Beggs accepts position at WSU

Beggs

ONWARD: Ex-chancellor hired as president at Wichita State University.

SARA BEAN
POLITICS EDITOR

Former SIUC Chancellor Don Beggs said although he will miss Carbondale, he is looking forward to his new duties as president of Wichita State University in Kansas.

"I'll miss Carbondale," Beggs said. "But, I'll still be around students and faculty. That is an important part of Shirley's (his wife) and my life." Beggs was notified of his new position at WSU Saturday. WSU is one of six public universities in Kansas and is the third largest in the “My experience at SIUC was a real asset to me during the process.” Beggs said. “The situations are similar in some aspects. When students state, with an enrollment of about 15,000.

Beggs said he sees several similarities between WSU and SIUC and believes his time here will prove invaluable.

“My experience at SIUC was a real and faculty raised issues, I could relate my experiences here to that.

“It was a distinct experience for me.”

Beggs served as SIUC's chancellor for a two-year term which ended July 1. Before serving as chancellor, Beggs was dean of the College of Education for 15 years. He also was an instructor, researcher and administrator at SIUC for 15 years.

His starting salary will be $152,678 plus expenses. He will start work Jan. 1, following the retirement of current president Eugene Hughes.

With the exception of its football team, WSU's athletic teams compete in the Missouri Valley Conference — the same situation as SIUC.

Overall, Beggs said he believes the position at WSU is a good move.

“I feel very positive about the straightforwardness there,” Beggs said. “We are really looking forward to this.”

“It will be a real adventure.”

Rash of vehicular burglaries strip six

ALERT: Carbondale Police to issue security warnings after thefts.

DAVID FERRARA
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

SIUC students should take caution in securing their vehicles because of a recent series of auto burglaries in the Carbondale area.

Carbondale Police are insisting that residents heed a warning to lock car doors as six auto burglaries have occurred within the past week. Many of the burglaries were reported to have occurred without forced entry. A majority of the burglaries have occurred in a residential area near the Murdale Shopping Center.

An auto burglary reportedly occurred in the 1200 block of East Main Street between 9:00 p.m. and 9:05 p.m. Thursday. A Carbondale resident reported that she and a friend went into Kmart and returned to their vehicle to discover her friend's unlocked truck had been entered. The victim's wallet, keys, and identification were missing. Evidence was left in the truck that led to a possible suspect.

The suspect had allegedly purchased items inside Kmart immediately before the incident. The suspect is described as a 180-pound, 6-foot tall white male with red hair and a tattoo on his right forearm. Loss in the incident is estimated at $25.

A Carbondale resident reported her unlocked car was burglarized between 6:30 p.m. and 7:50 p.m. Wednesday while parked in the driveway of her 600 block of South Terrace Drive residence. The victim reported a Motorola cellular phone, a radar detector and a duffel bag all were taken in the incident. Total loss is estimated at $160. There are no suspects, and the incident is under investigation.

A resident of the 600 block of Terrace Drive reported that someone entered his unlocked truck between 11:30 p.m. Wednesday and 9 a.m. Thursday and seized a JVC compact disc player and 10 compact discs. Damage to the dashboard was reported and some evidence was collected at the scene. Police have no suspects in this incident.

Sometime between 6 p.m. Thursday and 9:47 a.m. Friday a cellular phone was taken from a pickup truck parked in the 1600 block of Taylor Drive. The Carbondale resident also reported a set of golf clubs missing from his van parked in his driveway in the 1600 block of Taylor Drive. Police said the driver's side window was taken out of the pickup truck, but there were no signs of forced entry in the burglary of the van. Losses in the incident are estimated at $750. Police have no suspects in this burglary.

A Carbondale resident reported that someone entered his unlocked truck between 12:15 a.m. and 8 a.m. Saturday while it was parked in the 100 block of Rod Lane. A compound bow with arrows, buck knife, cigarettes and gray toolbox reportedly were taken in the burglary. Losses are estimated at more than $900 and police have no suspects.

Another auto burglary reportedly occurred in the 200 block of South Rod Lane between 6:30 p.m. Friday and 9:00 a.m. Saturday. A Carbondale resident reported someone entered his unlocked truck parked in his driveway. The victim reported a compound bow with arrows, two sets of binoculars, a pair of sunglasses, U.S. coins, a flashlight and some keys missing. The total loss is estimated at more than $800. Police have no suspects in the incident.

