SIU drops lawsuit against 85 of 104

By Jeff Jouett
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU dropped its class action suit against 85 of the 104 terminated faculty and staff Tuesday.

John C. Feirich, attorney for SIU, also filed a motion to amend the original complaint to a litigation against the 19 individuals not dismissed as defendants. List of Dismissed defendants on page 3.

The 85 fired employees dismissed from the suit include members of the original 104 who have reached settlements with the University, those who have been rehired in different posts by SIU or hired elsewhere, and all persons on term appointments, according to the motion filed at Jackson County Courthouse.

Circuit Judge Peyton Kuncle will hear the motion to amend the original complaint at 9 a.m. June 13.

If the motion is allowed, SIU's suit will no longer be a class action suit, but will be against the 19 members of the 104 who have not signed settlements. The 19 will be named in the amended complaint, Feirich said Tuesday.

Of the 85 released from the litigation, 57 are on term appointments, 22 on continuing appointments, and 16 have tenure.

The 19 remaining in the suit consist of 13 tenured faculty and 6 faculty and staff on continuing appointment. Keith Leasure, vice president for academic affairs and provost said Tuesday.

Persons on term appointments are listed as "unnecessary parties" because they were given the contractually required six month's notice, according to Feirich's motion.

Fired faculty and staff who accepted cash settlements were required to sign a release that forfeits their right to individual grievances and representation in the suit, Leasure said. Faculty accepting other positions at SIU are required to sign a similar release, Leasure added.

The motion to amend the class action suit argues that those accepting cash settlements and those rehired also "are no longer necessary parties."

In explaining the request to change the suit from class to individual action the motion states "defendants have, by their motion (to dismiss the class action suit), exhibited a desire to be sued as individuals."

"The plaintiff is willing to accommodate them," the motion continues.

Feirich said that SIU's voluntarily changing to individual action makes the motion to dismiss, filed by Carl Runge, attorney for the 104, unnecessary.

The suit against individuals will continue to deal only with the issue of financial exigency, Feirich said. The class action complaint against 104 fired faculty was to establish "that a bona fide financial exigency existed," according to Feirich.

Feirich said he got the word to dismiss the suit against 85 of 104 on Friday from the Office of SIU Legal Counsel.

"It was the most realistic thing to do in light of present situations," he said. "I would like to quit messing around and get right to the heart of the matter. And the heart of this matter is whether financial exigency existed and whether it was properly declared," he said.

Leasure said Tuesday that some of the 19 defendants to be individually named if the motion is allowed "have negotiated, and will probably settle."

Conservation of energy saves University dollars

By Julie Titone
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU's energy conservation program saved $67,805 from November 1973 to April 1974 when compared with the same five-month period one year ago.

The savings, a result of the first phase of the Physical Plant's conservation efforts, were released last week by Thomas Engram, electrical engineer in planning and development. Engram had explained the activities of Phase I and projected future conservation phases in a presentation at a Power Management Seminar sponsored by the Capital Development Board May 14 in Springfield.

The conservation efforts, spurred last November by fuel shortages, were the result of rising costs. Rate increases at SIU over the past four years have included water and sewage, up 225 per cent; coal, up 70 per cent and expected to go up around 80 per cent this year; oil, up 273 per cent; gas, up 10 per cent; and electricity, up 43 per cent.

Phase I of the conservation program has included both manual and computerized efforts.

Manual efforts have included turning off large numbers of hallway, decorative and area lights; coordinating scheduling of clean-up crews and requesting all personnel to turn off lights in unoccupied classrooms.

An IBM System-7 mini-computer, interfaced with an existing IBM 360 computer in Data Processing, became operational Jan. 1.

Future plans for energy conservation at SIU have been outlined in numbered phases, although they may not necessarily be implemented in any certain order.

Phase II would program ten to 15 major buildings to night set-back.

Phase III would place the steam plant under complete computer control to increase efficiency and conserve energy and dollars. According to Engram, this step is extremely important since coal is expected to cost around $19 per ton next year, up from $10.50 this year.

Phase IV would bring the large campus refrigeration plants under computerized control. This should result in savings in electricity, water and steam.

In Phase V, the System-7 computer would be interfaced with the IBM 360 so it can read classroom schedules in order to program auditoriums and large classrooms to control lighting and heating, ventilating and air conditioning (HVAC) systems during unoccupied times.

Phase VI would include redesigning of many major HVAC systems, permitting fuller utilization of the computer.

During Phase VII, at least one building will be put under security surveillance using the System-7.

Housing office rapped

By Randy McCarthy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Student Tenant Union (STU) has blacklisted the SIU Office of On-Campus Housing for failing to allow a student to sit on the office's Petition Review Board.

The nine-member board hears cases of students who want to break their housing contracts with the University and advises Sam Rinella, director of housing business services, who makes the final decision on the petitions.

STU member Forest Lightle said the office was blacklisted, not because STU feels a student could be effective on the board, but rather on the principle that students shouldn't be excluded from the board.

Rinella said he "won't consider anything" until the office is removed from the blacklisted status. "Remove me, then we'll discuss it," he said.

Rinella said he didn't think a student should serve on the board because it acts as his administrative staff to review requests and advise him on the merits of each case.

"It's my staff," Rinella said. "I could do it myself and make all the unilateral decisions, but I don't want to. They (STU) can keep me on there indefinitely, I don't care."

STU also gives the on-campus housing contract as a reason for blacklisting the office. According to the STU blacklist, "the on-campus housing contract is heavily biased against the student and deprives the student of basic rights."

Lightle said the contract is "not the best," but said STU's main complaint against the office is its refusal to allow a student on the Petition Review Board.

"Students are consumers and have a right to be represented concerning their money and their lives," Lightle said. "A student on the board would have no negative effect. He'd be outnumbered and besides, Rinella can overrule the board's decisions anyway."

"It's worthless to get on it, but the point is they won't let students on the board," he said. Without a student on the board "we don't even know how they arrive at their decisions."

Lightle said putting a student on the board "would get them off the list." He said the board members "probably do the cases right and are fair to people, but the principle is to have a student on the board."

He stressed that the Offices of Off-campus Housing and Family Housing aren't blacklisted.

Student Government shows surplus funds

By Debby Ratermann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Student Government will not spend the entire $33,000 it budgeted for the 1973-74 fiscal year, Student Body Vice President Jim Kania said Tuesday.

"We had about a $2,000 carry-over from Jon Taylor's term when we took office last June," Kania said. "We'll probably have about $2,000 left, too."

Any money left will carry over to the budget of incoming Student Body President Dennis Sullivan and Vice President Robert Seely when they take office later this month.

Kania said the budget he and Student Body President Mike Carr submitted last June when they took office has been followed fairly closely.

"We haven't spent all the amounts listed," Kania said. "But I couldn't tell you right now who has spent what."

Their budget this year included $12,700 for salaries. Carr received $2,200 as president, Kania $2,000 as vice president. Their three executive assistants earned a total of $4,000. Three Student Government secretaries earned another $4,500.

Carr and Kania's administration spent $5,000 on operating expenses. Telephone bills cost $2,000; office supplies and contractual expenses cost another $2,000. Travel expenses, which were solely within the state, Kania said, were $1,000.

