In view of the fact that more than half of expenditures for educational TV in the United States are met by public school systems for formal instruction, the amount invested in general and public service educational television is even smaller. Thus the comparisons are even worse than those given!

'Need Is Great'

More than a dozen years ago Paul A. Walker, then chairman of the FCC, said: "The need for education is so great today and television such an effective tool that education cannot afford to be without it. Television is one of the most effective instruments ever devised for all the people."

United States Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel told the same Washington conference of educational TV leaders that Italy is using TV in a nation-wide campaign against illiteracy. Dr. Keppel said the United States could do much more with TV to produce a more literate people, to retrain displaced workers and to combat the effect of slums on both young and adults in the cities.

President Johnson's concept of the Great Society calls for the elimination of illiteracy and ignorance. We cannot possibly achieve it as long as we allow the Japanese to invest 10 times as much as we do in educational television. Here's the subject for a national new year resolution!

Wit's End

ACADEMIC SANTA: Some 700 students got temporary Christmas presents when grade slips arrived during the vacation. They were given two A's and twice the number of credit hours in a course.

It seems a sleepy-eyed employe at the computing center made a mistake in the wee hours of the morning, as they were processing grades. A stack of "A" cards was run through the computer twice. Someone caught the mistake later, however, and the students received a corrected form in the mail a few days later.

HOUSING RATES RAISED? Residents of University housing who might have thought their contracts had been hiked when they were billed at the end of fall quarter will be comforted to know that the extra $85 was for the first payment of winter term.

CHRISTMAS IN FLORIDA: Four members of the Saluki track team spent Christmas at the shore in Florida. Bill Cornell, Gary Carr, Jerry Fendrich, and Robin Coventry were in Palm Beach training for the Sugar Bowl Holiday Track Classic, part of the week's festivities which preceded the annual football contest in New Orleans.

Although the relay team finished fourth, Coach Lew Hartzog was pleased with the performance. Cornell turned in the equivalent of a 4:10 mile. Carr in his event ran the best quarter of his career, a 47.6, good enough for fourth place in tough competition.

IS THIS A START? Hats off to William A. Volk, associate University architect, for his suggestion to put a Christmas tree atop the 17-story University Park residence hall. It sounds like an excellent idea for the beginning of a campus tradition. Remember that, girls, for next year. By the way, the 17-story structure is reportedly the tallest building in this part of the country. Anyone know of a taller one around?

Reviewing Exam Is Waste of Time

"A Learning Experience" by Robert Smith has its points—perhaps he does learn from returned examinations. A recent attempt to prove the worth of the "learning experience" was a failure. Class time was allotted for checking over mistakes on an examination. A day or two later a part of that examination was given again. The students indicated that grading the papers would be a waste of time. Only 2 of 25 students made worthwhile gains.

For what it is worth,

Senate Poll Reflects Frustration in Asia

WASHINGTON (AP)—On the threshold of renewed congressional debate over South Viet Nam, many senators share a sense of frustration and uncertainty over the course of the U.S.-backed war on Communism in Southeast Asia.

Eighty-three senators spoke out in an Associated Press survey as Congress prepared for a long, hard look at the situation in South Viet Nam, beset by Communist guerrillas and internal government woes. Only a scattering advocated expansion of the war into Communist North Viet Nam.

"The problem is tragically difficult," said Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., "but I believe we must continue to do everything possible under the present policy—increasing the emphasis on a stable and responsible, Vietnamese government."

Thirty-one of the senators ready to prescribe a course voiced generally similar views, many of them suggesting negotiations later, when the anti-Communist forces are in a better bargaining position.

"It's a mistake to negotiate when losing," said Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

"We should do what we are doing," advised Sen. A.S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., "but do it even better."

Ten favored moving for negotiations now, some suggesting United Nations guidance toward a settlement based on neutrality.

Only three lawmakers spoke out flatly for expansion of the struggle into North Viet Nam, although five others mentioned commitment of U.S. combat troops or action against North Viet Nam as possible steps toward an end to the struggle.

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said the United States should not take either step unless the nation is ready to face an all-out war that would include nuclear weapons.

"Expansion will not resolve the problem," said Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader. "It is more likely to enlarge it and in the end we may find ourselves engaged all over Asia in full-scale war."

