Council Fills Member Vacancy, Appoints 3

A new junior representative on the Student Council and three appointments to campus committees were approved at the council meeting in University School Thursday night.

Marlin Mikels, junior speech correction major, was named to one of the two vacancies on the council by Pres. Clyde Reynolds. A senior representative is still to be named.

One of two vacant spots on the Campus Journalism Council was also filled with the appointment of Bob Martin, senior business major. The remaining post will be for members of the Christian Science faith, Mrs. Lucy Ott of the Office of Student Affairs is the faculty sponsor and Martha Nelson, junior education major, is president.

Sophomore education major, Kay Sue Eadie and Betty French were named to the Convocation Committee.

In other action, George Evans, a member of the Chautauque Housing Council, was named chairman of a special committee to investigate the possibility of a University-approved surgical, maternity and hospitalization insurance plan for married students.

The required procedure for obtaining University approval is for the council to approve a committee.

Girls Rally To Initiate 50 Pledges

About 50 girls will become members of the Girls Rally to the Life Science Society.

Wendy Kuchin, vice-president, and Betty Holbrook, fellowship chairman, are in charge of the pledge ceremonies, which will follow the business meeting.

"Girls Rally" is a service organization and a lot of fun to work to it, but it's a lot of fun doing this year," said Judy Dean, president of the group. Those interested in pledging and in being in service to Southern are invited to attend the meeting, according to Judy.

This year's main chairman, Jeanne Barbour and Nancy Martin, will present plans for the Homecoming unit sale during the business meeting. Discussion of the Queen's Float is also on the agenda.

Is Chivalry Dead? ---The Gals Answer

By Peggy Morgan

"Chivalry" is a subject often discussed when women compare men of old and of yesterday. The very word seems to denote something quaint and conservative. Webster defines "chivalry" as having the ideal qualities of a knight "courteously attentive."

Many wonder what happened to those knightly courtesies. In an attempt to learn how, SIU's women feel about chivalry, several students and faculty members were asked "Is the age of chivalry dead?"

One junior girl, who asked that her name be withheld, said, "Some guys don't have manners, but some of them don't even in older times. I don't think it's dead—yet."

Sandy Strick, junior, said, "I don't think it's dead here on campus. I've found the guys very courteous. But in the city . . . fellows just don't know how to act."

An emphatic "I don't think so" was Jane Williams' answer. Jane, a junior, went on to say that she seldom sees fellows on campus who aren't well-behaved, courteous, and well-mannered.

Wendy P.E. insurance major, Jane Malone says, "I don't believe so. It has to be provided sometimes, but in general I don't think chivalry is quite dead."

Jane Ketch, sophomore art major, is puzzled. Is chivalry dead? Well, . . .

Sandy Strick, junior, said "I don't think it's dead here on campus. I've found the guys very courteous. But in the city . . . fellows just don't know how to act."

An emphatic "I don't think so" was Jane Williams' answer. Jane, a junior, went on to say that she seldom sees fellows on campus who aren't well-behaved, courteous, and well-mannered.

Col. Alexander R. MacMillan welcomed the group of about 200 SIU students who attended the Fall Leadership Camp Saturday at Giant City State Park. The camp was composed of about 160 potential freshman student leaders, upperclassmen leaders and members of the Student Council. The freshmen were divided into 12 groups. Each group, led by an upperclassman discussion leader, discussed topics such as "What campus organizations to join" and "Staying down on weekends."

The day was not all business, however. Games such as the touch football game in progress in the picture on right were interspersed. Students attending had the opportunity to tour some of the caves and caverns of Giant City. The camp ended with a general summary of the day's business after the evening meal.

'Many Tasks Ahead For Student Personnel Workers' Group Says

In student personnel work, "we ain't seen nothing yet," said Dr. Frank L. Sievers, Chief of the Student Personnel Section, United States Office of Education, Washington, D. C., before about 200 personnel workers in attendance.

This statement was made at the 11th Annual Illinois Guidance and Personnel Association Meeting at Shrivock Auditorium, Friday and Saturday.

Speaking before a luncheon Saturday in the University Cafeteria, Dr. Sievers' topic was "The Field Ahead for Student Personnel Workers." In this address he stated that there were some 2000 tasks ahead for the personnel workers in the United States. His remarks on different elementary school situations throughout the nation.

SIU Pres. D. W. Morris offered greetings before the general session in the University School Auditorium Sunday morning.

Ernest E. Hanson, Dean of Students, Southern Illinois State College, Carbondale, and 1954-55 president of the IGPV, presided over one of the sectional meetings based on "Relationships between business and industry and the guidance service."