Organizational expenses ran only $800, with the Student Government election taking the biggest chunk—$500. The Student Welfare Commission spent $100 and the other $200 was spent on membership fees.

Student Government allocated more money to student organizations that to anything else. Under Carr's administration, the Student Senate budgeted $9,000 to student organizations.

The Association of Illinois Student Governments (AISG) received $4,000 from Carr and Kania's budget.

As President, Carr received a $1,000 contingency fund. He gave $250 of it to AISG and $750 to the newly-formed Carbondale University Community Credit Union.

Kania received a $500 contingency fund, but has only spent $160 of it. He gave $100 to AISG and spent the other $60 for a business trip to Chicago.

Kania said his administration's expenses will not be known to the exact penny until the end of the quarter, but it is certain money will be left over.

F-Senate set to get report on cut faculty

The Faculty Senate will hear a report from the ad hoc committee to assist terminated faculty at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Student Center Illinois Room.

The ad hoc committee is expected to report on the recommendations it has made to the administration concerning the future of 19 tenured faculty members who are scheduled to be terminated. The contracts of those terminated faculty expire June 30.

John King, chairman of the ad hoc committee, has said it is the committee's duty to do everything possible to see that the tenured faculty members are retained. King was not available Tuesday to comment on the committee's recommendations.

The original number of 28 tenured faculty is included in the list of 104 terminated faculty and staff presented to Circuit Judge Peyton Kuncie this week. Interim SIU President Hiram Lesar says nine of the 28 have been rehired in non-teaching positions or otherwise "settled with."

The Senate is also scheduled to hear a report from George Mace, chairman of the standing committee on the budget. At a recent Senate meeting, the committee was instructed to seek Senate counsel, approval and direction on any major police recommendation concerning the University.

The meeting will be the first full meeting attended by the 17 newly-elected members. The 28-member Senate is scheduled to make committee appointments for 1974-75.

Truckers agree to resume talks

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Striking truck drivers, asking for a $2.20-an-hour pay boost, and contractors agreed Tuesday to return to the bargaining table with hopes of ending the stall of major construction projects in 86 counties.

A spokesman for the contractors said talks would resume Friday in Springfield.

He said the strike called Monday by the Illinois Conference of Teamsters has shut down road work and other construction with 4,000 drivers idled. About 25,000 other construction workers are honoring the Teamster picket lines.

The spokesman said union demands for an increase in wages and benefits amounting to $4 an hour were exorbitant—bringing the total pay-benefit scale to more than $12 an hour.

certs 'till you play something they know," Clements explained.

"Y'know, I used to...well...I used to drink, and it wasn't right for me. I used to get drunk all the time and that messed up years of my playin'," confessed bluegrass fiddler Vassar Clements—a man who looks you straight in the eye when he talks.

"Not that I couldn't play my fiddle when I was drunk, but I couldn't learn 'cause my brain was messed up all the time," he continued. "So I been quit drinkin'...oh...eight or nine years, so when I quit I really got into playing fiddle—I didn't care if I was gonna make money at it."

"But if you believe and work hard enough on somethin', some good is gonna come out of it, I believe. And I've been at it a long time."

Clements had just finished a three-hour performance for Monday night's Convocation in Shryock Auditorium, with guitar picker Norman Blake. Both are two of the foremost session musicians in country-bluegrass-rock, and their paths crossed long enough to play a few gigs together.

Clements says he may record an album with Norman, but nothing is definite. "Everyday is gonna take care of itself," he says.

But for now, it's just a gig in a college town, and a quite successful one, too.

"I'd rather play to colleges than country folk," Clements said. "Cause college people know what yer doin' and they keep real quiet, so you know what yer doin' and they know what yer doin'—and if they don't you sure don't know 'cause they sure act like they do."

"Some of these country folk, they've only heard this country music on the radio. They listen all day for one tune and they don't listen to the rest of it. And they just sit and talk during your con-

This was partially true at Monday night's performance, for although all of the songs were enthusiastically received by the audience, the familiar tunes prompted the strongest response, perhaps because the familiarity the audience had with the basic melodies upon which Clements improvised offered more insight into his style and technique than the numerous nameless jams.

Also, since their music consisted of the bare essentials of guitar and fiddle, the intricate musical interaction of two personalities was brought to the front. Thus Clements emerged as a versatile, constantly inventive musician whose multi-octave improvisations, pitch smearing and charming rough edges were tastefully glossed by his smooth legato bowing technique.

Blake appeared as a guitarist of stunning proficiency, but one who severely limits himself within the country-bluegrass framework, offering little stylistic individuality.

Clements played several tunes with guitarist-singer-composer Sam Ruth—a newcomer to the country music world who dabbles admirably in various styles but does not seem to have a musical identity of his own.

Clements even commented after the concert that he plans to continue playing with Ruth, rather than returning to the precarious life of performing in studio recording sessions—a life that even made him contemplate getting into the vending machine business. For he expressed a disdain for the current, orchestrated Nashville sound exemplified by performers like Tammy Wynette.

"I would do it for money and that's what it would be—mechanical. If you play something day in and day out and hear it day in and day out—dumm dum dee dum—the same thing, well, it's brainwashed you and you hear it in your sleep and you could think about reading a comic book while you're playing it," Clements explained.

"If you have to read charts, and read it and lay that down, you're dependant on it. It's so hard for me to put it into words 'cause I don't know...I'm not good at puttin' words...explainin' things. I try to do it simple and really mess up. But if I can sit down and play for somebody, they understand."

Dropping of athletes' housing fines urged

By Jeff Jouett
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A three-member Ombuds-Hearing Board has recommended that University Housing drop fines and holds on transcripts of four SIU varsity football players accused of housing contract violations.

The players, all seniors, each face a $97.50 fine and a bursar's hold on transcripts for moving out of Brown Hall is the football players' dorm on Thompson Point.

The six-page board report claims that Mike Fagan, Rick Kasser, Mike Stone and Jim Sullivan were told by head football coach Richard E. Towers and assistant coach William A. Dodd that they would be allowed to move off campus after fall quarter without any penalty charge.

In October, the report alleges, the four football players were told by University Housing that there would be a $245 fine for breaking their housing contracts for winter and spring quarters.

The athletes told a board hearing on May 15 that they received bills from the SIU housing office for $245 on Feb. 5, $239 on Feb. 12, and $97.50 on April 2.

Dodd, present at the May 15 hearing, said he went to Sam Rinella, SIU Housing Director, in November 1973 asking that the four players be released from their contracts with only a $50 terminating charge, according to the report. Rinella said Tuesday that he denied this request. Dodd maintained to the board that the players never received a definite promise that they could move off campus after fall quarter without being fined.

Rinella, who was not present at the hearing, said Tuesday that all University Housing contracts state that persons moving off campus before their contract expires must pay half of their remaining rent ($97.50 per quarter), $25 for violating the contract, and an additional $25 if they do not leave school.

"No one in the University has the right to terminate housing contracts without my prior written consent," Rinella said.

The board blamed the situation on "a failure to communicate" and "neglect to have the understandings reduced to writing."

The board recommended "all charges in excess of the $25 administrative fee and all present holds be immediately dropped."

