Staunton, Ill., Wins McKendree Meet

Staunton High school won the sixth annual McKendree Interscholastic Track and Field meet at Lebanon, Illinois, last Saturday, defeating Carrolton, runner-up 20-19. Carlinville was a close third with 18 1-3 points.

Staunton's victory was unique in the fact that it was gained by winning but one first, the rest of the points being made in second and third place, and that the team consisted of but six men.

The meet was exceptionally fast and a wholesale slaughter of records took place in the course of the contests. Old marks were bettered in six events, pole vault, shot put, javelin, discus, half mile and high jump.

Lewis of Carlinville won the individual cup in scoring 11 1-3 of his team's points.

Benton High won the one mile relay in 3:42. Alton finished second and Pinckneyville third.

100 Yard Dash—McDonough, Carrolton, first; Sawyer, Staunton, second; Fletcher, Benton third; time 10 3-5.

One Mile Run—Neville, Pinckneyville, first; Stramb, Carlinville, second; Winkler, Alton, third; time 4:52 2-5.

440 Yard Dash—First race, Mun gall, Carrolton, first; Boyd, Alton, second; Carrigan, Centralia, third; time :55 4-5. Second race, Templeton, Pinckneyville, first; O'Haven Granite City, second.

Shot Put—Lewis, Carlinville, first; Sawyer, Staunton, second; Kimmell Benton third; distance 47 ft. 7 in. New record.

Discus — Lewis, Carlinville, first; Steckles, Carrolton, second; Kerser tin, Carlinville, third; distance 114 ft. 1 in. New record.

Pole Vault—McDonald, Carrolton, first; Kelsey, Brighton, second; Gimmy, Jerseyville, and Gardner Granite City, tied for third. Height 12 ft. New record.

Running High Jump—Allen, Benton, first; Lewis Carlinville, Doty, Fenton, and Harris, Jerseyville, tied for second. Height 5 ft. 9 in. New record.

220 Yard Low Hurdles—Steigmier Staunton, first; Hastings, Staunton second; McDonough, Carrolton, third; time 28 1-5.

Half Mile Run—Geyer, East St Louis, first; Phelps, Carlinville, sec

Chorus Offers Excellent Program

Thursday evening, May 17th at 8 o'clock the Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Hills, and with the assistance of Mr. and Mrs. Tate of Herrin, will appear in a carefully chosen and well balanced program. Great credit for the success of the program is due Mrs. Hills, who has worked untiringly to make it possible.

The program is given at the bottom of the page. The following notes on the program are offered.

1. This selection is the best known one from "The Redemption"—an oratorio written in 1882 for the Birmingham Festival. Gounod (1818-1893) was even more proficient in opera than in oratorio composition, his best opera being "Faust."

3. Johann Strauss (1825-1899) composer of dance music of world wide fame, wrote several hundred waltzes, penetrated with Viennese gaiety and spirit. His "Blue Danube" was played on all festive occasions in Vienna, and some millions of copies have been distributed since that time. "Greetings to Spring" is only one of many sets of words written for this popular music.

5. It has been said of Beethoven (1770-1827) that, "Whether in range, depth, and truth of thought, perfect sense of beauty, or absolute con-

The Board to Elect Editor for The Egyptian

The EGYPTIAN Board is soon to elect the Editor for the coming year. It is necessary to elect in the spring so that the paper may get under headway early next fall.

The following clipping from the Idaho Argonaut will give you an idea of those who are eligible:

"A college editor should be a superman endowed with the patience of Job, the editorial ability of Horace Greeley, the managing and directing ability of Charles Schwab, the diplomacy of Woodrow Wilson, the judicial qualities of former Chief Justice Marshall; he needs the keen humor of Lincoln, the dignity and philosophy of Socrates, the agnostic tendencies of Ingersoll; he should have the literary ability of Shakespeare, the lack of conscience of Amy Lowell.

