Box stuffed with choices in SIU presidential poll

By Debby Ratermann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Students, faculty and staff had a chance to legally stuff the ballot box Thursday in the run-off for SIU president.

The single polling place to vote for the next University president was unmanned. A stack of ballots containing the top 20 choices for president in the April election sat next to a ballot box and a few pencils were scattered around. A sign read "Vote for President; Vote Often."

Election commissioner Ralph Rosnyk said he was allowing everyone to vote as often as he or she wished, without supervision, "because it's more an opinion poll than an election. If some people have a strong opinion about who they want for our next University president, they can make it known by filling out several ballots for that person."

Rosnyk said more than 1,000 ballots had been used by noon Thursday.

"You're surprised how many are voting by themselves," Rosnyk said. "I think it's fantastic."

Rosnyk said the top three names from the run-off election will be given to Search Committee Chairman Willis Malone. "We're going to emphasize those names," Rosnyk said, "but we're also going to give him all the names that got even one vote in the April election—a total of a few hundred names."

Rosnyk said the top three vote-getters will not be known for a few days because the ballots will be counted by hand.

The 20 names on the run-off ballot were Michael Bakalis, Hiram Lesar, Buckminster Fuller, Keith Leasure, Robert Layer, George Mace, Delyte Morris, Mike Carr, Bruce Swinburne, David Derge, Richard Nixon, Harold Grosowsky, William Wesely, Ralph Rosnyk, Paul Schilpp, John Rendleman, Willis Malone, Robert Carlock, Fred Whitehead, Doug Allen, T. Richard Mager and Dennis Sullivan.

S-Senate to meet again on Saturday

By Brenda Penland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Student Senate will meet in special session at noon Saturday in Student Center Ballroom D, to discuss the Joint Fee Allocation Board (JFAB) report.

Consideration of the report was delayed Wednesday night after a demonstration by black students caused the senate to adjourn into executive session. The executive session in turn was adjourned by Senate President Jim Kania before it began because the black students entered the room where it was to take place.

The demonstration began when a motion was made to cut $1,000 from the proposed $12,000 allocation to the Black Affairs Council (BAC). The BAC partisans greeted the motion with obscenities, shout and boos.

Sen. Al Jacobson then said he felt intimidated and moved that the senate go into executive session, which was adjourned.

Edgar Philpot, coordinator of BAC, said Thursday that BAC members will definitely be at Saturday's special meeting.

"We think it is important that student policy and sentiment be expressed in front of concerned students these policies will effect," Philpot said.

He said he felt black students didn't disrupt Wednesday night's senate meeting.

"In my opinion we didn't disrupt the meeting," he said. "The senate is the one who called for executive session and adjournment. I don't think they should have been embarrassed or ashamed to express their feelings in front of the entire student body. Black students had a right to be there."

He said he didn't think anyone in the room should have felt intimidated by the presence of blacks.

"Last year the Veterans Association attended a budget meeting and when the Student Senate made what I considered asinine motions, they applauded, booed and hissed," Philpot said. "At no time did students feel they were intimidated. The only time a motion to clear the room comes up is when black students are involved."

He called the adjournment of the senate meeting "a step to avoid the issue." He said he thought black students were right in forcing their way into the executive session.

"Student government means students," Philpot said. "We are students even though we are black."

He said the BAC would settle for "about $20,000," what it had last year in fee allocations. He said if the BAC doesn't receive the amount it wants, the issue might have to be settled in court. The BAC is checking into the legal implications of the issue, he said.

Kania said the fact that the ballroom is a larger room and that the senate has the room reserved for six hours should make the Saturday meeting more productive.

A gallery will be provided for visitors but no special measures will be taken to prevent disruptions, he said.

"If they wish to disrupt the meeting, there's nothing we can do," Kania said. "I think students should be responsible enough to realize that if they disrupt the meeting, nothing will get accomplished." He said he doesn't feel the Student Senate should have to be protected from other students.

"The only security is the fact the spectators will be in an area away from the senators," Kania said.

He said if Saturday's meeting is disrupted to the point where there is no possibility of keeping order he will ask the senate to adjourn or adjourn the meeting himself.

"I won't put up with name calling," he said. Kania said he thinks the senate will vote on the JFAB report at the special meeting.

"I've always had a lot of confidence in students," he said. "I'm sure we can work out something."

Co-Rec Building threatens health plan

By Randy McCarthy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU is betting funds for operation of the Co-Rec Building that a national health care plan will replace the proposed expanded medical services program, Dean of Students Bruce Swinburne said Wednesday.

Unless a national or state plan providing medical coverage for students is established within three years, SIU will have to trim or abandon the proposed program in order to operate and maintain the building, he said.

A resolution calling for transfer of $15 from the $22.50 Student Welfare and Recreation Fund (SWRF) fee to the Student Medical Benefits (SMB) fee to pay for an expanded health program will be placed before the Board of Trustees at its May 9 meeting.

The change wouldn't increase total student fees but would hike the SMB fee beginning fall semester from $17.25 to $32.25 per semester, raising about $500,000 next year to pay for more medical services.

If $15 is taken from the SWRF fee the remaining $7.50 won't produce enough money to maintain and operate the building, Swinburne said. Because the maintenance of the building would receive first consideration for funding, the expanded health care program would be cut back or eliminated for lack of money, he said.

Money enough to pay for the construction of the $8.9 million building has been collected from SWRF fees paid since 1964. About $2 million to $3 million plus interest will be amassed from the SWRF fee within the next three years to operate the building but this won't provide enough money to continue operation if $15 is taken from SWRF, he said.

Swinburne said the University isn't considering requesting a cut in the SWRF fee if the expanded health program is rejected because most of the $22.50 fee may be needed to operate the building.

"In our estimation the remaining money wouldn't be enough," he said. Estimates for maintaining the building have included requiring $21 of the SWRF fee to be reserved for the Co-Rec Building, Swinburne said.

An exact figure of how much it would cost to operate the Co-Rec Building hasn't been determined, he said because of the many factors "which aren't under anybody's control."

If the Co-Rec Building is used for physical education classes some state funding could be used to operate the building, Swinburne said, but the University can't rely on receiving this money and is required to keep enough money in SWRF fees to operate the building.

"There's no guarantee of state funding so we must protect the board's obligation," Swinburne said.

McCord set off flurry of talks at White House, transcripts show

WASHINGTON (AP)—The tone and focus of White House discussions about Watergate changed markedly after convicted burglar James W. McCord Jr. blew the lid off the scandal with his public charge that higher-ups were involved in the wiretapping raid.

On March 21, 1973, President Nixon discussed with John Dean how payoffs and clemency might be handled for original Watergate case defendants so they wouldn't talk.

The White House has consistently maintained that Nixon cut off on that day any idea of paying money for silence. The White House tape transcripts of this key meeting are ambiguous in many places where Nixon discusses the idea.

But that same day, McCord was delivering to U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica his letter of allegations that Dean, the White House counsel, and Jeb S. Magruder, Nixon's 1972 campaign deputy director, were also involved in Watergate.

The one White House transcript of a March 22 meeting has no reference to payoffs or clemency, dealing rather with strategy on executive privilege and with Dean's assignment to write a report on the affair.

On March 23, McCord's letter was read in open court. He talked to Senate Watergate investigators and within three days his specific allegations were publicly known.

From March 27, the date of the next White House transcript, there is never again any discussion of hush money or clemency.

With McCord's disclosures reheating the case and options clearly changed, Nixon and his aides delved into other strategic possibilities for handling disclosure of Watergate facts, usually talking of ways that would be least harmful to the presidency.

At the end of a second meeting on March 21, Nixon observed:

"What the hell does one disclosure that isn't going to blow something?"

Congressional interest in the case zoomed after McCord talked.

The situation was no longer what it had been on March 21 when Nixon and Dean discussed hush money.

The White House transcripts for subsequent meetings quote payoffs only in the context of Nixon recalling to others that he told Dean payoffs and clemency would be wrong. On April 17, for example:

Nixon: "I didn't tell him to go get the money, did I?"

Haldeman: "No."

The tone of meetings shifted after March 21 from concern that Hunt or Magruder might talk to concern about what Dean might tell prosecutors and to explorations of who might be able to make charges against top Nixon aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

Said Nixon about Dean April 17: "He's going to do anything to save his ass."

Hiram Lesar

Lesar to talk at F-Senate

Interim SIU President Hiram Lesar will address the Faculty Senate Tuesday, at the same meeting where the senate will vote on whether to blackball Keith Leasure, vice president for Academic Affairs and provost.

Chairwoman JoAnne Thorpe said she did not know the subject of Lesar's talk. The resolution to oust Leasure parallels a Faculty Status and Welfare committee study of Leasure's performance during the December firings.

Leasure's term of appointment as vice president is up June 30. He was not available Thursday for comment.

A related resolution, if passed, will ask Lesar to give the faculty "adequate and appropriate consultation" in the selection of a similar vice president for next year. This follows the senate's protest last July over not being consulted in the decision to give Leasure the job for this year.

