Kent State confrontation, 4 students die

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Four students were killed at Kent State University Monday in a confrontation with National Guardsmen and police during an antiwar rally, a university spokesman reported.

University President Robert I. White quickly closed the university. He asked all students, faculty and staff to go home "as quickly as possible."

Eleven persons were injured during the confrontation. It was not known whether they were students or guardsmen.

Bulletin

Dwight Campbell, student body president, issued a statement at press time Monday night, calling a special Student Senate meeting at 8:30 tonight in the University Center ballrooms to consider a campus wide strike on classes. The SIU strike protesting the Cambodia situation and the Kent State deaths would join similar action being considered by other state universities and colleges.

John P. Smith of the university news bureau said that all four killed were students.

"None were guardsmen," he said. "That I know for sure."

Smith read the statement from White in which he ordered "the university closed indefinitely."

White said married student housing would remain open subject to all curfews.

"Students without transportation," he said, "should remain in the residence halls. Evacuation for these students will be announced."

The victims were identified only as two males and two females. Doctors at Robinson Memorial Hospital in Ravenna said three were killed by chest wounds and one by a head wound.

Witnesses said Guardsmen turned and fired on harassing students after breaking up an unauthorized demonstration at Kent State's Commons area. They said the demonstrators had thrown rocks at the troops and hurled back tear gas canisters used by the Guardsmen to break up the demonstration.

"The crowd was harassing them (the Guard), they turned and opened fire," said Jerry Stoklas, 20 a campus newspaper photographer.

National Guard officers would not comment on the shootings.

Authorities were reported to be holding a man who carried news credentials and a gun, but it was not immediately known if the man played any role in the shooting.

The shootings came after three straight nights of violence on the campus, where militant students protesting the use of American troops in Cambodia burned down the school's ROTC building Saturday night.

National Guardsmen used bayonets and tear gas to force a crowd of some 1,200 demonstrators back onto the campus Sunday night.

Early Monday, Kent Mayor Leroy Satrom and Gen. Robert H. Canberbury of the Ohio National Guard issued a "proclamation of civil emergency" in the city, imposing an 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew on the town and campus and prohibiting use of vehicles during curfew hours except by residents going to and from work.

May Fest

Court injunction bolstered

By Win Holden
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Judge Rodney S. Scott Monday issued a stronger-worded addition to his findings and order in the Harpelle injunction hearing concluded Friday.

The addition came at the request of attorney John Feirich, representing the Concerned Citizens of Southern Illinois. Feirich had sought contempt charges against Harpelle promoter Peter Kost on Saturday for Kost's statements that the May Fest would go on as planned this weekend.

Kost had said he was sure a water permit and the other necessary permits could be obtained "in plenty of time" for the scheduled opening of the festival Friday.

In Monday's court order, Scott states, "It is further ordered, adjudged and decreed that the injunction ordered is an absolute and complete bar to the defendants holding, promoting, advertising, promising or indicating a rock fest will be held anywhere in Jackson County on May 8, 9, 10."

Scott added that public announcements made to the effect that the fest will be held must be immediately terminated and withdrawn.

Feirich, commenting on the weekend's action, said he felt the original order was perfectly clear, and that it was obvious that the promoters could not possibly hold a rock here on the scheduled dates, fest by May 8.

"In my opinion, it is impossible for them to prepare the site and get the necessary licenses in less than 90 days. They're not going to ever be able to do it," he added.

Harpelle attorney J. C. Mitchell said Monday that no permit applications were filed, because the promoters are trying to get the entire situation organized.

Mitchell said he felt it was impossible to hold the festival at refunds.

As early as Sunday afternoon, residents in the Audion Meadows area reported persons with camping gear on Giant City Blacktop headed toward the site.

According to Tom Dinnis, head of the Concerned Citizens, many strangers are in the area, presumably to attend the proposed festival.

The promoters were not available for comment, and there is word concerning ticket refunds.

Eight demonstrators arrested

By Marty Francis
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Eight persons including seven SIU students appeared in Jackson County Court Monday in connection with Friday's demonstration protest against American involvement in Cambodia.

William T. Penninger, an SIU student, was charged with criminal damage to property. Three students, James Orr, Charmaine Huskey and Larry Bennett were charged with disorderly conduct.

Pamela West and Sandra Helm, an SIU student, were charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Eric Courter and John Fisher, both SIU students, were charged with obstructing a peace officer.

Bond for all involved was set at $1,000 each. They are scheduled to appear in court May 15.

During the protest Friday night, trouble began when about 50 persons gathered at 10 p.m. across from the Campus Shopping Center.

Several students gathered in front of Spudouts, placed damp straw in the middle of the street and tried to start a fire.

Carbondale police attempted to seal off the street from South University but the demonstrators left through the alley and emerged onto South Illinois Ave. and West Cherry.

Several garbage cans were overturned and debris scattered into the streets during the disturbance. Persons who had picked up bricks from a construction area in the shopping center hurled them through store windows.

Damage was done to the Elite Barber Shop, Diener Stereo World and Young Hair Fashions. As of late Monday afternoon no damage estimates have been reported by store owners.

Carbondale police, aided by SIU Security Police, broke up the demonstrators.

According to Lt. Don Johnson of the Carbondale police, a tear gas grenade was also thrown but there was no damage.

Approximately 11:30 p.m. police began closing down the stores near the campus shopping center. One store owner reported that the police told him to close the store on orders from Carbondale Mayor David Keene. Keene said Monday he had given no such order.

Carbondale Police Chief Jack Hazel said Monday he had ordered the stores closed under powers granted to him in the city ordinances.

During the night police continued to patrol the Carbondale area breaking up crowds of people.

'Carbondale 6' minus 2 waive jury trial; bench trial instead

By Jim Hodi
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The "Carbondale 6" minus 2 waived their right to a trial by jury Monday. According to their attorneys, Arnold Jochums and Dick Mudge, the four will receive a bench trial on a date yet to be named.

Originally, they were scheduled to have a jury trial Wednesday. The four were arrested in connection with a Jan. 29 pie throwing incident in the University Center cafeteria.

Charged with battery from the incident are Larry W. Bennett, Paul Atwood, James Swanson and two Carbondale high school students. The two high school students will be tried in juvenile court on May 26.

The charges of battery resulted after SIU patrolman Richard Azarro grabbed Sheldon Rosenzweig, who was acting as judge at a mock trial. Rosenzweig was arrested on disorderly conduct charges. The other five were arrested when they came to Rosenzweig's defense after Rosenzweig attempted to resist arrest.

The January 29 mock trial had been part of a support for the Midwest Moratorium scheduled for Feb. 20-21. On trial was a student playing the role of Wesley Fishel. His stand-in was charged with war crimes and sentenced by Judge Rosenzweig. The mock trial ended on a note akin to Keystone Cop comedies with "pies" being thrown at the Fishel proxy.

It was then that several plainclothes Saluki patrolmen entered the University Center cafeteria, where the trial was held, and patrolman Azarro grabbed Rosenzweig and informed him that he was being arrested by patrolmen for disorderly conduct.

In the meantime, Saluki officers Dan Keller and John Bott began to question the other members of

Vote shows students prefer status quo for Homecoming

Students voting on the Homecoming referendum in last week's student government election favored retaining the annual event by more than five to one.

They also approved such traditional trappings as a Homecoming Queen, a parade, a stage show and competition house decorations by votes ranging from three to one to more than four to one.

Susan Dubois, administrative assistant to the vice president of student activities, announced the results of the referendum Monday afternoon. She said the delay in compiling the totals was due to a shortage in personnel from the Student Government Activities Council (SGAC) to count the ballots.

Most of the students on the SGAC had been working on Bacchanalia/70, Miss DuBois said. Both Bacchanalia/70 and the Homecoming referendum were sponsored by the SGAC.

The first of five questions on the referendum ballot dealt with sponsorship of Homecoming. Of 6,630 valid ballots, 3,719 favored student government sponsorship, 1,417 wanted the event sponsored by the Alumni Association, 691 registered no opinion and 803 favored no Homecoming at all.

Miss DuBois said ballots on which more than one choice was indicated for the question were invalidated.

On the second question, 5,257 votes were cast in favor of having a Homecoming queen, 1,659 against. The total vote was 6,916. Of 6,702 votes cast on question three, 5,119 favored holding a Homecoming parade, while 1,583 opposed it.

