Grad Council asks cut in Trustee staff

The Graduate Council voted Thursday to present a resolution to the Ad Hoc SIU Structure and Governance Review Committee of the Graduate Council

The ad hoc committee suggested sending the case for consideration of the present system, with modification, and a case for the establishment of a single-system executive.

The case states that the present system could function better for SIUC if the general secretary acted more as a facilitator of communications between the campus presidents rather than as a general secretary.

While pointing out that the present system of governance deals with conflicts between the two campuses, the case states that changing the general secretary's role could improve the system.

A majority of the ad hoc committee, said Thursday the case for a single-executive system could be accomplished within the current fiscal 1979 budget and that it has been found to be the most effective of the system for multi-institutional systems, such as SIU. It cites the University of Alabama, the University of Colorado, the University of Illinois, the University of Missouri and the University of Nebraska.

Among members of the Graduate Council, 13 voted for the modified system, with 2 votes against and four abstained.

City awarded $2.071 million grant

By Pam Bailey
Staff Writer

A $2.071 million federal grant—$925,000 less than was requested by the city—was awarded to Carbondale Thursday morning to revitalize its sagging downtown business district.

City officials were hoping to receive $3 million in Urban Development Action Grant funds to clear two blocks on South Illinois Avenue and construct a convention center, m-tor hotel, parking garage, city hall and library. However, Carbondale was one of 200 cities applying for UDAG funds and the Department of Housing and Urban Development had only $105 million to distribute. Of the 200 applicants, 44 cities were awarded grants.

In addition, HUD officials gave preference to programs which had a high degree of private-sector involvement. Spokesmen for U.S. step. Paul Simon said the city's grant request was slashed to raise the ratio of private investment money to grant money from a 32.86-to-1 ratio to better than 6-to-1.

"The fact we were awarded the grant at all is a compliment to those who worked so hard for it," City Manager Carroll Fry said. As a result of the funding slash, Fry said the plans to construct a new city hall and library "will have to be scrapped, at least for now. I have no knowledge of any other resources to draw on at this time.”

Under the revised plan, the city will use the federal funds to purchase and clear 32,500 square feet of land on the block bounded by University and South Illinois avenues and Walnut and Monroe streets. On this land, Stan Hoye, general manager of Carbondale's Holiday Inn and the private developer of the project, will construct a 2,000-seat convention center and 250-room motor hotel.

In addition, a 375-space parking garage—which will also include 11,000 feet of retail space on its ground floor—will be built on the east side of South Illinois Avenue between Walnut and Elm streets. Although Hoye will also finance and own the parking garage structure will initially be funded by the city. Donald Monte, assistant city manager for community development, said the city will sell about $2 million in municipal bonds to pay for construction of the building. But Hoye will repay the city when the garage begins to bring in revenue.

If for some reason Hoye's plans fail through the city, he is not able to fund the projects, the City Council has guaranteed that it will provide financial backing for a revitalization project. Hoye's total investment in the revitalization project is estimated to eventually reach around $10 million.

HUD officials say the convention center and hotel and parking garage will create 115 new permanent jobs and 75 temporary construction jobs, as well as increase the tax base by more than $800,000 over a 10-year period.

Results may remain secret

The Board of Trustees has completed its annual evaluation of President Warren Brandt but the results may not be made known to the public, according to Harris Rowe, board chairman.

"The results are confidential and not necessarily open to the public," Rowe said of the board's evaluations, which include Kenneth Shaw, president of the Edwardsville campus, and General Secretary James Brown.

Brown said the evaluations are done in a private session. Each of the three executive officers submits a statement of goals to the board, he said. Trustee Margret Blackshire said the board looks at the goals the executive officers have achieved and what each plans for the future.

"The Board’s action on Brandt’s evaluation was done in an executive session before the October board meeting," Rowe said.

Board policy requires both the presidents and the general secretary to submit an evaluation of the board members at the beginning of each year.

Every five years the three executives undergo a more intensive performance evaluation, Rowe said. But the annual review, Rowe said, "is not intended to be as thorough as the five-year evaluation.”

Rowe said the evaluations are done in one executive session before board meetings. He said Brown's record will be reviewed in a private session before the next meeting Nov. 9 in Carbondale. Brandt declined to release the goals he submitted to the board.

Blackshire said the board had not reached a decision on the release of the evaluations. Student Trustee Kevin Wright said Wednesday that he was not aware that the evaluations were being made.

A board policy requires all student trustees to participate in the discussion of the evaluations. However, Wright said later that he had been involved with the review but did not want to release any information could be released.
Carter, Reagan plan visits to Illinois

By Marc Fields

Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) - Al Gore, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, and John J. Democratic National Committee chairman, are preparing to campaign in Illinois this week.

The state, with its 18 electoral votes, is considered a sure Democratic hold but is of great importance to the Democrats if they are to pull off a victory in the November election. Gore will travel to Chicago on Tuesday, where he will be joined by Illinois Gov. James R. Thompson (D) and other state politicians.

The visit comes as the campaign has intensified in recent days, with both candidates stepping up their efforts in key battleground states. Gore's visit to Illinois is seen as an attempt to secure the state's votes and maintain momentum heading into the final stretch of the campaign.

Rhodesian warplanes bomb Zambian camp

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) - Rhodesian warplanes, defying British efforts to negotiate a cease-fire, staged a lightning bombing run Thursday on a black nationalist position outside this capital city, reportedly inflicting at least 100 casualties.

The target this time was a black Rhodesian guerrilla camp. The Rhodesians, who were seeking to disrupt a Black Nationalist rally, promised to be a refugee children's camp, but at least one independent source disputed this.

It was the Rhodesians' first cross-border raid in a week. Rhodesian warplanes also attacked a dozen black guerrilla camps two weeks ago, killing a reported 100 guerrillas. The raiders apparently were using fortified ground-to-air missiles, radar sensors and anti-aircraft batteries.

Cosmonauts complete historic record flight

MOSCOW (AP) - Cosmonauts Vladimir Kovalenok and Alexander Lazarev, on their way to the steps of Britain's Nervus satellite, enjoyed a record breaking flight of 54 days, 12 hours, on August 22. The two cosmonauts broke the record by five days.

The new record also establishes the world record for the longest flight in space, which had stood as a record since 1971 by astronauts Gerard A. Edwards, Edward Gibson and William Pogue aboard Apollo 15.

A television announcer said "the men feel wonderful," after they landed. They were ferried by helicopter to the Baikonur Cosmodrome.

Kovalenok, 34, and Ivanchenkov, 30, said they were looking forward to the return to Earth, which is Friday. The government has established a "humanitarian" agreement for the men to fly back to the United States.

S-Senate puts pot question to students

By Cindy Michaelson

The two bills have shown an "undeniable interest" in the decriminalization of marijuana, said Stockton. Governor would ask the question to a vote of the student body, said West Senate President Dan Saal.

The Senate on Thursday night passed a resolution on the issue, 14 to 0 with two abstentions.

The question, "Do you favor the decriminalization of marijuana?" Stockton, Governor, would like to receive a general consensus on the issue. If the question receives a large majority favoring decriminalization, he would like to petition the Garrison City government to put a home-rule proposal to the city-wide ballot. Saal said.

Under the act, a student arrested for possession of small amounts of marijuana would receive a fine similar to a traffic offense, Saal explained.

