Hiring freeze problems few, officials say

By Anne Flasz
Staff Writer

SIU-C significantly reduced the number of people hired on state money since the hiring freeze began in January, and although a portion of the decrease can be attributed to other factors, administrators said the freeze has caused no major problems in academics or services.

Since Jan. 25, when the freeze went into effect, the total number of employees hired has dropped 43.3 percent over the eight months immediately preceding the freeze.

From May 27, 1982, to Jan. 24, 1983, the University hired a total of 962 people. The total number represents faculty, administrative and professional staff and civil service employees at the Carbondale campus and the Springfield School of Medicine.

From Jan. 25, 1983, to Oct. 31, 546 people were hired. Hiring for SIU-C faculty experienced the largest decrease since the freeze, down 47.5 percent from the eight months immediately preceding.

The University has hired 410 faculty members since January 25, a decrease of 371 from the 781 recorded for the earlier time period.

John Guyon, vice president for academic affairs and research, said that although some positions have remained vacant because of the freeze, he has seen no major problems arising from it.

The problems, Guyon said, are coming from budget reductions.

"Any kind of hiring freeze is always a bad thing," he said. "But it is helping us meet some of the fiscal problems we are having."

According to Tom Busch, assistant to President Albert Somit, the freeze was instituted to cope with the state's financial situation.

"We obviously are trying to prepare for the worst possible scenario," Busch said. "And as a precaution we will maintain the freeze at least until fiscal year 1985."

John Baker, executive director of planning and budgeting, said that although a major part of the drop in hiring is due to the freeze, the elimination of positions and consolidation of programs may also be factors.

"There may be some vice presidents holding positions unfilled, or they may be reassigning those positions elsewhere," Baker said.

Because of the freeze, when a department chairman or dean wants to fill a position funded by state money, a request must be filed through the president's office. Within that request they must also justify why the position should be filled.

Baker, who said all requests for hiring on state money must pass through his hands, said the freeze has increased the amount of paperwork.

"But we don't delay any services because of the freeze," he said. "We try to handle them on the same day the request is made."

"We are asking vice presidents which positions will have to be filled, then hopefully those positions will be filled and the rest will be permanently frozen," Baker said.

Civil service hiring dropped 16.7 percent since the freeze over the eight months immediately preceding.

House votes against pullout of Marines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House rejected, 274-153, an attempt Wednesday to cut off money for American peacekeeping troops in Lebanon, a move that would have ordered the battered Marine force home in four months and defied President Reagan's Middle East policy.

After an emotional, 90-minute debate, members sided with a call by Democratic Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., to support the Republican administration and defeat the measure, a proposed amendment to a $247.3 billion defense spending bill.

But some of the speaker's Democratic colleagues scoffed at the appeal for bipartisanship.

"A bipartisan policy, if it is wrong, should be rejected; it should not be acquiesced in," said Rep. William Ratchford, D-

Conn. Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., one of the House's most fervent hawkers, added his voice to those calling for a pullout, saying: "The American people want the Marines out of that Lebanese trap."

Voting against the amendment were 126 Democrats and 148 Republicans. Voting for it were 136 Democrats and only 17 Republicans.

The vote marked the most direct congressional challenge of Reagan's decision to keep the Marines in Lebanon even after a terrorist bombing of their headquarters in Beirut killed 238 servicemen.

"We must not flag, our will must not cave, we must follow through," Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, said traordinary" as Gregory makes it sound.

"If Mr. Gregory wants to make allegations about the conduct of the Senate President, he may. But if he wants to make a statement of allegations of improper action by me or the vice president, then he should come to us," said Donow.

Gregory, a mathematics professor, said he hopes the senate will address the letter at Tuesday's meeting.

"I'd like to hear from Donow and Guyon about what they did and how they did it and if, in fact, Donow was promoted under extraordinary procedures," Gregory said. He

Brightway status has improved

By Bruce Kirkham
Staff Writer

The Brightway Path is not yet lit to full capacity, but recent surveys by the Undergraduate Student Organization and the Daily Egyptian indicate that the path is more brightly lit than it was last spring.

The SIU-C administration was criticized by the USO last spring when checks by the USO and the Daily Egyptian found on four occasions that more than 50 lights were not working.

A check on the status of the path by the Daily Egyptian Tuesday determined that 26 lights on the path were not working. The Student Welfare Commission of the USO conducted a survey of the path Oct. 1 and reported that three lights were not working.

The surveys were confined to the Brightway Path and did not include other areas of the campus, such as Thompson Woods and the area around the Neekers Building.

Of the 26 non-functioning lights found Tuesday, nine were located near the Life Science II building. Four lights were out in the area between the Life Science II building and the Campus Mail Service barracks. Five lights were out in the area between Life Science II and Lincoln Drive near Lawson Hall.

The remainder of non-operating lights were dispersed throughout the campus, most in the less-traveled areas of the path, such as the area near Lincoln Drive and Woody Hall. All lights in the area near the Student Center and Faner Hall were working Tuesday.

The USO sent a memo on Oct. 13 to Thomas Engram, Physical Plant director, stating that it was "very impressed with the upkeep of the lights."

Clarence Dougherty, vice president for campus services, told the Student Senate on Oct. 5 that he, Robert Harris, director of SIU-C Security, and Engram checked on the condition of the Brightway Path Oct. 3 and were "very pleased with its condition."

Each year, the Physical Plant budget includes funds for upgrading the light fixtures on the path by replacing old and non-efficient fixtures with new ones, Dougherty said.

Physical Plant crews are notified of lights that are not working by SIU-C Security personnel, Dougherty said. Crews then repair the lights according to circumstances such as the location and type of the light fixture, he said.

Dougherty said one problem with independent surveys on the status of the path is the point of view of the person conducting the survey.

Gus says the Brightway Path seems to be OK — if you're not going far and carry a flashlight to get through the dark spots.

Donow promotion questioned

By Phillip Fiorini
Staff Writer

Faculty Senate President Herbert Donow has been asked by a member of the senate to step down from his post because of an alleged impropriety in his promotion to professor in August.

Senate member John Gregory, in a letter addressed to fellow senate members, questioned whether Donow, a professor in English, received "special, extraordinary and preferential treatment" in his promotion. Gregory then asked the senate president to step down "until the questions raised by this extraordinary promotion are answered."

Donow filed grievances in 1980, 1981 and 1982 after the English Department and the College of Liberal Arts recommended not to promote him, said John Howell, who was chairperson of the English Department at the time. Howell is presently on sabbatical leave.

In the fall of 1982, a panel of the Judicial Review Board had sent a recommendation to President Albert Somit stating that Donow be promoted when his third book was published. The book had been published in July 1982.

