Sophomores may get to live off campus

The policy needs approval from President Albert Semit to be implemented, but Swinburne said he expects Semit to view it as a reasonable alternative.

The Student Senate is expected to vote Wednesday in support of the policy, Murphy said.

The new policy would be reviewed annually until a permanent policy is formed. Swinburne said the policy would help identify students who move off-campus receive lower grades because of the new rule.

"All studies show that moving off-campus makes a more positive impact on grades than requiring freshmen to live on-campus," Swinburne said. "This is a value that is not totally diminished during one year, but I think it has less impact."

Murphy said the changes would intensify competition for off-campus housing, but he was ready to deal with that.

"Students are going to have competition throughout their lives. They better get used to it now," Murphy said.

Swinburne said, "There is plenty of room to live off campus."

City asked to help buy property for new library

By Melody Cook

The Carbondale City Council is expected to consider a request Monday night by the Carbondale Public Library Board that the city provide over $6,000 to pay for part of the Brush School property, the proposed site of a new library.

Also scheduled for the meeting is discussion of the council's relationship with the Lapier Advisory Board and consideration of requests for overtime pay for supervisors in the Police, Fire and Streets and Allies departments who worked the Halloween weekend.

Buddy Mitchell, library board president, said she has asked the city to provide $10,000 a year—plus 5 percent interest—over a five-year period to pay for about a quarter of the Brush School property on Main Street near University Avenue.

The council needs three-quarters of the property for a new library, but has already purchased about 47,000 square feet, or about half the lot.

Mitchell said the city was asked to help because "we figure that its budget is so much greater than ours.

The Carbondale Elementary School Board, which sold the property to the library board, decided to keep a quarter of the property for its own administrative and office uses.

The library board paid for half the lot by selling property on Jackson Street to the Memorial Hospital of Carbondale for use as a parking lot in hospital expansion plans.

In a letter to Mayor Hans Fischer, Mitchell said, "It is essential that we now acquire the additional land because we are sure if we do not acquire it now, it will not be available at a later date.

The library board is also planning a public referendum for April on a bond issue to fund construction of a 16,000-square-foot library building, according to a report by Paul Sorgen, Carbondale finance director. Mitchell said the city's support in acquiring the additional section of the Brush School property would be "very beneficial" to win approval of the bond referendum.

The library board and the city staff have a feasibility study underway to determine the amount of money needed for a library that would "attract" the community, the library director said. Campbell said rough estimate of construction costs is $1.5 million.

The city departments also request for $3,785 in overtime pay for their employees who worked extra hours during Halloween weekend is expected to be discussed at the meeting Monday. Of that figure, $2,419 would go to Police Department personnel.

Officers from the Fire Department, excluding the chief, worked 95 hours of overtime over the weekend, costing the city $1,022. The Street Department has requested $545.36 in overtime pay for three foremen.

In a memo to City Manager Carroll Fry, Assistant City Manager Scott Rittenhouse recommended the council turn down the additional pay because supervisors are not eligible for overtime under city policy. Ritter claims in the memo that to pay supervisors for extra hours during Halloween would encourage "all other heretofore exempt personnel to expect overtime as well."
Lame-duck Democrats given chance for last stand in office

By Tom Rosen

Amended Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Congress is returning to town this week for the first lame-dock session in a presidential election year in 2 1/2 years, giving Democrats thrown out of office the chance for a last stand.

But whether they will be able to accomplish anything before being inundated by the tidal wave of congressional Republicans — with the blessings of President-elect Ronald Reagan — is questionable.

Congressional returns to town on Wednesday in the first such post-electoral session since 1978, when Democratic President Jimmy Carter, newly elected to a full four-year term, summoned a reluctant "do-nothing" GOP-controlled Congress back to town.

But Congress recessed without acting on any of the legislation Truman requested. A test of whether the 1980 lame-dock Congress will be any more productive may come on

Poland's unions map strike strategy

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Leaders of Poland's defiant trade unions claimed they have mapped strategy here Sunday in the last hours before the Supreme Court session that could spark a new wave of strikes in this Soviet-bloc nation.

At the same time, the communist government stepped up its warnings of grave social and economic implications of a strike. And Polish television showed film of joint Polish-Soviet military exercises held in an area that Western observers believe is Gdansk's north, near the Baltic Sea.

Sunday marked the third day of a strike by teachers, and health care workers at the district government headquarters in Gdansk. The protest began after separate wage and benefit talks with senior government negotiators broke down.

