City Plans Expansion of Park Facilities But Voters Must First OK Bond Issue

$375,000 program for community recreational fa-cilities in Carbondale will be submitted to city voters late in May.

The referendum of the Carbondale Park District was one of the recommendations in a master planfor parks and rec-reation for the community. It was prepared for the Board of Park Commissioners by Commissioners by McFadzean, Everly and Associates, park and recreation planners, of Winnerka.

"The Carbondale Park District must issue bonds if it is to expand its facilities sufficiently to provide adequate public recreation," the study recommended.

Kenneth R. Miller, director of the SIU Foundation and administrative assistant to President Delyte W. Morris, is chairman of the Board of Park Commissioners.

Inter-Greek Workshop Begins 2-Day Sessions at Noon Today

The Inter-Greek Workshop will get underway Saturday at noon at Little Grassy Lake

The conference will run through Sunday evening.

Pete Winton heads steering committee which will welcome national representatives from the fraternities and sororities at SIU, along with a number of university ad-ministrators, faculty advisors and undergraduates. About 150 persons are expected at the workshop.

Topics to be discussed in-clude rush and pledge pro-cedures, financial operations, house operations, in-service officer training and scholarship.

This is the first year for the conference. It is sponsored by the Interfraternity Council, Pan Hellenic Council and the Group Housing

He said the election is scheduled for May 23 and will be one of four bond issues on the ballot. The others are those of the high school board, the elementary school board, and the City of Carbondale,

"Although University students have the legal right to use Park District facilities, few will do so when adequate facilities are maintained by the University. This is not true of University employes and their familites. Although they may enjoy the privilege of using University recreation facilities, many of these citizens can be expected to participate in the programs offered by their community as well," the report stated.

The report cited the presence of several nearby large recreation areas such as Crab Orchard National Wildlife Refuge and Giant City State

"They help meet the need for all-day recreation for families and friendship groups but they are often crowded and do not eliminate the need for all-day facilities in or near Carbondale," the report pointed out.

It took into consideration private recreational facilities available for the community and listed these as an indoor movie theater, drive-in movie theater, daily fee golf courses, bowling centers and riding stables, "An axiom of good public administration is that government should not attempt to provide a service that can be provided just as well by private enterprise; so, commercial recreational facilities should be evaluated in any plan which studies the development needs for public facilities," the report stated.

One sentence in the report summed up the issue facing the Carbondale voters next month: "A decision to pro-vide facilities is not dif-ficult--the problem is in pro-viding the funds."

of the community, it does represent a major addition to the sum total of recreational facilities available.

One of the principal pro-posals is for additional development of Reservoir Park, south of the SIU campus. According to the report, the Park District has a 75-year lease on 257 acres of the site and SIU officials "have indicated a willingness to negotiate a similar lease on adjoining acreage in the future. The property would be made available to the Carbondale Park District for the cooperative development of a con-servation and recreation area."

The report suggested even-tual development of a swimming area at the reservoir "whenever use for swimming no longer conflicts with use as a city water supply."

The master plan recom-mends eventual construction of a community center facility which would include door swimming pool. Miller said this is in the second phase of the development and is not involved in the $375,000 bond issue.

The report also recommends increased operating funds for the Park District; it levied about $25,000 this year and the report suggests Southern's athletic teams made their presence known last weekend in three NCAA championship tournaments, but how much of an impression it will make with the public is yet to be determined.

When one talks of sports in college circles, it's bas-ketball and football that take precedence over all others.

Whether or not Southern's Athletic Department is striving for that kind of recognition doesn't seem too clear at the present time, but from the looks of the results last weekend, SIU is spreading its in an unorticial roundup of the results of all three NCAA championships held last week-end--gymnastics, wrestling and swimming--when all point totals are added up, Southern can be considered the third best athletic power in the school ranks with the best--Southern California, Michigan and Yale. But the rest of the should be told of Southern's "minor sports prowess." The Salukis walked away with the gymnastics title and finished a strong fourth in the wrestling championships. They also scored the most points they've ever scored in the swimming championships, an indication of things to come.

After a tally was taken of the results of all three post-season championships, USC came out on top with 165 1/2 points. The Trojans finished behind the Salukis in gym-nastics with 69 1/2 points and won the swimming championship with 96 points, edging pre-tourney favorite Indiana. The Trojans failed to score in the wrestling meet.

The University of Michigan earned the runner-up spot, edging SIU by just 1 1/2 points, 124-122 1/2. The Wolverines closed third in the gymnastics country.

Naturally, people concerned with Southern will take great pride in knowing that their with 29 points.

and other circumstances fig-ure to knock the Salukis out of the running for the top

George Woods, Southern's big shot putter, looms as the only Saluki favored to place in the two-day meet which got underway yesterday.

According to the Associated Press, a dozen records are expected to be broken in the large field of more than 1,100 athletes. Little Grambling, of Louisiana, competing in the college class, aims at the world record of 40.0 seconds in the 440-yard relay around two turns.

A company of crack 100yard dashmen, three of them with 9.4 times, hits the cinders in search of a relays mark of 9.3. Unbeaten Billy Foster of Southern Methodist and sophomore Terry Williams of Omaha, are the ringleaders. The track carnival may have its first miler under four minutes--John Camien of Emporia, Kansas State, who had a 4:02.6 winning time last

A couple of 60-foot shot putters will compete: K. ady Matson, the Texas A&M freshman who will be in the fresh-man-junior college division and Frank Mazza of Baylor, the top threat in the university division. Woods is not ex-pected to challenge the leaders, but figures to be somewhere around the top.

Southern Methodist Missouri are expected to win multiple relay championships. SMU will be after the 40.2 sion 440-yard relay and might also tumble the meet 880-yard record of 1:22.6.

Mizzou's power comes in the two-mile and distance medley relays, with Robin Lingle, a 4:03.2 miler, the key man. An SIU entry of Gary Carr, Bob Wheelwright, Bill Lindsay and Herb Walker will compete in the sprint medley and mile relay events.

Abilene Christian, with the nation's fastest time in the sprint medley--3:20.9--could crack the record of 3:19.8. Drake will be favored in the four-mile relay, and Oklahoma State looks toughest in the mile relay.

Olympic champion Ralph Boston will compete in a special broad jump against Bill Miller, formerly of Mac-Murry College.