The ratio of yes to no votes was lowest on the fourth question. Of 6,661 ballots, 4,883 favored having competition for house decorations, with 1,831 voting no.

The fifth question, dealing with a Homecoming stage show, attracted the largest favorable vote. Of the 6,685 votes cast, 5,480 favored a stage show, with 1,205 dissenting.

Trip for governors

Gov. Ogilvie to study Swiss

SPRINGFIELD—Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie will join four other governors representing the National Governor's Conference on a week-long tour of Switzerland beginning next week.

The trip, sponsored by the American-Swiss Association, Inc., is designed to acquaint American heads of states with the parallels and contrasts in the social, economic and political customs of the world's two oldest democracies.

The delegation will include, besides Ogilvie, Governors Deane C. Davis of Vermont, Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri, Robert E. McNair of South Carolina and Preston Smith of Texas.

While in Switzerland, the governors will spend Monday, May 11, in Zurich, comparing notes with Swiss industrial and financial groups on similar and competing interests of Swiss and American businesses.

They will spend Wednesday, May 13, in the Swiss capital, Bern, with Swiss governmental agencies in discussions of the ways the two democracies govern themselves. They will be the guests of the nine-man Federal Council, chief governmental body. Ogilvie will spend the next three days visiting the Castle of Coppet, Lake Lemano and the Grander Grati in the Swiss Alps. He will depart from Geneva on Sunday, May 17.

Handicapped affected by 'Grinch'

To the Daily Egyptian:

The Grinch Who Stole Christmas is alive and well, and living in Carbondale. For the uninitiated, one of the major television networks presents Dr. Seuss's famous story of the Grinch each year. In the story, the Grinch is a mean and dispicable character who can't stand to see anyone happy, so he steals everyone's presents, trees, and Christmas dinners in an attempt to make them all miserable at this wonderful time of the year.

Karen Jones—a Special Education student—with the help of the SIU Chapter of the Council for Exceptional Children has initiated a swimming program for handicapped children in the Carbondale area. This program serves over 40 children, with hopes for expansion. It involves volunteer work on the part of over a dozen student instructors, several faculty members, and an untold number of student fund raisers.

Letter

Students were fooled by ideas at the polls

To the Daily Egyptian:

I recently wrote a letter to the editor warning you to take heed and not be fooled by propaganda given out by the four major parties. To my own sorrow, my predictions were right, you were fooled. You went to the polls and voted for the people whose ideas you read in the brief essay in the Egyptian or whose party brainwashed you the best.

The present student government did get these candidates to you many different times for you to question face to face, and I applaud them for this. But you probably did not go. Why? Probably because you had neither the time nor the effort to go, or you already had your mind made up on who to vote for.

You know as well as I do the party with the most propaganda won your vote. But to have this "literature" to hand out, you have to have a lot of money. The party with the most money probably won the election.

This is why I have two propositions for you to consider: 1) The new student senate pass a bill placing a reasonable limit on the amount that a candidate and a party can spend. (The amount varying to the position each candidate desires); 2) The party that comes up with the winning ticket get out and clean up everybody's litter that cluttered our campus from this heated campaign.

Bob Levine
Freshman
Government

This entire program is in danger of termination—some "Grinch" has stolen all the money intended for the use of pool rental and operational expenses.

In the Seuss story, the Grinch is successful in his thievery, but is still amazed to discover that the people are still happy on Christmas day; he had managed to steal the trappings of Christmas, but not the spirit. Our organization is dedicated to the service of handicapped children; our "Grinch" has managed to steal the trappings of that service, but the spirit remains; we will continue to help the handicapped to the best of our ability in the future.

Meanwhile, there are 40 unhappy children in the Carbondale area; children who started life with two strikes against them, and have very few chances to play at the normal physical activities other children enjoy.

In order to try to save this program, we are having a fund drive. All the proceeds will go to the swim program. Donations can be made any day during this week at the CEC table in the hall of the University Center. Please help us help the children.

A special note to the Grinch—Your counterpart in the story realized his error and returned what he stole. How about you?

New student sport: automobile dodge-ball

To the Daily Egyptian:

Spring is here along with many of the more exciting sports on the SIU campus. One of these student participation sports is "Automobile Dodge-ball." If you stand by any of the major pedestrian crosswalks on Campus Drive, you can see some of the great plays of the 1970 season.

Two of the real stars in this season's action are Harry Hot Rod, a defensive player, and Rodger Dodger, an offensive lineman.

In this game of chance Rodger Dodger scores by making a successful run across any of the various crosswalks on Campus Drive. His success depends on his agility and quickness. Rodger Dodger, being one of the better players, has developed a new play by hiding behind the yield signs.

Harry Hot Rod plays a tight defensive game behind the wheel of his 300 h.p. auto. His main defensive talents include exceptional acceleration and a fast steering ratio. He must also have good brakes to prevent a foul on the line of scrimmage.

Keep your eyes open fans. You may see some of the most exciting sports action on campus this quarter. Information on playing rules may be obtained from the Saluki Patrol.

Office 'impersonal and insensitive'

To the Daily Egyptian:

I recently sent the following letter to Chancellor MacVicar.

Dear Dr. MacVicar:

This letter is to request of you some type of official reply to my problem.

I was informed by the Graduate School Office on April 27th that I couldn't register for summer school because there was a "hold" on my registration until a five dollar parking fine had been paid. I had previously been informed of this by the Bursar's Office and had accordingly sent a check (on April 19th) and requested a receipt; I have received no receipt.

On April 27th I was informed by the Graduate School Office that I would have to personally go to the Bursar's Office to obtain a "hold" release card. This meant, of course, having to join a line, an activity which I continue to find obnoxious and time consuming and one which is totally unnecessary. I cannot see why the Bursar's Office could not have mailed me the release card. This seems to me to be ordinary business procedure and not uncommon decency.

Apparently, the University cannot spend the necessary postage to make a student's life a bit more comfortable. At the same time the University can scandalously waste student and state funds on the President's mansion and involve large sums in the Vietnamese Study Center. I bring up these two matters in this connection since so rarely gets an opportunity to speak against unwise University policies in official correspondence.

In conclusion, I view the impersonal and insensitive actions of the Bursar's Office as perhaps indicative of the entire University operation in regard to the rights and welfare of its students.

State moves to curb pollution by taking courtroom action

By Wayne Markman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Control of the environment is the issue. The question—can it be done?

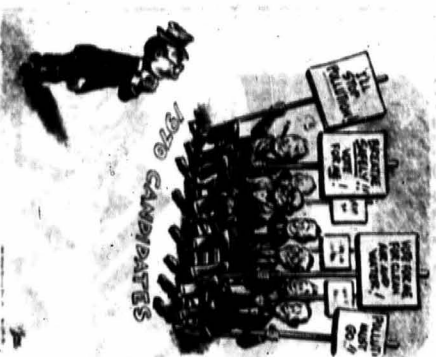

At least one search for an answer has been the subject of a four-day Environmental Teach-In on college and high school campuses across the country.

Another search for the solution, unbarred by the concentrated publicity attracted by the national teach-in, has been quietly shaping up in Illinois.

The battle lines for this war to preserve the environment have been clearly drawn and the campaigns are being fought in the courtroom.

The lineup of protagonists may seem surprising. On one side are the state and local business plants, even municipalities that pollute the air and water. Confronting them in the courtroom are "the people of the state of Illinois."

Illinois took the environmental crusade into the courtroom in 1969, under the leadership of Attorney General William J. Scott.

Will the real Mr. Clean please stand up?

Since then, state laws regulating water and air quality standards have been beefed up and the activities of the Illinois Sanitary Water Board and Illinois Air Pollution Control Board have been expanded. These two boards, operating under the auspices of the Department of Health, monitor conditions throughout the state with both periodic checks and 24-hour monitoring stations.

Violations are reported to the Attorney General's Office.

Prior to July 1, 1969 this was the only method for attacking polluters. The process was often tedious, requiring formal vote by the two boards before action could be taken.

Since July 1, however, the Attorney General's Office has been authorized to take action on its own against pollution in any form anywhere in the state.

The activities of the Attorney General's Office have been greatly expanded, according to Jim D. Keene, assistant attorney general and chief of the Southern Division Air and Water Pollution Control.

At one time a single staff member coordinated all pollution suits in the state while performing other jobs at the same time. Keene said in a telephone interview from Springfield.