Howell said the English Department felt reviews of the book should be seen before Donow could be recommended for promotion.

The promotion was delayed one year while the book was reviewed at the request of John Guyon, vice president for academic affairs. A year later, Guyon approved Donow's promotion, which became effective Aug. 15.

Guyon said Wednesday he is comfortable with the procedure that was followed.

"I find it well within the bounds of actions taken in the past," he said. Since Donow's promotion was "an outgrowth of a grievance," Guyon agreed the promotion was "extraordinary."

Donow, who became an associate professor at SIU-C in 1966, said Gregory's letter was "so full of nonsense I would not even dignify it with a formal reply." Donow said his promotion "was not as ex-

SIU asks state for $12 million to raise faculty, staff salaries

By Anne Flasz
Staff Writer

The SIU System is asking the state for over $12 million to provide a 10 percent salary increase for faculty and a 12 percent salary increase for civil service employees during fiscal year 1985.

In addition to a 6 percent general salary increase for faculty and professional staff, SIU is seeking a 4 percent increase to restore its power to find and keep faculty.

The civil service request calls for a 6 percent general salary increase, with an added 6 percent sought to restore competitiveness.

The SIU System's operating budget request totals $186.6 million for FY 1985.

Vice Chancellor James Brown called the additional increment request a "catch-up measure" and said that salary increases have become a major priority.

"We have to balance what is possible to get and temper that with the hard light of reality," Brown said.

The salary increase request for the Carbondale campus totals $8.5 million. SIU-C is seeking a total of $131.8 million for operating costs.

John Baker, executive director of planning and budgeting, said the request figures were arrived at by comparing the salaries of SIU faculty and civil service employees with those at other institutions and seeing how far both groups deviated from the payroll average.

"Both groups were woefully behind," Baker said, "and civil service employees fell further below than faculty."

Baker said he could not estimate how much of the salary increase requests would be granted by the state until revenue forecasts for FY 1985 became available.

"At this time we don't even know whether to be optimistic or pessimistic," he said.

Baker said the request represents a conservative statement of the University's needs.

Baptist center to be reopened, repaired for use as dormitory

The Illinois Baptist State Association decided Wednesday to reopen the SIU-C Baptist Student Center as a residence hall next fall.

Delegates to the association's 77th annual convention, meeting at Mount Vernon's Logan Street Baptist Church, voted to repair the building, begin recruiting students to live there and to reopen it as "a Christian living center" for a two-year trial period.

The 296-bed hall is located on Campus Drive on the northwest edge of the campus. Technically, the center is not closed. A few volunteers work at the center six days a week to conduct fellowship and program activities.

SIU-C officials had expressed an interest in buying the center for library storage, and the state Department of Corrections raised a storm of protest in the city and on campus by considering it for housing of prisoners to relieve prison overcrowding.

The association's action was "an expression of confidence" in the center's board of directors, the Rev. Dr. Charles Chandler, Urbana, vice president of the association, said.

"Basically, it says that we're going to open it in the fall of 1984 for a two-year period," Chandler said.

If the two-year trial is not successful, he said, the directors will decide on alternative uses of the center.

In other business, the association agreed to take the student center off the market until at least June, 1986.

Chandler said the center had remained closed this fall because there hadn't been time to renew residents' contracts after sale of the property to SIU-C last spring fell through.

Marine's family learns of death

MUDDY (AP) — His family was expecting Marine Lance Cpl. David Gay to bring his wife to their Saline County home for Christmas.

But Gay's parents, David and Neva Gay of Muddy, learned Monday that their 21-year-old son had died in the Oct. 23 terrorist bombing of the U.S. military compound in Beirut.

Gay, a Marine for three years, was a graduate of Harrisburg High School. The elder Gay said his son was 35 days away from completing his second stint in Beirut. He had been stationed there since May.

Reagan signs King holiday bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Martin Luther King's widow at his side, President Reagan signed legislation Wednesday he once opposed that honors the slain civil rights leader with a national holiday each year.

Reagan said King had "stirred our nation to the very depths of its soul" in battling racial discrimination.

Veto of abortion legislation upheld

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The Illinois Legislature on Wednesday departed from recent practices and dumped a measure aimed at restricting abortions.

But in a more traditional step, lawmakers passed a bill that will require parents to be notified when their underage daughters seek abortions.

The House voted 58-38 in favor of overriding Governor Thompson's veto of the first measure, which would have curtailed the circumstances under which an abortion could be granted. The vote was three short of the three-fifths majority needed to overturn Thompson's action.

Emergency asbestos standard set

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department, saying 375,000 workers face "grave danger," issued an emergency standard on Wednesday that slashes by 75 percent the permissible exposure to asbestos fibers by employees in the manufacturing, construction and maritime industries.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration put out an Emergency Temporary Standard — the first of the Reagan administration — lowering the legal asbestos exposure level over an eight-hour day from 2 fibers per cubic centimeter of air to one-half fiber.

The rule is enforceable on publication in the Federal Register. Spokesman Douglas Clark said the agency hoped that would be Friday.

In announcing the action, Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan said the agency's risk assessment predicts "three excess cancer deaths per 1,000 workers exposed for one year at the current permissible exposure level." Those risk studies also showed "risk of grave danger" to people who have even short-term asbestos exposure.

The mortality rate is an extraordinary 53 times higher for smokers who are exposed to asbestos, the agency said.

Such studies indicate lowering the level to one-half fiber per cubic centimeter of air will "save many lives," the agency said.

Asbestos is a fibrous mineral widely used as a fire retardant insulation in buildings and reinforcement in concrete pipes.

Since Jan. 25, 94 civil service employees have been hired, a decrease of 19 from the 113 recorded for the earlier time period.

Jerry Loof, chairman of the Civil Service Employees Council, said there is a concern about the entire budget situation.

"We'd all like not to have a hiring freeze, but we can understand why it's needed," Loof said.

Busch said that although some departments think they are stretched to the limit because of the financial situation in the state, the University is having trouble finding people to fill positions which are open.

From May 27, 1982, to Jan. 24, 1983, the School of Medicine in Springfield hired 57 civil service employees. Since the freeze, 34 civil service employees have been hired, a drop of 40.2 percent.

Faculty hiring at Springfield has dropped 27.3 percent.

Run, Jesse, run

THE CHANTS of "run, Jesse, run" have finally been answered. During last Sunday's "60 Minutes" broadcast on CBS, the outspoken Rev. Jesse Jackson announced his intention to run for the Democratic nomination for president of the United States.