Also on the agenda is a report by the senate's committee helping terminated teachers. The committee's former recommendations, including reinstatement of tenured faculty who were fired and dropping of the SIU lawsuit, have not been followed by the administration or the Board of Trustees.

Credit union gets charter

By Debby Ratermann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

About 40 persons attended the charter meeting of the Carbondale-University Community Federal Credit Union Thursday night in the Student Center.

Charles Martin of the federal National Credit Union Administration presented Lou Cerutti, president of the Carbondale credit union board, with the federal charter.

"I've never heard of a credit union six years in the making, as this one was," Martin said. "It is unique." The Carbondale union is the first in the country with a joint board of students and townspersons.

Martin will stay in Carbondale a few weeks to help the board set up interest rates, loan ceilings and procedures. The union is a non-profit organization providing loans "for everyone who does not have credit union services available."

The Carbondale union's charter specifically states that "everyone who works or lives in Carbondale but does not have access to a credit union and all full-time students at SIU" are eligible to apply for a loan.

Anyone may pay a 25-cent fee and become a member of the union. To become a voting member, a person must purchase at least one share, at $5 per share.

All members' shares are insured up to $20,000 by the Credit Union Insurance Company. A spokesman for the company, Raymond Buente, told the charter group, "I have never seen so much enthusiasm or such a wonderful turnout."

Acting SIU President Hiram Lesar said Thursday night he is "thoroughly behind the credit union movement. I am a member of one. It's one way for a University president to get insurance."

"It is an auspicious occasion," Lesar said. Student Body President Mike Carr also spoke. "The credit union is the first student activity really involving the community," Carr said. "Faces may change but there will be continuity."

CCHS OK's administrative changes

By Gary Houy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Carbondale Community High School (CCHS) Board of Education approved a "2000 Series" policy concerning the procedures of the CCHS administration.

There were two substantive changes in the policy, Weshinsky said. These are: a CCHS employee must now have certification of the Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction, and a rewriting of the superintendent's duties where they coincided with the principal's duties.

Roy Weshinsky, board member, said the revised policy is not "complete" but it is "something we should be constantly reviewing and revising."

With other minor changes suggested by board member Tom Brewer, the 2000 Series was adopted unanimously.

Superintendent William Holder told the board several students have been injured in school athletic events and found that school insurance coverage "falls short on occasion."

Board President Charles Hinderman said injuries are covered only to a limited extent in the new CCHS athletic code. The board suggested that Holder investigate the possibility of an extended insurance plan for athletics.

A tentative calendar for the 1974-75 school year was announced. Classes will begin on August 27 and end June 10.

Hinderman said this calendar should be publicized because it does not coincide with the vacation periods scheduled at SIU next year.

A review and acceptance of the low bid on insurance offers was postponed by Holder. The board will act on the bids at the May 16 meeting.

The purchase of a new kiln for the CCHS art department was approved by the board. Since the $375 required for the kiln was not allocated in the budget, a musical performance planned for this year will be postponed, Holder said. The musical would have cost $600, he said.

A system of rewarding outstanding CCHS instructors was suggested by Holder. The board approved the appointment of board member Carol McDermott to work with Holder on an award system and report back to the board.

Holder also suggested that a committee be organized for the "dissemination of information" from the high school to the community. The board gave Holder authority to appoint a "representative" committee to investigate the possibility and report back to the board at the next meeting.

Contracts awarded to firms by elementary school board

The Carbondale elementary school board approved the award of contracts for suppliers of insurance, milk, coal, bread and baking services at its meeting Thursday night.

Bening Insurance Agency, Carbondale, was awarded the district's contract for workmen's compensation and employer's liability for the 1974-75 school year, and the board designated the Carbondale National Bank as the depository for district funds.

The milk contract was awarded to the New Era Division of the Prairie Farms Dairy. The cost of milk to the district will be 9½ cents per half-pint of milk for August through November, with the cost increasing for the rest of the school year in accordance with price increases ordered by the federal government.

Meek's Trucking Company will provide the district with coal in the next school year, at a price of $21.75 per ton. The coal contract also calls for an increase in prices due to miner's wage contract increases and other financial matters.

The board awarded the bread contract to Bunn Bread Co. Bread, hot dog and hamburger bun prices increased from 6 to 12 cents over last year's prices.

In other business the board amended the school calendar, changing the final day of school to June 7. Eighth grade promotion will be held at 8 p.m. at Bleyer Field June 6.

Final specifications for driveways and parking areas at Lakeland and Thomas schools were approved by the board. Next week the district will begin advertising for bids on the construction at the schools.

The junior high school mathematics committee recommended adoption of a Houghton-Mifflin mathematics program for advanced students.

Larry Jacober, Lincoln Junior High School principal, said this program would enable students to begin algebra and geometry work while still in junior high, and to take calculus in high school. The board adopted the committee's recommendation.

Sirica allows Watergate subpoena delay

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Nixon gained a six-day delay Thursday in his fight against a Watergate subpoena, and a panel of experts said it will present another report Saturday on the 18½-minute gap in a crucial White House tape.

A sweeping subpoena issued against Nixon by the Watergate special prosecutor had been due Thursday morning, but U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica gave lawyers additional time to file briefs and set a hearing date after the White House petitioned the court to quash the subpoena.

In a brief session with lawyers in the Watergate cover-up case and White House attorneys, Sirica gave them until next Monday to file answers to the White House motion and set a hearing for Wednesday.

In a similar struggle last fall, Sirica rejected White House claims of executive privilege and ordered Nixon to turn over several tape recordings of presidential conversations. He was upheld by the U.S. Court of Appeals here. Nixon eventually turned over the tapes without appealing to the Supreme Court.

There were strong indications from both sides, however, that this time the final showdown may come in the high court.

Meanwhile, two members of the panel of tape recording experts said they would present their report to Sirica Saturday. The panel has been studying the cause of the gap since last November.

In an interim report in January, the panel said the gap was caused by a process of erasing and rerecording at least five and possibly nine times, but it not address itself to whether the erasure was deliberate.

Sirica said the meeting Saturday with Dr. Richard Bolt, former professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and a second unnamed member of the panel would be held in the judge's chambers.

The judge said details of the report "will not be made public at that time," but that further proceedings in connection with the report will be decided at the meeting.

The panel was chosen jointly by the White House and special prosecutor Leon Jaworski after the gap in the tape was made known in a hearing before Sirica, who recommended the Watergate grand jury investigate.

The gap is in one of the nine tapes originally subpoenaed by the special prosecutor's office last year. The blank section is at the beginning of a conversation between Nixon and then-White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman on June 20, 1972—three days after the break-in at Democratic party headquarters in the Watergate office building.

Rose Mary Woods, Nixon's personal secretary, testified she may have accidentally pushed the record-erase button while transcribing the tape but for no more than five minutes. But the tape experts said the erasures were contiguous and not the result of one single operation.

At the White House Thursday, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said the House Judiciary Committee, which is considering impeachment got "the full story of Watergate" when Nixon turned over 1,200 pages of edited transcripts of taped conversations Tuesday.

Warren commented in response to a question about the committee's vote to inform Nixon that it feels he has "failed to comply" with its subpoena, which had asked for the tapes rather than edited transcripts.

Warren said the White House feels the committee members have been given "the facts on which they can move ahead." He also stuck by Nixon's offer to allow committee chairman Peter Rodino (D-N.J.) and Edward Hutchinson (R-Mich.), but no other committee or staff members, to listen to the tapes in private and verify the transcripts.

"We feel we have made a very fair, full and responsible offer," Warren said.

From Senate sources came reports that Alexander M. Haig Jr., current White House chief of staff, refused to answer questions before the Senate Watergate committee Thursday, saying he had been instructed by the President not to do so.

At an executive session of the panel, Haig presented a letter from Nixon saying, "It would be wholly inappropriate for the committee to examine you about your activities as chief of staff or about information that has come to you in that position."

Nixon's letter invoked both executive privilege and attorney-client privilege in ordering Haig not to cooperate with the committee probe of Watergate.

In a brief meeting with reporters at the Justice Department, Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen defended his conduct of the initial Watergate investigation and declared, "I am not a whore."

The White House-edited transcripts showed Peterson regularly informing Nixon about the progress of the investigation and sometimes advising him about ways to deal with top presidential aides implicated in the scandal.

"I walked through a minefield and came out clean," Petersen said.

In another Watergate-impeachment development, the Judiciary Committee approved by voice vote live television coverage of its impeachment proceedings so long as it does not interfere with the proceedings.

Presidential counselor Dean Burch said the White House had no objections to live television coverage. However, he repeated the White House view that whatever is done should be handled speedily.

"Time is becoming critical in this thing," Burch said in a White House meeting with newsmen.

Maryland court disbars Agnew for tax evasion

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Describing Spiro T. Agnew as a man who consciously cheated the federal government, the Maryland Court of Appeals disbarred the former vice president Thursday.

In a unanimous 13-page ruling which took away Agnew's right to practice law, the seven-judge court, Maryland's highest, termed Agnew "so morally obtuse that he consciously cheats for his own pecuniary gain." Agnew pleaded no contest last October to federal income tax evasion charges, an action tantamount to conviction.