The board sent copies of its recommendations to the players, Rinella, Dodd, Athletic Director Doug Weaver, and T. Richard Mager, vice president for development and services.

The report also suggests better communication between coaches and players, fixing written statements to players at the time housing contracts are signed outlining terms of the contracts, and that the housing office should develop a consistent set of guidelines for contract terminations.

Rinella said University housing policies are consistent and are stated in copies of contracts. "I don't give special favors to athletes," Rinella said.

Fagan said neither he nor the other players ever received copies of their contracts after they signed them. "The coaches allowed us to choose rooms, so as far as I know we never signed a contract for a certain room," Fagan said.

Rinella said that he couldn't say whether the players did or did not get copies of the contracts they had signed.

"The athletic director handles housing arrangements for the various teams and the coaches take care of the contracts," Rinella said.

Weaver and Dodd were unavailable for comment.

Rinella said he is "not inclined to agree that charges should be dropped."

Rinella reported that after consultation with the athletic director he had reduced the football players' charges to $97.50 in April.

"Earlier I had agreed that if they stayed through winter they could move for the $25 fee," Rinella added.

"I feel that I have made substantial offers to these students and that I have bargained in good faith," Rinella continued.

Rinella said he will have to discuss the matter with "others on campus" before making a decision on the recommended reduction in charges to the football players.

Mager acknowledged that he received a copy of the board's report but said he "hadn't been previously advised of the situation."

Mager said he wanted to talk with Weaver and "others" before commenting.

Members of the board are Stephen L. Wasby, associate professor of government; Echol Cook, assistant professor of thermal and environmental engineering; and William Beebe, teaching assistant in history.

Tape shows Nixon told Kleindienst to drop case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Judiciary Committee heard a recording Tuesday of President Nixon ordering then Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst in "a very tough" telephone call to drop plans to appeal a court decision favorable to International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

"It was a flat order to cut it out," said Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-N.Y.). "Poor Dick Kleindienst didn't get a word in edgewise."

The recording of the April 19, 1971, conversation was played during a closed committee session at which the panel began hearing evidence its impeachment staff has compiled on White House involvement in the ITT antitrust settlement.

The committee's inquiry is focusing in part on whether the President was aware a year later that Kleindienst and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell would refuse to tell the Senate Judiciary Committee about White House involvement in the ITT settlement.

Kleindienst and Mitchell testified before the Senate committee in March 1972 at hearings on confirmation of Kleindienst to succeed Mitchell as attorney general. Most of the questioning focused on the ITT settlement and an allegation it was influenced by a $200,000 pledge from an ITT subsidiary to help underwrite the cost of the Republican National Convention.

At his confirmation hearings, Kleindienst was asked if he had talked to anyone at the White House about the ITT case.

"Not that I can recall," he replied. "It is possible that some casual reference could have been made to it, but so far as discussing any policy or any aspect of the case, I did not and I do not discuss antitrust matters there."

Mitchell, asked if he had ever discussed the case with the President, said:

"Senator, the President has never talked to me about any antitrust case that was in the department." Mitchell had left the ITT case to Kleindienst because the attorney general's former New York law firm had represented the conglomerate.

But, in a White House statement issued last Jan. 8, it was acknowledged that the President had called Kleindienst and ordered him not to appeal a court decision favorable to ITT in a government suit challenging its acquisition of Grinnell Corp.

On May 16, Kleindienst pleaded guilty in federal court to a misdemeanor charging that he "did refuse and fail to answer accurately and fully" the Senate committee's questions about the case.

The White House statement also said that, on April 20, 1971, Nixon discussed the Grinnell appeal with Mitchell and that the attorney general persuaded the President to drop his opposition to it.

In another Watergate-related development, a panel of tape experts issued a report saying that an 18½-minute gap in a White House tape was caused by at least five separate erasures. The report, somewhat similar to the panel's earlier conclusion, said a tape recorder used by Rose Mary Woods, Nixon's personal secretary, probably produced the entire buzz section.

Peoria teachers plan to contest court decision

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—A Peoria teacher's union plans to contest a court order preventing the organization from striking the city's schools, the union president said Tuesday.

"It's unfortunate that the school board wishes to use the courts as a publicity gimmick to distort the facts and impede negotiations," said Mary Beth Harper, president of the Peoria Education Association, which represents about 700 of the city's 1,100 teachers.

A three-day walkout in a salary dispute in September ended when a temporary injunction was granted. Circuit Judge Edward Haugens granted a permanent injunction Monday to the District 150 School Board of Peoria.

But Miss Harper said the union was not informed of the scheduled hearing and lacked representation. The union asked for a delay on the hearing which was changed from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. But she said the union was not informed of the change.

Miss Harper said the union plans to file a motion to reconsider the injunction.

Letters

An all-American chance

To the Daily Egyptian:

In response to Miss Marquita Grady's letter which appeared in the May 28 issue of the Daily Egyptian, we the members of the SIU Rugby Club would just like to make three things perfectly clear.

First, we are not a "white frat" which is how you referred to us in your recent verbal travesty. We are a club with open membership.

Second, we heartily sympathize with your cause. We realize how oppressed you are and would like to offer you a tryout for the team. You see, we are neither racist nor sexist. We always urge the women of SIU to participate in the activities, both during and after our games. After all, this is what makes Rugby the great sport that it is.

Third, we would like to offer our apologies if we offended you by raising the fallen sign which proclaims "Welcome to Carbondale, Home of the SIU Salukis." Next time it is down, we'll let you prop it up again.

See you at practice.

'I am running'

To the Daily Egyptian:

In the June 1 DE, the article entitled "Jackson County Board Appoints SIU Professor to Clerk Position" says: "Harrell said he didn't know if he would run for the office or not." The fact is I am definitely and officially on the ballot for the General Election of 1974, having been put there by a unanimous vote of the Jackson County Democrat Central Committee. There is no doubt that I will run. I am running now, in fact.

"Take a Tip"

To the Daily Egyptian:

One more quiet round of applause, please, this time for the Special Meetings Office, for scheduling two of the best instrumentalists in the business—Mr. Vassar Clements and Mr. Norman Blake—Monday evening in Shryock Auditorium. It seems ironic that a free Conventions concert should be so relaxed and enjoyable, yet so rich in musical inventiveness, while most of the high-priced elaborate spectacles staged elsewhere on this campus should prove such a disappointment—disappointment that ends up costing you about five bucks a throw to suffer.

But then you don't have to advise anyone who saw John Hartford's understated masterpiece in the Arena last year of this simple fact: all the amplifiers and fancy light shows in the world can't disguise musical ineptness to a knowledgeable audience. Take a tip, Special Meetings Office and Activities Board, and please don't underestimate the taste and intelligence of a generation that loves music professionally performed, no matter what its mode of exposition. Get the good musicians: the good music will follow.

Undermanned press

Conversing with a group of SIU journalism students in the Illinois Senate chamber, Sen. Kenneth Buzbee, D-Carbondale, criticized the state legislature press corps for frequently failing to cover behind-the-scenes activity from the Senate floor proceedings.

The naive condition he blamed as an effect of being "woefully undermanned." In the light of increasing journalism/graduates making a tight job market, this criticism should be a relic of the penny press "scoop news" era. Yet it remains because it is true, the image of the harried reporter waiting on his source, a smooth politician, minutes before press time.