The question also heard a report from Reine Skyzycough, undergraduate representative to the Bicycle and Safety Commission.

Skyzycough asked the Senate for approval to designate bicycle paths on campus.

"Because bicycle riders usually don't use the green path that we have, we felt some alternative was needed," Lockwood said. "We would like to clear some up and possibly reduce accidents with pedestrians." Skyzycough said.

Under the plan, yellow lines would be painted on the major sidewalks on campus and signs designating paths would be posted.

The total cost of the project would be $2,500 and it would cost $6,000 for Motor Vehicle and Parking Fund, Skyzycough said.

The Senate approved the plan to a traffic petition against Student President Garrison-Clinton Matthews which he had drawn up.

Matthews, author of the articles, said she would not be present because only 14 senators were present to vote.

Of the 31 available senate seats, 22 are presently filled. At the beginning of the meeting, 17 senators answered the call. The impeachment proceeding, 5 were without vote and the other 4 were absent.

Fifteen votes are needed to ratify the articles.

Land-sale suit against city dismissed

By Pam Bailey
Staff Writer

City Attorney John Womick responded Thursday in a suit to revoke developer's leases at the present time. Womick said that Marquard didn't live in Carbondale at the time the land sale and concluding negotiations occurred.

The second hearing was granted to the developer, who is in the process of purchasing rental property on West Street. He said only 250 feet from the site of the proposed complex.

Marquard's original suit was dismissed last month because the judge ruled that the use of a case such as this must be a resident as well as a taxpayer of Carbondale or in order to have legal standing to sue. Marquard moved out of Carbondale several years ago.

However, William Broom, III, the landlord's attorney, requested a rehearing after he learned that Marquard paid to the city limits two days before the judge dismissed the case.

City Attorney John Womick responded Thursday in a suit to revoke developer's leases at the present time. Womick said that Marquard didn't live in Carbondale at the time the land sale and concluding negotiations occurred.

The court feels that when Mr. Marquard moved out of town he lost his standing," Womick said. "I don't believe we can play a game of musical chairs when this is a last chance."

However, Broom is not giving up. He has already appealed two of the cases to the appellate court and he says he is seriously considering appealing the third case. Womick predicted that it could take anywhere from six months to two years before the case is heard.

City officials have been embroiled in legal issues since the project since June. Under current lease provisions, Carbondale developer Charles Gons and UMC Securities Inc. of Kennewick were contracted to build the entire office complex.

However, the legal challenges by three local landlords, who claim that the developer "special damages" to the property lies in the hands of Marquard.

Broom is objecting to the ruling because he was not given enough time to prepare his case. The normal court procedure, the developer's attorney to have 10 days notice before setting a hearing date. Broom said.

County deputy grievance hearing postponed

By Deb Browne
Staff Writer

A grievance hearing on a Jackson County deputy's claim that he was unjustly disciplined could not begin Tuesday night because two Merit Commission members were not present.

"This is the first time it's happened to us," said Elsa Branly, chair of the three-member commission, which oversees hiring, firing and disciplinary actions and compensations and fringe benefits for the sheriff's staff.

According to Branly, commission secretary Charles Helwig was in Metropolis visiting an aunt who was ill while another member Robert Chapman was not.

"They had a couple weeks notice," he said. At the commission's Oct. 4 meeting, it read the grievance correspondence and set the hearing date. Helwig said Wednesday afternoon.

Lyn Trella, the 23-year-old deputy who brought the grievance and the only remaining on the sheriff's staff said, "I just wanted to get this over with."

She could not be reached by letter on Sept. 6 that she was being suspended without pay for the next five days. The basis for the suspension involved Trella's calling in sick twice, according to the letter.

On Aug. 20, Trella notified the office at 7 a.m. that she would not be at work until the next day. In his letter, White said he had seen Trella socializing at a local restaurant before she told him she would be at work the next day.

Two weeks later, Trella called the office about 12 hours before she was to come to work, saying she was ill. White noted in the letter that he was aware she had relatives coming for the weekend and had planned an outing at Kinkaid Lake.

In the letter, White quoted a section of the Merit Commission personnel matters section and wrote, "The particular sentence, 'Such report of illness preventing work shall be made at least three hours prior to reporting time,' applies for this suspension."

White said in his letter, "I fail to see any grounds for this." When reached by phone, the same day, Bost said she would not be at work until the next day.

Under receiving the letter, Trella immediately notified the Merit Commission, which instructed her to write the grievance procedures writer to write a letter to White asking him to reconsider the discipline. A date was set to reconvene.

Trella estimated that the suspension cost her $270. If the Merit Commission rules in her favor, it can rule to dismiss or eliminate it completely from her record and reimburse her for lost pay and lawyers fees. Trella's attorney is Charles Grace of Carbondale.

The case was rescheduled for a later date, but was not set.

Bost said Thursday that the Friday date was postponed because all the parties could not have been present. She said Thursday that the hearing date will be on Monday.

Trella was hired in April 1977. She had worked in the business before she joined the sheriff's office and was promoted to the position of correspontent in 1976.

The sheriff is a major, she said, although the commission has to pay the sheriff's office for services.

George Crissman, director of the bureau of personnel in the sheriff's office, said the office is authorized to pay for personnel services to a number of deputies.

The formal grievance involves a suspension of fewer than 30 days.

Trella's grievance was filed in 1974 by the county board, which appointed the members. The commission is composed of two administrative office personnel and two elected deputies, according to the sheriff's office.

Let's make our legislators do their homework

It's that time of year again: Extension season, and once again, it is the time of year that students will be looking forward to. Thanksgiving vacations are upon us, and typically, this is the time when students will be returning home to spend time with their families and enjoy the holiday season. However, for many, this is also a time of year where they may feel overwhelmed by the prospect of returning home, especially if they are away from home for the first time.

In addition to the usual stresses of the holiday season, many students may also be facing financial pressures. According to a survey conducted by the National Society of Student Affairs, nearly half of all students report being unable to afford basic necessities, such as food and housing.

The survey also found that many students are struggling to balance their academic and social lives. In fact, nearly two-thirds of all students report feeling overwhelmed by the demands of college, and many report feeling isolated and disconnected from their peers.

While the holiday season can be a time of joy and celebration, it can also be a time of stress and anxiety. However, by taking steps to manage your stress, you can make the holiday season a time of relaxation and enjoyment. Here are some tips to help you manage your stress during the holiday season:

1. Set realistic expectations: It's easy to get caught up in the holiday hype and feel like you need to do everything. However, by setting realistic expectations, you can avoid feeling overwhelmed.

2. Prioritize self-care: Make sure to take care of yourself during the holiday season. This means getting enough sleep, eating healthy foods, and taking breaks when you need them.

3. Stay connected: It's important to stay connected with your friends and family during the holiday season. This can include making time for phone calls, video chats, or writing letters.

4. Practice mindfulness: Mindfulness is a technique that can help you stay present and focused on the present moment. This can be especially helpful during the holiday season, when there are so many distractions and things to do.

5. Seek support: If you're feeling overwhelmed, don't be afraid to seek support from friends, family, or professionals. There are many resources available to help you manage your stress during the holiday season.

Remember, the holiday season is a time to celebrate, but it's also a time to take care of yourself. By following these tips, you can make the holiday season a time of relaxation and enjoyment.

