"Dad" Elliot Advises Students in Daily Conferences This Week

A. J. "Dad" Elliot highlighted his three-day stay on the campus with his speech to the entire student body in chapel Tuesday morning on the subject "What You Are to Be, Not What You Want to Be." He emphasized the fact that ideals and habits built up during school days are not likely to change in later life, and he gave statistics to prove his point.

"Dad" Elliot spoke at the convocation of the student body in chapel Tuesday morning on the subject "What You Are to Be, Not What You Want to Be." He emphasized the fact that ideals and habits built up during school days are not likely to change in later life, and he gave statistics to prove his point.

From 9:00 A. M. to 4:00 P. M. on Wednesday, the discussion was on the necessary qualities for leadership and the attainment of the proper attitude. This discussion was followed by a series of questions and answers, the main question being: "What is the Christian's conception of God?"

Each discussion group was followed by even songs from 8:00 to 8:30 P. M. A breakfast was given at the cafeteria at seven o'clock Wednesday morning. "Dad" Elliot spoke to the college students of the youth of India and also on the problems of our own youth in the army camps.

Overnight the Indian youth, he said that they were bitter because the Americans were trying to inculcate in them the idea of democracy which the Americans themselves didn't even know the roots or foundations of.

TURKEY DAY—1944

With a scarcity of turkey most of us will be sitting down to a chicken dinner this third war-time Thanksgiving Day. The chicken will probably taste pretty good, however, since we know where our gobblers have gone. This year, like 1943, the Thanksgiving bird has gone to war. And C. I. Joe and Jane in every corner of the world will forget K rations and dig into a big fat turkey plus all the trimmings.

This huge job of supplying the members of our armed forces with traditional Thanksgiving dinners was undertaken last January by the Army Quartermaster Corps, and for months plans have been made to transport turkeys from this country to raise a fighting-man's appetite.

The pilgrims gave us this celebrated holiday way back in 1621, when an idea was conceived that thanks should be given to God for allowing them to last through the long year and to have such a bountiful harvest. We, like our forefathers, should be thankful not only for our great food supply, but also for our splendid progress in the last year of war. We've come a long way since Thanksgiving 1943, and we should pray as we've never prayed before that our strength will be doubled; and when Thanksgiving 1946 comes around, all the chairs around the table will be filled in America's homes.

WAR CHALLENGES EDUCATORS

(Editorial)

A major loss to the nation as a result of this war is anticipated in the matter of casualties to talented leaders and scholars. There is no question about the fact that when the war ends we will feel the loss of distinguished teachers, research experts, authors, and technicians through death on the battlefield, and incapacity incurred in service. From an educational standpoint those who are leaving their specialized careers for other employment during war time are casualties as well. England and France had suffered tremendous losses of leaders when they emerged from the last World War, and these losses have been felt severely ever since. The United States is now suffering such losses.

In a session of the Post-War Higher Education conference held in Chicago last week, Dean H. M. Gray of the Graduate School of the University of Illinois brought out the seriousness of this problem and emphasized the great need for colleges to search out and develop talent for work in highly specialized intellectual fields. It was conceded that many of the leaders who will be lost are irreplaceable, but it is the task of the colleges to do what they can in alleviating the shortage of trained specialists.

This point was seconded by Fred J. Kelly, chief of the Division of Higher Education, United States Office of Education, who added that an important phase of this problem will be the re-routing of trained veterans into their original fields of study.

This responsibility will rest on the veteran guidance programs as set up in the various colleges which will require especially capable and alert guidance experts to do the job well.

BOARD OF PUBLICATIONS

I. The Board of Publications shall consist of five members: the chairman of the Student Council as chairman of the Board; two other students, either juniors or seniors, each with at least one full year's college journalism experience, selected by the Council; and two faculty members appointed by the Administration. The student members shall serve from the time of their selection by the Council until they are no longer undergraduates, in good standing. The faculty members shall serve at the pleasure of the Administration. No student receiving pay for work done for the publications shall at the same time serve on the Board.

II. The function of the Board shall be to meet regularly at least once a month with the editors and certain staff members of the campus publications to determine the policy and conduct of the publications. The chairman of the Board shall have power to call meetings more frequently if necessary.

III. No individual members of the Board shall have any powers whatsoever over the editors and their staffs, the Board's decisions taking effect only after a formal majority vote. The editors and business managers may, however, request advice from members of the Board at any time.

IV. All complaints about campus publications shall be addressed to the chairman of the Board, who will submit them to the Board members for possible discussion and action.

V. The Board shall constantly bear in mind that the campus publications represent the University as a whole and shall discourage any practices that set one group or faction against another or allow any one group or faction to dominate.

VI. The Board shall have power to insure that all students interested in journalism are given definite opportunities to try out for positions on the staffs. Each spring the Board shall select editors and business managers from a field including candidates suggested by the Student Council, the outgoing editors and business managers, the sponsors, and other interested persons or groups. Any member of these groups may appear before the Board in support of particular candidates. The Board shall also have power to drop at any time any editor or business manager guilty of neglect of duty or misuse of office.

