Supreme Court refuses to hear Gacy appeal

CHICAGO (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court refused Monday to hear the appeal of John W. Gacy Jr., convicted in the sex-related slayings of 33 young men and boys, but attorneys say appeals will continue — and could take at least four more years.

The action by the justices, over two dissenting votes, came five years after Gacy, 42, was convicted by a Cook County jury on 33 counts of murder and sentenced to death.

Justices William J. Brennan and Thurgood Marshall, who oppose capital punishment under all circumstances, voted to overturn Gacy's death sentence.

Gacy's appeal challenged only the Illinois death penalty law, leaving defense attorneys free to raise new issues in state and federal courts.

The appeal before the Supreme Court argued that Illinois' death penalty law gives prosecutors "unbridled discretion" in determining cases in which death sentences will be sought and inappropriately places the burden on defendants to prove death is an improper sentence.

Gacy, a former building contractor, has been convicted of more murders than anyone in U.S. history. He is jailed on Death Row at the Menard Correctional Center in Southern Illinois.

William Kunkle, first assistant Cook County state's attorney who prosecuted Gacy, said Monday he was "very pleased" with the court action.

"John Gacy is an individual who truly deserves to die and justice will not be served until he is executed," he said.

Steven Clark, deputy defender in the state appellate defender's office, which has represented Gacy, had no comment on the court action.

Testimony heard on election laws

Commission is on six-city tour of state

By John Krukowski
Staff Writer

State election laws that often cause problems for students were the subject of testimony Monday morning at a subcommittee hearing of the Governor's Commission on Election Reform.

The hearing, in Student Center Ballroom A, was the fourth stop on a six-city tour. The commission is headed by former governors Sam Shapiro and William Stratton. Carbondale attorney J. Phillip Gilbert is a member of the commission.

Robert Harrell, Jackson County clerk, and Andrew Leighton, Undergraduate Student Organization president, outlined ideas they said would give students fairer access to the election process and would save the county trouble in the meantime.

Harrell said a state election law requiring election judges to live in the precinct they are assigned to is unfair. He said at least four precincts in Carbondale are populated predominantly by students and do not have experieced judges on hand.

Harrell said the law should be more flexible, allowing county clerks to staff such precincts with qualified judges from other precincts.

An election law that caused mild controversy last week before Carbondale's municipal primary elections was raised for consideration by the commission.

At least 124 dead from Chilean earthquake

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Thousands of people camped in debris-strewn streets Monday, driven from their homes by aftershocks of a major earthquake that killed at least 124 people and injured 2,000 in central Chile. Authorities imposed a curfew to stop looting.

The quake crumbled the front section of a church in San Bernardo, just outside the capital, killing 10 people who were attending Sunday evening Mass. It knocked down walls, cut communications and swayed skyscrapers in Santiago and other cities in an 800-mile stretch.

Officials said they expected the death toll to rise as communications were restored and reports came in from outlying cities and towns.

Authorities said the hardest-hit areas outside Santiago were Valparaiso and Vina del Mar, coastal cities in this narrow country that stretches 2,600 miles along South America's western shore. The three cities have a combined population of about 6 million.

Deaths also were reported in the cities of Rancagua and San Antonio.

The quake struck at 7:47 p.m. Sunday and the National Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo., said it measured 7.4 on the Richter scale. Within six hours, Santiago residents had felt about 48 aftershocks, some strong enough to rock tall buildings. Milder tremors continued Monday.

The quake was felt in Argentina, across the Andes Mountains, particularly in the foothill cities of Mendoza, San Juan and Tucuman, but no casualties or major damage were reported. Some residents of high-rise buildings in Buenos Aires, 600 miles east of the Chilean border, reported slight movement.

Argentine federal police said the quake caused landslides that blocked the Andes highway to Santiago at the frontier town of Las Cuevas.

The Chilean government imposed a midnight to 5 a.m. curfew in much of the earthquake zone to prevent looting, which was reported overnight in some heavily damaged commercial districts.

Francisco Cuadra, chief spokesman for the military government, said Monday that the death toll had risen to 124, counting only newly found victims in Santiago and Valparaiso. Officials said at least 2,000 people were hurt.

Government reports said there was heavy damage at Melipilla, a town southwest of Santiago, but the situation in dozens of small rural communities in central Chile remained unclear because of the communications failures.

IBHE to decide $1.6 billion budget allocation

By Karen Wittberger
Staff Writer

The Illinois Board of Higher Education will determine how to distribute Gov. James Thompson's $1.6 billion higher education budget at a meeting Tuesday.

A resolution to allocate the state funds, if passed, will boost SIU-C's fiscal year 1986 operating budget by 8 percent over last year's authorized level — an adjustment which would reduce the University's expected level of funding.

The University was expected to receive a 10.1 percent increase in state funding next year under allocations recommended by the IBHE in January.

Thompson's spending plan, however, falls $12 million short of the IBHE's recommended level of spending. In February, Thompson requested that the board adjust its spending allocations to fit his budget.

Under the proposed allocations, SIU-C would receive $134,341,500 beginning July 1 over last year's $123,160,200 authorized level of spending.

Thompson's budget, which calls for the state to increase higher education spending by $147 million next year, includes an average salary in-

Shiite Moslems victims of explosion over offices

MAARAKE, Lebanon (AP) — A bomb explosion Monday shattered the upper floor of a mosque in this stronghold of Shiite Moslem resistance to Israeli occupation, and the United Nations said 12 people were killed and 25 wounded in the blast. Lebanese police said there were 15 dead and 30 wounded. The explosion came a day after Israeli forces ended a 24-hour siege of Maarake.