Dick Gregory article showed prejudicial style

The Daily Egyptian never ceases to amaze me. One would think a self-sufficient student-run college newspaper in a top communications department would use journalism to a better degree than the DE does.

All summer session and now fall session I have read articles printed by the DE pertaining to black usage of English and pop culture and each was biased and incorrect in one or more aspects.

And of course, the Dick Gregory article written by a staff writer last spring was quite the usual prejudicial style of the DE.

I found the word “nigger” incessantly and using only the material detrimental to blacks in Gregory’s lecture as though the event never took place.

Although “more humor than lecture” to the writer, Dick Gregory stressed throughout his lecture that regardless of who you are or what color you are, the time is here for all people, especially young people, to begin action in order to stop America’s overwhelming corruption and begin a new and better way of life.

Perhaps if the writer would have listened to all of Gregory’s lecture and not picked out the choicest words to make more important the ones that led to thought, then the Dick Gregory story would have been a success instead of a failure.

Hit-and-run accident damps Homecoming weekend

It all started out as a pleasant Homecoming weekend. Friends had come in from home for the festivities, and I was looking forward to a nice time. I made arrangements to borrow a friend’s car for the day, and when I planned it was given my guests a tour of our campus. We chose to drive along the road between the physical maintenance plant and the stadium. We were just looking at the space in Meisner Stadium before the football game. This is when the tragedy occurred.

A man on a bicycle was traveling along Highway 51 at a reckless high speed, came a brown Ford sedan displacing Illinois plates and occupying my path. I braked as the danger I realized my speed to a stop. While swerving as far to the right as possible, the car suddenly made a sudden approach causing me to lose control of the car.

The result was inevitable. The brown car struck my friend’s gray, 1973 2-door Buick Riviera on the left side of the car. To my astonishment, the brown car continued on its way. Acting quickly, I immediately attempted to ascertain his license plate number. Antered by the reference to the police department of my car, I carefully but quickly turned the car around in an effort to pursue him. My efforts were in vain. The attacker vanished around the corner on to Lincoln Drive as quickly as he had appeared. I realized that changing the car’s destination was the last thing I had already been done. It would have a high speed chase. Disgruntled, I brought my car to a rest to assess the damage. The car had obviously been swiped.

More authority with Senate necessary from Rouleau

I am a concerned student, familiar with the Student Government past’s activities and acquainted with some of the Student Senators.

I attended the Student Senate meeting on Wednesday, and left disappointed; not so much because of the actions of the Senatorial conduct. I do not here intend to toss another “cheap shot” at Student Government. My criticism is wholly constructive; Mark Roseni, please display more authoritative leadership while carrying out the current duties. I believe the Senate should be wary of parliamentary procedure while in session, and the absence of a Senator to your position warrants and are therefore under stress. However, the Senate is in need of responsible guidance.

To that end, exercise the authority granted you as continuing Senator. Funding a Senate officer, or the Senate itself, funding a Senate officer. A Senate procedure itself demands an adherence to the subject of interest of floor debate. This can be carried out by summarizing comments, and sometimes interrupting or cutting off a speaker who has the floor. Examples of unnecessary comment at Wednesday’s meeting are numerous. A comment by a non-SIU student was heard, along with references to the Senate as being little more than a bad joke to Mr. Matthews, and your duty. Any general comment, as that provided by the non-SIU student, should be conversed by the board.

Secondly, I believe Mr. Matthews with his duties is not a responsibility of the Senate, nor is it important when coming up from a long Sunday break. As far as I realize that in quasi-committee, the floor is open for discussion, but irrelevant remarks must be avoided if there is any hope of reaching a discussion.

In fact, my recommendation in that I leave the Senate, by acting on one order of business at a time and keeping discussion pertinent to that one order. In other words, if I were watching a Senate proceedings, the Senate leadership and effective meetings will continue to be your challenge.

Society needs help adjusting to people in wheelchairs

While entering the SIU Arena for the Bob Dylan concert, I was met with a shocking but close to numerous after an encounter with a middle-aged female who was seen with a walker, a roll-in chair, and two pairs of cleats. Not only that, but the woman also held a large suitcase. The woman was seen riding a wheelchair.

I took my tickets, ripped the back of my ticket, and was going to sit there and proceed to the main floor despite her efforts to stop me.

I was fortunate enough to have a roommate couple along with the majority of the crowd, I had to laugh at the woman’s sudden change of attitude. It made me laugh that the woman was in a wheelchair and I am in that at least as good health as she.

While appreciating my advantages and strength over perhaps a cerebral palsy victim with a tendency to anger I have had to learn to live with, being trapped inside the balcony, it dawned on me that anyone such as this woman, may have deprived of them witnessing the legendary Bob Dylan and his own blues harp into the crowd—only one of Dylan’s charismatic actions moderated by those faced elsewhere regardless of the tickets that they held. Maybe, hopefully, there were none but the more possibilities offered a hopelessness and dim lights, due to the social adjustment of such matters.

Hearing someone with less than one year in a wheelchair myself, after severing spinal cord, it’s easier for me to see them when I tell a person who has participated in the ignorance and stigmatization views from so many others. True, this woman is an exception today, but I’m sure there are many. Your numerous others have affected wheelchair persons equipped with more skill.

I saw this woman’s attitude as most unusual but there are many wheelchair persons who have had to literally grow up under such treatment. People wonder how bitterness develops? Bitterness is a condition that is learned through experiences with people focusing on a wheelchair rather than a fellow citizen traveling in their own individual manner.

I agree with Ms. Gubser’s article. I have learned and seen that people with cerebral palsy need to have people focusing on a wheelchair rather than a fellow citizen traveling in their own individual manner.

Lentz sugar is bug-free

Last night (Nov. 1) as I was walking home from the Arena. I happened to pass Lentz Food Service only to see two boxes flushed with a logo that I thought the building was on fire, but upon further investigation, I found out that it was the Lentz’s new packaging in an insecticide or disinfectant in such great quantities that it was impossible to see more than 30 feet past the window.

Perhaps this wouldn’t have been so terrible if it was anything but the fact that no one had bothered to remove the salt, sugar or pepper from the table. Anyway, I just thought the residents of Thompson Point would be glad to know their housemates have to worry about finding insects in these boxes.

Thanks to all participants for Lentz Halloween

On Tuesday, October 27, a Halloween Dinner and Costume Contest was held at Lentz Hall on Thompson Point. The event was sponsored by the Thompson Point Social and Recreational Activities Council (SPARC). As vice-president, we want to take this opportunity to say “thanks!” to everyone who helped to make the activity the tremendous success that it was.

The dinner, which took place in the beautifully decorated cafeteria, and underwent the nearly-impossible task of choosing costume winners.

Thompson Point Halloween activities put smiles on everyone’s face and after, all, isn’t reaching the food court what we’re all here for? Again, thanks everybody!

Dancers have ‘affair’ with movement

By Kate Wall
Staff Writer

There is an affair with movement. It’s a quiet affair that moves quietly down the illuminated stage with twists, turns and ever so slightly swaying.

They’re members of the Southern Illinois University Dance Theater and they’re rehearsing for this weekend’s show, "Merrily We Roll Along." There are 12 members in the company, which rehearses two nights a week under the direction of Linda Kotalik.

It’s her job to assist in the individuals’ creative endeavors. Some people have a misconception of who dancers are. "Most people think dancers are free and easy people, but they’re not at all. They only have the ability to look casual and free by using their talents."