Raymond H. Anderson, Counselor, Riverside-Brookfield High School, Barrington, taking part in this sectional meeting talked about the "late blossoms," those who go through school without preparing themselves for the field they plan to enter.

It was said that at present, guidance is practiced at the high school

Rain Halts Work On New Boys' Dorm

The new dormitory site at Thompson Point was a "sea of mud" after the heavy rains that fell last week.

It is impossible to move heavy trucks and construction equipment into the site, according to William C. Hill, SIU Construction superintendent.

"It will take two days of bright sunshine and a good breeze to dry out the area enough to resume work," Hill said.

The construction of the dormitory began three weeks ago, with four dorms and a dining hall already under construction. The I. R. Construction Company of St. Louis is the general contractor for the $2,776,000 addition to the SIU campus.

Two of the dorms will be ready for occupancy next fall and the dining hall and the other two dorms will be ready the following November.

New, Stiffer Scholastic Probation Rules To Begin Winter Quarter

New and stiffer scholastic probation rules will go into effect this winter quarter.

If a student's overall average is below a "C" at the end of winter quarter, he must make a quarter average spring term or he will have to leave school for two terms before applying for readmission.

"Last year the number of students to go on scholastic probation was about 700 per term," announced Dr. Robert A. McGlothlin, Registrar. "We hope this new rule cut down the number of persons on probation as well as prove satisfactory to both student and faculty."

The rule made by the Board of Deans is as follows:

"The change is that a student on scholastic probation must maintain a "C" average in his work.

In addition to the rule concerning being dropped from the university, all students who are on scholastic probation will be required to submit a petition for admission under the new rule.

The new rule will go into effect at the end of this Fall Term.

IRC Has First Fall Meeting

The International Relations Club had its initial meeting of the Fall term Thursday night in University School Studio Theater.

President of the organization, Carl G. Blackwell, junior, opened the discussion with an introduction of club officers.

Following that, Dr. Emil Zaslowsky, lecturer in government, gave a 50-minute talk on "Communist Shell." He covered international problems arising from off-shore oil deposits within three miles of the North American mainland.

IRC adviser and professor of government, Dr. Frank L. Klingberg, and Blackwell also announced that the IRC, in conjunction with the Southern Illinois Association of the United Nations, will co-sponsor a "UN Day."

Thursday, Oct. 20, has been selected as the day with the program to be at the First Methodist Church in Carbondale.

Foreign students, appearing in their native costumes, will lead a troupe. Each panel member will discuss separate segments of his respective country toward the UN.

Soph. Junior Obelisk Pictures Announced

This week is made up week for sophomores and juniors who did not have Obelisk pictures made during the regular schedule. Any sophomore or junior may still have a picture made at Nauman Studio through Saturday.

Graduate students are also scheduled at the studio this week. Enquiries about the pictures should be made to the Southern Acres campus room time next week.

Prospects are "excellent" for a $1,115,000 government loan to aid Home Finance Agency funds for construction of three more residence halls for men, according to John Bondimian, SIU legal counsel.

He said that recent talks with officials of the Federal Housing

Administration had been completed for the three 120-room residence units which, if the loan goes through, will be to seven the number of men's dormitories under construction at SIU. All are located at the University's Thompson's Lake residence project south of the main campus. The real loan for the complex, which includes a new dining hall now under construction, will be $4,350,000.

Federal officials said an original loan for the first four dormitories and dining hall, totaling $2,225,000, was the largest ever approved by the agency. It was approved Aug. 12.

Concrete footings have been poured for one of the four residence halls and the dining hall, while excavation work is being completed for the other three.

Charles Pulley, university architect, said last week that bids on the three additional men's dorms will be due today. If the federal about 80 students studying ballet, tap and toe as well as ballroom dancing.

"I'm anxious to get back on the college campus," Mrs. Lemasters said. "And I'm sure I'm going to enjoy working with college students again—since neither of my sons (Pi Beta Phi and Sigma Alpha Epsilon) are at SIU I haven't been around school as much as I would have liked."

Mrs. Lemasters will teach fundamental steps in "Swing" and "Jazz" dancing and, if time permits, the mambo and chumba.

Sponsored by the Student Union council, the series of free lessons are open to all students.

"With the Homecoming Dance just a few weeks away, this will be a good chance for boys and girls both to pick up some new steps—at least that's what we hope happens," Terry Cushman, Union program committee chairman said. "We'd like to see about 300 people show up to learn how to dance."

