Firms To 'Sell' Chicago Here Thursday

Chicago will invade Saluki- land Thursday when representa- tives from more than 200 firms, either from out of town or near the nation's second largest industrial community, call on the University Center ballroom, from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Tebir job will be to "sell" not only their own products but to students who will soon be gradu- ated from Southern and seeking jobs.

"The Chicago area has always wanted to establish a close tie with the students who have wanted Chicago," Robert Forrest, head of Chicago Placement Service, pointed out in explaining the policy behind the special "career day.

Each of the firms, representing interests ranging from insurance and education to railroads and oil, will be assigned an individual floor. One or more persons will be on hand duty throughout the day to an- swer questions about his company.

Students will not be differentiated, but will participate will send representatives to the campus for that purpose during winter or spring term, Vokac said.

The project, an innovation here, is the "brunch") of a group of Southern students who held posi- tion for the floor. Thk study of the students who will be oceupying the floor, according to Bill Prior, field representative of Alumni Services.

The event, Forrest said, will be a "longer book campu's if it were here."

Bus Use Increases
Due to an increase in the number of students using the Student Bus Program, the program may be supporting itself by some time according to Dick Childers, Student Council President.

The increase seems to be the result of charging the selling of tickets from a $1.50 per week basis to 50 cents per ride. Total receipts to date are $150 as compared to $52 for the same time last year.

Approximately 240 students use the bus on work days while on weekends, the average is about 100. However, the number must double in order that the funds can support a self-sustaining basis. It costs $20 per day to operate the bus while the receipts average $15 Childers recently explained to the Student Council.

Bus fares have been reduced by a dollar in place of the current $2 per month fare. The new fare at $1.50 per month is effective in the City Center and make several stops both on campus and around City Center. Tickets in various sizes are used in the mornings to accommodate the heavier load. A schedule of these times can be obtained at the University Center Information desk.

Homecoming One Of Best

Congratulations to the Homecoming Committee and the student groups who combined to make the 1961 Homecoming festivities one of the best ever. Everything from the bonfire Wednesday to the big dance Saturday drew large crowds of students and alumni.

Two packed Shroyck Auditorium crowds finally got a chance to break away from their two-hour Homecoming show. Although most of the show was occupied by a comedian and the band voted the best new band of the year, Mathis didn't heavy applause for his somewhat brief performances. A reported 3,500 attended the two shows. The Southern Players' performances Friday and Saturday attracted nearly full houses.

Chilled weather and threatening skies kept the crowds down along University Avenue during the parade. But over 10,000 still watched the 15 floats, 11 stunts and 29 high school marching bands. It seems that with nearly 100 student groups and organizations at Southern, many of these organizations turned out some good parades this year. The parade seemed to be slightly weighted in favor of high school marching music makers.

The football Salukis added a spark of excitement to the big day. There was a very close win over Concordia College in the opening game for Eastern Illinois University in typical football weather. Although the contest was marred by one unsportsmanlike incident, most of the games had a good finish as the final puck was contented with the victory. Although approximately 13,000 fans attended the game, there appeared to be little enthusiasm. Saturday night activities included the Homecoming Dance with music provided by the Don Shirley Trio, Peter Palmer Orchestra and the Sara Allen Trio. Dancing was provided in the Roman Room and spacious balcony. In addition, Carroll Glenn was featured in a symphony concert at Shroyck Auditorium.

All in all, the "big weekend" was one of the biggest and best ever. Now it's time to hit the books again and get back to that long overdue term paper.-Kent Zimmermann

Shelters For Southern?

A deeply moral and ethical issue is presently being discussed at length across the nation in something less than modest terms. The issue has centered in the area located nearly midway between two prime targets of any enemy attack—St. Louis and Chicago. What is Southern Illinois University doing to provide a safeguard against the blast and fallout that may someday occur?

A tale of war is told to President John E. Grinnell, there has been no great discussion of constructing such a shelter. He explained the immensity of a program to provide shelters for students and faculty members here. Dr. Grinnell continued by voicing our belief that millions for Grass, dance at the Ter, that students in good standing and acceptable to the university, should not have the proper attitude or personality, it would be difficult to say for sure that billions of dollars, for some reason, do not accept all students in good standing at the University.