Jeff Gurley, one of two men in the company said, "Dancers are very shy individuals. They use their bodies well, but they aren’t vocal."

Kotalik agreed, "Dancing is a silent language. Dancers can speak loud without making noise."

"Dance appears as a foreign language to casual observers. But if they observe long enough, they find that it’s not so strange and they begin to relate to it."

The studio choreographed pieces range from light pieces to somber ones.

A fun piece called "Dance" explores just techniques. Another piece, "I Can Write," is an interpretation of a poem dealing with a woman’s resolution of her experience with a man.

It requires motivation and discipline for dancers to learn and refine their techniques. Frattinio isn’t unconcerned. "If you practiced 30 days, you’d be lucky if five of these days were good ones."

Band jazziess, rocks, mellows blues

Patrick Hazel and the Mother Blues Band will be playing Midwestern blues this Friday and Saturday at Hanging 8.

Billed as a tour's hand, the group plays the blues in every way imaginable—they rock it, boogie it, jazz it up, and sling it down.

Their show includes everything from prime acoustic to electrified soul, from the long piano of the 1960s and 70s to the improvisations of contemporary jazz.

The variety of instruments played by the members attests to their watered blues sounds. Pat Hazel, the group's founder and manager, plays the blues, and a chronicle harmonica, a Yamasita electric grand piano, marimba, and saxophone by Joe Furer, also a vocalist, plays rhythm, slide and natural hoot.

Frisbee songs and plays electric and double bass. Dave Ives is on drums and Dan Magrelli plays sax.

Mother Blues formed in Iowa City, Iowa in 1967. They've played at a region from Minneapolis to Columbia, Missouri and from Des Moines to Milwaukee.

The music is basic blues with songs by Chuck Berry, Willie Dixon, Count Basie, Jonny Reed, and Moony Waters, as well as many originals.

Their blues boogie style is meant especially for the crowds who want to dance. As Hazel said, "The dancing aspect of the music is real important—not everyone can play an instrument, but a lot of people can dance in their own way and get involved with the music."

DURHAM, South Africa (AP)—A group of South African researchers claims to have made a major advance in treatment of bee-sting allergy.

The effects of bee stings, lethal to some persons, can be treated by injecting the victim with a small amount of bee venom.

The old method of desensitizing patients by injecting whole bee extract was undesirable.

"Strango" Skafish to perform

Described in "Circus" magazine as "a deviant group," Skafish a six-piece band from Gary Ind., will appear at 9:30 p.m. Saturday in the Student Center Roman Room.

The leader of the group, Jim Skafish, is billed as "making a bid to become the first ever heroin approves rock star-a real strange." Despite-or may be because of-the publicity, Skafish has been drawing large crowds in the Chicago bars.

Mike Manak, assistant chairman of SGAC Concerts Committee, said the group is "far more intricate and has a lot more meaning then some of the punk bands around."

"It definitely not music to sit and drink beer by," Manak said. "However, the band can play too. Despite all the theatrics, Skafish does have talent."

All songs performed by the group were written by Skafish himself. He also plays the piano and sings. "He's just about the whole show," Manak said. "Although guitar player Karen Winner sometimes acts as a fool to his antics, she doesn't get in his way."

Admission to the concert is free. Manak said SGAC's scheduling the concert shows "SGAC has a very broad range in terms of style of music we get for our students."

The band has also toured through California and has performed in Canada.

Music used in program aids death discussions

Kool Dreams band rises to occasion in satirical concert

By Jeavil Black

The concert was set with cardboard pictures of skeletons saying, "Chew your way to love."

The audience was dressed in costume in honor of Richard Nixon to Charlie Brown and Lucy.

The concert was not like to talk about death or aging in one way to get people to open up.

A Review

The student Center's Halloween Extravaganza II attracted a large crowd of student government and the students themselves.

Kool Dreams 6 six-member band from the University of California-Berkeley said their music described as a kind of a cross between heavy metal, punk rock, funk, jazz, kids, and theater, but in between, they not only got the audience's feet tapping, but also got them dancing.

Using the music from many popular songs and changing the words, this group portrayed the essential human condition: consumerism, drugs, children's toys, and more.

"The barbeque," a song about students' free lunch, was sung by the group, and the barbeque grid.

It was not amusing as you expected yourself and the only things that you did not have to open up was a good laugh. The group's leader said that people don't want to know about the deaths and the barbeque grid.

The first song of "Monster Mash," entitled "Four Dead in Ohio," was a hit against the student government. The song was about the trend of barbeque dances and their so-called "free lunch," a member of the band.

Another song, "Monsters of the Night," entitled "Monster Crash," is a personification of the monster, "they crash" and are destroyed. The group said that it did the monster "crash" and it was really trashy.

The second song of "The Dead in Ohio" was "A Party with your friends at The Tap this weekend!

1978 Fall Semester Final Examination Schedule Information

The examination schedule attempts to avoid examination coniticts by providing separate examination periods for Tuesday-Thursday lecture classes. Some students might develop for which answers can be provided + this time

1. Classes that meet longer than one hour on Tuesday and Thursday, such as four credit hour classes, should use the examination period assigned for the course. If a class meeting from 11:30 to 12:30 on Tuesday and Thursday would hold its examinations during the Tuesday examination period from 3 to 4 p.m. Tuesday, December 13, the class also to non-lecture-type courses such as laboratory or seminar-type courses.

2. Classes that plan to hold their final examinations in their regularly scheduled class rooms. The space scheduling section of the student government will try to locate examination rooms and provide examination information relative to the location for examinations for those courses that cannot hold their examinations in their regularly scheduled class rooms because of a space conflict. This will be done sufficient in advance of the final examinations day to provide sufficient notice for all.

The following points are also pertinent to the final examination schedule:

1. Students who find they have more than three examinations on one day may petition, and students who have more than two examinations scheduled at one time should petition their academic dean for approval of an examination placed at the end of the period of the last day. Provision for such a make-up examination is made only for the first day and does not mean that the last day or any other examination scheduled time and expect to make it up during this time. This petition must be made as many students whose petitions have been approved by their dean.

Professor researches works of philosopher

By Ann Smiley
Staff Writer

Elizabeth Eames, professor of philosophy, worked for one year as an editor and detective to unmask the mystery surrounding Bertrand Russell's manuscript entitled 'The Theory of Knowledge.'

Russell, the famous British philosopher, born in 1872, died in 1970, leaving twenty philosophical works behind him, some as his theory of judgement. He was a well-known logician and an amazing philosopher.

Eames' work involved editing six chapters of Russell's manuscript. The manuscript was originally discovered in the late 1960s by Kenneth Blackwell, an assistant to the Russell papers at McMaster University in Hamilton, Canada.

While he was cataloging the Russell materials, Eames, a Russell scholar, was then called in to the university because of her expertise in the field. She visited the university to examine the manuscript, and with her knowledge of Russell's work, she took on the responsibility for editing the manuscript.

Eames said the research was made to close the gap of Russell's work from 1912 to 1919. Some of the Russell talks aloud about the manuscript, he never mentioned it again. Eames said: "The negative tone in Russell received from a former student, Ludwig Wittgenstein, provided a significant chance in his later philosophy."