The court's decision affirmed a recommendation made in January by a three-judge Circuit Court panel.

Agnew was not available for comment on the decision in the disciplinary action brought by the state bar association.

The Court of Appeals ruling is not subject to appeal, although Agnew could petition the court at any time for reinstatement as a lawyer, his profession before entering politics full time in 1962. Agnew was not a member of the federal bar, and his disbarment in Maryland prevents his practicing law elsewhere. His lawyer, Leon H.A. Pierson, argued before the court in April that the former Maryland governor should only be suspended from the practice of law.

Previously, Agnew personally pleaded with the Circuit Court judges not to deprive him of a means of earning a living. Agnew since has announced he is writing a political novel, which publishing experts have predicted will earn him $100,000 or more.

The high court said it considered tax evasion a crime involving moral turpitude, fraud and deceit and, as such, required disbarment under state law, previous court decisions and the ethical rules of the American Bar Association.

WASHINGTON (AP)—According to the edited transcripts made public by the White House this week, President Nixon wasn't told about key hush money conversations that were cited in the Watergate cover-up indictment.

What his aides never seemed to mention directly to the President were a series of events that led to an alleged payment on March 21, 1973, of $75,000 to Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr.

One of the conversations cited in the indictment was a telephone call between H.R. Haldeman and former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell on March 21. It took place 35 minutes after Haldeman had discussed Hunt's demand for money with the President and John Dean.

According to the indictment, within hours of the call from Haldeman, Mitchell authorized the $75,000 payment for Hunt.

But during a second meeting on March 21, with the President, Haldeman never mentioned his conversation with Mitchell when the discussion turned to Hunt's demand.

Other participants in that second March 21 meeting were Dean and John Ehrlichman.

During the first meeting that day, the transcripts quote Dean as telling Nixon that Hunt was demanding $120,000 for lawyers' fees and family support. Dean said that if Hunt didn't get the money he was threatening to disclose his activities as a member of the White House plumbers unit, including the Ellsberg break-in.

There was considerable discussion during that first meeting of the hush-money demand as well as of the possibility of offering executive clemency to the Watergate defendants.

At times the President seemed to reject any such offers; at other times he seemed ready to meet Hunt's demands.

Near the end of that meeting, which broke up at 11:55 a.m., the President told his aides to get together with Mitchell.

"Actually, I am perfectly willing to meet with the group," Nixon said. "I don't know whether I should."

A moment later, he added, "I think I need to stay away from the Mitchell subject at this point, do you agree?"

According to the indictment, Haldeman talked to Mitchell at 12:30 p.m.

At 5:20 p.m., there was a second meeting in the President's office and the discussion turned to hush money.

Nixon: "And then so the point we have to cross there, that you have to cross, I understand quite soon, is what you do about Hunt and his present finance? What do we do about that?"

Dean: "Well, apparently Mitchell and Frederick C. LaRue are now aware of it, so they know how he is feeling."

Nixon: "True. Are they going to do something?"

Dean: "Well, I have not talked to either of them. Their positions are sympathetic."

Transcripts show Nixon in dark on hush money

"Is this necessary?"

To the Daily Egyptian:

I have a few belated comments to add regarding concert ticket sales. It's another typical SIU screw job!

While I fully agree with points raised by Bercedis Peterson, I have my own gripes that I'm sure are shared by many others who got ripped off after standing in line for hours and checking in daily.

This system has got to be the screwiest system I've encountered. It's completely unfair and I do not understand why it has to operate as it is. Ticketron doesn't have those problems.

The biggest injustice is in the fact that there is no limit to the number of tickets one can buy in a block. One of the first ones in line walked away with over 80 tickets as did the man behind him. That doesn't leave much for the folks in the rear, does it? Twenty tickets seems to be a fair amount, and about five tickets for individuals. It may mean more students, but if they all have a number, Peterson's idea for staggering the times could make the operation more efficient, less chaotic.

Another hassle I fail to understand is checking in every day! Is this necessary? I checked in every day and on the day of the sales, they tried to tell me I didn't. What difference does it make? It only causes more work and frustration. People that run these operations must thrive on frustration. We don't need it!

Another final argument I have is why students on the SGAC get two free tickets to every concert? Is it some kind of token of appreciation for all their hard work in bringing the concert to SIU? What are they being elected and paid to do, for Pete's sake!!! They don't even have to stand in line for them, tickets get mailed to them, personally. You can bet they're not bleacher seats, either. Oh no, they deserve front rows of seats on the main floor!

Why even the first person in line doesn't get first crack at the tickets.

All these red tape procedures and you still end up in the back rows. Could it be considered to just charge a general admission and have everyone sit on the floor? There has got to be a better way. Fellow ripped off students, do you have any suggestions?

Dirty pool

To the Daily Egyptian:

The April 30 cartoon depicting the Southern Illinoisan as a money-gathering machine is curious, illogical, and in bad taste. Curious because it gave readers no clue as to the news peg, which apparently was an editorial in the Southern Illinoisan. Illogical because the Daily Egyptian accepts advertising dollars, no matter where they come from. In bad taste because it simply represents an elaborate insider's joke by a state employee who aspires to build a competitive newspaper with the help of state subsidies and other forms of government aid.

Would the editor advise his staff members or other journalism seniors not to seek employment at newspapers which make a profit through the sale of advertising and circulation in more than one community? Or only those in competition with his own state-assisted enterprise?

Dirty pool? Yes indeed; but there must have been SOME substance to our message, else it could have been ignored, just as the people of the DE for years have put up with misrepresentation, slurs, and the dirty tricks of the downtown newspaper—without cry or complaint. But now we too are sinners. We are talking back. Journalism teachers have every right to set themselves up as critics of the press, any press. It is respectfully suggested, however, that this is a role which calls for you to examine your own special interests, as well as to blow the whistle at both ends of the court. Editor.

Editorial Inside joke?

The response of the nine journalism faculty members to Tuesday's Daily Egyptian editorial cartoon is itself curious, illogical and in bad taste. Curious because it at last represents an attempt by the faculty members to bring the long-waged petty squabble between them and the editor out of the smoke-filled back rooms of the Communication Building into the open forum of the editorial pages (what took you so long?). Illogical because this writer fails to see the logic between the cartoon and the faculty members' revelation that "the Daily Egyptian accepts advertising dollars, no matter where they come from." In bad taste because their contention that the editor is "a state employee who aspires to build a competitive newspaper with the help of state subsidies and other forms of government aid" is absurd in light of the Southern Illinoisan's recent disclosures of the DE editor's upcoming retirement in the fall.

Too, it remains to be seen how the cartoon "simply represents an elaborate insider's joke" when anyone in the community who read the Southern Illinoisan Sunday should have grasped the connection between the cartoon and that paper's editorial attacking the Daily Egyptian. If the editor is guilty of anything, it is that he assumed the DE's readership also reads the newspaper across town and would thereby understand the cartoon's humor. True or not, that assumption could hardly be viewed as in bad taste towards the Southern Illinoisan.

Regarding the two questions posed by the faculty nine, how are they at all germane to the cartoon which, was in response to the Southern Illinoisan editorial? The obvious conclusion is that the nine members of the journalism faculty did not read the editorial. If that is true, the editor really was off base in his assumption.

And if the journalism faculty doesn't read the Southern Illinoisan, who does?

To the Daily Egyptian:

Mr. Johnson, in reply to your letter that appeared in Tuesday's paper let me first say that I appreciate your gracious consideration but it isn't up to you to make apologies for me. In my editorial I was in no way trying to criticize you, only the system that the sheets available at the line forming desk said that you were one of the originator's of. You didn't inform me otherwise. Perhaps it was ego or oversight that caused you to not inform me that the yellow sheet called, "Guidelines, Block and Individual Sales," had wrongly listed you as one of the three originators of the ridiculously cumbersome system
(the adjectives are mine).

You say that you have witnessed many ticket lines, some well run, some not well run. I am glad for you, but I must also say that you seem to equate good with peaceful and-or orderly. True, peace and order are mandatory for any successful system, but for a system to be fair it must serve the needs of the buying public, not just those of the Arena, Student Center Ticket Office, or any other organization. The concerts are supposedly put on for the entertainment of those that desire to go. I myself, like many others I have talked to, had the desire, but also had better things to do than wait around for hours, after already having reported in three times, just to get tickets to see a rock concert. Students, the largest percentage of customers, are usually under cramped schedules, making it impossible to spend a great deal of time in the pursuit of tickets.

I also had the misfortune to be involved in what you called the "disorganized hysteria," that existed at the scene of the Fleetwood Mac ticket lines. I agree whole heartedly with your description, that system is poor also, but at least the buyer can go for tickets once and get the damn thing over with. If the crowd is monitored by a few more people perhaps the shoving can be held down.