One of the ideals of the press is to guard the public by keeping tabs on its government. Certain closed door maneuvering may bring better government, yet secrecy has bred large distrust. Clearly the public needs a knowing eye.

Watergate would have been forgotten if not for the tireless work of Bernstein and Woodward, two very different young reporters who happened to work out together. Circumventing the last say

"It's Not All Wine, Women and Song, But..."

If it sounds like the title of Jim Bouton's third book, it isn't. No, it's the headline to an article recently appearing in a prominent Southern Illinois newspaper concerning the night life of Illinois senators.

Some of the senators—particularly localite Ken Buzbee—feel they don't have it so good. Yesterday, his thoughts concerning journalists were freer than the ERA-supporting women had hoped them to be.

Quoted in the article as saying, "If we accepted every invitation, we would all be drunks," Buzbee disputed the statement. He felt the remark was taken out of the jovial context it was made in and came out sounding like many of the senators were drunks.

"As a person in the public eye, I know everything I do or say may be newsworthy, so I know I must be careful," he remarked, "but with the complete distrust of the government these days, Rona Barrett-type stuff is very damaging."

"I will not give him another story," Buzbee maintained.

history. It may be undeserved. The reason being public suspicion that Watergates happen all the time.

Buzbee did not say public is poorly served as a result of naive reporting. He did say he is amazed at the amount of closed committee work not being interpreted by veteran reporters. The only solution can be a better equipped staff. A considerable amount of the reporter's intuition toward a daily story is not developed and therefore not printed.

Getting to the bottom of one story may be greatly involved, out of one man's reach, so only a recording of momentary action is written down. It took the theft of the Pentagon Papers to confirm suspicions about U.S. policy in Vietnam. The daily barrage of casualty statistics and unrecognizable battle scenes only dulled the audience.

Let clerks do the clerk work. Send the inexperienced reporters chasing down leads. Free the veteran to move where he wants with a story. When the newspapers are cleared of the abundant inconsequential articles and replaced with more able reports, then the dishonesty that steals the tax dollar may finally have to snake away.

'BUT SUPPOSE HE ASKS FOR ASYLUM?'

Rep. Ralph Dunn expressed a far different reaction than Buzbee—most likely because he personally wasn't burned.

"He dressed it up, and then the headline was put on," mused the freshman member of the House. "I have to be a little critical of the journalists, but I'm going to compliment (the reporter) when I see him."

"If they'd have misquoted me, I'd have fussed," he admitted, "but they had to have a headline to catch the readers' attention. They've told me you need publicity."

This was not the first time Buzbee had had a bad taste left in his mouth by the press, though. The so-called "Coal Bill" had the senator over a barrel before his homefolk not long ago thanks to misrepresentation in the press, he felt.

"I objected to the bill because of two other portions which would have lessened environmental pressures on petroleum companies," he explained. "The newspapers just read that I objected to the 'Coal Bill,' and I really took it on the nose in our district."

However, a worthy reporter did arrive on the scene to save Buzbee.

"It took about three hours with (the second reporter) one morning before he realized the situation," he said. "I went back over everything these other portions planned to amend."

How would Buzbee remedy the shortcomings of the press covering the legislature? He would require a better researched staff to provide better background on stories.

"The press is woefully undermanned as is the legislature," he commented. "The press doesn't have the opportunity to research on its own."

"I'm really surprised at the naivety of the press," said Buzbee. "I realize a lot of times it's because of the closed caucuses, but some reporters have been here for a couple of years and still miss the point."

"I have no easy answer as to how to make stories interesting," he admitted, "but when Rona Barrett-types come along, I'm going to say, 'I can't talk to you because I don't know what you'll say about me in print.' I fought very hard for the shield law, but a lot of senators here have been treated roughly by the press."

Perhaps Dunn best summed up Buzbee's feelings when he said, "Newspapers mold opinion—and you can't get the last word in with a reporter."

Well, maybe not, but you can try another channel to circumvent those last words. You're welcome, Senator Buzbee.

IRA hunger strikers reach 200th day in imprisonment protest

LONDON (AP)—A florid-faced old woman among the demonstrators outside Brixton Prison clutched the tricolor flag of the Irish Republic to her bosom and intoned a ballad of death.

"In a dreary Brixton Prison, where a dying rebel lay," she keened to the high, yellow brick walls, and then broke down in uncontrolled sobbing at the last line of the chorus:

"Tell me this before you leave me:

"Shall my soul pass through Ireland?"

It was sung as a lament for the Price sisters, Dolours and Marion, convicted London car bombers who were on a hunger strike somewhere behind those dreary walls.

But the song was written more than 50 years ago as a dirge for Terence MacSwiney, the lord mayor of Cork, who died in 1920 in the same Brixton Prison after a 74-day hunger strike.

Now, as when the ballad was born, a British Parliament was debating the issues of making martyrs out of Irish Republican Army (IRA) hunger strikers; giving in to "emotional and political blackmail;" and, from the left wing of the Labor party, whether to pull the British troops out of Northern Ireland.

During the night, convicted bank robber Michael Gaughan, 24, died in Parkhurst Prison on the Isle of Wight off the south coast of England on the 55th day of his hunger strike, the first since MacSwiney to die in this manner in a British prison. The Provisional wing of the IRA promptly launched plans for a martyr's funeral in his native County Mayo.

Earlier Monday, another hunger striker, Hugh Feeney, 24, jailed for life last November for his part in the car bombing that injured 228 persons, was reported to have ended his 200-day fast.

This was immediately denied by an action group representing the hunger strikers.

Like the Price sisters and the other hunger strikers, Feeney was campaigning to be removed to a

Dakin to receive award at Police Appreciation fete

Former Carbondale Police Chief Joe Dakin, 36, will be awarded a certificate of appreciation at the Police Appreciation banquet scheduled for 7 p.m. Wednesday at St. Francis Xavier Church annex, 303 S. Poplar St.

Eugene Eidenberg, chairman of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, will be the featured speaker at the dinner.

The banquet is part of the continuing week of activities set aside for Carbondale's Police Appreciation week. The week of activities, to end June 8, is being sponsored by the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce and organized by Jerry Nellis of Downstate Investigations.

Those wishing to attend the banquet may purchase tickets in advance at the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce, 219 W. Main St. Tickets are $4.

prison in his homeland of Northern Ireland and to be treated as a political prisoner.

However, attention still centers on 22-year-old Dolours and 20-year-old Marion Price.

Now more than 200 days into their hunger strike, the sisters from Belfast have been subsisting on water since they refused two weeks ago to cooperate with doctors in artificial feeding.

They have said they had grown so thin their bones "stabbed" them when they attempted to sleep on their special air beds.

The Home Office officially describes their condition as unchanged.

City forced to allocate profits to non-governmental groups

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The SIU Foundation now has $50,000 to bolster recruitment. The local Boy Scouts can spend $15,000 for renovating Little Grassy Scout Camp. The YMCA has $75,000 to pay off part of its $128,000 building debt.

And a group known as Green Earth, Inc., will be able to spend $113,000 to develop natural areas throughout the city.

