'Lying in State'

This picture of "Lying in State" cast members was released Thursday, reversing a University News Service decision not to issue it. Refusal to release the photo sparked a mild controversy between theater students and the University News Service. (Photo by Elliot Mendelson.)

News Service releases controversial picture

By Terry Martin
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The University News Service Thursday released a picture of "Lying in State" cast members, who appear to be nude, reversing a previous decision that vetoed it.

Non-release of the picture sparked a mild controversy between students in the Theater Department and the University News Service. About 50 students decided Wednesday to send letters to SIU and state officials expressing discontent with the service's handling of public relations for the play and requesting reasons why it could not be released.

Tim Turner, director of University News Service, said Thursday the decision had been left up to him by Don Hecke, director of communications.

"When I was sure it was left with me, I went ahead and looked them over and then decided to send them," Turner said. "I was told this morning (Thursday) by a couple of representatives of students in the Theater Department that they had been told by Hecke that the decision would be up to me."

Turner said he called Hecke and was not instructed by him one way or another. Turner, who had been ill in March, said he first wanted to see the picture before rendering a judgment.

Dick Kaszner, editorial writer with the service, previously vetoed release of the picture to national publications and said Thursday he was just following instructions.

"I was following instructions, not directly from Hecke, that we don't release this type of picture," Kaszner said. He said he personally did not find the picture offensive although many area people had been offended by previous similar pictures.

Kaszner said reactions ranged from unfavorable to indignant, with a couple individuals being almost hostile. He added he would not term his previous decision as "censorship" but rather "editorial discretion" by University policy, not him.

Asked if he was surprised by the sudden shift of policy, he said, "Yes."

Hecke was out of town and

Faculty nominated for search group

By David C. Miller Jr.
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Faculty Senate elected five nominees to the SIU President Search Committee Thursday afternoon, and followed with a request for the representatives to "seek clarification" of the president's administrative rank.

Willis Malone, chairman of the search committee, will select two committee members from the following: Richard Arnold, chairman of Department of Chemistry; M. Browing Carrott, chairman of Department of History; Willard Klimstra, professor of zoology and Faculty Senate representative; Malvin Moore, professor of educational administration and foundations; and Sue Ann Pace, associate professor of speech pathology and audiology.

Chairwoman JoAnne Thorpe told the senate Malone had promised the presidential search "would be a much more open interviewing process than the last time," when David R. Derge was chosen for the post. Several senators pointed out the need for the faculty representatives to be in communication with the senate about the search progress.

Steven Wasby, associate professor of government, cited the importance of clarifying the power relationships between the Board of Trustees staff officers and the campus administration chiefs. Seeking a high-powered president "when maybe we only need a kind of super-dean" for SIU would be a waste of the committee's time and money, he said.

Wasby said the job of James Brown, chief of board staff and chairman of the System Council, must be clearly defined before the search for a president gets underway. Brown was granted broader power over both SIU campuses by the board in February, but has denied his position is one similar to a "super-president."

Some excellent candidates for president during the 1971 search "balked" at coming, Wasby said, because of the unclear executive relationship between the board and campuses. Wanting to avoid "the same sort of disaster we had three years ago," Wasby stressed the need to define "who has the real power at SIU."

The senate's other agenda item involved naming faculty to the senate's standing committee on the SIU budget. Those elected were: George Black, assistant professor in Morris Library; Richard Fryman, associate professor of economics; James Hunt, professor of administrative sciences; Arlene Heisler, assistant professor of family economic and management; Ernest Lewis, assistant professor of guidance and educational psychology; George Mace, associate professor of government; and Howard Webb, English professor.

S-Senate makes bid for more students on search committee

By Brenda Penland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Student Senate has started a move to give undergraduates more weight on the presidential search committee by urging that three seats, instead of the one proposed, be reserved for them on the panel.

In a resolution adopted unanimously Wednesday night, the senate said the proposed structure of the search panel is unrepresentative of the University community, especially students.

"We think there should be more student input," said Sen. Richard Lange, sponsor of the resolution.

The resolution recommended that four students—three undergraduates and one graduate—be nominated to serve on the committee.

Willis Malone, search committee chairman, has proposed two student seats on the panel—one graduate and one undergraduate.

Malone, special assistant to the president, also recommended that two seats be reserved for members of the Faculty Senate, two for Graduate Student Council members and that a Civil Service worker, a member of the Dean's Council and an alumnus fill the remaining three positions on the panel.

Lange said a copy of the senate resolution will be sent to James Brown, chief of board staff, who will consider placing it on the Board of Trustees' agenda. The board has the final say on structure of the search committee.

In other business, a stormy discussion developed concerning the Joint Fee Allocation Board's (JFAB) recommended $10,000 allocation to the Black Affairs Council (BAC).

Edgar Philpot, coordinator of the BAC, backed by about 25 black students, objected to the fact that the recommended allocation is a 50 per cent cut from last year.

"Nobody else on the entire bill took a 50 per cent cut," Philpot said. "I think it's kind of ridiculous."

Philpot said there has been an increase in black student enrollment and that if anything, the BAC should get more money.

The BAC had requested a $46,000 fee allocation.

"I think eliminating funds is part of a plan to totally eliminate BAC," Philpot said.

Sen. Terry Mullins said he thinks "other organizations have a greater need."

"It doesn't matter if you're black, green or purple," he said.

The JFAB recommended allocations are scheduled to be voted on at the next Student Senate meeting. Philpot said he will "very definitely" be at the next meeting.

In other action a resolution calling upon the administration to give women's intercollegiate athletics more money was passed unanimously.

"HEW prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex," Charlotte West, associate professor of physical education, said. "SIU is in blatant error."

She said her department has considered filing a complaint with the HEW but would rather work through the campus administration.

The Student Senate also passed a resolution stating it approved of radio station WIDB soliciting advertising.

WIDB plans to ask the Board of Trustees to allow the station to sell commercial advertising over the air at an annual income limited to $20,000.

In other business, the Senate recognized three groups as campus organizations. The groups are: the Syn-dyettes, a social group for women; The Concerned Blind Students and Sigma Iota Upsilon, an honorary engineering fraternity.

Committee praises Nixon tax decision, ends investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate House investigating committee closed its books on President Nixon's tax case Thursday with a formal commendation for Nixon's decision to pay some $465,000 in back taxes and interest.

Any further congressional action thus was left to the House Judiciary Committee considering possible grounds for impeachment.

The detailed report of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, concluding that Nixon was deficient $476,431 in back taxes and interest, will be considered along with all other evidence in its inquiry, the Judiciary Committee said.

The joint committee received the report from its staff Wednesday. After several hours' discussion, it decided to make the report public, but without endorsing it, pending further study.

Within four hours after contents of the report became known, the White House announced that the Internal Revenue Service had ruled Nixon owed roughly $465,000 and that he would pay, even though part of the sum was legally barred by the statute of limitations.

The White House refused, on Thursday, to make public the IRS notice to Nixon.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren told reporters the IRS report was delivered to the White House by three tax agents Tuesday afternoon.

A White House spokesman said there was no need to make the document public because it was compatible with the congressional staff report and is considerably less detailed.

Warren also said he understood there was a question about what will happen to the vice presidential papers Nixon turned over to the National Archives. He said Nixon would abide by whatever decision the archivists and others make that is "proper and relevant."

The big tax bill facing the President means that his financial position "has almost been totally wiped out," Warren said.

Questioned about how and when Nixon would pay his bill, Warren said a reassessment of Nixon's entire financial position must be made.

White House officials have not offered a precise calculation of the total Nixon will pay, estimating it at $465,000 or $467,000.

The joint congressional committee held a brief session Thursday and issued a statement saying in part:

"While we have not completely analyzed all of the technical aspects of the report, the members agree with the substance of most of the recommendations made by the staff.

"Because of the President's decision to pay the deficiencies and interest for 1969 through 1972, as asserted by the Internal Revenue Service ... the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation has decided to conclude its examination of the President's returns.

"The committee commends the President for his prompt decision to make these tax payments."

A Republican member, Sen. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, issued his own statement that "I concur in the motion to conclude the examination but dissent from the concurrence with the staff report."

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett of Utah, another Republican, scolded newsmen, expressing "consternation at the atmosphere in which this questioning is being conducted—as though the President is in fact guilty and somehow he has been allowed to escape ..."

unavailable for comment.

The pictures will now be released to the Kennedy Arts Center in Washington, D.C.; Monmouth College; the "Advocate" in Los Angeles; and "After Dark" in New York City, Turner said.

Phyllis Wagner, director of the play, and Lane Bateman, playwright, both attributed the hasty change of policy to an article appearing in Thursday's Daily Egyptian and theater students involvement.

"I feel grateful that students here have a recourse to investigate problems," Ms. Wagner said. "Students were finally able to get results."

Bateman said he was very glad the pictures were released but questioned why the University News Service had not wanted a part of it.

Ms. Wagner said the letters will not be sent to SIU and state officials until "we wait and see what happens."

Clifton Callahan, theater publicity director, said he was absolutely delighted with the decision. "I was a little surprised," he said. "I thought it would probably take longer for a decision to be made."

Lynn Myers, cast member in the play, said she was glad the pictures were released.

"I guess it's about time," Ms. Myers said. "The credit should go to the students because they raised an uproar over it."

"Lying in State" will be performed again at SIU at 8 p.m. April 12 and 13 in the University Theater. It is the winning entry in the Milwaukee Regional Competition of the American College Theater Festival, it qualified as one of the top ten college productions in the nation to be performed at the National American College Theater Festival in Washington, D.C. for two performances April 18.

The weather:

Partly cloudy, warmer

Friday: Partly cloudy and somewhat warmer with the high temperature in the lower 50's. Precipitation probabilities will be 20 per cent. The wind will be from the NW at 8-18 mph. The relative humidity will be 75 per cent.

Friday night: Clearing and continued cool with the low temperature in the middle to upper 30s. Precipitation probabilities will be increasing to 30 per cent tonight and tomorrow.

Saturday: Partly cloudy and warmer with the high around 58 degrees. Thursday's high on campus 63, 1 a.m., low 43 and decreasing at 2 p.m. (Information supplied by SIU Geology Department weather station.)

Student Life sets activities

The Student Life Office has issued its schedule for spring quarter's East Campus Programming.

The programming will take on two dimensions. A Monday night series will be aimed toward better relations within the University community and a Thursday night series will be directed towards education about outdoor activities and Southern Illinois.

The programs have been set up specifically for the Triads, Neely Hall, Mae Smith and Schneider Hall, but anyone wishing to attend is welcome.

Programs will start at 9 p.m. every Monday and Thursday throughout the quarter.

The topic Monday will be "Bookstore," hosted by Neely Hall and the Triads. April 15, the candidates for Student Government election will be a Schneider Hall for discussion. April 22 and 29, the topics will be "Safety for Women," and the programs will be at Neely Hall and Mae Smith, respectively.

