Soviets jam polls in three republics

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet voters in the nation's three major republics jammed the polls Sunday in elections that Mikhail Gorbachev called a "people's referendum on perestroika."

The elections represent the second stage of the Soviet leader's democratic reforms that began last year with the emergence of a largely freely elected national parliament.

Sunday's multi-candidate elections offered voters choices among Russian nationalists, orthodox communists and radical reformers. In some places, as many as 20 candidates vied for one spot.

At stake were 1,068 seats in the Russian Republic's parliament, 450 places for the Ukrainian legislature, 310 in Byelorussia's and hundreds more in city and regional councils.

Gorbachev, accompanied by his wife Raisa and his granddaughter, cast his vote in Moscow's Oktyabrskaya district and praised the broad array of candidates on the ballot.

"The essence is that it is a people's referendum on perestroika," Gorbachev told reporters. "I do hope people will come forward and take greater responsibility for themselves."

Showing combative spirit, Gorbachev declared he would not refuse a nomination for his just created super presidency when the Congress of People's Deputies votes for a chief executive next week.

"I don't like nominating myself, by myself, though as chairman of the Supreme Soviet (standing parliament), I have that

Council to vote on renovation

Renovation of University Mall will be the focus of a proposal to go before the City Council at 7 tonight.

Authorization for City Manager Steve Hoffner to negotiate a development agreement will also be discussed as part of the proposal.

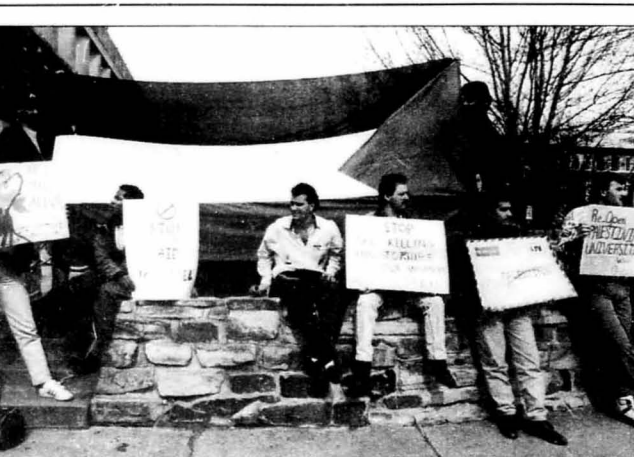

A development proposal was received from Davis Hocker & Associates, Inc. suggesting a complete renovation of the mall and an expansion that would provide over 250,000 square feet. The new space would include a food court and two additional department stores.

The city will consider financial incentives to assist with the project. Construction could begin next month.

If the council grants its authorization to proceed with negotiations, it is possible a development agreement could be given to the council for consideration within 30 days.

- Other agenda items include:
- increasing the number of Class D liquor licenses,
  - authorizing the City Manager to execute a tree removal-replacement program agreement with Central Illinois Public Service Company,
  - amending the authorization of Bass tournaments on Cedar Lake to become an administrative function,
  - approving modification of operating hours of the Sports Center for the Johnston City High School Prom,
  - approving special use for a drive-in in the professional business zone at 601 S. University Avenue,
  - acceptance of a motor fuel tax audit report for calendar year 1988,
  - action on budget adjustments transferring funds for the City

Students gathered outside the south entrance of the Student Center Friday to protest their treatment by the Israeli government. About 30 students attended.

Students protest occupation of 'homeland' by the Israelis

If silence speaks louder than words, the Palestinian demonstration Friday nearly deafened the campus.

About 30 Palestinian students, along with a few American students, held posters and handed out fliers Friday near the southern entrance of the Student Center to raise awareness of "the continuing struggle against the occupation of the homeland," N. Karim, a member of the General Union of Palestine Students, said.

"We're not against anybody," Karim, a graduate student in accounting said. "We want Americans to think of Palestinians who suffered...and care about us." Karim, using a different name to protect his family in the West Bank of Palestine, wanted the demonstration to make Americans understand Palestinian viewpoints.

"Our goal is to deliver the message (that) Israel is not the country that most Americans think is a democratic state," he said. "It is another fascist country taking rights from people."

Karim said Palestinians will never forget their rights or their homeland. He also said only the Liberation Organization represents the country.

"That means no power on earth can impose a negotiating team on Palestine except the Palestinians," he said.

Instead of giving speeches, the group handed out fliers detailing the intifada, or uprising, of the past two years in Palestine against Israeli occupation.

The flier stated "...no government that prevents freedom of speech, imprisons, and kills people can ever completely dominate those who are fighting for peace and justice." Three goals were given that the uprising ultimately would achieve: the right to return to Palestine, the right of self-determination and the right to establish an independent free state.

"The distribution of the flier is more effective than a speaker," Karim said. "It can be passed from person to person and spread the message."

Students held posters with separate messages such as "Generation after generation until liberation"; "We say to Israel live with us but not on top of us" and "Stop shedding of Palestinian blood." Two students standing higher than the others held the Palestinian flag.

Advisory lifted on fish at lake

By Phil Pearson
Staff Writer

The five-year-old warning against eating certain fish caught in Crab Orchard lake has been lifted and probably was never needed, the refuge manager said.

The Illinois Department of Public Health lifted the advisory on some fish caught in the lake in the Crab Orchard National Wildlife refuge.

"The feeling now is (the health advisory) is not appropriate and should have never been put here," Norrell Wallace said.

Wallace said studies conducted in late 1989 showed fish to have levels of polychlorinated biphenyls below the standard of two parts per billion as set by the IDPH. Levels above the standard are considered dangerous for some or all people to consume, he said.

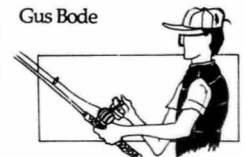

PCBs have been used in industrial equipment, such as transformers, and have been linked to cancer.

The highest concentration of PCBs found in fish gathered in the part of the lake east of Rt. 148, Wallace said, where most industrial activity has occurred on the refuge. That figure is .57 parts per billion.