Pulliam Reviews Householders Organization

"The Student Householder's Association was formed in 1952 to bring into closer relations the university, the students, and the householders of off-campus student housing and to better housing conditions for students," said Mrs. Roscoe Pulliam, Supervisor of Off-Campus Housing.

Only one out of four householders are members of the organization, but Mrs. Pulliam said most of the larger houses (four or more student occupants) are members.

The dues are $1 a year with the money going into a loan fund for students.

Two meetings a term are held, each meeting discussing a different department of the school.

The first meeting of this term was held Oct. 3. The meeting was a tour of the Southern Experimental Farm under the guidance of Dr. W. E. Keppert, area Director of the Division of Rural Studies. The next meeting will be Dec. 5 in the Student Union.

The current president of the Association is Mrs. Lester Turner, vice president is Mrs. John Burman and the treasurer is Mrs. George Patterson.

Plans Made For 49-Day Summer Geography Field Trip In Europe

By Don Hesse

A 49-day European field trip during the summer of 1956 is being offered by SIU. It will be the Fifth Annual Field Course in Geography.

Countries to be visited are England, Scotland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, Holland, Belgium, France and Switzerland.

The trip will be under the direction of Dr. Floyd Cunningham, chairman of the Department of Geography.

Dr. Cunningham has made several trips to Europe in the past years, and has lived in both France and Germany.

The course will include a study and analysis of the conditions of problems in the various countries to be visited. Industrial, agricultural, political, economical, social, transportation and marketing behavior will be studied, with a comparison between European and U. S. methods and problems being made.

The class will leave New York by steamship around June 18. "The exact date of departure cannot be given at present," Dr. Cunningham said.

The cost of the course is approximately $1,100. This will cover registration fee, transportation and from Europe and study material. It does not include laundry service, optional excursions, side trips, admission charges to museums, and other incidentals.

The course is open to juniors, seniors and graduate students who have had as a minimum requirement the introductory course in geography (Geography 100) or the equivalent thereof.

A $50.00 deposit, which includes the registration fee of $5.00 is required for admittance to the class and may be paid anytime. Students will be accepted in order of receipt of deposit, with the first 30 qualified students paying the deposit admitted.

The balance of money required to make the trip will be due no later than May 1, 1956.

Deposits, except for the $5.00 registration fee, may be withdrawn, if for good reason, at any time before May 1, 1956.

After May 1, 1956, deposits as well as subsequent payments are refundable provides a substitute.

Registration fees will be refunded unless the University cancels the course.

Checks should be made payable to SIU and should be sent to Dr. Cunningham, chairman of the Department of Geography, 204 West Grand, Carbondale, Ill.

After March 1, 1956, if the class is not closed, individuals not wishing college credit may enroll if of high school age or older. Academic requirements will be waived in this case.

After the trip, a test will be given. Within four months after return to the United States, a written report on the trip must be handed in. This report will be returned to the student.

Five quarter hours of residence credit will be given to those who satisfactorily complete the course.

Baggage on the trip will be limited to one suitcase not larger than 30x18x12, and one handbag, no larger than normal brief case size.

Summer clothing should be taken, plus a raincoat, topcoat, and a few winter garments.

"Only those in good physical health will be accepted for the trip," said Dr. Cunningham. "Those having any further problems, concerning the trip, should see or write me," he continued.

Local Artist To Enter Chicago Festival

Carolyn Gassen Plochmann, Carbondale artist and wife of Dr. George K. Plochmann, associate philosophy professor has been invited to submit a painting to Chicago's annual "Magnificent Mile Art Festival."

Mrs. Plochmann, winner of the $2,400 Tupperware Art Fund Scholarship last year, will submit "Cast of Thought," a 44 by 46 inch composition done in a medium of casein on masonite board.

The Chicago festival will be directed by a contest, the winner of which will receive a one-man show at the Wildenstein Galleries in Paris, France. An all-expense paid trip to Paris will also be awarded the winner.

Some 300 of "the midwest's outstanding painters," including Ivan Albright, Zoltan Speddy, and former SIU teacher, Aaron Bohard and Raymond Beclin, have been invited to send work to the exhibition.

"Cast of Thought," like most of Mrs. Plochmann's work, is a sombre study in portrait style, dominated by "brooding figures," and characterized by an almost classical attention to detail and color.

Hailed by critics for her "deep concern for human values" and a "sense of rightness," Mrs. Plochmann has been exhibiting paintings since her high school days in 1942.

During the past summer, her work appeared at the Interior Valley Painting Competition, Cincinnati Art Museum, the Butler Institute of American Art, and the Ohio Valley Oil and Water Color Show.