His candidacy is meeting opposition, however, from what most people think is an unlikely source: the black power base itself. Black leaders and organizations such as Tom Bradley of Los Angeles, Andrew Young of Atlanta, the NAACP and others all feel that Jackson does not have a realistic chance of victory in 1984 and that blacks should throw their support behind the Democrat most likely to beat Ronald Reagan.

BUT JACKSON isn't expecting to win. He's expecting to open some doors.

Jackson has the sometimes dubious reputation of being a starter and not a finisher, and many consider him an egoist only interested in personal glory. But in this race, considering his goals, Jackson's confidence and his talent as a starter are bonuses.

One of his goals is to register as many of the 8 million unregistered black voters as he possibly can and to mobilize 50 percent of black voters ages 18-24 — they hold 25 percent of the black vote while only 10 percent of them go to the polls. His other goal is to break down the racial, sexual and religious barriers of the American political system and "open the options for everyone."

WHILE his candidacy is shunned by the black establishment, it is met with positive reactions from the rest of the Democratic candidates. The candidacy is expected to draw support away from front-runners Mondale and Glenn.

Mondale dropped 3 percent in the polls when Jackson announced his candidacy. Glenn dropped 1 percent. As a result, Democratic darkhorses like Cranston of South Carolina and Hart of Colorado have a better shot at the nomination.

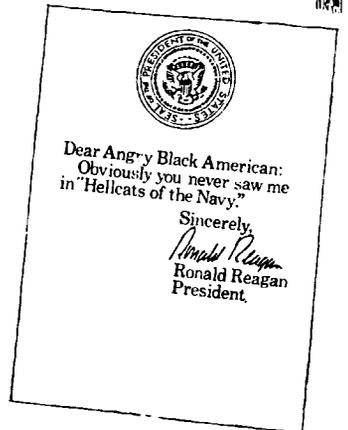

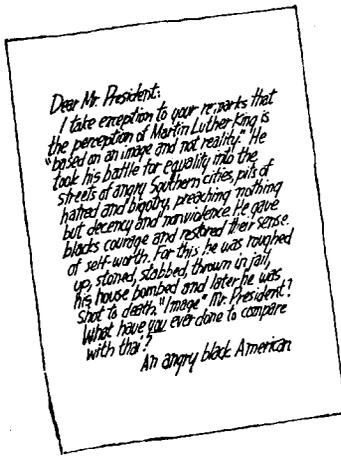

However, Mondale and Glenn welcome Jackson's candidacy. Glenn, who trails Mondale in the polls, hopes it will shorten the gap between himself and the leader. While Mondale, as front-runner, doesn't mind the candidacy because it is expected to register a million or more new Democrats to help him in his bid against Reagan.

THE VOTER registration goal of Jackson contains the most political impact, but his other goal carries substantial social clout.

Jackson hopes his candidacy will open the door for all minorities to advance in the strata of U.S. politics. He is expected to pick a woman as running mate and the proposal may sway other candidates to more realistically consider a woman for the post of vice-president of the United States.

In these respects, the Jackson candidacy is for real, and we encourage him to run a campaign based on issues and not race, play it out to the fullest and earn his votes. His goal of registering 3 million new voters is a goal all Americans should share. His goal of opening up the political process to all citizens is a goal all Americans should share.

JACKSON is not the first black candidate for president — Dick Gregory and Shirley Chisholm have both run in the past. But it is unique in the sense that while sapping support from Mondale and Glenn, he may help them beat Reagan. While not drawing support from the black establishment, he may solidify and expand black voters. And though he might not be elected and change policy, he may effect change in other ways. Jesse Jackson is the only candidate in the race who may win by losing.

Letters

Hartzog's comments are petty; other schools tear down posts

This year I've seen the most enthusiastic crowds at the Saluki football games since I came to SIU in 1978.

Now I hear Lew Hartzog is crying over the tearing down of the goal posts. How petty. Doesn't he realize how common it is across the country. At Northwestern, the fans tear down the goal posts and throw them into Lake Michigan. At U of I, there has been three occasions for tearing down the posts this year.

As for the cost of replacing them, if the Salukis weren't number one the crowds would be less than half the size and, of course, there wouldn't be near the revenue. Also, the television money from the semi-finals and finals of the NCAA playoffs may be hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Another thing, Lew, why do I see your picture celebrating with the team in the locker room after games? Do you work out with them during the week? Did you call the fake field goal from your box seat? It's irritating to see you grabbing part of the glory when it is the players, Dempsey, and his coaching staff who bust their butts to be No. 1.

From what I hear, the players think the fans have been great, and they're the ones whose opinion count the most. — Jim Wright, Senior, Engineering.

Stage Company did a fine job

Although it states in the program that The Stage Company is not a part of any university or college, I feel I must write this letter to the D.E. to commend the Stage Company for a job very well done.

This past weekend I attended a performance of "The Rainmaker." Many members of the Newman Center were in attendance. I found the performance very enjoyable, inspirational and professional.

The Stage Company is made up of members from several communities in Southern Illinois and did a very professional job of acting. I was seated in the very first row, so close many times I felt a part of the performance, and was able to pick up on all of the actor's expressions. This play had a profound meaning.

Also, during intermission, several members of the crew and ushers talked with the audience and seemed genuinely pleased that everyone was enjoying themselves. I hope this fairly young organization has many more successful seasons in the future. It is a pleasure to have an organization like the Stage Company the community.

Thank you for a very meaningful and entertaining evening. — Mary Lynn Janeczek, Senior, History Education.

Feminist goals don't limit men's freedom

By Sally Prane
Graduate Assistant
Women's Services

I was appalled and dismayed at the paranoia expressed by Ron Isaacs in his letter of Oct. 19. He condemns that horror of horrors — a "feminist" with total responsibility for abridgment of freedom in America. He accuses feminists of attempting to impose their "minority" views to the detriment of male freedoms. He appears to advocate wholesale discreditation of any male or female who works toward the equalization of human rights as represented in part by the feminist movement.

Feminism is defined by Webster's Dictionary as 1) the theory of the political, economic, and social equality of the sexes; 2) organized activity on behalf of women's rights and interests. Isaacs' assumed definition implies that feminism, rather than working toward equality between the sexes, is focused on a premeditated, arbitrary effort to curtail rights held sacred by men. These "rights" range from perpetuating age-old myths of women as sexual objects who seek and eventually enjoy domination by males to punishment of women who would dare ask that men support the children they have fathered.