"In addition to these few qualifications he needs the physique of Jack Dempsey, the nerve of a hold-up man, and Edison's ability to do without sleep. His brain should be so constituted that he could absorb the essentials of the twenty-credit course by means of the safest perusal of the subjects contained and to pass the final exams with honors so that the faculty will respect him and

Carnival Attractions Coming

Plans for the 1923 campus carnival are rapidly nearing completion.

Committees in charge of carnival preparations report that many new and added features will be presented for inspection on May 23rd. Many noted characters and persons will attend the carnival for the first time this year.

"King Tut" will be here with his entire court and followers.

The literary societies are working overtime, each hoping to out-class the other in the splendor of their presentation.

A large showing of wild animals will be made. At least one elephant will be in the parade in addition to camels, burros and a large number of smaller animals.

A new band recently organized will compete with Cob's Normal band as a music maker. The new organization has musicians from such bands as Sousa's Concert band and "Cobden's Comic Clown" concert constellations."

One quarter and one glee club at least will be on hand to help out with the music.

The darktown follies chorus are expected to be bigger and better than ever this year.

Anthony Hall have not yet reported their plans to the committee, but are sure to add much color to the program.

The S. O. P. H. club report they will have pink lemonade as usual, also Eskimo pies and ice cream cones.

One of the most attractive features of the entire carnival is the parade led by the king and queen followed by each organization and the student following. The parade will start at one p. m. and march to the platform where the carnival proper will take place.

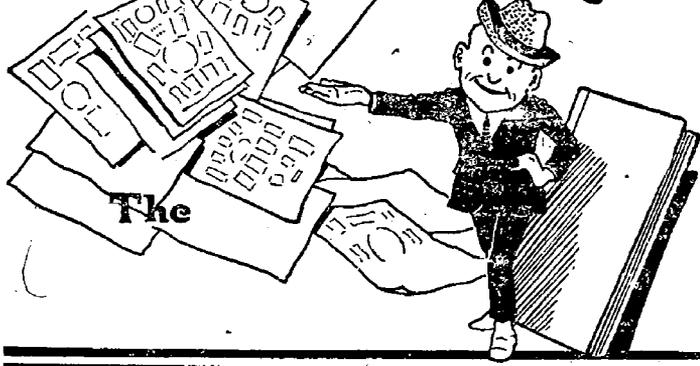

Don't forget that each student is to appear in costume and do his part to make the carnival a success.

"LEFTY" DAVIS TO COACH MCKENDREE

Earl "Lefty" Davis has been employed as athletic director of McKendree College for the coming year. Davis will take the place of Coach Orville Hall, who has resigned to take up graduate work at the university. Davis has been coach at Missouri Wesleyan for a number of years and has a brilliant record made at that school.

science of execution, he is the greatest musician, perhaps the greatest artist, that ever lived." One of his greatest works was his last symphony, the Ninth, into which he introduced voices. "Hymn to Life" is one of the finest of the choruses from this symphony. Beethoven's best composing was done after he was entirely deaf.

6. H. Lane Wilson is a modern English writer, whose songs, though light, appeal to the ear, and are well constructed harmonically. "Carmina," which has had a great popularity during the past twenty years, has wide range and dramatic effect.

8. "The Mound Builders" is a cantata, the story of which is based on the lives and customs of prehistoric American Indians. Original Indian melodies form the theme of most of the numbers. These melodies were taken down years ago by the composer, who attended the rites and dances of many Indian tribes.

MISS RUE AND MISS TROVILLION TO TOUR EUROPE

Two members of the S. I. N. U. faculty, Miss Rue, critic teacher, in the Training school, and Miss Trovillion of the English department, expect to sail soon after commencement for Europe.

Miss Rue and her mother will leave Carbondale, June 20, for a two weeks' visit in Rushford, Minn., thence to New York, from where they will sail on the Adriatic for Liverpool. After a tour of England they will sail from London to Belgium and will take the rail route up through Holland, Germany, Denmark, thence across the strait to Christiania. Here Miss Rue expects to spend a year in special study, degree at the famous University of Christiania. Before entering school she will take many interesting side trips up around the northwestern coast of the continent, the most thrilling excursion being the trip from Bergen to Hammerfest, the Land of the Midnight Sun.