In September of 1977, Eames received a $50,000 federal grant from the National Endowment of Humanities, enabling her to "start" on the job of editing the manuscript. Her husband, Morris Eames, said "that was the largest single NEH grant ever given to an individual." The research resulted in Eames spending many weeks away from home and journeying to London, England, to consult in the British libraries. She made many trips to Hamilton, Canada and spent many days in the Russell archives.

The only clue providing information that no chapters of Russell's manuscript ever existed became clear after Eames had researched references to the theory of knowledge in letters Russell had written to his mistress, Lady Ottoline Morrell, in 1912. Eames said in one week, "I had to check the 1790 letters." Russell makes mention in 20 days of activities including the theory of knowledge manuscripts. He was working on. Russell abandoned the manuscript when he received a substantial criticism about his theory from another philosopher. Therefore, the original manuscript was never fully completed.

Eames said, in addition to making the search more of a challenge.

The research was an, she said, for the searching for six chapters of Russell's manuscript. "I suggested this to the people helping me in this tremendous task," Eames said, "that maybe the chapters had been published prematurely early in the second decade of this century."

Eames was correct in her assumption; the first six chapters had been published in an American journal in 1914 and 1919.

Her work had just begun once all Russell's material was in front of her. The time consuming process of checking and re-checking to verify the material as original and complete was the major work. Original key word, according to Eames, "Since Russell's manuscript was handwritten, not typed," every word had to be scrupulously studied for his letter for Russell's characteristics. "It's important," she added, "but merely to believe a letter is "K" or "N," but to be absolutely positive so as not to change the meaning of Russell's work." According to the "K" principle, it is necessary to list every change of word or sentence the original author made in the manuscript. Eames said, "this is an extremely serious matter to be sure every word is interpreted correctly." She said Russell's handwriting was relatively neat and clear.

Eames studied the handwriting, making certain it was Russell's. The fact is, she said, that Russell was an Englishman and followed, for the most part, the English style of spelling. For example, she said, the English style of spelling requires the American word "favor" to be spelled "favor." Another interesting characteristic of Russell's was his occasional use of American style, therefore, complicating Eames' work further.

"There are still quite a few mysteries there," Eames said. "I don't know to what extent there were revisions made on the first six articles before publication."

Her months of work and investigation proved worthwhile, she said. The manuscript concerning the theory of knowledge, written in 1912, is going to be published in a book format somewhere in England this year. The publishing company has not yet been decided on.

Inspectors seize Walker's records

CHICAGO (AP) - U.S. postal inspectors, armed with subpoenaes, have drawn up a list of 200 names at the home of former Gov. Daniel A. Walker's father, who was served on Wednesday.

The inspectors, who have a warrant for the home, are searching for evidence of illegal activity, according to 22d District

Judge's ruling:

Savings can cover bounced checks

By John Caniff

Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) - They'll have to lead the 'dime by dime' attorney. "This case is like the head drunk.

His comparison was to a famous environmental decision in which a judge ruled a tiny fish should be permitted to survive at the expense of a multimillion dollar dam.

The endangered species, -v. William Procter, created a precedent for the U.S. League of Savings Associations, in the "small checking accounts" case.

Judge Richard G. Neuman ruled that it is permissible for money to be transferred from savings to cover checks, which means interest-bearing checking accounts are effective.

His ruling came during the league's national annual convention and officials say it will be appealed.

The league, whose 3,000 members are limited to offering savings accounts and lending for homes, sought to bar commercial banks from offering interest on checking accounts.

"The day that by no device whatsoever can they do," said Procter's Federal Reserve, which regulates commercial banks, has authority to permit the move, he said.

Robert McCreary, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, agreed when the Federal Reserve announced plans to consider the move last winter.

And so we have two (2) federal regulators agencies seeking to permit checking accounts to Fed in an effort to promote commercial banks, the bank board to protect savings and loans.

The banks recent attempts by S & Ls to obtain checking accounts. The S & Ls want to offer checking accounts to commercial banks to evaluate the one-quarter point interest rate advantage enjoyed by the S & Ls.

S & Ls, or thrift institutions as they are called, have a commitment to housing. They must lend most of their funds in return, they are allowed to offer a slightly higher interest rate on passbook savings, the purpose being to assure them of funds to lend.

The commercial banks, however, have said that S & Ls are now offering checking accounts that S & Ls don't think that's fair.

And now, fully aware of the Fed's concern, S & Ls have come up with the idea of offering checking accounts by permitting money to be withdrawn from the account before the account is closed.

The trade group fears that, put in a competitive disadvantage, its members will be forced to withdraw from their savings accounts to take advantage of the other thrift services.

Another reason to raise mortgage rates is the S & Ls have too little funds to lend.

State installs wind generator

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — State officials Wednesday announced that two wind generators costing $350,000 each will be installed at two experimental sites next spring, in an effort to reduce energy costs.

The generators are being drawn up now, and are scheduled to be set out in December so construction can begin when the ground thaws next spring, if Mary Kelly, spokesman for the development board, is correct.

Glickman said the generator at the Pigeon Roost, a new site, should be able to produce more than enough electricity for that building. Surplus electricity would be channeled to other buildings on the grounds.

In addition to the change in the duty-free amount, a flat 10 percent duty rate will be collected on the next $600 worth of purchases brought into the country.

This, too, should save time because inspectors will no longer have to apply complex classification procedures.

The exemption can be claimed only once every 30 days.

Pompeii exhibition will remain open

CHICAGO — The Art Institute of Chicago has announced that the Pompeii, 150 exhibition, which was to have closed Nov. 15, will remain open until Nov. 29.

The museum said that at 2 p.m. Monday the exhibition broke up the attendance records for a loan exhibition, when 30,000 visitors had already recorded with nearly three weeks remaining in the show. It is open from 11 a.m. until 9 p.m. weekdays, and from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Saturdays.

The Pompeii exhibition shows artifacts from the Roman city covered with 20 feet of lava and ash in the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius erupted.

It has also been seen in London and Copenhagen and set records in this country when it opened in Boston. From Boston, it will travel to Dallas and New York.

Law reduces customs charge

By Randolph E. Schmidt

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you travel abroad, a new law allows you to bring more goods home duty-free starting Thursday.

Under the new law travelers will not have to pay any customs duty on purchases worth up to $100. The limit had been $20.

He explained that it takes about six minutes for customs to process the average traveler when duty must be paid. With the new law, it only takes about a minute of duty in duty continents.

A large aircraft arriving with 200 passengers only will take two to three hours to be cleared by customs. Under the new law, this could be reduced to 10 minutes or less, said Gorton.

In addition to the change in the duty-free amount, a flat 10 percent duty rate will be collected on the next $600 worth of purchases brought into the country.

This, too, should save time because inspectors will no longer have to apply complex classification procedures.

The exemption can be claimed only once every 30 days.

THE STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT REGURGITATES...

To: The Student Body

After 18 battle ridden weeks as your Student Body President, I have come to the painful realization that any student depending upon Student Government to represent his/her interests at SIU-C is in a sad state of disillusionment. At this point in time, Student Government is so unorganized, so inefficient, it is barely able to meet its own needs. This entire "mess" is due to several variables, all of which cannot be described here. Thus, the most important causes of the inefficiency of the facade called "student government" shall be discussed here.

