Tenant union will hear initial tenant disputes

By Andris Straumanis
Staff Writer

Students who seek the aid of the students attorney in landlord-tenant disputes will first have to meet with the Student Tenant Union (STU), a member of the union says.

Phil Klafter, coordinator of special projects for the STU, said that in the past students who had difficulties with their landlords went to either the STU or the attorney.

All students will be referred directly to the tenant union as a result of a decision made at a Thursday meeting between the STU and Elizabeth Streeter, the students' attorney.

"The tenant union will be doing initial interviewing," Klafter said. The STU will decide if a student needs counseling or if some legal action is necessary.

"If (the dispute) can be settled by mediation, mediation as compared with court," Klafter said, the tenant union will try to help the student.

If the union cannot handle the dispute, an appointment with the students' attorney will be made for the student.

Streeter said she thinks the new procedure will help reduce her work load.

"If I took every single tenant case it would be overwhelming," she said.

Previously, when students went to either the STU or the attorney's office, "they were both doing the same thing," Klafter said.

Families celebrate 201st in area spots

By Kathy Flanigan
and
Sue Greene
Staff Writers

The nation's 201st birthday was slightly quieter than last year's bicentennial but several families still found swimming, boating, picnicking, flags and fireworks the best way to celebrate the Fourth of July.

Families dominated the scene at most recreation sites around the Carbondale area. Giant City State Park, Crab Orchard Lake and Lake Murphysboro State Park all had several families enjoying the sunny afternoon.

Gateway Marina, on the edge of Crab Orchard Lake was definitely "busier" than normal. Corky Brown, an employee at the Marina, said. Although most of the boats there are privately owned, several of the boats had been rented by 11 a.m. Monday morning, she said.

Lake Murphysboro State Park was full but not crowded according to Bobby G. Smith, site superintendent. Smith estimated that between 10,000 and 12,000 people would visit the park all day.

"There are a lot of places to go on the Fourth of July," Smith said, adding that the holiday was unlike Memorial Day and other legal holidays where people usually stay home with their families.

The Colonel kept busy as many families opted to picnic out with ready made fried chicken. An unusually big order for the Carbondale Kentucky Fried Chicken was a 500-piece order for Southern Hills. Southern Hills, campus married student housing, planned a big celebration slated for late evening.

Fireworks, always the highlight of Independence Day, didn't disappoint spectators at Abe Martin Field.

This year sponsored by the Carbondale Lions Club, the blazing rockets entertained faculty, students and Carbondale residents with a colorful display.

Old Glory lined the business districts in Carbondale and Murphysboro. Many families also recognized the country's birthday by displaying flags at their homes.

Unfortunately the Fourth is always an occasion for highway accidents. Before the homebound rush of traffic began Monday, 372 persons had been killed in traffic accidents. The National Safety Council estimates that between some 500 and 600 people will die in accidents on the highways during the three-day weekend.

Iran claims SIU supports dissidents

By Ron Morgan
Student Writer

SIU has been identified as a financial backer of revolutionary activities against the Shah of Iran, a government-controlled newspaper in Tehran, Iran said.

Jared Dorn, director of the International Education Office, (IEO) said Friday that a news article which appeared in the summer of 1976 accused SIU of financing Iranian student groups opposed to the Shah through student activity fees. Harvard University and the University of Chicago were also named with SIU in the news article.

The report prompted the United States Information Agency (USIA), to telephone the IEO on August 19, 1976 and request that a telegram be sent to their Washington office explaining why Iranian student groups were entitled to student activity fees, Dorn said.

The information officer who called said the USIA understood why Iranian students were allocated money but wanted the telegram to help the USIA explain the situation to the Iranian government, Dorn said.

On August 20, 1976, Dorn said in a telegram to the USIA, "I am hereby informing you that Southern Illinois University at Carbondale does not treat the activities of international students differently than those of American students.

"Students from many countries have organized national associations and carry on a wide variety of activities and programs, including social functions, forums on various topics and the publication of pamphlets and newsletters.

