BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — The Soviet Union is testing an improved version of its SS-20 intermediate-range nuclear missile and is developing new cruise missiles, a U.S. official said Tuesday. Ambassador H. Allen Holmes, the State Department's director of political and military affairs, told a news conference the Soviets are conducting tests "of an improved version of the SS-20." They also have been testing "land-attack ground-based missiles, their own ground-launched cruise missiles," he said.

Army secures Beirut as leaders talk peace

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UP1) — Army troops secured Christian east Beirut Tuesday after the worst fighting between rival Christian forces in five years as President Amin Gemayel and Syrian President Hafez Assad wound up crucial talks on a Lebanese peace pact. Some 2,200 Lebanese soldiers, supported by U.S.-made M-48 tanks and M-113 armored personnel carriers, moved into east Beirut trouble spots at dawn, mounting patrols and manning checkpoints to bolster a 12-hour cease-fire between rival factions, military sources said.

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates (UPI) — Forces loyal to President Ali Nasser Mohammed of South Yemen fought tank and naval battles Tuesday in the port capital of Aden against rebelious troops who supported a coup attempt in the pro-Soviet nation. There were no immediate reports of casualties in the fighting, which was centered in Aden, but sources contirmed reports that Mohammed was "slightly wounded" during an argument with his vice president, who was shot and killed by palace guards.

Americans want seat belt laws, poll shows

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (UP1) — A national public opinion poll released Tuesday shows most Americans feel that seat belts save lives and they would obey mandatory safety belt laws if they were enforced in their states. The poll, conducted by telephone last month by Nordhaus Research Inc., found that nearly three-fourths of the 2,000 Americans interviewed would like to see their states adopt mandatory seat belt laws. About 86 percent said such laws should be strictly enforced, the poll reported.

Convention center development stalls

The City Council Monday postponed selection of a developer for the down'own hotel-convention center after the financing and franchise proposals of one of the development groups came into ouestion estion

At the request of the Council, a special council meeting will be held Jan. 22 to give the group in question — Crystal Development Corp. and Ibis Hotels — time to discuss a franchise agreement with officials from Ibis' Eastern U.S. headquarters in Atlanta

Smoke detectors for residence halls

THE CARBONDALE CITY COUNCIL recently mandated that

THE CARBONDALE CITY COUNCIL recently mandated that smoke or heat detectors be placed near the bedroom areas of all Carbondale residences. Fire Chief Charles McCaughan has said that smoke detectors are "the best insurance to save a person's life" in case of a residential fire. City officials plan to enforce the ordinance immediately. Fines will be levied if inspected houses, apartment buildings, dor-mitories and hotels don't comply within ten days of notification. Smoke detectors are thought to provide people with earlier warning than heat detectors and therefore better chances of escaping a fire. When monitored in an apartment building or dormitory, the location of a fire can be pinpointed, saving firefighters time in combatting a blaze. It's too bad the city can't inspect and cite University Housing residence halls, however. Maybe it would light a fire under housing officials, and get them to take some action. The Legislature passed a law in 1983 requiring all college dormitories to have smoke detectors in building hallways. The University submitted its plan by Jan. 1, 1985, the deadline given by the state.

BUT ONE YEAR LATER, smoke detectors are in place only in the air circulation and trash chutes of the Brush Towers and University Park dormitories, areas housing handicapped people and the Southern Hills and Evergreen Terrace apartment buildings

Why aren't there smoke detectors in all residence hall hallways, at least? Or even in the rooms? According to Samuel Rinella, housing director, University Housing is waiting to see if any legislation will be proposed requiring detectors to be placed in the rooms instead of the hallways. Apparently, the University doesn't want to have to redo a smoke detector system until it is sure what exactly is required. Also, installing smoke detectors is an expensive proposition. Rinella estimates it would cost $500,000 to $750,000 to install them in the hallways.