Officials of Solidarity barred reporters from the main Catholic Intellectuals, site of Solidarity's national presidential meeting scheduled for this week when asked if negotiations with the government were under way or planned.

The Supreme Court is expected to rule Monday on Solidarity's petition to delete from the charter a district a district a district a district and the leading role of the Communist Party.

The performances are so spirited they are truly infectious. "1000 Years of Jazz"'s stirring musical entertainment, delightful New Orleans harmonies and rhythms and some vibrant, fleet jazz tap dancing. — Don Nelson

Anderson may want a recount

Karren Guite
Staff Writer

John T. Anderson, the Republican congressional candidate for the 21st District who was narrowly defeated by Rep. Paul Simon last week, has not conceded Simon's victory and has announced he may ask for a recount of Tuesday's election returns.

Anderson's press secretary, Terry Anderson, said in a statement Monday that the Republican challenger will announce Monday whether he will request a recount from state election officials or concede Simon's victory.

"If you discover that there possibly could be a difference if you went into a recount, then the state election officials would allow you to have a recount," Anderson's press secretary said Saturday. "First you have to have a discovery. Basically, this is not saying that we expect to find 2,000 votes on our side, but other problems could have possibly swayed the election."

Anderson was unavailable for comment Sunday.

For a recount, Anderson must show cause that the election results may be incorrect and must have a judge certify the challenge.

Review was 'standard form'

I would like to take this opportunity to defend the many records, movies and Arena shows that have fallen victim to the seemingly "standard form" had review" of the DE. I took particular exception to the Oct. 29 review of the Kansas concert by Ken Mac Garrigue, the DE's editor rather than the entertainment editor.

Granted, the show was not the greatest rock gig of "all time," but of all the concerts in the world each year, how many are Robb Stienardt of the group was quoted as saying, "We hope you hear all the songs you came here to hear," and Mr. Mac Garrigue took exception to that promise. To coin a phrase, you can't please all the people all the time.

Kansas has released seven albums as a group and two albums by solo members of the group. This amounts to many hours of music. Although only a couple of these songs have made it to the airwaves and AM airwaves, a Kansas follower like myself goes to hear the music and message rather than a string of "greatest hits." It is also unusual for a group of this size and reputation to put on a concert time on their most recent album, Kansas later released by Audio-Visions, Mac Mac Garrigue, not Audio-Visual.

Kansas' music was enjoyable

Mr. Coale, in reference to your Nov 6 letter in the "E," I must say you really showed how little you know about music.

Kansas is a band that has a very unique style that can't be compared to the kind of music you prefer to listen to.

Your comments on Steve Walsh of the group indicate that you do not approve of such high expectations for the lead member of a group during a concert. Your choice of words to describe his show was, at the very least, careless, and "sparked with my instrument." I think a music editor should have a better grasp of descriptive wording. You also seemed surprised that Steve's voice sounded as good live as it does on vinyl and that the group played all the right notes. Did you expect him to score bad? Would you have noticed if they had hit a wrong note?

As for your comments about Off Broadway, you said they were great but went on to list the reasons that they weren't. If the lighting was strange, the sound was bad and the crowd was inattentive, it was the group's fault and the price paid for concert experience. They have only one album to their credit, and that does not qualify a group to put on the "greatest rock concert of the year" and then spend some time to put together a few more albums and a lot more tours and maybe they can show on their own with the live experience. The group has many friends like Kansas—Jeffrey L. Alvan, Electronics Technology

Don't you go to an Alice Cooper concert to listen to country western music. Nor should you go to a Kansas concert and expect to listen to lyrics of drugs and sex. If you had ever listened to any of Kansas' music you would have known what to expect.

In the future, Mr. Coale, I suggest you save your opinions for something you have a better knowledge of.

I would also like to submit a question for open opinions. What would you like if a person could enjoy clean air, free from smoke from cigarettes and joints, while listening to a concert?—Marc-Henri Cesar, junior, Industrial Technology
Anxiety over Iran-Iraq war haunting Mideastern students

By Erick Howrenstein
Staff Writer
The Iranian-Iraqi war does not directly involve many SIU-C students, but to those who have family, friends and homes in jeopardy there, the war has been a dailly source of anxiety since its beginnings a month ago.