In the past, some householders have given various reasons for not participating. For instance, if they felt the student did not have the proper attitude or personality, it would be difficult to say for sure that these reasons were acceptable to all students. However, many people are willing to pay for protection of this kind—whether it is the majority of the minority, or of the minority towards the larger group—wars the growth of the persons involved.

We feel the housing office has done a commendable job in mitigating segregation in Carbondale housing and hopes householders in this city will work towards this common goal.

SIU TV Station Opens Rehearsals

Rehearsals for WSJU-TV's first live telecasts began today (Friday) in the station's studio in the Home Economics building.

And Richard Uray, production manager of the station, hopes he expects the station to be in operation on its first week in November.

The rehearsals are the second milestone this week for WSJU-TV which has yet to telecast its first program.

The first came at 10:35 a.m. Tuesday when the station transmitted its first test pattern. The test pattern was flashed from the control room to the roof of the Home Economics building where the dish-like antenna carried it to the station's transmitter at Tamasu. From there it was beamed west into the SIU-TV area.

Although the test pattern was simply a picture of the station's call letters and channel identification along with a variety of circles and wavy lines, Uray and his staff were quite proud when it flashed on the screen.

The station has been plagued by a series of construction delays and premature announcements of autorial broadcast dates. But Uray said he expects the first live telecasts to be underway early next month — barring any major setbacks.

They will be programs of classroom instructions offered in conjunction with Southern Illinois Instructional Television Association, which is composed of 60 schools with more than 20,000 students.

Four SIU instructors will offer instructions in science for the senior high students, art for the primary grades, history for the fifth grade and history for the eighth grade on the first programs, according to Uray.

Uray said the SIITA television instructional program is "our ma-

SAIL ON, SAIL ON!

I suppose October 12 is just another day to you. You get up in the ordinary way and do all the ordinary things you ordinarily do. You have your oatmeal, you brush your teeth, you get dressed, you go to class. You study for your exams, you go to class, you write home for money, you shoot the breeze all day, you go to class. You get up and read into the evening. Now Columbus. No, you don't. Nobody thinks about Columbus these days. Let us, therefore, pause for a moment and recall his ever-glorious, stoutly stirring saga.

Christopher Columbus was born in Genoa on August 14, 1451. His father, Domenico, his mother, Susanna di Gentile, were a sailor, Christopher was an only child, except for his four brothers, and a sailor. By all accounts, his father was a sailor who spent all day in the auto wash and his mother constantly away from the house. Hence, Columbus was quite a typical house husband. However, the lack of a family seemed to be an asset and an advantage, and the two of them formed a team. Unfortunately, there was only one book in Genoa at the time—Ceres the Mother of the World. So, after years of working, and with the help of his wife's effigy, Christopher Columbus grew up. As his wife reached the age of 80, one of the first things she said to him was: "How's rumor?" He replied, "Very well." "And the weather?" "Very bad." "And the crops?" "Very bad."

On Sunday, October 12, Columbus Day, we remember the great voyage of Christopher Columbus. Columbus Day is a national holiday in the United States, celebrated on the second Monday in October. It commemorates the day in 1492 when Christopher Columbus and his crew first set foot on the American continent.

Southern Illinois University's Salukis travel to Normal tomorrow for a "must" game with Illinois State. In fact, both teams are in the running for conference games are "musts" if both are to secure a second-consecutive IAC championship.

The Salukis bounced back into EIAC contention with a Homecoming victory over Eastern Illinois. At the same time, they were given a big boost when Northern Illinois played the "spoiler" role and edged tomorrow is Homecoming at Normal, and the Cardinals should be anxious to bounce back from a 44-7 shellacking at the hands of Northern Michigan last week.

"We have a long way to go if we're going to win the championship," explained Piccone, "but I feel optimistic of the outcome." SIU should have its work cut out tomorrow. After a fifth place finish in the conference last year, ISNU is eager to remain on top of the heap this year. In addition, tomorrow is Homecoming at Normal, and the Cardinals should be more pressure on the defense and makes for a more balanced attack," Gallatin explained. "Of course you have to alter your offense from year to year," he continued. "You have to consider your personnel and plan your offense accordingly." According to Gallatin there has been one major role change in collegiate basketball this year.

