LITERARY SOCIETY SPRING PLAYS DIFFERENT FROM PREVIOUS ONES

MYSTERY PLAY AND COMEDY
ARE SELECTED AS THE BEST
FOR THE OCCASION

The spring plays this year are entirely different from any the societies have ever presented. With the rather sudden enthusiasm the public have manifested in mystery stories comes the revived interest in mystery plays. New York stage had as many as ten mystery plays running at the same time on Broadway last year—and one of the best ones was "Seven Keys to Baldpate." The Zetetic committee felt that it was following the trend of the popular interest in mystery stories and plays and wisely chose this play. In former years the literary society has presented rather heavy plays by Barrie Owen Davis, and George Kelly. They are attempting a different type this year, marking a definite change from former years.

Out of all the mystery plays on the market they could not have selected a more thrilling drama. It has all the earmarks of a melodrama without dropping to the level of the old type of wild comedy. "Seven Keys to Baldpate" was written by George Cohan and is a medley of mystery, farce and intrigue. It has for its setting a summer hotel on the top of a mountain in the dead of winter. The action is within the limits of twenty-four hours. Seven mysterious keys to the hotel, safe robberies, ghosts, hermits and what you will all go toward making this a scene such as has never before been acted this Normal stage.

The cast of characters are as follows:

- Elijah Quimby, the caretaker of Baldpate Inn—Raymond Etherton.
- Mrs. Quimby, his wife—Marjorie Leach.
- William Hallowell Magee, the novelist—Mark Green.
- John Bland, the millionaire's right hand man—John Bozarth.
- Mary Norton, the newspaper reporter—Jane Richardson.
- Mrs. Rhodes, the charming widow (Continued on Page Six.)

THE LIFE TRIUMPHANT THEME OF Y. W. MEETING

"The Life Triumphant," the last topic discussed by Mr. Pardee before the Y. W. C. A. was perhaps the most interesting of the series of four. Jesus' trials and achievements were compared to those trials on our campus. It was at this time he faced the opposition of the people, but in spite of this, achieved his life's purpose. Even though his success lay in the path of disappointment, pain and sorrow, he clung to his life's ideal to the end, and won the worship of the world. Mr. Pardee pointed out that the graduation of a student was a big achievement, often the result of much battling. He said, "Success is not an accident, but really a result of honest labor and stick-to-it-iveness."

Little Nineteen Meet Saturday

Saturday the outstanding members of this year's track team that had a chance of placing will go to Peoria to take part in the conference meet. It is the last meet on schedule and will include all the schools of the Little Nineteen. Last year at Galesburg the Maroons placed seventh with 8½ points. Bricker was second in the discus and fifth in the shot. Woil was fourth and fifth in the high and low hurdles respectively. Ray was second in the broad jump and Wright placed fifth in the 100-yard dash. Knox ran away with first place by winning nine firsts and scoring 47½ points.

Four of the six that represented the school last year along with the other stars of this year will make the trip Saturday and have a good chance of making a better showing. They aim to break the jinx and win at least one first. Bricker or Ray could easily turn the trick as both won seconds last time.

Literary Societies Have Joint Meeting

The two literary societies met together Wednesday evening and, jointly, gave one of the best programs of the year. The Socratic hall, in which the meeting was held, was filled and a large number of benches from other rooms had to be brought in to accommodate the crowd.

The first number on the program was music by orchestras and directed by Mrs. Krappe. Three classical selections were played. Hazel Towsery told of Dorothy Parker, the "flapper poet," and read a number of her poems. Miss Parker is the author of three books of poems; Hazel read from two of these.

Tom Whittenberg's solos are of well-known quality. He sang two Wednesday evening at the meeting Mr. Margrave played for him. James White from the Zetetic Society and Ione Raybourne from the Socratic, gave talks on the subjects: How Rich Men Stay Rich, and How Poor Men Stay Poor, respectively. Marjorie Leach gave a reading in a professional manner, and Lottie Hall delighted everyone with a clarinet solo. The last number on the program was a violin duet by Mrs. Krappe and Kendall Fugate.

