Rinella says no undergraduate rent hike in ‘78

By Scott Ellis Staff Writer

There will be no increase in University housing rates for undergraduate housing facilities in fall of 1978, said Rinella, University Housing director.

Rinella said an increase of on-campus housing rates is possible only if University Housing encounters considerable unforeseen costs.

"This year there will be no rate study for the fall of 1978 and no increases for undergraduate housing until 1979," Rinella said Tuesday.

Rinella added that the proposed installation of an air conditioning system in University Park’s Triads Thompson Point, Small Group Housing and Student Housing would increase operating costs for University Housing in 1979, and that a new air conditioning system is expected to be in operation.

In a meeting with the East Campus Resident Affairs Council (ECRAC) Thursday night, Rinella estimated that operating costs would increase about $13 per month per student if the new air conditioning systems are installed.

However, Rinella said President Warden said he will wait for the final decision on whether air conditioning will be installed or not.

Rinella indicated that a final decision on whether to install the air conditioning matter will be made in 60 days.

Brandt sets employe guidelines for janitors’ strike

By Jean Nessa Staff Writer

Employees who honor custodians’ picket line through the threatened strike to begin Thursday will not be paid and will have their hours restricted, President Warren Brandt said Wednesday.

The memo appears on page 17 of the Daily Egyptian—Brandt said in a memo to the service, faculty, graduate assistants and student workers will be expected to be at their jobs during a strike or face penalties.

SIU’s 260 custodians, who have worked without a contract since Aug. 1, agreed last week to walk off the job Thursday after failing to reach a new wage agreement with the university.

The union is demanding a 55-cent per hour salary increase, while the university is offering a 25 cent raise. The custodian now makes $6.00 an hour.

The memo, which is Brandt’s first public comment on the proposed strike, states that any employee who fails to report during the strike will not be paid.

Also, all faculty members are expected to conduct classes and hold their regularly scheduled office hours, Brandt said. No classes in 10 days will be approved during strike because Brandt said late Thursday that SIU’s custodians are forced to have to rule out vacations, so you can tell who is striking and who isn’t.

Vacation days okayed prior to Wednesday will be honored.

The memo also states any employee who is absent because of illness during the strike will be required to provide the Personnel Office with a medical excuse. An extended unexcused absence may result in a loss of pay and "further sanctions," according to the memo.

Brandt explained that further sanctions means "under extreme circumstances" employees with many unexcused absences could be released.

“It’s an old practice to call in sick during a strike situation,” Brandt said. "You need verification.”

In justifying the strict measures, Brandt said, “I don’t think we are in a position where the state can pay people for not working.”

Affecting the day-to-day operations of the University, the strike may involve other unions who decide to honor the custodians’ picket lines.

Joseph Gaune, assistant director of University housing, said Tuesday that student workers and "supervisory personnel" will operate University housing’s cafeteria during the threatened strike if the food service workers honor picket lines.

“We’re planning on feeding as usual. Students are entitled to their meals under their contracts,” Gaune said.

Gaune indicated that himself and Sam Rinella, director of University Housing also may work in the cafeteria in order to keep them open.

Despite the warnings of losing pay for not holding classes, three collective bargaining group leaders stand fast in their plans to honor custodians picket lines.

Herbert Donow, president of the Carbondale Federation of University Teachers, said the guidelines seem vague and punitive. He does not believe the memo’s guidelines will intimidate teachers who plan to honor picket lines.

Pappell also questioned whether the University had considered the safety of the faculty and staff. "In Life Science II, for example, who will remove the dead rats from the vivarium if a place where animals are kept? Who would want to eat in a campus cafeteria that isn’t clean? We prefer that the president settle the dispute before we get up our nerves in carbage."

Calling the illness excuses "totally unacceptable," Lee Hester, chairman of the civil service bargaining organization, said the memo was an attempt to violate in policy which three days of the work week allowed for a doctor’s note was required. "Either you have a lbenefit or you don’t. Just don’t change your policy because you are going to have a strike," Hester said.

Raising another matter, Hester said, “employees do not have to picket lines if they fear for their safety. Who decides what is safe and unsafe?”

Supporting Brandt’s expectations that all teachers will be at their jobs. Marvin Kleinau, president of the Carbondale chapter of the American Association of University Teachers, said he feels the memo adds another strike to the president’s job contract does. “That’s the kind of thing that was expected of us when we took our job," Kleinau said.

Kleinau said that the emergency situation warrants Brandt’s measures on the sick leave statements and the suspension of vacation time.

University Police officers probably will not join SIU; any custodians on the picket line if the janitors strike likely will send out the police union said Thursday.

The stand is that SIU Police officer John Hudson, that nearly twenty-five campus police who are members of the Teamsters/United Local 347, based in West Frankfort, are not even sure about the situation with the custodians.

Last week however, Hudson said, "A strike is always possible when you’re in a union situation."

Sirica reduces ex-Nixon aides sentences

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ended his long involvement in the Watergate case by drastically reducing the 2 1/2-year sentence of John Mitchell, R.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman to a period of one more than four years. Ehrlichman, who went to prison without waiting for the outcome of his appeals, is eligible for parole after Oct. 31. For Haldeman the magic date is June 11, 1978 and for Mitchell June 28. The three were convicted of conspiring to cover up White House involvement in the Watergate scandal and of lying about it among other things. I set down to write this letter, I wondered what the people of Illinois would want to know about what their state was like in 1977," the letter said. Thompson later went on to say that "the New York Yankees and the Kansas City Royals will start their American League baseball playoffs tomorrow.