Although Taran M. Hasson, an Iraqi student working on a Ph.D. in physiology, and Iranian students Saeed Ghannad and Vahid Badii may disagree on some points, they all hope the fighting stops soon. They have family and friends whose lives are in danger, and they plan to return to their home countries after graduating.

The major issue of the war depends on the perspective of the viewer.

To Hasson, 31, who left his wife and 13-day-old child at their home in Baghdad two months ago, the war revolves around Iraq and United Arab Emirates land taken by Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi in 1971 and 1975.

To Ghannad, 22, sophomore in engineering, and Badii, 21, junior in electrical engineering, the war is an aggressive move to take legitimate Iranian territory while Iran's military forces were assumed to be prone to attack. As the result of "reel-filming" of officers during the revolution.

Both sides refer to the Shatt al Arab waterway, which divides the countries, as a central issue in the conflict.

Both countries have oil port cities near the waterway.

The atmosphere, however, as to the state of the waterway before a 1975 agreement between the shah of Iran and then-Vice President Sadrān Hussein of Iraq dividing the waterway right down the middle.

The estuary, and a narrow strip of agricultural land on the east bank, had previously belonged to Iraq. Hasson explained.

Badii claimed that the boundary until that time had been left unresolved, and that the waterway was considered "international waters."

The nature of the 1975 agreement also came into question.

Badii and Ghannad say the agreement, in which the shah promised to stop supporting Kurdish rebels in Iraq in exchange for the waterway access, was completely legitimate.

Hasson disagrees. The agreement, he claims, was forced upon Iraq by the shah, who had at the time an overwhelming superior military.

"If somebody holds a gun to your head and says give me $100, you don't have much choice. But this doesn't mean you have lost your right to that $100. You have the right to take the $100 when you get the chance," Hasson said.

This is the situation that took place between Iran and Iraq, he said, adding that the only reason the shah didn't seize the entire estuary was that he knew that would be "a matter of life and death" for the Iraqi nation.

The Shatt al Arab, Hasson explained, extends only about 300 miles north, where the waterway juts westward into Iraq and splits into the Tigris and Euphrates rivers. This waterway, he said, is Iraq's only access to the Persian Gulf.
The east bank of the Shatt al Arab, he said, served as a buffer to keep border skirmishes from cutting off Iraq foreign trade. Besides, he added, while Iran has access to the Persian Gulf along the entire north and east sides, Iraq's shoreline on the gulf is less than 50 miles long.

Ghannad and Badii said.

Reagan may cut consumer regulations

By Jeffrey Mills
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal regulation in the name of consumer health, which bloomed in the 1970s, is expected to shrink once Ronald Reagan takes over the White House.

The president-elect hasn't yet spelled out the extent to which he intends to reduce regulation in such areas as health and safety. But his heavy-handed approach to dissent, coupled with the new Republican majority in the Senate, has consumer advocates and federal regulators worried.

Consumer activist Ralph Nader may be the most gloomy in his predictions of how the government will treat consumers during the Reagan administration. "Under Reagan, you are going to see the darkest political period of the 20th century," he said.

Consumer advocates are going to pay more and hurt more. The administration will abandon the health, safety and economic rights of consumers," Nader said.

A more moderate view was offered by Sandra Willett of the National Consumers League. "The public is saying, 'let the private sector solve problems,'" she said for private sector solutions to issues that will no longer be within the province of federal agencies.

Changes at independent regulatory agencies may be gradual because a new president can only name new members when he or she term expires. For example, the Consumer Product Safety Commission, one of a host of new agencies established during the 1970s, has no scheduled vacancy for two years. "The election produced a dramatic power shift in Washington, but it is not a mandate for sweeping change."

"Spartan Comedy" is lively and cute

By Karen Clare
Staff Writer

"Diana or: The Spartan Comedy," an original play by graduate student Daniel Hinz- chev, performed Thursday through Sunday at the McLeod Theater, was lively and cute; punctuated by a good performance by lead actress Mary Linn Snyder-Swanos as Diana and a hilarious sergeant played by Michael Overton.

Wearing a bright orange and yellow costume and a straw hat, Diana entered the stage with her luggage and nursemaid, Hellanike, in tow. The two, on route to ancient Sparta where Diana is to meet her future husband Alexandros, carry on a conversation which reveals Diana's doubts about the meeting.

Here the audience gets its first insight into Diana's character. Headstrong, impetuous, character. Headstrong, thoughtful, Nukeratos, the high priest of Dionysus, is also the power-monger who ordered his execution by sacrifice.