All this has been made possible by the City Council, which was forced to give away about $228,000 Monday night to non-governmental agencies and organizations.

The money is coming from a complex refinancing of the city's $8 million of water and sewer bonds. The refinancing, carried out by UMIC, a Kentucky bonding firm, basically involves selling more bonds and investing the money in government securities.

Money made from the investment would be used to pay back the bonds and pay off the water and sewer bonds over a 20-year period. About $300,000 in windfall profits will result from the deal.

Part of the profit will go to UMIC. But the city is prohibited by federal regulations from accepting the rest of the profit.

The allocations must still be approved by the Internal Revenue Service. Council members will discuss the legality of the allocations Thursday night when they meet to discuss the zoning ordinance map.

Seven not-for-profit organizations requested all or part of the money Monday night. Those that did not receive any money were: Easter Seal Society which requested $35,000 to $50,000; Archway School which sought $75,000 and the United Fund which asked for unspecified amount.

Curt Simic of the SIU Foundation told the council that the money would be used to provide more scholarships and to encourage women, minorities and disabled persons to expand into more fields at SIU.

George Finley, speaking for the Boy Scouts, said the Scouts have never had enough money to adequately build up the Little Grassy Camp. The money would be used for renovating the camp.

Don Ward, member of the board of directors of the YMCA, said the money is needed to help pay for its building within four years. Ward said the YMCA got into financial trouble when many pledges, made before the building was constructed, were not fulfilled.

Former councilman George Karnes, president of Green Earth, Inc., told the council that his group would buy and develop greenways throughout the city. The land would be areas unsuitable for other development, such as those designated as flood fringe areas.

The board of directors of Green Earth, Inc., a not-for-profit organization, includes SIU Interim President Hiram Lesar.

Karnes said the group would probably follow the city's comprehensive land use plan which shows certain areas that are not planned for any development other than being left in the natural state.

In other action, the council turned down a request by the Impeach Nixon Committee for using a town meeting scheduled for June 24 to discuss the issue of impeachment.

Maurice Richards, spokesman for the committee, asked that a vote be taken on the issue after discussion and debate at the meeting. All present at the meeting would vote and the results would be forwarded to Rep. Kenneth Gray, D-III., Richards said.

Council members indicated that such a meeting would be good, but thought the council should not get involved.

Councilman Hans Fischer said he thought a town meeting "was not an appropriate form" for the issue. Fischer said he supported the idea of a meeting, but not one in which the council was involved.

Councilwoman Helen Westberg said the nonpartisan makeup of the council was "one of my justifications for not getting involved. The idea of the city council holding such a meeting or participating in such a meeting does not seem to be the right thing to do."

Richards argued that government is based on the participation of constituents with congressmen "representing our interests." He said he thought it was "the duty of the council to facilitate in finding reaction of people so Congress can make a decision."

The council also unanimously approved a resolution commending

City Manager Carroll Fry "for his conscientious service" in the two years he has been in Carbondale. The resolution gave Fry a five per cent increase in salary.

The resolution praised Fry for his "innovative ideas, the hard work and vast knowledge." The resolution is the result of an annual evaluation session the council held with Fry.

The council also approved an ordinance which prohibits surrounding water districts from furnishing water to any area within the city or within one mile of the city limits.

Council members were concerned about the duplication of services and the possible loss of business for the city.

The council also authorized City Attorney John Womick to appear in court Friday when representatives of Crab Orchard Estates are scheduled to appear concerning the proposed incorporation of Crab Orchard Estates as a village.

The Estates lie within the one and one-half mile jurisdiction area of Carbondale. According to state statutes, any area wishing to become a village must obtain the consent of the city which has jurisdiction over it.

Womick is to notify the court that the residents have not received the consent of the city.

Censor calls for ruling on violence in movies

CHICAGO (AP)—The Supreme Court should be dealing with violence instead of obscenity in movies, a psychiatrist and movie censor said Tuesday.

Explicit sex films do not harm adults and it is questionable whether they harm children, although children probably should be prevented from seeing some sex films until the effects have been more thoroughly studied, he said.

Unanswered questions also remain about the effects of violence on the young, he said, and until these effects are known the possibility of prerelease censorship for excessive or inappropriate violence should be considered.

The psychiatrist, Dr. Ner Littner, is on the staff of the Institute for Psychoanalysis in Chicago and a member of the city's motion picture appeal board.

Littner said he has viewed hundreds of sexually explicit films as a member of the board and found that "It is obvious that the most harmful thing was they were monotonous and boring."

Adults can deal with pornography without being harmed by it, he said, and added that pornography probably has a "minimal harmful effect on children."

While violence may be appropriately used in films, and may serve as a healthful outlet for emotions, inappropriate or excessive violence may be harmful to some young people, he said.

Beef, milk prices may jump due to bailing wire shortage

DALLAS (AP)—The baling wire that holds the hay that feeds the cow that provides the milk in a shortage-weary nation isn't there anymore and that may mean higher prices.

Baling wire seems quite mundane. But ranchers say the shortage, combined with scarcities of fuel, fertilizer and grain, could send beef and milk prices spiraling by winter. The House Agriculture Committee estimates nearly one-third of the hay grown to feed cattle this year won't be baled because of lack of wire. Twine is an alternative, but is also in short supply.

Without baling, hay left in open fields soon rots. A farmer who does not have hay to feed his cattle in winter must either sell them on the market at a loss or find more expensive feed. That in turn affects families in Boston, Cleveland and Los Angeles, because the farmer's financial burden will be passed along, multiplied by middlemen.

The baling wire shortage began about a year ago when steel companies turned to more profitable ventures than bailing wire because of federal controls that held prices to $11 to $14 for a standard 96-pound roll.

Still, there was a backlog and farmers in the big hay-producing areas of the Southwest and Midwest made it through 1973. But by this year, the inventory was gone, and prices doubled and then tripled. The wire now costs as much as $55 per roll—when it's available.

Federal and state governments have tried, with only marginal success, to fix the problem. With the price freeze lifted, a handful of companies are back in production.

About 55 per cent of all baling wire comes from the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co. Since Feb. 1, the company has been in round-the-clock production but it still won't catch up for this season. Nor will the other plants produce enough.

There are other sources; price gougers who charge up to $65 a roll.

New energy course slated in economics

"Energy Economics: Resources, Environment and Human Needs" is a new course being prepared for fall semester by the energy economics research group of the Department of Economics.

The course, designated Economics 300, section one, is open to any student on a "no-prerequisite" basis. It is expected to appeal particularly to persons interested in the interaction between technology, economics and politics.

The course will focus on the policy implications of the current energy supply problem. There will be an introductory section dealing with energy economics, but major emphasis will be on such topics as the role of the multi-national corporation, the implications of energy supply for developing countries, and potential exotic energy sources.

Enrollment is still open for the course for fall. Further information is available at the economics department.

Career center attracted firms to SIU campus

SIU attracted 178 companies and organizations to the Career Planning and Placement Center (CPPC) this school year to interview novice engineers, agronomists, accountants, retail and advertising salespersons and many other persons.