W. Germany advised against Star Wars plan

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union on Monday warned West Germany against taking part in President Reagan's program to build space weapons, saying the "Star Wars" plan could torpedo the upcoming superpower arms talks. Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, in talks with his West German counterpart, Hans-Dietrich Genscher, said the Kremlin would view the Bonn government as "an accomplice" in violating the 1972 anti-ballistic missile treaty if it helped develop the "Star Wars" weapons, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Nazi war crime suspect's extradition ordered

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A U.S. magistrate on Monday ordered Andrija Artukovic extradited to Yugoslavia, but specified that the man accused of helping the Nazis carry out war crimes may be tried for only one murder. U.S. Magistrate Volney Brown gave the government a 60-day stay of his order, allowing prosecutors to produce evidence of further killings which might warrant a change in the extradition order.

Boeing withdraws request for reimbursement

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Boeing Co. billed the American taxpayer for at least $126,847 in 1982 political contributions, adding the cost to the price of weapons systems it built for the Pentagon. But within hours after The Associated Press reported the billing Monday, the aerospace giant abruptly withdrew the request for reimbursement.

EPA orders most lead to be taken out of gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency on Monday ordered the nation's refiners to take 91 percent of the lead out of gasoline this year and said it might speed up a complete ban because of new studies tentatively linking it to high blood pressure. Unleaded regular gasoline costs more than leaded regular gasoline by about 7 to 10 cents per gallon, and EPA said Monday's action means the cost of producing all gasoline will rise by an average of 2 cents per gallon.

Military pensions hurting defense, study says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military pensions, criticized by budget director David Stockman, generously benefit only a small, affluent group and actually work against defense readiness by encouraging skilled personnel to retire early, a private study group said Monday. Stockman said the issue of military pensions had been raised many times within the Reagan administration, but that he did not believe President Reagan shared his views about the program.

Farmers march for higher prices, controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 700 angry Midwestern grain farmers marched on the Agriculture Department and the White House on Monday, demanding higher guaranteed prices for their products and strict controls on production. Participants in the "March for Parity" said they want to see both provisions included in the 1985 farm bill that would replace the current law which expires Sept. 30.

Coroner blames measles for college student's death

ELSAH (AP) — Measles caused the death of one student at a Southern Illinois college for Christian Scientists and probably claimed two other lives, Jersey County Coroner Paul Schroeder said Monday. In all, 108 apparent cases of measles have been reported on campus since the outbreak began Jan. 11, Principia President John Boyman said.

State deposits $105 million for farm loans

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Illinois Treasurer James Donnewald said Monday the state is depositing $105 million in 381 banks for low-interest loans to help farmers with spring planting, after an overwhelming demand from banks. Farmers in 92 counties may be able to take advantage of the loans, which will carry a top interest rate of 11.25 percent, Donnewald said.

ISSC says cuts will affect students

By David Liss
Staff Writer

Proposed cuts in federal education loan and grant money could have a severe impact on Illinois students, according to estimates from the Illinois State Scholarship Commission.

More than 47,000 students, or 38 percent of those now qualifying for the Illinois Guaranteed Loan Program, would be ineligible to borrow by the 1986-87 school year if President Reagan's proposed cuts pass Congress unchanged, ISSC Director Robert Clement said.

Under Reagan's proposal, students would be denied the federally subsidized Guaranteed Student Loans if their families earn more than $32,500 annually.

This proposal would result in a loss of $150 million, or 54 percent of student loan funds, Clement said.

Reagan's proposal also recommends denying federally funded grant programs to students whose families earn more than $25,000 annually. This recommendation would mean 18,000 or 18.5 percent fewer Illinois students would receive Pell Grants, Clement said.

Four-year state schools would be the hardest hit, with a loss of 48 percent of their Pell Grant dollars, Clement said.

"We have given the worst-case scenario," Clement said. No changes will occur in the 1985-86 school year, he said, so "students and parents shouldn't panic."

"People need to be aware and informed," Clement said, and they need to contact their legislators.

Aide anticipates presidential veto of relief bill

By Jeff Curl
Staff Writer

A farm-credit relief bill which passed the U.S. Senate last Wednesday and is expected to pass the House Tuesday will probably be vetoed by President Reagan and has no chance of being overruled, said an aide to Sen. Alan Dixon (D-Ill.).

The measure, attached to an Ethiopian famir relief bill, would add $2.5 billion to the $650 million low-interest loans already available to farmers from the Farmers Home Administration.

It also includes an additional $100 million to go toward interest rate subsidies, as well as a Dixon-sponsored addition which would give advances on crop price-support loans that are normally not available until harvest.

Julie O'Hara, aide to Dixon, said the Senate relief package will "easily pass" the House on Tuesday, sending the measure to Reagan. Many farm-belt lobbyists have gone to Washington, D.C. and are voicing their support for the measure, O'Hara said, but Reagan aids have already assured it will be vetoed.

A veto would mean "serious trouble" for farmers who need credit to get spring planting loans, said O'Hara. She added that it would be "impossible" to get the two-thirds vote required by the Republican-controlled Senate for an overrule.

Bruce Richmond, chairman of the Illinois House Agriculture Committee, agreed with O'Hara that if Reagan vetoes the measure, it would be unlikely the Senate would overrule it. Richmond, who held a statewide meeting last month to pinpoint problems of Illinois farmers, said farmers are in dire need of more credit help. The Senate-passed measure would save "several thousands of farmers," he said.

"There are a number of good farmers who have low buying power and are up against the wall when it comes to buying equipment and seed for spring planting," Richmond said.

Besides last week's Senate measure, two other farm-relief bills were passed by the House and are on the Senate's agenda, said O'Hara. One measure would increase the federal farm loan guarantees by $3 billion and includes Dixon's proposal. The other measure would add an additional $1 billion to farm loan guarantees.