In a scene where civic duty triumphs over earthly reason, Diana sets out to teach them better. Diana comes from the island of Lesbos, where new ideas have been introduced to the fore and sacrifices are old hat. Convincing Alexandros' brother Dion (who is also to be killed) that sacrifices are a hoax takes a lot of womanly persuasion—one of her key virtues.

On stage, Dion and Diana make a thoughtful and perceptive pair. Their two servants, Hellanike and Herakles, arrive at a scheme of writing fake love letters, signing Dion's and Diana's names at the bottom, hoping that the two will fall in love.

At midnight when Diana and Dion meet in the garden, each thinking the other has written a passionate letter of love to him, a hilarious scene of misunderstanding takes place. Diana adamantly explains an explanation, but Dion, as confused as she, stomps off the stage to ponder over the predicament.

The two servants, Hellanike and Herakles, have their own reasons for wanting the two young people to fall in love and marry. Hellanike and Herakles are lovers, making for an interesting subplot. Herakles is constantly wooing Hellanike to take a playful "romp in the hay." Hellanike, like a young schoolgirl, willingly submits to his charms.

Two Spartan guards steal the scene when they come to take Dion for the sacrifice. The sergeant, a new recruit into the Spartan army and a master of facial expressions ranging from shy timidity to childish despair, had the audience laughing fitfully in the seats as he tried to discover what was in the rolled-up carpet sitting obtrusively at the front of the stage. Wrapped in the carpet is poor Dion, unconscious, an innocent victim saved from his sacrificial fate by a quick blow on the head.

University Billing/Receivables System

NOTICE TO STUDENTS

A new system for payment of all charges including registration fees and housing has been developed to provide for greater efficiency and improved services as outlined below:

INSTALLMENT PLAN

Effective with registration for the Spring 1981 Semester, payment of tuition and fees can be made in three monthly installments. A $5.00 fee will be charged for use of the installment plan. (To avoid the $5.00 charge, simply pay the full amount due for registration fees.) The installment plan will be most effective for those students who pre-register. Housing payments can still be paid by installments with no additional charge. If paid on time.

MONTHLY BILLING

Beginning October 1980, a monthly billing statement will be sent to your mailing address. This statement will show all the charges to your account for that month as well as payments, financial aid, and other credits. Statements will be prepared on the 15th of each month with payment due before the 15th of the next month. If the amount due is not paid by that date, a service charge of 1% per month will be added to your account.

MAILING ADDRESS

It is important—and your responsibility—to have a current mailing address on file with the University. This may be your local address, your parents' address, or any address most convenient for you. You may report address changes to either the Office of Admissions and Records, the Bursar’s Office, or the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance.

PAY BY MAIL

Payment by mail is encouraged. There is no need to stand in lines to pay charges assessed to you. Your cancelled check will serve as your receipt and your payments made between billings will be reflected on the next billing statement of your account. You can save the cost of a stamp by depositing your payment (in an envelope) in the drop box at the University Avenue entrance to Woody Hall any time, day or night. Drop boxes are also located in Lentz Hall, Trueblood Hall, and Grinnell Hall.

PARTIAL PAYMENTS

The Bursar can now accept partial payments on the total amount you may owe (also see “Cancellation of Registration”). Your payment will be applied to the oldest charges first and you will be charged a 1% per month service charge on the amount unpaid at the next billing date.

FINANCIAL AID CREDITS

Grants such as BEOG, SEOG, S15, and private cash scholarships or awards will be credited directly to your account to pay any past balance due as well as amounts due for the current semester. If the amount paid is greater than the amount due, the balance will be mailed by check. Guaranteed State Loans and NDSL checks cannot be directly credited to your account and must still be picked up in the Bursar’s Office in person.

REFUMES

Refunds for registration changes or for charges such as the S15 fee (upon request) and the Student Health fee (for duplicate coverage) will be made only by a credit to your account. When your account has a credit balance because of cash overpayment (the University owes you), a check will be mailed to you. Normally, there will be a three-week waiting period before the refund is authorized.

CANCELLATION OF REGISTRATION

At the beginning of each semester, your registration will be cancelled if all past-due amounts and the first installment for tuition and fees have not been paid by the cancellation deadline.

WAIVER OF CANCELLATION

Those students who are experiencing a delay in the receipt of verified financial aid can avoid the cancellation of registration by requesting a cancellation waiver through the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance. There is no charge for a cancellation waiver. However, if the full amount for registration fees is not paid before the final installment is due, then the student will be subject to the charges for the installment plan.