Previously, Wallace said, the advisory warned against anyone eating carp or channel catfish

Union member killed on Greyhound strike line

United Press International

Prosecutors in California were studying possible criminal charges in the picket line death of a striking Greyhound worker while company and union officials disagreed about how many of the 9,000 employees had returned to work Sunday on the third day of a tense nationwide walkout.

The death Saturday of veteran Greyhound employee Robert

Waterhouse, 59, outside the bus depot in Redding, Calif., was the worst of the scattered violence that has so far marked the strike that began Friday.

Redding police investigator John Severson said the Greyhound replacement driver, Theodore Graham, apparently was not aware that he had hit a depot retaining wall or Waterhouse, who was crushed against the concrete and killed. Police said Graham's bus was surrounded by pickets as he drove down the depot's back alley and that "he felt the picketers were still trying to harass him and prevent his departure."

Severson said the Shasta County district attorney asked to review officers' interviews with the 38 bus passengers and nearly 30 witnesses before deciding on charges.

"This situation is not clear-cut," Severson said. "There is plenty of blame to go around."

Greyhound spokesman George Gravelly said Graham was relieved of driving duties pending the investigation which is a routine action when a driver is involved in a serious accident.

The 700 replacement drivers plus 1,100 workers crossing the picket lines enabled the company to put 29 percent of its routes in operation as of Sunday, Gravelly said.

NORMAL — For the second straight year, the Salukis advanced to the Missouri Valley Conference Tournament championship game.

The Salukis found themselves down by five points at the half but came charging back to claim a 75-65 victory over Tulsa at Redbird Arena Sunday.

The Salukis extended their winning streak to five games and enter Tuesday's matchup against Illinois State with a 26-6 record. Tulsa closed its season at 17-12.

After shooting 36 percent from the field and from the free-throw line in the first half, the Salukis were down but not out the Dawgs brought themselves even at 41-41

NORMAL — SIU-C's Rich Herrin was named Missouri Valley Conference Coach-of-the-Year after guiding the Salukis to the championship title. After compiling 24 wins to close out the regular season, the Salukis breezed through the first round of the Valley tournament against Indiana State to set the with 16 minutes remaining on a Rick Shipley 3-pointer.

With the score tied again at 48, the Salukis reeled off 10 unanswered points for a 58-48 advantage with 8:10 remaining. SIU-C's guard tandem of Sterling Mahan and Freddie McSwain combined for eight of the 10 points during the run. Tulsa never got closer than seven points after that.

McSwain led all scorers with 28 points, 14 in each half, and contributed six assists and five rebounds. Tulsa got a team-high 18 points from guard Marcel Gordon.

Saluki head coach Rich Herrin credited Tulsa for the Salukis' slow first-half start.

"They (Tulsa) came out with tremendous effort and intensity to start," Herrin said. "Give Tulsa a lot of credit. We beat a very good team today."

At halftime he reminded the team that it had the resources to mount a comeback and not to panic.

"I've told them (players) all year it's their team," Herrin said. "Defense was the name of the game in the second half. They gotta go out and do the job. They deserve the credit."

Junior forward Rick Shipley added 15 points, seven rebounds and five assists after banging with the Tulsa players most of the

Scott, Salukis win regular-season championship

The Saluki women's basketball team appears to be ready for post-season action.

The Salukis won the Gateway Conference regular-season title and the right to host the four-team postseason conference tournament with a 77-68 victory over Indiana State Friday in Terre Haute, Ind.

SIU-C Coach Cindy Scott said it wasn't an easy game and it was a pressure situation for her team. She also said the Salukis are happy to be home for the tournament.

The Salukis ended the regular season at 14-4 in the Gateway and 19-9 overall. They head into the Gateway tournament Friday and Saturday after winning 15 of their last 17 games — including four in a row.

Illinois State and Southwest Missouri State also ended with 14-4 records in the Gateway. The Salukis, Illinois State and Southwest split in head-to-head competition with each other. But the Salukis won the No. 1 seed in the Gateway tournament because of their two victories over fourth-place Bradley.

The Salukis play in the second semifinal game at 8 p.m. Friday against No. 4 seed Bradley at the Arena. No. 2 seed Illinois State and No. 3 Southwest Missouri State square off in the first semifinal game at 6 p.m. Friday.

The championship game is at 7:35 p.m. Saturday.

The winner of the conference tournament receives an automatic berth to the NCAA Tournament. Tickets go on sale Wednesday at the SIU-C Arena Ticket Office.

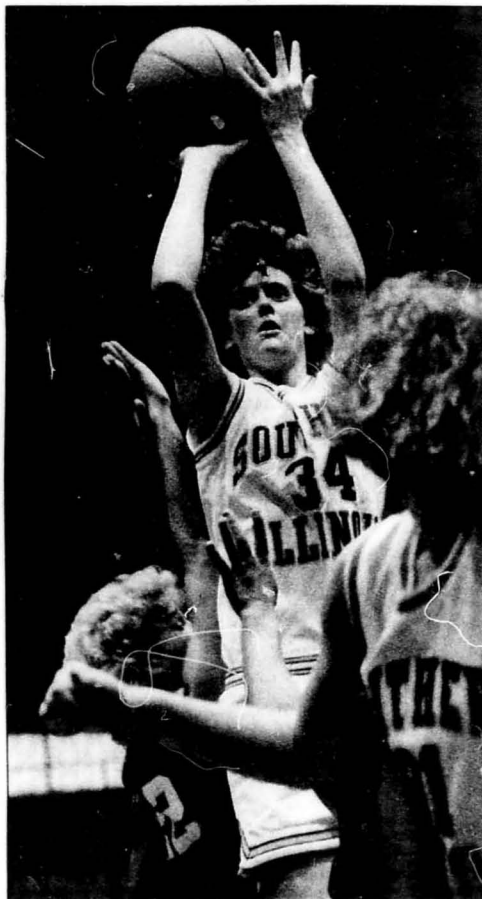

Indiana State finished the season at 5-13 in the Gateway and 8-19 overall.

The Sycamores played the Salukis close in the first half. The Salukis led by two, 32-30, at the half.