The matter of the Socratic-Zetetic banquet was reconsidered. It was decided that, inasmuch as the societies are separate institutions, each having its traditions and policies handed down and religiously preserved since the days of the charter members, the banquets should be separate.

Thursday night of this week the Socratic will give their stunt in the Y. W. stunt show in the Auditorium.

Music Concert is Successful Affair

The annual concert given by the Music Department was held Thursday evening, May 15. It was an entirely successful affair. Each organization that participated showed the results of careful training and practice. The program was as follows:

- Toy orchestra from the Allyn Building—
- Moment Musical—Schubert.
- Anitra's Dance—Grieg.
- Harmonica Band from the fourth grade—
- 1. Taps.
- 2. Juanita.
- 3. Oh Susanna.
- 4. Home Sweet Home.
- 5. America the Beautiful.
- Junior Orchestra—
- 1. Marche Romaine—Gonod.
- 2. Morton High School March.
- College Orchestra—
- Blossom Time Selection—Sigmond Romberg; adapted from the melodies of Franz Schubert and Heinrich Bento.
- William Tell Overture—G. Rossini.
- Field Artillery March—Souza.
- College Band—
- 1. March from "Scenes Pittoresque"
- 2. Phedre Overture—Massenet.
- 3. Turkish March from "The Ruins of Athens"—Beethoven.
- 4. Washington Post March—Souza.

- The Village Blacksmith—Samuel R. Gains.
- Cantata for Mixed Voices.
- Test by H. W. Longfellow.
- Soprano Soloist, Marian Atkins.
- Baritone Soloist, Harold Bailey.
- Roland Hayes Club—
- 1. Who Did Swallow Jonah? arr. Daniel Prothorne.
- 2. By Bayolyn's Wave — Chas Gounod.
- 3. Across the River—Arthur A. Penn.

TOMORROW IS STUNT NIGHT

The annual Stunt Night at S. I. N. U. has always been a hilarious affair, and this year it promises to be much better than that of any previous year. The Tumblers, who have been favorites since their first performance, are more than worth the charge of admission. There will be everything from "Noah's Ark of the 20th Century" to an interpretation of the University Cafe. The ten organizations that will put on the stunts are:

- Socratic Society, Zetetic Society, Y. M. C. A., Iliana, N. Club, W. A. A., Anthony Hall, Delta Sigma Epsilon Sorority, Chamber of Commerce.
- The judges are: Mr. Muxsey, Mr. Draper, and Mr. Bracewell, all teachers at Community High School.

MAROONS SHADE M'KENDREE IN FAST AND EXCITING DUAL MEET

McKendree Again Wins Tennis Meet

For the third time this season the Normal tennis team lost a meet by a margin of one match. This time McKendree repeated the performance of the week before by winning 3-2. Lintner defeated Virgil Church of McKendree, 6-0, 6-1. Church of McKendree win was turned in by Crowell and Muckelroy who defeated Pfeiffer and Hertenstein by the score of 6-8, 6-4, 6-4. Our captain, "Cuss" Wilson was decidedly off form and proved an easy victim for Leon Church who defeated him in straight sets, 1-6, 1-6. Wilson and Lintner also lost in their doubles match to the Church brothers, 4-6, 2-6. The other match was between Muckelroy and Pfeiffer. The McKendree men received the decision to the tune of 5-7, 4-6. Lintner displayed a great brand of tennis to defeat Virgil Church. If Wilson can regain his form by Saturday the two of them should be able to make a creditable showing at the state meet.

NORMAL TRACK TEAM COMPLETES SEASON WITHOUT LOSING A DUAL MEET

The Normal track team obtained revenge for the trouncing received at the hands of McKendree several weeks ago in a quadrangular meet by defeating the Bearcats in a close contest last Friday. The final score was Carbondale 68½; McKendree, 62½. By making a clear sweep of firsts in the field events and winning two firsts in the track events, the Maroons were able to win.

Saunders of McKendree was high point man with two firsts in the dashes. Ray, Martin, and Bricker of Carbondale, and Tucker of McKendree, each scored eight points. The outstanding events were the two-mile and the shot put. Akin came from behind to beat Spencer and Church in the two mile run in the fast time of 10:27.3. Abe Martin and Bricker had an interesting duel tossing the shot. Martin was finally judged the winner when he made a toss of 42 ft. 2 3/4 in.