"As full members of this academic community these associations are entitled to use campus facilities and to expend their shares of activity funds collected from the student body.

"Because intellectual freedom, including freedom of speech, is fundamental to American higher education, Southern Illinois University neither tells foreign students what to think nor endorses the views expressed in their forums and publications."

Five days after Dorn wired his explanation to the USIA in Washington SIU appeared in the Iranian newspapers again.

On August 25, an article in the official Iranian newspaper Kayhan said, "The University at Carbondale in Southern Illinois has agreed to pay 75 per cent of the travel costs of Communist Iranians and American citizens to speak against Iran this fall."

At the time the Committee for Artistic and Intellectual Freedom in Iran (CAIFI), an official student organization, had just begun to make preparations to bring Daniel Ellsberg and Iranian poet Reza Baraheni to speak at SIU.

The Daily Egyptian did not know of the proposed lecture until a month later.

The incident gave rise to speculation that members of SAVAK, the Iranian secret police, were operating on the SIU campus.

When asked about the possibility of foreign agents operating at SIU, Dorn said, "I'm sure that not only Iran but also many other countries maintain people on this campus whose job is to keep track of foreign student activities."

Student organizations are allocated activity fees on the basis of proposals they submit to the student senate at the beginning of each semester. The student senate can approve the proposal, deny it or allocate less money than requested by the group.

Stick around for Tricentennial to see what Americans thought

By Donald Sanders
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal government, getting a head start on the nation's Tricentennial, sealed a time capsule so 21st century Americans will know how the Bicentennial was celebrated.

The National Bicentennial-Time Capsule was sealed Monday in an Independence Day ceremony at the National Archives, the nation's repository of official records.

The agency planned a reading of the Declaration of Independence, reenactments of 18th century military camp life and drills and a fire and drum corps rendition of music of the Revolutionary War era as part of the two-hour ceremony.

The capsule, embodying the latest in sophisticated technology to insure its preservation, is to be opened in 2075, a year in advance of whatever Tricentennial celebration is planned.

Each of the states has a similar capsule to let the Tricentennial's planners know about the 1976 celebration.

Among the items in the National Archives capsule:

- The 7th Fleet flag that greeted the American Bicentennial in 1976 on Guam, where the country's day begins. The flag was flown in New York City during the tall ships spectacle.

—The first page of a visitors' register kept at the National Archives a year ago during a 76-hour vigil over the nation's basic documents.

The page was signed by former President Gerald Ford, former House Speaker Carl Albert, Chief Justice Warren Burger, former Vice President Nelson Rockefeller and former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

—The pens these signers used, along with 788 microfilm pages of other signatures.

—Fourth of July copies of The Washington Post and Washington Star.

—"The Written Word Endures," an Archives publication about basic U.S. documents, including the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence.

—Photographs of the July 24, 1976, festivities at the Archives.

—Letters from 33 governors detailing the location of the state capsules and their contents.

Anti-Nazi groups set Skokie rallies

By Marc Wilson
Associated Press Writer
SKOKIE, Ill. (AP)—Calling it a "matter of Jewish survival," three anti-Nazi groups planned demonstrations Monday in the Chicago area despite cancellation of a march here by a national organization of Nazis.

"We know they will be coming some day soon, and we want to show them we'll be ready," said Rabbi Meir Kahane, founder of the militant Jewish Defense League.

Kahane predicted that the courts would soon permit a Nazi march here. "But we won't let it be a matter of Jewish survival."

Kahane has promised Skokie Mayor Albert Smith that his organization will remain on private property, demonstrating peacefully, unless Nazis appear in Skokie. If Nazis appear, "there will be violence - I promise it," Kahane says.

Kahane contends that Skokie is a test case. "If we don't stop them here, Nazis will be marching in the streets of five other cities within a year."

An estimated 7,000 survivors of World War II Nazi death camps live in Skokie, a Chicago suburb of 69,000 persons.