Keene, who is responsible for the 62 counties of Southern Illinois, now has a three-man staff in Springfield with 11 field representatives operating in selected regions of the state.

In six months, Keene has brought 35 to 40 suits into court under Illinois' air and water quality control laws.

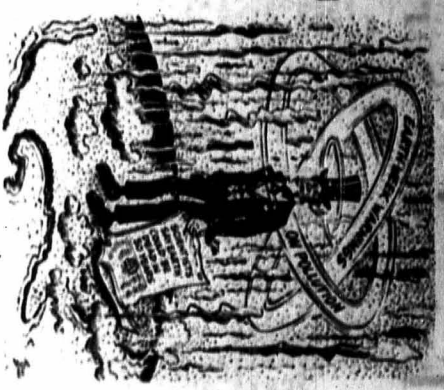

This is a sum equal to the total number of suits brought by the state in this legislation, which dates back to 1929 in the case of water pollution laws.

Keene estimates that his office has settled an equal number of cases out of court during the same period.

The effects of the state's crackdown on polluters have been felt close to home. Three firms in Jackson County have been taken to court and the Midwest Development Corp., Royal Mining Co., and Town and Country Mobil Home Co.

In nearby Williamson County to the east, the city of Carverville, Blount Coal Co., and Peabody Coal Co. have all been taken to court in pollution suits.

Efforts being made to control pollution also receive recognition by the two state boards. Information gathered by one plant in overcoming a particular problem is made available to other factories.

Well don't just stand there!

Allan Industries, Inc. in Herrin received approval from the Illinois Air Pollution Control Board last week for installation of a gas-fired conversion unit on a steam generator used at the plant.

Texaco, Inc. in Marion has designed a new facility to remove hydrogen sulfide from produced water. The system will be fully operational in the plant within a year.

Central Illinois Public Service has installed two electrostatic precipitators to control fly ash from power plant stacks on its Grand Tower installation in Jackson County.

Samuel Lawton, chairman of the state Air Pollution Control Board, recently estimated that some 500 Illinois industries are taking action to reduce air pollution.

For those industries that do not, however, there is always the threat of court action. Keene said that often companies will act swiftly to cure a pollution problem when his office begins court proceedings.

Public reaction to this crackdown on polluters has been favorable, according to Keene. The Attorney General's Office received a petition of support signed by 64,000 Illinois residents when the program began last year, he said.

Court action is not the only solution to the problem of protecting our environment, a fact that Keene readily admits. It is, however, "one of the most effective methods available today," he said.

Our Man Hoppe

Government should take over syndicates

By Arthur Hoppe
San Francisco Chronicle

Great news! New York City, which can't make ends meet on its tax from the new State lottery, is going to open a string of bookie joints.

Mayor Lindsay fears the city's take from these legal off-track betting will run $300 million a year.

Here's another giant stride toward the only conceivable solution to the Nation's fiscal crisis—legalizing organized crime. Once Mayor Lindsay gets a taste of the profits flowing in from his table joints, he'll have no question but he'll take over the numbers racket. And why not? Playing the numbers is no more stable than playing the horses.

Naturally there have been protests from such organizations as the churches and the Mafia.

The Mayor's unwilling to cut one territory, grants Three-Fingers Jack Daniels, chairman of the Wednesday Evening Orthodox Fellowship and Bingo Social.

But, as the well-known mobster says, Chicken Casserole, goes it with a string.

"You can't fight City Hall."

The next step, of course, is taking over the millions of dollars that now go to disreputable types from prostitution. This may require Federal aid.

Envision, if you will, a vast Seakate program. A Boarded Construction Program, funded by loans from the Department of Health, Education & Welfare, would do wonders for impacted areas. They could well be staffed by conceptists from VISIA through a draft lottery.

Objections will be raised. But if the government can conscript the bodies of young men for the welfare of the taxpayers, it can certainly peddle the bodies of young ladies for the same purpose.

Dope peddling poses problems. But in Britain, the government's been doing it for years. All that needs to be done to make a tidy profit is to hike the prices to what the traffic will bear. And seeing that every state now peddle the drug called alcohol through stretchy servers, there's no reason they can't peddle the drug called marijuana. No, it would double revenues.

Purse-snatching and stickups by government men are more easily justified. Some would call this robbery. I think of it as taxation. After all, the definition of robbery is taking your money by force or the threat of force. You know, like the IRS does. Personally, though, I'd draw the line at having paid Government agents rub out innocent people. There just isn't enough money in an operation like that to justify the costs. Look at Vietnam.

So hats off to Mayor Lindsay. It's a small step for the taxpayer, but a giant step toward rationalizing organized crime. And there's enough billions in that to balance every governmental budget in the land. Add cat taxes, too.

True, the elections will mount. "We can't have our government engaged in organized gambling, jacking, dope peddling, robbery and murder," the boys of progress will shout.

Nonsense. It's solely because these long-established functions of government are so disorganized that we taxpayers are footing the bill.

Extension Services offer extra courses

By John D. Towns
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The University Extension Services at SIU are offering 72 college credit courses in 36 communities this quarter, according to Raymond H. Dey, university dean.

The University Extension Services began in 1929 when SIU was a small teachers' college. It now has programs offering graduate courses scheduled in five or six strategic geographical locations. This allows students to be served instead of having an extension class in each county, as was previously done.

Courses are also scheduled for particular school systems, as with in-service training programs, when the administration and faculty have a particular objective in mind which they feel can be best achieved through an extension class.

"A program of courses which we will have to expand has been scheduled for the newly created junior colleges in Southern Illinois," Dey said.

"Much of this program is to upgrade the staff in these junior colleges since so many of them were recruited from the high school area and are not prepared for junior college teaching without additional training."

Dey said courses are offered in places such as Alton, Anna, Benton and Clayton and many other areas in Southern Illinois.

"We have a large program at the Menard State Penitentiary with other programs at the other two prisons in Illinois, the federal prison at Marion and the minimum security state prison at Venna," Dey said.

"At Menard we have done a series of things. Initially we offered a series of three courses at Menard through our Journalism Department. This journalism program was so successful that the Menard Time, the prison newspaper, has received national recognition in many ways. The prison inmate staff members receive their pardons and paroles and new inmates have to be trained."

"Following the journalism series at Menard, miscellaneous courses were offered for the prisoners there, with all enrollees meeting college entrance standards since they were tested by our Counseling and Testing Center."

"After offering miscellaneous courses for several years, a program with a full-time college schedule was initiated with Menard cooperating in every respect by permitting these men to have late hours to study in their cells."

"This program has won great praise nationally, and a considerable number of inmates after leaving Menard have enrolled on the campus at Southern Illinois University and in nearly all cases have done remarkably well."

"Incidentally, the prisoners at Menard make scholastic records at least equal to and in many cases superior to that made by on-campus students."

"At Menard we usually have five or six classes per quarter for inmates. A number of the inmates have now taken two years of college in the prison situation."

Dey said in addition to the usual general education course at the Marion prison, a series of three classes in elementary education in the field of reading is offered. Selected prisoners are trained to teach other prisoners to read in a one-to-one tutoring situation.

"The Marion prison authorities feel that a great step in rehabilitation is made if they can teach a man to read before he finishes his prison term," Dey added. "A Black American Studies series of courses is also taught at the Marion institution, and excellently received to date at least, since the instruction is so objective."

Each year students leave SIU and study overseas. These arrangements are also made by University Extension Services.

"Some years ago the group of academic deans on the Carbondale Campus—there was no Edwardsville Campus—agreed unanimously that foreign travel, both for our students and faculty, was highly desirable and beneficial."

They also agreed that when certain credit courses were taught in a foreign country they might have considerably more value than if they were taught here on campus. The result of this action was that University Extension Services began scheduling courses overseas, at first just one or two each year," Dey explained.

"This summer, using chartered planes and group rates, we have twelve courses scheduled in Europe, each lasting at least six weeks, with half of these courses coming from the Carbondale Campus."

"We also have individual projects, one in Europe and two in Mexico. This past summer we transported 216 students, faculty members and a few immediate relatives to Europe in our chartered plane program," he said.

Dey said that many programs are offered in Southern Illinois quite often due to new federal and state laws which provide grant funds for certain purposes.

"Additional new campus academic programs also provide opportunities for transmitting knowledge to off-campus persons through the extension class medium," Dey concluded.