CARBONDALE

• Jamison V. McDowell, 21, of Carbondale was taken into custody at 9:34 p.m. Thursday on an outstanding Jackson County warrant for failure to appear in court on an original charge of driving without insurance. McDowell was unable to post a $500 bond and was taken to Jackson County Jail.

• At 3:06 p.m. Thursday a bicyclist struck a pedestrian at the base of the north overpass near Lot 62, south of the University Park Triads. The bicyclist, a 25-year-old SIUC student was traveling on the overpass when he struck the pedestrian, a 30-year-old SIUC student. The bicyclist was taken to Carbondale Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. No citations were issued in the incident.

Douglass S. Parker to open Honors Lecture Series today

Douglass S. Parker will open this year's Honors Lecture Series at 7 p.m. today in the Student Center Auditorium. Parker will read from his latest work, "Zeus in Therapy." A transcript of the chief god's account of his relationships with a young servant, another woman and his wife. "Zeus in Therapy" is written in classical verse and goes back to the style of satirical works by Greek and Roman poets and playwrights. Parker, educated at Princeton University, has published four verse translations of works by Aristophanes.

Tuesday final registration deadline for Nov. 3 elections

Time is running out for students to register to vote and ultimately voice their opinions for the Nov. 3 elections. Tomorrow is the deadline to register to vote for the upcoming elections that include races for governor, state representatives, U.S. Congress and comptroller, amongst the many other state and national elections. Those not registered can visit a number of locations to become registered, including the Undergraduate Student Government Office on the third floor of the Student Center, city hall, any armed forces recruitment office or any driver's license facility. Students wanting to register should bring photo identification and proof of current address. Those able to vote must be 18 years old by Nov. 3, be a local resident and a U.S. Citizen.

KALAMAZOO, MICH. Investigators determining if hate note linked to dorm fire

A hate letter taped to the door of a black student's dorm room and a fire set in that room the next day have shocked students and faculty at Kalamazoo College in Michigan. Kalamazoo fire investigators are trying to determine if the letter — which school officials call "vile," "profane," and "deeply disturbing" — is related to the fire, which caused about $2,500 damage in a room occupied by 18-year-old freshman Bryant Lusbrough of Chicago. Neither Lusbrough nor his roommate was at home at the time of the blaze, which was started around 8 a.m. on Monday, the day after Lusbrough had received a letter criticizing his performance during a poetry reading on campus. Lusbrough read a poem that asked people to judge him as a human being rather than as a black man.

Greeks serenade SIUC parents

PERFORMING: Fraternity and sorority members compete in annual event at Shryock Auditorium.

KAREN BLATTER STUDENT AFFAIRS EDITOR

SIUC Greeks were singing in the rain Saturday morning on the steps of Shryock Auditorium. Nine fraternities and sororities participated in the Greek Sing, sponsored by Inter-Greek Council, this weekend. The Greek Sing has been a yearly event since 1955, usually on Parents Weekend. Fraternity and sorority members of the Inter-Greek Council put on short performances in an informal competition. Each fraternity and sorority has their own theme. Tony Blood, president of Inter-Greek Council, said it is important to have the Greek Sing on Parents Weekend. "This is a good way for parents to see what their son or daughter is doing in their respective organization," he said. "The groups just have a good time." Beta Theta Pi, who recently earned their charter, sang the traditional songs of its fraternity. With no music to follow, the Betas kept a harmony and tune of their own. Dressed in sports gear, Alpha Gamma Delta sorority gave a tribute to football and baseball. Alpha Tau Omega got the crowd going with their own version of "Blues Brothers." Changing the words slightly, the ATO's were able to make Vanilla Ice's song "Ice, Ice Baby" call "SIU Ladies" to them. Dressed for all seasons, Delta Zeta showed "Love through the years." With elaborate costumes and a creative play on words, the Delta Zetas were able to capture the feeling of each of the four seasons. As two separate performances, Sigma Phi Epsilon and Sigma Kappa, and Phi Kappa Alpha and Alpha Chi Omega brought the era of swing alive. A panel of six judges evaluated each group on choreography, music, costumes, comics, group participation and voice projection. Five trophies were awarded to those with the most points. Delta Zeta Sorority won for best costume and first runner-up overall. Beta Theta Pi Fraternity won for most participation. Alpha Gamma Delta Sorority won the Greek Sing and the award for most original performance. "The key to a winning performance is to make the crowd laugh and to keep them entertained. "It has to be humorous but organized," Blood said. "They have to be all together, loud enough to hear and show enthusiasm." Christy Ray, Greek Sing chair for Alpha Gamma Delta, said it took 2 1/2 weeks to put its performance together. "One night we were all sitting around, and we came up with the idea," she said. "We picked the three favorite sports of everybody. It was a lot of hard work."