President's tactics cast doubt on policy

NOW INTO HIS SECOND TERM of office, President Ronald Reagan has made no attempt to hide his feelings about the Sandinistas and the Nicaraguan government. From the time Reagan took office, he has accused Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega's government of subverting neighboring countries and the Cubans and Russians of a grand scheme to undermine the entire Western Hemisphere.

Large-scale military maneuvers in Central America have been meant to illustrate U.S. resolve, and a not-so-subtle hint to the Sandinistas to behave. Other activities — without the blessing, or even acknowledgement of Congress — show not only firm resolve, but an ends-justify-the-means mentality.

CIA sponsored and distributed murder manuals and harbor minings show to what lengths the Reagan administration will go to achieve the Contadora process — international law be damned.

CONGRESS WAS RIGHTLY OUTRAGED at these covert activities, but it was also outraged at the administration's refusal to admit a deepening involvement of U.S. troops.

The Reagan administration faced with a congressional report scathing the Reagan administration for its covert and dubious activities, is now gearing up for another aid-for-Nicaragua campaign.

Talking Congress into a $14 million emergency relief package is no easy task, considering Congress' distrust of the administration's motives in Central America. But Reagan is going for broke.

In the most brazen rhetoric yet employed in Reagan's attacks on Nicaragua, a demand that the Sandinistas "say 'Uncle,'" was followed shortly by the derailing of peace talks.

The administration has dismissed Ortega's concession to begin a gradual reduction of Cuban advisors, labeling it a ploy. The last thing the administration wants is any progress in peace talks, for that would mean yet more difficulty in winning further aid.

BUT PEACE TALKS OR NOT. Congress has dug in its heels. It has been unwilling to continue supporting a cause where the good guys are hard to distinguish from the bad. Most of all, Congress is incensed at the administration's unethical, if not illegal attempts to undermine the Nicaraguan government.

If indeed there is some compelling reason to continue providing monetary and military aid to the contras, the president has yet to prove it. He certainly doesn't help his cause by breaking peace talks and making tacky demands.

For now, getting Congress to approve any aid packages to Nicaraguan rebel will prove a most difficult task.

Annoying advertisements not only on TV, in the D.E. too

As we were reading and enjoying the news in the Feb. 12 Daily Egyptian we came across Justus Weathersby Jr.'s viewpoint that there are too many ads on television. Then the annoying flashbacks came to mind: "Two for one drinks at Hanger 9;" "Tanqueray is the special of the month at the American Tap;" Quatros Pizza has an advertisement for the "Big One" and "The ladies drink special at Gatsby's is the peach stone sour."

Wouldn't it be easier to have all the news without all these annoying ads? Back when the press was invented, there was a lot of talk about just printing words. Apparently that was forgotten, and print sold out to ads.

As we examined the D.E. closer, about half of it was advertising (not counting classified ads). This edition utilized a concept from Playboy Magazine by having a centerfold spread of Valentines Day ads.

All in all, there is not much to say about this advertising interruptus, so we'll just have to do what our instructors told us long ago — put down the D.E. and read a textbook. — Kevin Schramer and Paul Shrier, Seniors in Radio and Television.

Charges of wasteful utility usage at Evergreen Terrace incorrect

After reading Rita Ropitzky's letter on alleged utility waste by Evergreen Terrace residents, I can understand why the Terrace has a poor reputation. The problem is we do not deserve the attack, which was based on incorrect statements and a total disregard for using logical methods to solve a problem.

First, Ropitzky states that her tuition subsidizes our utility bill. One phone call on her part or having read one of the articles that ran in the D.E. last semester would have informed her that the residents of Evergreen Terrace must, by law, bear the cost of utilities, maintenance and loan payment for the project.

Evergreen Terrace is a HUD project which is subsidized for part of the interest by the federal government. When the residents waste energy they will pay in increased rent payments.

Second, if Ropitzky believes her relatives are as wasteful as she states, she can bring it to the attention of family housing or the Evergreen Terrace Resident Council. Both wish to hold or reduce costs, therefore we would work with anyone who is wasteful.

I believe, as my grandmother used to say, that Ropitzky's story may be 10 percent fact and 90 percent embroidery. I personally find it interesting that this identical story has been around for 10 years. Since no one has lived at Evergreen Terrace that long, it would seem that the legend has been borrowed for today's news.

I can empathize with Ropitzky's situation of keeping her heat at 55 degrees. Perhaps she should look into student housing as an alternative.

In closing, I invite Ropitzky and any other interested parties to attend the Evergreen Resident Council meetings and express your views or concerns. The meetings are at Building 150, every first Tu. day of the month at 7:00 p.m. They are open to the public and anyone who wishes to is allowed to speak. We have worked hard to improve our community, on behalf of the council. I ask that you check your facts before making recommendations for our future. — Daniel Doffese, chairperson, Evergreen Terrace Resident Council.

Increased chemical pesticide use detrimental to Shawnee wildlife

This letter is to inform people of the increased use of chemical pesticides, mostly herbicides, (hardwood killers) in the forestry program of the Shawnee National Forest.

We don't believe this practice is consistent with the Forest Service's stated goals of the sustained yield of wood, water, wildlife, forage and recreation.

These poisons eliminate many of the wildlife supporting plants, such as dogwood, persimmon, hickory, oak, blackberry, summac and others. This can only have a negative impact on wildlife populations, and anyone who spends any time in the Shawnee knows it is not teeming with wildlife. The Forest Service can not guarantee the chemical will not get into the water, which also will have an effect on wildlife populations. Also, hikers, hunters, horseback riders, bikers and campers can unknowingly find themselves crossing a sprayed area, risking possible exposure.

