Property tax exemption plan is confusing

By Bob Tita
Staff Writer

A referendum Tuesday dealing with property tax exemptions has drawn both support and opposition as well as a good deal of confusion.

Illinois voters will be asked to vote for or against a proposed amendment to the Illinois Constitution that would allow state and local governments to make property used by veterans' groups or for patriotic purposes exempt from property taxes.

Veterans organizations have said that the tax exemption is necessary to keep the groups from dissolving because of a lack of money.

Illinois law grants a tax-free status to land used by schools, state and local governments as well as religious, charitable and fraternal organizations. Cemeteries and land used by horticultural and agricultural societies are also tax-free.

Supporters of the amendment claim veterans' groups should be given the same exemption because the groups support community services such as summer camps, scholarships and hospitals.

Bill Cardwell, manager of Veterans of Foreign War Post 7190 in Murphysboro, said his post donated $42,000 to help build St. Joseph Hospital in Murphysboro last year. He said the American Legion post in Murphysboro donated $50,000 to the hospital.

Cardwell said since the state no longer allows veterans' posts to operate slot machines and other gambling games, the money available to operate the posts has decreased, and they are no longer able to donate large amounts of money.

Opponents of the amendment, however, believe that the tax exemption would cause fewer people to pay more property taxes.

Douglas Whitney, president of the Taxpayers Federation of Illinois, said homeowners already pay about 30 percent of property taxes in Illinois. He said the percentage would increase to make up the lost revenue.

He said government services such as police and fire protection to veterans' property would not decrease even though the groups were not paying for the services.

Whitney said the provision in the amendment granting tax exemption to land used for patriotic purposes is vague and confusing.

The reasons behind the Shawnee Solar Project's offer to donate its assets to Carbondale's energy division have been misconstrued, according to the director of the Solar Project. Bill Richey said that the interests that lead to the offer have been lost in concern over the cost of maintaining the project's facility.

He said the Solar Project's board of directors was not looking for a way to bail the project out of debt, which it is not in, or for a way to remain an action organization, because it will regardless of whether it has any assets. The offer was made, Richey explained, because the board did not want to see the library, tools and other materials dealing with energy conservation "just put in boxes" now that the Solar Project's sources of funding have all but dried up.

The board offered the project's assets to the city on Sept. 30. Since then, officials from the city have been checking into the feasibility of taking over the assets, including the Solar Project's office and demonstration center at 808 S. Forest St., which has been remodeled into a showcase of energy-saving techniques. The building that houses the demonstration center is leased from the University.

Richey said that if the resources located in the demonstration center are combined, with the knowledge of Robert Pauls, director of the city's energy division, and the resources the division itself has, Carbondale would have a "substantial basis for a comprehensive energy program to benefit the students and the community.

The Carbondale City Council will conduct a public hearing Monday night dealing with proposed changes in the Carbondale Housing Code which include mandatory smoke detectors in all dwellings, and allowing occupancy in basements.

Last month the Citizens Advisory Commission and members of the city staff issued a report recommending changes in the housing code. The recommendation calling for mandatory smoke detectors had drawn the support of Fire Chief Charles McLaughlin.

"Smoke detectors are the best and earliest (warning) systems we know of," he said in a letter to Donald Monty, community development director.

Mostly suggested in a memorandum to the council that if a mandatory smoke detector ordinance is passed, enforcement of the ordinance could be incorporated into systematic housing inspections.

Another recommendation would involve allowing people to live in basements. The CAC report said this would allow for the possibility of underground housing.

When the idea was presented to the council, Mayor Helen Westberg said that allowing occupancy in basements might lead to overcrowding. However, Monty said basement dwellings would be required to meet code standards for heating, ventilation, lighting and height. He said most of the existing basements would not meet the standards.

GOP hopes to pick up at least 30 House seats

WASHINGTON (AP) - Republicans are trying to override President Reagan's program for a second term, and hoping Tuesday's election can produce enough gains in the House of Representatives to give them philosophical control of the chamber.

"Our goal was to get, at a minimum, the seats we lost in '82 to think that is very much in the realm of possibility," said House Republican Leader Robert H. Michel of Illinois. "Getting 30 is not unrealistic." A pickup of 30 seats, Michel said, and "we're back being competitive again."

A pickup of 30 seats while Republicans hold 167. There are two vacancies.

Neither Republicans nor Democrats predict the GOP will gain the 51 seats necessary to control the House outright, but Republicans increasingly have focused on the upcoming election as an opportunity to recapture the 26 seats they lost in 1982 - though not necessarily the same ones - and return to the numerical position they held in 1981, after Reagan won his first term.

Rep. Newt Gingrich of Georgia, a leader of GOP conservatives in the House, said on the CBS television program "Face the Nation" Sunday, "I think we are going to gain well over 20 seats in the House, and the reason is that the underlying message of the Democratic tax increase has just fallen like a thunder on the American people."

Coelho, however, interviewed on the same program, said, "We are going to look good on Tuesday night."

Confident of Reagan's re-election, Republicans have been increasingly concentrating on electing GOP congressional candidates.

More than presidential post at stake for Illinois voters

By the Associated Press
In addition to chasing the next president of the United States, voters on Tuesday will decide on a variety of other candidates and issues. Among the various positions at stake in Illinois are: one U.S. Senate seat, all 22 U.S. House seats, all 118 Illinois House seats, 21 of 50 state Senate seats, three of nine seats on the University of Illinois Board of Trustees, and various judicial elections and retention elections, including one contest to fill a vacancy on the Illinois Supreme Court. Some history of the presidential election shows that Illinois has voted for all but two winning presidential candidates this century — Jimmy Carter in 1976 and Woodrow Wilson in 1916.