In addition to the JDL demonstration, protest rallies have been planned by groups calling themselves "Run the Nazis Out Coalition," "The Workers Defense Coalition,"

Nazi leader Frank Collin said storm troopers have been assigned to guard his headquarters on a 24-hour basis. He said he ordered the guard after 100 demonstrators picketed the two-story building Saturday, resulting in a brief scuffle between the demonstrators and Nazis. Five persons were treated for minor injuries.

Collin, at the opening of the National Socialist Congress in Chicago this weekend, canceled march plans because of a temporary injunction and three recently passed village ordinances barring the march.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled June 15 that the injunction must be speedily reviewed or vacated. The Illinois Appellate Court has scheduled a hearing on the case for Friday.

Acting director named for School of Journalism

An assistant professor of journalism has been named acting director of the School of Journalism.

Joseph M. Webb, 35, will begin his duties at the beginning of fall semester. He replaces George C. Brown, who resigned in 1976 to return to full-time teaching. Brown has been director since 1974.

A committee is currently searching for a permanent Journalism

School director.

Webb, a native of Herrin, came to SIU last year after teaching at California State University at Northridge and the University of Tennessee.

He is a graduate of the University of Illinois, receiving his doctorate in 1973 and his master's degree in 1968. He received his bachelor's degree in 1964 from Lincoln Christian College.

College of Science appoints new dean

Norman J. Doorenbos, a pharmaceutical chemist and University of Mississippi department chairman, has been named dean of the College of Science.

Doorenbos, who has procured 43 research grants and contracts totaling more than $1.5 million from 17 agencies, will succeed John C. Guyon, now dean of the Graduate School and associate vice president for research.

The appointment, announced Thursday by Frank Horton, vice president for academic affairs and research, will become effective August 15. It is subject to approval by the Board of Trustees.

Doorenbos has been chairman of the pharmaceutical department at Ole Miss since 1967. He has a B.S. in chemistry and an M.S. and Ph.D. in pharmaceutical chemistry from the University of Michigan.

Prior to his position at Mississippi, Doorenbos taught at the University of Maryland for nine years and was a research chemist in private industry in New York.

Father charged with arson, murder

NORTHLAKE (AP)—Everett Bowen, 34, father of three children killed in a fire at their home over the weekend has been arrested and charged with arson and murder in connection with the blaze, police said Monday.

Three of Bowen's children, Sherri, 12, Julie, 8, and Mark, 5, were killed in the fire that broke out early Saturday in the Northlake home in which the children and their mother were staying. The children's mother, Evelyn, and another son, Robert, escaped from the fire. Northlake Fire chief Julius Sharpy called the fire suspicious because of the speed with which it spread through the 1½-story brick house.

Carter awards Medals of Freedom

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter announced Monday he is awarding the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian award, to the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. and Dr. Jonas E. Salk.

The citation for King, the civil rights leader who was murdered in Memphis, Tenn., in 1968, "was the conscience of his generation." The award to Salk, who developed the polio vaccine that bears his name said: "Because of his tireless work, untold hundreds of thousands who might have been crippled are sound in body today."

National Guardsmen fill prison posts

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—About 1,600 National Guardsmen filled posts left vacant at state prisons and other institutions when members of the Wisconsin State Employees Union, an AFL-CIO affiliate, went on strike early Sunday. Gov. Patrick Lucey ordered the guardsmen to duty under a state of emergency.

Thomas King, executive director of the state employees union, said he expected about a third of his union's approximately 23,000 members would participate in the walkout and a greater number would become involved Tuesday as state government resumed post-holiday office hours.

Matt Fessell
Staff Writer

The Driver's License Examining Station in Carbondale has issued its first photo identification card. It was made out to Thornton Bellm, regional director of driver's license examination.

The new ID cards look similar to the new style of Illinois driver's licenses which have been available since June 17. Both have color photographs of the owner.

Bellm, who received his card

Friday, said he was not surprised by the lack of interest in the new IDs. "I don't expect a big rush. All these people are waiting for drivers licenses, not IDs," he said, indicating five people waiting in the license examining station at 1202 W. Main.