LACK OF STUDENT SUPPORT

Excellent examples of the lack of student support is the fact that out of 13 total Senate seats available on the East Side & East Campus only 7 petitions were handed in to the Election Commissioner for the Fall 1978 elections. Approximately 15% of the entire student population voted in the Spring 1978 elections. The administration has testified to the students academic policy, i.e., higher admissions standards, 2 weeks vs. 14 weeks to drop a class, without a whimper from the students. The list is nearly infinite. It has been said by many students, "That's why we elect representatives. To express our views." However, considering the above mentioned election statistics, how well do you think your interests are being expressed?

ADMINISTRATIVE CONTROL OVER STUDENT GOVERNMENT

(Before going into this discussion, let me remind you that we are constantly told that students have control over students' activity fees.)

The Student Body President at SIU-C cannot spend one dime without the permission of the administration. It is true that checks and balances are needed in this position, so what is the Student Senate's purpose? What is the Judicial Board for? Governance purposes? Potentially, there could be two checks on my authority: the judicial and legislative branches of government. This would be true representation for students. But, as I have mentioned before, the fiscal officer (the administration's most powerful weapon against Student Government) must sign all vouchers so that financial transactions can be made. Without this signature, all Student Government business would come to an abrupt halt. Also, I think that now is as good a time as any to bring a few facts to light about certain charges brought against me. At the beginning of this year, I was accused of mismanagement of funds. Let me emphasize here and now that I did not mismanage any funds. I simply made a procedural error, i.e. bureaucratic paperwork. Also my Contingency Fund can be used for anything within University and state guidelines. If this is not true, then why, for heaven sakes, did Ms. Nancy Hunter Harris, Sr. fiscal officer, state in a memorandum that her office would comply with my request that all luncheons would be funded from my Contingency Fund? Then apparently, I was not in the wrong when I sponsored those luncheons or my now infamous plane trip to Springfield.

But let's take this whole "Mess" one step further. My accusers, the administration complained that I should have obtained the fiscal officer's signature and approval before making those expenditures and I readily admit my mistake. But, why do WE have to get THEIR permission to spend OUR money, in the first place? The entire concept dumbsounds and astonishes me.

I've discovered that if one wants to do well in Student Government, one must play the administration's dirty political games. I didn't, and was consequently set up to be discriminated by lower level administrators while it was covered up by higher level administrators. The Daily Egyptian eagerly pounced on the scandalous news like hungry vultures. Tragically, all my troubles started when I announced my intentions to change fiscal officers...

STUDENTS AGAINST STUDENTS

First on my list is the Daily Egyptian. The D.E. serves a useful purpose in not only the campus community but the Carbondale community as well. But, the D.E. has succeeded in running my reputation instead of bringing to light the good things that Student Government can be doing. The D.E. has used misquotes and blatant lies against me while it could have been trying to unite students with their government. It definitely succeeded in significantly reducing any trust or pride that students ever had in Student Government.

Second on my list is the conflict with Student Government itself. Instead of waging a much needed battle against tuition, fee and housing increases, Senators have contented themselves in restricting what little authority I have. Instead of trying to work with me, they areae in trying to fire a secretary because there is no morning secretary, although there is money in the budget to remedy this situation. Instead of helping me communicate students interests to the administration, two Senators, whom I had believed to be highly respectable, have ignored, without my knowledge, information I have personally passed to name calling during Senate meetings. The Student Senate has shown a distinct bias against funding special interest groups. As a whole, the Senate is incompetent but I truly feel for those few dedicated Senators who are honestly trying to represent students the best way they can.

CONCLUSION

Students are being shafted. Their interests are not adequately being represented. What's even more fascinating, though, is that students are merely the tip of the proverbial iceberg.

WHAT SHOULD WE DO? To be honest, I don't know. That's why I need your input. If we continue to think of ourselves as individuals with distinct interests instead of 22,000 students with common interests, the facade will live.

Finally, to those who are truly concerned, I am holding a symposium. All those who wish to speak and air their views or those just wishing to become more informed, come to:

7:00 TO 9:00 p.m.

I also urge all students to attend the Student Senate meetings. They are held in Ballroom A of the Student Center, Wednesday evenings from 7:00 p.m. until adjournment.

Thank you for taking the time to read this. When we all work together, something WILL be done.

Sincerely,

Garrick Clinton Matthews
Student Body President

Wrigley chewing gum to eliminate natural sweetener

CHICAGO (AP) — The Won Wrigley Jr. Co. has announced elimination of a cancer-preventing natural sweetener called xylitol from its sugarfree Orbit chewing gum.

The sweetener was introduced early last year, sales have dropped since a study last November reported that the sweetener caused bladder cancer in laboratory mice.

The move by dental researchers, however, dispute those findings and say xylitol, which is many times sweeter than sugar, poses no health hazards.

A study in Finland which found that xylitol, used in the mouth and reduces cavities in children by as much as 90 percent.

A Wrigley spokesmen said Tuesday xylitol is no longer is being used in its Orbit brand produced in the United States and a substituting two corn syrup-based sweeteners — sorbitol and mannitol.

The company said the unresolved status of xylitol led to the decision to remove it at this time, although the company shares the opinion of outside authorities that xylitol is completely safe and has great future potential in dental health.

Head Resident Positions in University Residence Halls 1979-1980

Positions Southern Illinois University at Carbondale announces the availability of Graduate Assistant positions as Head Residents in University Residence Halls for the 1979-1980 academic year. All positions require the interest and capability to work with students, while opportunities are offered to gain experience in Residence Hall Management and to learn techniques for fostering Student Development.

Appointment Head Resident positions are one-quarter or one-half time graduate assistantships for the fall term 1979 through the Spring term 1980.

Remuneration includes an apartment and meals for the Head Residents and immediate family, plus waiver of tuition for the Head Resident. The salary for one-quarter time positions is $150 per month. For one-half time positions, the salary is $300 per month.

Heads Residents are encouraged to pursue academic programs beyond the master's level, but may not exceed six hours per semester for one-half time positions. They may not accept additional employment without prior approval from the Director of Housing. All Head Residents are required to participate in pre-school and in-service training sessions. They must be available daily in the residence facility.

Individuals may submit an application anytime between November 1, 1978 and February 28, 1979.

Information concerning Head Resident positions or application may be obtained by writing J.W. Gurner, Assistant Director of Housing, Building D, Washington Square, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Illinois 62901.

Southern Illinois University at Carbondale is an equal opportunity-affirmative action employer and encourages applications from women and other minority groups.

Aides: Carter showing sensitivity to Democratic political problems

By James Gerstenzang
Associated Press Writer

WATERLOO, Iowa - President Carter, who seemed to commit one political assassination after another during his early days in the White House, is now devoting much of his time to streamlining some of the political problems Democratic leaders are facing this year.

He was on the road for Democratic candidates yesterday, even weekends, but one during October, carefully sizing up some of his critics, and spending most of his energy on the presidency of the party.

In two states, Minnesota and Carter's aides say they believe the president was speaking of the Iowa campaign, although the horizon line was also the possibility that the Democratic candidates could lose a Senate race

PUSH to sponsor seminar on sex

CHICAGO - AP - Saving sex once and for all may be responsible for a national teen-age pregnancy and sexually transmitted disease epidemic, Operation PUSH considered it will combat a two-day sex-education seminar later this month.

Evolving a special concern for the black community, Jesse Jackson, national head of Operation PUSH, said, "The results are beginning to devastate in our personal and collective lives every day."

