LAB votes to approve three license requests

KAREN BLATTER
DAILY EGYPTIAN

The Liquor Advisory Board voted Thursday to recommend the establishment of three new liquor licenses in the area of South Illinois Avenue for the last time in five years.

The LAB recommended the approval of two Class B liquor licenses and one Class C liquor license. All recommendations will go before the Liquor Control Commission at its Nov. 16 meeting.

The LAB only makes a recommendation about whether or not the Liquor Control Commission should approve or deny the license. The City Council acts as the Liquor Control Commission.

In 1995, the Carbondale City Council established a cap that lowered the number of B-2 liquor licenses in Carbondale from 17 to 15. The council also established a policy that no new or transferred licenses can be moved to the Strip.

Council policy states that only five licenses be allowed in the area from University Avenue to the railroad tracks and between Walnut and Grand Avenues.

Because of the cap, only one of the recommended Class B licenses will receive a license unless the City Council increases the cap.

According to City Clerk Janet Vaught, the Liquor Control Commission has not gone against the recommendations of the LAB for at least the past 20 years.

A Class B-2 license allows the sale of alcoholic beverages for consumption on the premises only. A Class C license allows the sale of packaged liquor for the consumption off the premises.

Matt Maier, owner of Mugsy McGuire's, 1620 W. Main St., wants to open a bar and dance club at 315 S. Illinois Ave, with the B-2 license.

The LAB voted 5-3 to recommend the license. The building has been for sale since it was bought two years ago. This is the second time Maier has applied for a Class B-2 liquor license for a bar on South Illinois Avenue. In August, the Commission voted 3-2 to deny the license because of concerns about additional people on South Illinois Avenue at bar closing time.

Maier was not in attendance Thursday because he was out of town, but he was represented by attorney John Redlinski.

Johninary, owner of Chicago Underground, 717 S. University Ave, wanted to transfer a license to 375 S. Illinois Ave.

The LAB voted 5-0 to recommend the transfer, with the B-3 license.

Voting for the B-3 license were members Kari Hornsby, Renda Smith and Kari Forshee, with opposing votes from Darren Theobald, Chris Hartley and John Randolph.

The LAB had recommended the approval of the B-3 license Tuesday night. The B-3 license allows the sale of alcoholic beverages for consumption on the premises only.

USG denies elimination of GPA requirement

TIM BARR
DAILY EGYPTIAN

Undergraduate Student Government senators defeated a resolution that would have recommended removing GPA requirements from the USG constitution at Wednesday's meeting.

Rob Taylor, a senior in philosophy, submitted the resolution and said student government's current cumulative GPA requirement of 2.5 to run for president and 2.25 to run for a senate seat was "taxed-in without representation."

USG is responsible for allocating about $500,000 of the Student Activity Fee, which is $37.50 a year per student, to Registered Student Organizations. By restricting student participation to students with a GPA of 2.25 and above, USG is preventing students from equal representation, Taylor said.

"Why charge them $37.50 and not allow them to participate?" Taylor said.

An experience worth defining

Bela Fleck and the Flecktones introduce Carbondale to a unique sound Friday night at Shryock Auditorium

By RACHEL SCIONA

Bela Fleck and the Flecktones will perform it 8 tonight at Shryock Auditorium. Tickets are $19 and are available at the Student Center ticket office.

The Flecktones' style is easily defined as flamenco with a twist of jazz and world music. The band is a mixture of styles, is one of those bands that are hard to define. The sound often crosses over to a unique sound Friday night at Shryock Auditorium.

The Flecktones' style is easily defined by their unique sound. To say the Flecktones' style is easily defined is like saying Baskin-Robbins is famous only for its vanilla ice cream. The list of genres that are fixed together in their music ranks more like a cooking recipe—each style serves as another ingredient lending itself to the delicious final product.

Brian R. Powell, station manager for 91.1 WDBX community radio, said that despite the Flecktones' outstanding talent, the fact that their style does not fit into any particular category is partially the reason the band list not received much recognition in commercial mainstream.

"The Flecktones are truly unique musicians, but they are a little hard to define," Powell said. "People who can radio stations like to define things."