Miss Trovillion will sail June 26th from New York City on the Berengana, landing at Southampton, England. She and a University friend will make a literary pilgrimage of England, Scotland and Wales, thence to France where they expect to spend two or three weeks, returning on the Empress of Scotland the last of August.

"Having these for requirements he should be able to qualify as a fairly competent editor, and there is a possibility that he should not be hauled on the faculty carpet more than once a week and kicked by the student body in general more than twice a day."

THE RADIATOR

The Death of the Dauphin
By Alphonse Daudet.

Translated by Prof. Pierce.

(Alphonse Daudet has written a number of very popular short stories in French. One of the best of these is in the reader published by President Shryock, entitled "The Siege of Berlin." Another, "The Last Day of School" is in most of the collections of short stories in French. The Dauphin was the heir apparent of the throne of France at the time of the royal king. The title corresponded to the Prince of Wales in England.)

The little Dauphin is sick, the little Dauphin is dying. In all the churches of the kingdom, the blessed sacrament is exposed night and day and great candles burn for the recovery of the royal child. The streets of the old capital are sad and silent, the church bell no longer sound, carriages go slowly by. Around the palace, curious citizens look through the grating, and Swiss porters covered with gold lace talk in the yard with an important air. All the castle is in motion. Chamberlains, stewards, mount and descend the marble stairs in a run. The galleries are full of pages and courtiers in silk clothes who go from one group to another learn the news in a low voice. On the large landing places of the stairs, ladies of honor in tears make low courtesies while wiping their tears with their pretty embroidered handkerchiefs.

In the Orangery, there is a numerous assembly of doctors in their robes. One sees them through the glass doors waving their long black sleeves and bowing learnedly their curled wigs. The tutor and the riding master of the little Dauphin walk before the door, awaiting the decision of the faculty of medicine. Kitchen scullions pass before them without saluting them. The riding master swears like a pagan, the tutor recites verses from Horace. And all the time on the side of the stables one hears a long plaintive whinnying. It is the sorrel pony of the little Dauphin that the grooms are forgetting and which calls in a melancholy way before its empty manger.

And the king? Where is his majesty, the king? He is shut up alone in a bedroom, at the end of the castle. Their majesties do not like to be seen weeping. As for the queen, it is another thing. Seated by the pillow of the little Dauphin, she has her beautiful face bathed in tears and is sobbing out loud before all as any shop keeper would do.

In his little bed of lace, the little

Dauphin whiter than the sheets is lying with his eyes closed. One would think that he is asleep; but no. The little Dauphin is not asleep. He turns toward his mother and seeing that she is weeping, he says to her, "Your majesty, why are you weeping? Do you truly think that I am going to die?"

The queen tries to answer but the sobs prevent her speaking.

"Do not weep," he says to her, "you forget that I am the Dauphin and that the Dauphin cannot die this way."

The queen sobbed still louder and the little Dauphin begins to be frightened. "Hello," he says, "I do not wish that death shall come to take me and I shall know how to keep it from coming here. Let them have forty foot soldiers come at once to mount guard around my bed. Let a hundred great cannons watch night and day with a match lit under my windows and woe to death if he dare come near us."

To please the royal child the queen makes a sign. Soon one hears the great cannons come rolling into the yard; and forty tall foot soldiers with their halberds in their hands come and arrange themselves about the room. They are old veterans with gray mustaches. The little Dauphin claps his hands on seeing them. He recognizes one of them, "Lorraine, Lorraine!" The old soldier takes a step toward the bed. "I love you so much, my old Lorraine. Show your big sword a little. If death wants to take me, you will kill him, will you not?"

Lorraine replies, "Yes, sire," and two great tears roll down his tanned cheeks.