The Illinois Legislature approved a 1977 budget of $2.9 million for the driver's license and ID programs. Licenses cost $8 and expire in three years. An ID is good for five years and costs $4. IDs are free to anyone age 65 or over.

A spokesperson for Secretary of State Alan Dixon said the IDs are intended for people who don't drive but need a widely accepted form of identification. The IDs will be administered like driver's licenses and be kept track of in Springfield just like drivers licenses.

"We're talking mainly about the handicapped and elderly who don't drive," the spokesperson explained. "The cards can be used for check cashing or, in the case of college students, as proof of age to get into drinking establishments."

The spokesperson said that the photo ID program was added to the photo driver's license program because it cost virtually nothing extra.

New agency given state energy duties

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Probably the most significant energy-related bill to come out of the 80th General Assembly this spring was one that would create a new Division of Energy for the state.

The division would tackle research questions on alternative power sources, energy scarcity and other conservation matters.

The legislature, in the waning hours of its spring session, approved a bill creating the agency as part of the Department of Business and Economic Development.

The bill setting up the agency, combined with other measures, would give Illinois a systematic way to deal with future energy problems, and qualify the state for more federal grant money.

In another bill, the legislature voted to curb the power of state pollution control agencies to regulate sulfur dioxide pollutants which belch from smoke stacks, thereby encouraging use of high-sulfur Illinois coal.

The bill on sulfur dioxide provides that state regulations be no more restrictive than federal standards.

The legislature rejected a five-year ban on nuclear power plant construction.

The Division of Energy and companion bills have the tentative blessing of Gov. James R. Thompson. The Department of Business and Economic Development has assumed leadership in many energy conservation matters in the past two years under administrative order of former Gov. Daniel Walker.

The state's present Division of Energy, which would be replaced by the one created by law, was set up under Walker's administration.

"This will give Illinois the most comprehensive energy policy in the nation," declared Rep. Adeline J. Geo-Karis, R-Zion, vice chairman of the Illinois Energy Resources Commission, which drafted most of the legislation.

Highlights of the energy package include:

—The Comprehensive Solar Energy Act, defining solar energy systems, funding demonstration projects and educational programs and providing incentives for construction of solar systems. A companion bill forbids public utilities from discriminating against persons who use solar power.

—Illinois Coal Development Act. Coal utilization projects including gasification plants would appropriate $65 million for research and development.

—Alternate energy. An amendment to the coal development act by Rep. Geo-Karis earmarks $5 million for research on alternative energy sources like geothermal power, solid wastes, wind power and gasoline made from agricultural products.

—Consumption. All state agencies will be required to analyze the cost of energy consumption as a part of planning for new construction or renovation. Another bill would allow the state superintendent of education to authorize four-day weeks, longer school days and emergency closings during power or energy shortages without loss of state school aid.

Another authorizes the state to set up programs to encourage car pooling by state employees.

Panther founder returns from exile

OAKLAND (AP) — Black Panther leader Huey Newton, who in the 1960s helped found the gun-toting radical group that now aspires to peaceful reform, has returned to fight for his legal freedom after 2½ years of self-imposed exile in Cuba.

Newton, 35, arrived at San Francisco International Airport Sunday night on a flight from Vancouver, Canada, to face murder and assault charges and to resume active leadership of the Black Panther party.

Newton quickly was taken into custody by Oakland police, but not before responding to a warm welcome from a boisterous crowd of about 500 persons.

"I'm glad to be back with you," Newton said while standing atop an airline counter with his wife, Gwen, and Black Panther chairperson Elaine Brown. "Stay with me and we'll become closer together."

He was locked in an Oakland jail cell less than two hours after his return. An attorney for Newton said an effort would be made Monday to free him on bail.

In his airport speech, Newton pledged to work for full employment and economic redistribution. "I have returned to continue my commitment to work for progressive change in our society," he said.

Hospital plans baby-sit class

A baby-sitting workshop for teenagers will be held July 21 at the Memorial Hospital of Carbondale. Covering poison control, basic first aid, emergencies, and care of infants and older children, the program is designed to help teenagers become safer more competent baby-sitters.