Although an increase has been noted over the past few years, the center is expanding efforts to contact companies through telephone calls, attendance at professional meetings, visitations and mailings. Students and faculty members who would like certain companies or organizations to visit campus and perhaps begin interviewing, should contact CPPC so an invitation can be extended.

The interviewers came from different areas of the country with heavy concentration coming from Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and Missouri.

The largest group of recruiters who did visit campus, 43 companies, were conducting their initial interviews for business-area seniors. Accounting majors were a high priority group.

Course offered

The Women's Physical Education Department will offer a Life Saving Course this summer quarter at 9 a.m., Monday through Friday for eight weeks. For additional information call the women's physical education department, 453-2297.

$100 million sought as part of a Middle East aid package was for reconstruction of a war-ravaged Syrian town in the Golan Heights.

Kissinger told the House Foreign Affairs Committee in Washington that no commitments were "either implied or expressed" to Syria during his 34-day peace mission to the Middle East.

A total of $900 million in aid is sought for Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Israel in the administration-backed measure. The $100 million had been listed as a special fund to "reinforce the peace process," but Kissinger linked the money to Syrian reconstruction for the first time Tuesday.

Quneitra, a provincial capital in occupied Syria, suffered devastation in both the 1967 and 1973 Mideast fighting. Only a handful of residents now live there.

Meanwhile, Israeli security forces claimed police averted another terrorist attack Tuesday by capturing two Arab guerrillas who were on their way to "make a slaughter."

The pair, both 19, slipped across the border from Lebanon armed with guns, grenades and explosives and then hid their weapons while they reconnoitered the area, police said. They were caught at a road-block riding in an Israeli taxi.

Israeli frontier forces have been on high alert for terrorists since May 15 when three Arabs took over a school at Maalot and 22 children died after troops stormed the building in a rescue attempt.

In Jerusalem, new Israeli

Premier Yitzhak Rabin took over the desk of retiring Premier Golda Meir and called his first Cabinet meeting with newspapers predicting trouble from more hard-line opponents.

In Syria, Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam announced President Nixon would include Damascus on his Middle East tour and predicted that U.S.-Syrian diplomatic relations would be restored "very soon." The relations were broken off during the 1967 war when the Arabs charged the United States with aiding Israel.

The full schedule for President Nixon's tour was given by the White House as follows: June 12-14 Egypt, June 14-15 Saudi Arabia, June 15-16 Syria, June 16-17 Israel, and June 17-18 Jordan.

In Geneva, Israeli and Syrian generals completed details for carrying out the disengagement agreement signed by their governments last week. In a meeting that lasted 2½ hours, the two sides completed preparations for the signing Wednesday of "all relevant documents," a U.N. announcement said.

Nixon plans major visit to Mideast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House formally announced President Nixon's June 12-18 swing through five Middle East countries Tuesday, pledging to build on the success of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's peace missions.

The journey to Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Israel and Jordan will "ratify the new environment that now exists in the area" said spokesman Gerald L. Warren in outlining plans for the most extensive Middle East tour ever undertaken by a U.S. President.

"It will afford an opportunity at the highest level for each of the parties involved to consolidate what has been achieved on the road to peace," Warren added.

The spokesman said Nixon will leave Washington next Monday, arriving that night in Salzburg, Austria, where he will rest until Wednesday, June 12.

Then he sets out for the Middle East with this schedule: Egypt June 12-14, Saudi Arabia June 14-15, Syria June 15-16, Israel June 16-17 and Jordan June 17-18.

The itinerary—with Nixon going to Cairo first and staying there longer than any other capital—underscored the importance the United States is placing on improved ties with the government of President Anwar Sadat.

Nixon's talks with Sadat are expected to range over U.S. plans for economic aid to Egypt and on bolstered commercial and cultural ties.

And, another indication of warming U.S.-Arab relations, Syria's foreign minister said Tuesday he expected diplomatic ties between Washington and Damascus to be "resumed very shortly" after a seven-year break.

Warren and other White House officials would not provide a specific agenda for Nixon's talks with Arab and Israeli leaders. But sources acknowledged discussions were certain to range from the crucial Palestinian question to American access to the vast Middle East oil resources.

Nixon will head back for the United States on June 18 for about a week of rest prior to his departure for Moscow and summit talks scheduled to begin June 27.

In related developments, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger disclosed that he had promised to ask for $100 million for Syrian reconstruction if the Damascus government honored a disengagement agreement with Israel.

Appearing before the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Kissinger sought $4.2 billion for foreign aid, with $100 million to be used "to reinforce the peace process" in the Middle East.

In New York, Vice President Gerald Ford said Kissinger's achievements in the Middle East signify that "a new era in world history, an era of negotiation and reconciliation, was 'made in U.S.A.'"

Magruder begins sentence for Watergate conspiracy

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Jeb Stuart Magruder, No. 2 man in President Nixon's re-election campaign, entered a minimum security federal prison near here Tuesday to begin serving a sentence for conspiracy in the Watergate case.

Magruder's wife, Gail, drove their car into the Allenwood federal prison complex.

The onetime presidential aide—the sixth former White House employee sent to prison in connection with the Watergate scandal—told newsmen he will devote his prison term to "philosophy and theology more than anything else."

Magruder pleaded guilty last August to a single count of conspiracy to obstruct justice and defraud the United States.

President orders end to Red-scare subversive list

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon has abolished the Red-scare era list of subversive organizations maintained by the attorney general and used to screen applicants for government jobs, the White House and Justice Department announced Tuesday.

Nixon signed an executive order doing away with the list created in 1947 by President Truman.

Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said he recommended the action because the list "was a sort of vestigial tail on the federal government's security programs."

Saxbe said "it is now very apparent it no longer serves any useful purpose."

Truman ordered the Justice Department to prepare and maintain the list at a time of widespread national concern about alleged Communists and subversives in government.

U.S. District Court Judge John Sirica sentenced Magruder on May 20 to a term of from 10 months to four years. The maximum sentence would have been five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Magruder's first person account of the political scandal, "An American Life—One Man's Road to Watergate," is scheduled for publication June 26.

In the book Magruder says he was told that President Nixon approved at least one campaign dirty trick in 1972, okaying a phony write-in campaign for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in the New Hampshire Democratic primary.

Magruder says the plan was conceived by former special presidential counsel Charles W. Colson "to create confusion among the Democrats" and "sow ill will between Kennedy and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie," considered the front-runner in the Democratic presidential race.

Colson pleaded guilty Monday to a single count of obstruction of justice.

While at the Allenwood prison camp—with its open and unguarded front gate—Magruder will live in a barrack-like room with about 100 other inmates.

Allenwood prisoners also can take college courses, work at area industries or play softball in a local league. They are eligible for community family visits, a program under which Magruder would be allowed to go home for one day every two months.

List of Milk Money recipients includes chairman Rodino

By Brooks Jackson
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's three largest dairy-farmer cooperatives made political donations from $100 to $11,000 to at least 16 members of the House Judiciary Committee, which is investigating allegations that President Nixon was influenced by contributions from the same groups.

The recipients include committee chairman Peter W. Rodino, whose urban New Jersey district has no dairy farmers in it. An aide said Rodino didn't ask for the money, and said he could not explain why the cooperatives gave it to the congressman from Newark.