Let me add that not only is your system clumsy, it isn't fair. One socialite gets 125 tickets, another gets 100 and so on. The poor, humble soul that wants to take his lady to see a good show hasn't got a chance to get a good seat, especially in the Arena, unless he was present the first day, at a very early hour, say 6 a.m., to beat out all the hard-core freaks. One does not have to search the heavens for a better system, almost anything would be an improvement. This university is finally getting some good people to play here, Leon Russell, The Beach Boys, but they make it a terrible hassle and pain to get the tickets. Ber-cedis Peterson, civil service secretary, in her letter appearing the same day recommended a better system. She suggested that numbers 1-50 come at one time and 51-100 at another time, and so on. The number of tickets a person could buy should be a great, great deal less than the present minimum. As I said, more than a few people scooped up 100 tickets at a time while the individual line was moving at a snail's pace, those people being allowed 19 tickets.

Revise the system, don't defend it by saying "can you do better?" It seems the last time I heard a line of reasoning like that was in grammar school. I assume, Mr. Johnson, you are in college.

New hope for stroke victims to be discussed at workshop

By Jim Murphy
Student Writer

A nationally recognized treatment procedure which offers new hopes for victims of strokes and other related brain damage will be the subject of a week long workshop beginning Monday.

Five daily sessions, sponsored by the Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology, will be held in the Morris Library Auditorium.

Dr. Dee Jay Hubbard, speech pathologist at the Veterans Administration hospital in Overland Park, Kansas, will conduct the day-long sessions Wednesday through Friday. Dr. Hubbard is a member of a team trained by Dr. Bruce Porch, the creator of the Porch Index of Communicative Ability (PICA), the subject of the workshop.

Prior to Dr. Hubbard's sessions, Sue Pace of the Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology will present a series of tapes prepared by Dr. Porch which give the necessary background of PICA. Dr. Porch is Chief of the Speech Pathology and Audiology Service at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Albuquerque, New Mexico and an Associate Professor of Neurology at the University of New Mexico Medical School.

"The Porch Index of Communicative Ability represents a complete battery of tests on all phases of the communicative process," according to John Moncur, Chairman of the Department of Speech Pathology and Audiology at SIU.

"Through his method of testing," Moncur said, "Dr. Porch can determine how much a stroke victim will recover. It's a figured system for scoring what the patient can do," he said.

PICA's purpose is three-fold, Moncur added. "First, it can determine where the patient stands, in relation to his mental and physical abilities, at the time the test is administered. Secondly, it predicts his ability to improve, and finally, PICA determines what kind and how much training we should give him."

PICA tests the five senses, with the inputs and outputs all being the patient's, Moncur added.

Where the stroke victim stands to gain from PICA, he said, is in helping him to achieve what he is capable of doing. "The results might simply indicate that a person can gesture but do little else."

Extensive speech rehabilitation, then, might be useless. The emphasis will be on what the stroke victim can do best, Moncur said.

Britain's lady cops say 'thanks' for pill

LONDON (AP) - Britain's top woman cop says "thank goodness for the pill" because it's a prime weapon in keeping Scotland Yard's female contingent up to strength.

Commander Daphne Skillern, 46 and unmarried, took over this week as Britain's highest ranking woman police officer.

Her responsibilities include the careers of London's 650 female officers, and part of the problem is the capital's 20,000 bobbies.

"To put it bluntly, the men and women in the police force are very good physical specimens and it would be surprising if they did not find each other attractive," Commander Skillern told a news conference.

In pre-pill days, marriage usually meant a quick end to a woman police officer's career as motherhood took over.

"Now, thanks to the pill, one can plan one's family and those women who want to can work for some years after marriage," Commander Skillern said.

She is also eager to see married women coming back to the force after raising their families.

"They would be useful for dealing with teen-age youngsters," the commander said. She says she finds it difficult to talk to adolescents because she has no children of her own.

As a commander, Miss Skillern is now only two rungs from the top of London's police hierarchy. Only assistant commissioners and the commissioner himself, Sir Robert Mark, outrank her.

But she does not see herself as potentially the capital's first woman commissioner.

"It's taken me 25 years to get this far, and I don't think I could wait another 25 years," she said.

Her predecessor as commander was Shirley Becke, the first woman to reach the rank.

Mrs. Becke retired Monday after 33 years in uniform.

Student group needs at least 20 volunteers

At least 20 more volunteers are needed to work during New Student Orientation Week at the beginning of fall semester.

The student leaders will be assigned a group of about 20 new students and will serve to answer questions, give tours of the campus, help students get moved in and aid in solving any other problems new students may have.

Sharon Hooker, assistant coordinator of the New Student Orientation committee said serving as a new student week volunteer is a great way to meet students and help them avoid problems all newcomers have.

Sophomores, juniors and seniors may volunteer at the Student Government Activities Council office on the third floor of the Student Center or may call 453-5714.

Volunteers will be requested to attend a two-day training session Aug. 23 and 24 before the new students arrive Aug. 25.

Rate of complaints on judges soaring

By Barry Hanson
Associated Press Writer

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Complaints of misconduct against Illinois judges are coming in at the Judicial Inquiry Board at a record clip, the board's chief investigator says.

Ray F. Breech, executive director of the board, also says the complaints seem to be more substantial. The board investigates reports of alleged judicial misconduct and submits its findings to the Illinois Courts Commission for action. Since Jan. 1 the board has received 51 complaints, compared with 36 for the same period last year.

The increased caseload caused Breen to appear before the Illinois Senate Appropriations Committee this week to ask for a budget hike to hire another full-time investigator. Presently Breen and one other full-time investigator handle the board's staff inquiries.

"We have complaints that are three months old," Breen told the committee. The members of the committee agreed to an amendment providing the additional money and voted to send the bill to the full house for consideration. Breen and his staff investigate all complaints and present details to the nine-member Judicial Inquiry Board. If five members agree that a complaint warrants further action, it is forwarded to the Illinois Courts Commission, which may remove, suspend, censure or reprimand a judge. Since the inquiry board began operating with a staff in July 1972, 200 complaints have been investigated and 10 cases have been submitted to the Courts Commission. One judge resigned, three cases are pending and the Courts Commission took action against six judges. Of the six, one was removed from office, three were suspended without pay for varying periods of time, one was censured and one was reprimanded.

Diary of teenage drug abuse stirs controversy in school

By T. Lee Hughes
Associated Press Writer

ROCK ISLAND (AP)—A book about drug abuse that lay quietly on school library shelves for two years has suddenly stirred a controversy in this conservative Midwestern city of 50,000.

"This is low-level gutter type literature," said Mrs. June Stetson, 42, who recently asked the board of education to remove the book, "Go Ask Alice," from junior high school libraries.

Since then there have been two more formal complaints against the book, the local American Civil Liberties Union chapter has decided what it calls attempts at censorship and a special advisory panel has scheduled a public hearing Friday on the issue.

Educators are also worried that the controversy may touch off a wave of similar requests for removal of other books.

"We are concerned that we do not create a situation where we get into the book burning business," said Dr. Bennett Litherland, assistant superintendent for instruction.

The book purports to be the diary of an anonymous 15-year-old girl whose life is shattered by the use of drugs.

Mrs. Stetson said she objected to the book's explicit sexual descriptions and bawdy house language.

"I feel you don't have to be subjected to this gutter type of explanation to be told what happened," said Mrs. Stetson, a mother of two teenagers.

Officials of both the book's publishing firms said they have received hundreds of letters from parents and teenagers praising the book.

Testimony ordered in SLA bank probe

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A federal judge Thursday ordered a San Francisco couple to testify before a federal grand jury probing the bank robbery that police said was carried off by the Symbionese Liberation Army.

Newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst was identified from pictures taken by security cameras which showed her holding a gun inside the bank during the April 15 heist. But authorities are uncertain whether she was a willing participant.

Paul Leonard Halverson, 29, a San Francisco State College graduate student, and his wife Joyce, 28, were ordered to go before the jury, which reconvened today.

U.S. District Judge Alfonso Zirpoli granted Halverson immunity from prosecution but immunity was not given to Mrs. Halverson. The couple later entered the jury witness room with their infant son.

Authorities would not say how the Halversons were connected to the case.

Halverson appeared last week and refused to answer questions, citing the Fifth Amendment rights against self-incrimination.

Another witness, Cynthia Garvey, also was granted immunity and scheduled to testify later. She was identified as having known women who later joined the SLA.

Miss Hearst was one of six persons named in federal arrest warrants issued after the bank robbery. She was sought as a material witness; the rest are wanted on bank robbery charges.

Comic-activist Dick Gregory to speak on campus May 20

By Gary Hooy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Dick Gregory, comedian, civil rights activist and former SIU student, will speak at 8 p.m. May 20 at Shureyck Auditorium.

Gregory's visit will be sponsored by the Graduate Student Council (GSC). Jack Hamilton, council member said at the Wednesday GSC meeting that Gregory is a leading figure in black consciousness. He said this speech "kicks off a series of GSC-sponsored speakers at SIU."

Matthew Rich, student trustee-elect, was ratified by the GSC as student trustee and interim student trustee until his term of office begins in July. Rich still must be ratified by the Student Senate before he can take office.