ISAACS' assumption that the issue of pornography has been laid to rest by a presidential commission negates the impact of new knowledge generated by further research in this area. He makes the assumption that "readership is probably limited to high school boys and college freshmen." Even if he provided some documentation for this assumption, pornography is illegal for those under 18, and contributes to the development of a crippled perspective of healthy sexuality and attitudes of domination over women — essentially acting as a permissive agent for this behavior in these young men.

He states, "There is nothing evil, dirty or disrespectful in the admiration of a woman's physical beauty." This statement is valid only when a woman consents to such intrusion. He implies, however, that "males can't help it. It's an instinct." How then does he account for Eastern cultures, where to stare openly is rude and disrespectful to both males and females? His contention that "women welcome this kind of attention and exploit it for personal and business reasons," assumes that even if we aren't overt prostitutes, we manipulate men through the use of those same techniques. Mr. Isaacs has attempted to equate fine literature and art with the so-called "natural instinct" of males to admire women's physical beauty. He appears to draw a parallel between invited and expected voyeurism in literature and art and an intrusive and demeaning sexual inspection.

HE THEN addresses the issue of non-payment of child support. He again assumes that feminists are the problem here, but his logic is faulty. Not all women are feminists. Not all women are mothers. Not all feminists are mothers. Not all feminists are women. Feminists are not the only people interested in dealing with this issue.

This issue, for Isaacs, centers around "feminist" pressure rather than a man's responsibility to provide support for children he has fathered. Seventy-eight percent of divorced men with children fail to meet their obligations within one year of the divorce. This would seem to be deliberate and intentional neglect of agreed-upon responsibilities by these fathers. It is my professional observation that most divorced mothers with children encourage fathers to be involved with their children, if only for the emotional well-being of the child. It would seem that abridgment of visitation rights occurs much less frequently than nonpayment of support, except possibly in cases of child, wife or alcohol abuse.

ISAACS does injustice to the large percentage of men who do care to remain involved in their children's support and upbringing. I agree with his statement "that when visitation rights are enforced, non-payment of child support dramatically declines." His attack, however, on divorced mothers who attempt to collect the agreed-upon child support to supplement their incomes is unwarranted. I agree, let's find a means of ending nonpayment of child support.

In his final statement he pleads, "let us not all (men, I assume) lose our freedom." Is freedom finite? Is it exclusive? Will my having a particular freedom necessarily mean that someone else won't have it? The essence of freedom is that all human people, male and female, are entitled to it.

Talent contest Saturday; 13 vie for Ms. Eboness

By Lisa Nichols
Staff Writer

After six weeks of rigorous rehearsal, the 13 black women vying for the title of Ms. Eboness will compete Saturday night in a talent contest which will decide who will reign as this year's queen.

The women — students at SIU-C — were already judged last week on personality, poise and enthusiasm. They will be judged on their audience appeal and originality as they perform everything from dance to music to dramatic interpretation.

The 13 women, who are the finalists out of a field of 80 applicants, will be judged by Norma Ewing, professor of education; Sharon Hutcherson, student trustee; Fred Manuel, assistant SIU-C football coach; and Gregory James, graduate assistant to Black Affairs Council.

The winner of the annual event, which was begun 12 years ago by Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, will receive a $400 SIU-C scholarship.

The talent show will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium. Tickets are $4.50 and $8 and are available at the SPC Central Ticket Office or at the door.

Multi-media show 'Earthwalk' scheduled

Did you ever want to take a hike in the real outdoors — like Alaska or in the Rocky Mountains?

An audio and visual presentation by two brothers, Dave and Phil Walker, who spent 14 months on a 5,000-mile trek from Alaska to Mexico may be the next best thing.

Earthwalk, a multi-media presentation, will be shown at 8 p.m. Sunday in the Student Center Ballroom D.

Slides showcase the photographic abilities of the Walker brothers as they are seen hiking and jumping over gaping crevasses, standing atop mountain peaks and many other action shots.

Admission to Earthwalk is free. The event is sponsored by SCP Expressive Arts and Eastman Kodak.

Entertainment Guide

SPC VIDEOS

Thursday and Friday at 7 and 9 p.m., William Hurt stars in "Body Heat," a tale of greed, passion and murder.

Saturday and Sunday at 8 p.m., Part 2 of the Video Art and Video Documentary Series will be presented. A variety of unconventional means of expression used in the video medium will be shown.

Wednesday night, at 7 and 9, Dustin Hoffman and Meryl Streep star in "Kramer vs. Kramer," a tale of a child custody battle.

CONCERTS

Friday night at 8, Kenny Rogers takes the stage at the SIU Arena. Tickets are $12.50 and $15, and are available at the Arena Ticket Office.

Friday, associate professor of music William Hammond will perform a concerto on the modern valve horn. The free show is at 8 p.m. in the Old Baptist Foundation Chapel.

Saturday night, a joint student recital featuring Chris Ferch on the trumpet and Anita Hutton and John Windings on the pianos will be held free of charge at 8 p.m. in the Old Baptist Foundation Chapel.

Tuesday, the SIU Jazz Band will give a free concert at 8 p.m. in Shryock Auditorium.

SPECIAL EVENTS

Thursday through Saturday at 8 p.m., the comedy "Catch 22" will be performed in Calipre Theater. Tickets are $2.50 and can be purchased at the Calipre Theater Box Office.

Saturday night at 7:30 in Shryock Auditorium, the contestants in the Ms. Eboness Pageant will compete in a talent contest. Tickets are $4.50 and $6 and are available at the door or at the SPC Central Ticket Office.

Sunday at 2 p.m., two bicycle racing films, "Vive Le Tour" and "A Sunday in Hell," will be shown free of charge in the Student Center Auditorium.

Sunday at 8 p.m., Earthwalk, an audio and visual multimedia presentation of the outdoors, will be shown free of charge in the Student Center Ballroom D.

WIDB will be sponsoring a "Rocky Horror Picture Show" costume party Friday at midnight at the University 4 theaters.

Glasses may be made obsolete for nearsighted, specialists say

CHICAGO (AP) — Some eye specialists predict surgery could make eyeglasses obsolete for many nearsighted people, even those who now need thick spectacles to see more than a few feet.

In presentations to the American Academy of Ophthalmology here last week, eye surgeons said they can correct vision by either sewing a "living contact lens" made from a donated cornea onto the eye, or by reshaping a slice of a patient's cornea.

The surgical procedures could allow people who had been severely nearsighted to throw away their glasses, or get by with light reading glasses. "I'm totally convinced that within the next 20 years it will be commonplace to restore eyes to normal focus with surgery rather than glasses or contacts," said Dr. Richard Villaseñor, a University of Southern California eye surgeon.

But a note of caution was sounded by Dr. Randall Olson, ophthalmology chairman at the University of Utah.