100 yard dash—Won by Saunders, M.; second, Wright, S.; third, Myers, M. Time, 10.2.

One mile run—Won by Church, M.; second, Hines, M.; third, Akin, S. Time 4:42.6.

220 yard—Won by Saunders, M.; second, Wright, S.; third, Myers, M. Time, 22.4.

120 yd. Hurdles—Won by Vovotny, M.; second, Tucker, M.; third, Retrammel, S. Time, 16.4.

440 yard—Won by Stratton, S.; second, Sparring, M.; third, Flemming, S. Time, 53.9.

Two mile—Won by Akin, S.; second, Spencer, M.; third, Church, M. Time, 10:27.3.

Low hurdles—Won by Tucker, M.; second, Crane, S.; third, Hartwell, S. Time, 26:6.

880 yard—Won by Hoffman, M.; second, Reed, S.; third, Walker, S. Pole vault—Won by Davis, S.; second, (Continued on Page Six)

Honor Students to Help in Graduation

Each year it is the custom of the Southern Illinois Teachers' College to select as marshalls and ushers those boys and girls who have distinguished themselves in scholastic attainments, during that school year. The boys of the sophomore and junior classes act as marshalls, while the girls from the freshman, sophomore, and junior classes serve as ushers.

Those students who are to act as marshalls and ushers this year are especially deserving of the honor, for many of them have not only maintained a high scholastic standard, but have been prominent in extra-curricular activities as well.

The boys who will act as marshalls are as follows:

- Orville Alexander, Junior; graduate of the Marion Township High School; collegiate scholastic rating 4.93.
- E. M. Bricker, Junior; graduate of the Carbondale Community High School; star with shot and discus in track events.
- Arthur Nobels, Junior; graduate of the Anna-Jonesboro Community High School.
- Ralph Ward, Junior; graduate of the McLeansboro High School; star Forum debater.
- Kenneth McMath, Sophomore; graduate of the Pinckneyville High School.
- Samuel J. Scott, Sophomore; graduate of the Golconda Community High School.

The girls who will act as ushers are as follows:

- Naomi F. Hays, Senior; graduate of the Carlyle Public High School. (Continued on Page Five)

FACULTY MEMBERS JOIN CITY TENNIS CLUB

Tennis lovers of this city have banded themselves into an association probably to be known as the Carbondale Tennis Club, an organization which, at the present time, is sponsoring the construction of several courts to the north of the Baptist church. The personnel of the new club includes several members of the faculty of this college.

The construction of new courts will relieve the congestion on the campus courts. Considering the devotion to the game, the city has all too few facilities for tennis and the plans of the new club are anticipated with interest. It is pointed out that club members will be given the right-of-way on the down town courts, but under certain conditions outsiders may be permitted to play.

SLIP INTO A Bradley AND OUT OF DOORS

Just arrived — and bringing the promise of summer — is an assortment of the new Bradley Bathing Suit. We haven't had a chance to unpack them all yet, but what we've seen suggests that we urge you to come in and make your selections now while the color and size range is complete in all styles.

Dr. Merwin Writes for The Illinois Teacher

In the current issue of the Illinois Teacher is an article entitled Collegiate Courses on High School Science Teaching which was written by Dr. Bruce Merwin of our faculty. The purpose of the paper is to show that the conditions for the dissemination of scientific knowledge are being slowly improved by better preparing teachers to teach in our secondary schools, and to show what items supplementary to subject matter are deemed essential in the training of those teachers. In order to do this a generous sampling of various colleges, normal schools and state universities for the most part, was made. The results are tabulated in the article. The article closes with a summary in which the main points are put into such form that the reader may find them readily accessible, and helpful. We recommend this article to all prospective teachers.