Indonesian Issue Splits Red Powers

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Red China and the Soviet Union made Indonesia a diplomatic battleground Wednesday.

The Chinese backed Indonesia's decision to withdraw from the United Nations and the Soviets opposed it.

Communist Chinese Ambassador Yao Chung-ming called twice on Foreign Minister Subandrio to communicateeking's backing.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said Yao obviously informed Subandrio about Communist China's solid support to Indonesia's stand, made earlier in Peking.

But the spokesman did not explain why Yao met twice with Subandrio—once in the morning and again in the evening.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai A. Mikahilov got to Subandrio first. He called Tuesday night and urged Indonesia to remain in the United Nations, reliable diplomatic sources said.

Diplomatic quarters have expressed fear that Indonesia's withdrawal would further cement relations between Peking and Jakarta. They said the Soviet Union seems to share this view.

It was a day of intense diplomatic activity for Subandrio. U. S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones, and the diplomats of Pakistan, Czechoslovakia and Poland called on him. Jones was said to have sought reasons why Indonesia was quitting the United Nations.

Legislators Face Two Major Issues

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois legislature set up for business Wednesday and fixed its sights on early handling of reapportionment and revenue changes—the two big problems facing the six-month session.

Senate Republicans moved quickly to consider their newly-offered proposal for revising the state constitution's tax article and permitting voters to choose between allowing or banning an income tax.

The revenue proposal was set for a hearing Thursday before the entire Senate.

Prosecution in Stratton Tax Case Outlines Strategy to Seek Proof

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal prosecutor said Wednesday the government will trace former Gov. William G. Stratton's income and expenditures during an 11-year period in its effort to prove him guilty of income tax evasion.

Vincent P. Russo, chief government prosecutor, told the jury of six men and six women in his opening statement that the government would base its case on a theory of Stratton's net worth and non-deductible expenditures from 1949 through 1960.

The former Republican leader, who served two consecutive terms as governor, from 1952 to 1960, is accused of filing false returns to evade $47,000 in taxes on unreported income of $93,595 for 1957 through 1960, his final term in office.

LBJ Plans Flow of Messages To Spell Out His Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP)—Four presidential messages will go to Congress at the rate of one a day starting next Tuesday. Press secretary George E. Reedy announced this schedule:

Tuesday, Jan. 12, education. Johnson is proposing an expanded program that will aid both public and private schools and involve an extra $1.5 billion of spending.

Wednesday, Jan. 13, immigration. The administration wants to wipe out the old system of quotas based on national origin and emphasize special skills and knowledge.

Thursday, Jan. 14, foreign aid. Johnson did not touch on this in his State of the Union message to Congress and he is under pressure from some key men on Capitol Hill to split the program into several packages.

Friday, Jan. 15, space. The space program is being trimmed to some extent without dropping the aim of getting a man on the moon by 1970.

The first of a series of special messages spelling out programs Johnson mentioned in Monday's address will be placed before Congress today. The White House says it will be a comprehensive message dealing with health, and embracing, among other things, a renewed bid for health aid for the elderly under Social Security.

College-Cost Tax Relief Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., has re-introduced his bill to give parents a tax cut on costs of college education for their children.

The bill would allow parents to subtract from their taxes up to $325 of such costs annually.

The proposal is identical with one Ribicoff offered last year as an amendment to the $11.5-billion tax cut bill. The amendment was beaten 48-45. The Treasury contended it would cost $750 million annually at first and $1.3 billion by 1970.

Ribicoff said his proposal would permit an income tax credit—which can be subtracted from taxes due.

The credit would be computed this way: 75 per cent of the first $200 of expenses, 25 per cent of the next $300, and 10 per cent of the next $1,000.

Viet Cong Attack Seen as Test Of Ability to Step up Fighting

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The fighting around Binh Gia may be a Viet Cong experiment in stepping up the war in South Viet Nam, a U.S. military spokesman said Wednesday. If so, he added, the experiment so far has been a success.

The Red combat force that attacked 10 days ago appears to have disengaged effectively after inflicting on U.S.-supported government units their worst mauling of the war.

Revenge-seeking Vietnamese troops have been unable since Monday to develop any important contact with the Communist fighters in the vicinity of Binh Gia, 40 miles east of Saigon.

