To tell people they can do as they please, to give them the democracy free speech, free press, free assembly, is not the solution of the problem. That is the problem. No other way of life so much as Democracy calls for intelligence, character, and moral responsibilities inside the citizen.

"LEST WE FORGET"

Thursday's newspapers carried reports of statement is used by the Prime Ministers of the British Commonwealth. The statement was in the form of a pledge for Freedom of Nations, and was signed by representatives from Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Union of South Africa, and Prime Minister Churchill.

Surely such a significant statement by Britain cannot fail to impress Nehru and other leaders of India who have been offered vague promises of freedom after the termination of the war. A "Freedom of Nation," no matter how glorified and full of hopeful plans for cooperation in the future, cannot be complete if one nation continues to be under the unwelcome domination of another.

For example, the Indian army has grown from 170,000 at the outbreak of the war to 1,750,000, exclusive of the 500,000 Indians who are serving abroad. The Indian Navy has been instrumental in keeping the Red Sea routes open, and there are 50,000 Indian seamen serving in the merchant ships of the Allies.

It has also been pointed out that India is producing 80 per cent of her own war equipment in addition to supplying other members of the United Nations. She is manufacturing cloth and making uniforms running to 10,000,000 garments a month, and completely fills army blanket requirements for the Middle East.

The pledge states that "the people of the British Empire and Commonwealth of Nations are willing to make sacrifices in the common cause. We seek no advantages for ourselves at the cost of others. We desire the welfare and social advancement of all nations and that they may help each other to better and broader days."

NOMINATIONS TUESDAY

The average student here at the S.I.N.U. campus does not take his democratic responsibilities seriously, judging from the extent to which he avails himself of the opportunity to vote and register his influence through the ballot box. Consider, for instance, the Student Council election which was held earlier in this school year.

Next Tuesday, May 23, an election will be held to nominate candidates for positions on next year's Student Council. It is up to us to see that good candidates are selected, for this is the only method by which progressive action on the part of the student body can be secured.

The fact that only 25% of the students voted in the last election is certainly disgraceful. However, it will be a blacker stain than ever before if we allow this to happen again. Bring your activity ticket with you next Tuesday, take three minutes of the time you would otherwise waste, and vote.

IT SEEMS...

By H. Mataya & J. Jacobs

Public Servant "Dies" Flags waved quite cheerfully. Martin Dies had pulled. In a speech before the C.I.O.

The only dissenting voter was that of the Chicago Tribune. In an editorial, the Tribune implied that the CIO delegates for expressing their joy upon hearing the best news since Mr. Roosevelt ran for the presidency three days by such action. "The public will know from this how to appreciate Murray and his well-meaning gang of revolutionaries."

Rep. Dies' threat almost may be serious, however, he expressed a desire to get out of public life and return to his practice. His condition was such that he could take up private law practice with an ailing throat, then he would be able to continue public practice with an ailing throat.

The facts are that Rep Dies saw the handwriting on the wall three days before he quit his job as speaker of the House in his home country. Had he run for Congress this would have been his "Dies' toughest fight, even more so than his fight in the House.

And so "Dies" another loss.

Library of Burned Books

Observing students have noted on the bulletin board located in the corridor leading to the English class in Main an article on the subject of "Library of Burned Books." The article is entitled "The Library of Burned Books" and is a list of books which have been burned in various parts of the world.

It was announced on May 10th that the first anniversary of the forced burning of the book "The Diary of Anne Frank" took place under Nazi supervision in Amsterdam. The book was written by a Jewish girl and her diary was found by the Germans.

Material was collected there on the rise of Nazism and the open burning of books and articles of philosophy, religious and political in nature were used extensively by journalists, historians and writers. When Nazi forces invaded and conquered France, the library was promptly taken to the Gestapo.

The real work and purpose of the library, however, has not ended. It will always serve as a reminder of what happens to free thinking when oppression gains the upper hand. May 10, 1937, will never be forgotten by the hundreds of poets, novelists, and essayists who were forced out of Germany by face of actual belief in active carrying on in other centers their fight against intolerance and barbarism.

Poetry is an art practiced with the human language. Sandberg. These lines with a straightforward and daring accuracy, come from one who wishes to remain anonymous. The wind comes in cool and it whistles through the leaves. When their depths are cooled. And their latent heat dispelled. If fresh could have its passions assuaged. Like a poetic, clean. On a wintry night. When the clouds hang low. And woeful fog hangs cry above. The same old waves. Washing on the shore.