Professor E. G. Lentz Talk to Ag Club

At the regular meeting of the Ag Club last Thursday evening the following program was presented: "The Robin's Return," a piano solo, by Miss Aileen Aldridge. Prof. E. G. Lentz gave an interesting talk on "A Farmer Who was Spoiled in the Making." He quoted several poems which more or less related to the farmer. The greater number of these poems were those that James Whitcomb Riley wrote. It is well known that he was a great lover of the farm. Mr. Lentz is a very able speaker and keeps his audience attentive all the time. Miss Dolly Furlow gave a very hair-raising reading entitled, "Seeing Things at Night." This is one of Eugene Field's poems and is one of his typical poems about children. The Ag Club has planned a picnic for tomorrow evening.

Sorority News

The officers for next year have been chosen by Delta Sigma Epsilon Sorority. They are: Sergeant, Evelyn Eisfelder. Chaplain, Helen Stiff. Historian, Madalyn Bagwill. Treasurer, Elma Trieb. Corresponding Secretary, Jeanette Evans.

Vice President and Pledge Captain, Neva Burnette. President, Helen Crisp.

The sorority girls entertained their mothers at a lovely five-course dinner and program on Mother's Day. Maurjean Webb sang, "Mother's Song," a composition by her mother, Mrs. Madeline Webb. Juanita Clanton accompanied her. Madalyn Bagwill gave a toast to the mothers and was answered with a toast by the House Mother Miss Harriet Means. Each mother was presented with a corsage.

2. The Spring Formal was given at the Midland Hills Country Club Friday evening. The chaperones were Miss Bowyer, Mrs. Wright, and Miss Jonah.

The Anniversary Tea was attended by prominent townspeople Saturday afternoon, from 3 to 5.

A river is a funny thing
A garden made for fishes
Where anything that swims can grow
And wiggle as it wishes.
The poets sing its praises enough
To cause its mists to totter,
When after all its nothing but
Unpasteurized rainwater.

My spirit's like a light bulb,
That flashes off and on;
Sometimes I think I have a thought
Then, all at once, it's gone.
But the thing that plagues me most
And makes my ego twitch
Is—someone that I can't control
Turns on the switch.

Dean Wham Conducts Edison Contest

Last Friday Dean Wham conducted an examination for high school students of Southern Illinois to determine which boy from this district is best qualified to be chosen the successor of Thomas A. Edison. The test given was the Otis Group Intelligence test. The papers were scored by Dean Wham and forwarded to State Superintendent Blair.

The examination is one of a series of such examinations for the purpose of finding the most intelligent boy in Illinois as determined by intelligence tests. The winner will be allowed to enter any college of his own choice and will have all expenses paid while he prepares himself to enter the Edison laboratories.

The persons taking the test given by Dean Wham are as follows: Ralph D. Brown, Jr., Harrisburg Township High School; Francis Fillingim, Ridgeway Community High School; Charles E. Flynn, Du Quoin Township High School; Robert C. Fulmer, Murphysboro Township High School; J. Martin Glass, Cairo High School; Alvin E. Hale, Rosiclaire Community High School; Floyd G. Harma, Bone Gap Community High School; Albert W. Manwaring, Chester High School; Charles W. Mueller, New Athens Community High School; Albert C. Reichert, Grand Chain Community High School; and T. Richards, Edwardsville High School.

From College to College

The men's glee club from State Teachers College at Macomb, Ill., are to present their annual concert May 21. This club has given other concerts and have made several towns this year. They have also recently broadcasted programs from Davenport and Peoria.—The Western Courier, Macomb, Ill.

Enough Paid

The man who boasts of his ancestors confesses that he belongs to a family that is better dead than alive.—Exchange.

The Home Economics Club from Carthage made their annual trip to Quincy, Illinois. Among the places of interest which they visited were Quincy Paper Box Co., the International Shoe Co., the Ray Bennett Furniture Co., and best of all, Wall's Ice Cream Co., where the girls learned the entire manufacturing process of ice cream. A good time was had by all.—Carthage Collegian, Carthage, Illinois.

The board of control of Iowa State Teachers College decided to make a requirement that all students holding a major office on a student publication, may not hold a major office in any other organization.—The College Age, Cedar Falls, Iowa.

A SCHOLARSHIP FOR S. I. N. U.