Eighty U.S. helicopters ferried 800 Vietnamese troops from Binh Gia to a new operation zone nearby. Fifteen armored personnel carriers moved to the landing zone.

A lone bushwhacker wounded one paratrooper with a shotgun blast. He was captured.

The anti-Communist, Roman Catholic villagers of Binh Gia watched the dispersal of the troops with some apprehension. Only about 400 Vietnamese soldiers and 12 U.S. advisers remained in the village. Rumors circulated that the Viet Cong, though in hiding, had up to two regiments—perhaps up to 2,500 troops—in the vicinity. Among other development of the day:

Official sources announced U.S. battle casualties for 1964 totaled 1,173, including 136 killed, against a total of 615 casualties, including 107 killed, in the previous three years of American involvement.

Communist North Viet Nam charged that three warships of "the United States and its puppets" made their second attack in its coastal waters in three days, this time shelling the village of Mui Duc.

U.S. officials estimate the fighting in and around Binh Gia cost Vietnamese forces 200 killed, including six Americans; 190 wounded, including eight Americans; and 65 missing and presumed captured including two Americans.

On the Viet Cong side, they believe 140 were killed, although very few bodies were left behind. The attackers operated like regulars rather than hit-and-run guerrillas.

Senate Sidetracks Filibuster Hassle

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate's annual row over anti-filibuster moves reached the brink of erupting Wednesday but a "gentlemen's agreement" apparently put off the battle until at least next week, possibly even later this month.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., leader of a bipartisan group seeking to change the rules so filibusters can be shut off easier, said the scrap probably will be held in check until the new Congress completes its organizing.

And that's all right with him, he said.

Dirksen Renews Fight to Void One Man, One Vote Decision

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois plans to renew the fight he lost last year to nullify the Supreme Court's legislative reapportionment decision.

The court ruled last June, in a 6-3 decision, that seats in both branches of state legislatures must be apportioned on a population basis.

A constitutional amendment being introduced by Dirksen, with bipartisan backing, would permit legislatures to have the membership of one house apportioned on factors other than population.

Dirksen's amendment this year differs from the one he offered last year in that it provides for the states to submit the proposed amendment to the people for ratification rather than have it passed on by the legislatures.

This change is designed to meet objections that malapportioned legislatures should not be allowed to act on the proposed amendment, which would require approval by three-fourths of the 50 states if approved by Congress.

Vietnamese Graduate Student at SIU Believes U.S. Asian Policy Is Too Weak to Stop Reds

A native of North Viet Nam now studying at SIU believes U.S. policy toward Viet Nam is not strong enough to stop Communist expansion.

Pham Van Quang, SIU graduate student in secondary education, is one of the one million North Vietnamese who chose to live in South Viet Nam when the 1954 Geneva Agreement divided the country into two parts.

"At that time only 300 persons left South Viet Nam to join the Communists and more than one million people in North Viet Nam moved to South Viet Nam," Quang recalled.

"From the very beginning, the Vietnamese people deserted the Communist regime, as they knew very well how cruel and undemocratic the Communists are," said Quang.

The 27-year-old Vietnamese student believes the Communist regime in North Viet Nam has destroyed happiness among the people. "The fact that thousands of people flee from the Communist-controlled area to South Viet Nam each year supports my view," Quang said.

Quang would like to see the U.S. government take more positive steps to help people in Viet Nam stop Communist expansion. He thinks the current U.S. policy toward Viet Nam is "not strong enough."

"Only through a counter-offensive against North Viet Nam and its ally—the Chinese Communist regime—can we save South East Asia and insure peace in the world," Quang said.

Quang came to the United States in September, 1962, under a U.S. Agency for International Development grant to study special education and psychology at George Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn. He transferred to SIU to work toward his master's degree in education after obtaining the bachelor's degree early this year from George Peabody.

Quang expects to go home next year to teach in a teachers' college. But he said he probably would join his brother, a first lieutenant in the Vietnamese army, if he is drafted.

ARROW INDICATES HOME MANAGEMENT HOUSE

Not All Work

Trials and Smiles an Experience In Home Management House Life

By Evelyn Augustin

"It was one of my most valuable experiences in four years of college," said Jackie Page, a senior majoring in home economics, about living at the Home Management House. And please don't call it the penthouse even if it is on the top floor of the Home Economics.