Gays, lesbians celebrate history month

ANNIVERSARY: GLBF holds rally at Shryock to celebrate first marches in Washington, D.C.

SIUC Registered Student Organization Gays, Lesbians, Bisexuals and Friends assembled Thursday on the steps of Shryock Auditorium to commemorate October's "Lesbian and Gay History Month."

This month was selected in celebration to commemorate the anniversaries of the first lesbian and gay marches in Washington D.C. in October 1979 and 1987. The rally began with the classic tune, "Somewhere Over the Rainbow," sung by GLBF member Wes Rogier, an undecided freshman from Evansville, Ind. "If people don't like what you're saying, keep saying it because you know they are listening." Ayres stressed the importance of voting and education about the candidates in the upcoming elections. She also spoke about the significance of GLBF's visibility as an organization, but she said "coming out" was simply not enough. "Group housing is a problem," she said. "You can't whisper it; stand up in your classrooms. People by nature don't like change. The more people that have direct contact with someone who wants change, the more likely that change will occur." Ayres said the proper channels of change were directly linked to different societal sectors including the media, organizations similar to GLBF and groups that differed from the RSO. In conclusion, Ayres focused on self-pride and confidence. "I'm a student. I'm just like prevent oak and hickory seedlings from developing.

Members from the Student Environmental Center, Illinois Native Plant Society, Southern Illinois Audubon Society, Wildlife Society and the Plant Biology Club all took part in the clean-up efforts.

Mark Basinger, president of the Illinois Native Plant Society and a graduate student in plant ecology from Rockwell, N.C., organized the work day as a way to improve the health of the forest.

"We're doing restoration work now to get it to look better for the future," Basinger said.

Once an oak and hickory forest, Thompson Woods is now dominated with non-native exotics such as the Japanese honeysuckle, a vine-like species that chokes out developing seedlings on the forest floor.

Volunteers from the various clubs worked on patches behind the Student Center and Faner Hall pulling up the honeysuckle and putting small amounts of herbicide on the area to prevent regrowth. The Thompson Woods Management Committee began a restoration program more than three years ago under the advisement of Philip Robertson, chairman of the committee.

Robertson, a professor in plant biology, said the goal of the program is to restore Thompson Woods back to its natural state as a dominant oak forest, removing invasive species that cover the forest floor.

Robertson began the Adopt-A-Patch program, which allows clubs and University organizations to take over a plot of woods and help maintain it.

Various groups, such as the plant biology club, have taken on the duty of weed control, planting and clean-up.

Susan Emmert, vice-president of the plant biology club, said that besides clearing the forest of invading species, her group was also working to clear the area of trash.

Emmert, a senior with a double major in plant biology and chemistry from Genoa, stood over fast-food wrappers and hundreds of cigarette butts that students have discarded on their route through the woods.

"People don't realize that there are no janitors working in the woods," Emmert said.

Emmert said the trash strewn on the sides of the pathways was only added to the degradation of the forest.

Basinger, conservation chairman of the Audubon Society, said the groups helped out with other groups' patches as well as its own. "We're also helping to clean up the patches for other groups," Basinger said.

The groups spent the day thinning out the invasive Japanese honeysuckle, creeping euonymus and other Asian shrubs that have been encroaching on the entire, 16-acre woods. The University originally planted the non-native plants for landscaping purposes.

"The area will never return to what it once was," Basinger said. "It's gone too far."

Basinger said the older oaks have reached the end of their life cycles and are dying. If efforts do not continue, future students will see an entirely different forest altogether.

"It will become a sugar maple and beech forest with different types of exotics overrunning the entire forest," Basinger said.

Basinger said he is trying to restore forest because it is still valuable to Carbondale and the surrounding areas.

"It's a valuable educational tool for teaching students about forest ecology," Basinger said.

Large dominant oaks graced Thompson Woods more than 15 to 20 years ago. The site was home to black, red and white oak as well as hickory.

Basinger said the degradation of the forest began after a massive storm destroyed many oak and hickory trees in 1982. New planting never took place after the storm, and the trees that were damaged were never replaced.