The fact that no S.I.N.U. scholarships have ever been given by any person or society has passed almost unnoticed on the campus. Indeed, it was unnoticed until recently, when the A. A. U. W. proposed a plan for awarding a small scholarship annually to girls in need of extra assistance. The details of this plan are not definitely settled, but, as now decided, assistance will be given to girls in the second year of the two-year course. The receiver of the scholarship will return the sum after securing a teaching position; thus, the fund will have something of a permanent nature.

Other colleges have numbers of small scholarships, usually awarded by civic and campus organizations; but, for some reason, none of our local societies have included scholarships among their activities. The students of S. I. N. U. are grateful to the A. A. U. W. for inaugurating such a needed institution on this campus.

ARCHERY FOR MEN

Womans' place may not be in the home, but neither should it be on the archery range—especially if she is there at the expense of man. From almost every standpoint, archery is a man's game; and if the men at S. I. N. U. can't indulge in it, women shouldn't be allowed to do so.

Just take an archer's-eye view of history. When William Tell was parting his son's hair and Robin Hood was picking the Sheriff of Nottingham's teeth with arrows and their stout long bows, the women stayed at home and cooked. Now look at it. The woman shoots highly gilded and varnished hardwood shafts with a dime store bow at a target about as big as a barn door and placed about twenty yards away—and calls it the "grand old game of archery"! If youth is degenerating as some folks claim, how about the sport relating to the "bow and the apple"!

It takes a stronger arm, a keener eye, and a steadier nerve than those of most women to keep this great game up to the standard set by the ancients. Who, other than man, is able to do it?

THE RECKLESS CAMPUS DRIVER

Driving through the campus at a high rate of speed is neither collegiate nor sane. Students have been reminded again and again of the rules which they should observe. Many disregard all warnings and proceed recklessly along the driveways. Perhaps they are trying to bear out the movie-conceived idea of carefree college youth. To see the fallacy of such an idea, they need only be reminded that most of the larger colleges an universities forbid the use of cars by their students. The sanity of careful driving is plainly understood by those who have seen the accidents which result from improper driving. If the further use of cars is to be allowed here, students must forget their reputation of "flaming youth" and remember traffic regulations.

THE EGYPTIAN AT THE PRESS CONFERENCE

Two weeks ago a news article appeared in the Egyptian telling of the Illinois College Press Association conference at Bloomington. Well the conference was held but as far as the Egyptian is concerned it might as well not have been, because no representative of our paper attended the meeting for obvious reasons. In the first place there would have been considerable expense attached to such a trip. The paper was unable to pay this money and the poor editor was just as impunctious. It certainly is a shame when a paper of a school as large as ours is so cramped for money that they have to pass by many things that would directly improve the paper. Compulsory subscription would effectively remedy such a situation.

BOOK REVIEW

The Return of the Native

By THOMAS HARDY

I think the aim of the author in "The Return of the Native" is to show how queerly life deals with us. He takes three or four very commonplace characters and puts them into a story with one very unusual one. Everything in the story seems to revolve around this one woman's whims. He tries to show us the many unnecessary events that happen in our lives that result from some slight emotion or feeling, and how one person may influence the lives of many. Hardy accomplished what he set out to do do. He started with the old story of a man who thinks he loves two women. More and more characters are drawn into the story, and things become more complicated. Everything depends upon Eustacia, the woman goddess.

Her pride and vanity, her power of swaying everyone to her indomitable will, influence the whole thing. Hardy shows how many people go through life, never being entirely happy. Mr. Venn is one who cherishes a secret love for Thomasine. In the end, he finds happiness, because he marries her, but she seems so meek—accepting just what life gives her, hardly daring even to wish for what she really wants. We find Thomasine's exact opposite in Eustacia, proud, and beautiful, demanding the things she wants and getting them, defying all the laws of convention, but finally dying unhappy.

Wildeve and Yeobright, too, are characters that we might find every day in our own life. The first, weak—and impulsive, the other stern, strong, unyielding. Hardy leaves us wondering which we admire most.

The novel leaves one with the feeling that we are all just puppets, that some one is manipulating us, and that we have no power to direct our lives.