Is this the best way to manage our public lands? This practice may benefit the paper industry, but does it benefit the everyday user of the forest? Use of chemicals on public lands has been banned in Oregon and Washington. Shouldn't we follow their lead and stop this unecological practice? Trees grew to enormous sizes here in Southern Illinois long before herbicides were ever dreamed of.

We urge anyone who feels strongly about this to write your congressman and senators, or write Ken Henderson, supervisor of the Shawnee Forest in Harrisburg and tell them your opinion. A petition has been started and a copy of it plus other information on the subject can be had by writing us. Let's take a role in the management of our public land. — Mark Donham and Kristi Hanson, Brookport, Illinois.

LAW: Commission hears testimony

voters to notify the county clerk's office each time they change address.

The State Board of Elections considers voters' addresses to be their room or trailer numbers.

Harrell said he'd like to see the law changed to have the dormitory, apartment building or trailer court considered as the address. He said that if the law is modified, students wouldn't have to notify the county clerk's office if they move from one trailer to another but stay in the same trailer park.

Cook County Clerk Stanley Kuser, a member of the commission, objected to Harrell's suggestion, saying that "the cure here may be more grievous than the illness."

Kuser said that large apartments in Chicago often have more than one address, which could complicate Harrell's idea if it became law.

Harrell agreed that different areas of the state would be affected differently by such a change, and suggested that the law could be "tailor-made for larger counties and smaller counties."

Leighton also took issue with the deadline for voter registration. He said the time allowed for people to register before an election should be shortened to about 10 days rather than the present 35 days.

LEIGHTON PRAISED Senate Bill 1301, which allows civic organizations to have its members certified by the State Board of Elections as registrars. The USO was able to enlist 100 registrars last fall because of the bill, he said.

The commission also heard testimony from Ron Kretzer, chairman of the Marion County Central Committee, Registration and Election Reform Committee.

Kretzer said that in speaking to election judges, registrars and voters, his organization found the Illinois election system to be troubled by what he termed "a new three R's": Rules, regulations and restrictions.

KRETZER LISTED 23 recommendations, stressing the education and periodic testing of election judges, precinct committee leaders, township supervisors and county clerks.

Other recommendations included increased availability of absentee ballots, making voting machines available to civic organizations throughout the year for practice in using them, and making polling stations more visible.

Also speaking before the commission was Al Ross, president of the Carbondale chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Several of Ross' recommendations met with criticism from members of the commission, including his suggestion that requiring people to declare their party preference in primary elections discriminates against minorities and members of third parties.

KUSER SAID that crease of 8 percent for faculty and staff. The IBHE's resolution calls for a $6.6 million increase in those salaries at SIU-C.

The budget also includes $22.3 million for improving academic programs and expanding services, of which $2.7 million would go to SIU-C, under the IBHE's resolution.

An 11.5 percent increase in the Illinois State Scholarship Commission, as well as raising the maximum monetary primaries are organized for major parties and are not the same as general elections.

Ross was also criticized for his "open voting" suggestion, which would allow people to vote anywhere in the state. He said that to avoid fraud, "we would have to have some sort of way whereby it could be verified."

Ross suggested, as did several other people who testified, that the primary election should be moved to a later part of the year.

ALSO SPEAKING before the commission was Michael Harty, director of voting systems and standards for the Illinois State Board of Elections.

Harty recommended that safeguards of computer vote tabulation be strengthened.

A test of the voting systems by the election board before the 1984 general primary showed errors in ballot tabulation in seven of 25 election jurisdictions, Harty said.

Harty said an example of vote system error is last year's race between Ken Gray and Randy Patchett in the 22nd Congressional District, in which there was a "considerable delay" in the vote tabulation.

award from $2,400 to $2,850, is also included in the budget.

A capital improvement priority list for fiscal 1986 to be funded by Thompson's proposed $20 million Build Illinois program will also be considered by the IBHE. SIU-C's $1.8 request to remodel Pulliam Hall ranks sixth on the 32-item list.

Under the resolution, the board would request colleges and universities to provide by March 8 an itemized classification distribution of the amounts allocated.

At first this reviewer felt just too grown-up for a show like "Oliver." But the little girl in the fifth row that slept through most of Sunday night's production proved that the show was one big yawn.

The story line is strong and for the most part held its own. Lionel Bart's 1960 musical adaptation of Charles Dickinson's classic tale of Oliver Twist kept the charm that earned it the reputation as one of Broadway's most memorable musicals.

However, the bland performances of its leading characters, Oliver and the Artful Dodger, were a huge disappointment. The story was heart warmingly familiar and fun at times, but young Brad Baldwin's adaptation of Oliver was lackluster and his vocals were weak.

The opening scene, as Oliver and fellow orphans dread eating their daily gruel in the bleak workhouse where they live, was well done.

The kids proved they could sing and dance by performing a spirited rendition of "Food Glorious Food." But the first act's best musical number, and acting for that matter, came from Mr. Bumble and Widow Corney's jaunty duet, "I Shall Scream."

The widow and Mr. Bumble, (Susan McMahon and Field Blauvelt), provided some laughs with their lusty flirtations when they weren't running the workhouse and tormenting the orphans.

After hungry little Oliver dares to ask for more of the dreaded gruel, Mr. Bumble hauls the greedy orphan away, only to sell him to a nastier home — to an undertaker and a shrew of a wife who feed Oliver day-old dog scraps.

Theater Review

Pitiful indeed, but not as pitiful as Baldwin's lyrical adaptation of "Where is Love?" Such a tender song could melt an iceberg, but Baldwin's rushed and listless singing left a void instead of sympathy for the wail.