"Most girls don't have much training in housekeeping at home anymore, so it was a challenging and rewarding experience. Living there, though, wasn't all work and no play; we had fun laughing at our own mistakes," added Miss Page, who lived there during fall quarter.

Living at the home Management House for six weeks, required of all home economics majors, allows the girls to put knowledge to practical application.

Eight girls each period live at the house, with Miss Virginia Martell, instructor in home economics, as their advisor.

Occupying the entire fourth floor of the Home Economics Building, the House includes a living room, dining room, kitchen, family room, four bedrooms, two baths, laundry area, nursery, two patios, and a separate suite for Miss Martell.

"The girls, usually all seniors, rotate 'tours of duty' which last four or five days. The 'tours of duty' include being nurse, assistant housekeeper, housekeeper, laundress, projects chairman, assistant cook, cook and manager," explained Miss Page.

"Each girl contributes $10 per week for food, cleaning supplies, a gift for the baby while she's nurse, and for replacements of broken articles.

"As an example of our many challenges," she continued, "the cook must plan all the meals, and on one day she can spend only 60 cents for each person's meals. The maximum she is allowed for each person is $1.25 for one day.

"One of the most valuable experiences is learning to formally entertain. Few girls at our age know all the aspects of running a household, which includes planning a formal dinner.

"Another new experience for me," she added, "was to take care of a baby almost full-time. Among other things, we learned to tell the difference between a 'nonsense cry' and a cry which means that something is really irritating the child.

"Usually the child we take care of belongs to one of the home economics majors. The child is there from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each week day and goes home for the week ends. The same baby stays for as many weeks as is convenient to the parents.

"Living at the Home Management House was surprisingly much like living in our own homes. We girls maintained excellent co-operation, which is necessary for a good family life.

"Whenever we were unable to solve a problem," Miss Page explained, "Miss Martell advised us, although she never gave us a direct answer. We were forced to solve our own problems eventually."

At the end of the six weeks, the girls are graded by Miss Martell, who evaluates each girl on efficiency, co-operation, sense of humor, and other qualities necessary for a harmonious family life.

time for many other activities during the six-week period," Miss Page concluded, "we earned four credit hours, which was an extra reward beside all that we learned."

More Applications by Coeds Sought for Resident Positions

Applications for next year's Resident Fellow positions have been received from 105 students, said Harold L. Hakes, assistant coordinator of housing and selection committee chairman.

Seventy-five will be needed, with the opening of the University Park housing complex almost doubling the number required from past years.

There is a shortage of woman candidates, with only

The annual "Bucket Brigade" for the March of Dimes will take place this Saturday at the corner of Main and Illinois.

The campaign sponsored by Phi Sigma Kappa social fraternity will start at 8 a.m. and continue until dark.

Motorists are asked to donate their loose change when they stop for the lights. Last year's collection amounted to $475 in donations.

35 applications so far, Hakes said. Seventy men have applied. "We are still accepting applications from any interested students, especially women," he said.

All Resident Fellow candidates are to attend a meeting at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in dining room No. 1 in Lentz Hall at Thompson Point.

Resident Fellows must have a 3.5 over-all grade average, be a senior or a graduate student, and display social and emotional maturity, said Hakes.

They are considered a part of the SIU housing staff, and in return for their services, they receive University tuition and room and board in the hall where they reside.

His Favorite Hobby

Blind Student Tells His Tricks For Mastering Bowling Lanes

By Roy Franke

Allen Woody sat carefully mapping out how bowling pins are spotted in a bowling alley.

"They are arranged in a triangle in four rows," he said. "On the first row is the one pin. To the back and left of the one pin is the two pin and to its right is the three pin. . .," he continued.

His description was simple, yet accurate and precise to anyone who has ever seen the long lanes and smooth runways. Woody has never had that experience. He has been blind since he was 12 years old. He has never seen bowling pins, a bowling alley or a bowler.

Yet listening to him one would never sense it. Woody knows bowling like Mickey Mantle does baseball. For seven years since discovering he could bowl despite his handicap, he has made America's most popular participation sport his favorite hobby.