May 6, the "Health Service" will be discussed at Neely Hall. May 13, 20 and 27 the topic "Women" is scheduled at Mae Smith.

The Thursday series will begin next week at Mae Smith and the topic will be "What to see in Southern Illinois." April 18 at Neely Hall "Backpacking" will be discussed. April 25, "What to Avoid, Poisonous Plants and Snakes" is the topic, hosted by Neely Hall and the Triads.

Thursday, May 2, the topic will be the "Underway Program," hosted by Schneider Hall. May 9, at Mae Smith "Climbing" will be the topic. May 16, "Security" will be the topic, at Neely Hall and the Triads, and again May 23 at Schneider Hall.

Tornadoes leave more than 335 dead

By Louise Cook
Associated Press Writer

Rescue workers counted the dead on Thursday and tried to help the living rebuild after the nation's worst tornado disaster in 49 years left more than 335 dead and thousands injured or homeless.

Five states were declared federal disaster areas: damage reached into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

The death toll in 11 states and Canada stood at 337.

"The destruction, the devastation is unbelievable," said Vice President Gerald R. Ford after flying over damaged areas of Ohio. "You can see where the houses were reduced to matches."

Hospitals overflowed. In Dayton, Ohio, near hard-hit Xenia, ambulances arrived at Miami Valley Hospital at the rate of one a minute in the hours just after the tornado. Minor cases were treated in the hospital cafeteria. "We're unable to do anything out in Xenia," said radiologist Shirley Kitchberg, returning to Dayton. "There's only one portable X-ray. The rest of the power's out."

The tornadoes and related storms that struck late Wednesday and early Thursday hit 13 Southern and Midwestern states and Ontario, Canada. Whole communities were turned into piles of rubble: more than 30 buildings at the Army's Redstone Arsenal near Huntsville, Ala., were destroyed or damaged; a pastor died as he led prayers.

Whole communities in several states were without power.

Kentucky appeared to have suffered the most, with deaths reported in 15 counties.

There were at least 40 deaths in the tiny community of Brandenburg, Ky., alone, where twisted, grotesque wreckage was evident almost everywhere. Survivors mourned lost relatives and friends and faced shattered lives. "This street will never be the same," said Frank Thurman, 71, of Louisville, as he stared at a tree fallen across his two-story home. "The trees made the street and now the trees are gone."

Over 150 homes and 100 businesses were destroyed in Monticello, Ind. Damage was estimated at $100 million. Two banks were destroyed and the president of one of them stood guard at his vault through the night.

Insurance adjusters estimated damage in Ohio at over $100 million, including $75 million in Xenia. They said West Virginia suffered $1 million in damage and Michigan $3 million.

Acting in response to pleas from state officials, President Nixon declared Alabama, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana and Tennessee disaster areas, making them eligible for massive federal aid. Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren said more disaster declarations were expected.

The National Weather Service issued new tornado watches for parts of nine states. But forecasters said the conditions Thursday were not the same as those that produced the earlier storms which were created by an unusual collision of two air masses — one moist and warm from the east and the other cold and dry from the west.

Kentucky reported 85 dead from the storm, Alabama, 72, Indiana, 52, Tennessee, 54, Ohio, 34, Georgia, 15, Ontario, Canada, 8, North Carolina, 5, Michigan 3, Illinois, 2, Virginia 1, and West Virginia, 1.

Director asks auto fleet for state lottery

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Revenue director Robert Alphin proposed Thursday that a fleet of 52 air-conditioned automobiles and vans be purchased to facilitate handling of Illinois lottery tickets.

Alphin, testifying before a subcommittee of the state Senate Appropriations committee, estimated the vehicles would cost about $4,000 each for a total of $208,000.

The subcommittee, which is considering Alphin's request for $886,000 to set up the lottery, deferred action on the measure for two weeks.

Both chambers of the General Assembly convened on the opening day of the spring session, but few lawmakers made an appearance. A number of appropriations bills implementing Gov. Daniel Walker's proposed fiscal 1975 budget proposal were introduced.

Both houses will convene Friday, but no action is anticipated and the legislature will then recess for an Easter until April 16.

Alphin's $886,000 request passed the House last fall, but it has never been called for a Senate floor vote.

Alphin said the auto fleet was needed to pick up unsold lottery tickets each week and to allow lottery supervisors to meet during the week with ticket sellers to encourage sales.

He said air conditioning is required because the cars will have to operate with windows shut so that the tickets are not blown around.

Alphin said he hopes the first lottery tickets can go on sale in grocery stores by mid-August.

He said states with successful lotteries charge 50 cents a ticket and that many states award several $1 million prizes periodically, depending on ticket sales.

Alphin promised that steps would be taken to insure the lottery is above suspicion.

The first of a required series of public hearings on the lottery will be held July 2, the day after the lottery law legally takes effect, he said.

In other action Thursday, the Senate Executive committee approved 15 of Walker's nominees to state jobs, many of them as unsalaried members of advisory boards. The nominees now face floor votes in the Senate.

House rejects increase in funds for Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House rejected on Thursday night any increase in U.S. military aid to South Vietnam.

An amendment to increase the aid to $274 million was rejected by a vote of 177 to 154 despite contentions that South Vietnam needs it to survive.

Critics accused the Pentagon of trying to make an end-run around the $1.126-billion limit on U.S. military aid to Saigon set by Congress last year and stressed they were not abandoning the South Vietnamese.

"The American people are not in a mood to abandon South Vietnam," said Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., "but they're in a mood to question how much money they should pay."

But Rep. Robert L.F. Sikes, D-Fla., said that without the increase "we'll be out of business on helping South Vietnam survive."

After rejecting the increased military aid, the House approved a $1.14-billion supplemental defense authorization bill by voice vote and sent it to the Senate.

An effort to cut $29 million for expanding a U.S. Navy installation on the Indian Ocean atoll of Diego Garcia in response to Soviet naval activities there was rejected 255 to 94.

The Pentagon had asked for a $474 million boost in U.S. military aid to Saigon for the fiscal year ending next June 30 but House Armed Services chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., offered an amendment to cut it to $274 million.

Hebert said he had learned from defense officials that they "could live with" the lower figure.

But Rep. Joseph Addabbo, D-N.Y., said Secretary of Defense James

Schlesinger had told Hebert by letter that revised accounting would produce up to $266 million so that the total increased U.S. military aid would still be more than the Pentagon's original $474 million request.

Several members including Rep. John F. Seiberling, D-Ohio, said U.S. aid should be halted but most critics urged only that the present U.S. aid not be increased.

State director rejects proposal for school aid

A proposal for funds to continue a Talents Unlimited program in Carbonate elementary schools has been rejected by Michael J. Bakalis, Illinois Superintendent of Public Instruction.

At the Thursday night meeting of the elementary district board of education Supt. Laurence W. Martin reported that the district's "Developing Attitudes and Responsibilities Through Relevant Educational Experiences" proposal would not receive state funding.

More than 100 proposals were made to the state for such Title III projects, totaling more than $11 million. The state has only $3 million in funds to support these Title III projects.

Martin said five proposals were made from the 26 southernmost counties in the state and all five proposals were rejected. He said southern counties have been rejected for similar proposals in the past.

FEO to tap gas reserves during April

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Energy Office ordered on Thursday the tapping of some 11.1 million barrels of gasoline from inventories to increase the nation's average daily supply in April by about four per cent.

The FEO said its April gasoline allocations were designed to ensure that every state gets at least 90 per cent as much gasoline as it got in April, 1972, adjusted for growth in vehicle registrations since then.

But to achieve this distribution — more equal than in March or February — the gasoline supply available per day must decrease for a dozen states and the District of Columbia, while it increases for 36 states; the daily supply of two states remains unchanged.

The FEO figures indicate that Vermont is to receive 13 per cent less gasoline per day in April than in March and Texas 10 per cent less.

Other states whose per-day allocation was cut were: Arkansas, one per cent less; Arizona 6 per cent; District of Columbia 3 per cent; Florida 2 per cent; Georgia 4 per cent; Illinois one per cent; Kansas 4 per cent; Louisiana 5 per cent; Massachusetts 4 per cent; Oklahoma 9 per cent and Wyoming 6 per cent.

The per-day allocations of Idaho and New Hampshire were virtually unchanged.

Thirteen states were assigned April per-day increases ranging from 10 to 29 per cent, compared with March.

They were: Alaska, 29 per cent; Hawaii 16 per cent; Iowa 15 per cent; Indiana 14 per cent; Michigan 11 per cent; Missouri 14 per cent; Montana 14 per cent; North Carolina 29 per cent; Ohio 17 per cent; Oregon 10 per cent; Rhode Island 16 per cent; South Carolina 11 per cent; and West Virginia 14 per cent.

The other states were assigned per-day increases ranging from one to nine per cent.

Person's chemistry linked to depression

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Approximately 16 million Americans suffer from severe depression.

Psychiatrist William T. McKinney of the University of Wisconsin-Madison Center for Health Sciences has done four years of research into depression with rhesus monkeys. He says some persons are more sensitive to depression than others because of their genetic makeup.

He stimulated some animals with depression chemically with drugs, and some socially by isolating them from other animals. McKinney emphasized the importance of both social and biological experiences as determinants of depression. And they interact with each other.

Severe depression is not just feeling blue once in a while, McKinney said. It is feeling despairing, helpless and unsure about tomorrow.

Sexism refuted

Donald E. Ayer's protest (DE Letter: April 3) of the Daily Egyptian staff's use of the "person" suffix terminology to replace "man" in titles such as chairman and spokesman is noted; but his call for an end to such "irresponsible behavior" is respectfully declined.

As journalists we must subscribe to the proposition that language is a tool of communication between people and not an instrument of human enslavement. That the aspect of our language in question has endured thus far speaks nothing of its intrinsic or extrinsic value. Rather, it speaks of the evolution of enlightenment which has only recently evolved into an awareness of considerable proportions concerning the sexist nature of some aspects of our language.

Perhaps the attitude that modern American humanity must subvert itself to traditional English terminology and style says a great deal about the declining enrollments in academic areas which have perpetuated that attitude. If they—or any academic discipline—are to endure, it will only be because the disciplines remain flexible enough to grow with increasing human awareness.

Mr. Ayers does in fact point up contradictions the staff made in making the transition to the use of non-sexist word forms. For that, we thank you and ask that you bear with us. Old habits die hard.

By the way, Mr. Ayers, it is one adage of antiquity we still cling to that "to err is human." We're pleased that you are indeed as human as we. Please note in the second sentence of your letter that the subject "efforts" does not agree with the verb "has." Welcome to the ranks of the mere mortals.

Indifference protested

To the Daily Egyptian:

As students and members of the University community we want to emphasize the importance of the ombudsperson's office. For many members of the community the ombudsperson has acted as mediator between students, faculty and staff, and the university administration to resolve situations which had frequently exhausted all other appropriate channels.

The shocking indifference to concerns for this essential problem solving function and for the maintenance of humane communication as reflected by Mr. Swinburne's statements in the Daily Egyptian is herewith strongly protested. Too often Derge's administration appeared characterized by insensitivity, isolation and condescension toward the campus community.