But the Salukis began the second half with a 12-4 run and led 44-34. After the Saluki run, Indiana State couldn't get any closer than nine points.

Behind three consecutive baskets from freshman center Kelly Firth, the Salukis put Indiana State away with a 10-2 run late.

Three Salukis scored in double figures. Firth had a career-high 20 points and 12 rebounds. Junior guard Alison Smith tallied 20 points, including 14 in the second half. Junior forward Amy Rakers had 18 points and 10 rebounds.

Junior Saluki forward Amy Rakers shoots against Southwest Missouri State Feb. 24 at the Arena. This season Rakers set SIU-C single-season records for points (570) and rebounds (296).

Some of the Salukis' accomplishments this season:

■ Rakers set new SIU-C all-time single season scoring and rebounding records Friday. Rakers is SIU-C's No. 1 scorer (570) and No. 1 rebounder (296) all-time in a single season.

Rakers broke the old marks set by Saluki Hall of Famers Char Warring (561 points, 1982-1983) and Sue Faber (289 rebounds, 1978-1979).

■ Rakers had her 18th double-double (double figures in scoring and rebounding) Friday. But for the first time in 27 games, Rakers wasn't Southern's leading scorer.

Firth and Smith shared leading scoring honors with 20 points each. It was only the second game this season Rakers didn't lead the Salukis in scoring. Senior forward Deanna Kibelkis led the Salukis with 22 points in the second game of the Hawaii Wahine Classic Nov. 25.

Scott's Salukis won the Gateway Conference regular-season title after their 77-68 victory at Indiana State Friday. It is the Salukis' third Gateway title in five years. Clinching the regular-season title gives the Salukis the homecourt advantage in the conference tournament.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Army troops in the troubled independent black homeland of Ciskei seized power in a bloodless coup before dawn Sunday, toppling President-for-life Lennox Sebe in a backlash over corruption and human rights abuses, the coup leader announced. Thousands spilled into the streets of the southeastern homeland's capital of Bisho and jammed a stadium to celebrate his ouster.

Argentina drifts toward political erosion

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — After less than nine months in office, the Peronist government of President Carlos Menem is floundering, its stability in doubt. It is suffering from the same hyperinflation, chaos and political erosion that forced Menem's predecessor, President Raul Alfonsin, to resign last July, cutting short his six-year term by more than five months. Menem, 59, appears determined to serve out his term.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Poindexter goes to court Monday, more than three years after the Iran-Contra scandal ruined his career, in a key trial expected to feature television testimony by Ronald Reagan. WASHINGTON (UPI) — Du Pont Co., the former operator of the Savannah River nuclear weapons plant, often failed to notify federal officials about "unusual" incidents at the facility's reactors, congressional auditors say. The General Accounting Office, the investigatory arm of Congress, said Du Pont frequently did not comply with Energy Department requirements that it report all operating problems.

SELMA, Ala. (UPI) — Old soldiers in the struggle for civil rights returned Sunday to a city that became a symbol of their movement, commemorating the "Bloody Sunday" racial atrocity 25 years ago that spurred passage of the 1965 voting-rights act. They came from throughout the nation for the silver anniversary re-enactment of the attack that marred the Selma-to-Montgomery march. The brutal assault on about 600 civil rights marchers hastened the adoption of the voting rights act.

Budget experts suggest revamping 'safety net' fund

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Illinois should more than double the amount of money it tries to keep in its main checking account to ensure the state can cover its bills, state budget experts say. Budget planners have used a $200 million "safety net" figure for 17 years but they have not revised it up to reflect inflation and other economic changes. Although not required by law, budget officials believe if the account balance falls below the safety net, the state cannot easily pay its bills on time.

Judge: Minority efforts can overcome racism

Brian Gross
Staff Writer

More minority participation is the cure for racism in the law profession, administrative law judge Julius Johnson said at the SIU School of Law's Minority Law Day 1990.

Johnson, the featured speaker Saturday, examined lawyers in society, law as a career, opportunities available to law students and the rewards of being a lawyer.

Johnson also presented results of a study of the 250 largest law firms in America which showed only 2,500 partnership positions were held by minorities out of 63,000 total partnerships.

"This is quite astounding," Johnson said. "The reality is that there is still much racism in the law profession as in other aspects of life. The cure is more and more minority enterprise."

The study from the National Law Journal, revealed that 1,100 partnerships were held by African Americans, 630 by Hispanic Americans and 850 by American Indians and Asians combined, Johnson said.

The 15,000 partnerships held by women is "rather impressive considering the short time they have been welcome to the bar," he said.

"Women for the most part have fared quite well in the legal profession," Johnson said. "Minorities have fared very poorly in the legal profession."

Johnson, who was raised in St. Louis, attended SIU from 1953-57, earning a bachelor's degree in political science and history. He attended Howard University Law School in New York.

"Getting into law school is an not easy matter," Johnson said. "There is keen competition at law schools throughout the country."

It was not until he came to SIU that he met a lawyer for the first time, he said. Before that, he had no concept of what lawyers did.

"Law is such a varied field," Johnson said. "It offers so many possibilities. Law and lawyers have always been central to the life of the community."

Johnson has worked as a trial attorney for the public defense service, as a government attorney for the Interstate Commerce Commission and as an assistant U.S. attorney at the U.S. Attorney's Office in Washington, D.C.

Today he is an administrative law judge for the U.S. Department of Labor in Washington.

Guardian Angel founder to open drug awareness week

By Brian Gross
Staff Writer

Fourteen concerned New York City residents started the Guardian Angels in 1979 to control crime in their south Bronx neighborhood, and today the group has grown to include thousands of members on two continents.

"More and more we're being called on to point out existing elements in America that need correcting if we're going to turn this thing around," Curtis Siwa, founder of the Guardian Angels, said.

Siwa will speak at the Student Center Ballroom D at 8 p.m. Monday to kick off drug awareness week. Admission is $2.

"At universities there is much interest in the exploding problems of drugs and endless juvenile delinquency," Siwa said. "People don't have the answers. After 11 years of organization throughout the United States, the Guardian Angels know the roots of the problem and can explain it."