At this moment the chaplain nears the little Dauphin and speaks to him a long time, showing him a crucifix. The little Dauphin listens, with a very astonished air. Then all at once interrupting he says: "I understand very well what you say to me, father; but after all couldn't my little friend Peppo die in my place if we give him a good deal of money?"

The chaplain continues to speak to him in a low voice and the little Dauphin looks more and more astonished. When the chaplain has finished the little Dauphin replies with a long sigh: "All that you tell me is very sad, father; but one thing consoles me, it is that up there, in the paradise of the stars, I am still going to be the Dauphin. I know that the good Lord is my cousin and cannot fail to treat me according to my rank." Then he adds turning to his mother: "Let them bring me my most beautiful clothes, my doublet of white ermine and my velvet dancing shoes. I want to look fine for the angels and enter paradise dressed like the Dauphin."

A third time the chaplain leans over toward the little Dauphin and speaks to him in a low voice. In the middle of his discourse, the royal child interrupts him angrily, "But then," he cries, "to be Dauphin is nothing at all!" and without wishing to say more, the little Dauphin turns toward the wall and weeps bitterly.

CHANGE IN THE STAFF

The EGYPTIAN has been exceedingly fortunate this year in having to make only a few changes in the staff, a change always causes a hindrance for a week or so because the new member is unfamiliar with the work to be done.

We are fortunate, however, in being able to have the services of Clifton Bowers 24, as Humor Editor. Mr. Bowers has had experience in this line as he was Joke Editor on the Obelisk of the Murphysboro High School during his Senior years there.

The vacancy in the Exchange Editorship will not be filled.

Of considerable interest is the latest move of the University of Chicago in adopting a drastic program for ridding the school of athletics and of social life. In the attempt to make the University of Chicago the most "highbrow" in the United States the faculty would cut the enrollment one-third and gradually drop all college athletics and social life. The plan is meeting vigorous protest from the under-graduates and the alumni.

IF WE UNDERSTAND THE BOOKWORM

An understanding sympathy with the various creatures of mankind is an easy thing not to acquire if one is not naturally endowed with such. Perhaps that is why we so seldom appreciate the efforts and idiosyncrasies of each other.

A lack of appreciation commonly exists among opposite types of individuals—each for the other. So it sometimes is with us in our study rooms and corridors. Here two types of individuals exist—the one who lives in a realm of action and continuous stimuli, subsisting on the experiences at hand, and the other who lives in a realm of ideas, confined to his mental complex.

Psychologists and sociologists tell us that after all men live in a world of ideas as well as a realm of immediate reality. To take this a little farther, we find that there seem to be those about us who live almost totally on ideas rather than on action. A richness—a certain wealth—comes from life, never to be found in ideas; and yet, how many find greater richness from another source than this boundless phantasmagoria of real events. Greater wealth of experience can sometimes come from thought of a single event, either anticipated, remembered, or imagined, than could possibly come to the same person otherwise. A single book can give more knowledge of life than life itself for a great many.

Then why do we feel sorry for those who know life in no other way than through ideas, who walk about the world perfectly impervious to the experiences we find so incomparable. Perhaps from them will come the finest inventions in the human race. They often do. Surely the modern conception is to get as much of life as possible to assuage the fascinations of the mental world. There is no defense for the bookworm, but we need not misunderstand his joie de vivre.

There can be no defense for the bookworm. But who knows whether he needs our condemnation or even the benevolence of our pity. His cup of life may be as full as ours.

Automobiles are like men. The cheaper they are the more noise they make.

EDITOR ATTENDS CONFERENCE

Ransom Sherretz, editor of the Egyptian, was in Galesburg last week-end attending the annual convention of the Illinois Intercollegiate Press Association. The convention was held at Knox College and was well attended by representatives of the weekly publications of the colleges of Illinois.

Before returning Mr. Sherretz visited the following colleges: Illinois, Shurtleff, Knox, Lombard, Bradley Tech., James Millikin and Old Normal.

A more detailed account of the convention will be given next week.