Donors sought by bloodmobile

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in Carbondale between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Wednesday at the First Methodist Church, 214 W. Main St.

Those wishing to donate blood are asked to call the church's office, 457-2416, to make an appointment. The Rev. Lee C. Moorehead, blood program chairman for Jackson County, said everyone who donated blood is covered by the Red Cross for any blood he might need for one year. The eligibility also includes his parent, parents-in-law and grand parents, regardless of where they may live in the United States.

The Rev. Mr. Moorehead said those who are 18 to 65 years old and in good health are eligible to donate the legal limit of one pint of blood.

University employees who have volunteered as donors will be excused from their duties for a reasonable amount of time for this purpose.

NASA official to give speech

America's next steps in space will be discussed at a seminar at 8 p.m. tonight in the University Center Ballrooms.

Marshall Burrows, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration official from the Lewis Research Center in Cleveland, will speak on "Earth-Orbiting Vehicles and The Next Ten Years in Space." The program is sponsored by Sigma Xi, a chemistry fraternity.

A dinner will precede the seminar at 6 p.m. in the University Center.

The seminar is one of several this week planned by the Department of Chemistry. Paul Peterson of St. Louis University will present a seminar on tetra methylene halonium ions at 4 p.m. Friday in the Physical Science Building, Room 218.

Southern Players take first

By Darrell Aherin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Southern Players, performing a segment from "The Roar of the Greasepaint, the Smell of the Crowd," captured first place in the large group category at the 23rd annual Theta Xi Variety Show Saturday in the SIU Arena.

The show climaxed the week-long spring festival Bacchanalia/70.

Miss Lois Stewart, a graduate student in the Department of Theater, directed the group and principals in the cast included: John Davenport, Carol Davis, Terry Lamude, Donna Saure and Bob Wurrobee.

Fernadina Chan performed an original oriental dance to win first place in the individual category and a black-and-white comedy team, The Rhod-dendrons, took first place in the intermediate division. Vocalists Sandy Woolbright and Dave Helmer placed second and third respectively in the individual division.

The folk-rock group, The Now, received second in the intermediate category.

Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar presented Janice Mulliett, a junior majoring in zoology, with the $400 Leo Kaplan Memorial Scholarship. Theta Xi gives this award each year in memory of their late advisor.

Miss Karen Mallams, a senior in music and Miss Southern Illinois, and Benny Jackson shared the emcee honors.

Tim Morris, a junior from Belleville, and John Mullins, a senior from New Orleans, were the show's cochairmen. Assisting them were faculty advisors Charles Zoeckler of the Department of Theater and Robert Kingsbury of the Department of Music.

Also during the show, Montel Whitten, a senior from Salem and Miss SIU, awarded the trophies for best entertainment and booths on the Bacchanalia/70 midway.

The Pi Sigma Epsilon business fraternity was first with their "Pig Chase" and Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity won second place with their "Beat the Meat" booth. Alpha Eta Rho aviation fraternity received an honorable mention.

"For People" and The Gorrilla Dance Troupe were first and second respectively in the midway entertainment competition. The special award for outstanding talent went to Steve Haberman and Butch Davis.

According to Bacchanalia/70 chairman Bob Carter, a senior from Belleville, those who participated in the festival gained a valuable experience. He said that the Grassroots Film Festival, Writers Platform and the Dizzy Gillespie open-air jazz concert were well received, but the festival midway was not as successful.

"Although audience and group participation on the midway was less than hoped for, Bacchanalia/70 was a success in general," Carter said.

Rally to protest fee increase

A rally to protest Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie's proposed tuition increase will be held at 2:15 Wednesday on the lawn in front of Morris Library, according to Bob Thomas, student government lobbyist.

Featured speakers at the afternoon rally will include Chancellor Robert W. MacVicar; Richard Richman, states attorney; Jim Hansen, former president of the Graduate Student's Council; Tom Bevirt, student government executive assistant; Roger Leisner, student representative to the Carbondale City Council and Thomas.

Also expected to speak will be representatives from Greek Row, the Department of Government and possibly the Department of Philosophy, Thomas said.

Wednesday's action will be coordinated with local rallies concerning the tuition hike on campuses throughout the state. The purpose of the local rallies will be both to educate students on each campus and to garner support for the proposed mass march on Springfield May 14.

According to Thomas, telegrams were sent to all area state representatives last week inviting them to speak Wednesday. There have been no replies, he said.

The rally will be held in Furr Auditorium in case of rain.

U.S. pilots sight Cambodian hideout

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. reconnaissance aircraft sighted a jungle hideout with about 500 buildings Monday about two miles inside Cambodia where allied forces are searching for the headquarters of the supreme Communist command.

Pilots reported some of the buildings are two-stories high and have what seem to be radio antennae strung between them.

Brig. Gen. Robert M. Shoemaker, head of the allied task force of about 8,800 Americans and 2,000 South Vietnamese troops, declined to speculate whether the complex might be part of the well dispersed headquarters of the enemy's Central Office for South Vietnam.

But, he told a news briefing: "It's definitely no village."

High-placed officials disclosed earlier that U.S. field commanders are planning intrusions of yet untouched enemy base camps along a 350-mile section of Cambodia's border with South Vietnam. At least one operation was reported in the final planning stages.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said in Washington Saturday that all North Vietnamese and Viet Cong sanctuaries along the full length of the border would be attacked by the allies.

There are at least a half dozen enemy base camp areas in Cambodia from the western Mekong Delta to the area north of Saigon which are outside the areas attacked last week by upwards of 30,000 allied troops.

The two massive allied drives, one into an area known as the Parrot's Beak and the other into an area called the Fishhook, have accounted for 1,952 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed, according to headquarters and field reports late Monday. Some 466 enemy suspects have been detained.

American casualties stood at 14 dead and 47 wounded. South Vietnamese losses were put at 151 killed and 598 wounded.

The major aim of the twin allied offensives in Cambodia is to root out and destroy enemy base camps, storage areas and supplies. At last report more than 2,400 weapons had been seized or destroyed.

Troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division operating in the Fishhook northwest of Saigon on Sunday discovered 200 cases containing 1,200 Communist AK47 and new SKS rifles. Most of them were destroyed by air strikes.

The American troops also found 121,000 pounds of rice, 23 supply trucks, 200 bicycle tires, 150 truck tires and 450 gallons of oil.

While pressing the search for enemy supplies, American forces rolled deeper into Cambodia on Monday to cut off any escape route for the estimated 7,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops who were believed inside the Fishhook before President Nixon sent in American ground troops.

Tanks and armored personnel carriers of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment moved up Route 7 from outside the bombed-out town of Mimot northeast to within 15 miles of Snoul. They met no opposition along the road. With the roads sealed off the allies hope to have the enemy locked in.

An AP field dispatch reported that as of late Monday no major enemy troop movements had been observed in the Fishhook.

"We're still on top of the enemy," Gen. Shoemaker told newsmen, "but I don't know what we're going to find exactly. I don't know where he is or where he's going."

In Cambodia's own war with the Vietnamese Communist command, Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces who took a key ferry crossing on the Mekong River moved to within 30 miles of the Cambodian capital, Phnom Penh on Monday.

At the same time, 800 mercenary troops trained in South Vietnam by U.S. Green Berets, flew to Phnom Penh from Saigon to help Cambodian forces, informants in Saigon reported. The mercenaries were described as being mostly of Cambodian background. The informants said U.S. Green Berets did not go with them.

An enemy "highpoint" campaign inside South Vietnam continued. Viet Cong or North Vietnamese gunners shelled 54 towns and bases overnight Sunday and Monday. Fifty-seven rockets crashed into the American Division headquarters at Chu Lai, the heaviest barrage against a major U.S. installation in more than a year. Several Americans were reported wounded.

The South Vietnamese government declared a 24-hour truce May 19 for the anniversary of Buddha's birth and official sources said the U.S. Command probably would go along. The Viet Cong have declared similar stand-downs in the past and this year the anniversary falls on the same day as the late Ho Chi Minh's birthday.

An underground base operated by the Viet Cong in Cambodia was uncovered after U.S. Air Force bombing of the area. The base was a large bunker area for the Viet Cong in the Mimot District. In the background, an American armored personnel carrier breaks through the jungle in the path created by the bombings. (AP Wire Photo)

College students protest war escalation

By The Associated Press

A continuing wave of anti-war demonstrations, focusing on U.S. involvement in Cambodia, swept many of the nation's colleges Monday and turned into tragedy at one school.