BUT WHY DOES THE UNIVERSITY have to wait on the

BUT WHY DOES THE UNIVERSITY have to wait on the action of the legislature before taking a step to ensure the safety of the approximately 5,000 people living in the buildings? McCaughan called smoke detectors "the cheapest form of insurance" against death and injury in a residential fire. Can a public building be too safe? The time for waiting is over. Put smoke detectors in the rooms, whether the legislature calls for them or not. Connect the detectors it to a central monitoring switchboard, and the threat of vandalism will be diminished; students would be less likely to fool around with a smoke detector if they knew the alarm could be traced to their rooms, and if punishment for setting off a detector was swift and strong — such as expulsion from the residence halls, or if other disciplinary charges were brought. And the cost could be passed on to the residents of the halls. They now pay fees to support such frivolous items and activities as sports equipment, field trips to $1.0 as emester is a small price to pay for increased security.

U.S. needs to re-think policy of involving military in Libya

Let them nearbitle a solution to them negotiate a solution to the problems that cause terrorists to go to war against the world

good start would be to get the Israelis and the Arab world together to find a homeland for the Palestinians, who have been without one since the formation of Israel in 1948.

Khadafy has repeatedly said he will continue to spend any amount of money to finance the destruction of the Jewish state, which he regards as a nation of criminals that stole the very land they live on. And he has vowed the same for any moderate Arab state, such as Jordan or Saudi Arabia, which makes peace with Israel.

NASA orders early shuttle landing

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) - NASA Tuesday or-dered the shuttle astronauts to land in Florida a day early, on Thursday, to give technicians more time to ready Columbia for launch again March 6 on a major Halley's comet ob-servation mission.

The decision to shorten the flight from five to four days was made after the crewmen were unable to repair an electronic device designed to intensify photographic images of the distant comet as it nears the sun.

"THE DECISION has just been made to bring you back one day early, that is Thur-sday." Jim Wetherbee told the astronauts. "We've ac-complished a significant ortion of the payload ac-vities. We really appreciate tivities your hard work.

"This insures an extra op-portunity at (Kennedy Spa, Center) for landing, which also insures we'll get Columbia back down on the ground and turned around and back into the operational flow again

WE'D LIKE to let you stay a little bit longer but we can' so we'll bring you back one day early

Commander Robert "Hoot" Gibson, whose crew waited 25 days to get airborne, feigned communications problems and replied

Jim you broke up a little bit. Understand you're going to extend us for two days?"

"Please do not shoot the bearer of this message," Wetherbee replied from mission control in Houston.

"OK, JIM, we copy, you're going to bring us down a day early, "Gibson acknowledged. The plan now is for Gibson, George Nelson, Steven Hawley, Franklin Chang-Diaz, RCA engineer Robert Cenker and Rep. Bill Nelson, D-Fla. to complete their experiments Wednesday and then pack up for the glide back to Earth Thursday morning. Landing is scheduled for 8:28 a.m. EST.

IT WAS the third time a shuttle flight had been ordered to end earlier than planned. Columbia's second flight in 1981 was shortened because of generator problems, and a military flight last January was cut short because of bad weather forecasts at the landing site

Because Columbia's blastoff Sunday was so late, spaceport engineers face extremely tight chedules to get the ship ready fly again in only weeks

THE MARCH flight has rigid timetable because of the plans to study Comet Halley with a powerful five-instrument observatory called Astro at the same time two Russian and a European spacecraft are taking close up looks at Halley. Landing weather was a key factor in the come-home-early decision. The shuttle will be landing back at the cape for the first time since last April and conditions are expected to be somewhat better Thursday than Friday, although forecasters said Friday's weather should be acceptable. forecasters

Jamal Izzat Saymeh, of 704 E. Park, Carbondale, was given a traffic citation Monday for failing to stop after being involved in a motor vehicle accident at the intersection of South Illinois Avenue and Lincoln Drive. Saymeh was released upon agreement to appear in Jackson County Court in Murphysboro on Feb

According to SIU police reports, Saymeh entered the intersection while the light was turning from yellow to red. The 1973 Chevrolet he was driving was struck by Louis G. Pukelis, an SIU-C student, who was turning his 1971 black Cadillac north on South Illinois Avenue. Saymeh continued north and Pukelis chased the car until he was close enough to read the licence number. Pukelis then went to the SIU police department to report the incident.