Oliver's narrow escape from the undertaker leads him into the arms of the young Artful Dodger and Fagin, the eccentric miser who is fond of teaching juveniles thieving ways.

Fagin, played by Joe Insoe, was clothed in tattered finery, lending credence to his decrepit appearance. His performance was adequate, as was his rendition of "Reviewing the Situation."

Eugene Oaks gave a disappointing performance as the Artful Dodger. As Fagin's best pickpocket, the boy is supposed to be slick and brash, but by shouting all of his lines, Oaks merely succeeded in being annoying. A toned-down Artful Dodger would have been more believable.

Elizabeth Van Den Berg, who portrayed Nancy, gave the most powerful performance of the evening.

Her playful renditions of "Oom-Pah-Pah," and soulful "As Long As He Needs Me," were performed with feeling.

This might not have been the winner of the season, but the New York cast did have a certain amount of bad breaks that were out of their control. They were forced to rush on stage a half hour late because their bus broke down on the way to Shryock Auditorium.

But for all its faults, "Oliver" was good clean fun for the family.

Law team wins regionals, eligible for national finals

By Jim Ludeman
Staff Writer

A team from the SIU-C Law School recently received first place in the regional division of moot court competition, and will compete in the national finals in April, said Maria Frankowska, law school instructor and team adviser.

SIU-C is the only team from the regional competition, held last week at Washington University in St. Louis, that is eligible to attend the national competition in New York City.

The competitors center on international law and disputes between countries.

In such competitions, a hypothetical case involving fictitious countries is assigned to each team. Frankowska said. Each team must prepare a case for each side of the dispute to be argued before judges and other law practitioners in a setting resembling the International Court of Justice.

This year's case involved a fictitious conclave of 15 nations. The nations wanted to establish a nuclear-free zone within their boundaries. One nation did not want such a zone, Frankowska said, so the other member nations assigned one of their own to destroy any nuclear facilities the dissenting nation built.

The nation maintaining nuclear weapons claimed the attacks made against it were unjustified. The issue was whether the remaining member nations could justify their attacks.

To prepare for the competition, each team from each participating university divides into two subteams. Frankowska said, one subteam for each side of the case.

Each subteam then prepares briefs on the case, which are scored separately by the judges. Both sets of briefs from SIU-C received the best scores, she said.

Bill Knapp, team captain, said the team begins preparing for the competition as soon as they get the case, and generally spends about five months developing strategy and practicing for the com-

The team from SIU-C is made up of five law students. Team members are selected based on their ability to write, orate, how sharp they are and how well they will be able to understand issues.

"We do a considerable amount of scouting. First year law students are required to take a moot class, and argue a hypothetical case. We go to practices, we hear who's good from the instructors, and then we offer them an opportunity to be on the team," Knapp said.

"The judges on the regional level are not up on international law. Teams very often argue by analogy to domestic issues. But on the national level, the judges are very well versed in international law," Knapp said.

Gaming techniques used in decision-making course

By Sarah Rohrs
Staff Writer

The world is a "global village" and people working on problems in community development need to think of how their decisions and policies will affect all parts of the planet, said Bill Perk, instructor in community development.

Perk said this is the idea behind a class he will be teaching called "Communities of the Future" where students will employ the technique of gaming to make decisions and plan strategies in a region for the next three decades. The three credit hour class, CD 202-3, will begin March 19, but students should register for it this week, Perk said.

Gaming is a technique first formulated by the designer R. Buckminster Fuller in his World Game concept, Perk said. Fuller, who taught at SIU-C from 1959-1971 and designed the geodesic dome, wanted world leaders to come to SIU-C in 1974 during its centennial celebration and play the World Game.

"THE OBJECT would not be trying to do someone in, but trying to make (strategies) work for 100 percent of humankind," said Perk, a former design instructor who knew and worked with Fuller before he died in 1983.

The game used in "Communities of the Future" was developed in the spring of 1984 by Perk, Joyce Hasell and Carmine Scavo of the University of North Carolina and Roger Moore of the University of Georgia, Perk said.

It was first played at the World Future's Society in Washington, D.C., and the response to it was good enough that Perk and his colleagues decided to develop it further, he said.

"It's still undergoing development," Perk said. Part of the reason for the class is to gain more insight into the best way for the game to work, he said.

GAMING INVOLVES assuming one of seven roles in one of 12 regions, that are usually in conflict with each other, like North and South America, and Western and Eastern Europe. The roles would include positions in the military, government, business, environment and others.

Students will play roles, make decisions and develop strategies in the gaming session. There are certain rules to follow, Perk said, but the main point of the class is to be innovative and creative in formulating decisions to be projected 30 years in the future.

Before and after the gaming sessions, students will have discussions and get assessments on what their decisions will mean. Grading in the course is based on participation and a final exam.

OF COURSE, there's no right answer. We don't know what the future will be. You can't look up the answers in the back of the book," Perk said.

Gaming in community development is similar to the kinds of games business schools play, but not as sophisticated, Perk said. Business students come up with a product to sell, marketing and research strategies and ways to improve profits.

International students would be particularly welcome to join the class, Perk said, because Americans would be given an opportunity to understand how issues look to people with different backgrounds.

Ideally the class should have 84 players, Perk said, if it falls below 36, players have to assume two roles. There are no prerequisites, but the greater diversity of students will maximize the learning process, he said.

New program set to teach air traffic controlling skills

By Kelly Beatty
Student Writer

A new cooperative education agreement between SIU-C and the Federal Aviation Administration in the Great Lakes region began this semester and aims at preparing students for a career in air traffic control, said Terry Bowman, assistant professor of aviation management.

The emphasis of the program is to upgrade a potential employee's education, Bowman said. "A degree in aviation is still not required, but the FAA is trying to encourage it," he said.