"These operations are exciting, but you have to look at them realistically. For myopia, they should be considered cosmetic surgery because excellent modes of correction are available with glasses and contact lenses," Olson said.

More than 20,000 nearsighted Americans already have undergone radial keratotomy, in which a series of radiating incisions are made on the cornea — the eye's outermost window.

The incisions flatten the cornea enough so that light is able to hit the retina, rather than falling short of the target and thereby failing to send visual information to the brain.

Keratotomy is helpful only for people who needing a limited amount of correction, Villaseñor said.

For those requiring further help, there is keratomileusis, which was developed 25 years ago by Dr. Jose Barraquer, of Bogota, Columbia, to treat conical corneas.

More than 11,000 of the operations have been performed, but only a handful of surgeons perform them in the United States. The operation is demanding and requires expensive equipment.

Dr. Robert Epstein of the University of Illinois said that the surgeon grasps the eyeball in a suction device and shaves off a thin layer of the cornea. That sliver is frozen, and retooled on a modified contact-lens lathe to the required specifications.

When reshaped, the sliver is defrosted and sewn back into place. The hour-long surgery is done on an outpatient basis under local anesthesia, and stitches are not visible.

A third operation, epikeratophakia, is a less-dramatic method in which donated tissue, pre-cut to specifications, is stitched over the recipient's cornea to form a so-called living contact lens.

The technique was developed four years ago by Dr. Herbert Kaufman, of Louisiana State University in New Orleans, to treat patients whose lenses were removed because of cataracts but whose eyes could not tolerate contact lenses.

The doctor removes the patient's outer layer of cells on the cornea, then removes a ring of tissue on the corneal periphery, where a graft will be sewn.

Meanwhile, corneal tissue from a donor has been retooled to the patient's needs and freeze-dried.

After being placed in saline solution, the donor lense is sewn on. More than 200 of these operations, which like keratomileusis cost about $3,000 an eye, have been performed.

'Coffeehouse' duo to play in Student Center

The Old Main Room in the Student Center will take on a coffeehouse atmosphere at 7:30 p.m. Thursday when musicians Mark Paffrath and Marvin Dykhuus perform.

The Racine, Wis. duo's range of music moves from light rock and ballads to bluegrass. Each demonstrates expertise on guitar, mandolin and fiddle. The two have formed a lively, friendly stage presence in the 10 years they have been playing together.

Strong vocals are important for coffeehouse performers, and these two complement their eloquent instrumentation with outstanding voices.

Paffrath and Dykhuus have been touring the Milwaukee area for the 10 years they have been playing together, but this is the farthest south they have traveled to perform. Dykhuus formerly played with a local Wisconsin band, Marvin and The Yellow Dogs.

In 1980, Paffrath and Dykhuus released their first album, "Everybody Knows."

Admission to the coffeehouse performance is free to students and $1.50 for the general public. Free International Coffee will be served. The event is sponsored by SPC Center Programming.

Downstate conference planned by Republicans

By John Racine
Staff Writer

Gov. James R. Thompson and Sen. Charles Percy top the list of office holders slated to speak at the first Downstate Republican Conference, to be held Friday and Saturday in Mount Vernon.

Thompson and Percy will be two of the five major Illinois political figures who will appear at the two-day conference, according to Gordon Wayman, editor in chief of the Southern Illinois Republican Reporter, a newsletter which is promoting the conference.

Others scheduled to appear at the Mount Vernon Holiday Inn this weekend include Lt. Gov. George Ryan, Secretary of State Jim Edgar and Rep. Tom Corcoran, R-Ottawa, who is seeking the party nod for U.S. Senator in the March primary, he said.

Ben Fernandez, a presidential candidate in 1980 and a worker in the Reagan administration, will also address the crowd, which is expected to exceed 250 persons, Wayman said.

Other prominent political figures from Southern Illinois will also be featured at the event, he said.

Wayman said the event is being sponsored by leaders in the 19th and 22nd congressional districts in an attempt to promote party unity, which could aid Republican efforts in the 1984 elections.

Two highlights of the weekend will be a Friday night banquet and a Saturday luncheon. Both events will feature some of the major political figures, Wayman said.

The seminars will encompass subjects such as voter registration, dealing with special interest groups and grassroots strategy.

Gov. Thompson will address an afternoon gathering of county party chairmen, Wayman said. Other sessions will be lead by representatives of the Republican National Committee.

There is a $25 registration fee for those who plan to attend.

Executives get alum awards

By Dave Saelens
Staff Writer

Three SIU-C graduates have a very special reason for returning to Carbondale for the 1983 Homecoming festivities this weekend.

John Holt of Darien, Conn., Donald A. Stork of Belleville and Albert J. Shafter of Carterville will be the recipients of the 26th Annual Alumni Achievement Awards Saturday at the Alumni Recognition Luncheon at 11 a.m. in the Student Center ballrooms.

John Holt

Donald Stork

Albert Shafter

Bowen Developmental Center in Harrisburg in 1980 after 16 years of service. He has been active in SIU-C Alumni Association affairs for the past 20 years — service which includes two 4-year terms on the association's board of directors and one year as president of the organization.

Odaniell said a committee of Alumni Association members chose the recipients of the awards from names submitted by SIU-C alumni and faculty.

"All alumni and faculty are provided the opportunity each year to submit names of individuals they think are deserving of the honor," he said.

The 1983 Alumni Association Great Teacher Award, which includes a plaque and a check for $1,000, will also be presented at the luncheon, Odaniell said.

All current and emeritus faculty are eligible for the award, he said, and ballots for nominating faculty for the award were sent to all members of the Alumni Association.

"The key to this award is that it is not done by a committee of alumni or faculty," he said, "but strictly by people who attended SIU."

Odaniell said the $1,000 award comes from contributions made by alumni each year for that specific purpose.

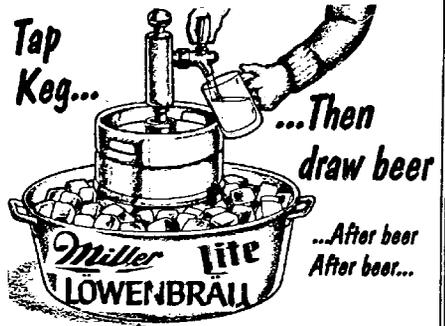

Also at the luncheon, President Albert Somit will deliver his annual State of the University address, Odaniell said.

New to the luncheon this year, Odaniell said, will be a special award presented to Jay King in appreciation for his 28 years of service as assistant director in the alumni office. Odaniell said King retired at the end of August, and this is the first time this type of award has been presented.