Police officials determined Saymeh's address and found him there with the damaged vehicle. Both Saymeh and Pukelis returned to the SIU police department.

Saymeh told police that he did not have insurance on the car and that is why he left the scene of the accident

Police reports estimate the amage at $250 for each damage vehicle.

U.S. Navy plane intercepted without incident near Libya

WASHINGTON (UPI) Two Soviet-built Libyan MiG-25 fighters intercepted a Nav surveillance plane off the Libyan coast Monday and swept past the American aircraft without threatening to shoot it down, U.S. officials child Turedon. off the shoot it dow said Tuesday

A Navy E-2C Hawkeye radar surveillance plane in the area radioed for help and two FA-18 fighters scrambled from the nearby aircraft carrier USS Coral Sea and rushed to the area, said the officials, who spoke on condition they not be identified.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger confirmed the interception and dismissed it the as nothing remarkable. 'We had "unusual or observation reconnaissance planes out and the Libyans came way north of their territory ... looked at the American plane and went back," Weinberger said, adding that the incident oc-curred "well north" of Libyan-claimed territory. The officials said the MiGs, the highest-flying interceptors in the Soviet arsenal, in-tercepted the plane between 120 to 150 miles northeast of Tripoli Mediterranean.

No incidents were reported, No incidents were reported, and the FA-18 Hornets escorted the surveillance plane, an old EA-3B Bravo, out of the region, the officials said. Libya claims the gulf as part of its territorial waters. The United States does not United States of recognize that claim

Two Navy F-14 fighters shot down two Soviet-made SU-22 Libyan fighters over the waterway in August 1981. The two Libyan jets challenged the F-14 Tomcats as they patroled over the Gulf of Sidra as part of a periodic U.S. test of the right of navigation on and over the waterway. The Tomcats the waterway. The Tomcats downed the Sukhois with missiles and escaped unscathed.

The la st incident, which occurred about midday occurred about midday Monday local time, marked Monday local time, marked the first confrontation between U.S. and Libyan forces since the United States accused Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy of being behind the terrorist attacks on the Rome and Vienna airports Dec. 27 that killed 19 people, including five Americans.

The EA-3B is equipped with electronic gear that can be used to monitor radio con-versations. One source said he did not think it came from the Coral Sea, which was operating with six escort ships in the Ionian Sea, due north of Libva

But the Hawkeye that spotted the Libyan jets and radioed for help was from the Coral Sea and was nearby, the officials said. The Hawkeye is a carrier-based Navy version of the Air Force's Airborne Warning and Control System aircraft that can search the skies for hundreds of miles.

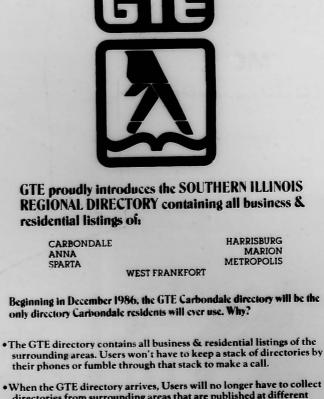

A Soviet IL-38 May, a submarine hunter, also was flying in the vicinity, the officials said.

The Bravo was flying over the Gulf of Sidra "pretty far" from the Libyan coast when, "all of a sudden, there was some communications and up popped the Mig-25s in front of the EA-3B." one official said. "The MiGs just passed close by Using its sophisticated radars, the Hawkeye directed the FA-18s from the Coral Sea to the Bravo and "before they got there, the MiGs took off," the official said.