Soviet's develop satellite-killer weapon

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Soviet Union has developed a satellite-killer weapon that could be used in outer space, Defense Secretary Harold Brown said. He added that the U.S. lacks a similar capability. Brown's disclosure came as a surprise because U.S. intelligence analysts have been suspecting for a long time that the U.S.S.R. was attempting to unseat the system it said the main danger to the U.S. of a Soviet anti-satellite system would be to attack U.S. satellites. Mr. Brown said that the weapon would help the U.S. against other military developments, and to satellites designed to warn U.S. authorities immediately if Russia should launch a surprise missile attack.

Senate lifts lid on Carter gas controls

WASHINGTON (AP) - Breaking a 21-year deadlock, the Senate voted to lift price controls on newly discovered natural gas, rejecting President Carter's proposal for continued regulation. Dereregulation would increase gas prices, with the cost of immediately deregulated gas rising at a faster rate than that remaining under federal price controls. The Senate bill contains a clause that would require gas pipelines to give homeowners the first chance to buy the cheaper gas still under government price controls. Carter previously had said he would veto a deregulation bill like the one passed by the Senate.

Ghandi freed; arrest prompts violent protests

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - A judge freed Indira Gandhi after 16 hours in police custody on charges of violation of an election campaign order. But the government appealed to a higher court and said it would press for her trial on corruption charges. Scattered violence and hundreds of arrests erupted in the northern city of Delhi as supporters of the 80-year-old former prime minister protested her arrest. In an interview after her release, Gandhi charged that the arrests of thousands of people have and are being tortured. "She did not elaborate.

Carter says U.S. - Soviet arms agreement close

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) - President Carter told the United Nations that he believes there is a good chance of a U.S.-Soviet arms agreement. He said that the U.S. will be willing in some future treaty to cut its nuclear arsenal in half. The President then turned his attention to the Middle East. He received a "positive" message, which he refused to divulge from Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. Egypt is known to be concerned about an expanded Soviet role in the quest for a peaceful settlement and the absence of so far explicit U.S. support for a Palestinian state. A White House aide said the administration "anticipates a very difficult Geneva conference" and may even rescind in accord.

Cold weather blankets area

Currently, temperatures in Southern Illinois are below freezing below normal and with a new cold front approaching the area from the west, temperatures are expected to fall that way for a few days. That past Tuesday, when my observer at the Southern Illinois Airport, said the cold front, part of a high pressure system, is moving in the area and temperatures will be below freezing as early as noon Wednesday. Overnight low temperatures are expected to remain near 40 through Wednesday when the front is expected to leave the area area. Daytime temperatures are expected to remain near 70. There is a 30 percent chance of showers and scattered thunderstorms. Strong winds and skies will remain partly cloudy.

New dental plan to be reviewed

By Phyllis Mattera

The health service's plans for the student dental program and the service's new policy on money shortages are scheduled for review by the Senate committee this week. The Senate committee plans to review and vote on the tentative operating budget for the dental program, the Dental Services Plan for 1979-80. The dental services plan is scheduled for a hearing in the Senate committee, the president said. Action taken by the Senate concerning the program is contingent on the approval of the Board of Trustees. The Senate committee will hold its first meeting to begin consideration of the Student Senate's resolutions on the dental program. The resolution is an attempt to update the dental program and continue with the educational goals for dental education, Mayor Neal Eckart said. The resolution was sponsored by the Student Senate. The Student Senate's resolution will be presented to the Student Senate on the evening of Wednesday evening.

City slates educational conference

The city of Carbondale is sponsoring a community education conference from 8:30 to 4 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Center. The theme of the conference is "urban community: a community with a Cooperation Concept to Reality." The conference will be divided into two parts. The morning session will be devoted to presentations regarding the community and community education. The second part will be devoted to presentations on the educational goals, models of community education in Illinois, and related federal regulations and a film pertaining to community education. The conference Recreation is a concept that stresses an expanded role for public solutions to the student health service's money shortages. The conference will be open to the public.

Group urges colleges to prohibit covert practices

By Mark Edgar

Staff Writer

Declaring that SIU faculty and students may be responsible for a national organization has urged campus leaders to adopt guidelines prohibiting the undercover activity. The group said that faculty and students have selected SIU along with 41 other academic institutions to develop "institutional guidelines for covert organizations." The group's statement is not specific as to which student or faculty group has been involved in the SIU.

The CSO group said that these guidelines, if adopted, could be used to prohibit "activities such as mind control experiments involving drugs, radiation and electrical shocks." The committee said that it was "disturbed to find those practices in more than 100 educational institutions, but it is the responsibility of the national community to set the standards." The statement was sent to SIU officials.

SIU officials have said that they have been contacted by other institutions to find out if the student's organization is involved in the SIU.

The Chicago Sun-Times quoted intelligence sources as saying the University of Illinois was the only other university that had a "third front" for covert operations.

The CIA secretly funded research on the effects of mind control experiments. The grantees, who were selected by the CIA, included students and faculty members who were "taught" to become "agents of the U.S." The CIA's funding of the research was first reported by the Chicago Sun-Times.

The great master of bizarre entertainment, P.T. Barnum once said, "Clowns are the legs of the circus, they hold everything together." In his book, "The Greatest Show on Earth," he names Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus which will perform the "Greatest Show on Earth," on Oct. 11 and 12 in the Arena.

Bickford visited Carbondale as part of a promotional campaign for the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus which will perform the "Greatest Show on Earth," on Oct. 11 and 12 in the Arena.