HUNTING-TIME

The masculine half of the Grand Order Against Tenderness Society got out their shot guns and went hunting last week end. One of them was Andy Anderson, the boy who pounds himself on the head with a hammer every morning because it feels so good when he stops. The boys, dressed in golf knickers and worn-out tuxedos piled into their car, affectionately called The Spirit of St. Vitus. They rattled, rolled and rumbled down the hard road to the tune of "A-hunting We Will Go." Soon our hunters spied a cat and geozoms—it was fur just as fur as the eye could see. Finding nothing but cats, rabbits and Fords and not being able to hit anything but the Fords, the boys finally decided that this isn't really a hunting season after all. So they went home and to bed, where they dreamt rosy dreams of big game hunting in Africa, and saw themselves as the heroes of the hunt.

Terrible to be Poor

Students at Northwestern U. object to the 2 a. m. closing rule for their parties, and ask instead a 3 a. m. curfew. In addition they desire to increase the six dollar per person expense limit for formal dinners so that they can throw a decent party. Poor kids! Almost like living in a monastery.—Exchange.

Sapient Advice to Silent Sufferers

Dear Sphinx
I have been reading your paper and I think the Sphinx column is so cute. The whole paper is just too sweet, but I'm really interested in the Sphinx, you understand. I wonder if you could give me an answer to my awful problem. It's really terrible. You see I have been engaged to this man for going on to five years now, and here lately he's been acting kind of funny, you know. We were out riding last Sunday, you remember it didn't rain, and we stopped at a garage and he asked me if I had any money, huh? And I said yes, because you never know when you'll be held up or something and not have any car to get home in. So he bought some gas and when we had drove a block he asked me did we have a flat tire, huh? So I got out and looked but the tire wasn't there because he had drove off. I thought maybe he had changed his mind. That night he came to see me and said sort of sudden, "Hey, gimme that ring." Which meant my engagement ring. So I gave it to him and he left. The next night I called him up to ask him was anything the matter and he acted kind of funny over the phone and sort of choked. Then we were cut off.

Now do you really think he's mad or anything, or is he testing my love to see if it is pure and true or something?

Sadly,
SADIE.

Dear Sadie:
You have stated your case most clearly. It is seldom that a correspondent renders each note so beautifully lucid. You are indeed a young lady of great fortitude and bravery. I am sure that such behavior on the part of a loved one must have caused anxiety to one of your delicately attuned temperaments. You must understand that the ways of young men in love (or out, for that matter) are exceedingly strange and not to be understood by a mere mortal. It is es-

History of the World

By MARC GREEN

I'm blushing! In my haste to get America discovered I overlooked a few incidents.

Just as the nineteenth amendment started all good American citizens on a search for a new way to the (y)east so did the fall of Constantinople induce Europe to expend her efforts in an attempt to discover a new route.

Thus, while everyone and his royal cousin were serving on the searching party, the European stage was left to a wee little babe who was to grow up and become Henry VIII of England. The poor little sucker grew as best he knew how and finally found himself to be the most matrimonialized man in the history of the world, with the exception of Solomon.

Henry's first matrimonial mishap came in the form of a little transaction by which he gained possession of Catherine of Aragon and a bountiful supply of children. In fact things went from bad to worse and the English monarch found himself the father of six girls, five of whom were dead. The other one was Mary, Queen of Scots. She lost her life in a necking party.

Having listened for several years to feminine hot air, Henry decided that what he needed was a little male heir. Now there was dashing glibly around the court a very rare young lady who had learned "to labor and to wait," and oh, how the girl could wait. As a matter of fact, she was a maid-in-waiting. The idea struck the king that the only logical thing for her to be waiting for was himself. Therefore, he kidded poor Catherine into believing that she wasn't married, and then, with determination in his eye, proceeded to pursue Anne Boleyn, the black eyed dame! whose waiting days were drawing to a close.

