Student Counselors To Help In Camp Program

Approximately 30 Southern students will participate in a university sponsored summer school camping program at Little Grassy Lake this summer. The Southern students will serve as counselors at the camp. In preparation for work at the camp students must have taken camp counseling courses in connection with men and women's physical education.

Any high school or elementary school student is eligible to attend one of the series of week-long camping periods which will begin June 20 and continue through July 18.

Campers will share practical experiences in conservation education, nature study, and will receive instructions in a variety of recreational skills. A university counselor will be assigned to every six campers.

The camping program is similar to one established by Southern last summer at Little Grassy. More than 150 campers, from 14 different Southern Illinois towns participated in the program last year.

Students interested in working on the program may contact William H. Freeberg, of the men's physical education department.

There's Been Some Changes Made

The Kent State university dean of men, Raymond E. Manchester, has made some interesting statements about how college life has evolved just since the last generation. The dean's statements were released to us in a newsletter called the Saturday Letters and we thought that the information was interesting enough to pass along to the student body. Dean Manchester's article is as follows:

I was reading a report the other day, and unless I completely missed the boat, the assumptions made by many persons seemed to indicate that college students of this generation don't know which end is up, do not know how to feed themselves, can't bed themselves down at night without help, can't read, write or figure, are in need of a psychiatrist every six weeks, have to have government help to stay alive, don't know how to study, can't entertain themselves without direction, have to have lectures and tests to find out what they are interested in, and can't go from here to there without an order.

Seems peculiar to men who went to college under their own steam, made their own plans, had their own ambitions, were individuals in their own rights, and asked favors of no one, that college men of today can't row their own boats. They, (the ones who have lived too long) wouldn't get much out of this report because they operated according to a different set of theories.

For one who knew what his ambition was (without taking an aptitude test) had objectives before he went to college, who paid his own way (without government aid) who received no college credit for singing, dancing, playing games, or taking trips, who fell in love with a girl because she was "purty" without aid from a course in "Boy-Girl", who planned to support a wife (without a course on marriage) who saved money to buy a home and who prepared for a career rather than a job, most of the material in the aforementioned report is "guff" and nonsense.

Yes, some folks have lived too long, or they haven't lived long enough. Too long if their notions were correct, and not long enough if the new deal is better.

General Knowledge

How much do students know? Students at the University of Oregon were given a general information test and made some amusing errors. Here are a few:

- Fjord—a Swedish automobile; Iran—Bible of the Mohammedans; Nicotine—The man who discovered cigarettes; Scotland yard—Two feet, 10 inches; Concubine—When several businesses combine.

Movie, 'Streetcar,' Now Showing Here

by Beverly Fox
The movie, "A Streetcar Named Desire," showing today and Wednesday at the Varsity Theatre, is an adaptation of the play of the same name by Tennessee Williams.

This is the story of two sisters, Stella, played by Kim Hunter, leaves the family home in Mississippi to make her home in the slums of New Orleans. The other sister, Blanche DuBois, played by Vivian Leigh, remains in Oriole, Miss.

Blanche's many escapades results in her expulsion from Oriole, and she then goes to New Orleans to live with her sister and her sister's husband, Stanley, played by Marlon Brando.

Mitch, played by Karl Madden, is Blanche's admirer. The main theme of the movie is the gradual decay of Blanche's mind. During the time that Blanche spends with Mitch she seems nearer to sanity than at any other time during the movie. His presence offers some hope for Blanche's recovery but following an affair with Stanley, she has a complete mental relapse.

The movie is a tragedy filled with tension, and ends on a highly dramatic note. It has received five academy awards.

Electricity—

Physics Students Conduct Research

Advanced physics students at SIU are now achieving practical research experience in industrial physics according to Dr. O. B. Young, chairman of the university's physics department.

Research is now being conducted by the students under a contract between Southern and the Sangamo Electric company, Marion. Located on the former site of the Illinois Ordnance plant on Crab Orchard lake, the plant is used to manufacture electrical capacitors for such uses as electronic and radionic equipment.

Members of the physics department faculty supervise the students and assist in the research projects.

FOR THE STUDENT, this type of research project means the theoretical and practical application of subject matter. For the plant, the agreement means the broadening of a program on designing and manufacturing many kinds of electrical capacitors.