New law helps boost number of Illinois voters

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — A liberal new voter registration law has helped boost the number of Illinoisans signed up to vote to an all-time high of nearly 6.5 million, according to officials. The State Board of Elections announced Wednesday that 6,470,438 people are registered to vote in next week’s election — about 79 percent of those old enough to cast ballots. The total is nearly 217,000 higher than the previous record, set in November 1976. Figures show an increase of about 7 percent since the March primary, officials said.

Ferraro says Democrats will ‘eke out’ a win

CHICAGO (AP) — Geraldine Ferraro said the Democrats may be “devastated” by up to 40 points in some states, but she predicted they will still eke out enough victories to patch together an electoral vote in next week’s election — about 79 percent of those old enough to cast ballots. The total is nearly 217,000 higher than the previous record, set in November 1976. Ferraro said the Democratic candidates will “just not go away.”

Police search for suspect in killing of two girls

DECatur (AP) — As police searched for the person who strangled and sexually abused two young girls, parents of the girls urged others not to let their children go out alone on Halloween. "I wish I would have kept rain inside," said Earnestine Gordon, one of the girls' mothers. Sunday, police continued their search for clues — and the killer. Police said Saturday they were looking for a man "known in the neighborhood" where three young girls disappeared Halloween night and when two of their bodies were found in a vacant apartment building Friday.

Economic course, theory. The president says he won't be past four years. Here is a Mondale, Ferraro take liberal stands on issues.

By Jay Schmitz
Staff Writer

Ronald Reagan and George Bush will continue to campaign in the state on the verdict of the past four years. Here is a look at the president's record and some of his proposals for the future.

Economy
Reagan says if the economy is allowed to run its present course, increased incomes will increase tax revenues which will reduce 3% of the deficit. Many economic experts argue that the deficit will continue to affect the health of the nation.

Foreign Policy
Reagan's foreign and defense policies have been based on maintaining the nation's defense. He has requested a budget increase for the defense department, which he says will help the United States remain a superpower.

Social Issues
Reagan is against abortion and the Equal Rights Amendment. He supports the voluntary school prayer and opposes the Equal Rights Amendment.

Democratic ticket to the Senate, Mondale also supports ERA. He opposes a constitutional amendment on abortion, saying that it is a private moral matter. Ferraro, a Catholic who says she personally opposes abortion, but would not interfere with a woman's religious beliefs on others, also supports this position.

Mondale favors federal aid to private schools to help students pay for college. Ferraro supports the Equal Rights Amendment and opposes abortion.

Mondale wins the women's vote. Mondale's plan to reduce the deficit calls for an $80 billion increase in defense and health care spending. The tax increase would exempt families making less than $25,000 a year and affect those making more than $60,000 the most. Mondale's plan also counts on increases in economic growth to raise revenues.

Foreign Policy and Defense
Mondale's main strategy is to attack the Reagan administration's foreign policy, concentrating on Reagan's large weapons spending. Mondale said during the second debate that Reagan's definition of national defense is to throw money at the Defense Department.

Mondale has called Reagan's 'Star Wars' space weaponry proposal a "hoax." He supports a mutually verifiable freeze on nuclear weapons and weapons testing.

Social Issues
Naming Rep. Geraldine Ferraro of New York as Mondale's running mate was an historic move that endeared the Democratic ticket to the women's movement. Mondale also supports ERA. He opposes a constitutional amendment on abortion, saying that it is a private moral matter.

WHILE A MILLION distraught and mournful Indians attended their slain leader’s funeral ceremony Saturday, the bloody carnage taking place around the country continued. More than 1,000 Sikhs, Hindus, Muslims and Christians have been killed in the name of religion since the chaotic bloodletting following India Gandhi’s assassination. India had been a metaphor for the nation. It has seen the country and the world, state voting with the winner 85 percent of the time in the last six years.

And because of its diversity, the state has frequently been called a microcosm of the United States. As we look forward to the 1984 presidential election, we can use Illinois to suggest three scenarios of how the election might turn out.

Politically, the nation can be considered in three geographic sections: the urban, industrialized Northeast; the Midwest heartland; and the South and the West. In our Illinois metaphor, Chicago stands for the urban, industrialized Northeast. The farmlands of central Illinois span the mid-size cities, are part of the “Midwest heartland.” Southern Illinois, Little Egypt, represents the “South.”

Finally, and stretching our metaphor just slightly, the suburbs, central and southern Chicago, particularly rapidly growing DuPage County, represent our “West.” As election specialists Paul Green and Peter Colby have noted, DuPage is the “Orange County” (California) of Illinois.

RIGHT NOW, in the nation and Illinois, President Ronald Reagan is running well in the West, South and Midwest. He may even be leading in the Northeast. Walter Mondale’s chances of sweeping upstate New York in this election depend upon whether he can win most of the largest states just like Illinois. So, there are still three Dreamscapes — the outcome of this election, which we can illustrate by using Illinois as the nation’s barometer. The first scenario, suggested by polls, is a Reagan landslide. In the nation, there is a massive loss of a 56-state sweep, leaving only the District of Columbia for Mondale. In Illinois, a Reagan landslide would bring in the largest victory in DuPage and the other suburban counties around Chicago. The “West” would garnering perhaps 70 percent of the vote, and 100 percent in downstate central Illinois (60 percent).

AT THE OPPOSITE end of the spectrum, a Mondale upset, which would rank with Harry S. Truman’s victory over Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1948, would depend on factors similar to the 1982 gubernatorial election in Illinois, in which James Tower defeated Adlai Stevenson by 5,000 votes.