Two of the recipients gave back the money after The Associated Press questioned them about it. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., gave back $100 he got last March, and Thomas Railsback, R-Ill., returned $500 he received in 1972.

They said they acted to avoid any conflict of interest, but the other recipients said they see no conflict.

The committee is investigating allegations that the co-ops gave money to Nixon to raise milk price supports, impose dairy import quotas and divert the course of a Justice Department antitrust investigation.

Nixon received $727,500 from the co-ops over a three year period, and had been promised $2 million. The White House has said this money didn't influence Nixon's actions.

The three co-ops are Associated Milk Producers, Inc., Dairymen, Inc. and Mid-America Dairymen, Inc. Together they control about one-fourth of the nation's milk production.

Welfare workers in Cook County face suspension

CHICAGO (AP)—Public aid workers in Cook County face the possibility of docked pay, suspension or being fired in a dispute with the state, the director of the Illinois Department of Public Aid said Tuesday.

Joel Edelman said more than half of the 5,100 county welfare workers left their jobs a half hour early Monday despite a written notice that they must conform to State of Illinois work hours.

Monday was the first work day after the notice was issued.

The county welfare department merged with the state agency Jan. 1.

As county employees, welfare workers were on the job for 35½ hours a week, but as state employees Edelman said they must put in 37½ hours.

The Illinois Union of Social Service Employees, which represents the welfare workers, maintains that an agreement signed upon the merger states that personnel policies and union agreements in force under the prior setup would be preserved.

Commerce group seeking change in Memorial date

CHICAGO (AP)—The Illinois Chamber of Commerce has joined the parade of groups and individuals seeking the return of Memorial Day to the fourth Monday in May.

The federal government celebrates the holiday on that date, but this year the State of Illinois went back to the earlier May 30 observance.

As a result, there was no uniformity on when the holiday was celebrated in Illinois. Many school children, for example, had one of the days off when fathers or parents worked.

Noting this, the Chamber of Commerce sent letters to state legislators Tuesday urging that the fourth Monday in May be established as the holiday as soon as possible. "so that commerce and industry, public bodies and the citizens of Illinois have enough lead time to plan for next year."

According to public records going back to April 7, 1972, these committee members received money from one or more of the co-ops:

M. Caldwell Butler, R-Va., $1,000; William S. Cohen, R-Maine, $3,000; John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., $100; David W. Dennis, R-Ind., $500; Walter Flowers, D-Ala., $1,000; Harold W. Froehlich, R-Wis., $100; William Hungate, D-Mo., $2,300; Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., $2,650; Trent Lott, R-Miss., $2,650; Robert McClory, R-Ill., $500; Edward Mizvinsky, D-Iowa, $11,000; Wayne Owens, D-Utah, $2,600; Railsback, $500; Rangel, $100; Rodino, $4,100, and Jerome Walde, D-Calif., $200.

Kastenmeier, Hungate and Flowers were among 121 House sponsors of bills that would have raised the federal support price for milk in 1971. The White House has said these bills and similar measures in the Senate constituted a "gun to our head" that forced Nixon to raise prices himself in March 1971.

Daily donations since April 7, 1972, to the members of the Judiciary Committee total $32,150, including $24,050 to nine democrats and $8,100 to seven Republicans. In the same period, Nixon received $295,000 from the co-ops, including $200,000 that filtered through established Republican committees about the time of the election.

It isn't known how much the dairy co-ops gave to Judiciary members before April 7, 1972, because those records are sealed and no longer available for public inspection. Nixon received $442,500 before that time.

Harry T. Moore, research professor of English at SIU is the author of one book published this year and of several others due to appear soon.

His new biography of D. H. Lawrence—"The Priest of Love"—was brought out in New York at the end of March by Farrar, Straus and Giroux. A London firm, Thames and Hudson, will publish Moore's "Henry James and His World." It will come out in New York by the Viking Press.

Columbia University Press, which issued Moore's critical study of E. M. Forster, has engaged him to revise the book, including a discussion of fiction by Forster published since his death four years ago. The updated version will be included in a Columbia Press volume which will appear this fall under the title, "Six Modern British Novelists."

At the suggestion of novelist Lawrence Durrell, Moore is editing the correspondence between Durrell and the late English novelist, Richard Aldington.

John P. Moncur, chairman, and Donald E. Hall, clinical services coordinator, attended a meeting of the Chicago Hearing Society and the Council on Aging on May 28 and 29.

The purpose of the meeting was to finalize grant proposals for regional areas in Illinois currently providing education and services to hard of hearing senior citizens.

Manuel Schonhorn, professor of English, has been appointed visiting professor of English at the University of Maryland, College Park, for 1974-75. He will be teaching his specialties—eighteenth century poetry and the novel—and a new course offering, The Jewish-American experience in fiction.

Professor Schonhorn will be continuing his editing of Defoe for the SIU Works of Defoe, and will also be overseeing dissertations and preliminary examinations for SIU students while at Maryland.

Professor Schonhorn, now on sabbatical leave, has just returned from a three day visit of UCLA, where he engaged in seminars and delivered a lecture at the William Andrews Clark Memorial Library, on "Defoe, Politics, and Fiction: Prolegomenary Suggestions and Directions."

A book by David M. Vieth, professor of English at SIU, is scheduled to go into a second printing by the Yale University Press. Vieth's book, an edition of "The Complete Poems of John Wilmot, Earl of Rochester," was originally published by Yale in 1968.

Vieth is the author or editor of four books and numerous articles on the Earl of Rochester and other English authors of the late seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries.

The United States Public Health Service has awarded a $120,000 vision research grant to an SIU psychology professor.

Alfred Lit, professor of psychology at SIU since 1961, was awarded a three-year continuation of earlier research funding by the Public Health Service Eye Institute. Lit has a national reputation in the area of the physiology of vision, much of it conducted in cooperation with the Eye Institute.

Under the new three-year grant, Lit also will continue investigations of the electro-physiological aspects of vision. This includes color vision, depth discrimination and the time lag between an image of an object striking the eye and the reception of a message about that object by the brain.

The author of numerous articles on vision in psychological and optometric journals, Lit's vision research has been supported for the last 11 years by Public Health Service grants.

Two officials shot Tuesday in Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—The minister of education and another high state official were killed by student gunfire Tuesday in a school building where they were being held hostage, Premier Long Boret said.

Riot police moved in on the building where high school students were holding the two officials, but the premier said the students had killed the two men before the police intervention and shooting started.

He said in a radio broadcast that a Communist element was involved in the killings, but did not elaborate.

The government announced that three days of official mourning would be observed for Education Minister Keo Sangkim and Thach Chea, a former education minister who had been serving as special assistant to President Lon Nol.

The students had taken the two men hostage to enforce demands for the release of five fellow students arrested last week in a demonstration against living conditions in Cambodia.

Witnesses at the scene said when police moved on the building five students were injured by gunfire.

Student groups have been demonstrating for three weeks against a new draft law skyrocketing inflation and alleged government corruption.

Scott supports hold on money

Adult center opposed by Joliet

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Money appropriated for a juvenile correctional center in Joliet cannot legally be spent if the center is switched to an adult facility, Atty. Gen. William J. Scott said Tuesday.