To be eligible for the cooperative program, students must have completed their freshman year with a 2.0 grade point average, be accepted for enrollment in the bachelor of science program in aviation management and be a U.S. citizen, 16 years or older, he said.

"WE THEN ask interested students to fill out an application with a letter of interest, a current transcript and a resume to the School of Technical Careers. This is just a screening process of basic information," Bowman said.

The final selection process is based on an Air Traffic Control Aptitude exam, a medical examination and an interview with a team from the FAA, he said.

"The interview is based on the student's interest in aviation. We think if they have a commitment to aviation, they will perform better," Bowman said.

The decision process takes about four months. Qualified students can begin the program the following semester, he said. Last semester six out of 12 students were chosen. The application process for this semester has just begun, Bowman said.

THE STUDENTS will alternate 16- to 18-week work periods at FAA air traffic facilities with regular semesters of course work at SIU-C, he said.

The work periods will be divided into three separate training periods at different FAA facilities, Bowman said.

The en route air traffic control division shows students how to keep a progressive check on flights moving from one airport to another, he said.

The control tower monitors the radar of air traffic in the immediate vicinity of the airport, which could be anywhere from five to 25 miles, Bowman said.

Both the en route and the control tower rely heavily on the flight service station. It controls a wide range of information, from weather and runway conditions to incoming air traffic that the pilot on the ground needs to know, he said.

"IT'S THE nerve center of air flight," he said.

Because of FAA regulations, students don't work on actual equipment. They work with simulators of radar and air traffic control problems, Bowman said.

After a year of cooperative education from SIU-C with a bachelor's of science degree in aviation management, each student will be eligible for an appointment to the FAA Academy in Oklahoma City, Okla. for further training, he said.

"Students are at the academy for about six months. They have a good chance of making it due to their training during school and a higher education. In the past, the drop out rate at the academy has been 50 percent, but we are hoping that with higher education and the co-op program the percentage will decline," Bowman said.

THE HIGH percentage of dropouts has been mainly due to stress, Bowman said. The demand for memorizing an equation and applying it to problem solving can be very stressful, he said.

"Those that fail do so because they can't keep up with the pace, they have bad recall or they don't have the commitment," he said.

"You have to learn to think and act like an air traffic controller," Bowman said.

Wayne G. Boggs, cooperative education director for the FAA's Great Lakes Region, will visit SIU-C March 25-26 to explain the program to interested students.

Retired policeman dies.

Funeral services for retired SIU-C policeman Ardell Crews will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday. Visitation will be from 4 to 7 p.m. Tuesday at Crawshaw Mortuary in Carbondale.

Mr. Crews, who worked for campus security from 1952 until his retirement in 1968, died early Monday morning at Memorial Hospital of Carbondale. He was 85-years-old.

All pall bearers for Mr. Crews' funeral will be retired SIU police officers, Harris said.

Mr. Crews had been residing at Styrest Nursing Home in Carbondale for several years, Harris said.

Fund-raiser may be hired

The Graduate and Professional Student Council will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Center Ballroom A to discuss a resolution calling for the hiring of an athletic fund-raiser by the university. It would be the fund-raiser's job to generate funding for athletic programs to discourage fee increases to cover rising athletic cost.

The GPSC will also discuss a resolution calling for the reauthorization of the Higher Education Funding Act. The act, which expires in 1985, covers student loans, Pell Grants, college work-study and many other financial aid programs.

Nominations for president and vice presidents of the GPSC for next year will be heard at the meeting Wednesday.

ROOMER JOBS!!! The new year is rolling. How about you? Have you considered what kind of a summer job you are going to get? Why line up for minimum wage stuff like washing dishes or flipping burgers when the Illinois Army National Guard has a better alternative? How would you like a summer job for 2 months this summer which will pay for your room, board, and medical expenses and guarantee you at least $1000 to use for the next school term? How about a guaranteed college scholarship for tuition, fees? Would you like to have $75 spending money every month for the next school term just for working one weekend a month? Would you like to be considered for a $2000 bonus? The Illinois Army National Guard needs people who can qualify to serve their state and nation and help themselves as well. If you think we have what you are looking for, don't pound the pavement this summer. Write your letters. Step out for adventure and great benefits! Call Dave Ambler in Carbondale at 457-0552.

Men's tennis team drops tough decision to Illinois

By Stan Goff
Staff Writer

The Saluki men's tennis team played a lot better than it did when it lost its season opener at Illinois, but the result was the same on Friday as the Salukis fell 5-4 to the Fighting Illini in their home opener at the Egyptian Sports Center.

The Salukis, 2-5, lost five of six singles matches, and a sweep of the doubles matches was only enough to lessen the Illini's margin of victory.

"It was a good match, an enjoyable one. And it showed that we're playing a lot tougher," SIU-C coach Dick LeFevre said.

SIU-C lost 9-0 against Illinois last month, but Per Wadmark won at No. 1 singles on Friday to improve his record to 4-3 and put the Salukis on the scoreboard. Wadmark defeated Illinois' John Losito 7-5, 6-2.

The Salukis lost the remaining five singles matches, two of which went three sets, and the Illini had clinched the victory.

Gabriel Coch was defeated 6-2, 7-6 at No. 2 singles by Peter Bouton of Illinois, and the Salukis' Chris Visconti fell to Chris Lapriore at the third spot, despite winning the first set 6-3. Lapriore won the next two sets easily, 6-2, 6-2 to claim the match.

Rollie Oliquino and Scott Krueger each lost in straight sets to Illinois, but SIU-C's Lars Nilsson lost a heart-breaker at No. 6 singles in three sets. Illinois' Tom Frei fought off two match points in the second set to knock off Nilsson 2-6, 7-6, 7-6. Frei won the second set tiebreaker.