Fellowship Day panel discussion planned Friday

A panel discussion on the theme "Explore New Paths" will highlight the May Fellowship Day celebration of the Carbondale Church Women United, Friday at the First Baptist Church, 302 W. Main.

Women representing different fields of endeavor will participate in the discussion. Panel members are Jeanne Simon, Edith Spears, Rae Elwood, Pat Rayfield and Margaret Moulton.

The meeting will open with coffee at 9:30 a.m. with the program starting at 10 a.m.

New officers of Church Women United will preside for the first time at this meeting.

The public is invited to attend and baby-sitting will be provided.

Home Ec to hold spring banquet

The spring banquet of the Student Home Economics Association will be at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Center Illinois Room.

Members, guests and faculty in the home economics will attend the semi-formal dinner. Tickets may be obtained by Monday from the Clothing and Textiles office or in the Child and Family office for $2.65 per person.

Officers for 1974-75 will be installed after the dinner.

An amendment to the GSC constitution also was approved at the meeting. However, the two-thirds attendance required to amend the constitution was not present. Members not present will be mailed copies of the amendment proposal for their vote.

The amendment concerns changes in the GSC election laws. If approved the four GSC officers will "begin their term of office no later than the last day of final examinations of the previous spring terms."

The recommendations from the Joint Fee Allocation Board (JFAB) for next year were approved by the GSC. Under Priority One, the Student Government Activities Council was allocated $51,914 and the campus radio station WIDB $14,000.

Priority Two: IPIRG, $6,000; Black Affairs Council, $12,000; Inter-Greek Council, $8,500; lectures and entertainment, $8,000; Agriculture Students Advisory Committee, $3,500; International Students Committee, $5,620; Southern Illinois Film Society, $2,250; Southern Illinois Vet's Association, $4,000; Art Students League, $2,500; Committee to Defend the Right to Speak, $500; Student Environmental Center $2,000; Student Tenant Union, $3,000; Southern Illinois Dames Club, $275; Interpreter's Theatre, $1,500; Interfaith Council, $500; MOVE, $800; Married Student Activities Council, $500.

Priority Three: Feminist Action Coalition, $1,250; Gay Liberation, $250; Kd Shalom, $2,500; Uhuru Sa Sa, $4,500.

Priority Four: Sports and Recreation clubs, $6,700; plus a proposal by dean of Students Bruce Swinburne for $6,000 in Student Welfare and Recreation fees.

Four nominations for the tentative May 8 GSC elections were accepted at the Wednesday meeting. Mary Day and Jeff Tilden were nominated for Graduate Council representatives. Jim Newquist was nominated for vice-president and Cathy Jones for president.

Sharon Weaver, SIU student representative to the Illinois Board of Higher Education (IBHE) told the GSC the priorities of Master Plan IV. She said statements on education, quality of services and an innovative delivery system were important to the IBHE.

Graduate department representatives stated problems they have experienced with their departments. The members discussed the need to establish a formal grievance procedure. One option called for setting up a legal office to hear complaints from students. Action will be taken at the next GSC meeting. Executive Secretary Sharon Yeargin said Thursday.

Ms. Yeargin said the GSC may also ask Charlotte West, women's athletic director, to visit the next meeting. The council will then discuss a possible review of the SIU athletic budget, Ms. Yeargin said.

Daley city council lieutenant indicted on mail fraud counts

By Paul Driscoll
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—Alderman Thomas E. Keane, Mayor Richard J. Daley's top City Council lieutenant, was charged by a federal grand jury Thursday with 20 counts of mail fraud in an alleged real estate scheme.

James R. Thompson, U.S. attorney for northern Illinois, said the indictment charges that Keane, operating behind secret land trusts and front organizations, bought hundreds of parcels of delinquent tax property.

Keane used his position as alderman to clear the land of special tax assessments and other impediments and then resold the property, frequently to other governmental agencies, the indictment charges.

"It was a concealed conflict of interest constituting a fraud," Thompson said. He would not say how much money was involved.

Each of the 20 counts carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and $1,000 fine.

Keane, 68, was also charged with one count of conspiracy, which could bring an additional five years in jail and $10,000 fine.

Keane was acquitted last year of state conflict of interest charges.

Thompson said there was no evidence that any other political figures were involved.

Mayor Daley said he was shocked by the indictment.

"I have the greatest confidence in Thomas Keane as one of the finest leaders in the City Council," Daley said.

'Beach Blast' for Spring Fest to be held Sunday

A 'beach blast' featuring games, prizes, contests, and dancing is set for 7 p.m. Sunday at Campus Lake.

Thompson Point and East Campus are co-sponsoring the event in conjunction with SGAC, as a Spring Fest activity. The party is free and open to all SIU students.

WIDB radio will be broadcasting live from Campus Beach, spinning platters from the mid-Sixties, and taking requests. Dance, lip-synk, bikini, muscleman, and trivia contests will be highlights of the blast, and prizes donated from various merchants of Carbondale will be awarded.

"Last year over a thousand people came to the beach party, and this year we're expecting even more," said Richard Stribling, coordinator of Thompson Point Activities.

He also added that since the beach party is from 7 to 11 p.m., students would not be allowed to swim. "But I don't think that will make one bit of difference!" said Mr. Stribling.

Special Olympics volunteers to hold preparatory meeting

A meeting to prepare volunteers to help in the Southern Regional Special Olympics is set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Home Ec Lounge.

The Olympic committee says it needs at least 1,000 volunteers to help in the annual event designed for the mentally handicapped.

About 1,200 of the young athletes will compete in track and field, gymnastics and swimming at the Olympics, set for May 10 at Carbondale Community High School.

"We need every volunteer we can possibly get. We won't turn anyone away," Debbie Roche of the Olympic committee said.

Coordinator of the games, Jane Hodgkinson, said, "Volunteers make the Special Olympics. It is a learning experience for volunteers, and one they will find themselves enjoying because they are with people having a good time."

Barbara Silverstein, a volunteer last year, said about the handicapped participants, "It's like their day on the stage and they love every minute. Even losers are all smiles."

People should come out and assist just for the satisfaction they'll receive in seeing the faces of the children, she said.

Last year, about 700 SIU faculty and students provided the backbone of the staff at the Olympics.

Volunteers will serve as guides, starters for the events, judges, in concessions and as a cheering section for the participants.

The Olympics are open to all mentally handicapped youngsters eight years and older from the 37 southernmost counties in Illinois. They have been sponsored by the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation since 1968.

Jim Hart, of the St. Louis football Cardinals will serve as head coach for the day. Gov. Daniel Walker is scheduled to attend.

The Anna-Jonesboro High School band will play at the opening ceremonies during which a runner will carry the traditional torch.

John Thorne to speak on Iran Saturday

John Thorne, a lawyer involved in the trial of the Soledad brothers, Angela Davis and the Indians at Wounded Knee will speak on the conditions of the Iranian people and the nature of their struggle at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Student Center Mississippi Room.

Thorne recently returned from a trip to Iran where he investigated the situation there. The Iranian Students Association of SIU, which is sponsoring the event, said Thorne attended the recent trial of Iranians condemned to death by the Shah of Iran.

The association said that the CIA engineered the overthrow of the Iranian government in 1953 and installed the Shah as its puppet.

"In the past two years, 117 intellectuals were shot in front of the firing squad and the number of political prisoners has far surpassed 30,000," a statement by the Association said.

The lecture is titled "Fascism in Iran."

Law Ed program draws 40 lawyers

A law education program featuring lectures on search and seizure practices and cross-examination of witnesses was held at the Student Center Ballroom A Thursday.

The all-day program, which drew about 40 area lawyers, was sponsored by the Illinois Institute for Continuing Legal Education.

The program divided into two sections, each composed of series of lectures by lawyers.

The first section, entitled "Search and Seizure: Law and Practice," included presentations on when a warrantless search is valid and how to win a motion to suppress physical evidence.

"Cross-Examination of Prosecution Witnesses" was the second section of the program which began at 1:30 p.m. Lectures dealt with the legal dimensions and tactics of cross-examination of prosecution witnesses and how to handle common types of prosecution witnesses.

Lawyers who attended the program paid a $50 registration fee and received outlines of the lectures and a copy of "Illinois Criminal Trial and Appellate Guide," by Marshall Patner, general counsel for Business and Professional People, a public interest law firm in Chicago.

The book covers criminal pre-trial procedure, trial and appeal and the latest legal developments in handling criminal cases.

About seven students from the SIU School of Law also attended the program free of charge.

Incoming dean of liberal arts a historian, photography buff

By Carl Flowers
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Besides being a historian, the incoming dean of the College of Liberal Arts describes himself as a photography enthusiast, an avid reader and a former "spectator sportsman."

Lon Shelby, SIU professor of history, said he is a photography buff in that he is able to combine the hobby with his studies of architectural history. "The hobby fits in very well with my professional studies," he said.

Shelby, currently on leave from the university, said he does a great deal of reading, both in and outside his field. He said he enjoys the works of John Gardner, SIU English professor, adding "I've bought and read all of his novels."

Shelby said he prefers non-fiction and historical works. "I wouldn't consider myself a reader of novels," he said.