Odaniell added that a reception and dinner meeting of the Half Century Club — individuals who graduated 50 or more years ago — will be held at 6:30 p.m. Friday at the Ramada Inn in Carbondale. Odaniell said the SIU-C graduating class of 1933 will be celebrating their 50th class reunion at the meeting, and new members will be inducted into the Half Century Club.

A reception of all alumni and faculty will be held in the ballrooms of the Student Center following the Homecoming football game Saturday, Odaniell said.

Festival recognizes RSOs; groups host variety of events

A mock intelligence test and a headless body made of plaster were just a couple of things to be found at Southernfest III Tuesday.

Different Registered Student Organizations had tables set up for students to learn more about the organizations.

The Art Students League displayed the headless body along with a sculpture made of white, gray and blue tubes, all sticking out of cement blocks. Freshman students in ASL provided art flip books, the pages of which are flipped through quickly to see moving pictures.

The University Honors Program gave the mock intelligence test to whoever wanted to attempt it. Such questions as "What was the best concert at SIU?" a) Asia b) The Kinks c) Neil Young d) Angela Bofill or e) Jackson Browne" and "What's the best way to get publicity at SIU?" a) design a Halloween T-shirt b) demand funding from the Undergraduate Student Organization c) start a new church d) none of the above and e) all of the above," were asked.

The Leisure Exploration Service is providing a $20 certificate for rental of base camp equipment to whoever can guess from a list of 11 locations where SIU-C students will be going over Thanksgiving break. All entries should be in by 6 p.m. Sunday.

couraged people to sign up for a blood drive to be held Tuesday to Nov. 11 at the Student Center.

The Student Orientation Committee, who sponsored the fest, had a grab bag. The cost was $2 and some of the prizes that were drawn were T-shirts, back packs, frisbees and radios.

The purpose of Southernfest, according to Cathy Wright, chairwoman for the Student Orientation Committee, is to get recognition for the smaller organizations.

"It is to get students familiar with the Registered Student Organizations on campus," she said.

The fest was to be held in the Free Forum Area, but due to rain, the fest was moved into Ballroom B of the Student Center. Twenty groups were scheduled to participate, but about 14 groups were there.

"A lot of people thought that it was cancelled because of the rain," Wright noted.

Groups that participated included the USO, Alpha Gamma Delta, American Marketing Association, Data Processing Management Association, Obelisk II, American Society of Interior Design and the United Nations Simulation Association.

Jazz, rock and soul music was provided by WIDB.

Electronic anklets to keep 'eye' on inmates

WAUKEGAN (AP)—"It's all right. It's a little loose," said Frank Ruiz, 35, after being fitted with an electronic ankle designed to make sure he stays home at night while he takes part in the Lake County sheriff's work-release program.

But the blue rectangular transmitter strapped above his ankle and the glare of television lights clearly made Ruiz uncomfortable.

Asked how the transmitter felt, he said, "It's too soon to say." He walked around the sheriff's office like someone trying on a pair of new, ill-fitting shoes.

"After an hour or two, you won't know you have it on," said John Lloyd, vice president of National Incarceration and Control Services Inc. of Albuquerque, N.M., a representative of the electronic monitor manufacturer. "You can shower, bathe and play sports with it. There's no reason to curtail normal activities."

Ruiz, of Waukegan, is one of four Lake County men convicted of non-violent offenses trying the new ankle.

Queen, king voting for Homecoming now in progress

Activities in preparation for Homecoming this weekend were taking shape as voting for the Homecoming King and Queen began Tuesday.

Tim Flodin, chair of special events for SPC, said three housing areas, Greek Row, and off-campus housing were represented in the contest with five candidate running for king and one for queen.

Representing Brush Towers is Prim Johnson, freshman in automotive technology, and Shari Matzelle, sophomore with an undecided major. From University Park were Lloyd Andre Smith, freshman in electrical engineering, and Kimberly Lynn Hammond, sophomore in court reporting.

Although Thompson Point had no king candidate, Mary Chybicki, a public relations senior, represented Thompson Point for queen candidate.

Candidates from Greek Row were Jim Miller, junior in interior design from Alpha Tau Omega, and Jeannette Wey, Alpha Gamma Delta junior in clothing and textiles.

Representing off-campus housing are John Genoulis, junior in education, and Susan Drone, public relations sophomore.

The king and queen candidates will participate in a parade at 9:30 a.m. that will go south along Illinois Avenue toward McAndrew Stadium. The winners will be announced at the halftime of the game with Illinois State on Saturday. Flodin said preliminary elections for candidates were held last week in each of the housing areas and on Greek Row. He said a preliminary election is also usually held to select off-campus candidates, but this year only two people submitted applications, so they were "automatically in the running."

'Homecoming fire' set for Thursday

A homecoming bonfire will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday at the old pavillion, across from Bailey Hall.

Popcorn and cider will be served at the event, which is being sponsored by the Thompson Point Executive Council.

said he would also like to know whether Guyon and Donow violated promotion procedures.

In the letter, Gregory said that Donow's promotion was being considered at the same time he "pushed for the administrative line on marketability and strongly supported the Board of Trustee's proposal on financial necessity," which would have given the board authority to temporarily suspend University contracts during an emergency fiscal situation.

Donow said he is on record as opposing the administration's marketability policy, in which funds are taken from the faculty salary pool to pay faculty members in high-demand fields.

He said his position was stated in a letter published in the SIU-C Courier, the weekly newspaper distributed to faculty and staff by the administration. Donow also said that at the June board meeting his objections resulted in a modification of the wording of the financial necessity policy.

Gregory said in the letter that circumstances from December 1982 to September 1983 took place where Guyon withheld judgment on Donow although he made normal decisions on others. Gregory said that after the time when all other candidates' dossiers were closed, the vice president paid for two outside evaluations of Donow's book.

After obtaining the evaluations, Gregory said, the president asked the English Department to reconsider its negative recommendation, but the department refused.

In the letter, Gregory refers to the University's promotion policy in the Faculty Handbook where it states that once the dossier leaves the academic unit, no further information should be added other than that required by recommendations from both the department review committee and the dean.

Donow said the dossier was not opened but the vice president felt that he wanted to get additional information before making a decision.

of weapons and aggravated assault.

Two SIU-C students and a Chicago man were arrested by SIU-C Security early Wednesday after they allegedly beat up another man in a dormitory room. The two students, the victim and another man had been arrested by Carbondale police two hours earlier on The Strip for fighting.

The victim, William L. Coglianesse, 20, of Oak Forest, was treated for facial injuries and released from Carbondale Memorial Hospital after the second incident, which was reported to SIU-C Security at 3:39 a.m.