Therefore, we find it perplexing that such conditions and attitudes still persist as exemplified by the reluctance to promptly fill the position of ombudsperson. How can a proper reevaluation of this office be undertaken in summer when most students will not be available for feedback?

Past experience has led us to suspect postponement of policy decisions until times when the campus community is at less than full strength and the normal channels for news are not operative.

We strongly support the office of the ombudsperson and recommend its immediate reactivation.

The Justice Said

By M. R. Williams

The year is 1970. A judge without a jury found a citizen guilty of a petty offense and sentenced him to one year in jail. Did the defendant have the right to a jury? Yes, holds the U.S. Supreme Court. Mr. Justice White says:

"Indeed, the prospect of imprisonment for however short a time will seldom be viewed by the accused as a trivial or petty matter and may well result in quite serious repercussions affecting his career and his reputation. Where the accused cannot possibly face more than six months imprisonment, we have held that these disadvantages, onerous though they may be, may be outweighed by the benefits which result from speedy and inexpensive nonjury adjudications.

"We cannot, however, conclude that these administrative conveniences, in light of the practices which now exist in every one of the 50 states as well as in the federal courts, can similarly justify denying an accused the important right to trial by jury where the possible penalty exceeds six months' imprisonment." Baldwin v. New York, 26 L.Ed.2d 437.

May we please inconvenience you?

By Arthur Hoppe
Chronicle Features

Tokyo:

All of Japan was hit last week by what the newspapers headlined as the "Crippling Strike by 2.5 Million Workers!"

That's certainly true. We passengers on the famed "Bullet Train" from Osaka to Tokyo arrived four minutes late. Even worse the stewardesses failed to serve steaming towels. The Nation was shocked to the core.

The strike was entitled "The Spring Labor Offensive of the Joint Struggle Committee." It occurs every year in Japan just before the cherry blossoms come out.

Sometimes the workers strike from midnight to 6 a.m. so as not to inconvenience the public. But this year the issues were crucial. So to show they meant business, the unions cast politeness out the window and struck from midnight until noon.

The strike was led by the transport workers. Among the crucial issues were a request for higher welfare payments to the needy, a 30 per cent pay increase and a demand that somebody do something about inflation.

They were joined by many other unions, including the Government workers. The Government workers struck, they said, for the right of Government workers to strike.

It was a very nice strike. And when it was over, everyone went happily back to work.

Afterward, I ran into my young friend, Mr. Dozo Arigato, who was flushed with victory from the highly successful strike at The Kamikaze Television Co. where he works.

Like most Japanese, Mr. Arigato didn't merely

"get a job" after graduating from school. Instead, he "entered into" the company. Naturally, he plans to devote his life to the company, rising slowly up the seniority ladder. After all, the company introduced him to his bride-to-be, tossed their wedding party, found them an apartment, entertains them at the company resort and, as the years pass, will provide him with a fat expense account and a noble retirement.

It's no wonder that Mr. Arigato proudly wears the company pin in his lapel and that his heart leaps up when his company's flag passes by.

I asked him if he had struck at midnight. "Oh, no," he said. "We don't arrive at work until 8 a.m. And first, of course, we had to sing the company song."

The company song? "Oh, yes, most companies have songs we workers sing each morning," he said.

"Ours is, 'Kamikaze, Kamikaze, hail to you. Grow, Kamikaze, grow, grow, grow!' But after that, we put on our red armbands to show we were on strike."

And marched out of the building? "Oh, no. Then we went to work at our desks. We wouldn't want to hurt production. But we kept our armbands on until noon to show them we meant business this time."

But the strike was successful? "Oh, yes. You see, every year we demand 30 per cent and the company gives us 15 or 20 per cent to keep up with inflation. But this year, inflation is 25 per cent, so they will give us that."

Then why strike? Mr. Arigato looked surprised. "But how else could we show them we mean business except to cripple the Nation with a paralyzing strike?"

I said he hadn't paralyzed me. "Oh, I am so glad," said Mr. Arigato with a happy bow. "We certainly wouldn't want to inconvenience anyone."

Can, the humanities flourish again?

By David O. Edeani
Daily Egyptian Special Writer

When SIU's Professor Charles D. Tenney commented recently on the general situation of the American society, he predicted that "we are at the verge of a major change (because) we are now in the down phase of the cycle of life." Tenney based his observation on the premise that "there's always a sequence of ups and downs in the process of change—and change generally follows the down phase of the cycle."

This is what social scientists mean when they say that change usually follows social institutional strains, dislocations and disruptions, no matter whether the disturbances come from within or from without. And in making the same point, if mildly so, English Professor Henry D. Piper said in the first part of the present series that "the humanities are now in the process of soul-searching and they will emerge from the process much stronger."

Have the humanities reached that low ebb of their career, sufficiently way down to usher in their major transformation? If they have reached that stage, is there any basis on which they can, and should, actually attain such a change? In other words, what are the internal and external characteristics of the humanities that are conducive to their revitalization? Is their revitalization really necessary?

Congress voted in 1965 to establish the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities (as part of the National Foundation on the Arts and the Humanities) because of members' serious concern that the prestige of the humanities has slipped too low, and their determination to see "the United States' position in world leadership be based on achievements in the realm of ideas and of the spirit," as well as on "superior power, wealth, and technology." It was their contention that "a high civilization must not limit its efforts to science and technology alone but must give value and support to the other great branches of man's scholarly and cultural activity in order to achieve a better understanding of the past, a better analysis of the present, and a better view of the future."

In order to provide for this obvious lack of intellectual and spiritual leadership implied in the above statement, the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) was charged with the following responsibilities, among others: To improve the teaching of the humanities through the development of college and university curricula and through innovative projects at all other educational levels; to support projects that help increase understanding, appreciation, and use of the humanities among the general public through a variety of institutional media; to support research, editing and writing in the humanities; and to grant fellowships and stipends to scholars to enable them to improve their skills in teaching, interpreting, and communicating the humanities.

A National Council on the Humanities, consisting of 26 men and women, was appointed to supervise the activities of the Endowment, and millions of dollars of federal funds have ever since been invested in the agency to enable it to perform its assigned functions.

From the word go, NEH administrators have aggressively implemented its policies of rehabilitation and development with vigor, trying to mobilize public support through the massive use of the mass media and the organization of fund-raising and publicity campaigns with the help of prestigious universities and scholars, as well as other prominent persons. The ultimate aim is not only to improve the teaching and study of the humanities but also to re-create a positive image of the humanities in the minds of the general public. While talking of the revitalization of Shakespearean drama, for example, the current chairman Dr. Ronald S. Berman said: "We won't simply show the films, though that won't be a bad start. We'll work in appearances by distinguished scholars. The aim will be to broaden the frame of reference, perhaps to bring Shakespeare and his time and people closer to ours."

Berman has stormed the campuses, trying to blunt the sharp edges of incessant criticism from scientists and humanists alike that the humanities are fast losing their grip on the spiritual and cultural consciousness of the nation. In such trips, he has repeatedly paraphrased the mission of the agency to be: "to support the formal systems of education we now have, to extend them to the reach of those who hope for the knowledge they cannot afford to pursue, and to restore the humanities to the ethical center of a world dominated by technology."

In justifying this campaign of restoration of a while ago, Berman reminisced about the current plight of the humanities as follows: "The humanists of the Renaissance, from whom we derive our ideas about the value of education, were confident that learning as they understood it would endure. For them, science was a past-time and technology not even a conception. Humane learning, was nearly the whole of intellectual experience, always with the vast exception of religion. Very little of this confidence remains, and it appears that we can only comprehend it in terms of irony." He then badgered back at critics by insisting that for the humanities, "practical knowledge means the application of our minds to urban problems, to the condition of minorities, even to the relationships of peoples and nations." Berman felt it unreasonable for critics to regard this opposite of what is traditionally known as practical knowledge an "impractical knowledge," and observed: "For them it is not easily understandable why classes should be held in languages and on civilizations long dead. There are others who recently attack the humanities because they do little to bring about a new consciousness or a new Utopia. I find them to be the defenders of a new ignorance."

While Berman's confidence of success seems well placed, critics' concern is by no means less justified. Apart from the rapidly dwindling enrollments and interest in the humanities on the campuses across the country, the steady proliferation of avant-garde commune living, transcendental meditation, encounter groupism, and Zen Buddhist and Hare Krishna-type religious revivalism—to mention just a few examples—suggest that the religious and other spiritual, cultural, and psychological anchors which the humanities used to provide for the individual are fast breaking down in the science- and technology-dominated complex society. Many people feel that corruption in high places gives the impression that public morality and fairness are after-all no longer values to be cherished very much, contrary to what the humanities have been preaching. And the publication of "Humanist Manifesto II" a few months ago, Lashing at established religion and ethics, as well as at many other traditional social value systems, add up to the implication that the humanities, as presently constituted, are hopelessly inadequate to provide a viable alternative to—or even a respectable complement of—the sciences.

The situation is made worse by declining government financial support for the humanities, in contrast to what the situation is in the sciences. Because of a serious lack of funds, many humanities departments are unable to retain or hire much-needed high caliber faculty, neither can they maintain attractive scholarship and assistantships programs for their students, nor provide better research and other necessary facilities. This is a paradoxical situation at a time when this kind of support is needed more than ever before, when public attention is increasingly being focused on the humanities.

But the extended and sustained campaigns in behalf of the humanities are nevertheless gradually catching on. Over 200 newspapers across the nation have undertaken the NEH-supported experiment in the "America and the Future of Man" college courses by newspaper. Hundreds of universities have either organized or are organizing special humanities courses, in addition to those offered by their regular humanities departments.

At SIU-C here, a lot of planning work has been done in this regard. The immediate proposal is for the teaching of six new interdisciplinary courses in three new program areas "for which there has been a demonstrated student and faculty interest." The three areas are "Ethics and the Professions," "Film and Literature," and "Southern Illinois Studies." Within each of these areas, two courses will be offered as follows:

1. Ethics and the Professions: Ethics, Law, and Government; and Ethics, Medicine, and the Health-Related Sciences.

2. Film and Literature: Individual fulfillment in terms of wealth, power, and status in America society during the period 1920-1940; and Individual fulfillment after World War II.

3. Southern Illinois Studies: Southern Illinois History and Southern Illinois Field Studies.

Faculty members drawn from Government, Law, Medicine, Philosophy, Rehabilitation, Psychology, English, Foreign Languages, Cinema and Photography, History, Anthropology, and University Museum, will be involved in teaching these courses, which will be offered as undergraduate electives. In addition, four year-long faculty-graduate student seminars outside regular classes will be held under the programs. Outstanding scholars from outside will be brought to the campus from time to time as guest lecturers on the programs or as consultants. And humanists whose names are being mentioned across the campus as likely participants include Harvard's "high priest" of psychological behaviorism B. F. Skinner, University of Washington social psychologist Milton Rokeach and world-famed Rockefeller University bacteriologist Rene Dubos.