Bickford, who calls Urbana home, said he has been clowning around both professionally and nonprofessionally since he was 10 years old. "My father, who used to perform at the International Brotherhood of Magicians, does live magic shows throughout the Midwest. When I was younger, I used to clown in his magic shows," Bickford said, and that was the "class clown" in school too. "I used to wear all kinds of clothing to school. One time I went to school dressed in a white sheet."

Bickford did not go to college, at least in the traditional sense. He went to Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Clown College. "I spent an eight-week course in clowning, including classes in mime, acrobatics, juggling, stilts, make-up and wardrobe, modern dance, fencing, and elephant care," Bickford said.

Bickford said the Clown College was started in 1908 by the Los Angeles Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey "The Greatest Show on Earth," to supply a steady flow of clowns. "The old masters of clowning were all dying off and taking the secrets of being funny with them. I was one of the first to supply young talent at an official national clown technique," Bickford said.

Making a person look like a clown can sometimes be hard to do, but Roosie T. Golo's seems to be having little trouble doing so. Daily Egyptian reporter Doug Durako, Roosie, alias Kevin Bickford, is a clown for the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus, which visits Carbondale on Oct. 11 and 12.

Rich makeup

The first major step in becoming a "real" clown is "clowning up the type", a role that I have been playing for the past four years. "The first clown wants to be, according to Bickford."

"I went up the council decided not to act on Parrish's request because it could open Pandora's box as far as the council's position is concerned," he said. "They want to build a shopping center on the site."

"I would probably look like this 20 years from now," Bickford said. "I would still be a clown. I consider myself very lucky to have found a profession where people would consider that a good job."
The threatened strike Thursday by the custodians' union poses a moral dilemma for the University community that is not easily resolved. The custodians' salary demands are legitimate. Custodians at the Carbondale campus make 11 per cent less than the counterparts at the Edwardsville campus. The administration's offer of a five per cent raise is but a drop in their custodial buckets. When applied to administrative salaries, that five per cent is a tidy sum—but it does not come near to equalizing custodians' salaries with other university pay scales.

Each faculty member, whether or not he or she belongs to a union, must decide whether to honor or cross the picket lines the union says it will erect.

The strike presents the first real test of collective bargaining. While it may not be the acid test, the decision to honor or cross the picket lines is a more meaningful measure of faculty sentiment than previously published straw polls in the absence of public officials who hold the persuasions.

While some faculty members grapple with the morality of a strike, there will be those—unhesitatingly—without introspection or conflict—will walk in front of the picket lines. Those who sit on the sidelines with their uneasiness set of principles unshaken and intact—those who feel no moral dilemma at all—should as least ask themselves why not.

To honor the picket lines would be, at the very least, a symbolic gesture of solidarity. Such faculty support may not bring the University to its knees; it will not necessarily force the administration to meet custodians' demands; it may not guarantee the future of the university. But such a gesture will take on increasing importance in convincing public officials who hold the persuasions: public sentiment. Those who feel a moral obligation to honor the strike, those who are committed to collective bargaining, and those who feel custodians' demands just should support the strike.

Such solidarity will indicate that faculty sentiment for their own cause—collective bargaining—extends beyond words.

Custodians victims of misplaced priorities

As an interested observer of the problems between the custodians and the administration, I would like to support the building service workers' proposed solution. There are two areas where we need the support of the campus community, the reasons for cynicism regarding the good intentions of the administration towards Civil Service employees.

The administration claims that it would be forced to cut from already underfunded academic programs to pay the building service workers more. But there are other areas that could "afford" cuts without endangering academic programs. In the past two years enough administrative positions and programs have been added to more than cover the additional funds needed to implement this plan, including the pay level of the Edwardsville campus custodians.

The administration's raising administrative salaries was also presented as a way to improve the custodians' living level and improve the level of service.

It is not credible to state that there is not enough money to pay the building service workers their proper wage. The administrators have not materially improved the living level of the custodians as a result of the past contract.

Emmanuel Lugo's letter alleging that the election of the present executive committee of the African Student Association (ASA) violated the association's constitution was a deliberate attempt to misinform the campus community about the results of the election.

The elections did not violate the constitution of the ASA in any conceivable way. Before the elections started, the point was raised that only dues-paying members of the association would be allowed to vote. The collection of dues was made sure that all members who wanted to vote had paid their dues. The elections began. There were no complaints made during or after the elections. Emmanuel Lugo had no complaints against the position of president. He accepted the nomination without reservation. He did not protest the election on the ground that it might violate the constitution.

Incidentally, the former treasurer of the ASA reported that a check for $200 prevented by a member of the association had "bounced." You report prompted Emmanuel Lugo to write a letter to the editor that 'bounced' check was evidence that certain members had colluded to defraud the association. You did not state that the check was not presented for payment until a month after it was issued. The issuer maintained that he did not know that the check had been issued until he received it and to prove it, he asked that the check be sent back to the bank. The above-mentioned incident cannot be logically inferred as a violation of the constitution of the ASA which he bought off with the threat of a court action at age 65.

People like to feel they are irreplaceable. Here, the question of whether there was a breach of contract is important. George Washington was told he could not be replaced.

New officers of African students upheld democracy

I wish to refer to the letter entitled "Constitution was violated" which appeared in the D.E. on Thursday, October 7.

First, what is democracy? The present executive members of the African Student Association were elected to office by the dues-paying members in accordance with the constitution of the association. The writer of the letter was himself a nominee and failed in his bid for the presidential post. At the last association meeting held early in September, the integrity and performance of the present executive members were challenged and the meeting was closed by the majority of African students, especially the undergraduates. They knew that these executive members were not promoting a democratic atmosphere on campus during weekdays and therefore would not be able to attend the meetings. The meeting was closed by a two-thirds vote to maintain a democratic atmosphere. Was this democracy? Thanks must go to the present executive members for a job well done. As a result, those in attendance, the excellent turnout of African students at the last meeting held in early October, was an indication that African students are more interested in African affairs.