"Lars almost had it. He played a strong match. He lost in straight sets to that guy the last time they played," LeFevre said.

Visconti and Krueger played a solid match at No. 3 doubles, defeating the Illinois team of Lapriore and Madhu Naire 6-2, 7-5. Illinois elected to forfeit the other two double matches because the outcome was already determined.

"That was a big win at No. 3 doubles for us. Those guys (Lapriore and Naire) had beaten strong teams from California-Irvine and Kansas, and we beat them in straight sets," LeFevre said.

With the win by forfeit, the No. 1 doubles team of Wadmark and Oliquino is now 6-1 for SIU-C.

Men's rugby club loses to WKU

The SIU-C men's rugby club opened its spring season on a losing note Saturday, as the Western Kentucky University club defeated SIU-C 19-4 at Bowling Green, Ky.

Wing Mike Rickerson was the only SIU-C player to score.

While it was SIU-C's first game of the season, Western Kentucky was playing in its fifth game of the year, and had just captured the championship of the Mardi Gras tournament in New Orleans.

"It was a good, clean game on a dry field," SIU-C Captain Dan O'Neil said. "The pack played pretty well for us, but the backs didn't play as well as expected."

Women's golf team places 12th at LSU Invitational

By Anita J. Stoner
Staff Writer

There is a first time for everything.

When the SIU-C women's golf team finished last in a 12-team field in the LSU-Lou Besson Invitational at Baton Rouge, La., last weekend, Coach Sonya Stalberger said "It was the first time I've ever been last at anything."

Host Louisiana State University captured first place with a team career-low of 602. The Tigers shot 297 as a team on Saturday and followed with a 302 on Sunday.

The highlight of the Salukis' play was the top 20 performance of senior Lisa Kartheiser. She fired a 79 and 77 to get her spring season off to a good start.

Stalberger said Kartheiser had to overcome many adversities at the tournament. "I watched her play and I'm real proud of the way she fought for a good score," Stalberger said. "She was mentally ready and mentally strong."

Although Kartheiser failed to hit the ball well at times, she recovered strokes with her short game.

"She realized it's not how you play but how you shoot," Stalberger said.

Chipping and putting were a shortcoming for the other Saluki players.

"Their short game was really rusty," Stalberger said. "We were weak at it last season and we haven't changed."

The Salukis will try to look at the loss in a proper perspective. They gained a head start on Northern schools, and they also got playing time.

"As young a team as we are on the whole, going up against competition like that really opened our eyes and helped our players," Stalberger said.

five days later at Wichita. While the Shockers are favored to defeat SIU-C, they must regroup following Saturday's 67-66 loss at Tulsa which cost them the conference championship.

If SIU-C hopes to upset the Shockers it must contain McDaniel and guard Aubrey Sherrod, something the Salukis failed to do in their previous two meetings.

McDaniel has scored 50 points and has pulled down 32 rebounds and Sherrod has scored 42 points in two games against the Salukis this year.

The 6-foot-8, 205-pound McDaniel is second in the nation in scoring with a 27.0 average and leads the country in rebounding at 14.9. He also leads the Shockers in field goal percentage (.551), steals (43), and blocked shots (25).

Sherrod is averaging 18.8 points, a team-high 106 assists, and is shooting 51.4 percent from the field for the Shockers, who are 15-12 overall.

Women's gymnastics team rallies to overcome Illinois

By Stan Goff
Staff Writer

Once again the Saluki women's gymnastics team saved its best for last Sunday at the Arena.

Just as it had done last week in the Saluki Quad, SIU-C entered the floor exercise competition trailing Illinois, and danced off the floor with a narrow victory.

The Salukis, 7-5, scored 46.55 points in the floor exercise to erase a slight lead that Illinois had before the final event. Saluki sophomore Michelle Spillman won the event with a 9.50, helping SIU-C register a 173.70 to 179.30 win.

"We got a lead in the vault and held it after the bars, so that the narrow lead that Illinois had after the beam was not important. We're very competitive on floor," SIU-C Coach Herb Vogel said.

Gina Hey won the all-around competition with a score of 36.70, while Spillman and Lori Steele tied for second with scores of 36.45 for the Salukis. Jennifer Moore (34.90) and Maggi Nidiffer (34.35) also played a big part in SIU-C's highest team score of the season.

SIU-C jumped out in front by scoring a 45.70 on the vault, compared to 44.55 points for the Illini. Steele, who scored a 9.55 in the Salukis' victory Friday night over Iowa State, won the event with a vault of 9.50. Spillman finished second with a 9.15, while Hey, Moore and the Illini's Allison Garrity all tied for third with scores of 9.05. Nidiffer added an 8.95 for SIU-C.

Spillman won the uneven bars competition with a 9.30 as the Salukis increased their lead to 90.60 to 89.15 after two events. Illinois' Luan Roberts (9.25) and Patsy Rudnicki (9.15) finished second and third. Rudnicki finished as the Illini's top all-arounder with 36.05 points.

"We surprised Illinois on the bars. They thought they'd outscore us on the bars and the beam, but we were pretty solid on the bars," Vogel said.

Once again the Salukis struggled on the balance beam, and Illinois took a temporary lead after three events. The Illini scored 44.30 points and SIU-C, which had a hard time staying on the beam, scored 42.55 points.

Hey, who won the event with a 9.20, and Steele (8.70) got through their routines for SIU-C, but the next four Salukis all suffered score deductions for falling off the beam.

Nidiffer started things off for the Salukis on the floor with a 9.10, and Moore (9.15), Steele (9.40) and Hey followed with high scores, before Spillman closed out the match with her 9.50 mark.