Hundreds of students at other colleges boycotted classes and plans were announced for student-faculty strikes Tuesday and Wednesday.

It was school as usual, however, on a number of campuses. A sampling showed all was reported quiet at Arizona State, New Mexico's six biggest colleges, and schools in Utah, Idaho, and North and South Dakota among others around the country.

President Nixon's decision to send troops into Cambodia won support from the conservative Young Americans for Freedom which urged the United States to "take all means necessary to achieve a military victory."

Although most protests were Azario began to escort Rosenzweig to the director's office for further questioning. Rosenzweig then made an attempt to get away. Azario grabbed him. A number of Rosenzweig's friends then attempted to free him and a scuffle resulted.

On April 20, the "Carbon-dale 6" appeared before a grand jury where the high school students were separated from the group to go to juvenile court.

The remaining four were to appear in court Wednesday where their case was to be heard before a jury.

Eight arrested in war protest

Police, two fire bombs were thrown at College View Dormitory, on Mill Street, the office of Wesley Fishel of the SIU Center of Vietnamese Studies. Little damage was reported.

No damage was done to the ROTC building on the campus or the recruiting offices in downtown Carbondale which have been scenes of previous violence in connection with war protests.

Eight other persons were reported to have been arrested in connection with violence which occurred during the weekend but no official reports of other arrests had been filed in Jackson County Circuit Court.

Warrant issued

CHICAGO (AP) — Bernadine Dohrn, a leader of the Weatherman faction of Students for a Democratic Society, failed to appear in Circuit Court Monday on a charge of auto theft. Magistrate Lawrence Gensel issued a warrant for her arrest and raised her $1,500 bond to $5,000.

Miss Dohrn, 28, is accused of refusing to return a car she borrowed from William Frapolly, 27, who unknown to Miss Dohrn was a policeman working as an undercover agent during the 1968 Democratic National Convention.

peaceful, the National Guard was placed on alert because of trouble at the University of Maryland where about 100 students occupied the administration building after a weekend of scattered disorders, and Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, where dissidents have occupied the ROTC building.

Editorials urging a class boycott appeared in many campus newspapers, with the Yale Daily News the only exception in the prestigious Ivy League.

"Look elsewhere for strategies to end the war and domestic political repression," a News editorial said instead. "The week after commencement should be turned into a week of discussions among students, faculty, administrators and alumni over the problems of the war and legal justice."

Student strikes were reported

Glenn looks to Senate

Two names that became household words in the 1960s — George C. Wallace and John Glenn — command attention again Tuesday as the 1970 political season gets into high gear with important primaries in Alabama and Ohio.

Wallace seeks a return to the governorship of Alabama in an effort to keep his name alive for an expected 1972 repeat of his 1968 third-party presidential bid. Opinion polls show him trailing his former protégé, incumbent Gov. Albert Brewer, in a contest that may hinge on the state's 300,000 registered black voters.

In Ohio, John Glenn, first American to orbit the earth, tries to convert the national hero's image into votes as he contests a wealthy Cleveland industrialist, Howard Metzenbaum, for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

And the bearer of one of the most illustrious names in American politics, Rep. Robert A. Taft Jr., battles Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes for the Republican senatorial nomination. Killings Monday in a Guardsmen-student confrontation on the campus of Kent State University added a last-minute, complicating factor to this contest.

The races in both states could have far-reaching national impact—and all are rated toss-ups at this point. A Wallace defeat in Alabama would considerably tarnish his national importance as he looks forward to another run for the presidency. The results in Ohio will decide a general election lineup that will be a bellwether in the fight for control of the Senate.

The GOP counted its blessings Saturday in Texas when liberal Democratic Sen. Ralph Yarborough lost to a conservative challenger, former Rep. Lloyd Bentsen Jr., whom the Republicans claim they will have an easier time defeating in November with Rep. George Bush. A strong election turnout is anticipated in Alabama. There, Joe Reed, chairman of the predominantly black Democratic Conference, claims the state's Negro voters would play the pivotal role. The conference endorsed one of the candidates—reportedly Brewer—several weeks ago but has not made the choice public.

Brewer contends Wallace is using the governorship merely as a stepping-stone to national office; Wallace denies it, and promises to use the office to "reopen every school closed by the federal government—black and white" and to "reassign every student forcibly assigned away from their schools."

Earlier, Cordier addressed a rally of 2,000 persons in Low Memorial Plaza and called for the withdrawal of American troops from Cambodia.

"I join with millions of Americans, including students and faculty of this campus, in expressing shock over further American involvement in the Vietnam war through the extension of military activity into Cambodia and the renewed bombing of North Vietnam," Cordier said.

At Notre Dame, about 2,000 persons attended a mid-afternoon campus rally and heard the university president, the Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, call for U.S. withdrawal from Southeast Asia.

"I'm reasonably sure that our original involvement in Indochina was a mistake," he said.

"Last week's decision was another step into the quicksand. Never again must we engage in such a senseless endeavor."

He urged however, not to boycott classes. A number of students boycotted classes in the afternoon at the 7,200-student university.

May 2 was proclaimed National Loyalty Day by President Nixon in response to the May Day celebration held annually in Moscow.

Art works exhibited by grads

Two artists from Chicago, graduate students in the Department of Art of SIU, will present a joint showing of their works at the Mitchell Gallery in the Home Economics Building.

The exhibit, which will run from today through Monday, will feature the works of Jerome Bloom, a sculptor, and Bernard McDonald, a painter. Bloom and McDonald are completing their programs leading to the degree of Master of Fine Arts.

Bloom did undergraduate work in sculpture at the University of Illinois, Chicago Circle campus. At SIU he was awarded a graduate fellowship in the Art Department and now holds a teaching assistantship. He will exhibit large sculptures of Cor-Ten steel. Some of his pieces will be displayed outdoors on campus.

McDonald graduated from the School of the Art Institute of Chicago. He exhibited in several group shows in Chicago and did professional work as an illustrator for Playboy magazine before coming to SIU. He holds a graduate assistantship at SIU. His paintings are done in acrylic on canvas. He occasionally uses metal and charcoal with the paint.

There will be a reception opening the exhibit today from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Council honors 6

The Married Student Advisory Council (MSAC) honored six persons at a dinner-dance for members and officers at the Elks Club Friday night.

The guests were Mrs. Carlisle Ott, assistant dean of students, Lee Chenoweth of MSAC, Mr. and Mrs. John Erhart and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Sunquist. Chenoweth and Mrs. Ott are MSAC sponsors. The two couples were honored for past service to MSAC.

Grads awarded scholarships to study in Sweden, Germany

Two SIU graduate students have been awarded Fulbright-Hays scholarships for overseas study in 1970-71.

The recipients are James L. Waite of Salt Lake City and Donn C. Welton of Lehigh Acres, Fla.

The University had recommended four students for the award. Nationally some 220 students have been awarded full grants in addition to $0 travel-only grants for the coming school year.

Waite will study contemporary foreign policy in Sweden. Welton will spend the year in West Germany studying the school of philosophy called phenomenology.

Wilson may call for summer election

LONDON—Britain faces a political poser: will Prime Minister Harold Wilson call a June general election?

The wily Wilson, acknowledged even by his most bitter adversaries as one of the shrewdest exponents of infighting, remains tight-lipped on the subject, although the idea of a summer poll currently is gathering hold across the nation.

The four Yorkshire premier could run his present term of office until next March. More likely, it has been believed until now, would be a decision to go to the country by late fall.

But close observers of this country's political arena now note various trends which could indicate Wilson's gamble on a snap poll.

April was budget month for Britain, traditionally the time when governments clap new financial restrictions on the taxpayers. On this occasion, however, Wilson's Chancellor of the Exchequer, Roy Jenkins, produced what most interpret as a "negative" budget: no further severe restraints on purchasing power, no increase in duty on cigarettes, wines, spirits and beer—traditional measures adopted by successive governments over many years.

Indeed, Labor this time around has made some small concessions to taxpayers. Closely following this, a series of public opinion polls is seen as swinging voters more behind Wilson and Labor. The prime minister is clearly delighted by the London Daily Express Harris poll, which puts the Socialists 2 per cent ahead of the Conservatives in popularity—the first time any poll has positioned the major parties thus since before devaluation in 1967.