In the nation, Mondale would have to win close victories in many states, and lose the large electoral vote states like New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Illinois. A record turnover of minorities leading to massive majorities out of urban centers, such as Negroes in Detroit, and Chinese in Chicago, will make the cities look for a “hidden vote” the politicians are not looking for. Illinois is a swing state. There are new registered blacks and others who feel the policies of both candidates are discriminatory and unfair. The Mondale margin of victory in heavily Republican areas will have to come from creating giving a gender gap induced by a women’s revolt against Reagan and support for Mondale’s social issues.

In Illinois, Mondale could win with just over 50 percent, a plurality, if not in Chicago but in the country. There are 75 candidates on the ballot, including a total of 17 third-party candidates — 12 of them for the West — and a great deal of confusion. In this scenario, Chicago is the key to victory as are the other urban areas nationwide.

THE THIRD SCENARIO is that Reagan holds his base in West and South, and breaks even in the heartland and the Northeast — a combination that would result in a close nationwide victory. In Illinois, the results would reflect the country. Reagan would win in the suburban counties of Chicago, as he did in 1982. Reagan votes in the “West” suburbs balanced Carter votes in the “East” suburbs, therefore, “heartland” and “West” support Mondale. In Illinois, Mondale would win by a margin of 375,000.

Illinois remains a barometer of the nation, and if Mondale were to lose the state, it would show the West and South would have to tell us who is not only going to capture our state but who has the votes to occupy the White House for the next four years.

Vote for peace-oriented candidates

DANGER of nuclear war is a reality we can’t ignore. What can you do about it? Well, as Dr. Caldicott said, “In a democracy, everyone pushes the button.” The simplest way to keep war is to vote for candidates who believe in nonviolent solutions to our problems.

The killing in India will continue, Iran and Iraq’s holy war will as well. For these fanatics, suicide proves a valuable tool with which to disrupt peace and kill the infidels.

It should also be clear that the present fanatics so apparent in the world is neither new nor restricted to the Middle East.

In Ireland, the perpetual bloody conflict between Catholics and Protestants is but a continuation of the larger struggle that has been waged since the 14th century. The Irish seem no closer to an end to the agony now than they were five or 30 years ago. The endless cycle of retaliation has become such that Ireland has become subordinate to the frenzied emotions of an eye for an eye.

The killing in India will continue, Iran and Iraq’s holy war will as well. For these fanatics, only martyrdom and death can fulfill their goal. As long as this notion prevails the Gandhi and Sadasa of the world will continue to die.

Only Percy can bring real jobs

The false assumption that Illinois wouldn't miss Sen. Charles Percy because of his international concerns as chairman of the prestigious Senate Foreign Relations Committee is an extremely unfortunate mistake.

Contrary to this narrow-minded view, Sen. Percy's influential position in our government gives him a powerful voice on matters of greatest importance to all citizens of Illinois as well as to those of every other state. World stability and life and death often rest the decisions of his committee.

Sen. Percy has the experience, the knowledge and the guts to influence a foreign policy which is in the best interests on the United States and world peace. He has not sold his vote to another country as has his opponent Paul Simon.

Students in the University community are seeking an education to prepare themselves for a full and productive life. As a trustee of the University of Chicago, founder of the Bell and Howell Foundation which has taken a special interest in education and a staunch supporter of educational appropriations, Sen. Percy thoroughly understands the educational concerns.

As recently as this past July, he was honored at SIUC by Iola Lambda Sigma for his support of vocational, technical and business education.

Yes, Paul Simon is for education, but certainly no more so than is Charles Percy, who has far more clout. Moreover, Simon's best answer to provide jobs has been levying and make-work government projects. Percy knows what it is that makes real jobs.

Percy earned his way in the American free enterprise system. Percy started at the bottom, worked hard, educated himself and achieved great success as the president of Bell and Howell at age 26, the youngest owner president in America at that time. And Paul Simon has the temerity to ridicule Percy for being successful in the business world.

In a recent campaign newspaper taking a narrow view of the world and making a recommendation as to who should be our United States Senator on the basis of who might bring home the most pork, if you want to rake leaves for a living, vote for Simon. If you want a real job and the opportunity for self-respect, vote for Sen. Charles Percy.

Support education by voting

On Nov. 6, 1984, students that have registered to vote will have the strength of the student vote by helping to determine the future quality of life in the United States for the next four years. The issue of free education in the election becomes apparent, readily and easily, when realizes that he is making public officials responsible to the message needs of students.

The message that I am speaking of is that of the American people in general. According to a study sponsored by the American Association of Community Colleges and the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (Higher Education) more than 33 percent of 1,066 Americans who voted to the highest degree that education should be raised, and more than 50 percent favors increases in financial-aid programs for needy students. This study documents the fact that most Americans support the message of students.

The message of students must be conveyed to our elected officials. This can be done most effectively by having a high rate of voter turnout among students and by persistently informing elected officials as to the importance of issues vital to students and to the future of this nation in general.

Please show your support for the message of students by voting on Nov. 6, by reminding your friends to vote by and informing your elected officials about the issues important to students.

William J. Goodnick, Student Treas.

Libertarians offer an alternative

It's time to remember that there is an alternative to Ronald Reagan and Walter Mondale. Reagan has been running on a campaign of free market economics and, to whatever limited extent Reagan has freed the economy, the result has been a better economic climate. However, the majority of Americans apparently also feel that Reagan is much more likely to lead the nation into a war, and for that reason they are very uncomfortable with his positions.

In addition, although Reagan supposedly stands for smaller government, he has also been pushing Big Brother in 1984: compulsory prayer for children (nothing in the public schools can be voluntary) and laws against abortion. Reagan's views on limited government seem rather limited themselves.

At the beginning of the campaign, it was revealed that Mondale's positions on the issues were merely the opposite of Reagan's in the areas of taxes, state religion and war-mongering. However, in the last debate he seemed determined to sabotage the best of them. And although he be claimed to oppose deficit spending, it is clear that the tired mixture of state Socialism that the Democrats have been pushing since Roosevelt will not wash with the American people either.