Thompson Woods has seen more than 100 years of students pass through its forest.

Emmert said the plant biology group spent more than $150 last May on wildflower planting.

Wildflowers such as the columbine, sunflower and trillium now bloom in the spring and summer months, throughout the woods.

"It's nice to get out and do something helpful for Thompson Woods," Emmert said. "What we're doing now will help its future."

Engineering students defeated over weekend race

SLUGGISH: SIUC teams' hovercraft proves to be heavy to match competition.

JAMES FULLER
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

A team of SIUC engineering students competed against local high school entrants Saturday for a College of Engineering-sponsored rally and race at Campus Lake.

Using a hovercraft designed last semester, the SIUC team finished last in every race, as its design proved to be too heavy and was unable to generate enough revolutions per minute.

"We couldn't win anyway, since we host it," Jason Vonderheide, a senior in industrial technology from Effingham, said. Vonderheide piloted the SIUC entry, "Mariah," in several heats. "They did a really, really good job of building these," Vonderheide said with specific praise for the yellow Murphysboro High School

"Hopefully, we'll be able to depict what we did wrong on this one and build a better one than (this year's entry)."

entry. Vonderheide said this year's team plans to build another hovercraft that should be completed before spring.

"Hopefully, we'll be able to depict what we did wrong on this one and build a better one than (this year's entry)," Vonderheide said.

Hovercraft enthusiasts and craftsmen were also in attendance to display their vehicles and share design and driving tips.

The hovercraft is an amphibious vehicle that can glide across land, ice, water or snow using a cushion of air for support. Air for the cushion is supplied by an engine-driven fan that is mounted on the craft itself.

The fan inflates a flexible fabric skirt underneath the craft that gives the craft about eight inches of ground clearance while simultaneously providing an average of 25 to 65 mph of thrust. Modern racing hovercraft engines are capable of output up to 120 horsepower.

After a small gathering last spring at Rend Lake, this is the first year the hovercraft rally has been held on campus.

"We really would like the race half on land and half on water, but we just don't have a good place around here," Gary Butson, Chairman for the College of Engineering's Department of Technology said.

Spikers beat Braves, fall to Northern Iowa

UPS AND DOWNS: Salukis lose first home match of the season to the Panthers.

PAUL WLEKLIANSKI
DAILY EGYPTIAN REPORTER

This weekend was a microcosm of the first half of the season for the SIUC volleyball team.

The Salukis (7-7, 4-3) have seen the peaks and valleys of this roller coaster season, but are not amused. Their matches against Bradley University Friday, and the University of Northern Iowa proved to be no different.

After splitting this weekend's matches, the Salukis have compiled a 3-3 record—alternating wins and losses in their last six matches.

At home, the Salukis had been indestructible all season. They entered the weekend with a 5-0 record in Davies Gymnasium.

And Friday night was no different facing Bradley.

The Salukis defeated the Braves (5-7, 2-4), 14-16, 15-7, 15-6, 15-4. But parallel to the season thus far, they went from peak to valley overnight.

The Panthers (12-2, 7-0) handed the Salukis their first loss of the season at home 15-5, 15-6, 15-7.

SIUC coach Sonya Locke's philosophy all season has been to win all home matches and win at least half of the contests on the road in order to secure a post season berth.

After Saturday night's loss, Locke knows that they now must win both matches on their next road trip to make up for the loss at home.

"If we are going to get into this (MVC) tournament," Locke said, "we need to win all of our home matches. Now, we are down one. So, instead of a split on the road, we've got to pick up one. That's how you off set that."

The Salukis battled with the Braves early falling 16-14 in the first game. The Braves' biggest lead came at 13-8, but SIUC retaliated with six straight points to take a 14-13 lead before a Bradley timeout.

Following the break, the Braves posted the next three points claiming the victory in game one.

After the game one struggle, the Salukis cruised through the next three games.

Senior outside hitter Marlo Moreland paced the Salukis with 21 kills and 10 digs. Senior outside hitter Lindsay Resmer supported with 11 kills and 14 digs. Senior middle blocker Laura Pier and junior Debbie Barr each added 10 digs, while Barr recorded 40 assists.

"I think we sat there lackadaisical, then we jumped up our play."

—MARLO MORELAND
SENIOR OUTSIDE HITTER

"[Locke] didn't change anything, we changed," Moreland said of the improved play in the final three games. "I think we sat there lackadaisical, then we jumped up our play."