The variety and diversity each individual brings to the band is what gives the group its unique sound. The sound often crosses over the lines of pop, jazz, folk, rock, classical and bluegrass and has earned the Flecktones many Grammy nominations. Also, the Flecktones are a Grammy for Best Instrumental Compilation in 1997 and Best Pop Instrumental Performance in 1996, as well as two Grammy nominations for their latest release, "Let's Call it.""n

Jeff Coffin, the newest member of the Flecktones, joined the band two years ago with his mastery of wind instruments. Other members of the Grammy-award winning band include bass virtuoso Bela Fleck, who was voted "Best Banjo" five years in a row in the late 1980s by Guitar Magazine; three-time Bassist of the Year Victor Wooten and his brother Roy "Future Man" Wooten playing Synth-Axe Drummer—a guitar-shaped drum machine he invented. Coffin, who plays saxophone, saxello, clarinet, flute and the Tibetan singing bowl, describes their music as an experiment in progress in which every member brings something different.

"Our music is a sum of the parts. We strive to bring different influences to what we do," Coffin said. "But most of all, we strive to be ourselves."

For an easy explanation of what to expect can look forward to being enthralled in a mesmerizing concert of Carbondale music.

Faculty concerned study may result in staff cuts

By TERRY L. DEAN

A University benchmarking study, part of interim Chancellor John Jackson's strategic planning initiative, has troubled some faculty who are concerned that it could result in a reduction in their numbers.

The purpose of the study was to determine the appropriate size of SIUC by collecting comparative data, in terms of staff numbers and expenditures, from 10 universities in the University System of Illinois.

The study was conducted by the Chancellor's Planning and Budget Council, composed of faculty and staff and civic service workers.

The committee compiled a list of 55 public universities with resources similar to SIUC. The goal is to determine if the University can improve in those areas based on how they rank within the peer group.

However, some faculty are concerned that cuts within the ranks will happen as a result of this study. The administration concludes that the University is overstaffed.

The committee's study showed SIUC to have 6,772 faculty and staff and expend 21,929 as of Bed year 1996. Using this data to compare SIUC to other peer universities in the study, SIUC has one of the highest measured staff ratios.

History professor Mary Lamb, a member of the Faculty Senate, said she questions the validity of the numbers. Lamb said the numbers are misleading because the staff figure does not distinguish between instructional and non-instructional staff.

According to figures from the 1998 Peterson's Guide to 4-year Colleges, which Lamb presented at the Oct. 12 Faculty Senate meeting, SIUC's faculty totaled 1,024. In addition, the University showed a student-to-faculty ratio of 19.3 and a staff-to-faculty ratio of 6.6.

These figures, Lamb said, paint a different picture of the University's faculty and staff numbers.

Cheap Trick: 25 years of wanting you to want them

The words “This band has no past... literally” appeared in the liner notes of Cheap Trick’s first album, and, ironically, they do not represent the band’s status now. Twenty-five years have not stopped the rock ‘n’ roll sounds of Cheap Trick. After an excess of work with major labels, this year the band launched its own independent Cheap Trick Unlimited label and issued its 18th album, “Music for Hangovers,” a live Halloween recording at the Chicago Metro venue.

Cheap Trick, with opening band Johnny Clueless, will play at 8 p.m. Sunday at Copper Dragon Brewhing Co., 700 E. Grand Ave. Tickets are $17 in advance and $20 the day of the show. For more information, call 549-2319.

The Rockford natives entered the music industry with a goal to reinvigorate this country’s rock ‘n’ roll with a brand of high-powered pop music. It has found with AC/DC, Kiss, Rush, Queen, The Kinks and Ted Nugent.

The band’s drive and dedication has led it to create four platinum albums, three gold LPs, a No. 1 single (“The Flame”), more than 40 hit and numerous original soundtrack tunes for the movies “Say Anything,” “Caddyshack II,” “Heavy Metal” and “Encino Man.”

The quartet is comprised of Rick Nielsen (guitar), Robin Zander (vocals and guitar), Pen E. Carlos (drums) and Tom Petersson (bass).

Donoghue said, while today’s conventional connotation of diva employs solely a positive image, she believes the concept is much deeper. “A lot of times, if you really want to live out your dreams, you have to force yourself to be in a place where you are the center of attention,” Donoghue said. “Being the center of attention opens us up to criticism.”

Piano player Satya Selah said the lyrics for the music of “The Lunar Opera” were taken from poet Saro Jini Nidhi. “The piece is from 1914 from a woman from India who is a really brilliant poet,” Selah said. “And then something came along and wrote music to it. It is just haunting stuff.”