QUESTIONS AND ERRORS

By keeping the detailed transaction portion of your monthly billing statement you will have a convenient record of your business with the University. If you find an error on the statement, bring that to the attention of the Bursar’s Office. Questions about specific charges may be referred to the office responsible for that service transaction.

History of jazz program planned for Center Stage

A rebirth of the era of boogie-woogie and ragtime music will take place when the Center Stage Series presents "1,000 Years of Jazz" at 8 p.m. Sunday at Ballroom D of the Student Center. Tickets are $4 for students and $6 for the general public and can be purchased at the Student Center Ticket Office.

The program, designed to create a New Orleans revue atmosphere, will consist of presentations by the Legends of Jazz, musicians whose experience dates back as far as 60 years to the roots of New Orleans jazz; the Original Hoofers, organized in 1969 to preserve the art of tap dancing; and vocalist Gail Sharpe, a re-creation of the 30’s flapper period.

Organized in 1972 by drummer Barry Martyn, the Hoofers, who compose the Legends of Jazz have grown up seeing their music progress from the back streets of New Orleans to major concert halls. The performers are: Andrew Blakeney on trumpet, Floyd Turnham on tenor sax and clarinet; Clyde Bernhardt on trombone; Anton Purcell on piano and vocals; bassist Benny Booker, and Martyn.

Blakeney once replaced Louis Armstrong in the King Oliver Band in 1924. Turnham has performed with T-Bone Walker, Ella Fitzgerald and Maxine Sullivan. A band formed by Martyn once played at the first New Orleans Heritage Jazz Festival and also played in an audience of more than 7,000 at a tribute to Armstrong's 70th birthday.

The Hoofers have toured Europe several times and have made TV appearances on the Tonight Show, Dick Cavett Show, "The Mr. Ed Show," the Mike Douglas Show and other television programs. The Hoofers started out as a heavy weight boxer and played drums before turning to dance. Other members of the Hoofers are Ralph Brown, Raymond Kaalund and Jimmy Clyde.

As the music of the Hoofers has gained in popularity, many of their original fans have returned, and new fans have developed, especially in the night clubs of New Orleans. The group has performed at the Grand Ballroom in New York City and at the Apollo Theater in Harlem.

Blakeney, Turnham, Bernhardt and Martyn are all members of the Hoofers. The Hoofers are scheduled to perform at the Student Center at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Iran-Iraq conflict causes anxiety among students

Another important issue in the war is the status of the three small islands near the Suez of Hormuz. All agree that the Shah took the islands in 1971, and that they are important strategically because they offer a site in public use.

Badi said that the island "really didn't belong to anybody" in 1971. He said the British had at one time occupied the islands, and then moved out, "leaving a vacuum" which Iran legitimately filled.

The islands, he said, have runs from ancient Europe. "Lots of snakes" and possibly oil reserves.

Hasson said that it was not a vacuum that the Shah filled, but that territory belonged to the United Arab Emirate. Iraq's President Hussein wants to deliver the islands back to their rightful owners, he said.

They are important strategically, he said, since they lie between the in-land and the Gulf of the Straits.

"You can see either side of the Gulf from the islands," he said. Adding that torpedo or mines based on the island could easily help regulate traffic.

Asked why Iraq is willing to fight for the return of land to another nation, Hasson said that Arab states are "like a brothel and" and cooperate through organizations such as APEC, meetings of ministers of economy and a "spirit of unity" which binds the Arab world together.

"Each side of life there is some sort of organization to unify the Arab nations," Hasson said. "Iraq is demonstrating that spirit in this struggle, he said.

Historical group in oldest district of town to meet

The Central Carbondale Historical Area Association will hold a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Jane and Harold Wilson, 500 W. Walnut.

The agenda will include election of officers, a discussion of zoning violations, the financial report and a discussion of a plan to commend the Carbondale Library Board and Carbondale School District 95 for keeping the Brush School site in public use.

The Central Carb. lae Historical Area Association was formed in 1973 to protect the West Walnut Street historic district, which runs along Walnut from Poplar to an alley just east of Enterprise. The district also includes parts of Main Street.

There are 54 homes in the district, 47 of which were built before 1920. Included in the district is a house at 511 W. Walnut, which is the oldest documented wood frame in Carbondale, and the meeting site itself.