Flag Tourney Opens Wednesday

Flag football enters its final days with a week's worth of league championships still up in the air. The winners of the six leagues will meet in a single elimination tourney which begins Wednesday. Right now only the Ud's Palace team and the Illinois Travelers appear to be clear leaders in their respective off-campus league races. Both teams' remaining league games have two undefeated teams and the Illini league has no team without an unblemished mark.

In order for the league winners to polish their offenses for the tourney, which begins Wednesday, the teams must work through the end of November and will be limited to one hour sessions.

Gallatin Plans Same Fast-Break Offense

"My club will always use the fast break," affirms basketball coach Harry Gallatin as fifteen hopefuls assemble for the fourth year starting berth on the Saluki team.

"We'll try to play the same basic offense as last year," he continues. The offense is a fast-breaking "incentive" attack utilizing the scoring potential of all five members. "A feature of this season is more pressure on the defense and makes for a more balanced attack," Gallatin explained. "Of course you have to alter your offense from year to year," he continued. "You have to consider your personnel and plan your offense accordingly." According to Gallatin there has been one major role change in collegiate basketball this year.

This is concerned with what the experts call the "buffer zone" which is located between the man under the basket and the man standing next to him along the free throw line.

This zone is to provide a 12-inch margin between these two men. This will make it more difficult for the offensive team to utilize tipping following a missed free throw.

All-Conference Honors In Sight

Ron Winters Zeroes In on Football Records

By TOM McNAMARA

Missing the first two games this season because of a shoulder injury, SIU senior quarterback Ron Winters is beginning to flash the form which earned him all-conference honors last fall.

Winters, who prepped at Carmi High School, played a key role in the Salukis last season as he established new marks for the most touchdowns passes and for total yardage in a season. He threw seven scoring aerials and totaled 1,173 yards, including 266 rushing and 857 passing.

So far this season he has thrown 41 times for 29 completions and 289 yards, including one TD. The Saluki signal-caller also has rushed for 135 yards in 24 carries.

THE BEST

SIU football coach Carmen Piccone considers Winters the best quarterback in the conference. It seems his reasoning is well-founded. Piccone's reasoning lies in the fact that Winters can run as well as pass. Last year it was this all-around ability that led to a berth on the IAC all-star squad. In IAC play this season Winter has taken the lead from teammate Amos Bullocks in total offense. He has gained 482 yards rushing and passing while Bullocks has notched 376. However, in all games Ron trails "Bull" by 48 yards. Bullocks has rushed for 220 yards while Ron has 42 to his credit.

Last Saturday in Southern's victory over Illinois Wesleyan Winters displayed his versatility as he completed 18 of 35 passes for 215 yards and gained 153 yards in 11 carries. The 215 yards represented the most yards he has amassed in a single game during his college gridiron career.

CONFERENCE HONORS

Piccone also believes Ron is a shoe-in for a second straight nomination as quarterback of the IAC all-star team.

This season Ron hasn't been playing defense because of the early season shoulder injury, but Piccone likes to recall the great days Winter had as SIU's safetyman. In several games last fall Winter came through with clutch interceptions and tackles.

It is here where Piccone appreciates Winter, who will give you 100 per cent in everything he does. This was displayed last year against Bowling Green as Winter played his heart out until he collapsed from exhaustion. It is this type play that merits Piccone's praise of his senior quarterback.

Coach Ralph Casey says the meet will be held under record conditions with a full set of officials in the event that a record is tied or broken.

One of last year's mainstays for Casey's patioons, Ray Pavdov, has moved out of his customary 20 and 100-yard events to swim the 700 and 440-yard races. Pavdov holds the NCAA record in the 100-yard event with a time of 48.9 seconds, which was set here last year against Illinois State Normal. He also holds the American record for a 100-yard pool, set at Lawrence, Kansas, last winter with a time of 51.1 for the 100-yards.

Another standout last season, regardless of what he swims, Walt Rodgers is back for another season.