By any other name, the Rec Building is the same

In rebuttal to the comments by Michael Gum-aulis, certain students feel that the naming of the Rec Building by using the described criteria is really Sound.

What is the necessity of naming the building after a person? Why does the name have to commemorate an event that occurred during the period suggested by Gumaulis? Why limit the time period to the 18th century? Why not to the 18th century? Why not to the 17th century? Why not to the 16th century? Students are still paying for its operation and maintenance.

The question of an American student's name is an arbitrary criterion to begin with. What is American anyway? Are they whose names are of British or Italian descent, or does it matter? In any foreign nationality, to be honest.

We think that the naming of a building to honor or in appreciation of a student or students be left up to the students. To name a building, the function of which is recreation. Let's just call it the "Rec Building."
Siu music diversity featured

during three-part jazz show

Jazz Festival, a small ensemble of SiU's jazz musicians who won first place in the nationally recognized Wichita Jazz Festival last year, will be one part of a three-part free jazz concert featuring original as well as popular jazz tunes Wednesday, 8 p.m. in Shreve Auditorium. The regular big jazz band and the new piece Jazz Funk Band will play the other two parts of the show, respectively.

Woody Herman and Maynard Ferguson are two popular artists who's music will be presented by the big band.

The bands will be directed by Alexis Vala, instructor in music, now in his third year as director of the jazz program.

Tunes by Roberta Flack, Herb Alsten and Chuck Corra will be played by the Funk band.

The Fusion Band will feature a composition by group member Gus Pappas who won the top prize in the individual composition category at Chicago's Embrurst Jazz Festival. The concert is the first in a series of four to be presented by the jazz bands.

Zappa speaks out

Records for world-wide distribution and a label to be known as Zappa Records.
Zappa estimates he spends six months a year touring. The present show involves setting up 66,000 pounds of equipment 100 different places around the world.

When asked what keeps him going, he deadpanned, "I'm enamored to any kind of work." "What they [the musicians] do is they give limitations," Zappa said, adding, "When you find out how far they can go, you have to write inside those margins. As the personnel changes, the margins change." Zappa also works in the film and video medium, his "300 Motels" being a landmark rock film a few years back. A TV special he did was shown in Europe, but he said "the American networks don't want it because there's no stars in it."

"I've always felt that television as a medium for potential expression is fantastic. The thing that's bad about it is what is done with it. It's a tool to keep people stupid," Zappa said. "I want to use it to get laid. I got laid and got out," Zappa told the student interviewers, adding, "But that was back in the 60's, when everything was new. It might even be educational, but I have my doubts."

Daily Egyptian, October 5, 1977, Page 9
Service Employees International Union, Local 316, AFL-CIO, will tomorrow morning, October 6, 1977, go on strike against Southern Illinois University, Carbondale. We will place pickets at all entrances to the University and ask that all union employees respect these picket lines. This strike is sanctioned by our International Union and all pickets will have a copy of the sanction for anyone who wishes to see.

To all other employees on campus we ask only that your conscience be your guide. As unorganized individuals, with no representation, we recognize that you are in no position to endanger your job. You can help us with phone calls and letters to your elected state officials, University administrators and the news media. By giving us your verbal support as you see us on picket duty.

To set the record straight on the purpose of this strike — We are simply asking that the University set down and negotiate with us. We are asking that we be paid the same rate on this campus as is paid at SIU, Edwardsville, for the same work in exactly the same classification — in other words — PARITY — EQUAL PAY FOR EQUAL WORK.

It has been reported that we are asking for an 11% increase. This is not true, tho it would not be out of line considering how far behind the employees of this campus are. What we are asking is simply fair for the negotiating table but it is far less than the reported 11%, at this time.

If this situation sounds familiar to you, if your pay for the work you do is less than other comparable employees on other campuses then what do you do? The best answer I can give you to this is to JOIN THE SERVICE EMPLOYEES INTERNATIONAL UNION. Organize yourselves and become a bargaining unit with representation and have a say in those things that effect your working conditions — Your Future. If you are interested this can be done in a matter of a few weeks. We will work with you & I for you to get the job done. Just fill in the form at the bottom of the page and mail it to me or give it to any building service worker you see. THIS WILL BE KEPT ABSOLUTELY CONFIDENTIAL.

Police investigate burglaries

Carbondale police are investigating four burglaries reported earlier this week.

Jim E. Van Cleve, 50, S. Poplar Street, told police Monday that the coal box from his coal stoker had been removed from his home. Van Cleve estimated the value of the coal box at $100.

James Aitken and Loren Polluck, both of E. Grand Apts. 28-A, told police Monday their apartment was entered and $100 in cash was taken. John Hickey, 175 W. Walnut, said police his unlocked apartment had been entered and a $200 turntable was taken.

Police said they received a report Monday that a house at 1529 N. Bridge had been entered and a camera, stereo amplifier and $10 in cash were taken.

Activities book makes first showing

By Phyllis Masters
Student Worker

For the first time at SIU, an activities handbook containing a comprehensive list of upcoming events is available. The handbook contains information that students can use everyday said John McGuire, graduate assistant for student activities. It runs from August through July 1971 and is in a calendar format. Activities are listed on the day they occur.

The book also contains a telephone directory, a description of the student conduct code, a list of student organizations and a glossary of campon terms.