At the same time, Soviet ships and aircraft operating in the Mediterranean area have been providing intelligence information about U.S. ship movements to Libya, Pen-tagon spokesman Robert Sims said committee is considering the possibility. Mike Kimmel, the airport board's representative to the committee, said Monday that there are a "whole lot of factors involved" in the airline's change of heart, in-cluding a loss of business for itself and Trans World Airlines, the parent airline that relies on TWE for feeder service to its hub in St Louis. vice to its hub in St. Louis

"They don't want to come in here and lose money," Kimmel said, "but they don't want to lose the market either."

TWE'S BIGGEST concern, and the reason cited for its Dec. 13 pullout, is low rider-ship, which had fallen to an average of about 700 boardings per month compared to about 1,500 boardings per month in Airport Manager Gary Shafer points out that because of the recession most airports the country suffered across across the country suffered large decreases in passengers after 1980. Deregulation initialy hurt small airports because most airlines chose to focus on the major airports. "Basically, the big airlines had just given up on the small airports," Shafer said.

Arena asks students to vote for rock bands

By Wm. Bryan DeVasher

Student input in concert selection at SIU-C has been lacking in the past few years and in an attempt to rectify the for students to voice their preferences as to which bands they would like to see, says Scott Moller, Arena Promotions director.

Promotions director. The first of several ad-vertisements seeking student input appeared in Tuesday's Daily Egyptian. The ads list 26 groups that are or will be on tour in the near future and may be potentially booked at the Arena. The ads ask students to mark how much they would be willing to pay to see each act.

Moller said that the ads are a response to research done by a marketing class, which determined students believe their input in determining concert selections is unim-portant. He added that the ads will also help the Arena determine the price range that students believe ticket prices should fall.

Doctors use back muscles to patch heart

SARASOTA, Fla. (UPI) -Surgeons have learned how to patch holes in human hearts using the patients' own back muscles and one day may use the technique instead of ar-tificial organs or transplants to treat failing hearts, a doctor reported Tuesday.

"It holds great promise," said Dr. Larry W. Stephenson, associate professor of surgery at the University of Pennsylvania

Stephenson, speaking at an American Heart Association meeting, described two cases in which the technique was used on human patients, one in Pittsburgh and another in Paris. He performed neither of the procedures, but was able to report both patients doing well months later. were

"A person's own skeletal muscle is not subject to tissue rejection," he said. "This is only one of the many ad-vantages to using the patient's own tissue rather than ar-tifical materials or tissue from others." others

In the Pittsburgh operation, performed last September by Dr. George Magovern at Allegheny General Hospital, a back muscle was wrapped around the heart of a 46-yearold woman and trained with a pacemaker to assist the heart. The woman returned home five weeks after surgery and said, "It's given me a new lease on life."

In his own research on dogs and pigs. Stephenson has created new heart chambers out of the same latissimus dorsi muscle found in the back of humans and animals. The muscle runs from the shoulder to the pelvis

The animals have lived for up to three and one-half months, said Stephenson, who said their deaths were not due to failure of the new heart muscles

Among the groups listed in the ads are Bob Dylan, Dire Straits, the Cars, Alabama, Tears For Fears and ZZ Top. Moller said that the list is not comprehensive and students may write in their favorite act in the space provided Moller said that the Arena will attempt to book the bands that receive the highest number of votes. He said, however, some bands may not be available due to various factors. These include whether or not the group will play halls the size of the Arena, tour near Carbondale and charge a price that the Arena can profit off of.

RSOs may get $284,972 from USO in fiscal 1987

By Brett Yates Staff Writer

Staff Writer About $248,972 has been projected for the Un-dergraduate Student Organizations for fiscal year 1987. says Larry Juhlin, assistant to the vice president for student affairs. Juhlin said the USO received $272,161 for fiscal year 1986. The money was obtained from student activity fees and the interest earned on those fees. He said the money for fiscal Interest earned on those lees. He said the money for fiscal 1987 — July 1, 1986 to June 30, 1987 — will come from a projected sum of $338,966 from student activity fees and their interest.