Another leading Conservative newspaper in this capital, the Daily Telegraph, reports in a Gallup survey that the Tories are 4.5 per cent ahead. That is 1 per cent less than a month ago. And, perhaps more significantly, in both these polls Wilson's personal rating has risen while that of the opposition leader, Edward Heath, has fallen.

Wilson recently has been striving for increased personal appeal. His publicity machine has been geared to operate in unprecedented manner for Britain, where leading politicians traditionally have been staid figures, hardly noted for expertise in public relations. In this field, most factions agree, Wilson is a master.

The prime minister has gained much newspaper and television space and time, in addition to "fan" appeal among younger sections of the populace, with a series of informal parties at his official residence, 10 Downing Street. Guests have included pop stars, actors and sports personalities—persons who never before have moved in political circles.

First Lady of Yoga

Indra Devi to lecture at Convo

Indra Devi, who has been labeled the "First Lady of Yoga," will lecture at Thursday's Convocation program.

The program will be held at 1 p.m. in the SU Arena. The daughter of a Russian noblewoman and a Swedish bank director, Miss Devi was born Eugenie Petersen, in the Pre-World War I era.

In her early teens, she was drawn to the ancient philosophies and oriental mysticism of India. In 1927, she sailed to India and took interest in the Freedom Movement of Mahatma Gandhi whom she had known personally. She also played a leading role in an Indian film at the time when no high caste girl was allowed to become an actress.

Soon after her marriage to a foreign diplomat, Miss Devi became ill and suffered from a grave nervous heart condition for over four years. No permanent cure had been found for the disease. But, after undergoing the Yoga healing treatments, her health was restored in one week. She immediately took up the study of Yoga and became the first occidental woman ever to teach Yoga in the country of its origin. It was in India that she was given the name Indra Devi.

During the past twenty five years, Miss Devi has traveled far and wide in the United States, Europe and Asia. In 1960, she introduced Yoga to the Soviet Kremlin.

Indra Devi

She is the author of several books, including "Forever Young, Forever Healthy," "Yoga For Americans," and "Renew Your Life Through Yoga."

A coffee hour honoring Miss Devi will be held at 2:15 p.m. in the University Center following the Convocation program. The public is invited.

Injunction issued against controllers

CHICAGO (AP)—A federal judge issued a preliminary injunction Monday against members of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization (PATCO) preventing them from walking off their jobs.

Judge James B. Parsons of U.S. District Court also ordered the Federal Aviation Agency not to take any punitive actions against any PATCO members who participated in the organization's recent "sick-out."

ment to the International Monetary Fund in Washington, Labor's stock undoubtedly has risen. However, Wilson and his cabinet know that the upward curve in popularity needs be nothing short of spectacular if they are to return to office, because until recently Labor's stock had slumped to a very low, low.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Kenneth Boulding to discuss war industry economics here

Kenneth E. Boulding will speak on "The Economics of the War Industry" at 8 p.m., Wednesday in Browne Auditorium. Boulding is Director of the Research Program on General Social and Economic Dynamics, Institute of Behavioral Science, University of Colorado.

Boulding, a former president of the American Economics Association, has written 16 books dealing with different aspects of economics and has published articles concerning philosophical, sociological and economic matters in over 25 journals.

In addition to teaching at various colleges in the US, Boulding has also taught at the University College of the West Indies and International Christian University in Japan. He has received honorary degrees from 10 colleges and universities.

African official visiting SIU

Djibo Kando, chief of scholarships bureau of the Ministry of Education of Niger, in West Africa, is visiting SIU through Wednesday.

He is meeting with SIU officials to investigate the sources, requirements and possibilities of scholarships for Niger students. Niger does not have a university. Students seeking university training must go to other countries.

Mahman Balla, a junior in agricultural economics at SIU, is one of the six Niger students attending universities in this country.

While here he will visit the College of Education, the Office of International Education, VTI and some area high schools.

Directors discuss student teaching

SIU's department of student teaching and College of Education will host a spring meeting of directors of student teaching from state and private colleges through Thursday at Giant City Park.

Bill Dixon of SIU's student teaching department said the sessions will take up common problems of student teaching and possible ways to solve them.

Trash removal done at night

By Richard Trokey

Student Writer

It's midnight. A truck backs into a deserted area behind a building.

The driver gets out and lowers a hydraulic lift located on the side of the truck.

He attaches the lift to a large container, raises it, dumps the contents into the truck, lowers it and drives off.

This occurs six nights a week.

The truck belongs to the Ed Burris Disposal Service, contracted by SIU to remove trash not only on the main campus but also outlying areas such as VTI, Little Grassy, Evergreen Terrace, Southern Acres and the SIU Airport.

Under the one year contract, which expires July 1, the service empties about 200 large containers holding about 700 lbs. each for $22 a month per container. It also empties 30-35 smaller trash cans for $3 a month, according to William H. Nelson, assistant director of the Physical Plant.

Total cost amounts to about $55,000 per year.

"Traffic is our biggest problem," Burris said. "Originally, our problem on campus was people parking in front of our containers. Wherever there was a hole there was a student or somebody parked."

"It wasn't always students, he continued. "University cars were just as big offenders. That's why we started picking up the trash on the main campus at night—from midnight to about 7 a.m. Outlying areas are taken care of during the day," Burris said.

Just around Carbondale itself, traffic is a problem.

"Carbondale isn't designed for this many people. Besides, the side streets are too narrow. If you put a truck on them (side streets) all you have is one lane of traffic, and if people park on the street, you don't even have that," Burris said.

Another occasional problem is overloaded containers.

"The trucks (which hold about 20 cubic yards) are designed to lift about 1,000 lbs. The large containers weigh 300 lbs empty which allows about 700 lbs for trash," Burris explained.

"Overloading doesn't happen too often but when it does, the only thing to do is take some of the trash out by hand."

Occasionally something is put in the containers that is difficult to get out.

"Ordinarily, you don't see what's in the containers unless it (the object) is sticking out. But last year at one of the dorms, someone put a refrigerator in one of the containers which was a heck of a job to get out," Burris said.

Removing trash at the end of each quarter presents a problem, too.

"Ordinarily five truck loads of trash are picked up—this includes both the trash from the main campus and the outlying areas. This increases to six to eight loads at the end of each quarter and even more at the end of spring quarter."

"It usually takes about three days at two extra truck loads a day to get caught up," Burris said.

Disposing of the trash once it's picked up isn't much of a problem.

"I have a land fill in an old strip mining area over in Cambria. We dump and bury the trash there every day," Burris said.

Faculty News Briefs

Paul Arthur Schilpp, distinguished professor of philosophy at SIU has been awarded a $20,000 grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities to continue his project, "The Library of Living Philosophers."

This is the fourth consecutive year Schilpp has received such an award. Since 1939, Schilpp's project has published 13 volumes dealing with the thoughts of leading contemporary philosophers, including John Dewey, George Santayana, Alfred North Whitehead, G. E. Moore, Bertrand Russell, Ernst Cassirer and Albert Einstein.

Other SIU professors serving with Schilpp on "The Library of Living Philosophers" board of directors are Lewis E. Hahn and Wayne A. R. Leys, both professors of philosophy, and Ronald G. Hansen, associate dean of research and projects.

Dr. Milton Altschuler, Associate Professor of Anthropology has been awarded a summer research grant of $10,000 from the National Science Foundation to undertake a socio-economic survey of the Cayapa Indians of Esmeraldas Province in Ecuador. The survey is preparatory to a full scale two to three year research program that will study social and economic change. Dr. Altschuler will be accompanied this summer by Comer Ward and Larry Naylor, graduate students.

Evert A. Johnson, curator of University Galleries, recently served as the judge of The Beloit (Wis.) and Vicinity 1970 Annual Art Exhibit.

He selected 20 award winners and an exhibit of 80 paintings, drawings, prints and sculptures from nearly 500 entries received from artists in Iowa, Wisconsin and Illinois.

Donald W. Robinson, assistant dean for graduate studies and research in the College of Education, SIU, has announced he will become dean of the College of Education at Youngstown (Ohio) State University Sept. 1.

Robinson came to SIU in July, 1965, as professor of higher education with duties to coordinate a graduate training program in college student personnel work and to teach graduate courses in higher education. In 1967 he was named assistant dean for graduate studies and research.