The Pope had a part in the play but he forgot his line. Hence, Henry hemmed and hawed no longer. With a royal flush on his face and sweet Anne (she had decided to "go quietly") on his arm, the king again made footprints toward the altar. The Pope released a Bull in the general election of England but Henry, determined not to be bullied. Back went the solitary bull to the papal pastures and "anap" went the blessed tie that bound. The Anglican church was created with a special divorce court and altar for His Highness. With two or three more marriages added to his strenuous program our most illustrious forbear dropped the bridal reign and strutted slowly out of the picture because he did not choose to run.

He passed his arm around her waist—
And on her lips a kiss;
He sighed, 'Tis many a draught I've had,
But not from a mug like this.

essential that you have an understanding heart and a tolerant nature. If you are thus equipped little can happen to mar your happiness; and if it does, you will be likely to know it. You are destined to lead a long and happy life, although there will probably be considerable insanity and perhaps several criminals in your family. Your fiancé is being coy I am afraid. But one with your great perseverance and steadfastness of character need not be instructed as to the suitable course. You will not fail, unfortunately.

Mystically,
THE SPHINX.

Socratic Society
Banquet Tonight

The Socratic Literary Society will hold its annual banquet tonight at the Grace M. E. church at 7:30. An appropriate program has been arranged and it is expected that this banquet will be much better than those of former years. The program is as follows:

- The Rainbow's End—Guy Neal.
- Socratic Quartette—Boys.
- Talk—Professor Felts.
- Vocal solo—Hannah Morgan.
- Talk—Professor Boomer.

Faculty News

The schedule of commencement addresses given by members of the faculty last week were as follows:

- Mr. Boomer, May 14 at De Soto and May 16 at Ellis Grove.
- Mr. Felts, May 16 at Alto Pass.
- Mr. Pardee, May 16 at Laeiede.
- Mr. Felts, May 16 at Kennesburg.
- Miss Trovillion talked before the Cairo Woman's Club on the Development of the Drama, on Wednesday May 7.

Miss Wells and Miss Meyer entertained the High School seniors at a tea last Wednesday.

At a recent meeting of the Carbon dale branch of the Federated Woman's Club, Dr. Young gave a talk on The Science of Musical Sounds. He addressed the Carbon dale Woman's Club on The Future Sources of Energy at their last meeting.

Last Friday, Miss Fox's mother, Mrs. P. N. Fox, drove from Cairo and the two then drove to St. Louis together to spend the week end.

Dr. Steagall talked on Places of Interest in Southern Illinois at the meeting of the Daughters of the American Revolution held at the home of Mrs. Frank Arnold on Tuesday, May 18.

The Misses Williams and Zimmerchild spent the week end of May 11 in St. Louis.

Miss Shank visited Miss Jonah at her home in St. Louis last Saturday.

Mrs. Wright entertained the faculty brides-to-be at a supper party last week.

Inquiring Reporter

I asked 999 people this question last week before I got five satisfactory replies to "what school event I enjoyed most last year?"

"The Royal Family rehearsals and Strut and Fret were the best things this year."

L. B. "Strut and Fret. They have the most interesting programs and built up real dramatic interest."

B. F. S. "I like athletics. Track, basketball,—oh, theres' lots of opportunity for girls!"

E. T. "The basketball games have been great. I really backed the team and didn't miss a game."

S. M. "Track heads my list. Jumping is more fun."

D. W. "Y. W. C. A. has been a constant source of help to me this year. H. C.

"The Societies. I've changed about each week, and never joined either, because they're both fun." M. B.

READERS' BAIT

In the May issue of the American Magazine is a very invigorating article called This Kind of Glory is Mostly Bunk, by Clarence Buddington Kelland, the famous author of the Scattergood stories.

"There once was a man," says this article, "who was unanimously voted the man most likely to succeed in life' of an entire college class. That man had everything; appearance, personality. He was president of half a dozen clubs, manager of the athletic teams, leader in all the extra-curricular activities. . . . That man is a failure in business."

"Why? Just how much time should one put at extra-curricular activity work?"

The trouble with this promising young college man is, he put in too much time being a leader in non-compensating work."

This will throw some light on the recently discussed question here on the campus as to how much extra-curricular activity a student should be permitted to indulge in.