The Guardian Angels were formed in 1979 by Siwa and 13 other young men to prevent crime by patrolling neighborhoods in groups of eight or more and by exercising their rights to make citizens arrests, Siwa said.

"We cannot cave in to the growing mood in this country, a mood based on frustration. It's now more important than ever to resist the temptations of drugs."

Today more than 5,000 Guardian Angel members, both

"For the 20 percent obsessed with abuse we have to give up what is considered a leisure for most."

men and women, are fighting crime in 60 American cities, two Canadian cities, London and Paris, he said.

"Fighting an all out campaign does not exclude dealing with the human fall out," Siwa said. "You have to have treatment available; you have to have a whole lot more than what we are offering now."

Siwa said the Guardian Angels' philosophy is to sacrifice drugs and alcohol, substances not required to sustain life, because 20 percent of the population cannot handle using the substances in just a recreational manner.

"We have to sacrifice (drugs and alcohol) for the good of the whole," he said. "For the 20 percent obsessed with abuse we have to give up what is considered a leisure for most."

Another key to turning around the rate of violent crime is the influence of strong role models, he said.

Siwa had been a night manager for a McDonald's in the south Bronx of New York when the Angels were formed Feb. 13, 1979. The almost-completely deteriorated area was and continues to be one of the worst gang areas of New York City, he said.

When the transportation veins and arteries of the area, the subways, came to be reputed as the "muggers express," the Guardian Angels began unarmed train patrols, Siwa said.

Exercising their rights to make citizens arrests proved difficult at first because police often discouraged citizens physically detaining criminals and would rather have people just report the crime, he said.

But when criminals are aware that the Guardian Angels will not just call the police, it creates a calming effect, he said.

"People tend not to commit crimes or deal drugs when we are within visibility," Siwa said.

"Four (Guardian Angels) have been shot and killed in the line of duty, and three dozen more have been severely injured," he said. "It's a risk we feel is well worth taking."

The Wellness Center and SPC Expressive Arts are co-sponsoring Siwa's talk.

Drug awareness week will continue Tuesday night with a panel discussion between community leaders on the drug situation in southern Illinois and how political the situation is, Barb Fijolek, coordinator of Student Health Programs, said.

The legal consequences of using drugs as a student will be discussed Wednesday night. A talk on steroids will be given at the Student Recreation Center Thursday.

Minority instructors for hire — as usual

BY NOW, MOST OF US have heard of the ever-present and growing demand for minority personnel at universities and colleges throughout the United States.

Advancements have been made, to be sure, but the civil rights movement is old news by now. We as a community and as part of a nation have not done our part to incorporate equality in all facets of life.

Excuses notwithstanding, more needs to be done to hire and retain minority instructors and administrators.

The University's record is not one of which to be proud. So far, incremental advances—where there are advances—in minority teaching and administration does not speak well of the University.

CURRENTLY, A PUSH for minority personnel in special education has been taken up by the House Subcommittee on Education and Labor. The downward spiral of minority participation will get some relief, but we're talking tip-of-the-iceberg sort of relief.

The avenue the House sees fit to manipulate is a suitable start. The federal government should be willing to allocate resources to the little acted upon but much talked about subject of minority teaching.

NORMA EWING, chairwoman for the Department of Special Education, testified before the House Subcommittee on Education and Labor last week in Washington, D.C. Her suggestions included placing increased pressure for recruiting minority personnel, including teachers, school psychologists and communications and language specialists.

Although her testimony will be used in considering reauthorization of the Education of the Handicapped Act's discretionary programs, the University should consider using it to improve its success in minority teaching.

TEN YEARS AGO, the University employed 20 full-time minority teachers out of 1,106. Last year, that number was down by one-tenth of one percent, or 18 minority teachers out of 1,074. Yes, in this age of thankful colorblindness, we've slipped. It's a wonder that people continue to take this serious problem seriously.

The number of administrative and professional staff at the University has increased from 19 of 489 to 36 of 539 during the same 10-year period. Apparently, somebody is on the right track.

THANKFULLY, EWING had the opportunity to tell some House members just how lacking American schools are in terms of special education minority teachers.

And thankfully, we are intelligent enough to realize that a shortage of minority teachers in just one sector of American schooling is not the end of the story.

By encouraging an influx of minority teachers in all aspects of education, progress toward equality will be more than hot air and can do.

Changes in schooling is all talk

By Brian Dickinson
Providence Journal

When the nation's governors converged on Washington the other day and issued solemn goals for improving the nation's schools, there was general applause all around. Their action, said to be the first time the governors had set goals for anything, was lauded as a creative step toward school reform.

As perhaps it was. American schooling, the governors firmly declared, needs "sweeping, fundamental changes." To this end, they endorsed several unexceptionable goals — preschool preparation for all children, a high school graduation rate of at least 90 percent, no drugs or violence — and promised to keep pushing toward the goals during the next decade.

Admirable aims all, as they were when President Bush first set them out in January; but no one tried very hard to say how those goals might be reached. And to me, this omission underscores one of the discouraging weaknesses in the whole business of education reform — a persistent lack of coordination and follow-through.

Anthro prof says football has got to go

In the winter 1989-90 issue of the Alumnus, the author of the "Alumnus Sports Quarter" column presented a biased and misleading view of what transpired last year at SIU-C during a campaign suggesting that football be eliminated. The writer made it sound as if the campaign evoked little response, was not treated seriously, and that the response was essentially critical.

There was (and still is) considerable support for eliminating football at SIU or, at least, systematically studying its possible future. The effort to publicly address the football issue started in late February 1989, and by April there was increasing campus response.

Letters of support appeared in the Daily Egyptian and the Southern Illinoisian and many people offered verbal support.

I was invited to give presentations to the Undergraduate Student Government, the Graduate and Professional Student Council and the Faculty Senate. Initial faculty reactions, as estimated by the president of the F-Senate, ran about 7:1 in favor of eliminating football (DE 4/13), and the Senate's executive committee recommended that the 1989-90 executive committee consider the proposal to eliminate football (DE 4/5); the Medical School faculty voted, by a 25:3 majority, to eliminate football (DE 4/13); the GPSC discussed a resolution to eliminate football which, in September, passed by a 23:15 vote (DE 4/26, 9/21).