During the five years on the Carbondale Campus Robinson has coordinated SIU's cultural exchange program with Winston-Salem (N.C.) State University, a predominantly Negro institution of higher learning. He also is director of the federally-funded SIU Center for Training Teacher Trainers, which has been approved for a second year of operation at a level of $252,000.

Robinson said that Youngstown has been classified as a state university for only three years and is now in a period of rapid development. He said he had enjoyed his work at SIU "where I have had the opportunity to grow professionally and leave with the highest regard for the institution." The new job, however, would offer him a chance to assist an institution during its early phases of program development.

Robinson came to SIU from the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., where he was head of the Mental Retardation Research Centers program. His master's and Ph.D. degrees are from Bradley University at Peoria.

Ralph E. McCoy, director of University Libraries at Southern Illinois University, has been elected to the board of directors of the Ulysses S. Grant Association, headquartered at SIU.

The Grant Association was organized in 1962 to complete work on the Grant Papers with the assistance of SIU, the Illinois State Historical Society Library and other Illinois groups. The Grant Association is assembling the nation's Number one working library for research on all phases of U.S. Grant's career.

Meiva Ponton, instructor in Home Economics child and family department and director of the Child Development Laboratory at SIU has been elected national chairman of the Resident Living Division of the American Association on Mental Deficiency.

Mrs. Ponton will be installed at the annual meeting of the Association May 27-29 in Washington, D.C.

Loan program set

A program on student loans and scholarships will be held at 9 p.m. Wednesday in the University City cafeteria.

Raymond DeJarnett, assistant director of the student work program and Willis Malone, assistant to the chancellor, will speak with a question and answer period to follow.

WE encourages women to return

Mrs. Carola Ferrell, a mother of three, hopes to enroll at SIU in the fall. She got encouragement to return to school by attending a meeting of a new campus organization called WE, women in education.

She went to a meeting on the suggestion of a neighbor. "I went to one meeting and was encouraged by knowing I'm not so old after all," Mrs. Ferrell said.

She said that she had never gone to college and she was afraid studying would be difficult. "It will be worth it to go to school, because sitting at home is really quite boring," said Mrs. Ferrell, whose husband is working on his doctorate.

WE, women in education, is a campus center for programs and advice for the older undergraduate women student. It serves as a channel in other offices of the University and community for the 25 years and older woman enrolled at SIU.

Mrs. Loretta Ott, assistant dean of students, said that the Office of Commuter, Married and Graduate Students set up the organization, WE, to function as a catalyst for relevant approaches to the continuing education of women.

"My feeling when this group started was to have it act as a coordinating agency with the other agencies at the University," Mrs. Ott said. We like to think of our office as a referral agency—a starting point.

WE works with the older undergraduate woman student, or the older woman of the community who would like to become a student again. It functions not only as a referral agency, but also as an organization that allows these "mature women" an opportunity to meet others in their situation of returning to school. They give each other moral support and insight into the rigors of returning to college.

Women in Education was organized in May, 1969. The organization began as a result of an interview that Mrs. Marta Ladd had with Mrs. Ott. Mrs. Ladd, a senior majoring in journalism and mother of five, was assigned an interview with Mrs. Ott in one of her journalism courses. After the interview, the women discussed the problems of women returning to school.

During winter quarter, 609 undergraduate women 25 years and older were enrolled at SIU. Some were full time students. Some were taking only four to five hours a quarter.

"Anybody that is interested in going to school should give it a try maybe by only taking a couple of courses at a time. They should take it step by step," Mrs. Ladd said.

Eastern Illinois defeats SIU soccer club, 3-2

The SIU International Soccer Club suffered its first defeat of the spring season Sunday at Eastern Illinois University, 3-2.

Eastern, fall champion of the NAIA posed a strong offensive attack that proved to be too overwhelming for the Salukis.

Eastern showed its scoring ability fast with two goals in the first period. Joseph Chu, faculty adviser to the SIU club, said the first Eastern goal was disputed because of an alleged offside violation. The referee ruled otherwise and awarded a goal.

There was no scoring in the second period and SIU trailed at the half 2-0.

Momentum began going SIU's way in the third period when Peter Lewin took a pass from Ali Mozafarian and scored a goal to cut Eastern's lead to one.

Moments later, Mozafarian scored a goal of his own on a penalty kick to knot the score at 2-2.

Eastern tallied the winning goal in the third period to hand SIU the loss.

Chu praised Eastern's quick ability to execute the short pass as a major factor in its offensive success against SIU.

The Salukis have a home rematch with Eastern May 17.

Saluki golfers win 13th meet

Coach Lynn Holder's Saluki golf team completely dominated Southeast Missouri State Saturday, winning its 13th meet in 17 tries.

Led by Harvey Ott's medalist performance of 73, SIU whipped the Cape, 382-410 over the 18-hole layout in Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Jerry Glenn was one stroke off the pace, turning in a creditable 74. Jock Olson with a 77, Vito Saputo at 79 and Richard Nichols at 79 followed for the Salukis. Richard Tock carded an 80 to score for SIU.

Collegiate golf scores are determined by adding the top five scores from each team. Tock, SIU's fifth man, tied Southeast Missouri's top man Paul Smith, also a finisher at 80 strokes.

The Saluki golfers will attempt to run their record to 15-4 Wednesday with a double dual meet in Normandy, Mo. SIU will take on St. Louis University and Missouri-St. Louis in that contest. The Salukis have beaten both teams in previous meetings this year.

Softball slated, IM volleyball

Both 12-inch and 16-inch intramural softball games are scheduled today on the men's fields. All games begin at 4:30 p.m.

Twelve-inch games include: Freudian Slips vs. Starved Rocks, field 1; The Sality Brothers vs. Ivy Hall, field 5 and Phi Kappa Tau vs. Sigma Tau Gamma, field 6.

Sixteen-inch games include: Puppymen vs. The Buschmen, field 4; Brewers vs. Mexican Reds, field 3; Saluki Saints vs. THEM, field 2; Sammies "A" vs. Sigma Pi, field 7 and Brown III Gods vs. Mabel's Gang, field 8.

The semifinals in the men's intramural volleyball tournament will be played tonight at 9 in the SIU Arena.

Semifinal games are on court 1, The Saints vs. Phi Sigma Kappa and on court 4, Phi Kappa Tau vs. The Internationals.

Records from the previous tournament games have all four teams still unbeaten. The records are: Internationals 6-0, Saints 6-0, Phi Kappa Tau, 5-0 and Phi Sigma Kappa 4-0.

The Men's Intramural Office announced Monday that for the first time, competitors in the intramural track and field meet May 18 and 19 will be allowed to wear spikes or cleats.

A recent ruling made at the national intramural directors meeting played a part in the decision according to SIU Coordinator of Intramural Athletics, Abe Martin.

All entries for the meet must be in the SIU Arena, Room 128, by 5 p.m., May 14.

University School pool will be open the following hours for the remainder of spring quarter.

Friday, 7-11 p.m.
Saturday, 1-11 p.m.
Sunday, 1-11 p.m.
Student identification cards and fee statements are required to use pool facilities.

Linder 10th at Las Vegas

Tom Linder of the SIU gymnastics team recently placed 10th overall in the United States Gymnastics Federation meet in Las Vegas.

A sophomore from Milwaukee, Linder was third in compulsory routine competition but then fouled on high bar during optional performances, causing the 10th place finish.

Having maintained his top ten rating, Linder is now eligible to try out for the University Games June 20. The games will be in Italy Aug. 23-Sept. 6. At the same time, the Saluki star will be working out for the World Games tryouts which will be Aug. 14 and 15 in Chicago.

Probably 15 all-around performers will be selected from the United States for both the University Games and the World Games, slated Oct. 25-31 in Yugoslavia.

SIU takes 2 from Northern; will host Evansville today

By Bob Richards
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer
Saluki baseball returns to Carbondale today at 3 p.m., when SIU hosts the University of Evansville in a single game.

Presently holding onto a 19-5 record, SIU won an abbreviated two-game set against the Northern Illinois Huskies Friday and Saturday, 15-5 and 8-2.

Originally scheduled as back-to-back doubleheaders, rain and cold weather limited the two teams to one game each day.

Friday's contest against one of four future Conference of Midwest opponents, found catcher Bob Sedik bouncing out of his slump with a double and a powerful grand-slam home run in SIU's ten-run fourth inning.