So what are we to do if we want less government without war and without some watered-down version of Christianity shoved down our children's throats? Choose the Libertarian Party. Presidential candidate David Bergland and Senatorial candidate Steven Givot will be on your ballot on Tuesday, and they won't lead us into war into Central America, will really lower your taxes, and will keep the government off your backs and out of your beds. It's time to say "a plague on both your houses" and vote Libertarian, for a change.

Shawnee Forest lands should stay undeveloped

By Monty Tyner

Student Writer

The fate of one of Southern Illinois' most prized resources, its wilderness areas, is under close examination by the National Forest Service. The results of a Forest Service study could mean life or death for the few remaining primitive forest areas in Southern Illinois.

The study, which will be released in December, will determine which protected roadless areas in the Shawnee National Forest will receive protection under the 1975 Eastern Wilderness Act. Those who favor development, such as Bald Knob and Ripple Hollow in the southeaster area of the forest, and Panthanners Den, Murray Bluff, Garden of the Gods, Lunk Creek and Burke Branch in the southeast, the areas range in size from 1,200 to 7,300 acres, and comprise 14.6 percent of the Shawnee National Forest's 2,275,000 acres.

Placing the areas under jurisdiction of the Forest Service would give them the strictest protection available from the federal government. They would be closed to road construction, mining activities and motorized vehicles.

Opposition to the act has come from lumber and mining companies and some residents who favor development to boost the local economies in the region. They argue that hard-rock mining, underground fluororsilica and silica would increase employment and bring money into Southern Illinois.

While these arguments may be legitimate, they do not justify destroying part of an ever-shrinking wilderness. This ecosystems of these areas are already seriously endangered. Development of these areas would destroy the natural beauty that thousands of visitors enjoy each year.

The wilderness areas of Southern Illinois are an asset to the national character, and a half a year have elapsed since Paul Simon has so far been unable to carry out his promise that he would have done to bring it to the voters.

PROJECT: Offer not bail-out

people of Carbondale," do not cost of maintaining the demonstration center, which has drawn the most attention since the Solar Project made its offer to the city, would not be as great if it is built, Richely asserted, however, that if the demonstration center is taken over by a group such as the city's energy division, some improvements, like installing a furnace, could be made. He said that if the proper sort of improvements are made, they could be a part of the center's display of highly efficient ways to heat a home.

A final decision on the Solar Project's offer has not yet been made by the City Council. At previous council meetings,生长, concerns were voiced by council members and city officials about whether the city will be able to maintain its energy division in the future at its present state. The wisdom of expanding what may be a dying program, has come under considerable question.

Both candidates from the 2nd District, Republican incumbent Larry Lipe and Democratic challenger Russell Elliott, agreed that a tax increase is undesirable. Elliott said that as a property owner, he would like to see taxes levied in such a way that the large tax burden on property owners could be relieved. He said that was a great idea, but present laws prevent county governments from increasing tax rates, except through the property tax.

In the 3rd district, Republican incumbent Democrat Roy Reiman. Both agree that taxes are a problem, but Reiman takes a tight stance on how money should be spent. Reiman said that a tax increase is spread out over a period of years. "We have to do something to cut down the increase and maybe spread it out before it is finalized," Reiman said.

Howard Long, 5th District incumbent, calls himself a "balanced-budget Democrat" and says he will go along with a tax increase "to pay the bills, but not for any new programs."

Natalie Trimble, incumbent from the 6th District, said she is opposed to spending without great care, and that there is basically no disagreement on the tax issue between parties or people. "Not everyone refuses to believe that taxes must be raised," she said.

Another issue facing the Jackson County Board is the construction of a new jail. The Illinois Department of Corrections has mandated that improvements in the jail system be made by January 1986, but the type of jail to build and where to put it have been subject of debate.

Reiman said he thinks the state is picking on Jackson County. Grob said that the jail will have to be built to meet the conditions set by IDOC. Grob added that he thought a local jail is a good idea. "We could share facilities with two or three counties that are in a similar situation," he said.

Lipe said it will cost a lot of money not to build the jail. Elliott added that he doesn't have all the solutions for the jail situation.

Browdy said the county should "go ahead and build the jail. We already own half of the land needed, and it will free space in the courthouse." Miller and Trimble agreed that the county will have the bail, but Grob said he believed the county isn't being given enough time to complete the project.

Trimble said if the jail isn't built, it will be vastly more expensive to transport prisoners to other facilities and pay for their upkeep.
Dear Members of the SIU Community:

Our country faces a fork in the road.

One fork leads to continued record deficits and drastically increased spending without eliminating waste in the defense budget. This road classifies ketchup as a vegetable, continues tax loopholes to giant corporations, and cuts back school lunches. This road wants to curtail the Department of Education and eliminate the Pell Grants, Guaranteed Student Loans, and College Work-Study Programs, decreasing social security, welfare, and forcing small farmers, banks and small businesses into bankruptcy in record numbers. This fork in the road fails to negotiate peace with our adversaries, favors a policy of confrontation, and talks of “winning” a nuclear war, leading us into economic recession, while forsaking our minorities and aged.

My road is more realistic. It believes America is strong, proud and humane. This road understands the need to provide jobs for proud people who deserve only the opportunity to work hard for a decent day’s wages, will secure the future for the elderly, and provide lower tuition and student aid, not bombs, to increase education. This road favors turning the American family farmer loose to feed a starving world where two billion people live in poverty. This road favors an America strong enough to negotiate and humane enough to know that we can never win a nuclear war. And this road favors fairness to all, regardless of sex, race, age, or economic status.