Tickets on sale for hockey tourney

By Dave Kane Staff Writer

Although preparations have halted for the next 10 weeks, SIU-C's promotions for next week's United States Collegiate Field Hockey Championship begin in earnest Monday as tickets go on sale.

The tournament, featuring 16 of the nation's best AAIA Division I teams, will have qualifying rounds at Wham Field and McAndrew Stadium beginning next Wednesday, Nov. 19, running through next Friday, Nov. 21. The championship round will be next Saturday, Nov. 22, at McAndrew Stadium, prior to the SIU-C-West Texas State football game.

The Salukis' first game will be 2 p.m. Nov. 19 at McAndrew Stadium. Any member of the SIU-C community wishing to attend only the Saluki contests can get tickets for $1 from a member of any SIU-C women's athletic arm, or buy them in Room 205 in Davies Gymnasium. These community members must have an SIU-C identification card.

There will be a $4 ticket for adults that will admit them to all tournament games. These can only be purchased in Room 205 at Davies Gymnasium and at either Wham Field or McAndrew Stadium on the first day of the tournament. Any group of 10 or more can receive a 25 percent discount if they contact SIU-C women's athletics by 5 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 17.

A ticket offer aimed at local high school students is being used. Also, high school students purchasing a $3 ticket for Nov. 17's championship round can, with the ticket stub, get a free lunch at the Student Center and be admitted to that afternoon's SIU-C-West Texas State football game at no charge. Other single-day tickets can be purchased at Room 205 at Davies Gymnasium, from any SIU-C woman's athlete, or at Wham Field or McAndrew Stadium during the tournament. For more information on ticket prices for adults, high school and college students, SIU-C students, and children, contact Women's Athletics in Davies Gymnasium.

In addition, an innovative promotion to cover the cost of winning the tournament has been developed. Monsanto Corp. has donated to SIU-C Women's Athletics a 12-by-15-foot AstroTurf carpet worth $2,000. The carpet will be awarded to the person who comes closest to guessing the actual shipping weight of the rug.

Any contestant can buy three guesses for $1 from any SIU-C woman's athlete, a member of the women's athletics staff, or at Room 205 in Davies Gymnasium. The winner will be announced at halftime of the tournament championship game Nov. 22, although the winner does not have to be present to win.

line. The Bulldogs recovered the fumble and Keith Good scored on the next play.

The lone bright spot for the Salukis was the play of defensive end John Harper. He had 11 tackles, batted down a pass, and had five tackles for 25 yards in losses.

Carr, the Salukis’ starting quarterback in each game, didn’t see much action following his game-opening error. Dempsey hinted that Johnson may start next week against Tulsa.

“This is, I’d say that Gerald is in trouble now,” Dempsey said. “This was the first time Rick has played a whole game and he looked good command and stayed in the pocket. He also handled the option well a couple of times. He has a great chance of starting against Tulsa.”

Saluki-England cage battle is no joke

By Scott Stakem
Associate Sports Editor

Bob Hope will make an appearance Monday night at the arena, but the real hope isn't the zany comedian who hosts television specials. Instead, he's the coach of the England Flat National basketball team, which will play the Salukis in an exhibition game at 7:30 p.m.

Despite the presence of the legendary Hope, Saluki basketball Head Coach Joe Gotfriedt isn't expecting the visitors from overseas to be a joke. He has prepared the club for its opener Nov. 28 against Tulane in Memphis.

"It's a very big ballclub," he said of England. "They've won a lot of tournaments against outside people. We've got two freshmen, Bob Kinnler and Vincent Wiggins, and that will be their first collegiate experience. And Rod Camp didn't play last year, so it will be his first experience in two years in a game-type situation.

According to Gotfriedt, Minnesota played the England squad last summer and won by 20 points, but the contest was called after the first 15 minutes.

Two starters on England's frontline will be John Stroeder, a 6-10 center, and Greg White, a 6-8 forward. Other forwards are Mike Samson, 6-4; Alan Hunt, 6-6; and Steve Asininger, 6-4.

England's guards are Ron Rend, 6-11; Robin Hall, 6-10; Ian Redford, 6-4; and George Wilson, 6-8.

"White and Stroeder are outstanding players," Gotfriedt said. "White played just a lot of names. They play a basic man-to-man defense and a typical motion offense, with a lot of ball and player movement.