The Salukis scored 177.60 points Friday night while knocking off Iowa State, with Spillman scoring a season-high 37.10 in the all-around. Hey scored a 9.45 in the floor exercise, and Moore had a 9.50 vault for the Salukis.

Men gymnasts edge OU

By Stan Goff
Staff Writer

The final home performance of the season by the SIU-C men's gymnastics team was a satisfying one for Saluki coach Bill Meade, as his squad improved its record to 10-2 with victories over Houston Baptist University and the University of Oklahoma Sunday afternoon at the Arena.

The Salukis' score of 279.95, the second highest ever registered by SIU-C, was just enough to hold off the seventh-ranked Sooners, who took second with a mark of 278.95. HBU was a distant third with 259.00 points.

"I had no idea what the score was, but I knew it would be close because everyone was competing so well. I was concerned most with the work of our kids, and not the final score," Meade said.

SIU-C trailed the Sooners after each of the first three events, but a strong team vaulting performance, led by Brendan Price's meet-high score of 9.75, put the Salukis on top for good at 186.00 to Oklahoma's 185.55. The Huskies' total after four events stood at 176.25 points.

Lawrence Williamson, in his final appearance at the Arena, continued his dominance of the floor exercise with a 9.70 score. Williamson has finished first in each of the Salukis' home meets this year, and has not finished lower than second in any of SIU-C's 11 outings with an average of 9.70.

Despite Williamson's high score, and high scores from Brendan Price and Gregg Upperman, the Salukis were outscored on the floor by Oklahoma 47.65 to 47.35.

David Lutterman, who finished as the Salukis' top all-arounder for the second straight week with a 56.10 score, scored a season-high 9.50 on the pommel horse to help SIU-C stay close after two events. Upperman and David Bailey also reached the 9.00 mark for the Salukis.

Upperman then won the still rings competition with a 9.65 score, while Ulmer (9.55), Kenneth Clark (9.40) and Lutterman (9.35) added high scores for the Salukis, who trailed by just 0.15 points going onto the vault. Oates led the Sooners with a 9.55 on the rings.

Clark led off the final event with a career-high 9.65 on the horizontal bar for the Salukis, and after Upperman, Price, Ulmer and Lutterman all scored 9.50 or better, SIU-C had defeated Oklahoma by a full point.

Cage men head to Wichita

Saluki coach Allen Van Winkle had mixed feelings following his team's 85-84 victory at Indiana State Saturday night.

While Van Winkle was happy that the Salukis posted their first Missouri Valley Conference road victory of the season, he was disappointed in the consolation prize — a trip to Wichita State for the first round of the MVC Post-Season Tournament on Tuesday night.

"I probably won't speak for our team but in general most people would say we have a better opportunity to beat Illinois State than Wichita State," Van Winkle said.

"Illinois State is playing very well and has a well-balanced team but it doesn't have an individual that can beat you like Wichita has in (Xavier) McDaniel."

SIU-C and Indiana State tied for sixth in the league standings at 6-10, but since the Salukis swept the two-game series, they were awarded the sixth seed in the tournament and will face the third-seeded Shockers.

Illinois State and Wichita State tied for second place in the MVC standings with 11-5 marks, but since the Redbirds (21-6 overall) swept Wichita this season they earned the second seed in the tournament and will host seventh-seeded Indiana State (13-14).

If the Salukis lost to Indiana State Saturday, they would be playing Illinois State instead of facing the Shockers. While SIU-C split its two-game series against Illinois State, it dropped both games to Wichita State this season.

"We went into the Indiana State game wanting to win and we're pleased to finish 14-13, and post our second consecutive winning season," Van Winkle said. "We didn't go into Saturday's game thinking who we would play, we went in trying to win the ballgame."

In other MVC tournament games on Tuesday, league champion and top-seeded Tulsa (12-4, 21-6) hosts eighth-seeded West Texas State (4-12, 11-16) and fourth-seeded Bradley (9-7, 16-11) hosts fifth-seeded Creighton (9-7, 20-11).

The winner of the post-season tournament gets an automatic bid into the 64-team NCAA Tournament.

Based on past records, the Salukis have little chance of defeating the Shockers at Wichita. Since Van Winkle was hired prior to the 1981-82 season, SIU-C is 0-3 in post-season conference games and is 4-32 overall on the road in MVC play.

The Salukis have also lost their last three meetings to Wichita State by a total of 70 points.

Last season, the Salukis lost at Wichita State 107-77 in the first round of the tournament. SIU-C was swept by the Shockers this season, losing 92-76 Feb. 2 at the Arena and 80-56

The Saluki women's basketball team led for 39 minutes and 41 seconds, but succumbed once again to Illinois State, the Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference leader, 65-63.

The Salukis utilized their second-ranked scoring defense and good rebounding to dominate the first half. Led by Petra Jackson, with 11 points in the first half, the Salukis led 31-21 at intermission.

But Illinois State began to force Saluki turnovers midway in the second half with full-court pressure defense. They whittled the Saluki lead to tie the contest at 61 with one minute on the clock.

The Salukis had only eight seconds on the shot clock and Juli Stiles, Redbird forward, stole the ball and dished off to Redbird center Marla Maupin, who was fouled by Bridgett Bonds. Maupin connected both free throws with 19 seconds left to give Illinois State a 63-61 lead. On the next play, Salukis center Mary Berghuis was able to score to tie the contest with 11 seconds left.

Then Illinois State drove to their end of the court and the Salukis knocked the ball out of bounds with one second on the clock.

With one second left, Maupin leaped above the Saluki defense and banked the ball off the backboard through the net to give Illinois State a 65-63 win over the Salukis. Maupin tied Jackson for game-high scorer with 19 points.