Funds for the programs will come primarily from the NEH. Henry D. Piper, professor of American Literature, who is directly involved in the planning of the courses and in raising money for their financing, said that "the programs will enrich and strengthen present humanities participation in the undergraduate General Studies program," adding that "strong emphasis will be on values, decision-making, and other traditional concerns of the humanities." Piper is a member of the Inter-College Humanities Committee established a few years ago by the three deans of Liberal Arts, the Graduate School, and the College of Communications and Fine Arts to re-examine the state of the humanities and come up with viable proposals for development. That committee will soon be replaced by a new Humanities Council established to run the proposed programs of study. The Council, which is yet to be recognized by the Board of Trustees, is temporarily chaired by Professor Keith R. Sanders of Speech Department who has been the substantive chairman of the Inter-College Humanities Committee.

These proposals are just a beginning of what many people believe is a concerted determination to turn around waning interest in the humanities, both on campus and in national life. The approach is in line with what the NEH probably thinks is the most effective in arousing and holding student and faculty interest. Chairman Berman has described the approach this way: "We want to do something about the way education is being handled in the colleges and universities. I don't mean innovate. Innovation generally leads to a narrowing of perspectives. I want to enlarge. We're going to try to encourage institutions to set up teams for teaching certain disciplines—using a charismatic lecturer, assistants for discussion of students in smaller groups and occasional contacts with other outstanding teachers in the area."

One has to say, however, that merely "enlarging" the present offerings of the humanities will never be the answer. The contents of the new courses must be sufficiently relevant to the needs of today's scholar and society in order to serve their purposes.

And necessary as special humanities courses may be, the attitude of university administrators and government officials toward the regularly-established humanities departments must change in order for a really revolutionary development of the disciplines to be achieved. The departments must have the necessary funds they need to order to hire and retain faculty, offer competitive scholarships and assistantships to talented students, and acquire and maintain adequate research and other facilities.

One of the justifications for starving the humanities of funds has very often been that of lack of public interest in them. While there is some truth in this view, that justification is no longer as valid as it used to be. Since Congress sounded the alarm in 1965 and followed up its concern with the establishment of the National Foundation on the Arts and the Humanities, public interest has continued to be revived. For instance, public contributions to the NEH has since 1970 been increasing fast and running much higher than federally appropriated funds for the agency, and between 1971 and 1972, NEH's annual income virtually doubled from $18.8 million to $36.4 million. This pattern of growth has continued till today.

As for the amount of decline of interest in the humanities, a large part of that can be explained by a sheer fascination with science of technology, as a relatively new phenomenon of modern life. In an age of the perfection of the atomic and hydrogen bombs, of the human heart transplant, of the discovery of the DNA, of the development of human cloning, of the electronic computer, of communication satellites, of the supersonic transport, and of the journey to the moon and other celestial frontiers, the profound fascination with science still holds sway, and is quite understandable. But even if there is no guarantee that this fascination will ever wear off, there is no prospect that man will trade his humanistic nature for the exploding fruits of science and technology. On the contrary, man will, and has in fact begun to, resist the dehumanizing impact of technology, while not forsaking the numerous advantages which science and technology have made possible.

So, the continually heated debate between the humanist and the scientist as to which of them is more important to society critically misses the point. The problem of modern man is not that of a choice between science and technology on the one hand and the humanities on the other. He needs both in order to make sense out of his increasingly complex environment, and to maintain his dominant position among the inhabitants of the earth. Whether he is a nuclear physicist or a musician, a civilized man can ill-afford to ignore either his spiritual, cultural, and aesthetic needs and values or his economic and other material ones. His problem is rather that of providing for a harmonious "co-existence" between his intangible humanistic values acquired through familiarity with the humanities and his economic and other material wealths and pleasures made possible by science and technology. The progress of science and technology and the decline of the humanities have reached a stage where an equilibrium will inevitably have to result from their interdependency. Princeton University civil engineer David Billington finely summarizes this interdependent relationship as follows: "The engineer, as the principal translator of science into environment, must learn both the classical language of mathematical science and the vernacular of human society. He can do this only if his education is redirected toward the humanities—a redirection which demands close collaboration between engineers and humanists and a fresh context for the teaching of technology."

Julian Bond to give talk Monday night

Julian Bond, Georgia state representative and nationally-known black leader, will visit SIU Monday and Tuesday.

Bond will present the first in a series of three lectures offered as a liberal arts course as well as a public lecture. The title of the lecture series is "The Role of the Humanities in a Changing World." It was established with a grant from the President's Academic Excellence Fund.

The lectures are sponsored by the SIU Humanities Council. The public lecture will be at 8 p.m. Monday in Shryock Auditorium. Tuesday morning, Bond will participate in an experimental seminar conducted by the Liberal Arts 303 class, which will be closed to the public.

Bond shared the leadership of the insurgent Georgia Loyal National Democrats to the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago, which won half of the 42 state votes from the regular state delegation led by Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox. At that convention, Bond became the youngest man and the first black to be nominated for the vice presidency of the United States.

'Summer Study' offers students Mexican life

The SIU Mexico Summer Study Program for 1974 will be discussed at a meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m., in the lounge of the Communications Building.

The summer study program is sponsored by the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures in conjunction with the Escuela para Estudiantes Extranjeros at the Universidad Veracruzana at Xalapa.

The Mexico Summer Study Program offers students the opportunity to study Mexican history, anthropology, archeology, and Spanish-American literature. Students will also live in a Spanish speaking home and will participate in two field trips.

For further details about the program, contact Arnold Ulner at Wheeler 209 or call 453-3324, ext. 31.

77 killed as plane plummets near runway in South Africa

FRANCISTOWN, Botswana (AP) — A plane carrying gold miners home to Malawi crashed and burned here Thursday, killing 77 persons in the second worst air disaster in southern Africa, the South African Press Association said.

"It was like a real inferno. It was really blazing away," one of the first persons on the scene, Francistown Hospital Supt. Dr. J.S. Moeti, was quoted as saying.

Reports said the plane caught fire after take off from this remote town in northeastern Botswana near the Rhodesian border and plummeted to earth while trying to return to the airport.

The dead included the white pilot and copilot and 75 gold miners. The white flight engineer and five black passengers survived, according to initial reports.

In Johannesburg the Star newspaper reported that the survivors were thrown clear when the plane crashed into thick bush about 2 1/2 miles from the runway.

Two of them were in serious condition at Francistown hospital with third degree burns, while the others were said to be satisfactory.

The crash victims were believed to have journeyed 400 miles from Johannesburg by train to Francistown for the flight.

The passengers were returning to Blantyre and Lilongwe in Malawi after completing stints on the mines. It was believed the four-engine propeller-driven DC4 Skymaster was to have picked up a load of freshly recruited labor for the return leg.

The plane was operated by Wenela, an acronym for the Witwatersrand Native Labor Association. Wenela recruits black laborers throughout south-central Africa for the mines in South Africa and arranges transport to and from their homes.

The DC4 Skymaster tragedy was exceeded only by the 123 persons killed when a South African Airways jetliner crashed while taking off from Windhoek, South-West Africa.

Campus Briefs

A professor of English at SIU has just had one of his books translated into Russian and published by the Progress Publishing House in Moscow.

The book is "A Many-Windowed House: selected essays by the critic Malcolm Cowley," edited with an introduction by Henry Dan Piper. It was originally published by the SIU Press.

The Russian translation also includes selections from another volume of Cowley's essays, "Think Back On Us... A Chronicle of the 1930's," also edited by Piper and published by the SIU Press. "A Many-Windowed House" has also recently been issued in a Spanish translation by the publishing house of Pax Mexico in Mexico City.

Another book by Piper, "F. Scott Fitzgerald: a Critical Portrait," has recently been translated into Italian and published by the firm of Della Volpere in Milan.

Milton Russell, SIU professor of economics, was co-author with a former Ph.D. graduate of SIU of a research paper presented at the Southwest Economics Association meetings in Dallas, March 25.

Presenting the paper on "Cross-Subsidies, Grants-in-Aid and Tiebout Hypothesis: Efficiency-Equity Dilemma Revisited" with Russel was Robert Shelton of the Arizona State University faculty who received his Ph.D. degree at SIU four years ago.

Also appearing on the program was SIU economics department faculty member Alan G. Pulsipher, who currently is on leave to serve on the government Council of Economic Advisers in Washington, D.C. Pulsipher discussed an efficient policy for pollution control. An SIU graduate student in economics, James Winner, also attended the sessions. He is working, at present, with the Illinois Bureau of the Budget.

Several faculty members from the College of Business and Administration and the economics department in the College of Liberal Arts at SIU are attending professional meetings in Chicago April 4 to 6.

Attending the Midwest Business Administration Association meetings will be William Dommermuth, chairman of the marketing department; Ralph Swick, chairman of the accountancy department; Charles Woelfel, professor of accountancy; Eugene Rozanski, instructor in accountancy; Donald Vaughn, chairman of the finance department; Ronald Sprecher and Hussein Elsaid, associate professors of finance; and Adam Gehr, assistant professor of finance.

Woelfel will present a research paper at the meetings on "The Measurement and Presentation of Corporate Social Responsibility."

Faculty members attending the Midwest Economic Association meetings at the same time in Chicago are: Robert Laver, chairman of the economics department; professors John Cornwall, Milton Russel and Carl Weigand; associate professors Robert Ellis and Richard Fryman; and assistant professors Stephen Buser, Arthur Ford and Peter Stowe.

Jury debates Chapin's case after two days of testimony

WASHINGTON (AP)—After hearing only two days of testimony, a federal jury debated Thursday whether President Nixon's former appointments secretary, Dwight L. Chapin, deliberately lied under oath to frustrate a grand jury probe.

Their choice was to decide whether there was "a pattern of deceit, a pattern of lies," as the government claimed, or whether he told the truth as he remembered it.

U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell delivered the case to the jurors at mid-afternoon after telling them: "You are deciding nothing but this case without any anger on the one hand, without any sympathy on the other."

Academic group seeks freshmen

Alpha Lambda Delta academic society for women and Phi Eta Sigma fraternity are recruiting members. The academic organizations are for freshman students who have completed two quarters of college work with at least a 4.5 grade-point average.

Dues for Phi Eta Sigma are $10. Members receive a key and membership certificate.

The pledging ceremony for Alpha Lambda Delta is Sunday. Initiation is May 19. Dues for the women's society are $8. For information contact Judy Coughenour, president, at 549-5262.

Students interested in Phi Eta Sigma should contact Jim Wagner, president, at 549-6792 before April 12.

The 33-year-old Chapin, who now lives in a Chicago suburb, was charged in three counts with making false statements last April 11 when one of the Watergate grand juries questioned him about the political sabotage executed by Donald H. Segretti during the 1972 primary campaigns.

Chapin had recruited Segretti, a friend from the days at the University of Southern California, for the job.