Today, I received a letter from Pvt. Atvin L. Freeman, who was in the army since 1942. He told me that he had been in the army for a long time and that he was now in the hospital.

Well, kid, did you finally get through with that test you were talking about? How did you come out? How are you? You in there? And all my pals talking about the book and the test. The doctor told me that I would be able to get back with the boys in a couple of weeks. At the very least, it was important and trying to get back to work.

STUDENT OPINION POLL

H. MATAYA AND J. JACOBS, Co-Directors

STUDENTS OPPOSED TO SEGREGATION

The traditional segregation practices in public institutions that separate a person of another race is not sanctioned by a majority of students on the campus according to the latest poll conducted last Tuesday in Chapel. The informal poll yielded from the final results indicate that in the opinion of the students, changes in the seating policy of the theatres and similar changes in transportation systems would be in the best interests of the students.

A similar poll conducted by the Negro Digest showed every 90 per cent of the nation to be following the same line of thinking. The results, which were printed in the March issue showed that in the north 95 per cent of those questioned believed segregation should be continued and 87 per cent were undecided.

In the west, the results were even more favorable. There 75 per cent favored segregation and 25 per cent were undecided. In the south as was expected voting the other way. There 57 per cent voted "White Supremacy," 40 per cent were undecided and only 17 per cent favored abolishing segregation.

Southern students turned in the following record: No Opinion 40, Would be willing to permit a person of another race, such as a Negro, to sit beside you in the same room 20, No 20, Would be willing to permit a person of another race, such as a Negro, to sit beside you on the train or bus 24, No Opinion 0, Would be willing to permit a person of another race, such as a Negro, to sit beside you in the theatre? Yes 215, No 75, No Opinion 7.

James Wilson of Christopher, a graduate of Southern Illinois Normal University, with the class of 1944, has been awarded a research fellowship at Iowa State College in Ames, Iowa. Mr. Wilson will do work toward the Master of Science degree in the Department of Chemistry. For his research problem, he will experiment with the newly-discovered anticancer drug, camptothecin.

Mr. Wilson, who is now employed on the campus as a faculty assistant in the Physical Plant, is a member of Kappa Phi Kappa National Education fraternity, and last year was quite active in the Student Council. After obtaining his Master's degree of Iowa, he plans to continue his graduate work toward the Doctor's degree in the Department of the Student High school with the class of '39.

VOICE OF S. N. U.

GIVE US A CHANCE! Dear Editor: As I voted Thursday morning in the Student Opinion Poll, I wondered just what the results of such a poll would be. I had no doubts as to how most of the students would vote and what they do not want. Perhaps some of them act affirmatively and they knew it was the only intelligent way to answer the questions. But how do they only in "I (themselves)? And at they they strong are their convictions? What are they doing to alleviate this grave injustice? Perhaps they are not doing anything because they do not know what they can do. Then if the latest student opinion poll has the students thinking, let me show them how they can help. To those those who are trying to interest the campus in an inter-racial committee, let me show them how they can help. To those who are trying to interest the campus in an inter-racial committee, let me show them how they can help.

The vote against closure smelt of the offensive odor of poll (poll) case. And because these laws to eliminate the color bar and beats the image of the stereotyped Negro as depicted in the movies, or in the comic strip of turning a blind eye to the fact that a Negro is an individual, treat him as such, being so individual he has virtues, but he also has his vices.

And so fellow students of Southern, I leave you with this one remark—Give us a chance to see what we can do. The future of the college that is America. Dear Editor: I have voted in the Student Opinion Poll. I have voted in the Student Opinion Poll. I have voted in the Student Opinion Poll. I have voted in the Student Opinion Poll. I have voted in the Student Opinion Poll.

STUDENT POLL—OKAY! Dear Editor: A commendation on the Student Opinion Poll feature. This is one of the best features in the school paper. It forces the student to think about current issues at least momentarily, but it gives a good idea of what the student body thinks whether or not they are in the strictest sense, students or not. I am advanced high school senior.

WE PRINT ALL CRITICISMS Dear Editor: Now coming to the campus I have read the EGYPTIAN regular by "Dies" have often been times when I have been criticized. I have been criticized. I have been criticized. I have been criticized. I have been criticized. I have been criticized.