McGuire said he started working on the handbook in February. Student Government and the Student Activities Center committed a $10,000 loan for production of 7,000 books McGuire said they must sell at least $5.00 just to break even. Proceeds from the handbook will be used to finance next year's book.

McGuire said, Advertising was sold in the back of the book to help offset the publication cost.

The book is 5 1/2 inches wide by 8 1/2 inches high, 130 pages with a sturdy white plastic cover and spiral wire binding. It is made to last a year, McGuire said.

"So far, 3,000 copies have been delivered to local stores," McGuire said. "We have had to already drop off more books at one store.

The Student Activities Calendar Handbooks are $1.95 and available at Student Center Bookstore, 310 Bookstore at 710 S. Illinois, and Student Book Store at 825 S. Illinois. The InterGreek Council will distribute 1,000 books to fraternities and sororities.

McGuire, who is the editor of the handbook, said that this is the first time a handbook like this has been done.

Gwendolyn Brooks is one admirer of student poet and anthology editor

By Gerica Coffee
Best Writer

Frank Harris III finds it a satisfying feeling to pick a thought out of the air and see my creation as the printed word.

The senior in Administration of Justice writes poetry and, this year, hopes to publish an anthology of literature written by black students.

Last year, Harris edited and published a similar anthology of poetry written by five black students. He hopes to expand the format "not just as a forum for black poets, but for all black writers on campus since we lack such an outlet."

Harris said he began to think seriously about doing an anthology after he read, "The Trigger Isn't Born," received an honorable mention in a contest sponsored by "Blacks Book Bulletin" in Chicago. Pulitzer prize winner and poet laureate of Illinois, Gwendolyn Brooks, was a judge for that contest.

"I began corresponding with her. A couple of my friends and myself had her critique our poetry. It was with her blessing that we asked black students to submit their work," he said.

However, Harris' friends graduated before the idea could take shape.

"But, it was something I couldn't let that easily. When I returned to school last fall, I wrote my friends for the poetry we had collected. I got it together, edited it, arranged the format, found someone to do the artwork, typed it, found a printer, found the funds and published it."

The result of his work is a 12-page paperback entitled "Emergency Capacity." Published last fall, Harris explained that both the title and the poetry "convey the idea that"

Linda Peebles doesn't stop

The counter at "new accounts" has become very poular since Linda Peebles is in charge. When people find out about the many different kinds of accounts we have they usually find one or more fits their needs just fine. Come in and ask Linda to explain them. She'll gladly stop long enough to do that.

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY
AT CARBONDALE
Office of the President
October 5, 1977

TO: All Faculty, Administrative/Professional Staff, Civil Service Employees, Graduate Assistants and Student Workers

FROM: Warren W. Brandt

As you are undoubtedly aware, the University has been formally notified by Local 316, Service Employees International Union, that on or after October 6 members of that union employed by the University intend to withdraw their services and to place picket lines at various University entrances. This proposed strike is in violation of the public policy of Illinois.

We remain hopeful that the members of Local 316 will change their minds and remain on their jobs. However, in the event that the threatened strike does occur, the services necessary to keep the University functioning will be maintained. To this end, all employees—administrative/professional, civil service faculty, graduate assistants and student workers—are expected to be at work.

Any employee who fails to report for work during the strike will not be paid for those days not worked. All faculty members are expected to conduct their classes and to hold their regularly scheduled office hours.

No vacation days will be approved during the strike. However, vacation days approved prior to this memorandum will be honored. Further, any University employee who is absent because of illness during the strike will be required to provide the Personnel Office a medical statement attesting to that illness. Prolonged unexcused absence may result, in addition to loss of pay, in further sanctions.

I recognize the commitment of some members of the University community to the concept of honoring a picket line. Nevertheless, every effort must be made to maintain the commitments necessary to keep the University open. Your full cooperation will be appreciated.
Test registration for teachers ends on Oct. 20

The National Teacher Examinations will be held Nov. 12 in Home Economics Building, Room 105. Anyone planning on taking the test must register with the Educational Testing Service before Oct. 20, according to Harley Bradshaw, coordinator of the career planning and placement center. On-the-spot registration will not be permitted.

Registration forms and instructions can be obtained from the Career Planning and Placement Center, Woody Hall B, Room 209, or from the Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

Each registrant may take the common examinations, which include tests in general education and general education plus one of the 25 area examinations, which test knowledge of particular subject matter and teaching methods.

Those taking common examinations should report at 8:30 a.m. and be finished by 12:30 p.m. The area examinations are scheduled from 1:30 p.m. to about 4:15 p.m.

Class G Stereo Receiver

This receiver is for those who require a less powerful version of Hitachi's Class G amplifier. The low power output stage of the SR 903 delivers 75 watts per channel
RMS. However, during musical peaks, the high power output stage automatically doubles the watts to 150 per channel RMS to prevent clipping distortion.

The SR 903's other outstanding features include FM auto-lock, phase lock loop circuitry, mid-range/treble tone controls, power protection circuit, hi/low filters and detent controls.

Stereo Review summed-up the Class G amplifier by saying that it delivers "much higher overall efficiency than a conventional device, and this brings immediate dividends...in reduced weight, size and power consumption."
Operator helps in many ways

By Michael Grennan
Staff Writer

Cates probably talks to more people day in and day out than anybody else in Carbondale. Sometimes her conversations last only a few seconds—sometimes they last half an hour or more.

In Cates' 19 years as a service assistant—a telephone operator dealing with specialized and emergency calls—she has helped SIU students make long-distance telephone calls to their parents, calmed irate people who have been conned on phone, and possibly saved the life of an elderly Douglas woman.