University President John Guyon was quoted (DE 5/2) as saying that he "had no objection to the matter being discussed and widely considered." As far as I am aware, Dr. Guyon has never publicly endorsed a proposal to eliminate football, but I am not aware that he has taken a public stand against the campaign to eliminate it or, for that matter, in defense of the program.

The fundamental arguments against football at SIU have not changed. The program continues to lose vast sums of money, and loses money every year. Over the last five years alone, the net loss from football has averaged about $630,000 per year, in excess of 3 million dollars. I leave it to others to calculate the many millions of dollars that football has cost SIU during earlier periods.

I have been a professor at SIU since 1962, and from that year until 1989, SIU has won only about 42 percent of its approximately 300 games; it has had only 10 winning seasons out of the 28.

So, how do the alumni feel about this? From 1964 to 1988, about 100,000 people have received undergraduate degrees from SIU. There has been no systematic and scientific survey or poll of this group to assess its opinion. Although football fans and SIU sports publicists offer self-serving opinions, no one really can say with any certainty how the Alumni feel until such a poll is conducted.

I believe that SIU's alumni should be informed of the financial drain of the football program and other arguments against retaining it. — Jerome S. Handler, anthropology professor.

From all angles, parking is a costly problem

I agree with Dan Reed's assessment of the parking situation on campus. I also see Phil Schuyler's point, because I used to park at the Arena when I was a student and walk over to Algeld carrying musical instruments as well as books.

However, now I am a Student Center staff member. I paid $30 for a parking sticker, but it is not as simple as getting on campus early enough to find a parking space. I amy work from 7 a.m. to midnight, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., depending on my schedule. There are four blue parking areas within reason: the walking distance (even in rain) from the Student Center, but if you do not have to come to work until after 9 a.m., forget it.

The city lots across 52 are full before then, too.

So I am paying for a sticker I can only use about half the time. No dice buddy. What is happening to all this money we are paying for parking? You folks know how many parking tickets you are paying!

I'm paying them too when I park in the wrong place. I average about $50 a year to park on or close to campus. That is a lot of bread. What bugs me is when the University allotted the space for the parking garage next to the Student Center, they only built two levels.

I guess that is better than one level, but what is the point? I am told it was designed to be five levels. I have heard comments that a parking garage is ugly. Can it be any uglier than Famer which is a stones throw away? Is another huge asphalt parking lot more aesthetically pleasing? No. I prefer grass and trees. Let's make more efficient use of space.

One final note: If Merilyn Hogan, Coordinator of Parking / Traffic thinks there is no parking problem, let's take away her private, reserved parking place and make her park on the main campus and walk to Washington Square, then ask her what she thinks next winter. I hope she's used to getting to work before 8 a.m. — Tom Connelley, technical director, Student Center.

Editorial Policies

Signed articles, including letters, viewpoints and other commentaries, reflect the opinions of their authors only. Unsigned editorials represent a consensus of the Daily Egyptian Board, whose members are the student editor-in-chief, the editorial page editor, the associate editorial page editor, a news staff member, the faculty managing editor and a School of Journalism faculty member.

Letters to the editor must be submitted directly to the editorial page editor, Room 1247, Communications Building. Letters should be typewritten and double spaced. All letters are subject to editing and will be limited to 500 words. Letters fewer than 250 words will be given preference for publication. Students must identify themselves by class and major, faculty members by rank and department, non-academic staff by position and department.

Letters for which verification of authorship cannot be made will not be published.

legislative right," he said.
 "But if I am among the nominees, I won't retreat, that's for sure. In my opinion, no one would understand it if I did."

First official results in the regional elections were expected Monday in what the official Tass news agency said was high voter turnout.

Because the Soviet Union stretches across 11 time zones, voters in the Far East cast the first ballots 10 hours before Moscow's voters trudged to the polls.

By noon in the Soviet Far East, 61 percent of the electorate made their choices in Sakhalin, 54.8 in the Amur region bordering China and 48 percent in Khabarovsk, a major city north of Vladivostok.

Although the communists were the only recognized party in the balloting, they were opposed by a host of contestants from movements certain to become opposition parties once the Communist Party formalizes its pledge to end its monopoly on power.

"The elections are being held for the first time under the provisions of a new legislation which envisages an alternative choice and a real contest of candidates," Tass said.

A total of 6,700 candidates vied for the 1,068 spots in the Russian Parliament. 3,091 ran for the Ukraine legislature and 1,473 for the 310 spots in Byelorussia.

The three republics comprise almost three-fourths of the country's population of 290 million people. The Russian republic has a population of 147 million, the Ukraine 51.7 million and Byelorussia 10.2 million.

On the eve of the elections in the giant Russian republic, Pravda newspaper rocked the country's fast-changing political landscape by publishing the program of the Communist Party's radical wing. It was another sign of splintering at the top of Soviet power structure.

The best known candidate was Boris Yeltsin, the firebrand maverick of the Soviet Parliament, seeking a seat to the Russian Republic's Parliament from the city of Sverdlovsk.

Last month Yeltsin said he would seek the presidency of the republic as the next step in his remarkable rebound from political disgrace in November 1987 when he was booted from the leadership of the Moscow party committee and later from the ruling Politburo.

Gocha Arevadze, a Georgian resident of Moscow's Gagarin district, said he voted for supporters of Yeltsin "not because Yeltsin is going to give us any benefit but because he is against what we have now."

A sampling of two polling places in Moscow revealed confusion among the voters. In the Otkryabskaya region, the turnout was 65 percent after 7 p.m. In the Sevastopol region turnout reached 50 percent by 3 p.m.

One voter said: "Soviet voters are just like American ones. They don't know who they're voting for and don't really care."

GREYHOUND, Page 1

About 350 workers were drivers giving the company approximately "1,000 experienced drivers on the road," he said.