He does not consider himself a sportsman or a great sports enthusiast either. "I was a fan of the football Cardinals until they started losing so often."

Shelby said he is unhappy about the current direction of professional sports. "It's become too crassly commercial," he said.

He said owners and players apparently are only out to make money. He cited the high salaries of some professional athletes and said, "The situation is entirely out of hand."

A 1956 graduate of Baylor University, in Waco, Texas, he said he is sure that the SIU president search committee will have a list of good nominees.

"I'm optimistic that we'll get a good president," he said.

Shelby, who joined the history department in 1961 after receiving his Ph.D. from North Carolina University, said SIU's potential for growth was a primary reason in his decision to come here.

He said he turned down offers from State University of New York (SUNY), Harper College and Western Kentucky University to accept the position with SIU. Although problems exist, Shelby is confident his choice was correct.

"I believe in this institution," he said.

On his role as a historian, Shelby said the society of today cannot be understood without some knowledge of the past.

A historian, he said, can be compared to a social or human scientist in that he presses back into society to find "what has made society what it is today."

He said the major difference is that social scientists are more concerned with horizontal studies, or a "cross-section of people," whereas the historian is concerned with vertical studies of periods of time.

Shelby, who is writing a book on medieval architecture, is a historian for the "pleasure that comes from learning about other people and places in other times."

"I just get a kick out of it," he said.

The father of two teenage daughters, Shelby has been married since 1957. Nancy, Shelby's wife, is a former music instructor at SIU.

He said his family has no qualms about his appointment as dean. "They like it in Carbondale and are willing to see me in any aspect of education."

TWA vice president to address aviators

Alfred E. Jordan, vice president of Trans World Airlines (TWA) will be guest speaker at the 10th annual Aviation Fraternity Banquet at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Carbondale Ramada Inn. The banquet, held to instill in the public mind a confidence in aviation, is sponsored by the Sigma chapter of Alpha Eta Rho, an international aviation fraternity.

Jordan joined TWA as a mechanic's helper in 1932, after his graduation from Parks Air College of St. Louis University.

He served in a technical position until 1947 when he became maintenance production manager of TWA's international overhaul base at Wilmington, Del.

In 1951, Jordan was named manager of overhaul at Kansas City, Mo. He became staff vice president of maintenance and overhaul in May of 1962.

He assumed the newly-created post of vice president of technical affairs at the airline's executive offices in New York in October of 1973.

The banquet is part of the Aviation Advisory Committee Meeting set for this weekend.

A "social hour" will take place before the banquet at 6:30 p.m. Following the banquet, a dance will be held featuring a live band.

Due to the nature of the banquet, movie cameras and flash photography will be permitted.

Big Band Ensemble steals show with guest drummer

By Dave Stearns
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

This time, the most exciting moments of Wednesday night's jazz concert in Shryock Auditorium belonged to the student Big Band Ensemble, not to the faculty jazz quartet.

For with the dynamic drumming of guest artist, drummer John Von Ohlan, the band played with unprecedented razor-sharp tightness and the infectious exuberance that comes with creating fine music.

It was even enough to awaken a tired, grumpy critic—such as myself.

A veteran of the Stan Kenton band, Von Ohlan is an extremely fine drummer with a taste for dynamics and for progressions of improvisations were spontaneous and half-hearted, save for those by saxophonist David Riddles and pianist Gus Pappelis. Also, the trumpet section was not near as clean and sharp as it has been in past concerts.

But some of the selections were quite interesting, namely director Alan Oldfield's "Alice in Wonderland," which consisted of a variety of motives cleverly layered together, and spiced with occasional impressionistic chords that we've heard in other Oldfield creations—namely the Mass and his keyboard improvisations. And leave it to Oldfield to come up with such unusual timbre effects as having reed players whistle some of their parts and having the trombones playing only with their slide—no bell.

Out of the three Bill Cowling selections on the program, the only real eye opener was "Ballad Iggle," which was based on a riff consisting of unusually wide intervals. Built with cross-rhythms over the motive, the piece allowed unusual improvisational freedom.

The jazz quartet, consisting of Von Ohlan and three School of Music faculty members—bassist London Branch, saxophonist Riddles and pianist Oldfield—generated plenty of heat and were musically intricate.

Two of the quartets more notable selections were Branch's "Un-waltz"—a fascinating series of sound shapes in which the musicians opposed each other—and Riddles' "Expansions" in which the musicians complimented each other.

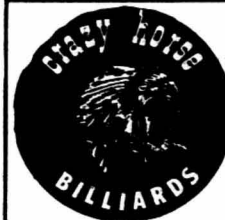

Riddles played several good solos—corkscrewing, yodeling and exploring the chord structures—before spiraling off into a more independent improvisation.

Oldfield's improvisations were less melodic than usual, but more percussive and rhythmically alive—achieving a close rapport with drummer Von Ohlan. And Branch traveled up and down the neck of his bass, obtaining stunning effects with the use of a bow and supplying a propulsive foundation for the ensemble.

At the end of the set, Oldfield announced that Branch was leaving, and this would be the last time he would play with the band. Branch thus received standing ovation, well, just for being London Branch. For during his years at SIU, he has been one of our most enthusiastic exponents of jazz, both as an educator and musician.

Which is a lot, when you think about it.

percussive tones. He also played with great energy, which propelled the ensemble to play with astonishing energy.

In Stan Levy's "Chiapas," the band sounded near professional and was as polished and brassy as lead trumpeter John Rankin's green satin shirt. Another peak was a piece written by ensemble member Jay Hungerford, entitled "Germ Motive." This piece featured three percussionists (including Von Ohlan) and developed a melody from section to section with short clever solos sandwiched in.

Also, the blandest moments of the concert belonged to the Big Band Ensemble. During the first third of the concert, the sound mix was poor with the percussion overshadowing everything else. A majority of the

Cohabitation on increase at colleges across country

By Ann Blackman
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) - Almost every night a student named Jeff stuffs a toothbrush in his shirt pocket and walks across the courtyard of his Harvard dormitory to spend the night with his Radcliffe girlfriend.

At Beloit College in Wisconsin, 19-year-old Charlie and his girlfriend, Sue, have pushed their single beds together. They've lived in her dorm room for almost a year.

A 21-year-old athlete and his sophomore girlfriend at the University of Louisville in Kentucky have lived in her dorm room since last summer. They rely on their friends not to switch on them and on a resident adviser who agrees to look the other way.

The college couples are among hundreds of students from Boston to Berkeley - and a lot more conservative places in between - who are living together on campus.

Most of them insist it's no big deal and that seems to sum up the general attitude. The couples, however, requested anonymity, citing possible sanctions or embarrassment for parents.

Interviews with scores of students and administrators at more than a dozen colleges and universities across the country indicate that although living together is rarely discussed in the college catalogue, it's become a popular way of life for some on campus.

It isn't as widespread as the "going steady" craze of the 1950s and early '60s, but almost all students interviewed could name at least two or three couples living together on campus. They saw nothing wrong with it.

The trend raised many eyebrows among parents, alumni and school officials when it appeared in the mid-60s and there was public outcry about campuses becoming dens of dope and sex. But most of that has disappeared.

"Most couples living together in the Harvard dorm have a very serious relationship," said a graduate student assigned as resident adviser to one dormitory, or "house" as it's called at Harvard. "It's a very acceptable thing."

"It's ordinary," said a Harvard housing official. "I don't know how the university could intrude. You couldn't possibly do a thing like bed checks."

When today's seniors were freshmen, living together - regularly spending the night on campus with someone of the opposite sex - was taboo at most schools, including Harvard. If caught, they could have been expelled. These days, it's not so risky.

None of the couples living together on campus had been assigned to the same room by the college. In fact, most use both rooms for the sake of appearance, mail, more storage space - and privacy when they want it. "He only sleeps here when my roommate is away, said a freshman at Indiana University. "But we eat together, study together and think about getting married some time, but not right away."

Her boyfriend reached over and took her hand. "As far as personal relations are concerned," he said, "you can learn a lot about each other this way. You can cope with problems better and understand each other better. It was a long time after we began spending most of our time together that we thought about sex, four or five months. Our relationship isn't just to sleep together."

College administrators, with an eye on possible public relations problems with the state, community, parents and alumni, said schools try to offer students a choice of living arrangements, ranging from one-sex corridors where someone of the opposite sex dare not tread, to dormitories allowing complete freedom.

"For a whole set of reasons, you're dealing with a very diverse group of students in terms of levels of maturity, past experience, personal needs and hometown environment," said Thomas C. Schreck, dean of students at Indiana, where students can choose dorms with closed, limited or open visitation policies. "If you try to force them all into a set mold, you're not addressing yourself to the differences people possess."

A study of 482 member institutions of the Association of College and University Housing Officers shows that 70 per cent of the nation's colleges offer some type of co-ed housing to students. Only 15 per cent of the schools offer men and women rooms on the same floor or in the same suite. The study was produced by David A. DeCoster, an assistant dean of students in charge of residence life at Indiana. He said there is no evidence that co-ed housing or visitation has increased sexual activity among students.