But more importantly he's shared his discovery with others. In 1957 when Woody and a friend walked into a Carbondale bowling alley they made history. Never before had a blind person bowled at the Carbondale alley as far as the then manager Henry Villani, now manager of the University Center bowling lanes, could recall.

"Henry (Villani) wouldn't charge us anything at first," Woody remembered. "He said he'd start charging us whenever our averages got over a 100. I'm sure he though we'd never make it," Woody said with a grin.

But Woody did make it. Today he sports a 108 average and occasionally bowls in the 150's. Thanks to his efforts there are other Woodys today in Southern Illinois.

With graduation from SIU in 1959 Woody became a home teacher in the Department of Mental Health at East St. Louis and with him went his hobby. Soon new-found friends were infected by his bowling fever.

The interest generated a desire in Woody to form a bowling league especially for the blind. In 1960 his dream turned into reality as he organized a league for the sightless at East St. Louis. The breakthrough had been made. Southern Illinois had its first bowling league for the blind.

A year later Woody formed a second pioneer league at neighboring Alton and last year a third was established at SIU with Woody's return to work on a master's degree in rehabilitation counselling.

In one year the league membership has jumped from eight to 12, which represents about 90 per cent of the blind population on campus. "They love bowling and they have a whale of a time at their three-and-a-half-hour Saturday afternoon sessions," said Villani.

"Sure, it's harder for us than for a person who can see," Woody confided, but the motions are the same for us as they are for the normal sighted bowler. We try to go through the same motions every time just as he does."

Nevertheless, there are problems which Woody and his group face that the normal bowler probably never thinks about. First, a blind person can throw only a straight ball because he can't trace the path of a hook ball and make the necessary arrangements when it curves incorrectly.

Second, he can't see the pins or the alley which necessitates dependence upon the feel of a guide rail on the right hand side of the lane for his sense of position.

Third, because of the rail he can't bowl in the normal position in respect to the lanes and, fourth, because he can't follow the path of the ball visually he must depend on a keen sense of interpreting what others tell him in order to be able to correct his mistakes.

From the handicaps involved it's apparent that blind bowlers must depend on sighted people for score keeping and for telling them the results of their efforts. Thus on each of the four teams in SIU's league there is one sighted person.

Blind bowlers will never be able to challenge sighted keglers day in and day out because of their handicap, Woody said. But he was quick to point with pride to fellow league member Dick Nelson's 152 average.

The averages in the league vary from 40 to 152, excluding those of the sighted, with a typical average in the 80 to 90 range.

On certain days Woody feels blind bowlers might be able to hold their own in competition with the sighted. "Dick (Nelson) has bowled well over 200 on occasion," Woody emphasized, and in the American Blind Bowling Association's National Tournament a 255 game was once registered.

Just how wrapped up can one get about something he can't see can best be illustrated by a story Woody tells. "After bowling the first time I began to bowl about once or twice a week and I even took a P.E. bowling class here in 1958. Then I began bowling in the leagues and any time outside of the league I could afford it.

"I remember one night I was supposed to meet my wife, who was then only my girl friend, at 7. I happened to stop with a friend to bowl and it was 10:30 before I left. I was really hot. I bowled 17 games and averaged 156 and even had a 192 game.

"I couldn't leave when I was bowling like that, you know. Well, when I got to her house she was a little bit mad but she knew right off what I'd been doing. 'You've been bowling haven't you,' she said.

"I guess it wasn't too bad; at least she married me, although sometimes she says even today she's a bowling widow."

RAY PADOVAN

Lawn Mower Severs Toe Of Swimmer

All wasn't happy over the holidays for one former SIU swimming star Ray Padovan. The former national collegiate freestyle record holder lost a toe on his right foot in a lawn mowing accident while vacationing at his parent's home in North Miami, Fla.

Now a graduate student here in health education, Padovan was in his prime during the first three years of this decade when he was among the world's fastest freestylers.

Although the coveted NCAA titles in his specialty eluded him during his collegiate career, he held the American college record in the 100-yard freestyle for nearly a year with a blistering 47.9 clocking while only a sophomore in 1961.

He still holds SIU school records in both the 50 and 100-yard freestyles with times of 21.6 and 47.9 respectively.