You have noticed Maxfield Parrish's pictures, and can tell them no matter where you see them, but do you know why? Look at Daybreak, which brought the now sixty-year-old artist 84,000 pounds sterling, and then at The Garden of Allah. Look at any of Parrish's paintings and you, if you are a careful observer, will note the "Maxfield Parrish blue."

It is that about his pictures that makes them so readily distinguishable just as the misty silver dawns of Corot is a sure indication of the author. Twilight in the May issue of the American is the first printing of Parrish's painting by that name. It is typically a Parrish painting, and there is a short, entertaining article accompanying it.

I am of the opinion that my life belongs to the whole community, and do for it whatsoever I can. I want as long as I live it is my privilege to be thoroughly used up when I die, for the harder I work the more I live. I rejoice in life for its own sake. Life is no "brief candle" for me. It is a sort of splendid torch which I have got hold of for a moment and I want to make it burn as brightly as possible before handing it on to the future.—George Bernard Shaw.

Game to the Last

A small mite of a man applied to a foreman of a gang of stevedores for a job. They were loading three hundred-pound anvils in the hold of the ship, and the foreman told him he was too small.

"Give me a chance," argued the little fellow.

"All right, if you can lift them anvils, get to work."

Everything went well until about ten o'clock when the foreman heard a loud splash and a yell for help. Running to the gangplank, he saw the new helper bobbing up and down in the water.

"Help," he yelled as he went under, came up sputtering and went down again. For the third time he came up and yelled:

"Hi!p! If someone doesn't throw me a rope, I'll drop this darned anvil!"

TOMORROW EVENING

Part 4. "The Call to Arms." The last movement opens with a trumpet call to arms and the nation-wide gathering of the Swiss troops who hurriedly march against the enemy.—Taken from Universal School Music Series Teacher's Book.

BAND

1. March from "Scenes Pittoresques," Massenet.
2. Phedre Overture — Massenet. This is a very beautiful, though little known overture, based on the legend of Phedra and Hoppolytus.
3. Turkish March from "The Ruins of Athens"—Beethoven—An interesting attempt of one of the world's greatest composers to give an oriental effect. One can imagine a great procession in honor of some Eastern celebrity appearing in the distance, passing by, and then fading away again in the distance.
4. Washington Post March — Sousa. One of the best known marches of America's foremost band musician. (Don't forget the concert to be given here this fall by Sousa and his band.)

Junior Orchestra

This group is composed of beginners who are taking class instrument lessons given here. No private lessons are given by the school to any of these beginners.

More than half of these boys and girls have never played a musical instrument before this year.

1. Marche Romaine—Gonod. Marche Romaine or Praise Ye the Father is a religious march originally written for organ and later adapted as an anthem. Here we have an arrangement for young orchestra by J. E. Maddy.

2. Morton High School March, by Reba Townsend-Rhea Pegle. Orch. by J. E. Maddy. This is made up of two school songs written by a student of Morton High School, Richmond, Indiana.

Harmonica Band from the Fourth Grade—Miss Theresa Keidel Critic and Teacher

1. Taps.
  2. Juanita, played in two parts—Spanish air.
  3. Oh, Susanna—Stephen G. Foster.
  4. Home Sweet Home—Henry R. Bishop.
  5. America the Beautiful—Samuel A. Ward.
- Toy Orchestra from the Allyn Bld'g.
Helen Matthis, Critic and Teacher.
Moment Musical—Schubert, Anita's Dance—Grieg.

McDowell Club

The Village Blacksmith—Samuel R. Gaines.
Cantata for Mixed Voices.
Text by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

Soprano Soloist, Marion Titkins.
Baritone Soloist, Harold Bailey.

Ralston Hayes Club

1. Who did Swallow Jonah, arr. Daniel Prothrooe (Nego Spiritual.)
2. By Bagylon's Wave—Charles Gounod.

Penn (A Modern Spiritual.)

3. Across the River—Arthur A. In the first part of the program you see the various steps a child goes through to reach the larger organizations. In the toy orchestra and in the harmonica band, the children are learning to follow a leader and are learning team work.

"What do you mean by saying that Arnold became a janitor?
"After his exile, he spent the rest of his life in abasement."