During an average eight-hour day, Cates, with her soft southern accent, will talk to more than 100 people over the telephone. From little boys calling the fire department to sons Hubert Humphrey of Mays, Cates has helped customers who couldn't be aided by a regular operator.

It was one of those out-of-the-ordinary calls on the afternoon of June 18, 1972, that Cates might have saved the life of an elderly woman who apparently had suffered a stroke.

Unable to comprehend the woman's garbled voice, the regular operator turned the call over to Cates, her service assistant. A lighted sign in Cates' control board showed Cates that the call was from DuQuoin.

Cates telephoned the DuQuoin Police Department and relayed the sound of a fit. Lyle Haner, who listened in on the call to try to decipher the words, was able to get Cates more operators like Cates.

This isn't the only 'call that's special' just like Cates but the General Telephone office at 214 W. Main St. employs 45 full-time and part-time operators to handle calls from 12 counties in Southern Illinois.

"Our peak hours are 9 to 9:30 a.m. and between 7 and 10:30 p.m.," Cates said. "I just wish we had 50 more operators like Cates."

Service assistant Shirley Cates answers another "special" call. Cates talks to more than 100 people each day that regular operators are unable to help.

Dental Hygiene students attend Miami convention

Second year Dental Hygiene students leave Wednesday for the week-long American Dental Hygiene Association and American Dental Association national convention being held at Miami Beach.

The hygiene students worked more than a year to raise the $2,000 to participate in the convention. They earned the money selling toothbrushes, baked goods and popcorn. They also held a raffle earlier this semester.

Renee Testery, Junior American Dental Hyg-o-advisor, said six students have prepared table clinic presentations for the convention. The table clinics will be judged along with others and the best will be awarded prizes.

The presentations prepared are: "Tree Natural, prepared by Sue Palmer and Brenda Shillinger which concerns the use of honey as a sugar substitute. "Panorama," prepared by Lynn Jacob and Lynn Taylor which concerns different types of X-ray treatments; and "Thank You for the Mammaries," prepared by Eva Harvey and Helen Pinerio which involves bottle feeding versus breast feeding.

Other students have been involved with arranging motel accommodations and chartering a bus.

Badger disappointed by Bulls’ play
by Bob Vanderwaard
Staff Writer
Coach Ed Badger of the Chicago Bulls had not yet found the magic key to open the door to a successful season. His search did not end Friday night because his team put on a lackluster performance and lost to the Kansas City Kings, 102-88, at the Assembly Hall in Chicago.

The loss was the Bulls’ second in preseason play in the past three years (58-50 setback at the hands of the Cleveland Cavaliers last Wednesday).

The Bulls’ improvements do not have coincided with Badger’s scenario for the season. Badgers have lost three of their past five game as the team season after the Bulls finished last season in a stampede, winning 22 of 31 last games to qualify for a playoff berth. The Bulls’ roaring finish came to an abrupt end when they were beaten, two games to one, by the Portland Trailblazers, the eventual NBA champions.

For the most part, Badger said he was embarrassed by his team’s play Friday night. The Bulls shot only 37 percent in the first half and trailed at halftime, 55-39. The Bulls improved their shooting in the final 34 minutes but were unable to get close to the 10-point margin.

The only that the game was only an exhibition did not diminish Badger’s disappointment. He said he wants his team to be ready to go to a good start this season.

SIU Rugby Club beats Springfield for second victory

The rugby club improved its record to 3-2 Saturday with a 7-4 win over the Springfield Cels at Lincoln Land College in Springfield. The team has only one more competition with the Cels.

Terry Hock made a 30-yard field goal late in the second half. Frank Terlap scored SIU’s other points with a drop-kick goal after taking a pass from Jeff Peters. Terlap’s score capped a 14-3 win for SIU.

Springfield had numerous scoring opportunities, but the runners were stopped by SIU’s defense, which scored from scoring every time. The Cels once lost 20 points in the first half but were unable to find the end zone.

How Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics gives you a competitive edge in school.

School at any level means reading... lots of it. Keeping up with thousands of pages can take a heavy toll in time and energy and grades. If you’re typical, you read 150 to 350 words a minute. But how do you get ahead of the rest?

Evelyn Wood can triple your reading rate and improve your comprehension and study skills.

Hundreds of thousands of students use the Reading Dynamics Method. They find reading less of a chore. Concentration and retention improve, which can lead to better grades. A competitive edge is important... too important for you to delay.

Prove it to yourself today!

Whether you’re thinking of grad school or the job market, or if you want to keep up with course reading today, let Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics give you a competitive edge.

In fact, Evelyn Wood guarantees that you will triple your reading rate if you follow the course honestly, or your full tuition will be refunded. That’s our competitive edge.

Robot mailmen stalk Sears Tower

CHICAGO (AP) - Robot mailmen that move through offices at 300 N. Michigan Ave., which houses Sears Tower, are treated nearly like human employees.

Thirty-six of the robots were introduced two years ago on each of the 36 floors of offices in the 110-story tower.

Officials say each of the robots is made up of $12,000 worth of nuts and bolts and sophisticated electronics. They are four feet high, two feet wide and five feet long, and theyCreuse slowly along almost invisible fluorescent tracks laid in corridors between desks delivering mail.

Staff members are enchanted with the robots, which are quite friendly and get-set cards are attached to them. And each has been named--like Godzilla, Godolph and the Happy Hopper.

"They're fascinating, and they don't leak and make wierd cracks," said secretary Debra Currey.

For a while, employees decorated the robots with toys and Halloween masks, but the company frowned on that. Now each carries a small placard with its name and occasionally something like the face of Mickey Mouse.