My road is the road I ask you to travel with me. As an overseas combat veteran, I believe we can have a strong and free America, while cutting waste out of the defense budget. The way to peace is strength through minds. The cost of just one outdated B-1 bomber is $248 million, while the entire college work-study program nationwide is only $340 million. This is just one example of the hard choices to be made. I favor the choice of a strong defense through jobs and minds.

I offer you twenty years of experience in Congress to get this country on track again. But I need your help, support and vote on November 6th.

Sincerely,

Ken Gray

RALPH DUNN
For State Senate
There's no substitute for experience

DUNN IS THE RIGHT PERSON FOR THE STATE SENATE

"Ralph Dunn is our kind of legislator. An independent thinker who studies the problems facing Illinois and responds to them intelligently and openly, he has been a good state representative for 12 years and would be a good state senator.... he is truly a statesman in an era of self-serving careerists .... Dunn is cut from the classic model of the successful businessman who devotes his later years to public service and is beholden to no one. Dunn .... is the better candidate for state senate." -Southern Illinoisan Editorial 10/22/84

DUNN FOR STATE SENATE

"Ralph Dunn has the better credentials and qualifications of the two candidates. His years of serving in the Illinois House of Representatives should allow him to make a smooth transition to the state senate and give him the ability to become an effective senator." -Daily Egyptian Editorial 10/30/84

DUNN NAMED LEGISLATOR OF THE YEAR

"Many people say they support education. A few work for better public education, but only the best and the brightest achieve lasting results. Ralph Dunn is among them. He earned our vote, our support of his candidacy, and deserves to be called Outstanding Legislator." -JEANEA News Release 10/24/84

"Dunn is a conservative with a record of outstanding constituent service compiled during 12 years in the House of Representatives. That record contrasts markedly with the rather limited experience of his opponent. -St. Louis Globe-Democrat 10/21/84

"Twelve year state Representative Ralph Dunn is attempting to move to the upper chamber .... on the basis of his record and experience in the Legislature, Ralph Dunn deserves election to the Senate. -St. Louis Post-Dispatch Editorial 10/31/84

Women's League leader says women won't vote collectively

By Sarah Robers
Staff Writer

Women probably won't make that much difference in Tuesday's presidential election, even with Geraldine Ferraro on the ticket — but they could if they wanted to, says Gayle Klam, president of the Jackson County chapter of the League of Women Voters.

The nomination of Ferraro as Walter Mondale's running mate was exciting for a while, but "at first blush, I would say, no it's not going to make too much difference when it comes time for people to vote," Klam said. "The vice-presidential candidate is not who people vote for.

Women have the potential to create a voting bloc, Klam said. Women have been the majority of the population since World War II, and since 1980 have represented a majority of the voting populations.
But whether or not they will use those numbers collectively is another matter and "at this point, I don't see as they will," she said.

Women's League leader says women won't vote collectively

But, she added, "if women wanted to work together and vote together to make a specific point, they have that ability," Klam said.

People indirectly give messages when they vote, Klam said. Politicians don't always realize these messages unless they are obvious, but numbers of voters can make an impression.

A high voter turn-out in an election tells politicians that people are interested in them, she said. If a politician gets a high percentage of the votes in an area, that politician should be concerned with the issues that the voters are concerned with, she said.

On that point alone, people should get out and vote, she said.

Klam has been in the League of Women Voters since 1974 and president for two years. The League, she said, developed from the The National American Women's Suffrage Association, which fought for women's right to vote.

The League, however, is not a women's group per se, she said, but a group which is concerned with issues that affect the population as a whole. Women have tended to vote without knowing much about the issues, although they had some concerns," Klam said.

Certain questions have had different priorities for women than they do for men, she said.

Women have always been more concerned about peace and historically have not wanted the United States to intervene in wars, she said. This is probably because women do not want to lose their husbands and sons, she said.

Women have also been more concerned with a stable economy to elevate the quality of life in the home, she said.

Even though men and women usually have different concerns, people tend to vote more for the candidates who best represent their economic interest.

Often what a politician says is not the same as what he or she does in office, Klam said. People have to look at what the politicians have done in the past, not just the token things of what they say, or how they look, she said.

True or False

If Reagan wins, we would be better off with a Republican in the U.S. Senate.

False. Appropriation bills, those allowing spending for needed projects, must originate in the House, not with the President and not in the Senate. The Senate is solidly Democratic and will remain so after the November election. This is the reason that we cannot afford to send a minority party freshman member to Congress at this critical time.

Incumbents fare well in straw poll

Incumbents fared well in a straw poll last week in GE-C 205, Innovation for the Contemporary Environment, taken by instructor Larry Busch to "see how the students of a Midwestern university compare with national results."

In three sections of the course in creative problem solving, about 600 students gave Ronald Reagan and George Bush a landslide victory over Walter Mondale and Geraldine Ferraro and several write-in candidates, said Carolyn Foxx, a faculty member helping Busch with the class this semester.

Reagan and Bush received 400 votes to Mondale and Ferraro's 199. Other candidates getting votes were Busch, Snoopy and Frank Zappa.

In a close race for the U.S. Senate, a fine line divided incumbent Charles Percy and U.S. Rep. Paul Simon. Percy was awarded the Senate seat with 303 votes, while 273 went to Simon. Votes also went to Busch, President Albert Somit and Snoopy, Foxx said.

Students were also asked to choose three of 12 listed problems which they considered "most crucial."

The top five topics students were concerned with were nuclear threat, unemployment, national and world economy, toxic waste and quality of education, Foxx said.

She said abortion was low on the list, as was sexual and racial discrimination. Other topics that made the survey were drunk driving, lost or missing children, social security and foreign affairs meddling.

We're concerned students and faculty.
We're Democrats, Republicans and Independents; Liberals, Conservatives and Moderates.