ANOTHER YEAR DRAWS TO A CLOSE

Another year draws to its close, A year of pleasures, joys, and sorrows, A year of friendships, new and old, A year of yesterdays, tomorrow, Filled with memories all too sweet.

The other years drew to their ends; Each brought its pleasures and its sorrows, Each had its days of happy dreams That filled its yesterdays, tomorrow, With memories long to linger.

Of all the years that here have flown, No other brings such tender color; The picture that we finish now is brighter, but its shades are deeper, Friendships strengthen as they continue.

Another year draws to its close, Of all the years the dearest, sweetest, A year we hesitate to finish Because its end means separation From those we've come to love.

LINDENWOOD PREX TO ADDRESS "Y's."

Because of the service rendered the school by the Christian Associations Sunday evening of Commencement week is set aside for the school and the churches of the town for them. It has been their good fortune to secure some big men for the addresses on these occasions. The good fortune is to continue this year for we have just secured Dr. John L. Roemer, president of Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Missouri. He is a scholar, a fine speaker with a great message and we are happy to announce his coming. Be sure to set aside Sunday evening, June 17 for the great annual event of the Y.

THE FRESHMEN MEET (As Reported)

The Freshmen class held a meeting Tuesday, May first, for the election of officers. The preceding Tuesday they held a meeting in the Zetetic Hall and elected Clifton Price to act as president for the spring term.

Mr. Price had Prof. Smith to announce in chapel Monday morning that he wanted every member of the class present. In spite of this all the boys but a few were absent. They must of been absent or else were asleep in chapel Monday morning. The girls must have been awake as there was a large number present. They handled it very nicely. Helen Etherton, a very prominent member of the first year class, was nominated for all the officers. She finally received the highly important office of vice-president, owing to the fact a move was made, which carried, that the nominations be closed immediately after her nomination. Miss Bessie Beard was elected to the office of keeping Mr. Price company in front of envious opponents. Miss Slack will handle the money for us the rest of the term.

The president's faith in the future as revealed by his inaugural address, has never been rivalled by the wildest dream of fiction.

Felmley Champions Student Loan Bill

One of Several Bills He is Championing Will Establish Loan Fund for Normal Students

A bill designed to establish a student loan fund for worthy young prospective teachers for Illinois has been drawn up by President Felmley and will be decided upon at this session of the state legislature. The Springfield Journal says:

The Felmley bill establishes a certain number of scholarships in the state normal school of Illinois, of which there are five. School districts of the state each year will be expected to nominate candidates for these scholarships. Apportionment of the scholarships among the districts is determined in the bill.

The district may loan to each nominee, who is accepted, $150 a year. The state may loan her another $150 a year, making $300, which Doctor Felmley says is ample to see a girl through one of our state normals.

The normal course consists of two years, consequently the district will have loaned her $300 and the state $300.

This debt she is to pay off at the rate of $150 a year. When she accepts the nomination and the loan she obligates herself to teach at least four consecutive years, two of which must be spent in the schools of the district which has aided her. The bill specifies what security the notes shall bear, and fixes the rate of interest which, however, does not begin until after she has commenced to teach.

Young men and women of Illinois, who want to teach should enjoy the opportunity to attend one of these great institutions the state has created and is maintaining on a basis that amounts to free tuition. The pupil needs sufficient money for living expenses. The district and the state together should be willing to loan the worthy what they require for such expenses. The loan fund has proved successful wherever it has been tried. It has shown a remarkably small per cent of losses from failure of borrowers to reimburse it.

NEWS FROM THE WALKERS

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Walker, of '22, have again accepted their positions as teachers in the Patterson High School for the coming year. Although we are sorry they will not be in school next year, as planned, we hope them further success next year.

The Patterson High School recently won the Greene County Intellectual meet by placing as follows:

- Piano solo—First.
- Vocal solo—First.
- Extemporaneous—Second.
- Declamation—First.
- Oration—First.
- Girls' Quartet—First.

They won a banner for the meet and a silver loving cup for the girls' quartet.