The Board of Publications, as drawn up by this Committee, was voted upon by the Student Council and approved by the administration.

CIGARETTE SHORTAGE?

TOWN CRYER

By KOONTZ and CLARK

GOVERNATORIALS TAKE A REVERSE

A six-year trend was reversed in the nation's gubernatorial races on election day. It was expected that the finals would bring in 26 Republicans and 22 Democratic state house occupants, but instead, when the voting was brought to a halt, the results showed the above proportions to be reversed, and the outcome was 26 Democrats and 22 Republicans.

Those states which shifted from G. O. P. to DEM. were Idaho, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Ohio, and Washington. Only one of the states shifted from DEM. to G. O. P., North Dakota. It is interesting to note that a Mr. Mon C. Walker, head of the State University in Washington state.

AFTER THE BALL IS OVER

Now that our home front battle has ended, people are slowly rapidly turning back to the war, and with new enthusiasm John Q. is looking forward to winning the war soon. Official statements from Washington seem underlined in bold type the enthusiasm of the fighting, the necessity of bringing World War II to the finish line. Some good indications that the new public and government attitude may be bringing good results are the facts that business Washington, which is hailed for winning the war, are thinking more along parallel lines than ever, stock prices are being slowly canned and governmental slackened, and rationing restrictions preparing to turn on the war again. Now to the question of P.D.I. spirit somewhat, and the public seems to be just now getting on its toes again.

HOME FRONT'S EFFECT ON WAR

And, while the above war-trend is taking place, "the" is pushing forward with all the strength and might of the fighting Yanks in the European theatre, but there's counterpart of morale, supplies, will be the key to his success just as the Allies' morale is the key to theirs. With the slackening in the people's vigor to turn out the materials that will sink enemy submarines, slow to buy the equipment, slow, clear the way to Berlin, there also comes a slackening in the Allied fight all over the world, and the Allies' morale is being slowly stung responsible for such deaths and casualties that all the lists in our War Department's casualty department.

TIME'S TIP ON TRUMAN

Readers of Time need only to turn to this week's Time to find the attitude that that magazine has toward Mr. Truman, the president of the United States. Those don't consider Truman, his past and his future; they feel that Truman is not quite sincere about his political career. The true character of

Truman may be shown by his relationship to the fellow he will replace in office, Vice President Wallace, nominated as the "Laird of Our Time."

Truman said that Wallace represented "democracy to all the world," that his "entire energies are enlisted in the cause of progress," and called him as the greatest Secretary of Agriculture the United States has ever had, but Truman did not mention Wallace's career as vice president of the United States and was merely to have the same strained feeling toward Missouri's committee, referring to him directly only once, then merely struck his back down that "Neither Truman or Roosevelt is a Reactionary Democrat." It shouldn't be very difficult to see who is being pushed around.

PRELUDE TO THE

English and Canadian forces in Holland are fighting and winning one of the war's most important battles, but it will certainly rank as one of the decisive steps toward Allied victory.

There has been really not much of their efforts on Antwerp. Soon supplies for the invading Allies will be streaming through this great port. There it can safely be predicted that the really big picture will comprise the entry of one of the world's great harbors and ports. National inland watersways are supplemented by a system of canals. These will be the greatest Allied rail transportation in liberated France and Holland will soon be spending material almost to the track from Antwerp's 35 miles of docks.

BLOOD SHORTAGE IS BECOMING SERIOUS

The Army newspaper, Stars and Stripes, stated that "there just isn't enough blood being given by the folks back home" for the blood bank in the European theater of operations.

Under the editorial, headed "It Takes Blood to Win the War," appeared a picture of British girls donating blood with the caption: "Back to his traditional role, the fighting blood donor reports that blood shipments from the United States are dropping."

"For the lack of that blood—some suffering G. I.—many a soldier's life is being given," the editorial stated.

"Oh, what fools we mortals be!" can easily be applied to our "white-brother" congressmen, who add (with sarcasm) who passed a bill that had contents which they thought would change Thanksgiving back to its traditional date. However, the wording was that "Thanksgiving would be the fourth Friday of November." AND KITCHEN TO DIRT. BROS. THEIR'S AMAZEMENT, IT WAS DISCOVERED THAT THERE ARE FIVE THIRSDAYS THIS YEAR IN NOVEMBER.

DOUBLE FEATURES

By JEAN CLARK

The Juan household at 1300 South Thompson is quite on its toes these days and the atmosphere is electric and undeniably rate-setting. Nine fellows from Southern, with their caps and book bags, are making their fall debut of the noise, are Southerners two sets of twins and James M. Gies, and their counterparts are twins.

James and Jamie were playmates and companions when children, and they still hold that close relationship as twin brothers. The teacher was never the wiser, and Bob was marked absent that whole week. We just laugh about it.

After some difficulty, the twins settled themselves long enough for an interview. They were exceedingly witty and their answers were quick, full of fun, and sometimes laughable.