Greyhound officials said replacement drivers must have at least one year of experience driving a bus or truck at highway speeds between cities, be licensed and "have a driving and personal record acceptable to Greyhound."

Edward Strait, president of the Amalgamated Council of Greyhound Local Unions, took issue with the company's count of workers who had crossed picket lines and also questioned the qualifications of replacement drivers.

Strait said in a statement that strikers had been "meticulously counting" workers crossing lines and determined that only 95 union drivers had returned to work as of midday Sunday.

"That means that .. 1.5 percent of the 6,300 drivers represented by the Amalgamated Transit Union are transporting passengers for Greyhound Lines, Inc.," Strait said.

"We ... hope that Greyhound management will soon realize that the only way they will be able to provide the traveling public with safe and affordable inter-city bus transportation is by returning to the negotiating table for good-faith bargaining on a fair and equitable contract."

The union has accused Greyhound of bad-faith bargaining for refusing to modify its last three-year offer. The company said the proposal included a 6.9 percent increase in pay and benefits over the first year, the most it could manage without raising fares to its passengers, many from smaller cities who depend on Greyhound as their only means of intercity transportation.

Union officials said the proposal had been rejected by 92 percent of its members, who took a 22 percent pay cut when new owners bought Greyhound in 1987.

With no new talks scheduled, picket lines across the country remained tense, with passengers waiting in crowded terminals amid piles of luggage.

In South Bend, Ind., a Greyhound driver reported that his vehicle was fired on as it entered a toll road. State police said no injuries were reported.

After an elderly woman was knocked down by strikers rushing to climb aboard a bus leaving the Tampa, Fla., terminal and a relief driver said he was beaten, union officials agreed to limit to four the number of pickets.

Expedition team completes trek

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI)—The Trans-Antarctica expedition that completed a nearly 4,000-mile trek by dogsled across the frigid continent prepared to leave Antarctica Sunday and embark on a series of appearances.

The six-member team, led by polar explorer Will Steger, 45, of Ely, Minn., planned to board a Soviet research vessel Monday for a 12-day trip to New Zealand.

Appearances also were scheduled in Paris and London and a victory celebration was planned in Minnesota March 24.

The first unmechanized crossing of Antarctica by the team Saturday covered a distance equivalent to a trip from Vancouver, British Columbia, to Key West, Fla.

The crew started and ended at sea level and in between reached an altitude of 11,440 feet. They endured temperatures as low as 54 below zero and windchills of 113 below.

But the men and dogs appeared healthy on their arrival at the Soviet base of Mirny, according to reports from the expedition's support staff in St. Paul, Minn.

Jean-Louis Etienne, co-leader of the expedition, described Antarctica as "a monster."

"It is not a place for playing. It is a very difficult and frightening place," said Etienne, 42, of France. "You must be very experienced to be there. This trip was so flat and empty and long that it was very hard on the mind."

After 221 cold and tedious days on the ice, Steger said the crew members felt "very calm and peaceful" following their arrival at Mirny.

"We thought we would be very excited," he said. "I feel very light, like a kite, and very much at peace."

from the lake. The latest data shows the fish to be safe, he said.

According to Wallace, the reason the advisory probably should have never been announced is that the advisory was originally issued because of a discrepancy in data.

Wallace said the data compiled by the IDPH and data compiled by the SIU-C Cooperative Fisheries Research Laboratory differed. The IDPH figure showed no danger while the SIU-C figures did, he said.

Because the two pieces of datum were collected in very different ways and both may have been accurate, it was decided to issue the health advisory for reasons of "political expedience," Wallace said.

"You want to make sure to protect the public health," he said.

Wallace said the PCB levels in fish will continue to be monitored for one more year, and people shouldn't be concerned about trace levels of PCBs.

"PCBs are in the environment everywhere because we used PCBs in everything prior to '76," he said.

Greeks take retrospective glimpse at past decade with variety show

By Jeanne Bickler
Entertainment Editor

The 43rd annual Theta Xi Variety Show hit the high and low points of the 1980s Saturday night at Shryock Auditorium.

The show, "A Look Back at the '80s," featured eight acts dedicated to summing up the past 10 years.

The first place grand prize overall went to Alpha Tau Omega and Alpha Gamma Delta.

Their act, "Goodbye Comrade, Hello Wall Street," was a tribute to the freeing of Eastern Europe. They sang and danced to "America," "If I Were A Rich Man," and "Puttin' On The Ritz." The choreography on these pieces was excellent.

All the acts had some singing, and most of the groups danced and sang.

The acts were divided into three groups. Small groups were one to eight people, medium groups had eight to 20 performers and large groups had more than 20 performers.

Theta Xi, the original sponsors of the variety show, walked away with two trophies; most original act and first place in the medium sized group.

Their act was a take-off on the story of Little Red Riding Hood, using the character Gumby in place of the Big Bad Wolf.

Christine Valetti took the trophy for first place in a small group with her solo of Whitney Houston's song, "One Moment in Time." The crowd went crazy when Valetti sang, and her rich voice filled the auditorium.

The first-place trophy for a large group act went to Pi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Kappa for their act, "A Time To Weep, Laugh, Mourn And A Time To Dance—The '80s." This group did five songs, more than any other group.

The first runner up to the large group award was Delta Chi and Delta Zeta, with "Broadway to Berlin." This act was dedicated to the memory of Delta Chi Jason Golan, who died last month as a result of a motorcycle accident.

Democrats gear up for debate

By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer

With the Democratic primary just around the corner, state Rep. Larry Woolard and challenger Ned Mitchell are ready to put their oratorical skills to the test.

A 90-minute debate between Woolard and Mitchell has been tentatively scheduled for March 14, six days before the primary. The debate, sponsored by the Herrin radio station WJPF 1340 AM, will be held at 7 p.m. at the Herrin Civic Center.

This will mark the first time two candidates could agree on a debate.

While the details of the debate have yet to be agreed upon, WJPF employee Bob Ferrari said the format will include question-answers and rebuttals with each candidate giving opening and closing remarks.

There will be six panelists directing questions to the candidates with Brocton Lockwood, an attorney from Marion, acting as mediator.