Each count carried a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

The jury of seven men and five women was told in closing arguments by assistant prosecutor Richard J. Davis that Chapin sought all along to disassociate himself from the activities of the man he hired.

"Dwight Chapin never wanted the truth of his relationship with Donald Segretti known," Davis told the jury in a quiet voice.

"This pattern of deceit, a pattern of lies continued through April 11, 1973 when Mr. Chapin walked into that grand jury room, raised his hand and took the oath and swore that he would tell the truth.

"Dwight Chapin walked into that grand jury and made a deliberate decision and that decision was to lie."

But Jacob A. Stein, Chapin's lawyer, suggested the government was trying to convict his client for what Segretti did rather than lying.

Segretti, who served 4½ months after pleading guilty to distributing phony campaign literature, was the chief witness against Chapin.

The Southern Players production about an insecure alcoholic actress is one of three one-act plays scheduled for Saturday and Sunday nights in the University Theater. Admission is free. (Staff photo by Richard Levine.)

Free admission set for weekend plays

The Southern Players will present three one-act plays at 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday in the University Theater in the Communications building.

The two weekend performances are the only productions offered free to the public this year.

"The Questioning of Nick" by Arthur Kopit is directed by Ihor Ciszewycz, a graduate student in theater. The single-act play centers around the interrogation of a high school student by two policemen.

Nick is portrayed by Richard Misleski. James Garnett and Dan Hechenberger play the policemen roles.

"Krapp's Last Tape" is directed by Jerry Bader, a graduate student in theater. The play, written by Samuel Beckett is performed by a single actor. The 69-year-old man is portrayed by Tom Doman, a teaching assistant in the speech department.

The plot is about an elderly man whose life is unveiled through a series of recorded tapes. Listening to the tapes leaves the old man in a state of despair thinking about his meaningless existence.

Drop in traffic deaths tied to reduced speed

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic deaths were down 25 per cent the first two months of this year and reduced speeds appear to be the primary reason, the National Safety Council said Thursday.

Vincent Tofani, council president, said 5,680 persons were killed in highway accidents in January and February, compared with 7,560 persons the first two months of 1973.

"Certainly some of this reduction comes from a reduced number of miles driven," said Tofani, "but the preliminary information we have does not justify the assertion that reduced driving is the dominant cause for the drop in fatalities."

"A large part of the drop seems to be due to a general, and largely voluntary, reduction in speed," he said.

Tofani said the safety council's statistics show "a reduction in traffic fatalities far out of proportion with any reduction in travel."

For example, he said statistics show a 13 per cent drop in trunkline travel in January 1974 while fatalities occurring on turnpikes dropped 67 per cent in the same period.

Tofani said the statistics should encourage officials to resist efforts to raise speed limits now that the gasoline crisis appears to be waning. "In light of the apparent safety advantage of lower speeds we advocate that no speed increase be made without careful consideration of their possible safety effects," he said.

Open house scheduled at Free Clinic

The Carbondale Free Clinic will hold an open house and board of directors meeting at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the clinic's office, 104 E. Jackson St.

The board meeting will have an open agenda that will allow suggestions and questions from visitors. Carroll Child, administrator of the Free Clinic, said Thursday.

"We'd like people to come to the Free Clinic with their energy and talk and give whatever time or skills they have to the clinic," Child said.

The clinic is a primary health care unit which offers services similar to those provided by the SHU Health Service, he said.

Child continued that most persons coming to the clinic are Carbondale residents who can't afford or who don't want to go to other Carbondale health facilities.

The clinic is open for referrals only from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday, and has a physician on duty from 6:30 to 10 p.m. Monday and Wednesday.

Nixon will attend services

PARIS (AP)—President Georges Pompidou was buried in a little village cemetery Thursday. President Nixon announced he would fly to Paris to attend official memorial services at the Cathedral of Notre Dame on Saturday.

The race to succeed Pompidou in office already was underway. Former Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas and National Assembly President Edgar Faure said they would be candidates in presidential elections scheduled for April 28 or May 5.

The Communist party said it would seek agreement with the Socialists to field a single candidate. Finance Minister Valéry Giscard d'Estaing issued a statement saying he would not comment on the presidential race until ceremonies marking Pompidou's death are over—itself an admission he wanted to become head of state.

The Socialists scheduled a conclave for Monday, probably to name Secretary-General François Mitterand as their presidential aspirant. He will get Communist backing if he and Communist Secretary-General Georges Marchais can agree on a common government program.

Pompidou became president in 1969 when Charles de Gaulle resigned. It was not clear whether Pompidou designated any of the Gaullist politicians as his chosen successor.

Chaban-Delmas' quick announcement was an indication of the division in Gaullist ranks over the party's candidate. Chaban-Delmas, mayor of Bordeaux since 1947, has his personal political apparatus already in place and is reported to have sizable party support.

"Having been prime minister for three years under Georges Pompidou and following the line set by General de Gaulle, I have decided to be a candidate for the presidency of the republic," Chaban-Delmas said in a statement.

Though Chaban-Delmas and Giscard d'Estaing are considered front runners, friends of Faure are trying to sell him as a compromise choice.

Shortly before the feverish political activity began, Pompidou was buried at Orvilliers, a village 35 miles southwest of Paris where the president had a country home. There were fewer than two dozen people present, just as Pompidou desired.

Memorial fund established for SIU graduate

A $500 gift has been presented to the SIU Foundation to establish a loan fund in memory of the late Warren Emerson, 1973 design graduate of SIU. Joseph N. Goodman, Foundation executive director, has announced.

Emerson was killed in an automobile accident Oct. 19, near Copperopolis, Calif., where he and his wife were living. The memorial fund is the gift of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Garner P. Emerson of Park Ridge.

Emerson, an Explorer and Eagle Scout, was a two-time letterman and "most valuable player" of his high school swimming team.

While attending SIU he earned part of his educational expenses by working at a local drug store. Following graduation he planned to continue graduate studies and become a designer of functional furniture.

In addition to his parents he is survived by his wife, the former Carol Van Gundy of Livermore, Calif., and two brothers.

The memorial loan fund is designated to assist needy SIU design students, Goodman said. Recipients will be selected by the faculty of the design department and the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance.

Suit questions police ordinance

Judge denies dismissal move

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Carbondale's request to dismiss a suit asking for a judgment on a city ordinance's validity was denied Thursday by Jackson County Circuit Court Judge Peyton Kuncie.

The suit was filed by the former members of the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners Feb. 14. The suit asks for a declaratory judgment on an ordinance transferring the board's functions to the city manager.

Judge Kuncie also allowed Mike Maurizio and other members of the Carbondale Police Department to join in the suit with the former board members.

The policemen joined the suit to determine whether the ordinance jeopardizes their pension benefits.

In making the ruling against dismissal, Kuncie affirmed that the former board members were justified in going to court to determine the validity of the ordinance.

Kuncie emphasized that his ruling had no bearing on the merits of the suit but only on whether the former members could ask for such a judgment.

The former members were dismissed by the Carbondale City Council Feb. 18 for refusing to comply with the city ordinance.

The former members contended that the ordinance was in conflict with the Illinois Board of Fire and Police Commissioners Act.

City Attorney John Womick argued that the former board members had neither the authority nor the cause to sue the city over the ordinance's validity.

Womick said the former members were no longer on the board. As citizens, he said there is no irreparable harm done to them that would justify a suit.

Even if the former members still constituted the valid board, they would not have the legal authority to sue the city, he said.

Womick said there is no city, state or federal law which empowers a city-appointed board to litigate against the city. In reality, this is the city suing itself, he said.

Carl Runge, attorney for the board, said if the former board members could not sue they would lack the legal remedy which the declaratory judgment provides.

He said that when the former members took office they swore to uphold the state statutes and the state constitution. The former members then have the right to determine if following the ordinance would violate that oath.

Kuncie, in denying the dismissal, also ordered that the plaintiffs in the suit, the former members, be identified by their names with the stipulation that they were formerly board members.

The suit had originally identified the plaintiffs as the fire and police board members.

Bernard Paul, a Marion attorney, represented Maurizio and other policemen asking to join the suit.

Paul said allowing the policemen to join would "benefit all policemen." He said the policemen would have filed a suit if the former board members had not.

Paul added that about eight other policemen indicated that they would like to join in the suit along with Maurizio.

Womick argued that the policemen do not have a right to sue because they do not have a direct complaint. He pointed out that Maurizio has not been fired.

Kuncie, in making the ruling, said the ordinance deals with policemen and since Maurizio is a policeman there is an interest which allows him to join in the suit.

Kuncie said the police "have a very definite interest" and a right to ask for court action. The police may have more or just as much interest in the suit as the former board members, he said.

Price index shows increase in March

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wholesale prices advanced sharply in March as increases for industrial goods outweighed declines in farm and food prices, the government reported Thursday.

The Labor Department said its over-all wholesale price index rose a seasonally adjusted 1.3 per cent last month following a jump of 1.2 per cent in February. Unadjusted, the increase was 1.2 per cent.

Though substantial the increases of the past two months were more moderate than in the November-January period.

With metals and fuel leading the way, industrial commodities jumped 2.9 per cent both adjusted and unadjusted, in March, the second biggest monthly increase since 1946.

The rise was exceeded only by last November's 3.2 per cent increase.

Industrial prices are regarded as one of the most sensitive gauges of inflation in the economy, as opposed to food prices which move erratically from month to month.

Farm products, processed foods, and feeds dropped in price for the first time in four months, by a seasonally adjusted 2.1 per cent. This was caused mainly by decreases for livestock, grains, raw cotton, eggs, poultry and fresh fruits and vegetables.

Since wholesome prices are usually reflected later at the retail level, higher prices for manufactured goods are likely in the coming months. However, there is no guarantee the decline in food prices will be passed along to consumers as supermarkets try to recoup profits squeezed in earlier months.

Chairman Herbert Stein of the President's Council of Economic Advisers called the March price report "markedly different" than in previous months, with farm prices declining and industrial commodities rising much faster

The sharp increase in industrial prices was partly caused by the lifting of price controls and less heavily influenced by rising fuel prices as in the previous four months, he said.

Although Stein avoided any new predictions on inflation, the administration has said it expects the price explosion to ease during the later half of 1974.

Wholesale prices have risen 19.1 per cent over the past 12 months, with the index climbing in March to 154.5 of the 1967 average. This means that it costs $154.50 to purchase a volume of wholesale goods that cost $100 in the 1967 base period.

Passover Seder celebration will be observed Saturday

By David Kornblith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer
and
Nancy R. Lauts
Student Writer

Jewish people throughout the world and at SIU will be sitting down to the world's oldest continually observed meal Saturday night, the Passover Seder.

"The Passover Seder is a meal which commemorates the exodus of the Hebrew slaves from Egyptian bondage 4,000 years ago," Rabbi Earl Vinecour said.

The Seder will be performed by Rabbi Vinecour starting at 7 p.m. Saturday in Ballroom D of the Student Center.