Police identified the three as Joseph R. Skrezyna, 18, of Allen II, Keith M. Statham, 18, Wright II, and Steven D. Pratel, 17, of Chicago.

Police said they were told that Skrezyna had beaten Coglianesse while the other two stood on each side, holding martial arts weapons called nunchuks. The incident occurred in Room 212, Allen II.

Skrezyna, a freshman in computer science, was charged with aggravated battery. Statham, a freshman in the pre-major program, and Pratel were charged with unlawful use

'Good jobs' for blacks lacking in county, board members say

By Karen Torrey
Staff Writer

Although Jackson County conforms to state guidelines for hiring minorities, two Jackson County Board members say that blacks are still caught in low-income, low-status jobs with the county.

Doris Weaver and Darnecia Moultrie, the only two blacks on the 14-member board, said that blacks are restricted in the types of the jobs they can get because of the county's hiring methods and because the county has no affirmative action officer.

Weaver said the county adheres to its affirmative action policy — that the percentage of blacks hired by the county must match the percentage of blacks in the total population — but argues that the "spirit" of affirmative action is being ignored.

"A lot of what affects who's hired in the county is who you know," said Weaver, a graduate student in psychology. She said eight of about 80 employees in the county building are black.

Weaver and Moultrie, a secretary at the SIUC Rehabilitation Institute, both were elected to the board last December. The two discussed county politics and the black community Wednesday at a brown bag luncheon sponsored by the Black American Studies Program.

Moultrie described a discussion among board members about applicants for a switchboard operator position available with the county.

The field of 16 candidates, five of whom were black, was narrowed to five, including one black, Moultrie said. Then she said the board members were asked, "Do you know anyone on this list?"

Both Moultrie and Weaver said that when jobs become available with the county, they try to seek out qualified blacks and encourage them to apply.

Because the county has no affirmative action officer, Moultrie and Weaver said there is no one to keep an eye on whether companies which are awarded contracts with the county adhere to affirmative action requirements.

And Weaver said the board seldom checks to see whether a contractor is in compliance before accepting bids or awarding contracts.

Moultrie said the county may hire an administrator for the board who also would act as an affirmative action officer.

As board members, Weaver and Moultrie want to help improve job opportunities for blacks in the county. But their hands are tied, they say, unless blacks become actively involved in trying to help themselves.

"The black community first has to take an interest in the issue," said Weaver.

Both Moultrie and Weaver said that without strong, vocal support from the black community, their ability to make changes is restricted.

Blacks, as well as other voters, seldom make it to the polls for county and township elections, said Moultrie, although local issues affect people's lives most directly. And she said she has a hard time convincing her black constituents to donate their free time to serve on advisory committees that address problems affecting blacks.

The non-paid positions may offer no personal benefits, but Moultrie said that some committees provide an opportunity for blacks to help others solve problems and find jobs.

Truck rolls; riders unhurt

Two Makanda residents escaped injury early Wednesday when their pickup truck overturned on Old Route 51 after they swerved to miss a deer in the road, according to the Jackson County Sheriff's Department.

Arthur Hazel, 32, was driving the truck in which Rick Petty, 31, was a passenger. The accident occurred at 2:45 a.m.

about five miles south of the intersection of Old Route 51 and U.S. Highway 51.

The truck swerved to miss the deer, went out of control and overturned after hitting a guardrail, a department spokesman said.

Neither Hazel nor Petty required medical treatment. The truck sustained major damage.

World Community Day slated

Church Women United of Carbondale will observe World Community Day at 1:30 p.m. Friday at the First Christian Church sanctuary, 304 W. Monroe.

The program, written by women from Australia, is titled "No Longer Strangers." The theme depicts the roles of the aborigines, the pioneer immigrant women and those of all classes of present-day Christian women.

The Rev. Craig Watts, minister of the First Christian Church, will give the invocation.

All church women of the Carbondale area, as well as anyone from the general public, are invited to attend the event.

Bird movement patterns to be Audubon topic

Associate Wildlife Specialist Bill Cochran of the Illinois Natural History Survey will show slides on "The Use of Radio Telemetry in Monitoring Movement Patterns of Birds" at the November meeting of the Southern Illinois Audubon Society.

Cochran will present his program at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the First Federal Savings and Loan. He will discuss a project involving the use of radio transmitting devices to monitor two condors and studies he has done on the migration of falcons.

Van Winkle said.

"Hopefully I'll have a starting role," Birch said. "but if that doesn't work out that's fine with me because I'll be able to contribute either way."

Van Winkle's guard corps consists of Birch, Bernard Campbell, Nate Bufford, and Ernie Hubbard. Doug Novsek will not be eligible to join them until the outset of spring semester.

Although Birch averaged 22.4 points and 9.1 rebounds per game at Coffeyville in 1981-82, he said his role will be to "play tough on the defensive end and get the ball to the right people when I have the ball." He prefers playing defense. He said, since it allows him to "display my athletic skills."

His role as team captain will be to lead by example, he said. Will he feel added pressure on the court because of that role?

"If I do I'll look at it from the good side," he said. "I'll just take the pressure head on and show the guys they have someone who can handle it."

As a red-shirt last year, Birch watched every Saluki home game. He believes he measures up to the other guards in the Missouri Valley Conference.

"The Valley is one of the toughest conferences in the nation," Birch said. "It doesn't have the prestige a conference like the ACC has but it's very competitive."

The most significant differences in the Missouri Valley and the conference Birch played in at Coffeyville are the size and skill of the athletes, Birch said.

"It seems like just about every school has a seven-foot center," Birch said.

Birch said Saluki fans can expect to see an exciting brand of basketball at the Arena this season.

"You'll see an up-tempo pace," Birch said. "We have quick players on this squad in guards, forwards and centers. (Kenny) Perry and (Harry) Hunter are both agile up front. Our shooting percentage will definitely improve because the guards will be able to get the ball inside to the post men, who can shoot pretty well. The wings won't have to shoot all the time this year."

about," Otolski said. "Two years ago, Clarence dropped a couple of touchdown passes against Southern. Now he is so confident, he doesn't believe he'll drop anything."

One of the reasons Collins has caught so many passes is junior quarterback John Coppens. Coppens leads the MVC in every passing statistic except passing efficiency. His 14 interceptions keep him in second place.

"John started out slowly, but he has come on strong," Otolski said.

Coppens has completed 140 of 251 passes for 1,506 yards and 12 touchdowns. Coppens already holds eight Illinois State passing records, and could claim two more before the season ends.