The radio station will provide a live broadcast of the debate because seating in the civic center will be limited to only 400 people. There will be no charge for admission.

The event will mark the first time the two Democratic candidates for state representative could agree on a debate.

Mitchell, mayor of Sesser, challenged Woolard to debate in February, but the Carterville Democrat declined saying he would only participate in a debate if a member of the media or another responsible party made the invitation.

The most recent poll, completed Feb. 20 by the Illinois House Democratic majority, showed Woolard leading Mitchell by 3-to-1.

The poll showed that out of the 309 respondents 53 percent favored Woolard while 18 percent supported Mitchell. Another 28 percent reported they were undecided at that time.

Woolard said the high percentage of undecided respondents of the polls were part of the reason he agreed to the debate.

"If there is anybody who is undecided about which way to vote in the primary, then the debate will help them make up their minds," Woolard said.

Mitchell was unavailable for comment on the issue.

Student performance probes sexual relations

By Aaron Nauth
Staff Writer

The sexually timid and people with a frigid sense of humor might have blushed during the performance, "Deep Down: Exploring Women's Erotica," which touched upon taboo topics and used explicit sexual language effectively without being too smutty or daft.

But then again, if the timid and frigid opened their eyes and ears, they might have opened their minds to a world many repress because of a fearful ignorance.

A sexually mixed audience was treated to an unusual and powerfully surprising performance by nine English graduate students Friday night at the Morris Library Auditorium. The expressed topics attempted to smash the preconceived barriers of sexual relations, which keep humans from communicating awkward subjects.

"Whatever they say comes from the heart, the gut and places unmentioned," said Clarisse Zimra, assistant professor in English, during her introduction. "When we talk about sexuality, we are not talking about the organ between our legs; we are talking about the organ between our ears."

A Review

Association of English Graduate Instructor Students, seven women and two men, recited poetry and acted out scenes from plays that dealt with the hilariously deceitful subjects of lust, love and healing by mixing confrontational and subtle sexual language.

Some pieces like "For My Daughter," dealt with serious issues of virginity and others like "Macho Woman," dealt with the more humorous aspects of uninhibited lust, but the unifying theme of the readings was the intense expression of female wants, needs and perceptions of the sexual world.

"The women are not going to speak for themselves, they are going to speak themselves," Zimra said from behind the podium, or as she put it "the phallic symbol of authority."

The presentation was captivating from beginning to end, leaving no repressive stones unturned. The audience experienced a view of sexuality normally not presented within the mainstream of society.

"When we talk about sexuality, we are not talking about the organ between our legs, we are talking about the organ between our ears."

—Clarisse Zimra

Campus radio station celebrating 20th birthday

By Jeanne Bickler
Entertainment Editor

Mickey Mouse is 50 years old this year.

"Saturday Night Live" is celebrating its 15th season.

And WIDB, SIU-C's campus radio station, is 20 years old this year.

WIDB's celebration begins today, the first day of WIDB

Since WIDB is only available on the AM band in the dorms, and through cable FM, not all students know how to receive the station.

Awareness Week, with a live remote from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the south end of the Student Center.

Live remotes will be at the Student Center during these hours everyday this week, Meg Ackermann, WIDB promotions director, said.

The remotes will feature contests and giveaways, along with the music.

Giveaways and contest prizes include posters, albums and tickets to the Nightsoil Coolies concert at the Avalon in Chicago. The concert will be during spring break, so students from that area could attend, Ackermann said.

The new WIDB t-shirts and tank tops also will be on sale at the live remotes, she said.

Since WIDB is only available on the AM band in the dorms, and through cable FM, not all students know how to receive the station, Ackermann said.

"The live remote area also will have people on hand to tell students how to hook us up," she said.

By the end of the week, WIDB may have some new listeners. "We're trying to get our name out so people know what they are hearing in the Student Center," Ackermann said.

game. Sterling Mahan, who had 17 points, was the only other Saluki to score in double figures.

In reference to the Salukis' team effort Herrin said:

"I think a lot of players can play well and not score many points."

Shipley said the Salukis' defense set the pace for their second-half dominance by forcing turnovers and causing bad shots.

"We like to get up and down the court," Shipley said. "When we get down on defense and cause some bad shots and force them to turn it over, that's when we're at our best. Our defense helps our offense. We're a better ball club when we use all 94 feet of the floor."

"In the first half we weren't playing good defense and they were hitting the shots," Shipley said. "They were throwing their bodies around really well. They really bogged us down."

Tulsa's first-half lead was enhanced by the 36 percent Saluki shooting percentage, from the free throw line and from the field. The Dawgs also committed 15 first-half turnovers.

Tulsa started a run with less than a minute to play, but a Freddie McSwain one-handed slam pushed the Saluki lead back to 10 points, 73-63.

The second half was a different scenario as the Salukis shot 60 percent (16-26) while Tulsa was off the mark and managed only 30 percent (11-36). Jerry Jones helped the Salukis to a 46-35 rebounding advantage by pulling down 10 boards.

"We're excited about where we are and we're not going to talk about the NCAA," Herrin said.

In Saturday's second semi-final game Creighton's Bob Harstad, the MVC Player-of-the-Year, scored 32 points and had nine rebounds but it was not enough to stave-off Illinois State, which had four players in double figures, as the second-seeded Redbirds nipped Creighton 69-64. Rickey Jackson led the way for Illinois State with 17 points.

The Redbirds' victory erased Creighton's chances of repeating as Valley champions. The Bluejays beat SIU-C 79-77 in last year's title game.

The No. 1 seeded Salukis play Illinois State in the championship game at 8:38 p.m. Tuesday. The game will be televised on ESPN.

Illinois State nips Creighton 69-64 to move into final

NORMAL (UPI) - Second-seeded Illinois State got 17 points from Rickey Jackson and 13 from Richard Thomas to defeat Creighton 69-64 Sunday in the semifinals of the Missouri Valley Conference Tournament.

Creighton, 21-11, was led by Bob Harstad with 32 points and Duan Cole and Chad Gallagher had 10 points each.