The Seder, translated into English as the "order," is by no means a conventional meal, Rabbi Vinecour said. He said it is called "order" because there has been no change in the symbolic rituals, foods and rights for 40 centuries.

Some of the unconventional dishes that will be served are symbolic of the Jewish exodus, Rabbi Vinecour said.

Matzah, unleavened bread, was a poor man's bread, he said. The Israelites baked this bread because they could not afford to buy the ingredients for leavened bread.

Matzah is supposed to be eaten in place of any leavened food during the eight-day holiday.

Bitter herbs are also part of the ceremony, Rabbi Vinecour said.

The bitter herbs are supposed to remind people of the bitter oppression of the Hebrew slaves.

Salt water serves to remind people of the sweat and tears the Hebrew slaves shed, Rabbi Vinecour added. Haroset, a combination of apples, cinnamon, honey and wine is eaten to remind people of the bricks the slaves had to make to complete the Pyramids.

Not all of the dishes are supposed to have negative thoughts connected with them. A hard-boiled egg is eaten to signify fertility, Rabbi Vinecour said. Finally, wine rounds out the meal. Wine is the symbol of joy, Rabbi Vinecour said.

The order of the Seder is contained in a book called the Haggadah, Rabbi Vinecour said. From the Haggadah comes the various prayers and other rituals performed at the Seder.

Some of the rituals include asking The Four Questions and setting out the cup of wine for the Prophet Elijah, he said.

The youngest participant at each Seder asks The Four Questions. The questions ask why the Seder night is different from other nights and why the foods that are served are special.

Elijah's cup of wine symbolizes the hope for universal peace. Elijah is supposed to come to each Seder and drink the cup of wine.

In the last 25 years there have been three new rituals added to the Seder, Rabbi Vinecour said.

The first ritual is a memorial service for the six-million Jews who died in Europe prior to and during World War II, he said. The second ritual is a tribute to the re-creation of Israel. The Holy Western Wall that became part of Israel during the 1967 war is why the third ritual was added.

Aiding the Rabbi in the prayers and rituals will be about nine SIU students, he said.

Rabbi Vinecour added that he expects more than 200 persons to be present at the Seder.

Attendance at the Seder is by reservation only. Reservations can be made by contacting the Hillel Foundation at 457-7279. Hillel is located at 715 S. University Ave.

National Textile Week noted April 12 at SIU

National Textile Week, Sunday through Saturday, April 13, will be observed on Friday, April 12, by the department of clothing and textiles at SIU.

Frederick Kirkbridge, Pendleton Woolen Mills designer, will conduct a class at 9 a.m. in Home Economics Building, room 206, and another at 1 p.m. in the Home Economics Lounge. Both are open to all interested persons, according to Nancy Rabolt, arrangements committee chairman.

As an extension of Textile Week observance, on April 18, the department will present Norma Compton, dean of the School of Home Economics at Purdue University and a clothing and textile specialist, in a 7:30 p.m. lecture in the Home Economics Auditorium. Her lecture will be "Human Ecology Research," and is open to the public without charge. This event is supported by the University's Academic Excellence Fund.

Other members of Mrs. Rabolt's committee are Sue Ridley, assistant professor of clothing and textiles, and Marjanean Simpson Dorton, teaching assistant. Mrs. Rabolt is a graduate fellow in home economics.

One-man picket

DUBLIN (AP) — When Patrick Kearns reported for work at a fertilizer factory in Dublin he was told he was not on the staff, and furthermore, he was not known.

So Patrick went outside and formed a one-man picket line which 350 other workers refused to cross.

It developed that Patrick had been on sick leave for 11 years and when he returned to work the time-clerk had no knowledge of his existence.

A spokesman for the company said Kearns left in 1962 with a heart condition and they had not heard from him since then. Now a doctor has certified him fit for work and his case is to be reconsidered.

Werner concert proves light; style of selections varies

By Jon Ciner
Guest Reviewer

Avoiding the nineteenth century showhorses, Associate Piano Professor Kent Werner opted for clarity and, to some extent, lightheartedness in his program of piano works by Bach, Beethoven, Robert Davis, Poulenc and von Weber, Wednesday night in Shryock Auditorium.

Only in the Bach "Prelude and Fugue G minor" was the somber side of a composer fully represented—perhaps because Werner's reading emphasized the piece's dark sonorities rather than its fluid line. Beethoven's "E-Flat Major Sonata, Op. 31, No. 3" is a perfect essay in dramatic movement and proportion. The first two movements seem to sustain a dialogue between the reflective and the impulsive. The pensive, but intensely melodic minuet provides a most suitable context for the Rossini-like brio of the last movement. While he minimized the melodic potential of the third movement with a clipped pace, Werner went out with all the exuberance needed for the wild finale.

Robert Davis' "Five Piano Pieces (1972)," which are dedicated to Werner, were a pleasant surprise. Frankly, I expected some academic, post-Boulez esoterica. Shame on me, Davis, in these concise pieces, expresses a gamut of ideas ranging from a few evocations of Schoenberg and — of all people—Debussy in the "Aria" and the "Postlude," to some pianistic virtuoso writing in the other three not-so-easy pieces, which, incidentally, allowed the performer's talents to surface.

Of most interest were Poulenc's rarely-heard Nocturnes. These eight little pieces are delicate, moody, quite charming—in a Satie sort of way. I especially liked the fourth piece, "Bal Phantome," a wispy but sardonic mazurka. Werner gave these essentially surface works a sparkling finish.

But after some of those Davis stridencies and those Poulenc polytonalities, we all needed to relax, and what better way than with von Weber's elegant "Invitation to Dance." Here, Werner was in top form, giving a straightforward and unimpassioned performance—exactly what von Weber's ingenuous score needs.

Jon Ciner is a graduate student in English.

Guitar stylists will echo beats of jazz, blues

A wide gamut of blues will be featured at 8 p.m. April 13 in Shryock Auditorium when Harvey Mandel and Luther Allison (with their respective bands) exhibit their distinctive guitar styles.

Mandel, a native of Morton Grove, has several solo albums out. He has, at one time or another, belonged to Canned Heat, one of John Mayall's numerous bands and has played with such bluesmen as Eric Clapton and Sugar cane Harris.

Somewhere along the way, Mandel picked up jazz influences which have won warm responses from rock-and-roll critics.

This concert will be Allison's second visit to Shryock Auditorium. His Jan. 27 concert with Hound Dog Taylor drew a full house and kept the audience on its feet during most of the set.

Allison is a showman. In January, he kidded the audience, asking them for some J & B Scotch and even invited a harp player from the audience to come up on stage.

Tickets are priced at $3 and $3.50 and 800 seats are still available at the Student Center Central Ticket Office.

Air travel rises, United to hire 180

CHICAGO (AP)—United Air Lines said Thursday it will hire 180 flight attendants to handle an upturn in air travel.

Earlier, the airline said it will furlough 100 fewer pilots this year than previously anticipated.

Edward E. Carlson, UAL president, said the additional manpower is needed to maintain "a level that will support a competitive position in the air market travel place."

United trimmed 650 flight attendants Jan. 1 as a result of reduced schedules caused by the energy crisis. These attendants were recalled by the end of March.

Edward E. Carlson, UAL president, said the economic forecast for air travel remained uncertain but United would be prepared to maintain full levels of passenger service throughout the year, including the introduction of additional wide-body aircraft.

Scottish Maggie

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—Maggie Bell, who recently won the Melody Maker poll in England as "best female singer" for the second year in a row, is making her first tour of the U.S. as a solo artist.

In Europe she is best known as having been lead singer of Stone the Crows for five years. In America she is best known as the Mother on the "Tommy" album and for her duet with Rod Stewart on his "Every Picture Tells a Story" album.

Liquor license violation admitted by Village Inn

Representatives of the Village Inn Pizza Parlor admitted Wednesday that employees had violated the provisions of their Class E liquor license by selling alcoholic drinks to patrons who had not bought food.

The Carbondale Liquor Advisory Board, in view of the admission, unanimously agreed that a "strong letter of reprimand" would be a warning of possible suspension if another violation occurs.

Jack Downs, manager, said the inn has applied for a Class D license to insure that this violation would not recur.

The new license would allow for the sale of alcohol during hours that the restaurant is selling food.

SIU debate team falls to Arizona in national finals

The SIU debate team closed its season recently with freshman Linda Robertson and David Parks advancing to the final playoff rounds of the National Novice Tournament.

The two were defeated in the final round by the University of Arizona in a 2-1 split decision.

Beth Miss Robertson and Parks have won several honors for SIU this past season, including the championship of the Illinois Valley Competition and the Midwestern PKD debate finals. Additional honors were won by the two freshmen when they were voted in the top ten speakers of the national finals.

Miss Robertson is a Radio-TV major from Sand Springs, Okla. Parks is a Speech major from Sterling.

U.S. rural areas experience energy crisis in diluted form

By Craig Ammerman
Associated Press Writer

The gasoline lines, the renewed emphasis on mass transit, the skyrocketing utility bills are all things people in rural America have read about. But in most cases they've seen little of them.

The energy crisis, like other sudden changes in the country's lifestyle, has had some impact on rural America. But it is less noticeable and more likely to be ignored than in the cities and suburbs.

The problems of the cities generally reach the rural areas, but in a diluted form. And the millions of people who live there for the most part go about their daily lives much the way they always have.

Associated Press reporters who visited rural communities in five states in recent weeks reported there have been some changes because of the energy crisis. But the problems endured by many cities and suburbs translate into aggravations rather than crises for rural areas.

It is almost impossible to gauge what impact the energy situation will have on the future of small towns. But many who live there find it hard to believe any lasting changes will be forced upon them with the exception of high prices for gasoline.

Most rural areas visited by AP reporters have endured some changes.

Gasoline prices are higher, and a few service stations have gone out of business. Small motels have experienced a drop in business.

—Citizens generally keep their thermostats lower.

—Some local stores report increased business because local residents are less likely to drive 50 miles or so to urban shopping centers. Other stores, such as clothing concerns, report a drop in business and attribute it to local residents spending less because of higher prices for food and gasoline.

Annual hope festival will begin Tuesday

By Charlotte Jones
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The third annual week-long religious "Festival of Hope" is scheduled for Tuesday through April 16.

Highlights of the festival include a jazz-rock celebration, the Sterling Belcher Choir and a talk by Buckminster "Bucky" Fuller.

The Howard Hanger Trio, a jazz-rock group from Atlanta, will perform in the Student Center, Ballroom D April 12. The trio has performed in concert across the nation in churches, clubs and on television.

The 70-piece Sterling Belcher Choir of St. Louis will perform at 8 p.m. April 13 in the Lutheran Center.

Fuller will speak on "Technology and Overpopulation" at 7 p.m. April 21 in the Newman Center. Admission is free but all the tickets have been given away, said Jerry Guley, of the Wesley Foundation. Students will be admitted if ticketholders fail to show up, he said.

Several other events are scheduled for each day of the festival. A contemporary musical service and a liturgical art show are on Tuesday's agenda. The art show will be open daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Wesley Community House, 816 S. Illinois Ave.