Participants are not required to register and there is no charge for the workshop. The program will be held in the conference room of the hospital located on the first floor. The program will be held from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Certificates of attendance will be given at the end of the program.

Speakers for the workshop for the workshop include Carolyn Harrell, registered nurse, supervisor of the hospital's emergency department; Bobby Waggoner and Linda Spalding, aides in the hospital's nursing department; Patrolman Norman Horner, Carbondale Police Department; and Capt. Everett Rushing, Carbondale Fire Department.

The program is part of the Memorial Hospital of Carbondale's effort to provide more hospital based community services. George Maroney, hospital administrator, said. He said the program can provide assurance to parents that baby-sitters who have completed it are qualified.

WSIU-TV shifts time of newscast

WSIU-TV, Channel 8, will switch its evening newscast from 5 p.m. to 5:30 beginning Tuesday, news director Ed Brown announces.

"We are adding the MacNeil-Lehrer Report from PBS to our evening schedule at 6 o'clock," said Brown. "Our own newscast should be a good lead-in to the network news and should strengthen our evening news coverage."

The MacNeil-Lehrer Report with correspondents Robert MacNeil and Janet Lehn, a news commentary and analysis program which covers one major news story each night. It originates from New York and Washington.

Pinball tournament slated for weekend

Theater offers

'Carnival' next

Colorful puppets, acrobats, clowns and magicians bring all the music, laughter and enchantment of a carnival to the University stage Theater, when Summer Playhouse 1977 opens "Carnival," July 8.

A musical for the whole family, "Carnival" follows the adventures of a young orphan girl named Lili, who wanders into a carnival and falls under its spell of tinsel and make-believe.

The charming puppets and the antics of the carnival roustabouts delight the child in everyone. Yet "Carnival" has a poignant side as well. Paul, the puppeteer, falls in love with Lili, but she is captivated by the handsome musician, Marco the Magnificent, and has to learn the ageless lesson about the bittersweet nature of love.

The show ran for almost a year on Broadway and garnered a Best Actress Tony Award for Al' erghetti. The Summer Playhouse production of "Carnival" stars Jeanne Drakulich, an actress with the Dinglefest Theater in Chicago, as Lili. Darwin Reid Payne, associate professor of theater, is set designer, and director Choreography is by Linda Kostaki, instructor of theater. Michael Hanes, assistant professor in the School of Music, is musical director and orchestra conductor.

"Carnival" runs July 8 to 10, and July 15 to 17 at 8 p.m. in the University Theater, Communications Building.

Tickets are $5 for the public and $3 for SIU students, and may be purchased at the Theater Department Box Office, or at the Student Center Central Ticket Office. Ticket information is available at the Theater Box Office, 453-5741.

'Lolita' author dead at 78

MONTREUX, Switzerland (AP)—Vladimir Nabokov, the Russian-American author of "Lolita" who was regarded as one of the most original English prose stylists in modern literature, has died at the age of 78.

His death Saturday night was announced Monday by the deluxe Palace Hotel at Montreux, where he had lived with this wife since 1961. Cause of death was not given.

Nabokov wrote nearly a score of novels, including nine in Russian under the pseudonym V. Sirin. Numerous short stories, some poetry, a brilliant memoir, "Invitation to a Beheading," a translation of Pushkin's "Eugene Onegin," and a few works of criticism. In recent years he and his son had collaborated on translating the Russian novels for publication in English.

In a rare interview given six months ago, Nabokov described himself as "an American writer born in Russia and educated in England where I studied French literature before spending 15 years in Berlin."

But he told the interviewer America "is the only country where I feel mentally and emotionally at home."

Nabokov is survived by his wife of 32 years, Vera Slonim, to whom all his novels are dedicated, and their son Dmitri, an opera singer and sports car racer.

Music students leave for study tour

Eighteen music students will embark Tuesday on a five-week study tour in England.