The opinion supported the refusal of State Comptroller George Lindberg to pay the center's bills after its function was changed.

And it was at least a partial victory for residents of Joliet who have

Former mayor given prison term

CHICAGO (AP)—Curtis C. Whitaker, a former mayor of south suburban Westhaven, was sentenced Tuesday to two concurrent 18-month prison terms for extortion.

A U.S. District Court jury convicted Whitaker, 52, on April 25 of extorting $7,900 from the owner of 120 acres in the suburb.

The prosecution accused Whitaker of extracting the money under threat of stopping development of the land.

Judge Richard B. Austin imposed the sentence.

bitterly opposed the state's changeover plan.

The Juvenile Reception and Diagnostic Center at Joliet was designated an adult facility by the Department of Corrections in April. The name of the facility was changed to the River Oak Correctional Center.

The Walker administration explained the switch as an attempt to lower populations at certain overcrowded and potentially volatile adult male institutions. It said the number of juveniles in institutions had decreased, making the Joliet center unnecessary for that purpose.

But the Joliet City Council, expressing anger at the state's failure to discuss its plan with community officials before deciding to make the change, went to court and got a temporary order halting further proceedings.

The center currently has neither juvenile nor adult inmates pending the outcome of the case in the courts.

Legislation has been introduced by the Walker administration which would allow it to use money originally appropriated to the juvenile center for the new adult facility. But Joliet-area legislators have been successful thus far in holding up action on the measure.

Pro career awaits ex-Saluki in Europe

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

"I'm going to be playing professional basketball," ex-Saluki basketball player George Thompson explained. "But instead of having New York playing Los Angeles it'll be Italy playing Spain."

Yet, it's the same George Thompson that twice last year put SIU over the 100-point plateau with high, looping jump shots from the deepest corner of the SIU Arena court. And it's the same 6-8, 230-pound senior from Bridgeport, Conn. who had the misfortune of playing behind Joe C. Meriweather last season.

Thompson said he will be going to South America to play professional basketball for two months and after a brief visit to the U.S., will be headed for a pro league in either Italy or Spain.

American players that are 6-5 or taller have been sought to play in a summer league in South America, Thompson said. Thompson said he will be playing two games a week in Bolivia and Venezuela before he begins play in the European League.

"My attorney sent my stats to the St. John's (N.Y.) coach who is helping get the American players, and he notified me I would be playing," Thompson said. "I'm not sure yet whether I'll be in Italy or Spain, but about five or six American players will be going over this year."

Thompson said both leagues are in need of big men and all of the Americans who play in the leagues must be over 6-5. "They already have plenty of guards," he said.

Without specifying the exact terms of his contract, Thompson said, "I'll graduate from SIU in June with a bachelor's degree and the money I will make in Europe in one year is more than I could make in five years with my degree."

Professional teams in the NBA and the ABA occasionally send promising draft choices to play in the European leagues and some teams keep scouts abroad to watch the players. Terry Driscoll of the Milwaukee Bucks was sent to Europe to develop before he was brought up to play with the NBA franchise.

"If I could have played more when I was here, I seriously think I could have been drafted by a team in the U.S. this year," Thompson said.

"That's every ballplayer's dream—to play pro basketball—and it's finally come true for me," Thompson said, admitting that he never dreamed he would be playing his pro ball in Italy or Spain.

"I had decided that when I graduated I didn't want to give up sports," he said. "This is a great opportunity for me. Regardless of what you're doing and how you're doing it, it's got to be something you're happy with. I'm happy playing basketball."

The pro career of George Thompson (no. 44) will be taking him to either Italy or Spain this fall.

Hodges to open World Series

Junior Ron Hodges will likely get the starting call to hurl the Salukis World Series opener against Seton Hall at 8 p.m. Saturday.

Hodges, a junior college transfer from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., pitched a 6-1 complete-game win over Cincinnati the second day of the District IV baseball playoffs in Minnesota. He also came in to relieve freshman starter Dewey Robinson in the championship game against the University of Minnesota.

With a 9-1 record, Hodges has not lost a game since the team's spring trip to Florida. His 1.58 earned run average is second best on the squad. Lefty Robin Derry leads the staff in that category with a 0.51 ERA.

SIU's appearance in Omaha, Neb., will be the school's fourth trip to the College World Series. SIU placed second to the University of Southern California in the 1968 and again in 1971. The Salukis were eliminated in two games in 1969.

In 1968 the Salukis made it into the championship game coming through the loser's bracket after dropping the first game, 7-6 to North Carolina State. SIU bounced back to beat Harvard, 2-1. Oklahoma State, 7-1. St. John's, 15-0 before losing in the series finale to USC, 4-3.

In 1971, SIU beat USC 8-3 the first time it faced them, but lost the second meeting in the championship game, 7-2.

ABA will play next season

NEW YORK (AP)—Mike Storen, commissioner of the American Basketball Association, stated unequivocally Tuesday that his shaky league would be in operation for the 1974-75 season, but emphasized he would not know until June 21 what shape or form it would take.

While admitting that his league faced serious problems, the optimistic Storen denied a published report that the seven-year-old ABA would dissolve within 30 days and four of its teams—the champion New York Nets, Kentucky Colonels, Indiana Pacers and San Antonio Spurs—would be absorbed as expansion teams by the rival National Basketball Association.

NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy declined comment on the report.

The ABA's major problems stem from the uncertainty of 6 of its 10 franchises.

Women's athletic department waits for budget action, threatens complaint

By Bruce Shapin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The women's athletic department will file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) if it doesn't receive some action regarding the 1974-75 budget, Charlotte West, director of women's Intercollegiate athletics, said Tuesday.

"I have contacted all of the coaches and we have all agreed that if we don't get some action, we will follow with a complaint," West said.

West added, "We don't want to file a complaint, but we will if we have to." The women's athletic department is still waiting for word on their 1974-75 budget which goes into effect July 1. SIU Interim President Hiram Lesar told West that he would guarantee a $50,000 base allotment for next year, but so far she has not received any word.

"We have received no written confirmation for the money as of today," she said.

West is hoping to meet with Lesar in the near future.

Lesar had a meeting with the Dean of Education Elmer J. Clark and Keith Leasure, academic affairs, which dealt with women's athletics, but I was told that I was not invited," West said.

Besides the problem with the budget, West expressed concern over the lack of personnel in the women's athletic department. The 12 varsity teams for women have the equivalent of two full-time coaches.

"We're hoping to work out some plan where we could hire several more coaches over the next few years," West said.

NFL votes to add Seattle as 28th member for 1976

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League voted Tuesday to expand to Seattle, adding a 28th franchise for the 1976 season.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle announced the decision which adds Seattle to the NFL, along with Tampa, which was awarded a franchise in April.

"The conditions are the same as they were for Tampa," said Rozelle. That includes a record sports franchise price of $16 million.

Rozelle said that questions of scheduling, realignment and stocking of the new teams had yet to be resolved.

Without ruling out further expansion in the future, the commissioner did say that he did not expect any more teams to be added at the NFL owners' meeting this week.

Seattle was selected over Memphis, Phoenix and Honolulu, who had bid for franchises. Rozelle said, however, that the unsuccessful cities still would be considered for future expansion.