The University Choir, under the direction of Robert Kingsbury, will present "St. John's Passion" at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at St. Francis Xavier, 303 S. Poplar St.

"Seder Meal," a reenactment of the traditional Passover meal, will be presented at 5:30 p.m. Thursday in the Lutheran Student Center, 700 S. University St.

Special features will include dialogues by four campus speakers on "Hope In My Life."

Paul Simon, Democratic candidate for Congress, will speak at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Lutheran Student Center.

James Crowner, chairman of the Department of Special Education, will talk at 4 p.m. Wednesday at the Student Christian Foundation.

Doug Weaver, athletic director and football coach, is scheduled to speak at noon April 15 at the Student Christian Foundation.

The last dialogue speaker will be John Hayward, chairman of the Department of Religious Studies, at 4 p.m. April 16 in the Lutheran Student Center.

The "Festival of Hope" is jointly sponsored by the Lutheran Student Center, Newman Center, Student Christian Foundation, Wesley Community House and Canterbury Club.

The festival is scheduled during the Easter season because "hope" refers to the Easter theme, Guley said. The festival is an attempt to show the possibility of hope in the midst of pain and suffering in this life, he said.

The festival events include a wide range of media in an effort to meet the varied interests of people on campus, Guley said.

Schedules for the "Festival of Hope" are available at the centers sponsoring the event.

Tickets still available for J. Geils concert

Looking for something to do with a friend this weekend? More than 4,500 tickets are still available for the J. Geils Band concert Saturday night at the SIU Arena. According to Melody Maker Magazine, the band's lead singer Peter Wolf feels, "Our music is like you're making love. Whenever we play we just try to generate heat the best we can. It's sweat, it's music for the groin and you just got to keep moving to it."

Wolf said he also feels that the "blues heritage" is perceptible in some of the band's music. Stylistically, the group compares to types like the Paul Butterfield Band, Commander Cody and Edgar Winter. However, the J. Geils Band consists of explosively creative talent and naturally produces a sound of its own.

The concert was originally scheduled for March 9, but had to be canceled because of a personal problem to the lead singer, Bill Searcy, assistant manager of the Arena, said the cancellation caused a few people to desire refunds. He said that many of the returned tickets are for front seats.

Tickets are still available for $3.50, $4.50 and $5. There is a 50-cent discount for SIU students on the two top prices. The concert is not expected to be a sellout, but a large and active crowd is expected.

Additional Russian course to be offered next year

The department of Foreign Languages and Literature has announced addition of two Russian courses that will be offered next year.

Russian 278-3, Translation Techniques, will be directed to students who want to major in a field other than Russian. Attention will be given to the development of skills in translation techniques and its application to the students major fields.

Russian 430-3, Business Russian, will assist the student in acquiring, in a comparatively short time, the linguistic knowledge and skills necessary for business transactions. The study will include inquiries, offers, contracts and agreements, as well as documents concerning transport, insurance and customs.

For more information contact J. R. Kupcek, Russian section head, Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures.

'MacArthur Park' explored

Jazzmen's material cheats listeners

By Tim Ransom
Guest Reviewer

The SIC Jazz Ensemble setting up in Shryock wore the promising look of a tighter-than-usual group Tuesday night. Naturally, hopes rose high that their material and performance would fulfill the promise. These, after all, were Oldfield's men, fewer than usual and presumably the best of the batch who play under Alan Oldfield.

A Review

Jean Sibelius, not notable jazz but wise about potencies of music, liked to think of his own music as a drink of cool, clear spring water that sated what the headier concoctions of, say, a Strauss never could. The difference Sibelius may have meant was like the difference between a small handful of Tuesday's arrangements and the bulk of them.

Directors of student ensembles always face the problem of fitting music to their performers, harmonizing musical merit with playability of material.

So sometimes, music—in this case, tunes and arrangements—that is much less great has to provide the valuable experiences student musicians need to get better.

Such were too many of the arrangements this time out. Rare were the bold, novel treatments of harmony and melody and the striking interplays of instruments that can make even extended pieces hard jazz listening in a concentrated light all their own.

In general, though, the weakest arrangements sounded beyond redemption by even the best of musicians. And these men of Oldfield's are no Sunday players. They know from practice what it means to approach virtuoso command and cleanness of sound in ensemble as well as solo work. But a clean-sounding command of mediocre material is wasting talent and cheating listeners out of what, with better vehicles, might have been.

Happily, not all the prog wallowed beyond redemption. There were, not surprisingly, the contributions of guest reed-player Art Pepper, a Stan Kenton veteran. Favoring a tenderer melodic strain over dazzling feats of more abstract patterning, Pepper's playing appealed more to a taste for somewhat conventional blues lyricism. Since a low-keyed poignancy prevailed in most of Pepper's mainline playing and take-offs, Oldfield outdid everybody everytime in sending off the biggest fireworks from his keyboard in improvising with Pepper, bass player Branch and drummer Lee Hacker.

The best numbers done by the regular ensemble came early in the program. Dee Barton's arrangement of the Jimmy Webb number "MacArthur Park" explored with remarkable success extremes of tempo that this music unexpectedly can stand, slowing down eventually to a sauntering walk that uncovers a real delicacy in the phrasing of the piece.

Mixed lighting effects complemented a Bill Cowling number called, in a rather typical jazz fashion, "Turquoise Lace," sprung from a free-wailing, Alban Berg-sounding declamation of reeds that led to a pink-lighted melody at once lamenting and lifting. An up-tempo surge in yellow light then puffed a determined soprano sax, played almost heroically by newcomer Dave Riddles, against an equally mounting and unstoppable band. A return to the original hue and languishing tempo ended the dramatic bi-play.

By the way, "heavier concoctions" non-jazzman Sibelius had in mind needn't always be second-rate, less satisfying stuff. Listen to Strauss. But like any special concoction, they depend for their quality on the right proportioning of the right ingredients. In jazz concerts to come, whenever they do, we hope the lean, protein nourishment of musical subtleties aren't altogether forsaken for too many veasty, but empty confections of musical triteness.

NEW YORK (AP) - Going to a shopping center in carpools is becoming the neighborly thing to do.

The idea is being encouraged by the International Council of Shopping Centers through its 5,000 members from coast-to-coast. Its "Take a Neighbor with You to a Shopping Center" program aims at saving 20 billion gallons of gasoline a year by doubling the 1.2 average number of passengers per auto.

The program includes the organization of one-stop shopping energy committees to create interest in car pools, mall displays, public service broadcasts and literature distributed to shoppers.

Elderly to meet with park officials

Relations between the Park District and the Senior Citizens Board will be discussed at Tuesday's meeting at the Oakdale House, 904 S. Oakland.

Mary Richardson, secretary for the Park District Board, said that the 6 p.m. meeting will be attended by two members from each of the two boards.

She said the meeting will investigate ways in which relations between senior citizens and the park district can be improved.

This is the unifying concept behind the new Master of Fine Arts thesis exhibition — "Ceramatantrayana" — which will open at 7 p.m. Friday in Mitchell Gallery.

The creator of the multimedia art exhibition, John Merkel, has utilized ceramics, glass, colored light, neon light and electronically altered sound to make the gallery a total environment.

35th year on SIU campus

The Alpha Sigma Chapter of the Sigma Tau Gamma Fraternity at SIU will celebrate its 35th anniversary this weekend.

Friday will be highlighted with a cocktail hour starting at 8 p.m. at the chapter house. Activities for Saturday include a campus tour beginning at 10 a.m., and a picnic at Giant City Park featuring a softball game between the alumni and undergraduate at noon.

The 35th anniversary banquet is to be Saturday evening at the Marion Holiday Inn. Cocktails will be served starting at 6:30 p.m. Scheduled guests and speakers include John Huffman, J.K. Leasure, Dr. William O'Brien, Dr. Bruce Swinburne and Dr. Richard Mager.

The chapter was founded in 1939 as Sigma Beta Mu at Southern Illinois Normal School. In 1951 it changed to Sigma Tau Gamma after becoming a chapter of Sigma Tau Gamma National Fraternity.

Fat is dangerous to babies' health

DUBLIN (AP) — Fat babies are a problem of modern society, say doctors at St. James Hospital in Dublin. They have a greater tendency to infections of the upper respiratory tract, like pneumonia. They are more likely than thin children to have stomach troubles like enteritis and appendicitis.

very controlled environment. They have their own music, they control the lighting with the stained glass windows. We associate cathedrals with religion now, but when they were built, the creators were trying to shake people up, to make an impression," he said.

With his show, Merkel will utilize no external light. The walls have been covered with black paper, and the only light sources will be colored floor lights inside the glass and ceramic pieces, and tubes of neon, which drape over inside and around, "like flowing water," Merkel said.

"There are four main groups of ceramics. Each group is a progression, in which the forms repeat a particular motive or shape," Merkel said. "Also, there are active areas in the room — those that emit light — and passive areas that reflect light, like the sun and the moon."

The tapes that will be played during the exhibition, which were created with the help of Music Professor Will Gay Bottje, are comprised of the sounds made by the machines Merkel utilized to create his exhibition and of East Indian music.

Why Indian? "It's the sort of music that lets you think what you want, as opposed to rock music, which creates associations and prompts emotional responses," Merkel said.

The concept behind the show is Tibetan—that positive and negative energy makes a whole. To understand those two things is to understand how the universe operates," he said.

Merkel had first-hand exposure to Tibetan philosophy in 1970 when he spent five months at a monastery in India.

"It's hard to say how those months in the Tibetan monastery changed my art. Since then, my thinking has become more abstract if anything," Merkel said. "But the color of the lights I'm using—red, yellow, blue-green and white—have a particular esoteric significance to the Tibetans—I got them from a Tibetan painting.

As for the title of the exhibition, you won't find it in your Webster's Dictionary.

"Ceramatantrayana" is a made up word," Merkel said. "The 'tantras' are esoteric teachings. Kind of like tantric ceramics."

Educators attend conference

Lifestyle change supported

By Carl Flowers
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A change in the lives and lifestyles of aid recipients is the primary purpose of the Adult Basic Education program, Tony Bertauski, president of the Public Adult and Continuing Educators Association of Illinois (PACE), said Thursday.

Bertauski spoke at the second annual conference on "Issues and Innovations in Education." He said a goal of PACE is to make people qualified to "earn maybe $600 per month and pay taxes rather than receiving $600 a month from the state in aid."

Bertauski said more than 50 per cent of the state's population over 25 does not have a high school diploma. He attributed this to many factors, including the Depression, low income of many families and the inconsistent effort put forth by many high school dropouts.

He said the Basis Education Program in Illinois is on the rise and added, "after two or three years of doing nothing, students usually realize that the best place is in the class room."

The program, which is funded through Social Rehabilitation Funds (SRF), currently has 12 adult education centers, including centers at Rock Island, Champaign-Urbana, Venice, East St. Louis and Chicago. The conference, which continues Friday, is sponsored by the College of Education and the Division of Continuing Education. It is intended for educational administrators, teachers, counselors, testing personnel, university staff members and interested citizens.