The School of Music, through the division of Continuing Education, is offering students four weeks of course work at Bedford College. The final week is left free for the students before the return flight on Aug. 9.

Bedford College is a division of the University of London, where the students will spend most of their study time. Course content will be oriented to the historical heritage and contemporary music life of Great Britain. A maximum of six hours of credit is offered from the excursion.

Students will be accompanied by Steven Barwick and Robert Mueller, faculty members of the School of Music. Barwick will take some students to Paris to visit Jules Gentil, noted French pianist and Barwick's teacher.

Several other students will visit the Fountains Summer School with Mueller during the fifth week. Mueller attended the school where composition teacher Nadia Boulanger, twice a visitor to SIU, is the director.

Several other students will visit the new Pompidou Center and the Electro-Acoustic Research Laboratory, all headed by Pierre Boulez.

IM golf tournament deadline nears

By Jim Mismas
Sports Editor

Entry deadline for the summer intramural golf tournament scheduled July 11 and 12 at Midland Hills Golf Course is noon Thursday.

Entry fees for the 18-hole tourney are $3 for SIU summer students, and $4 for faculty and staff who have aided the $20 user fee for the recreation Building.

Midland Hills is a par 35, 2,939-yard course located 5½ miles south of Carbondale off U.S. 51.

"It's a very hilly course, Jean Paratore, coordinator of IM sports, said. "I've never played golf there, but I've seen some cross-country meets at Midland. It looks like a tough course."

Sam Berst, a pro-shop worker at Midland, said the course's condition has been aided by last week's rain. "Sure, the rain has really helped," Berst said. It had been like desert country, but now the course looks a lot different. The fairways have been helped by the rain and you won't get as much roll anymore.

"The greens are in great shape, too, but they've been in real good condition all year," Berst said. Paratore said tee times will be scheduled from 1 to 5 p.m. She said at the time a person signs up, he can request a tee time for both days.

A modified Callaway handicap system will be employed during the tournament. The system takes a golfer's worst holes away from his total score.

Three flight winners, the low scratch scorer and the "closest to the pin" winner on the second hole will be awarded trophies by the IM department.

The flights will be determined by a division of all entries into equal segments according to original scores.

Paratore said golf carts and clubs will be available for rent at Midland Hills. She added that golfers should report to the clubhouse 15 minutes before tee-off time.

For more information call 536-5531 or contact the intramural office staff in Room 135 of the Recreation Building.

Seattle Slew finally loses, places fourth

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Seattle Slew's owner Mickey Taylor made no excuses. "The other horse just ran a super race," he said. "We came up empty. Slew just didn't have it."

So in the $316,400 Swaps Stakes, the saga of undefeated Seattle Slew was interrupted Sunday. The Triple crown winner lost by 1½ lengths to O. Tobin, finishing fourth in a field of seven.

Trainer Billy Turner, who watched Slew win the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes, commented: "We sure let the crowd down, didn't we? Slew came out of the race well. He broke good, he just didn't run his race. Maybe the grind of the Triple Crown was too much. "But don't underestimate J.O. Tobin," added Turner. "He's good orse. He ran in bad luck in the Preakness."

J. for Joseph O. for Oliver Tobin broke like a bullet," declared jockey Bill Shoemaker. "I didn't expect to be in the lead all the way, at he broke so well I just let him go."

Joseph Oliver Tobin, named for a friend of owner George Pope of Indio, Calif., simply legged his way to a Swaps Stakes record of 1:58.5, just two-fifths off the track record for one 1¼-mile distance.

In comparison, the Kentucky Derby over the same distance was won by Seattle Slew in 2:02 1/5. In the Preakness, Tobin broke poorly and was boxed midway in the race before finishing fifth.

J.O. Tobin collected $194,900 for a victory in a race expected to be a notch for Seattle Slew. The fourth-place money was just $18,000.

In second place in the race for 3-year-olds, eight lengths behind the winner, was the 18-1 shot Affiliante, who finished third.