Buses to Transport Horsemen, Skaters

The University Center Programming Board has announced there will be bus transportation provided for students interested in roller skating and horseback riding this weekend.

A bus will leave the University Center at 7:30 p.m. Friday, bound for the Marion roller skating rink. Those interested should sign up at the Student Activities Office before noon Friday.

Hartzog Looks Ahead

Track Projects Called Best Ever

By Roy Franke

All during last fall's cross country season SIU head track and cross country coach Lew Hartzog groomed five runners. None scored a point for the Saluki harriers. They couldn't. They were all freshmen and ineligible for varsity competition under Southern's eligibility rule which doesn't allow freshmen to compete on the varsity level.

Meanwhile Hartzog's squad ran through a dismal season. It won only one of four dual meets, topping the Chicago Track Club while losing to the University of Kansas, the University of Houston and the DePaul University Track Club.

There were several individual standouts as Alan Ackman, a sophomore from Robinson and Bill Cornell, better known for his efforts in the half mile and mile, came on strong at the end of the season but it definitely wasn't SIU's year.

Next year is another story—one which Hartzog isn't a bit hesitant in talking about.

"The prospects are by far the best we've ever had," said the Texas native in his office beneath McAndrew Stadium. That office has become the focal point for SIU's rejuvenated track program since Hartzog took over the track coaching reins in the fall of 1960 and started turning out winners almost overnight.

"I think so," the track mentor replied when asked if he might not also have the top individual prospect to come along in many years. "Joe Thomas was good, but I guess I'd have to say Shaughnessy is a better prospect than Thomas was his freshman year," continued the seemingly easy going coach.

Little does Hartzog need to say about the Alliston, Canada, whiz, because his track achievements speak for themselves. In high school the slender speedster erased the Canadian 2-mile record held by his native land's famous young sensation Bruce Kidd.

As a freshman here during the cross country season Shaughnessy went undefeated and capped a brilliant year by winning the 10,000-meter cross country championship of the U.S. Track and Field Federation.

But the real clincher to Hartzog's lofty predictions came in this last month's issue of "Track and Field News." The "bible" of the track world collected times of freshman cross country teams and runners throughout the nation and tabulated a listing of the nation's best.

At the top of that collection was the name Shaughnessy of SIU with the 2-mile time of 9:06.9. And second among the teams was Hartzog's Saluki frosh combination of Shaughnessy, Tom Curry, Dave Magee, Jerry Kurfman and Carl Vinson. Only cross country power Kansas University had a better time than the Salukis' 48:25.2.

Sports Shorts

2 Tall Men on Cage Squad Are Victims of Grade Slips

Southern's already short freshman basketball team will be even shorter for the rest of the season since grade slips came out for fall quarter. The two biggest men, Floss Mathis and Kenny Smith, are both scholastically ineligible.

The two 6-4 freshmen were the big men under the boards for coaches Tom McLaughlin and Fred Colub. The loss of the pair leaves Jay Westcott, 6-3, the tallest man on the squad.

Two members of last year's freshman basketball team which won 11 of 14 games are making impressive showings with the varsity this year. Walt Frazier who rewrote the freshman records list last year is third leading scorer and is tied for the lead in rebounds with Ralph Johnson, another sophomore.

George McNeill is the leader in statistics for this year's team so far in the season. After six games, McNeill has hit 35 of 71 field goal attempts for a percentage of .490. He also leads in free-throw shooting with a percentage of .850 after making 23 of 27 tries.

A look at some of Southern's future basketball opponents is enough to give any coach gray hair. Evansville's high flying Purple Aces are the top-ranked small college team in the nation. The Aces are unbeaten and sport victories over many top opponents, including Big Ten teams Northwestern, Iowa and perennially strong Notre Dame.

Frank C. Adams In Washington As Consultant

Frank C. Adams, director of the Southern Illinois University student work program, is in Washington, D.C., through Friday as a consultant on the college work-study program under the federal Economic Opportunity Act of 1964.

Adams, who has directed the program at SIU for seven years, is working with the staff of the U.S. Office of Education, which will administer the $56-million program through its Division of Student Financial Aid. He was previously in Washington December 16-18 to work on the project.

The federal program offers colleges and universities "a real opportunity to make a college education available to all who have the ability and desire to continue their education," Adams said.