"Literature shows that attitudes have changed dramatically in a liberal direction," said DeCoster, who is recognized by many college and university officials as an expert on campus housing. "They are more accepting of peer behavior. But there is no documentation that there are differences in their own behavior. And there is a false interpretation that liberal attitudes mean liberal behavior."

Don, a 22-year-old senior at Tufts College in Medford, Mass., agreed.

"This idea that everyone has lost his virginity at the age of 10 isn't true," he said. "A lot of people here haven't had intercourse by the time they're seniors. Everybody puts on a big show."

"But for those who do choose to start a relationship, it isn't scandalous. It isn't talked about. It's accepted." Don said he had lived with a girl in his dormitory for several months, but they had broken up.

"It's hard when everyone knew you were together, then everyone knows you've split," he said.

For years, Chase has been one of the tightest, most exciting rock bands around.

Chase's third album, "Pure Music," is their best yet. The four soaring trumpets of Chase's horn section play even more intricate and demanding parts than ever before, and the rhythm section really rocks. Four graduate students and one faculty member from the botany department at SIU presented research reports at the Association of Southeastern Biologists meeting in Savannah, Ga., April 15 to 19.

Graduate students include Mona M. Myatt of Chester, Dan K. Evans of Carbondale, K. A. West of Makanda and William C. Taylor of Carbondale.

Myatt's paper, "Analysis of a Disjunct Chestnut Oak, Quercus prinus," reported on her study of a large stand of chestnut oak trees in Union County. Collaborators were faculty members Philip A. Robertson, assistant professor of botany, and George T. Weaver, assistant professor of forestry.

Evans presented a report on "The Flora and Vegetation of a Mississippi River Unprotected Floodplain."

West's paper, "Fomes pini (Polyporaceae) in Southern Illinois and Southeastern Missouri," reports on his study of trunk rot in pine tree stands of the region.

Taylor reported on "Results of Scanning Electron Microscopy on the Spores of Two Species of Isoetes." Joint authors with Taylor are Robert Mohlenbrock, chairman of the botany department; and Judy Murphy, researcher in electron microscopy, and J. A. Richardson, scientific photographer, both in research and projects at SIU.

Faculty member Philip Robertson, assistant professor of botany, presented a paper about "Allelopathic Effects of Rhus Glabra on Native and Cultivated Grasses."

An SIU chemistry graduate student has been named Outstanding Chemistry Major for 1973 for his undergraduate work at Indiana State University at Evansville.

Thomas E. Parady, teaching assistant in the department of chemistry and biochemistry, was honored April 11 by the Evansville section of the American Chemical Society. He was graduated at Evansville in January.

Working toward a Ph.D. in organic chemistry at SIU, Parady also spent summer quarter, 1971, in Carbondale, working on sulfone research with Cal Y. Meyers, chemistry professor.

A newly published book, "A Conceptual Guide to Finnegans Wake," edited by Begnal and Fritz Senn, includes a chapter written by Dr. Edmund Epstein, professor of English at SIU.

Chapter four, titled "The Turning Point," discusses the Questions chapter (Book I, chapter six) of James Joyce's complex masterpiece "Finnegans Wake." "A Conceptual Guide to Finnegans Wake," published by The Pennsylvania University Press, contains many other chapters written by equally eminent Joycean scholars.

SIU women netters defeat Southeast Missouri State, 10-5

By Kenneth Pilarski
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The SIU women's tennis team tasted the sweetness of revenge Wednesday afternoon with a 10-5 decision over Southeast Missouri State on the University Courts.

Earlier in the season, Missouri battered the women netters 15-4 on Missouri's home court.

SIU put on a strong performance in the singles matches, winning seven of the 10 contests. The women netters faltered slightly in the doubles play with three of the matches going three sets. SIU won three of the five matches.

Meg Putnam notched her fifth win of the season with a 6-4, 7-5 win over Missouri's Chris Graves in the No. 1 singles match.

Putnam was leading in the second set 5-0 when she suffered a mental lapse and proceeded to drop the next five games. She recovered in time and went on to win the set 7-5.

Sharon Smoski defeated Claudia McMillen 6-0, 6-3 in the No. 2 singles match. The win was Smoski's first of the season in singles play.

The other winners for SIU were Jan Amedeo 7-6, 7-6; Robin Nelson 6-4, 6-0; Trish Kehoe 6-2, 6-3; Linda Levine 6-2, 6-2; and Sandy Schenck 7-5, 6-0.

Putnam and Smoski wrapped up the meet for SIU with a 6-2, 5-7, 6-3 win over Graves and McMillen in the No. 1 doubles match.

Kehoe and Schenck were the winners in the No. 4 doubles match, 7-5, 6-4 and Peggy and Jami Conroy notched the final win for SIU 6-2, 6-4.

The win was only the second of the season for the women netters. After the meet was over, coach Sally Cotton said, "We needed the win, it will help our morale for this weekend." Over the weekend, the women netters will be in Macomb for the start of the Southern Sectionals.

Coach Cotton credited Smoski and Levine with playing "exceptionally well" in the singles matches. Schenck and Kehoe were singled out for honors in the doubles play. Putnam was also singled out by coach Cotton. "Meg played well in her first set and in the first five games of the second set," she said.

York captures crown in I.M. racquetball play

By Bill Ginsberg
Student Writer

Ron York topped Barry Blonde, 21-16 and 21-9, to capture the SIU Intramural singles racquetball championship recently.

In the doubles championship, York and Blonde defeated Mike Dunn and former singles champion Walt Ellis 21-14, 9-21 and 21-9.

To reach the singles championship game York crushed Dennis Tite, 21-2 and 21-0, and Blonde squeezed past Ellis 21-14, 21-8 and 21-16.

To advance to the doubles championship, York and Blonde dropped Pat Huet and Bill Jamieson, 21-12 and 21-2. Ellis, a physical education instructor and student, beat Bill Beebe and Larry Mayol, 21-3 and 21-8.

Dunn, 26, said that York, from Brockton, Mass. and Blonde are very good and have been playing together for a long time.

Dunn, graduate intern in the office of recreation and intramurals, said that racquetball started about 10 to 15 years ago when someone became disenchanted with handball. Racquetball and handball have the same rules.

"In the last five years, it has become one of the most popular individual sports," he said. Dunn said there are several hundred players on campus and courses in the sport are offered in physical education.

Dunn said there are 12 courts located behind the tennis courts.

He also said that equipment can be checked out with a student I.D. card at the intramural office.

Because the sport is becoming popular throughout the country, there are many national tournaments. The National Singles Championship is held every spring in San Diego. There are three divisions, men, women and men over 35. The National Doubles Championship is held every fall in St. Louis.

This year the Professional Racquetball Association was formed. There are 20 players on tour in the United States.

There is also a National Intercollegiate Tournament held annually. It is more a club sport than an intercollegiate sport because the top four club members from university racquetball clubs throughout the country compete.

There is no club at SIU.

The mixed-doubles championship game will be held May 4 at 9:30 a.m. Ellis and Brenda Verrett will battle Dunn and Barbara Robinson.

Soccer team gets big win

In a rematch with the University of Evansville, the SIU International Soccer Club whipped the Purple Aces 10-3 in Evansville.

Bijan Varjani scored four first-half goals, teammate Ibor Ciszewyca added a pair and Afshin Pazani and Dave Pietz scored a goal apiece to give SIU an eight-goal output in the first half.

Pazani and Pietz each scored in the second period to complete the scoring for SIU. Ray Alyesh was in the nets to lead a strong SIU defensive effort.

The Club will host two games this week in McAndrew Stadium. They will play the 101st Airborne Division from Fort Campbell, Ky., in a 2 p.m. contest Saturday, and will face Blackburn College in a 2 p.m. game Sunday.

SIU netters to tackle Vols

The SIU tennis team will travel to Knoxville Friday to take on the University of Tennessee Volunteers. Earlier in the year the Vols defeated the Salukis 6-3, on the SIU courts.

Wayne Cowley, SIU's No. 2 singles player, will not make the trip, which includes a meet with Cincinnati and Middle Tennessee in Knoxville, on Saturday.

Cowley, a sophomore from Melbourne, Australia, has been bothered all season by "tennis elbow." Cowley, 6-9 for the year, missed the Oklahoma City Tournament earlier due to his elbow. Wayne played the No. 1 position last year, finishing up with a 12-11 record.

After this weekend's action, the Saluki netters will travel to Michigan, Monday, to take on the defending Big Ten tennis champions.

DID YOU KNOW

By Jim Simpson

Here's a tricky question...What uniform number did baseball great Ty Cobb wear during his career? Oddly enough, Cobb never had a number on his uniform in all the years he played in the big leagues. The reason was that Cobb retired in 1928 and the major leagues did not start putting numbers on their players until 1931. Thus many top stars of the past went through their whole careers without ever having a number on their uniforms.

Ever wonder what was the longest tennis match in history? The record was set in a doubles match in which Mark Cox and Bob Wilson defeated Charlie Pasarelli and Rom Holmberg at Salisbury, Md., in 1968 by the scores of 26-24, 17-19, 30-28. That match took six hours and 23 minutes to set the all-time official record.