Elmer Walker, ex '24, will teach in the seventh and eighth grades at Patterson next year.

See "The Charming Widow" at Zetetic Society Friday night.

Mother.—Joe, why were you out so late last night?

Joe.—It wasn't so very late—only a quarter of twelve.

Mother.—How dare you sit there and tell me that lie? I was awake when you came in, and looked at my watch—it was three o'clock.

Joe.—Well, isn't three a quarter of twelve.

Hotel Rules for Guests

1. Guests are requested not to speak to the deaf waiter.

2. Guests wishing to get up early in the morning without being called should eat self-rising flour for supper.

3. Guests wishing to do a little driving will find hammer and nails in the closet.

4. If the rooms get too warm, open the window and see the fire escape.

5. If you are fond of athletics and like good jumping lift one end of the mattress and see the bed spring.

6. If your lamp goes out take a feather out of your pillow; that's light enough for any room.

7. Anyone troubled with nightmares will find a halter on the bed post.

ASSEMBLY BOUND

I had finished my work in Mr Bryant's office as the gong sounded calling students and faculty to assembly. Being in a rather philosophical mood I stood on the upper steps of the auditorium and watched the numbers throng by.

"Nothing to see," you say. You are wrong, my friend." It takes all kinds of people to make a world. And this school is truly a little world to itself.

From my position here I see the entire mass of people. But as I gaze, the mass separates into groups and individuals. I see first-year girls from the country, in their capable shoes and rather too-lengthy skirts, hurrying along with a timid, but determined look; farmer lads with trousers rolled above shoe tops, blue shirts and flaming ties. I see girls who seem to believe that their attractiveness is inversely proportional to the length of their skirts and directly proportional to the amount of powder and rouge their faces will hold. Their giggles, self-confidence and "look-who-we-are" attitude instantly proclaim them as inmates of Anthony Hall. With this group of conspicuous and "would be" society dames are the tough guys of the school, who talk loudly of punctures, blowouts, cigarettes, school dances, and white mule.

Another group, women of doubtful ages. Their cheeks say twenty, their necks thirty-five, lines around their eyes and mouths forty. I quickly average, then guess and never know whether I hit or miss. From force of habit I shrink from them. They recall my own school days when similar creatures had actually beaten me for no better reason than one small, innocent pen firmly fixed in the toe of my shoe.

But who comes here? Ah, the faculty. But time is up. I hasten to my seat in the assembly.

Harris DeWese, who was operated on for appendicitis recently, is much improved. We hope to see him back in school in a few days.

PAST AND PRESENT

Our Normal School is growing fast, And studies they are too— Ugly boys and girls have past, Which make us gay—not blue.

Our campus lawn is growing fair, With jolly boys and girls— A test—a test—I'll declare, Just flirt—just read—just whirl.

Our sweethearts, they make social calls, Upon their many guests— At Stumble Inn and the ball, It's there on east or west.

A LENGTHY LETTER

The members of the Sigma Alpha Pi sent a long letter to Frank Watson last week. Mr. Watson is home on account of illness. This letter was a long roll. When all the brothers had written, it was found that it was nearly thirty feet in length.

Anxious One—"I'm looking for A flat."
Agent—"You must C sharp, and B sharp or you will B flat, but B natural, I have D (the) flat for you."
Anxious One—"No! No! No! M' ol. I haven't the Do for that."

By Tippy.

John Hill is back n school after undergoing an operation for appendicitis.

W. T. Felts delivered the commencement address at Dongola Friday, May 11.

F. G. Warren refereed a High School Track meet at Flora, Ill., May 11.

Miss Minnie Maxwell, who was planning to stay the spring term was called home today, for the summer.

William McAndrews was called home last week on account of the death of his mother at Louisville.

Robert C. Verhines, principal of the Grand Tower High School, has been reemployed for another year with an increase in salary. Mr. Verhines took chage of this school last winter and his reemployment bespeaks the confidence the board of education has in his ability as a school man.—Murphysboro Independent.