New Opportunities Confront the World Student Service Fund

New developments in the military picture are having great effect on the problem of aid to students of war-affected countries. The World Student Service Fund, a participating agency of the United States Fund, is changing the situation of students are taking place more rapidly than in any of the seven years of its existence. The WSSF reports:

For example, heavy American bombings over Germany and German-occupied territory have resulted in the report making it difficult for thousands of American military personnel. At least 3000 of these are now held as prisoners of war in Germany. This rapid increase in American prisoners of war places a severe strain upon the facilities of the War Relocation Authority. The WSSF's administrative committee in Geneva, Switzerland, as it endeavors to provide military and medical care for the new prisoners. Cable service in New York each week giving the names of textbooks which are specially requested by American prisoners of war, and these orders are shipped to Geneva as rapidly as possible. It is of great importance that ever to have a large supply of general textbooks, and recreational books in Geneva.

Another military action of great effect on the progress of world student aid has been the fighting in Italy. It has caused losses to 50,000 refugees to pour out of Italy into Switzerland, Holland, Belgium, and France. The WSSF has been working every facility to help these refugees. The WSSF has been successful in helping the refugees to find work and to enroll in the Swiss universities. These students under such conditions, in great academic freedom, and in the great tasks of the countries to which they fled.

There are still other students in the United States who can be helped by the World Student Service Fund. A report from Geneva received by the WSSF in New York on May 15th describes the type of students who are being helped:

Two Hungarian students of Jewish origin are completing their year's work in medicine at the University of Miami. They live only on the 100 hours which we can give them. From time to time they must work at odd jobs to make it a sufficient for them. Several others are generally not permitted to do any remunerative work. They live in a small apartment in the room and only possess a small cot and a blanket on their bed. Their clothes are in rags and it is doubtful whether they will last another winter. One of these students was able to own 330 frames by giving a number of his books. With this sum he bought a pair of rubber shoes to replace his only worn-out pair. However the charges would make such a gift in the hospital that the doctor in charge forbade him to wear them. The only thing left for the young student to do was to enter his shoes with old worn shoes. You can imagine his north and distress when he has been asked at what else could be done? The plight of students in China...

SAN FRANCISCO—Sponsored by the University of California, the World Student Service Fund is now being built on the San Francisco campus of the University of California.

A class in the division of oral facial prosthetics under Dr. Chas. Hipp and Dr. W. Rector Smith, clinical instructors in dentistry, is now in progress to instruct many personnel and other dentists in the art of making artificial noses, ears, and lips for the faces of the war injured.

Many of the war injuries to the face, the nose held as prisoners of war in Germany. Many of them are in desperate straits for food, with the cost of living doubling every three months. The new "Join the Army Movement" among students is at present being organized in many places. A charge at recent food and clothing as a chance to see their country in a more adventurous way than in continuing their studies. EFFECTS OF THE WAR UPON COLLEGES, 1943-44

Enrollment of civilian students in universities and colleges has dropped 41 percent since 1939. A report on "Effects of the War Upon Colleges, 1943-44" just published by the U. S. Office of Education, Federal Security Agency, reveals. In 1939, a total of 1,369,131 students were enrolled in comparison to 811,630 attending classes in the fall of 1943.

"College enrollments before 1939, as usually increased by at least 15,000 to 20,000 every two years. Hence the fall of nearly 600,000 civilian students from the 1939-40 total is less than the true loss, the report states. "The extent of the decrease can be appreciated more when it is recalled that the enrollment of all institutions of higher education in 1932-33 was only 823,863. As a result of the decline in nonmilitary college enrollments, the loss to the nation in terms of technical advancement, cultural education, and civic competency has become a problem of the first magnitude."

Who Loses if Gremlins paint the postwar railroad picture?

You lose—even in normal times—without efficient railroads. So does "the butcher, baker and candlestick-maker," the farmer, merchant, industrialist, and every other person adversely affected by poor transportation service, slack employment, meagre payrolls and slim purchases.

Everybody loses during wartime—if the railroads are handicapped. Had railroads and railroad men been adversely affected by postwar conditions, freedom itself might have been in greater jeopardy.

The Old Reliable L&N, a product of Free Enterprise, privately owned and operated, and directed by men who love the South and its traditions, has for 50 years turned its energies to developing its territory—commercially, industrially and culturally. By its fruits ye should judge it!

for the future the L&N asks nothing more than fair and equal treatment as to laws, regulations and subsidies. It has no more earnest purpose than to serve acceptably and to advance the welfare of its community—for therein lies its own well-being.