The Salukis were not lackadaisical Saturday, they were just outmatched by UNI, who is tied atop the league standings with Illinois State University.

Moreland led the way for the Salukis again with eight kills and six digs. Senior middle blocker Monique Galvin added seven kills.

"I think that if we would have just dug our heels in against a team like that (UNI) and we do what we do best, I think we should win."

VOLLEYBALL

• The Salukis take to the road next weekend when the travel to Springfield, Mo., to face Southwest Missouri State University at 7 p.m. Friday, Oct. Saturday, they travel to Wichita, Kan., to meet Wichita State University and 7 p.m.

said he just didn't feel comfortable kicking the ball. He even benched Simonton — who apparently quit the team after Quarless' decision — in favor of Fore in the fourth quarter. Simonton didn't stick around for the game's completion and headed for the locker room.

Youngstown State University in Youngstown, Ohio.

in position to win the game. On the final play of the game, senior quarterback Kent Skornia's desperation pass to the end zone almost came down in the arms of junior wideout Cornell Craig and senior Ray Barnes. But instead of a victory celebration, the Salukis went home with their second-straight tough loss.

"We play close ball games, but we haven't won enough of them," Quarless said. "It's difficult and this isn't my kind of football. It's my fault, and I'll take all the blame."

From the looks of their opening drive, the Salukis seemed poised to handle the Bobcats (2-3). Skornia ended an impressive 10-play, 57-yard drive with a 1-yard touchdown run.

But the failed extra point began a string of bad luck for the Salukis.

to lose in overtime 41-38.

"It's frustrating — it really is, and there's no confidence in that phase of the game right now," Quarless said.

The second half against Southwest Texas was full of pressure decisions for Quarless. On four occasions the Salukis were in field goal range during a close game.

JUSTIN JONES/Daily Egyptian

Cornell Craig (81) scrambles for 38 yards during a punt return against Southwest Texas State Saturday afternoon at McAndrew Stadium. The Salukis lost the game 30-25.

Their next three drives ended with a turnover on downs, an interception and a punt.

By that time, the Bobcats offense had exploited the Saluki defense with their simple, but effective offensive scheme: SWTSU senior running back ReShawn Brown's back-to-back scores followed a 16-yard touchdown reception by sophomore wide receiver D'Angelo Torres to give the Bobcats a 21-6 lead.

The Salukis responded to the outburst by calling on their three big guns on offense. Skornia, Craig and junior running back Karlton Carpenter all had brilliant performances in defeat. Skornia threw for 243 yards and three touchdowns, while Craig hauled in 11 catches for 136 yards.

Carpenter continued his torrid pace, rushing for 199 yards on 28 carries. It marked his fourth-straight 100-yard game and he now has 770 yards on the year.

The trio's play, combined with a late defensive surge enabled the Salukis to stay within striking distance. In fact, SIUC even had a chance to go ahead in the fourth quarter. Trailing 24-19, Craig's 38-yard punt return set the Salukis up at the Bobcat 20.

But the fourth down woes surfaced again. Needing only one yard, Skornia made one of his few mistakes on the day. A bootleg was called — on which Quarless would not comment whether it was a designed run or pass — and Skornia could have easily ran for the first down, but he decided to throw for Craig in the end zone.

The pass was incomplete, and the Bobcats went on to march 89 yards for their final score of the day.

"You better believe it hurts," Quarless said of his latest loss. "They've all been getting away. Gee whiz, one got away from us last year. In fact three of them did. They are all frustrating. There's not one that I enjoyed. I hate to lose."

Because of the inconsistent kicking game, though, the Salukis were forced to go for it on fourth down rather than attempt a field goal.

Trailing 21-12 in the third quarter the Salukis chose twice in the same drive not to attempt field goals of 33 and 29 yards. On the next possession the Salukis neglected another chance as well.

Trailing 24-19 in the fourth quarter, the Salukis went for it on a fourth and one situation at the 11-yard line. The play resulted in an incomplete pass and a Saluki turnover on downs.

The decision to attempt a field goal or not is a tough one. Questions are going to be raised either way. But the kicking game — or lack thereof — has become a week in and week out frustration for the Salukis.

Fore, who was successful on his only extra point attempt of the game, was not called upon to attempt a field goal.

"I haven't shown him that I can really do that," Fore said. "So, until I do, then he's not going to do it."