Citing statistics gathered at Emory University School of Medicine, Jackson said 1 million teen-age girls become pregnant last year.

Jackson said he was the statistician's ideas that the country is experiencing a "teen-age pregnancy and venereal disease epidemic, a threat to the health of life and future generations." He confronted and resolved sex education in natural programs is the most valuable attribute to mass sexual ignorance and the high frequency of error," Jackson said.

Shoemaker order predicts outcome of papal election

VATICAN CITY (AP)—In the capital, the shoemaker of the papal election that surprised the world, Italian government officials are remembered that might have helped point to the outcome, including the hint from a shoemaker.

This same Mr. Tintoretti, Carbona and his shop is on the third floor of a building along a narrow street just off St. Peter’s Square. He makes the red slippers for the pope. And this time, he had received an odd order.

In a roundabout way, it suggested to advance the choice of a non-Italian, contrary to the generally makes seminarians assumptions. To gain entrance to his shop, a street-level bell brings him to an upstairs window and he pulls a hand cord that lifts a latch on a creaky door three times. When a bell rings, Mr. Tintoretti says, the shoemaker was visited by Francesco Dandriti of the Providence of7-7 House, who afterward told of the curious details.

The shoemaker said that always before in papal elections he had been asked to make the slippers in alternate clerics of 41, 42 and 43, but this time, he had been told to make them bigger — of 41, 42 and 44.

Dandriti related.

These sizes correspond roughly in American foot measurements in 9 to 11 in the middle sequence, and in the larger, to 12 to 14. The point is that most Italians have relatively small feet, and the usual order for bigger shoes implied that someone, perhaps papal preparations had provided especially for a non-Italian pope.

A slim imitation, but a turned out 100% to the new Pope John Paul II from Poland. Various other indications, including suggestions from several cardinals and scholars that it would be a non-Italian, went unheeded in the list of contrary assumptions.

On early Vatican churchman, the Rev. Paul Boyle from Chicago, who is superior general of the Passionist Fathers, has repeatedly noted that it would be a non-Italian, and made a detailed case for it, but that voice, too, got lost in the murmurings.

Yet he, along with almost everyone else, was stunned — especiallymbly — by the choice of a cardinal from Communist-rulled Poland. A lot of other pre-conclave rumors were swirling in the church, such as the view that the man must be at least 50. The bottom edge of a traditional "age window."

But John Paul II, a robust 58, is the youngest pope in more than a century, since Pius IX was elected in 1846 at the age of 54. Pius IX served 32 years until his death in 1878. However, the new pope lives to a third of the age of 39, as have the four predecessors to the briefly serving John Paul I who died at 66, the new John Paul will make it well into the next century, until 2138.

WEIGHT WATCHER

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Troy Watson knows how to combine work and exercise. Watson, who works for the Deer Valley Post Office, picks up his mail, drives his jeep to Moon Valley, and picks up his bicycle. He has lost 13 pounds since the age of 20, as he works the dead lift to keep the weight off.

"My doctor told me to quit smoking, but then I gained weight," said the 91-year-old man. "Then my doctor told me to lose weight."

"So he rode his bike, takes a little ribbing, but feels much better for his efforts."

You, a faithful follower of this space, have been a mountaineer for some time now. You've studied the fundamentals, selected your gear and experimented with methodology. In short, you are nobody's fool. Nonetheless, you also know a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. So you want to learn more. Smart thinking.

First, you must realize that once the basics of mountaineering are mastered, it is only nuance which distinguishes the true artists from the merely adequate. Therefore, attention to detail, especially in matters of clothing, is vital.

Always protect the head according to seasonal fluctuations. In winter, a warm hat is mandatory. (The head, after all, is the chimney of the body. Avoid bleeding heat loss - it diminishes your psychophysical abilities.) In summertime, a sun visor or a billed cap will guarantee crucial visibility among the craggy peaks.

Pay particular regard to your footwear. Shoes should be sturdy and stable. A secure footing is of utmost importance. Without it, you're asking for trouble. Point of order: while mountaineering is pursued for fun, it is nevertheless serious business. If you are going to do the mountains, rather than vice versa, you must be confident of your standing.

Between the head and the feet lies the area known to pros as "the body." Mountaineering bodywear is usually based on personal preference. However, keep a keen eye out for one common criterion. Your clothes should be comfortable and flexible, allowing for open movement, specifically in the vicinity of the arms. A free and responsive arm is a mountaineer's best friend.

Certain accessories, of course, complement and complete the regulation garb. Expedition flags to mark your territory in public places, connecting ropes for those who prefer the security of mountaineering in tandem and backpacks filled with beer nuts, rope bottle openers and other paraphernalia. Beyond these standards, wardrobe styles range from the rustic to the refined. And well they might, for mountaineers are a rugged and individual lot, joined only by a common taste for excellence.

Don't just reach for a beer. Head for the mountains.

College activities seminar set

By Melissa Redfern
Aft Vernon

The Student Center will be anything but dull this weekend, when the Association of College Unions International will host an annual fall conference titled, "Never a Dull Moment."

The conference is geared toward college activity programmers who schedule events such as concerts, lectures and films, and for students who want to improve their organizational skills. The conference is designed to help student programmers become more efficient and organized in providing students the greatest amount of programming for the least amount of money," said Toby Peters, assistant for special programs and conference chairperson.

Conference activities will include an open house Saturday evening for the student body, designed for conference members as an example of programming activities. Events will include the film, "Oh God." disc dancing, a karate demonstration, craft shop demonstrations, the Southern Repertory Dance Theater's square dance demonstration by the Smokey Swingers, the SIU Jazz Band and a poetry demonstration.

Conference delegates will take a field trip to the SIU Touch of Nature Saturday afternoon.

Session topics for the conference will include image and graphics advertising, from a public relations director's view, programming and orientation seminars and creative craft and video demonstrations. Leadership will be emphasized along with legal concerns in these areas. Promotion and publicity, as well as ethics in programming, will also be covered.

A grand finale will be presented Sunday morning to close the conference.

Two hundred and five delegates representing 25 schools in Illinois and Indiana have pre-registered for the conference.

Flying Salukis going to finals again

By Mark Paulk
Student Writer

The Flying Salukis, two-time defending National Intercollegiate Flying Association (NIFA) champions, earned another trip to the national finals by winning the Region VIII NIFA meet Oct. 27-28
at Cox County Airport in Marion.

The Flying Salukis, led by individual champions Dale Dorey, outscored nine other schools to win their sixth regional in a row. The Flying Salukis earned 127 points followed by runner-up Parka College with 115 and the University of Illinois with 73.

The teams competed in seven ground and air events. SIU took the first place, two seconds, third, and three fourths.

Tom Young, an SIU flight instructor and coach of the Flying Salukis, was pleased with the team’s performance.

“We had a superb performance from Dale Dorey along with a lot of points scored by newcomers to the team,” Young said. “We had five out of seven new people place in the meet for our team. They, along with the experienced members, gave us the championship.”

The Flying Salukis will travel to Monroe, La., for the national championship in April. The same team, which includes three women, will compete at the nationals.

“Since our division has a lot of quality teams, the top three finishers in our regional meet will probably go to the finals, where the top 25 teams in the country will compete,” Young said.