Most of the money will be allocated to RSOs, except those funded by the Recreation Center, says Rich Newell, USO finance committee chairman. To be eligible for funding, an organization must be organization must be recognized by the Office of Student Development, be in good standing as defined by OSD and have a fiscal advisor located within OSD

Funding cannot be used for food and beverages, charitable contributions, or partisan or religious activities which present only one side of an issue. Ng funding will be made after the USO Finance Committee has met

Newell said RSOs that don't Neweil said RSOs that don't have scheduled hearings with the contribute about fiscal 1987 funding for their group should pick up a fee allocation request form from the executive secretary at the USO office. The RSO will be given a scheduled time for a hearing and will be required to return the form to the general secretary 15 days before the scheduled meeting. The largest sum of money

The largest sum of money will be allocated to the five "Priority 1" organizations: USO, Student Programming Council, Black Affairs Council, Inte Greek Council and In-tern tional Student Council, Newell said. "Priority 1" organizations are those which represent the most students.

"These organizations use funds efficiently and ef-fectively and try to implement new ways to use their money from year to year," Newell said

The largest amount of RSO funding is allocated to SPC. For fiscal 1986, SPC received $102,000 from the USO and $7,000 from the Graduate and Professional Student Council, Juhlin said. SPC is expected to get a little more than $100,000 from the USO for next fiscal year, Newell said

Other funding goes to "Priority 2" groups such as the College of Business and Alpha Kappa Phi; "Priority 3" funding is allocated to the remaining RSOs.

"We are neither optimistic nor pessimistic, we are realists," he said. "The dif-ferent groups here need to respect each other, to reach out to each other, to get sober-minded about what good and what grievous harm they can do to each other."

ON NAMIBIA and Angola, Crocker said, "For both parties these are issues of life and death. We do see some possibilities if the parties concerned (South Africa and Angola) are prepared to bite the bullet and make some big decisions." He would not elaborate.

The border tension between Lesotho and South Africa was not discussed in detail, Crocker said, but he urged the two sides to make use of existing channels for negotiation.

SOUTH AFRICA surrounds Lesotho and since Jan. 1, stringent border security checks have virtually halted all imports of food, fuel and medical supplies into the country, one of the world's poorest

In Maseru, capital of Lesotho, information minister Desmond Sixishe told reporters the blockade was so severe that his government sought an international airlift for essential supplies. He said the government was ready "to discuss what South Africa wants at any time.

Saluki men swim up to par

"The fish are large enough to have excellent chances for survival, more so than smaller fingerlings or frys," Cameron

According to state con-servation laws, rainbow trout are not regulated by size but by total number. Anglers are allowed to keep five rainbows on any given fishing expedition

"We'd hke to think that people will return any smaller people will return any smaller rainbows they catch." Cameron said. "Ideally, a good cating rainbow will be over 10-inches long. By returning the smaller ones now, local anglers assure themselves of better-sized fish next season." Cameron said that it takes about a year for a seven-inch rainbow to reach the ideal eating size.

One of the nicest things about the rainbow trout is its activity in colder water, Cameron said. "The rainbow gives the local anglers the chance to do some winter fishing," Cameron said. "They will be active in deeper water and they really are fun to catch, even though you may have to look for them."

Cameron said the rainbows had been concentrating around the dam area but have now spread out, making them a

A dogfight will determine the Gateway conference women's basketball cham-pionship, if the first two weeks standings remain unchanged.

At this point in round-robin action, the No. 1 Drake Bulldogs (9-5, 40) ride a seven game winning streak and hold a half game edge over the Salukis (8-3, 3-0), also on a streak with six in a row. SIU-C received 14 honorable mention votes in the AP national poll, compared to two votes for Drake. The USA-Today poll mentioned Drake, but not the

Saluki rookie leads cagers in rebounds with hard play

If one had to describe a blue collar Saluki basketball player, one would probably describe forward Billy Ross.

Though the hard-playing, solidly built Ross is only a 6-foot-4 freshman, he leads the SIU-C squad with 64 rebounds,