About the only way to put one out of action is to pull his plug or deny him daily Cheers.

They look like a rowing boat shelf with baby blue eyes blinking out of front and emitting a high pitched blaring sound every few moments.

There are no traffic accidents. When the robot's front bumper touches an object in its path, it stops immediately.

The machines are powered by rechargeable batteries and travel as far as 400 yards on a path that eventually brings them "home" to the floor's central mail distribution point. They pause at preset points for about 20 seconds, long enough for staff to jack up mail or leave items for delivery elsewhere.

John Clifton, Sears' director of operating services, helped develop the robots. He saw similar automated carts in hospitals.

The Michigan aerospace firm, Lear, Swissair and Boeing agreed to develop Clifton's idea with its own and came up with the "Mailmobile."

Students design 'junk' rafts

The saying that someone's trash is another person's treasure might well fit a group of economy-minded design students.

Plastic milk jugs, bleach bottles, styrofoam packing, bouncing balls and air-tight gelatin mold jars are just some of the throwaways they are scavenging for a modern project-building rafts for a Huck Finn type adventure on the Current River in southern Missouri.

The project is the "Floting mudmen" for Design 102 has been an annual event for the last seven or eight years. A 30-member, 30-problem per design professor who teaches the course, said he recalls building rafts that didn't complete the 30-miler river journey.

The project is a practical application of design ideas hatched by the students, and is a "dramatic way to test out their theories," Busch said.

Students must maneuver their creations around riverbanks and fallen trees, risking collisions, tip-overs and soggy passengers--all in the name of design education.

No cost limit is set for materials, but Busch says some successful rafts have been built for as little as $50. Others have set back their design-owners as much as $200.

"The more they can do with less money, the better," said assistant professor Debra Currey.

Busch, the guy who gives the grades for most of the students.

About 30 students usually make the trip.

Evergreen Terrace rent hike reviewed

The Evergreen Terrace Residents Council will hold a meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Terrace Community Room to discuss a reply to the proposed rent increase for Evergreen Terrace residents.

Robert Weise, SIU family housing manager who will also speak at the meeting. The meeting is open to all Evergreen Terrace residents.

Mike Gifford, council president, said, "The subject of a rent increase affects every Evergreen Terrace resident. We expect a large turnout at the meeting."

SIU Family Housing has requested the Federal Housing Authority (FHA) to grant an extra rent increase. According to FHA regulations, a 10-day notice period is required to allow residents to reply to the increase.

The last rent increase at Evergreen Terrace was delayed several months because of objections by the residents, according to Gifford.

$100,000 cash found in youths' van

EVERETT, Wash. (AP) -- A teenager and sister who were with a van with more than $100,000 in cash being held at a youth center while authorities try to figure out how the money came from.

The money is in a safe-deposit vault in an Everett bank for safekeeping under the name of Snohomish County Sheriff Bob Dunham. No one has claimed it or reported it missing, the sheriff's spokesman said.

The youngsters have told investigators that the money was to buy a house in the Pacific Northwest, but claimed variously not to know how the cash came from or that they got it from their stepfather, authorities said.

Part of the problem has been in locating the parents of the 17-year-old girl and her 15-year-old brother. The youngster escaped while serving time on drug charges.

The whereabouts of their mother are not known.

The teenagers were taken into custody Sept. 21 while parked on the shoulder of a highway. State troopers said they found $80,000 in cash and more than 80 pounds of marijuana in the trunk of the Volkswagen.

About $25,000 was in the girl's savings account on the dashboard, another $5,000 was mixed with dirty clothes and remained stuffed in a shoebox, authorities said.

Troopers also found a 22-caliber rifle, a .38-caliber black powder rifle described as a "collector's toy," a .77-caliber pellet rifle, and some ammunition.

The youngsters, whose names were not released because of their ages, said their mother was accompanying them in another van, but she has not been found.

"We're still trying to figure it out," a spokesman for the sheriff's office said Tuesday. "We suspect the money probably came from the removal of a drug deal but we don't know."

The FBI said the stepfather, Gerald L. Kohl, 35, from the Terminal Island federal penitentiary in Los Angeles, where he was serving a 15-year term for importing cocaine.

The girl and boy are in custody at the Denver Youth Center in Everett.

Song week designated by mayor

Carlsbad Mayor Neil Eckert has proclaimed Sunday through next Friday as "Share a Song Week" in honor of charitable song groups in Carlsbad.

The proclamation was presented by Eckert in members of the Sweet Adelines group Monday night before the formal City Council meeting.

Eckert also proclaimed the week of Oct. 9 -13 as Fire Prevention Week in Carlsbad. This is in conjunction with a proclamation signed by Gov. James Thompson, which designates that week as Fire Prevention Week throughout the state.

Carlsbad Fire Chief Charlie McLaughlin told the City Council there are to be three weeks of programs in the city.

This week the Fire Department will be demonstrating some of its equipment at University Mall. Then, during Fire Prevention week, members of the department will give presentations in city schools. Finally, the Fire Department will conduct fire drills for the city.
Women runners second at Macomb

While the women's cross country team, which placed second in the Western Hills showing improvement, according to Coach John Evans, "I've been impressed with how everyone seems to be progressing," Blackman said. "Most of the girls have felt our team members have gotten better.

In the men's most recent meet Saturday at Macomb junior Peggy Redd third with 22:31, finished 19:25 over the 5,000-meter course.

The team is still participating without Jean Tilly, who was last year's top runner. Tilly is hurt with a knee injury.

Blackman said the running of Evans and Meehan has been good, but he added that all of her runners have done well.