Mr. Verhines is a member of this year's graduating class.

Prof. E. G. Lentz gave the Oration at the forty-second annual services in memory of Departed Fraters of the Cairo Commandery, Knights Templar, on Sunday, May 6. The Cairo Citizen speaks highly of Mr. Lentz and his address.

Big Debate.
Resolved to Go to Circus.
Affirmative (very decided) Paul Chance.
Negative (much more decided) Emma Snook.
Jury—Slats, Keith.
Decision, Undecided.

Urgent plea made by Waddington that many another circus come to Carbondale for the good and peace of mind of Chance, Snook and Waddington.

Too Personal

The Egyptian office was decked up with flowers last week. Delmar Shakleton brought them to the typist.

Miss Baldwin likes the Too Personal Column.

We haven't seen any straw hats yet on the campus.

There must have been about a million or two new students this term.

Ransom, Lynn and ? swapped sweaters last week.

The Chemistry department had their semi-term guessing contest last week.

Pearl White and Fred Hiller are in favor of double seats in Rhetoric class.

Monday night, Hazel Bailey was quite anxious to take Emilio to a midnight train. Next morning Hazel failed to appear in her classes, while Lill Keith came, but, oh, so sleepy. Now girls if you're desirous of midnight dates, just ask Hazel and Bill, they'll tell you how it's done.

There are fewer more weeks of school and some of our best authorities prophesy, judging from the past and allowing for no chapel on Tuesdays, that we shall sing "Stand Up, Stand Up" fifteen times, "Onward Christian Soldiers" six times and miscellaneous or no songs seven times.

Jake Krebel thinks all good looking girls should wear their house numbers on their backs, so it will save one the embarrassment of asking.

John Wright has been seen on the campus and round about with a certain girl. Now with the advent of the mid-spring term we see him more frequently with another, who has just come in. Just how he does it we'd like to know.

The Sigma Alpha Pi's had their lawn mowed last week.

E. Y. Smith has set an incubator with china eggs with hopes of hatching a flock of oriental chickens.

We are unable to understand why the more holes you get in a hair net the fewer holes it has.

Who is this Van Sickle all the girls are talking about?

We think he is some relation to Mr. Anthony Hall.

Leone Smith of Slapout, Ill., spent the week end at Anthony Hall.

It is reported that Mr. Bass threw his frying pan away.

Don't practice on your jazzbo at the mid hour of night. Your next door neighbor might get peeved if you did.

A few nights ago a young man who lives east of town, and who is in the senior college class here, came rushing into the house and announced that he had a thief locked in his father-in-law's -corn crib, whereupon he armed himself with a twenty-five automatic and his father-in-law (who had already returned) armed himself with the chopping axe and investigated. They made no report when they returned to the house but it seems that the student had locked the old jersey in the corn belt.

WE BEG YOUR PARDON

Due to the innocence and misunderstanding of some of the people whose names appeared under our ad last week as not paying, the Obelisk offers an apology for same. Some of these people paid before the Egyptian came out but was too late to change the notice. Also some of these paid the engraving of their pictures to the photographer, which was due to the carelessness at the studio, as all Juniors were not supposed to pay the photographer unless they wanted pictures for themselves. Again, the Obelisk offers an apology for same.

FAMOUS REMARKS AT ANTHONY HALL

At Anthony Hall at Thursday breakfasts—Whee! last night to study this week!

Boy, Howdy! I forgot to sign up. Wonder if we'll get open night!

Your lover awaits you on the main floor.

Telephone!!!
Who's on the iron?

Sat morning! How many hundred are on the iron?

Sign me up, will ya?
See if I got any mail—and please bring up any packages.

Aw gwan! you be hostess.

I just can't be telephone girl that night, I got a date.

And that's that!!!

Wonder why Velma Harrison is more fond of her sixth hour class than she is or ever was of any class—Spring-time I guess!

Some Anthony Hall girls report bad cases of palsy of the right arm after that first game of tennis.