J.O. Tobin paid $8.20, $3.60 and $2.20 with Affiliante returning $7.00 and $5.20 and Text paying $5.20 to now. Seattle Slew had gone off as a 5 favorite of the crowd of 68,115 which sent wagers totalling $659,742 down the drain.

J.O. Tobin led Seattle Slew for two lengths going into the back stretch and by three, with Text in between, to the turn.

"I know we were beat into the first turn," commented losing jockey Dean Cruquet. "He just wasn't himself. He was fine warming up and the track was fine and he didn't have any trouble handling it. He just didn't fire. It was a little tight into the backstretch, but if I would have had enough horse, it wouldn't have made any difference."

Even Lemon surprised by Sox' three-game lead

By Joe Mombili
AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—"I have to be honest," said Manager Bob Lemon of the Chicago White Sox. "I didn't dream at the start of the season that we'd be in first place, let alone by three games at the Fourth of July."

That's where the hit-happy White Sox were following 6-0, 10-8 victories over the Minnesota Twins Sunday for a sweep of their four-game series. The Twins came to town with a one-game lead over the White Sox Friday and left trailing by three.

Wilbur Wood, turning in his finest performance since having his left kneecap shattered a year ago, limited the Twins to three singles the first game and the Sox battered Minnesota with 13 hits in the eighth, eight for extra bases including home runs by Jim Spencer, Jim Essian and Alan Bannister.

"I've always said I'm the world's worst manager against the home run," said Twins' Manager Gene Mauch. "There were two outs in the fourth with Ralph Garr, Jack Brohamer and Essian coming up. The next thing I know they have four more runs."

Garr doubled and scored on a single by Brohamer. Essian hit his seventh homer and Bannister followed with his second.

The Sox also scored four runs in the first on a single by Jorge Orta, a double by Richie Zisk, a triple by Lamar Johnson and Spencer's 12th home run.

"It's the greatest series I ever had," said Spencer, who hit two home runs and knocked in eight runs Saturday. "We didn't know what we had in spring training and after the poor season we had last year I think most of the guys felt we'd do well if we played .500 this season."

"Not now—we're in this thing all the way," added Spencer. "These fans are fantastic, they gave me the chills."

After Spencer hit his homer the crowd of 33,896—which boosted the three-date series total to 96,564—rose for a standing ovation and would not cease until Spencer came out of the dugout to acknowledge them. The crowd did the same thing after Essian and Bannister hit their homers.

"They just go out and club the ball," Lemon said in recognition of his team's hitting. "They simply make sure the pitchers have enough runs."

Salukis' Kee 2nd at Russia

Saluki Mike Kee finished second in the 100-meter dash at the 15th annual USSR-USA track and field meet held last weekend at Sochi, Russia. Kee, who placed fourth in the 1977 NCAA 100-meter dash, was second at Russia behind champion Cliff Wiley who won the event with a time of 10.36.

Kee, a sophomore from Dorchester, Mass., qualified for the meet through a third place 100-meter finish at the Amateur Athletic Union national track and field meet held in June in Los Angeles.

The Russians won the meet for the 12th time as the men won, 118-105, and the Soviet women won, 69-66.

TOURNAMENT
July 9 & 10 Student Center

Karen Hunsaker thinks Bell Smith Springs is the most beautiful spot she has ever camped in. She and her family go tent camping. No fiberglass and aluminum shelter for this bunch, they like to rough it and no wonder, with a bank teller and a math professor in the family naturally they need to get away from it all. She recommends learning everything you can about poison ivy and take along plenty of bug spray. We recommend travellers checks, they can be mighty handy . . . even in Bell Smith Springs.

A Quiet Fourth

Many people found this year's Fourth of July a quiet follow up to the Bicentennial. Carol Davidson, senior in social welfare, and her friends Karen Holshouser and Beverly Boyd, both of Anna, found picnicking a good way to enjoy the sunny holiday weather. Others, like the boaters on Crab Orchard Lake, bask in the sun, tan and relax during the three-day weekend. Fishing becomes a family sport on Lake Murphysboro everyone is home to celebrate the summer holiday.