SIU finished with 72 team points, which was good for second place behind champion Western Illinois. A team's top five finishers are counted.

The host Leathernecks claimed three of the top 10 spots to win the meet with 38 points. Illinois, which had placed ahead of SIU the last two meets, finished with 78 points.

"I'm very positive about our times," Blackman said. "We are improving and we beat Illinois, which has been our twin.

Blackman said the course at Macomb is a tough one.

"The course at Western is more difficult than others," she said. "In terms of hills, our home course - Midland Hills - is probably the most difficult, but Western is in the top three in the state."

Blackman will have a chance to see her team perform at its best Oct. 15 for the Saluki Invitational. Defending national champion Iowa State will participate in addition to Top 10 powers Minnesota and Ohio State.

SIU Boxing schedules meeting

The SIU Boxing Club's second meeting of the year is scheduled at 8 p.m. Thursday in Room 26 in Recreation Building. All veterans and Midland Hills' is probably the most difficult. For YOU!

Freshman Butch Postard of the Saluki golf team tied for medalist honors in Monday's Missouri Intercollegiate golf tournament at Robinson.

Postard shot a three-over-par 147 to finish in a four-way tie for medalist honors.

He finished seventh at the tourney, but was forced to play without No. 1 golfer Jim Hartman and No. 2 player Walt Ramsey. They were injured in an automobile-accident Saturday morning near Springfield, Ohio, while the team was competing in the Ohio State tournament.

The tournament was played in Marathon, Ohio.

"It was not a difficult course, and that's what made it difficult," Jim Barrett said. "I didn't prove I could play, though. But I believe we can compete with anybody in the state." Barrett said Postard had a good round.

Butch was upset with himself because he threw away a lot of shots," Barrett said. "He could have won it outright but made a lot of putts that were within two feet of the cup. He's got a real good short game and if he'll push Return hard next spring for the No. 1 spot.

"Valleymacup was at 158, freshman Tod O'Reilly had a 166, Jack Haller finished with 151 and Doug Jarnett had a 165 for the Salukis.

I don't come off at the outset and make good plays, they don't remain that way," said Hunter. "I call the match against ISU the best defensive effort the Salukis have shown so far, despite the score of the final game in the series. However, against Florissant Valley, an observant might have thought a new team had taken the court.

Two Salukis struggled in the middle attack and powerful defensive blocking, new material. They were "broad-minded," they needed to do, to play an unfamiliar role, they didn't make wise decisions." Hunter said.

"I am very disappointed by our season record," Hunter said.

Kay Antoiasik (20), bumped the ball during Saturday's volleyball game against Illinois State, while Robin Deterting (9), watched the play. The Salukis won the match three games to one.

With the approach of the state women's volleyball tournament, SIU must lose some of the disorientation it displayed Saturday when it split matches against Indiana State and Florissant Valley Community College, according to Coach Debbie Hunter.

With the exception of game three in the match, SIU dominated ISU with scores of 15-13, 13-11, and 15-11. In the third game Coach Debbie Hunter put in three 11 players in an effort to test the team's depth.

The Florissant Valley match was just a different story. Southern Illinois lost in three straights games by scores of 6-15, 13-15, and 16-14.

The Salukis displayed a typical problem against Florissant Valley, according to Hunter. "We don't come off at the outset and make good plays, they don't remain that way," said Hunter.

intramural softball playoffs to begin

Six undefeated teams head the list of 27 playoff teams vying for the championship in men's advanced 16-inch softball. These teams are Brize Surfers, Petal Pushers, Pro's Tap and TPK E.

Pro's Tap won last spring's 16-inch championship, but this year they were 4-2 against the Surfers in the regular action. The Surfers also were 4-2, finished second in last year's game and are the defending champions in the summer 16-inch competition. Last fall's 16-inch titlists, the Petal Pushers, however, also disbanded and the Surfers players have graduated with some others playing on the Ballistics this fall.

Men's Division B's undefeated teams are the Chones, the bellhangers and Mind-set. No favorites can be determined in this competition as the playoffs have been divided into two divisions.

We Kids are the only undefeated team in Co-Rec Division A and look like they might take it all," said Phil Kaplan. "I am a member of the Ballistics softball. Only four teams are in the playoffs and the only 9 began season competition.

All championship games in all divisions are at Evergreen Terrace.

KANSAS CITY ROYALS

The Kansas City Royals had to wait a year to average their 1965 team to the American League playoffs, but they will finally get their chance Wednesday afternoon when Paul Splittorff, 19-4 for the season, including a 2-0 record against the Yankees, pitches against Don Gullet, 14-4.

The Yanks, who defeated the Royals in five games last year when Chris Chambliss homered to lead off the bottom of the ninth inning of the fifth and final game, won't be as focused this time around.

The Yankees have some big names on their team, a big payroll, big statistics and a big reputation which includes 30 pennants during their history and are World Series champions. Unfortunately, they are an weak player when it comes to speed and defense, two Royal specialties.

Kans. City finished the season with the major leagues, best record, 100-40, as it won 38 of its final 47 games to run away with the American League's West Division.

The Royals were sixth in the league in home runs but made up for the lack of power with their speed. Kansas City led the league in doubles, triples and stolen bases.

Al Covens led the Royals, attack as he connected for 23 HR's, and 112 RBIs. He batted .32 and even stole 15 bases. He is considered to be one of the best, if not the best, shortstop in baseball. He covers a lot of "safe ground" in addition to catching a strong arm. Don't expect the Yankees to test Covens' arm. Covens was ranked among the top outfielders in the league.