Selah said the piece addresses uncomfortable situations and focuses on overcoming life’s difficulties. “These are not show pieces,” Selah said. “It is an inspiring theme. There is some heavy stuff in the play on what you would call the dark side of life, but the message is, ‘You can beat it.’”

Donoghue said the show was created out of love for the theater, and writing “The Lunar Opera” was a real-life example of the message the show carries — following your dreams at any cost.

“Diva in the pop culture context is known as a person that does not care what people think of them,” Donoghue said. “What this deals with is the fear of circumstances. It is about pursuing your dream because you are afraid of the criticism and pursuing your dream and not caring what others think of you.”
A committee of 100 Chicago-based women from different backgrounds spend months viewing and discussing 300 short films submissions for the seventh annual "Women in the Director's Chair" film festival.

Determined to select 40 films to work best represent the theme "Beyond the Body Beautiful," the women required that the films represent an excellent female contemporary voice. Each film, which must be created and produced by women, had to be intriguing and take risks to make the cut for the annual festival, said Sabrina Craig of Chicago, program director.

"Women in the Director's Chair" will showcase nine short films and videos at 7 p.m. Saturday in the Student Center Auditorium. For more information, call 453-1482 or visit Women in the Director's Chair website at www.wdc2000.org.

The Women in the Director's Chair film festival began at 7 p.m. Saturday in the Student Center Auditorium. For more information, call 453-1482 or visit Women in the Director's Chair website at www.wdc2000.org.

The nine films to be showcased at the University were selected by women from the United States, Mexico and Australia. Craig said each film expands upon the theme and strengthens the role of women.

"These films take the idea of being in the female body and play with it," she said. "One woman chose to do a documentary on women in prison who are HIV positive. "Another took MRI scans of her own body and animated them to grow and distinguish and re-animate."

The festival began 19 years ago and is non-profit organization based in Chicago. It tours across the country and select few films will be shown in an international film festival in March. Craig said the festival is the longest running and largest female film festival ultimately represent the modern female voice.

"Women in the Director's Chair's film festival is to bring cutting-edge, independent media by women to audiences around the world. The festival travels across country to museums, universities and community organizations.

Craig said the festival has received positive feedback in its duration.

"People who don't live in urban centers like Chicago and Los Angeles get a chance to see new media they would usually not have the opportunity to view," Craig. "Many women are inspired to pursue more interaction with this medium."

"Some women are really just moved by the films alone," she said.

The selection process for submissions to the festival is extremely competitive, Craig said. The female judges must consider many factors when hand-picking the few films that will ultimately represent the festival.

"We don't look for high-polished Hollywood films, but for voices that need to be heard," she said. "Maybe a woman who does not have access to high-tech equipment but who has an innovative idea."

"They need to take risks, use humor and find interesting and innovative ways to teach the audience something."

During executive reports, President Sean Henry, Vice President Brian Atchison, Chief of Staff Nico Nottke and Executive Assistant Shavon Gillette spoke out against the resolution.

Atchison recommended the council consider lowering the GPA requirement to 2.0, concurrent with the University's minimum good-academic standing GPA. "I don't think anybody uses USG as an organization that's academically challenging to get in," Atchison told the senate. "Consider the 2.0, it's a good compromise." Golden added that Student Affairs mandates all RSO members have a minimum GPA of 2.0. Because USG is also considered an RSO, a GPA requirement of 2.0 would make sense, she said.

Declining any debate on the resolution, the senate voted and denied passage by voice vote. In other business, the Senate approved a resolution recommending USG expand the spring election to two days and increase the number of polling places on campus. Senators voted 15 to 14 in favor of the resolution. Supporters of the bill cited increased voter participation as an impetus behind the resolution. Naysayers agreed polling places should be expanded, but objected to a two-day election because of feared ballot stuffing.

"Two days is not a big deal," West Side Senator Leslie Bailey said. "You need people to vote sometime or the other. You need more people voting." The senate also approved a funding waiver that would allow the senate's finance committee the ability to allocate funds of less than $500 to RSOs for special uses, without senate approval.

Money for RSOs is located in the Student Organization Allocation Fund. RSOs are unable to use money in their SOAF accounts for special uses like purchasing T-shirts or food for events without USG approval. Passage of the bill enables the senate's finance committee to grant requests of special uses up to $500 with the advice of USG executive staff.