Some of us will be voting for Reagan; some of us will be voting for Mondale.

In fact, we disagree on many of the crucial issues of this campaign.

But despite our differences, above all else, we are united in the belief that our elected leaders must have political integrity.

Tomorrow, the voters of Illinois face a critical decision in selecting their next U.S. Senator.

We think the choice is clear—PAUL SIMON.

The incumbent, Chuck Percy, wants you to believe that after 3 terms he is the "Illinois Advantage."

But that's just a campaign slogan to cover up his ineffectiveness in Washington.

Just look at the record—Illinois is last among the 50 states in getting federal tax dollars returned for expenditure. That costs our state jobs and income.

The Almanac of American Politics 1984 describes Chuck Percy as "a showhorse, not a workhorse."

The Economist magazine calls him "The powerless chairman of the powerful foreign relations committee."

Chuck Percy's weakness lies in his lack of commitment to a cause—he flip-flops on the issues and blows with the political winds like a weathervane.

In contrast, Paul Simon votes his conscience. He has the courage to stand up and fight for his convictions—a personal quality that we can all admire.

Paul Simon takes a common sense approach to issues. After a decade in the House, he has built a solid reputation for his ability to work effectively with members of Congress in both parties. He is a highly respected legislator whose only special interest is helping people.

The Chicago Tribune of February 26, 1984 said: "Paul Simon has been the epitome of the decent, honorable public official in his 28 years as a state legislator, lieutenant governor and member of the U.S. House."

The Wall Street Journal of March 6, 1984 said:

"Much of what he does is neither liberal nor conservative. It's simply a human response to something he has seen or read."

We want a senator who will fight for our future. Paul Simon believes that "The American Dream is based in part on the idea that our children can inherit a world better than our own. The decisions we make will determine if that dream will live on."

The stakes are too important in this year's U.S. Senate race for politics as usual. We think it's time for a change, for the better, for our state and nation. Make sure you vote tomorrow—because your future depends on it.

Group makes last effort to stress freeze issue

By Cathy Brown
Staff Writer

The Carbondale Freeze Voters are making one last effort this week to get voters to concentrate on what they call the "most important issue in this election," by voting for candidates who support a mutual, verifiable freeze on nuclear weapons.

Hugh Muldoon, co-coordinator of canvassing neighborhoods and over 75 in the Carbondale area, will be making canvassing calls, passing out leaflets urging people to vote for Walter Mondale, Paul Simon and Kim Gray in the election next Tuesday.

"A lot of people don't see this as the most important issue in this election," he said, "but if we don't stop the arms race, we could easily find ourselves in a nuclear war and there won't be any more elections."

He said choosing who to vote for is "a pretty clear choice when it comes down to this issue." The three candidates they have endorsed all support a nuclear freeze, while their opponents do not.

The freeze resolution which Gray, Simon and Mondale say they will support if elected calls for a halt in production, testing, and deployment of all new nuclear weapons, he said. "Simon has been an outstanding spokesman for arms control, and has strongly supported the freeze in Congress," Muldoon said. "Mondale has committed himself to immediate action in line with the objectives of a freeze, if he is elected."

"Reagan has opposed every major attempt for negotiated arms control throughout his political life," said Muldoon. "Reagan is the only president since Truman who has not produced any arms control agreements."

The freeze believers believe that the advances made in the arms race in the last few years are very dangerous because the chances for error are increasing and there is a continuing reduction in the arm's-length of time for decision-making.

Muldoon also sees a danger in the fact that the Reagan administration has not agreed to a no-first-strike policy. This, he says, is "incredibly destabilizing because the Soviets may feel they need to make a pre-emptive strike to defend themselves."

The freeze voters maintain that our present defense is adequate. "There's been a lot of cold war tactics to frighten Americans into spending more on weapons," Muldoon said.

"The truth is we have the best military capability in the world. The freeze voters say that while by some measurements the Soviets are ahead in the arms race, by other measurements the United States is ahead. Experts feel that both sides are basically equal," says a freeze voters press release.

They also point out that Pentagon officials who have been asked if they would trade the freeze in for the Soviet's nuclear arsenal have always said they wouldn't.

"The numbers game is something that is usually scrabbled by those who are pushing the arms race," he said. The freeze voters also maintain that we do have adequate means to verify a freeze, and that, in fact, a freeze would be easier to verify than the limited treaties and the build-down concepts supported by freeze opponents.

"We see it as a logical first step in stopping the arms race," he said. "It is a very significant step because of the fact that we're continually developing more weapons."

He added that polls show that a large majority of American voters—between 75 and 80 percent—support the freeze. Muldoon says that a nuclear freeze would also have a positive impact on our economy and the quality of our social services. A freeze, he said, "can release the funds and scientific and engineering resources that are necessary to rebuild our economy."

Ingram pleased about swim meet

By Martin Folan
Staff Writer

The SIU-C intrasquad swimming meet held Friday gave new men's swimming coach Doug Ingram a positive outlook on the upcoming season.

The maroon and white teams competed in swimming and diving events in preparation for the season's opening meet against Illinois, Kansas and Missouri on November 14.

Ingram said that while the teams finished the events in good times, they still have work to do.

"We need to improve our strokes and we need more depth," Ingram said.

Depth is needed particularly in the breaststroke, backstroke and fly events. The freestyle event is one of the team's strong points, Ingram said.

Tomas Hakonsson swam the stroke for-stroke with Tom Nye in the 50-yard freestyle to win the event in 21.38 seconds. Nye finished in 21.45. Hakonsson's personal best last season was 20.8. Later, he won the 100-yard freestyle in 46.95.

Grillhammar and Brinkman, known for their 1-2 finishes last season, awarded an even-paced 1,000-yard freestyle, finishing 4 seconds against. Grillhammar won with a time of 9:15.1.