Cowboys trounce Redskins

Jason Garrett, Emmitt Smith and Chris Warren are the latest trio to put up great numbers at the expense of the winless Washington Redskins.

Garrett completed 14 of 17 passes for 169 yards and a touchdown, and Smith and Warren each ran for 100 yards and combined for three touchdowns in the Dallas Cowboys' 31-10 victory Sunday.

Smith ran for 120 yards and a touchdown on 28 carries, and Warren finished with 104 yards on 14 rushes and two 6-yard TDs as the Cowboys rushed for 224 yards against a defense that has allowed a back to rush for 100 yards for four straight weeks.

Smith ran for a touchdown and Garrett threw for one in a three-minute span that gave the Cowboys (3-2) a 17-7 lead in the second quarter.

Smith, recovering from a strained right groin, scored on a 3-yard run set up by Deion Sanders' interception. Garrett, who has won two of three starts while Troy Aikman recovers from a broken collarbone, hit Ernie Mills for a 43-yard strike after Mills beat cornerback Cris Dishman over the middle.

The Redskins (0-5) called this game a must-win, but penalties, a turnover and a bad third quarter once again doomed the home team to another afternoon of boos and taunting from fans wearing bags over their heads at Jack Kent Cooke Stadium. No NFL team has ever recovered from an 0-5 start to make the playoffs.

The Redskins have been outscored 114-36 in three games at home this season.

NCAA FOOTBALL

Arizona, Georgia improve

Arizona and Georgia are no longer sleepers. The Wildcats and the Bulldogs muscled their way into the top 10 with impressive road victories over the weekend.

Georgia (4-0) made the biggest leap in this week's Associated Press Top 25 college football poll, moving from No. 12 to No. 7 after Saturday night's 28-27 win over LSU at Baton Rouge.

Arizona (5-0) jumped four spots to No. 10 with a 31-28 victory over Washington at Seattle.

Ohio State remained No. 1 for the fifth consecutive week after a 28-9 win over Penn State. The Buckeyes, (4-0) were a near-unanimous choice, receiving 66 of the 70 first-place votes and 1,746 points from the 70 sportswriters and broadcasters on the AP panel. Last week, Ohio State had 58 first-place votes and 1,737 points.

Nebraska (5-0), with a close-call 24-17 victory over Oklahoma State, held the No. 2 spot with one first-place vote and 1,640 points. Last week, the Cornhuskers had seven first-place votes and 1,660 points.

The rest of the top 25 deck was shuffled a bit as UCLA (3-0), a 49-17 winner over Washington State, moved up a spot to No. 3, while Tennessee (4-0) dropped a notch to No. 4 after a 17-9 win over Auburn.

Saluki offensive players remain on the ground while the Southwest Texas State University Bobcats celebrate after the Salukis failed to catch a pass that would have won the game in the final seconds on Saturday at McAndrew Stadium. The Salukis lost 30-25.

Frustrated coach skips field goal attempts; Salukis drop second straight close game

SHANDEL RICHARDSON
SPORTS EDITOR

The Salukis football roster says it has two available kickers.

Senior Matt Simonon and freshman Jonah Fore were in uniform on the sidelines for Saturday's game with Southwest Texas State University.

But when a field goal opportunity came up, they were nowhere to be found: Saluki coach Jan Quarless finally got fed up with the poor play of his kicking game. He passed on four field goal attempts after Simonon missed an extra point in the first quarter.

The only problem was that the Salukis failed on all of their fourth-down attempts.

And those 12 possible points from the field goals could have come in handy after SIUC's 30-25 loss to the Bobcats at McAndrew Stadium in front of 8,500.

Kicker sits after missed extra point, quits in fourth

Matt Simonon finally had enough. After struggling all season, senior place-kicker Matt Simonon called it quits in the midst of the Salukis' 30-25 loss to Southwest Texas State University Saturday afternoon at McAndrew Stadium.

As red-shirt freshman Jonah Fore's number was called to relieve Simonon of his kicking duties after a Saluki touchdown in the first minute and five seconds of the fourth quarter, Simonon made his exit to the locker room.

Simonon missed an extra-point attempt in the first quarter to begin the kicking frustrations.

SIUC coach Jan Quarless was frustrated. Simonon was frustrated. The kicking game was looking like an overbearing obstacle once again.

Just one week before at Illinois State University, Simonon missed a 30-yard field goal attempt at the end of regulation. The kick would have won the game for the Salukis, but the attempt was no good. The Salukis went on