Illinois State, 17-12, will face SIU-C, 26-6, Tuesday in the MVC championship game.

Tennis women win 2 matches on road

By Eric Bugger
Staff Writer

The SIU-C women's tennis team boosted its record to 5-1 in the spring season this weekend with road wins over Southwest Missouri State and Drury.

The Salukis clobbered Drury Friday 9-0. All six of SIU-C's singles players won in straight sets.

In doubles play, Lori Edwards and Missy Jeffrey, Wendy Varnum and Lori Gallagher, and Beth Boardman and Michele Toye joined forces to win in straight sets.

"We beat Drury pretty easily, but it was a great warm-up for us," women's tennis coach Judy Auld said. "Even though we beat them in straight sets, we had some pretty tough points."

The more important match of the weekend came Saturday against Gateway Conference foe Southwest Missouri.

The Salukis had lost 4-5 to Southwest in the fall and were seeking a bit of revenge.

With singles victories from Jeffrey, Edwards, Toye and Gallagher, who won by default, the Salukis defeated Southwest 6-3.

SIU-C also got doubles wins from Varnum and Gallagher (6-1, 6-1) and Toye and Boardman, who won by default.

"They had some injury problems, but I am glad that we were able to pick up that crucial conference victory," Auld said.

The women will begin preparation for their spring trip March 9-17 to Hilton Head Island, S. C.

"I think we need to work on doubles play," Auld said.

Scavenger Hunt (scaven-jer hunt) a game in which persons are sent out to bring a number of prescribed miscellaneous items without buying them.
Here they are, the clues for the Scavenger Hunt!

March 5: "Look for the Body," we may quiz you.

- * I can't believe we have a project due after Spring Break!!! My blood is BOILING!! I had better go to the SHAC and have it checked out.
- * Swimsuits??? With the way I have been eating these last few weeks, I can only assess that it is a matter of time before the fat on my body folds over and envelops me...EEEK!!! I had better stop by the REC training Room and see if they can help me. They will probably tell me to Walk for Health and that it will make me full of VITALITY.
- * I am such a connoisseur of burger, shakes and fries, I never gave that fat content no nevermind, but when I saw the scales tipping, I said, "How many calories can there be in a bucket of Colonel's fried chicken?" You can get food info fast one night at the Student Center.
- * An investment of $5 on March 21 could lead to a lifetime of savings!!! You need no invest but need to investigate. 3-2-4-4, 4-2-4-4, 2-2-4-4, 4-2-4-4

One of these numbers is:

- The phone number of your favorite delivery pizza.
- The pick 4 Lotto.
- The combination for "How to Eat for Good Health"

- * Boy, these food and nutrition questions are tough! I had better stop at second floor Quigley to see if I can find the answer.
- * Apples are red, grapes are inky, when you think of balance, think of a slinky. Confucius say... Good Eating for Every Body always leads to Healthy Weigh! This thought is Centered around Wellness.
- * This guy from Agriculture really helped me on me "Sofine Bovine" essay. I have got to invite him to dinner but he does not have a phone! I guess I will just stop by and leave a message with the Secretary. P.S. His face is in the case!
- * For additional tokens, go to the three tables, and find out about myths, nutrirobics and labels.

Salukis cruise by Sycamores in first-round of MVC tourney

By Kevin Simpson
Staff Writer

NORMAL — The Salukis cruised through the first round of the Missouri Valley Conference Tournament with a 70-54 thumping of the Indiana State.

The victory gave the Dawgs a 25-6 record — the most victories in SIU-C history — and put them one step closer to the NCAA field of 64. With a pressure defense and a dominating inside attack, the Salukis jumped out to a 37-28 halftime lead and never looked back.

Senior center Jerry Jones and junior forward Rick Shipley combined for 11 of the Salukis' 17 offensive rebounds. SIU-C held a 40-30 rebounding edge over the overmatched Sycamores. Jones finished with a game-high 16 rebounds along with 10 points.

Shipley added 12 points, seven rebounds, five assists and four steals.

The Saluki defense limited the Sycamores to 38 percent shooting from the field while the Dawgs finished at 46 percent.

The Sycamores closed out their season at 3-20.

SIU-C school record for most wins in a season with 25. Their 10 wins in the league matched against 4 losses — only 6 losses overall — was good enough for sole possession of the conference crown.

Herrin, who has a life-long association with basketball, said he has never received an award equal to this one.

"Being selected as Coach of the Year is probably the greatest honor I have ever received," Herrin said. "It is the most gratifying award of my coaching career, and I have been lucky the past 34 years and have had many nice moments.

"I wish one individual, my father, was here to share this moment," Herrin said. "He would be even more proud of this than I am, and that is saying a lot."

After winning eight games in his first season at SIU-C, Herrin gradually built the Salukis into a contender until the Salukis recorded 20-win seasons last year and again this season. This is the first time the Salukis recorded back-to-back 20 win seasons since joining Division I status in 1967. His five-year record at SIU-C is 78-73.

Herrin was quick to credit the assistant coaches and players for making a contribution to his award.

"They won the conference championship, and I honestly believe coaching a team like we had this year was a minor role," Herrin said. "It is the most gratifying award of my coaching career."

"We have had kind of a story-book finish to our regular season, winning three games in a row, all in front of our home fans, and that made for the biggest thrill of my career."

Herrin received 19 of 31 votes in a poll of media, coaches and sports information directors, outdistancing Illinois State head coach Bob Bender who finished with eight votes.

regular-season title since 1987. The Salukis also won the conference title in 1986. They advanced to the NCAA Tournament both years.

In 1987, the Salukis finished 20-0 in the Gateway, won 18 consecutive games and finished 28-3 overall. They ended the season ranked No. 13 in USA Today — the school's highest ranking ever in that poll.

The Salukis upset 14th-ranked LSU on its homecourt 70-56, before bowing to third-ranked Louisiana Tech 66-53 in the Midwest Regionals of the NCAA tourney.

In 1986, the Salukis finished 18-0 in the Gateway, won 23 consecutive games and played in the NCAA tournament for the first time. The Salukis finished 25-4 overall.