James (Helen McGe, a junior), is a sociology major, and Jamie (P.E. Holds taking an active part in all sports. Bob is a member of the Student Council, the P.T.A., and the Theta Chi. Chris Hise, a freshman from Harrisburg, plans to major in art and minor in history and government. He is a member of the Phi Kappa Phi and doesn't participate, spending all his spare moments with his painting and sketching. # MUSICANA

By NORMA MARTIN

President Roosevelt recently sent a telegram to Petrillo, head of the American Federation of Musicians, requesting that he call off the dogs on the "radio strike." Petrillo's refusal to comply displeased the president, and he decided to make a legal study to determine whether there is any way to make the music president remove the ban. Roosevelt pointed out that he has a right to be a dictator in the case of Petrillo.

A ruling by Economic Stabilization Director Vinson states that the dispute is not impeding the war effort and Petrillo cannot be forced to repeal his recording ban.

CLASSICS
November 15th brings us the fifth in the Beethoven Festival. The League Orchestra No. 42 in a Major, Opus 92 will be performed under the inspired baton of Arturo Toscanini.

Leonore Overture No. 2 is the first of the four which Beethoven wrote for the opera, Fidelio. It opens with a slow, melodious introduction followed by a fast movement.

Beethoven's Seventh Symphony is a complete artistic achievement. Rhythm and dynamic contrast are his most characteristic contributions. A single melodic figure drives relentlessly onward through every type of harmonic, melodic, and orchestral variant.

NEW COURSES TO BE OFFERED WINTER TERM

PHYSICS
The aviation course Physics 350, as given this fall term, has been changed in number to Physics 240. From now on, Physics 350 will be given in the summer terms and at such other times when there is a demand for it. The area of Physics 350 is to prepare elementary and junior high school teachers to meet the needs of their air-minded pupils, and to make use of this interest to promote related subjects.

Physics 240 will be offered again this winter term. This course should prepare senior high school teachers to teach aerodynamics, and afford students interested in flying basic principles for this work. Any student should be able to pass Ground School instructors' examinations at the end of the course. If he so desires, the course covers Navigation, principally. Both these courses, Physics 350 and Physics 240, meet graduation requirements in the physical science division, and they are on a par. Insofar as requirements are concerned with all other courses. A student should choose either 250 or 240 and stay with one of these courses toward graduation.

It is desirable that any student taking either of these courses should have had or be taking Mathematics for a certain subject, as well as a basic science for preparation of teachers in both elementary and secondary schools cannot be over-emphasized. Military jobs are required to learn certain aspects of it.

SOUTHERN CLOSES SEASON WITH IMPRESSIVE RECORD

Cancellation of the Cape Girardeau Southern football game, which was to be played this afternoon, ended the Maroons' grid season prematurely with a record of three wins and three losses.

Despite the fact that Southern's season this season consisted almost entirely of 17-year-olds with only high school grid experience, they were able to hold their own with veteran studied conference teams, losing only to DeKalb in the championship game, and were able to give off many teams they played a good fight.

TWENTY MEN LETTER FOR FOOTBALL '44

Coach Glenn "Abe" Martin stated yesterday in an interview that his 1944 team had done extremely well this year and that it had shown the most improvement of any team he had ever coached, adding that he had coached several championship teams.

Southern's team this year was small and was built around only one returning letterman, Harvey Tweedy. The Maroons showed good team work throughout the season and the boys had a good spirit, some never missing a single practice session.

WAVES Solve Jig-Saw Puzzle to Aid Navy's Fighting Men

These WAVES are working on a jig-saw puzzle—the most important jig-saw puzzle imaginable. On duty at the Navy Hydrographic Office, they are helping construct a chart by use of aerial photographs. In its finished form the chart will guide the Navy's fighting men in operations in the Pacific zone. In existence two years, there's still a need in the WAVES for thousands of patriotic young women 20 to 26 who, children under 18—whose starting pay, counting food and quarters, will be $341.50 a month, plus many "extras" and post-war advantages.

SOUTHERN BAPTISTS AND POLITICAL ACTION

Probably the Southern Baptists are the most active politically in status politics of any religious group in this country.

Dr. James T. Shotwell, chairman of the Commission to Study the Status of the Peace Treaty, said in a speech at the meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention in Dallas, Texas, last week that the organization of the Peace Treaty is well known by American historians who have studied the anti-slavery movement in the 19th century.

The Dead Live In SINU Morgue

High upon the third floor of Parkinson Laboratory is one of the most interesting parts of the college. This museum deals mainly with facts concerning the history of this state, but the majority of the objects are of national interest as well.

Beautifully polished wood carvings of the working man line the sides of the entrance. Also nearby the entrance is a case containing originals of letters written by men who have gone down in history. Among these are: Henry W. Louis (Yellow Oliver W. Holmes, Joseph Merrill, Henry Clay, and Stephen A. Douglas). A mummy contract written in 1947 was signed by Art Carson.