'Itchy' sees tough series this weekend

"Illinois State is always a big series," Saluki baseball coach Richard "Itchy" Jones said of Friday and Saturday's three-game series in Normal.

"History shows there have been excellent games between our two schools and this year shouldn't be any different."

SIU, 31-5, will face the Redbirds in a nine-inning game starting at 3 p.m. Friday and again in a noon doubleheader Saturday. Illinois State's record went to 16-12 following a doubleheader split with Northern Illinois University Tuesday.

Jones said he will start Scott Waltemate (6-1) in Friday's game and would probably go with Jim Bokelmann (6-1) and Rob Klass (7-0) in Saturday's games. "But we want to win the games one at a time," Jones stressed. "So we wouldn't hesitate to bring in one of our starters in relief if we had to."

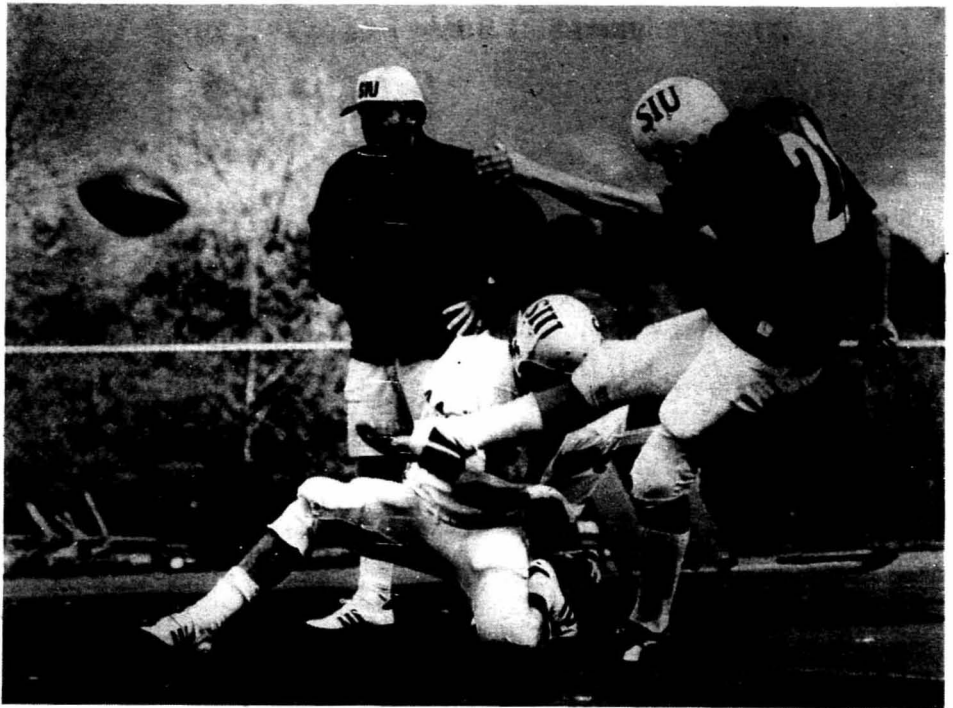

Led by a strong hitting outfield, Illinois State enters the series with a .281 team batting average. The Salukis' team average has moved up to .349, and the Saluki pitching staff has held opposing batters to a .198 mark.

Mark Wronkiewicz (2-0) will get his first start in nearly three weeks Friday since being stabbed in the arm in a fight outside his apartment. Bob Landrum (2-3) and Dave Opyd (5-3) will get the starting nods Saturday for Illinois State.

Although Jones has said he sees areas where the Salukis still need improving, he says the outlook is bright for a berth in the District IV playoffs to be held later this month.

"We're not exceptionally weak anywhere," Jones said. "But we're not at the point where we can be complacent. There's always room for improvement. But I'd have to say that things look real good for us in the Districts now."

The Salukis will return home to face Murray State in a 2 p.m. single game Sunday and then take on Eastern Illinois in a 1 p.m. doubleheader Tuesday.

Weaver divides team in preparation for Saturday's spring football game

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Head football coach Doug Weaver has divided his team into Maroon and White units for Saturday's spring football game, beginning at 10 a.m. in McAndrew Stadium.

Veteran quarterbacks Fred McAlley and Leonard Hopkins will run the White offense and sophomores Gary Mauser of Bellevue West and Chris Dillman of Herrin will direct the Maroons.

The White backfield also includes junior tailback John Dismuke, fullback Lawrence Boyd and senior flanker Pat Forsy of Nashville. Joining the two sophomore quarterbacks in the Maroon backfield will be fullback Gary Linton of Louisville, junior tailback Rick Lewis of Troy and sophomore flanker David Figuiera of Springfield Griffin.

"We'll make the game as real as possible," said Weaver, who is completing his first spring in the dual role of head football coach and athletic director. "The only thing different from a real game will be the absence of kickoffs."

The Salukis have benefited from ideal weather all spring, with only one day of practice stopped by rain. The spring drills have been equally free of injuries, with only two players, senior tackle Melvin Albrecht and linebacker Alan Fahrenhorst, expected to miss the game.

Sophomore kicker Ken Seaman of Hazelwood, Mo., will handle the placekicking chores for both teams, and Scott Ellis and John Rende will share the punting.

Other veteran players assigned to the White team include Bruce Puhr, Robert Habbe, Mark Courtois, Mark Hailey, Mark Cunningham, Craig Schutte, Mike Thompson, Tom Ippolite, Gary Powell and Aaron Byas.

Veterans on the Maroon unit include John Doherty, Harold Campbell, Seth Kirkpatrick, Valdwre Rodgers and Robert Dickey.

The game will be open, free of charge, to the public.

Gymnastic meet awarded to SIU

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The National Collegiate Athletic Association Thursday designated SIU as the site of the 1975 Eastern Independent Regional Gymnastic Championship Meet.

The meet, which includes independent teams and individual gymnasts east of the Mississippi River, will be conducted March 14 and 15, at the SIU Arena.

The top team, as well as the top three individuals in each event, qualify for the National Championships, at Indiana State, April 3-5.

Women gymnasts grab third in AAU championship meet

Although the SIU women's gymnastics team bettered the score that won them the National Collegiate Championships in April, the team's 217.95 total was only good enough for third place in the National AAU Championships in Billings, Mont.

There were individual bright spots, however, as Sandi Gross chalked up her season's highest score with a 72.50, good enough to give her the fifth berth on the U.S. national team to compete in West Germany in late August.

Dianne Grayson earned the alternate position on the U.S. team, as did Lynn Govin, who is training at SIU prior to her enrollment here this summer.

Poor scoring in all eight events kept Stephanie Stromer from contributing to the SIU team score, as she ran into problems in all four compulsory and four optional events.

Final team standings found the Manettes of Philadelphia in first place with a score of 221.50. Led by Olympian Joan Rice, the Manettes have five individual elite class qualifiers.

Southern Connecticut finished second with a 220.40 team score. Connecticut also has five elite class gymnasts and is led by Olympian Roxanne Pierce. Rice and Pierce share the No. 1 U.S. national ranking with a 9.45 event average.

SIU will host the 1974 Elite Championships May 30 and June 1 in the SIU Arena. The Salukis will have three elite class gymnasts in the meet.

Women's softball team defeats Logan, 37-11

By Kenneth Pilarski
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

With an awesome display of hitting power, the SIU women's softball second team pounded out 34 hits and coasted to an easy 37-11 win over John A. Logan Junior College Wednesday afternoon.

Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said, "The game was a good team effort; we played good defense as well as hitting."

Maggie Massa was the winning pitcher for SIU. Cheryl Fowler, Collen Logan and Nina Brown led the Salukiettes offense. Fowler and Logan had five hits each and Brown went three-for-six including a three-run homer. She also drove in five runs while scoring three.

Logan jumped on the scoreboard with six runs in the first inning. SIU responded with four runs of its own in the home half of the first.

Collen Logan opened the inning with a triple and scored on an overthrow at third. Marty Ferry and Fowler followed with singles, setting the stage for Brown's homerun.

The Salukiettes pushed across six more runs in the second inning, giving them the lead which they never relinquished. In the third inning SIU put the game away with another six-run scoring burst.

Ferry started the rally with a walk, moving to a second on a single by Fowler. Brown singled, driving in Ferry. Jo Greenhoe singled scoring Fowler. Jo Licata, Massa, Logan and Ferry again all singled, each driving in a run.

Logan never recovered from the onslaught as the Salukiettes added six runs in the fourth, five runs in the fifth and topped off the scoring with a 10-run sixth. Logan added two runs in the fifth inning and three in the sixth.

Marla Murphy and Debbie Korando were the leading hitters for Logan. Murphy went three-for-four including a three-run home-run in the first inning. Korando had a perfect day at the plate with four hits in four at-bats.

Both teams will be in action Saturday in Charleston for the start of the Southern Sectionals. The first team will tangle with Illinois Central and the Illinois State Redbirds. The second team will face Danville and IWU. On Monday, the second team will play John A. Logan again.