International rules will be used. Under these, the teams will be able to in-bound the ball after a violation without handing it to a referee. This creates a fast-paced game, but Gotfriedt wants the Salukis to run a controlled offense.

"We're not going to get into a whistle kind of game," he said. "We can run the break, we will. If not, we'll pull back and run our regular offense.

Gotfriedt said Camp, a 6-11 center from Washington, D.C., will be SIU-C's starting center. Camp, who was a starter at Western Kentucky, is a 6-10 freshman center from Brandon, N.J.; Mike Storl, 6-10 forward center from Columbus; Dave Clapp, 6-6 forward from Midwest City, Okla.; Charles Moore, a 6-7 senior from Corpus Christi, Texas; and Darnell Jones, a 6-5 sophomore from Olney. The starting guards will be Scott Russell, a 6-5 junior from Niles, and Johnny Payne, a 6-4 sophomore from Newnan, Ga.

Moore and Russ are two of the Salukis' top three returning players from last year's 9-7 team. The other, 6-4 sophomore forward Brian Billings, a native of Hopkinsville, Ky., will not start because of an injury. This leaves them with four games to adjust from tendinitis, but Gotfriedt said he will play.

The Salukis' reserves figure to be Kinnler, a 6-11 forward from Romeoville, Ill.; Steve Smith, 6-4 forward from Columbus; Mike Samson, 6-10 forward from Columbus, Ga.; and Edward Thomas, a 6-4 forward from Columbus, Ga.

"We want to accomplish three things," the coach said. "Win the game, see what we've acquired in our new style of play and improve, and inter-change as many lineup combinations as possible."

Tickets for the contest are on sale at the arena. There is no charge to enter the arena. Seating is on a first-come, first-served basis, and no reserved seats are being sold. Prices are $3 for adults, $2 for seniors, and $1 for children.

Also, student season basketball tickets for SIU-C's 15 home games will go on sale next Monday at the arena. Tickets will cost SIU-C employees and students $15 for men's basketball, $9 for women's basketball and $6 for both. A student body event card and a current fee statement, which will cost $2, Event Card cost $8 and can be purchased at the Athletics Ticket Office.

Game plan goes awry as gridders lose, 31-14

By Rod Smith
Sports Editor

It seemed that the Saluki game plan was set. The leading rushing team in the Missouri Valley Conference, averaging nearly 250 yards per game, would use its huge offensive line for protection and run and run and run.

And Fresno State Coach Jim Sweeney knew it.

"They did the same as Long Beach State, who we lost last week," Sweeney said. "We expected them to go with two tight ends and try to control the ball. But they weren't physical enough to get much of that way."

The once-awesome Saluki running attack, now battered by injuries, was limited to only 31 yards as the visitors from California downed SIU-C, 31-14, ending the possibility of a fourth straight winning season in Coach Roy Dempsey's final year.

The Salukis are 3-4 with two games remaining.

And in the end, it was the same sad story: The Salukis were outplayed, outscored and outlasted, three and three bunches turned into 21 Fresno State points.

The Salukis were so ineffective on offense that they were forced to show their passing attack, the MVC's worst, averaging just 140 yards a game. Sophomore Rick Johnson played most of the game and completed five of 22 passes for 77 yards. Many downs he found himself running because the Salukis couldn't get a yard on third down.

It looked for Rainfield Lathan in the right side of the field and it looked for Dean Slattery. By the time Washington came down with the ball but was whistled for interference, the Bulldog linebacker Pat Collins bobbled the ball from his hands.

And Fresno State Coach Rick Johnson dove over for a touchdown.

The Saluki offensive was aided by 140 yards in penalties by the Bulldogs for either intentional or unnecessary roughness. It was the most effective play of the Saluki offense.

From the opening play, out of scrimmage, one could see it was the team's day to lose.

SIU-C started from its own 13- yard line and was a manhandled on the opening drive.

They took possession of the ball back to the Saluki 18-yard line. It was a big, big play. You could feel our momentum until then," Dempsey said. "We were driving down the field."

"But I was back to back with Neal (Furlong) and he was yelling 'oh no! me! me!' but he didn't see him so he went for the throwback.

"Tomacco took advantage of that and, throwing a 16-yard TD pass to halfback Ted Forristall. Forristall caught the ball at the SIU-C 49-yard line and recovered (four catches for 169 yards) and receiver (four catches for 86 yards) Tomacco from Frankfort.

Fresno State's final score came when Johnson was sacked and fumbled on the SIU-3 yard line.