Northern had taken a 5-4 lead after three frames with Saluki Dick Langdon hurling but the roof caved in on the Huskies in the fourth. Every Saluki starter crossed the plate once in the onslaught with Sedik scoring twice.

Sedik also led the Saluki run-production Friday, knocking in six while second baseman Mark Newman and center-fielder Jim Dwyer drove in three runs and two runs respectively.

With the exception of left-fielder Les Stoots, every Saluki starter had at least one hit with five getting two.

Langdon went all the way in the seven inning affair, striking out eight Huskies while giving up seven hits. He picked up his fifth win in six starts.

Dwyer and first-baseman Dan Radison started SIU fast in Saturday's game with first-inning home runs.

SIU scored a single run in the fifth inning and then added three more in the seventh highlighted by a two-run double by Radison. Dwyer, Bob Blakely and Les Stoots all had singles in the inning which put the game out of reach for Northern.

Dwyer went 3 for 5 in the Saturday game while Stoots and Blakely each were 2 for 4.

Sedik continued his hitting rampage going 2 for 3 in the second game.

John Daigle picked up Saturday's win, giving up no runs in seven innings. Two unearned runs were scored off of reliever Bobby Eldridge in the bottom of the ninth inning.

Illini win, 86-77

SIU freshman leaps to 7-foot record

"I wanted to keep going while I was hot," reflected Saluki high-jumper Mike Bernard.

The freshman from San Diego cleared seven feet in his specialty Saturday for a new SIU record in the event as well as a Memorial Stadium record in Champaign. Although Bernard was in the record books, the Illini escaped with an 86-77 dual meet decision over the Salukis. SIU is at Murray State today.

Bernard's effort erased a three-year-old mark set by Mitch Livingston of 6-9 3/4.

Admittedly, Bernard told Coach Lew Hartzog, he just didn't have it prior to Saturday's competition against two 6-10 jumpers from the University of Illinois.

"I wasn't really excited when I went over 6-10," Bernard continued. "After it was all over, I walked up to the bar and it was pretty high," Bernard quipped.

With Hartzog not expecting over a third-place finish, Bernard cleared 6-4. Following a narrow miss at 6-6, the SIU freshman sailed over at 6-8 and 6-10 and saw both his competitors miss at 6-10.

With the bar measured officially at 7-0, Bernard stepped up, cleared the bar and asked to have it raised to 7-2 which he missed.

Coach Hartzog predicted during the indoor season that his new high-jumper would clear at least 6-10 this year. "Bernard's seven-footer is the first by an Illinois athlete," Hartzog said, taking all Illinois colleges and universities into consideration.

The Illini-Saluki clash went down to the mile relay where the Illinois unit edged SIU's combination of Ivory Crockett, Larry Mobley, Barry Leibovitz and Bobby Morrow, 3:15.2 to 3:16.

SIU took eight first places and swept the top three spots in the 100, 220 and javelin events.

Due to the powerful legs of Stan Patterson and Crockett,

Mike Bernard

SIU pulled out the 440-yard relay in 41.6, tying their own Memorial Stadium record.

"We had some pretty decent performances," said Hartzog. "Patterson did a real fine job in the sprints and the 440-yard relay and we got one fantastic effort from Crockett in the mile relay." Crockett's lead off leg was a simmering 48.4.

Crockett also led Saluki sweeps in the 100 and 220 yard dashes in time of 9.5 and 21.5. Patterson and Mobley were right behind Crockett in both events, shutting the Illini out of the sprints.

Dan Tindall was under 200-feet but had no problem winning the javelin with a heave of 195 feet. Rod Murphy and distance man Ken Nalder were second and third in the event.

Although Obed Gardiner was fourth in the Drake Relays last week, the freshman had to settle for second place in both the long-jump and triple-jump as Don Miller won both events with leaps of 22-11 3/4 and 48-8 3/4.

Larry Cascio was another Saluki ribbon winner in the pole vault, clearing 14-6.

Nalder had a strong second place finish in the 880, nipping Illini state Lee LaBadie, in 1:55.0.

In Tennessee Classic

Tennis team places second

Graham Snook, a strong competitor from Auckland, New Zealand moved his record to 11-0 for the regular season Saturday as the Saluki tennis team placed second in the Tennessee Classic in Knoxville.

SIU defeated South Carolina 9-0 and Tennessee 6-3 in the tournament while bowing to a strong team from Georgia 7-2.

SIU will be trying to push its regular season record to 14-1 today, hosting the University of Illinois on the Saluki courts at 2 p.m.

Although not always having a highly talented team, coach Dick LeFevre calls the Illini fighters not willing to give up. The Illini stopped Purdue, 7-2, Saturday in a Big Ten dual meet.

"Snook played real well," remarked SIU coach Dick LeFevre of his number three singles player. With Bill Lloyd out of the lineup because of illness, everyone on the team moved up one notch for the Tennessee meet.

Against the University of Tennessee, Snook faced Bill Moran, a tough number-three singles man who had not appeared when SIU defeated the Vols, 8-1, last week. Due to rain the two were forced to indoor courts and played a proset. Snook won 10-5 in a notable victory.

The SIU sophomore also pasted Alex Amaylo of Georgia, 6-2 and 6-1 and put down South Carolina's Bill Austin, 6-0 and 6-4.

Macky Dominguez moved into the number one singles spot and did a creditable job according to LeFevre. Carrying an 11-0 record earned in the number-two and number-three spots, Dominguez won his opening set against highly ranked Tommy Mozur of Tennessee before losing, 3-6, 6-2 and 6-3.

The senior from the Philippine Islands also was beaten by powerful Norman Holmes of Georgia, 6-4 and 6-4.

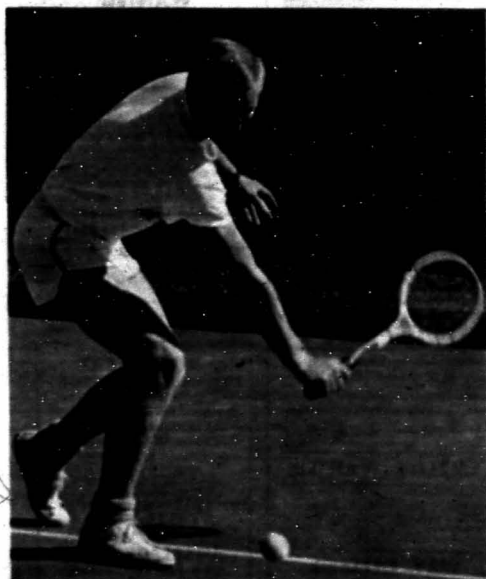

Together with Chris Greendale, Dominguez turned the tables on Holmes and Amaylo in the top doubles match against Georgia, winning 4-6, 10-8 and 7-5 in an exhausting three sets of tennis.

Mike Clayton played his first competitive sets of the year with good results. His only loss came to his Georgia opponent and Jorge Ramirez had the same result playing in the number-five spot.

Ray Briscoe, a former two-time Indiana high school champion, also was a loser against Georgia as he moved up to the number-four match.

Chris Greendale would have been able to cope with the situation in his normal number-three spot according to LeFevre but both Tennessee's Jim Ward and Georgia's Danny Bushmore handed Greendale singles losses.

Against Bushmore, Greendale lost a pro-set, 10-7 and against Ward, lost, 6-2, 6-0.

Perfect through eleven

Playing anywhere from the number-five singles spot up to number three, New Zealander Graham Snook has been SIU's standout tennis performer this year, reaching up 11 straight wins during regular season play. Snook won all three of his matches in the weekend Tennessee Classic. (Photo by Ken Garen)

Baseball strike possible

CHICAGO (AP)—A one-day baseball moratorium rather than a full-blown strike is likely if the major league owners don't sweeten their latest contract offer to the Major League Baseball Players Association, the Chicago Today newspaper said Monday.

Baseball writer John Hillier said he was told by one player representative—who preferred to remain anonymous—that the day for a moratorium would come when there is a nationally televised game.

"The television people," the player said, "already have been told about it. We would give the owners three or four days' notice, hoping to get some concessions out of them in the meantime so we wouldn't have to strike."

"The TV people, of course, would tell the owners they couldn't pay them for that game if it wasn't played."

Hillier said Marvin Miller, the association's executive director, had received the owners' proposal Friday and each club is expected to vote on it sometime this week.