Wednesday's meeting also saw the approval of funding of $950 to Bem Foy for a multi-cultural benefit and $250 to the Organization of Multi-Ethnic Students in Education for registration costs for a leadership conference. The senate also funded $500 to the Young Women's Coalition to help with costs for a Christmas event with day care centers in Carbondale and $1,500 for hotel costs for a conference for the National Society of Minorities in Hospitality.

USG status was granted to the Final Fusion Dance Group, the Phi Theta Theta Interest Group and the Future Information Technology Experts at the meeting.

The SUU volleyball team has its back against the wall needing to win the final four matches of the season to quality for the Missouri Valley Conference Tournament.

The Salukis trail tonight’s Indiana State University by two matches for the eighth and final vacancy for the tournament.

The Salukis travel to Terre Haute, Ind. to face the Sycamores tonight. SUU then returns to the road for a showdown with Illinois State University Saturday at 7 p.m.

After the Salukis (4-18, 2-10 MVC) fell to the Sycamores (5-3, 3-9) in a Davis Gymnasium Oct. 9, despite missing season-high efforts from freshman outside hitter Kristie Kempen, who recorded 23 kills, and senior setter Debbie Barr, who posted 28 assists.

Barr is only 50 assists away from reaching the 5,000-assist milestone for her career.

Average 10.09 assists per game, Barr could possibly reach 5,000 this weekend if the Salukis can extend each match to four or five games.

Kempen ranks ninth in the Valley conference games, played and leads the Salukis with a 2.79 kill per game average.

Against the Redbirds (13-9, 11-3), the Redbirds shut out the Salukis and 3-5 in Davis Gym, Oct. 8.

Sophomore middle blocker Jenny Noel recorded 19 kills, 18 digs and three service aces in the two matches against the Redbirds and Sycamores (16-14, 4-10).

Who will be next on the college scandal list?

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — Nobody quite knows when the cycle started. Or when it will end. Or what purpose it serves other than to illustrate the huge financial disparity in the enterprise of college football or maybe the risks athletics departments and coaching staffs are willing to take to recruit the very best players.

Unless it’s to show the perpetual immaturity of the college student amidst this latest runstorm of crap.

A month ago, it was Tennessee’s State is bad.” ‘

And a violation. Maybe both. Maybe it’s as inevitable as an FSU clipping call one of them makes a mistake, p.e.o.

But if the nation and we won’t hear a F4U P,layer who actually hurt the stupid and low-class macho stunt. If you

Frankly, had you been watching this, you would have known that call whistled.

Listen carefully, he and defensive coordinator Mickey Andrews — among others — are already talking about what gets called on them and how the same calls don’t get whistled on the other guys. Got used to it, fellows. Is only going to get worse.

Who has notoriety may well circle back around and bite them. If you listen carefully, this notoriety may well circle back around and bite them.

Remember the phantom “roughing the kicker” call at the start of the Fiesta Bowl? No, you couldn’t find that call whistled.

Salukis ready to play – finding opponent

SCOUTING THE SALUKIS:

Now that the strain of a five-game losing streak is behind the Salukis, SIU can turn its focus toward accomplishing one of its few remaining attainable goals — having the first-plus-.500 finish since 1991.

SIU beat Southwest Missouri State University 52-49 Saturday in an offensive struggle as the presses became the norm of the late afternoon.

With a victory against the Sacramento State, the Salukis will be playing for a winning record versus Western Kentucky University after an unexpected bye week.

Luckily for SIU head coach Jan Qyarless, the Salukis have been able to remain competitive in recent games despite horrendous defense, thanks to the prolific passing combination of junior quarterback Sherard Poteete and senior wide receiver Cornell Craig, who has combined for 10 sacks in the last four weeks.

Sherard Poteete has also impressed. Qyarless said, "I think he just keeps himself focused and does what he has to do.”

Despite the Salukis’ struggles this season, SIU ranks second last in Gateway total defense, ahead of only SIU. Defensive linemen Shannon Jackson and Troy Leveaux are doing their part to inject some life into the Saluki defense, as the duo has combined for 10 sacks in the last four games.

Qyarless said, “I think that’s been one of the problems we’ve had the last few weeks. [Salukis] offense definitely calls for much discipline on defense, so we’re going to find out in a hurry.”

PLAYERS TO WATCH:

No. 8 – sophomore QB Andre King
No. 11 – sophomore TE Collin Crabbe

The Salukis are looking for a win in the season’s last four matches of the season to turn around its winning streak.