There will be more to practice than flying planes for the Salukis as they prepare for the national meet.
Three of the seven events are on the ground. They are simulator, pre-flight check and aircraft recognition.

“Just being a good flying point is not enough. The ground events make up a large portion of the competition,” Young said.

603 S. Illinois
Woman eager to be Saluki

Gordon England/Staff Writer

I'm trying to imagine the personality of someone who plays sports four hours a day and has promised to do an Adidas All-Star basketball game in 36 hours. Anyone who can do that must have a lot of determination and a great deal of motivation.

Not surprising, the Saluki's prime recruit, Linda Martin, from St. Francisville, Mo., a town near Lawrenceville, Ill., was the only woman's high school player from Illinois to make the All-American team, but is soft-spoken and easy-going. She had to endure a lot of ribbing from her high school classmates about being a pioneer in this field of sports. She had to endure a lot of ribbing from her high school classmates about being a pioneer in this field of sports. She explained, "I'm used to it. I've been doing it all my life."

She hopes to acquire the starting varsity position next to Lynn Williams. "I know I'll get a lot of playing time, but Coach Scott hasn't said anything definite about starters," Linda Martin said. "Last season, there were only two offenses which has been changed to run two teams, but a lot of players can interchange positions."

Scott says Martin is an excellent one-on-one shooter and is an adept playmaker, the role she has in high school. But Martin cautions that there is always room for improvement. "Defender can always be improved," she explained. "I also can use work on my weak dribbling hand. I drove a lot in high school, but players in college are much bigger. I'll have to make adjustments. But I will drive when I have the opportunity."

The chance of traveling to national tournaments led Martin to choose SIU. Last season, the Salukis finished fourth in the Midwest Regional and second in the state tournament, and have everyone returning. "The chance to go to the national makes me feel privileged to say, 'I'm on that team.'"

Terriers seek 2nd win in row

By Gary Smith/Staff Writer

While most high school teams are playing out their schedules, the Carbondale Terriers are still looking for consistency.

The Terriers, fresh from a 34-14 pounding of second-place Miners, closed out the 1978 season at home against the St. Vernon Rams, and Terrier boss Jim Lewis would like to see a repeat performance of last week's win.

"We finally put it all together," Lewis said. "We eliminated self-inflicted errors that enable us to keep moving, it helped our defense. Our offensive unit sat but I had and physical, so we can't keep on the rope yarn."

It's been a long and disappointing season for Lewis and the Terriers. Picked second in preseason polls, the Terriers ended the year with a 3-5 mark. Last week, however, the Terriers defeated the Rams by 31-21 to claim their own champions.

"They could be the best 3-5 club in the state," boasted Ranger Coach Ranger Larry Swartz. "We were first, we were last and we're still in the game."" Sansculottie Lewis was extremely pleased with the play of his offensive line. "We were really blowing open some holes down there," he said. "I'd say our offensive line is now offensive line is now as good as any in the conference."

Runners to face Midwest's best in regional meet

competing in the regional, which was as expected, but still enough to get stuck in if the runners don't move out of the way."

"We've got to have to sprint out of the first quarter mile and then pace into the pace we want to run. I'm going to keep pace with the pack and if we let them go, we'll never catch anyone."

Position in a large meet is essential, Blackman said, especially in the Macomb course, which has a lot of curves. "If you can't get out fast you may find yourself running with a group of people going slower than you want to run," she said. "It'll be a lot harder to come up in the curve course up there."

Lindy Neales, who would have qualified for the regional even if the team had not, will try to lower her time over the weekend. (If a week ago, but even if she does. Blackman said, "Shelby probably won't win. She'll have to beat some of the same runners she beat last week—runners like the Anna Meyer, Bev Roland, and John Fair, a group that doesn't come easily, and Blackman..."

* * *

The 13th floor of Neely contains several women athletes, as Martin has developed other sports in her spare time.

Once again, she emphasized her desire in choosing SIU. "I'm excited about the chance to go to college and the attitude among teammates is really good. In high school, everyone was out for themselves."

Spikers win; end season at Indiana

By Tony Rizzo
Staff Writer

The Salukis were a word that seems to be common in the vocabulary of the women's volleyball team. Not only have they been using the word a lot lately, but it seems to be fitting for the players.

The team has prided itself on their performances lately. They have performed in the conference, in the regional, and even in the national. They have a record of 32-4 and have won the conference title.

The game against the University of Illinois was a close one. The Salukis had a slight lead early in the game, but the Fighting Illini fought back to tie the game at 15-15. The Salukis then pulled ahead to 19-15, and the Illini came back to tie the game again at 22-22. The game ended with the Salukis winning 25-23, 15-13.

The Salukis were led by sophomore outside hitter Kayla Blackman, who had 39 kills and 17 digs. Junior setter Kaitlyn Steen had 46 assists and 10 digs. Junior middle blocker Rachel Gottfried had 14 kills and 12 blocks. Junior defensive specialist Ashley Spieler had 32 digs.

The Salukis will now move on to the NCAA Tournament, where they will face the winner of the Michigan/Maryland match in the first round.

Rigorous regional awaits runners

By Brad Rinker

The Western Illinois University volleyball team will be playing in the NCAA Tournament this weekend. The team has been working hard throughout the season to prepare for this opportunity.

The team has been working on their strength and conditioning, as well as their technique and strategy. The coaches have been working closely with the players to ensure that they are prepared for the intense competition.

The team will be playing against some of the top teams in the country, and they know that they will need to be at their best to have a chance at winning.

The Western Illinois University volleyball team is looking forward to the challenge and is excited to be playing in the NCAA Tournament.

a swimming game

And the Salukis have the best swimmers, according to Steele.

The Salukis have added two new members to their team this year. The first is junior outside hitter Claudia Blackman, who was a Regional All-American last year. The second is senior middle blocker Rachel Gottfried, who is a four-year letterwinner and has been a team captain for three years.

The Salukis are also looking forward to the return of sophomore middle blocker Ashley Spieler, who missed last year due to injury.

The Salukis will be looking to improve on their conference title this season and are determined to make a run for the NCAA Tournament.
Water polo team ready for conference tourney

by George Cbstah Sports Editor

The Saluki water polo team has practiced at the right time. Coach Bob Steele said they have prepared to play the hole position, which is like the center in hockey, and the offense has come to life.

Porta and the Salukis will get a chance to show what they can do Saturday when the Salukis host the Mississippi Valley Polo Championships at the Recreation Building Pool. The four-team round robin tourney will also feature Rolla, which posted a 144 regular season record; Southeast Missouri State (SEMO), which went 11-2; and Principia, which went 9-5. The Salukis are 4-4.

"We're so much better because of Porta," Steele said at his press backstroke recruit. "He couldn't play the first part of the season because of his schedule. But he's one before a hole man—be a equivalent to a solid center.

Each team will play three games in the tourney and the team with the best record will be declared the winner. SIU starts things off with a 10 a.m. game against SEMO. The Salukis also play Principia at 1 p.m. and Rolla at 3:30 p.m.

"Principia has played all three other teams in the last three weeks," Steele said, "and they've been beaten at times but nobody's won by more than two goals. So the tournament will be close.

Water polo is like a combination of basketball and hockey in the water. There's a lot of checking and fighting and it's all legal as long as you're going for the ball. Players can only use one hand on the ball, and they can't use the bottom of the pool. It's (Continued on Page 30)