Junior tailbacks Kevin Jones and Virgil Winters have split time in the backfield, but with the rest that they give each other, it just keeps them fresher for later in the game, Otolski said.

Jones has gained 851 yards on 178 carries, good for 4.6 yards per carry, while scoring a team-high nine touchdowns. Jones has also caught 23 passes for 158 yards.

Winters has done almost equally as well, rushing for 659 yards on 123 carries, 5.4 yards per carry. He is right behind Jones with eight touchdowns and has caught 17 passes for 132 yards.

Defensively, All-MVC free safety Mike Prior leads the Redbirds. Prior last year had eight interceptions, but has only three interceptions this year.

"I think one of the reasons that he doesn't have as many interceptions this year is that we have given him more area to cover back there," Otolski said.

Otolski said Prior is not being thrown to as often as last year. Prior, just a junior, holds the Illinois State career interception record with 14, and is four shy of the MVC record of 18.

No. 2 ranked Fredrik Pahlett from Minnesota, No. 13 Kelly Evernden from Arkansas and No. 16 Ric Rudeen from Clemson are only the beginning of the list. Lefevre said he will replace Oliquino with freshman Lars Nilsson at No. 2. Nilsson has been suffering from a sore right wrist and has had problems serving. But Nilsson said he is ready to play.

Wadmark will play at No. 1 singles and will now team up with Chris Visconti to play No. 1 doubles. Wadmark, after doing a good job in the Nike All-American Singles Tournament last weekend in which 32 of the best collegiate players were there, said he's "ready to play anyone now."

Playing at No. 3 singles will be Gabriel Coch and at No. 4 will be Chris Visconti. Coch has had a see-saw year but Visconti has been very effective at No. 4. Paul Rasch will play No. 5 and Scott Krueger will be at No. 6 to round out the Saluki singles lineup.

Nilsson and Coch will play at No. 2 doubles while Rasch and Roelard deKort will play No. 3.

"We're going to see how these doubles teams work out."

Lefevre explained, since he switched them around with the loss of Oliquino.

Two of the top doubles teams in the nation will have to face Wadmark and Visconti.

The meet will be played in flights with the No. 1 singles players in one flight, No. 2 singles in another and so on. There will also be three different flights for the doubles teams.

Arkansas and Clemson would have to be the favorites to win this meet with SIU-E and Minnesota close behind.

Redbird coach turning program around

By Jim Lexa
Staff Writer

Fresh off of a 45-7 Homecoming win over Western Illinois last Saturday, the Illinois State Redbirds will try to wreck the Salukis' Homecoming this Saturday at McAndrew Stadium.

Third-year Illinois State Coach Bob Otolski would probably like nothing better than to see his Redbirds knock the I-AA No. 1 Salukis, 9-0, from their undefeated perch.

Otolski has rebuilt a Redbird program that had stumbled to just one winning season since 1973. After winning just five of 21 games during the last two seasons, Otolski has matched that win total with a 5-3-1 campaign.

Illinois State, predicted to finish last in the Missouri Valley Conference, is 2-1-1 in the MVC, good for third place.

"The only thing people looked at was our 2-9 record last year," Otolski said. "I think we've surprised some people this year."

Otolski revamped the Redbird program when he started mainly freshmen and sophomores last year. He has 21 starters back from last year's squad and Otolski said he expects 18 starters back again for next season.

"Last year we were so young with all of our freshmen and sophomores starting," Otolski said. "We've made a rapid improvement since the beginning of the year, but next year we should really be tough."

If not for a last-minute game-tying field goal by West Texas State and a tough 14-13 loss to Western Michigan, the Redbirds could own a 7-2 record.

One of the few seniors starting for Otolski is split end Clarence Collins. Last year, Collins set four receiving records and he is back on the trail again this year with five more records.

Collins has 52 receptions for 736 yards and eight touchdowns this season. In his career he has 135 catches for 2,227 yards and 17 touchdowns.

"Clarence really epitomizes what our program is really

Guard's attitude gains Van Winkle's respect

By Daryl Van Schouwen
Staff Writer

To a basketball coach trying to turn around a losing program, Roy Birch has the perfect attitude about how the game should be played.

"I don't like getting beat at too many things," Birch, a 6-foot-2, 180-pound point guard, said. "I have a lot of pride in the way I play basketball."

Saluki Coach Allen Van Winkle said he is so impressed with the newcomer's character he named him team captain, even though Birch hasn't played a game in an SIU-C uniform.

"Roy is one of the classiest kids I've ever met," Van Winkle said. "He's a good student and he sets a fine example of what an athlete ought to be. He has good habits and is a leader by example. He exhibits the kind of class we want associated with our program. I think he'll do a fine job."

The respect Van Winkle

expresses for Birch is mutual. The Saluki coaching staff began recruiting Birch early in his sophomore year at Coffeyville (Kansas) Junior College, and Birch was immediately impressed.

"The coaching staff was straightforward with me," Birch said. "They told me I had a chance to play but I'd have to earn it. I felt right away that I could trust them."

Birch is one of eight new players on the 1983-84 Saluki team who will try to make Saluki fans forget last season's 9-19 record. Van Winkle, who inherited a team that went 0-16 in the Missouri Valley in 1981, is hoping those eight transfers will help make SIU-C a winner for the first time since 1978-79, when the Salukis were 15-13.

Birch will vie for a starting spot with "an unusually talented crop of guards," according to Van Winkle. Because the entire cast of guards consists of first-year Salukis, Van Winkle said it's "way too early" to name starters. Regardless of who starts it is likely that all will see plenty of playing time, especially early in the season.

Men netters facing toughest challenge

By George Pappas
Staff Writer

The toughest preseason tournament awaits the Saluki men's tennis team this weekend as they travel to Belleville to compete in the Oak Hill Classic.

Competing in the meet are sixth-ranked Arkansas, seventh-ranked Clemson, 10th-ranked SIU-Edwardsville, 20th-ranked Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois State and the Salukis.

What will really make the meet tough for Saluki Coach Dick LeFevre is the loss of No. 2 singles player Rollie Oliquino. Oliquino twisted and snapped the interior cruciate ligament in his right knee in a match against Vanderbilt two weeks ago. He is definitely out for the season and will see a surgeon Thursday to see if he needs an operation.

The loss of Oliquino not only makes it difficult for LeFevre to find an equal replacement for him at No. 2 singles, but Oliquino and Per Wardmark were playing sensational at No. 1 doubles.

"Rollie was playing so tough for us," LeFevre said. "The team will miss his fine play."

Nonetheless, the Salukis will face some tough cookies. Seven of the top 50 singles players in the nation will be in this meet.