The current program is concerned with the electrical properties of silicone oils to find their adaptability for use in the manufacture of condensers.

Saluki Nine Sneaks By Bears in Opener, 5-4

by Jim Glenn

Unleashing an eleven hit attack, the Salukis eked out a 5-4 decision over the Washington university Bears in the first scheduled home game of the new baseball season last Tuesday.

Coach Glenn (Abe) Martin paraded six pitchers to the mound for the Salukis and each turned in a creditable performance with the exception of Ems, who had trouble with his control. Dunkel went the distance for the visiting Bears and was charged with the loss, while Grandcolas, Southern's first hurler, notched the win.

WASHINGTON university took a 1-0 lead in the second inning when Adestein singled off Grandcolas and was driven home by Martin who singled after one was out. An inning later the Salukis' bats began to ring when Jack Chor led off with a double and scampered home on a triple by pinch hitter Jack Theriot. Successive singles by Captain Jim Schmulbach and second sacker Ed Coleman brought in two more counters. Valier sacrificed Coleman to second; Ems grounded out, and Jerry West, Saluki short stop, singled home Coleman. They then grounded out to end the inning, but the Southern club had racked up a 3-1 lead. They added two more counters, one each in the fourth and fifth. Going into the eighth inning they held a comfortable four-run lead.

DURING THE first half of the eighth frame Ems surrendered three runs by walking three, hitting a batsman, and giving up a single. Going into the ninth, Burns relieved Ems and immediately got himself in trouble by taking up where Ems left off—filling the bases with no outs. Thereafter he gained his control and retired the side without a run.

When asked for a comment on the showing of the Salukis, coach "Abe" Martin stated "I was highly pleased with the defense and also the performance of catcher Jack Chor and freshman pitchers Ripplemeyer and Hagler."

April 21 marks the beginning of both the softball season and the National Telegraphic Archery tournament.

Netmen Face Rolla Team Tomorrow in Fourth Match

After a rather strenuous season's start, with three matches in four days last week, Coach Jim Wilkinson's Saluki tennis team will slow up the pace somewhat this week when it tackles just one foe—Missouri School of Mines, on Wednesday, at Rolla, Mo.

IN LAST week's opener the "green" SIU netmen tasted defeat from Elmhurst College, 7-2 on the Southern court. Results of weekend meets with Beloit and Illinois Normal were not known at this writing.

Against Elmhurst, the Salukis captured one singles match and one doubles match to compile their two points. Elmhurst grabbed five singles matches and two doubles matches to score their seven points. "With several matches already under their belts, the men from up north seemed to show a little more polish in their attack," commented Wilkinson.

A REPORT from the sports editor of the Rolla school said that the Missouri men are excellent as compared with former years. This should challenge the Salukis in the meet tomorrow afternoon. It will be the fourth meet of the season for Missouri School of Mines on a nine-meet schedule.

Results of the Elmhurst meet:

Singles

NAIB to Expand, Will Be Renamed

Glenn (Abe) Martin, Southern athletic director and recently elected fourth vice-president of the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball, said the association will soon get a new name.

The NAIB, branching out into other sports, will soon bear the title "National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics," or "National Association of Intercollegiate Sports," Association members, including 20 Illinois schools, will soon vote on the matter, according to Martin.

ILLINOIS members will also vote soon to elect an Illinois district chairman to succeed Martin who has held the office for the past six years.

A change in the name of the NAIB was made necessary by the organization's plans to sponsor a national meet for track, tennis, and golf this year, Martin said.

Golfers Take On Rolla Tomorrow

Southern's linksmen will face foe number three on a 12 match schedule, tomorrow when they travel to Rolla to face the Missouri School of Mines.

The Rolla meeting shapes up to be extremely stiff for the Salukis. A sports release from the school states that the outlook for this season is "excellent." The Missouri aggregation has three returning lettermen from last year's MIAA championship team. Included in this group is the captain, Ken Lanning, "an outstanding amateur in the area," according to the Rolla release.

Coach Lynn Holder's squad will face the Missouri school with a team built around the three returning lettermen—Mt. Vernon's Jim Wilson, Pana's Jack Shanks, and DuQuoin's Bob Henley.

Matches facing the Salukis in the near future are Illinois Normal, here, Apr. 18 and Evansville, there, Apr. 24.