Hans Kroes, Gerhard Van der Walt, Nye and Brinkman teamed-up for the 400-yard free relay and won in 3:31.82.

There was no 200-yard freestyle event at the meet.

The 200-yard breaststroke was won by Chris Shaw, the 200-yard backstroke was won by Giovanni Frigo and the 200-yard fly was won by Van der Walt.

Ingram said these events will need improvement before the upcoming season.

Kratz held a comfortable lead over Joakim Sohholm in the 200-yard individual medley and won the event in 1:55.34.

Men's swimming coach Bob Steele, coaching his last meet before leaving on Monday, said, "We had some good swims and some super swims."

Maroon cagers win in scrimmage

Center Kenny Perry scored 14 points and forward Bernard Campbell added 10 more to lead the Maroon team to a 90-44 victory over the White team in the Saluki's first intra-squad scrimmage Thursday night at Centralia High School.

"Bernard Campbell played under control most part and Kenny Perry was a factor inside even though we expect him to be more of a factor later in the season," Coach Allen Van Winkle said. "Generally, we have a lot of work to do but its hard to make a judgement when you split your best players on the team in half."

For the White team, guard Paul Roy Birch scored a game-high 14 points and forward Bernard Campbell added 11 and had a game-high 12 rebounds. Tony Smooches added eight points and four blocked shots.

Iowa still has Big Ten lead despite tie

Iowa's hopes for the Big Ten championship bid are teetering but intact after Saturday's 10-10 tie with Wisconsin.

"We are bruised and battered but we still have the same Iowa," Coach Hayden Fry said.

Not exactly. Iowa remained in first place in the Big Ten race and still claim the Rose Bowl bid with victories over Michigan State and Minnesota. That but might not appear to be as easy as it sounded previously plus the fact that Ohio State and Purdue climbed within a half game of the Hawkeyes. While the Hawkeyes had to come back from a 10-8 halftime deficit to tie Wisconsin, Ohio State bombed Indiana 50-20. Purdue held off Michigan 21-29, Illinois defeated Minnesota 48-39 and Michigan State upset Notre Dame 77-70.

Ohio State and Purdue remained in a tie for second place with 5-2 records, one-half game behind Iowa's 5-1-1.

"It was typical of a first-game situation," Van Winkle said. "It was just a soso performance overall but it wasn't entirely unexpected of a first-game outing. The defense was much too soft, probably because we switched defenses a lot, and it may be too early for that.

For the Maroon team, Gene Lewis added nine points, Brian Welch seven, and Dan Weiss six.

Fielders capture championship in season-ending tournament

By Steve Koons

The Saluki field hockey team has had trouble playing up to its potential this season.

But over the weekend, SIU-C finally put it all together by defeating Southwest Missouri State 3-1 in the championship game of the Midwest Independent Post-Season Tournament in Br. Lloyd.

After a 0-0 tie against Notre Dame Friday, the Salukis closed the season干什么 a 4-3 win over Missouri State 3-0 and 3-1 Saturday.

Dickerson, Rams run over Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Eric Dickerson ran for 207 yards on 30 carries, and Mike Lansford kicked field goals of 27 and 32 yards in the second half, giving the Los Angeles Rams a 3871

National Football League triumph Sunday over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Los Angeles, capitalizing on an alert defense, converted two St. Louis fumbles into its tying and winning points while rallying from a 13-0 deficit at halftime. Tackles Reggie Doe and Leon Lett recovered the bobbles, both by Cards quarterbacker Neil Lomax, who was sacked six times for losses of 48 yards late in the game.

Lomax earlier teamed up with wide receiver Roy Brown on a 38-yard touchdown pass play for St. Louis in the opening half.

But during the second and third quarter, the Rams' quarterback was guilty of an infraction which enabled the Rams to climb back. Three plays after Lomax passed to ineligible receiver Bob Harris on fourth down, Los Angeles quarterback Neil Kempi found Rob Brown for a 32-yard touchdowns pass play.

A quick-reacting Los Angeles defense, humiliated one week earlier during a turnaround third quarter, started five completions in 14 attempts and required nine plays to move down to the Cardinals' 10-yard line.

Lombardi added an insurance goal on an assistant from Nadine Simpson at 24:02. Simpson came back to play in the tournament after being sidelined for six games with a broken nose.

The Salukis other victories were over Dayton 6-0 on Friday, and Louisville State 5-3 on Saturday.

SIU-C posted a 12-7-3 record, the winningest year in 16 seasons under Coach Julee

Iller.

A tipoff on the intensity of the Rams' defense lay with a pass defense which caused Lomax to direct most of his deliveries to his running backs.

St. Louis required nine plays to advance 27 yards late in the first period to set up O'Donoghue's longest field goal. After Green beat Los Angeles safety Johnny Johnson on the 38-yard scoring play, an 11th yard pass to the same receiver set up O'Donoghue's second Career.

The Rams were a string of 18 carry, 383 yards late in the game's closing play.

The Salukis added nine points in the closing moments.

The Rams 381 yards were the fewest of the season.

Lomax had started the day the NFC's third-ranked quarterback, and the Rams went into the game as the conference's most prolific offense, averaging 30.6 points and 412.8 yards per game.

The touchdown pass gave Lomax a string of 18 straight games with scoring strikes.

Kemp finished the day with five completions in 14 attempts for 96 yards.

SALUKIS KICK 14-TACKLE DEFENSE

By Mike Allan

The Salukis relied heavily on their special teams for points, as well as the defense, in a 21-12 victory over Drake Saturday. It was the first time in two years that SIU-C had not scored a touchdown on offense.