Adams was called as a consultant on procedures and policies to implement the federal program because of his experience with the SIU student work program. He is also chairman of the Midwestern Association of University Student Employment Directors.

HARRY GALLATIN

'Great to Be Back'

New Yorkers Hail Gallatin On Return as Knick Coach

NEW YORK (AP) — "And now, ladies and gentlemen, we'd like to re-introduce to you an all-time New York favorite, the new coach of the Knickerbockers, Harry Gallatin."

The Madison Square Garden crowd burst into applause at the announcement and the tall, blond, one-time National Basketball Association iron man waved an appreciative hand. Harry Gallatin was back home where he belonged.

New York was Gallatin's home for nine prosperous NBA seasons as a player. It was here that he won the nickname of The Horse for his rugged play under the boards. And it was here that he returned as an NBA coach Tuesday night just one week after becoming the 16th coach to get his walking papers from St. Louis Hawk owner, Ben Kerzer.

Exemption Asked For Pro Sports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Frank Horton, R-N.Y., called on Congress Wednesday to clarify federal antitrust laws in their application to professional sports.

Horton, former president of the Rochester Red Wings of the International Baseball League, drafted a bill for introduction which would exempt professional sports from some antitrust provisions.

It is similar to a bill he introduced during the last Congress but which failed to win final approval.

The measure would exempt professional baseball, hockey, football and basketball teams from the antitrust laws in activities—such as the player draft—considered necessary to maintain and expand the particular sport.

The bill would not apply to strictly business arrangements which would still be covered by the antitrust laws.

"It's just great to be back," said Gallatin as he took over the reins of the club which once was a playoff perennial but has finished in the NBA's Eastern Division cellar for the last five years.

Strong 2nd Half Provides Margin points at the start of the half to build up a ten-point lead, 41-31, before Washington could light up the scoreboard.

With 11:41 remaining and Southern holding a 49-40 lead, the Salukis got hot and went on a 14-point scoring spree to build up an insurmountable lead of 63-40. During the spree Washington went without scoring for almost four minutes.

Southern got another spurt going less than a minute later. This one lasted almost five minutes and the Salukis hit for 10 straight points to build up their biggest lead of the game, 73-45.

Frazier took the scoring honors for Southern with 18 points and 12 rebounds. Ramsey was next with 15 points and McNeil was third with 12. In all, 10 men entered the scoring column for the night after Coach Jack Hartman emptied the bench late in the game. Ralph Johnson, who scored only four points in the game, led in rebounding with 14. His total gives him an undisputed lead in that department for the season.

The Salukis shot .412 from the field by making 35 of 85 attempts while the Bears shot .332 on 23 of 70. Southern also out-rebounded its opponent by pulling down 58 to Washington's 47.

In the preliminary game, Southern's freshmen picked up their first win of the season by dumping Washington's frosh, 81-59.

Stop Cooperating with Pro Scouts, Says Michigan's Athletic Director

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Fritz Crisler, the University of Michigan's athletic director, says the only thing the colleges can do to prevent the premature signing of football players to professional contracts is to refuse to cooperate with the pro scouts.

University officials around the nation are up in arms about being caught in the talent-hunting crossfire between the National and the American Football Leagues. The National Collegiate Athletic Association has scheduled a special meeting in Chicago next week to discuss the situation, specifically the premature signing to pro contracts of four Oklahoma stars and one from Georgia.

Crisler said: "It's rather deplorable when the pros breach their own agreements and absolutely ruin a football team as they did with Oklahoma and as they did with the boy at Georgia."

"It is not within the provinces of colleges to make the pros enforce their own agreements."

"So I don't think there's any other solution than to restrict our cooperation with them."

Geiger of Bosox Wants Job Back

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. (AP)—Gaunt Gary Geiger, whose weight has soared 20 pounds to 160, says he's ready for baseball and the Boston Red Sox again. He wants a chance at either center or right field. Geiger was batting at a .302 clip in mid-1960 when he was felled by a collapsed lung. He came back for two sub-par seasons. Two quick ulcer operations and three weeks in the hospital came last spring.

When he came back to the Sox, Geiger was weak, sick and afraid of flying.

"I feel better than I have in years," Geiger says.