Fifty-five yards after it was punted to the Bulldogs 8-yard line, SIU-C interception Fran Carr's touchdown, but Taylor goal came after he had missed a 27-yard attempt. The Bulldogs switched from a zone to a type of man-to-man coverage, and King cooled off in the second half.

They started to the point where they were almost playing man-to-man, and we could no longer use the short pass," said.

The Saluki offense stalled in the third quarter, but SIU-C was able to tie the game because of an outstanding play by its special teams unit.

Freshman cornerbucker Davi Reaves blocked Drake punter Curtis Highland's kick at the 25-yard line, and it rolled into the end zone where Bobby Sloan recovered for a touchdown. SIU-C was unable to gain momentum after the play, as the offense continued to sputter. King completed just four of 16 passes in the second half. For the game, he was 14 of 36 for 160 yards and three interceptions.

Bobby question sull came after he had missed a chip shot just minutes earlier. During the possession at the Salukis' 44-yard line after punter Drew Morrison shanked the 45-yard boot._

DRAKE: Turnovers kill Dogs

Continued from Page 20 the 12-10 mark, and again on a two-yard touchdown pass to Tony Anderson with 5:30 left in the first, it was Anderson's seventh touchdown reception of the year, extending his SIU-C record.

THE SALUKIS had a golden opportunity to score on their possession preceding Anderson's touchdown, but Texas fumbled at the Bulldogs' 8-yard line. However, Drake fumbled on its next series, and SIU-C linebacker Frank Carr recovered at the 8-yard line.

Drake made a halftime adjustment in its defense in an attempt to take the short passing game away from SIU-C. The Bulldogs switched from a zone to a type of man-to-man coverage, and King cooled off in the second half.

"They changed to the point where they were almost playing man-to-man, and we could no longer use the short pass," said.

Shaky start, turnovers sink Dogs at Drake

By Mike Frey
Staff Writer

The football Salukis have had a tendency of falling behind early in games this season, and that trend carried over back to a 12-15 loss to Drake Saturday at Drake.

Drake turned two interceptions into 14 points in the opening four minutes of the game and later kicked a field goal to take a 17-0 first-half lead. The Salukis were unable to tie the game in the third quarter, but a 45-yard field goal by freshman John Brda with 2:35 remaining gave Drake a 20-17 victory in the Missouri Valley Conference contest.

The loss assured SIU-C of a last-place finish in the MVC with a 0-3 conference record. It was the third straight year the Salukis finished last in the Valley.

"We made mistakes on top of each other," SIU-C Coach Ray Dorr said of his team's shaky start. "Their offense didn't have to do a thing and they scored two touchdowns. I hardly had time to turn my head over to the defensive side of the ball and we were down 14-0."

Drake's first touchdown was set up after a pass by Saluki quarterback Joe Graves was picked-off by Drake cornerback Shawn Johnson. Johnson returned the interception 40 yards to the Saluki 11. It was the first of six turnovers SIU-C committed on the day. Tailback Tim Ray scored from six yards out two plays later to give the Bulldogs an early advantage.

On the Salukis' next series, Graves threw a pass that landed in the hands of safety Terry Jang, who returned it 34 yards for another touchdown.

Dorr pulled Graves from the lineup in favor of freshman Pat King, who had success moving the ball in the first half.

King took advantage of Drake's zone coverage by dumping short passes to tailback Derrick Taylor and split end Tony Anderson. At one point, King had completed six straight passes, and Taylor caught five balls for 53 yards. The Salukis scored twice in the second quarter, first on a 45-yard field goal by Ron Miller at 2:46.

Darlene Hogue and Pat Nicholson led the Saluki attack. Hogue had seven service aces and nine of her 20 attempts for a .450 attack percentage.

Nicholson killed 14 of her 20 attempts with one error for a .433 attack percentage and had eight solo blocks and two block assists in the match. Chris Boyd had a .303 attack percentage in the match.

Against Western, the Salukis lost the first two games 13-25 and 6-15 before winning the next three games 25-17, 25-20 and 15-12.

Beer, bravura and belly dancing combined with a crowd of Saluki boosters, swimmers and coaches to pay a festive tribute to departing men's swimming coach Bob Steele Saturday night at the Egyptian Sports Center.

"It's a great loss," Saluki swimmer Gerhard Van der Walt said. "He's a great personality with a good sense of humor and he's an excellent coach."

Steele's sense of humor was a topic of the evening's dominant thread, which included comments from Dick Lefere, Dean Ehrenbeim, Ichy Jones, Herman Williams, Fred Huff, Phil Witty, Jerry Brinkman, Roger Lefeber, Pat Steele and Ray Dorr.

Jones joked, "Bob Steele is having his own roast because no one else will give him one."

Humor and all, the event represented what Steele has meant to the community. Even on the ultimate loss, SIU-C was working to raise money for the sports program.

"He's been an inspiration because he cares about people," Dorr said. "No job for him is too big or too small."

President Albert Somit said, "This is a great event. We are sorry to see him go. He's one of the nation's top three swimming coaches and he's done a remarkable job here. All we can do is wish him well and thank him for what he has done."

STEELE WILL be missed by the community and his fellow coaches, but especially by the swimmers.

"Obviously it disappoints me," Gary Brinkman said. "I've had him for the last two years and we've had a lot of success together, team and individually. I'm fond of him as a person and coach. I'm very happy for his success, so now I'm going to look at it positively and keep on working with Coach Ingram coming in."

Although he is going to miss seeing Steele often, there are many fond memories.

"Six national individual anytime we placed above 20th in the NCAA," Steele said. "As individuals, Roger Vonjesjanne with the American record and national championship, Gary Brinkman, who won the national title, and Keith Armstrong, who set a record in the NCAA freestyle relay split records. These are the performances most memorable. And anybody that improved himself everybody, leaves an impression."