SIU-E robbed; bandit flees

EDWARDSVILLE, (AP) — A bandit with a flair for acting and a pistol made off with a $50,000 SIU-Edwardsville payroll Thursday.

Police said the slightly-built man with a mustache drew a pistol on University employees shortly after they withdrew the money from the Bank of Edwardsville.

LT. Ray Perry gave these details: Donna Suhre, a clerk from the bursar's office, had withdrawn the money to cash student payroll checks and had gone back to an SIU-E car parked on the street. With her were SIU-E security guards Edward Williams and David Johnson.

As they were getting ready to leave, a man walked up, feigned illness and asked where the nearest hospital was.

As Williams got out to help, the man grabbed for two money bags the guard held. Williams pushed him to the ground but the man drew a pistol, took the bags and got into the back seat of the car.

He ordered Johnson to drive away with Miss Suhre sitting in the front seat. Williams was left on the sidewalk.

About two blocks later the gunman told Johnson to stop, grabbed a third money bag from the front seat and got out. He warned he would shoot if Johnson or Miss Suhre looked back and told them to keep going.

Johnson, however, said he spotted the man getting into a car parked nearby and head west out of town. No one was injured.

If love is blind, be careful when you buy a diamond.

Most people aren't sure what to look for when they buy a diamond ring. But we have three guides to help you make a wise choice.

First, we sell only Vanity Fair nationally advertised diamond rings. Before a diamond receives the Vanity Fair mark inside its shank, it must meet the rigid specifications for quality and appearance set by Vanity Fair's graduate gemologists.

Second, our diamond sales staff have been specially trained by the Gemological Institute of America. They will have the answers to many questions you may have and are ready to aid you in selecting the best ring for you.

And finally, our guarantee assures you that for any reason should you want to return your ring, within thirty days, we will give you a complete refund, no questions asked.

Send for our free 44 page catalog. It is filled with full-color pictures of more than 300 engagement and wedding rings, each available to you at savings of 50%.

Or visit our diamond showrooms at 55 E. Washington, Chicago. Either way you won't be sorry.

CLASSIFIED INFORMATION

DEADLINE: Deadline for placing classified ads is 2 p.m. two days in advance of publication, except that deadline for Tuesday ads is Friday at 2 p.m.

PAYMENT: Classified advertising must be paid in advance except for accounts already established. The order form which appears in each issue may be mailed or brought to the office, located in the North Wing, Communication Building. No refunds on cancelled ads.

RATES: Minimum charge is for two lines. Multiple insertion rates are for ads which run on consecutive days without change.

Use this handy chart to figure cost:

No. of lines	1 day	3 days	5 days	20 days
1	80	150	200	600
2	120	225	300	900
3	160	300	400	1200
4	200	375	500	1500
5	240	450	600	1800
6	280	525	700	2100
7	320	600	800	2400

One line equals approximately 50 words. For accuracy, use the order form which appears every day.

REPORT ERRORS AT ONCE

Check your advertisement upon first insertion and please notify us if there is an error. Each ad is carefully proofread, but still an error can occur. The Daily Egyptian will not be responsible for typographical errors except to cancel charge for such portion of advertisement as may have been rendered useless by such typographical error. Each ad is read back to caller for confirmation. If you notify us the first day of error, we will repeat the ad without charge. SORRY, IF WE ARE NOT NOTIFIED WITHIN ONE DAY, THE RESPONSIBILITY IS YOURS.

Freedom, money key issues in breakdown of NFL talks

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League Players Association and the NFL Management Council collided head-on Thursday over the players' demands for more freedom and more money, resulting in an apparent breakdown of negotiations.

The Management Council—the owners' bargaining unit—flatly rejected two fundamental segments covering most of the players' 57 contract demands—the so-called freedom issues and what the owners termed "unprecedented collective demands" totaling more than $100 million.

It said the players were calling for anarchy and injecting "double jeopardy" by attempting to have collective bargaining cover issues which will also be open to individual player-club contract talks.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA, said the NFLMC's reaction to their demands "is no response at all. We'd like to receive a written response." And he said that it appeared talks would not continue until the Management Council responds.

Under the original agreement, which calls for weekly meetings alternating between New York, the Management Council headquarters.

Demands by the NFLPA regarding "freedom issues" involve, in part, the removal of commissioner Pete Rozelle from all non-injury grievance arbitration; the elimination of the option clause, waiver system, reserve lists, fines; elimination of Rozelle's power to discipline a player and the end to the Rozelle Rule.

The NFLMC, in a prepared statement said it sees in these demands "a demolition of the structure which has taken the National Football League more than 50 years to build, with no organization proposed to take its place."

Golf meeting slated

The Women's varsity golf team will hold a meeting Thursday, 4 p.m., at the women's gym room 205A. Plans will be discussed concerning the SIU Invitational to be held April 20 at the Crab Orchard Country Club. For further information contact Charlotte West at the women's gym, room 205A, or call 453-2631.

And Theodore Kheel, the NFLMC counsel, said they were "anarchy issues, not freedom issues. What the players are trying to do is to eliminate all restraints."

"As soon as the players are ready to offer proposals for sensible changes in the existing system," the owners' statement said, "we will be ready to seek ways of working out reasonable compromises. But we draw the line at a system with no rules."

SIU racketeers get set for match with Tigers

The SIU tennis team travels to Memphis this weekend to take on Memphis State Tigers. The Salukis are 7-5 after playing 12 matches in 11 days.

Memphis State is 14-2 on the year and boasts several fine players. Sophomore Phil Chamberlain from Australia is the No. 1 singles player for the Tigers with a record of 12-4. Chamberlain will be facing the Salukis' Dáne Petchul, whose record is 3-4. Salukis No. 2 singles player, Wayne Cowley, 4-7 on the year, will face freshman Keith West from Memphis. Other individual records for the Salukis show Jorge Ramirez at 6-6; Scott Kidd, 9-3; Felix Ampon, 8-3; Kristian Cee, 6-4; Scott Huguleit, 1-0; and Sal Castillo, 1-1.

Tennis hours set

Reservations for the tennis courts during Spring quarter may be made after 5:30 p.m. Monday through Sunday by calling 453-5247.

Reservations for the tennis courts during Spring quarter may be made after 5:30 p.m. Monday through Sunday by calling 453-5246.

The courts will be open from 6 p.m. to midnight Monday through Sunday.

Run set for Sunday

The Southern Illinois Road Runners club will sponsor an 8-mile timed run this Sunday, at 1:30. All interested runners must meet at the SIU Arena.

The Salukis have picked up an extra man, Mel Ampon, the younger brother of Felix Ampon, who enrolled at SIU this spring. Mel, a freshman from Manila, is the No. 1 ranked junior and the third-ranked amateur in the Philippines.

After the Saturday afternoon match at Memphis the Salukis will compete at the Oklahoma City Invitational April 11 through 13. Eight teams will be competing in the three day event.

Bulls to battle homecourt hex

CHICAGO (AP)—The home court advantage which has fizzled for both teams to date again goes to the Chicago Bulls against the Detroit Pistons here Friday night in the third game of their National Basketball Association Western Conference semifinal playoff series.

After a three-day layoff, the showdown resumes with the Bulls striving for a second successive triumph and a two-to-one lead in the best of seven set.

The Bulls finally found shooting range at Detroit Monday night, defeating the Pistons 108-103 after a low key performance in a 97-88 series opening defeat on their own Chicago Stadium court last Saturday.

Veteran Bull forward Chet Walker hoped that the home court edge would be more meaningful this time, commenting that "we played more like ourselves in Detroit."

Aaron slams number 714 to tie Ruth

CINCINNATI (AP)—Relentless Hank Aaron ascended into baseball's throne room Thursday by whacking his 714th career home run to join Babe Ruth as the most prolific slugger in history.

But the Cincinnati Reds erased a 6-1 deficit and nipped the Atlanta Braves 7-6 when Pete Rose raced home all the way from second base on Buzz Capra's two-out wild pitch in the 11th inning.

Aaron hit his record-tying homer in the first inning off Cincinnati's Jack Billingham. It staked the Braves to a 3-0 lead but the Atlanta bullpen was unable to hold a lead.

Rose, who singled and scored in the first inning and walked in the eighth preceding Tony Perez' three-run homer, doubled home the tying run in the ninth after George Foster delivered a two-out pinch single.

With two out in the 10th, the defending National League batting champion doubled again off Capra, Atlanta's fifth pitcher. He then raced all the way home when Capra uncorked a wild pitch that rolled to the corner of the Braves' dugout along the third base line.

Dave Concepcion homered for Cincinnati's other run in the fifth inning.

The game was less than five minutes old when the 40-year-old Aaron, a native of Mobile, Ala., crashed his historic homer before a sun-splashed crowd of 52,154, largest opening day turnout in the 106-year history of baseball's oldest team.

Aaron's 380-foot blast pulled him abreast of a record once considered unattainable. The record-tying feat came 39 years after Ruth retired from the game he popularized. Aaron was 1 year old when Ruth hit his final homer.

An 11th-hour addition to the lineup, Aaron's historic homer came after considerable dispute and drama. The question of his availability spawned a feud with baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Braves' brass. The team announced earlier this spring that Aaron would be withheld until Atlanta's home-opening series Monday.

The homer was his 96th off his favorite victims and his first season-opening round-tripper and came at 2:40 p.m., EDT.

A rousing ovation greeted Aaron in his initial at-bat. Billingham, a 19-game winner last year, had started shakily, walking Ralph Garr and yielding a single to Mike Lum.

The 31-year-old right-hander ran the count to 3-1. Aaron sent the next pitch over the left-field fence near the 375-foot mark. He jogged around the bases and was mobbed by his teammates as he crossed the plate.

The ball was retrieved in a runaway by a Cincinnati policeman, Clarence Williams, and presented to Aaron in a six-minute ceremony near home plate.

Aaron certified the momentous feat by going to the edge of the stands to kiss his wife, Billye, his bride of five months. Sitting with her were Aaron's father and brother.

Vice President Gerald R. Ford, who earlier threw out the game's first ball, saluted the homer, calling the feat "a great day for you and a great day for baseball." Ford then wished Aaron "good luck for No. 715 and a good many more."

Aaron later grounded out to third base in the third inning and walked in the fifth, later scoring on an error. It was his 2,062nd career run scored, tying him for third place on that all-time list with Willie Mays.

Aaron then lined out to center field in the seventh inning and was removed from the game in the bottom of the seventh with the Braves leading 6-7.

The home run came in his 2,965th major league game. Ruth played 2,503 games in 22 years. Aaron has had 2,890 more times at bat than Ruth.

The Atlanta slugger has averaged 35.5 homers a year for 20 seasons. Ruth finished with a 32.4 average.

Aaron's homer staked Braves' starter Carl Morton to a 3-0 lead. His last three 1973 homers also came in games Morton pitched.

The Reds came back with a run in the bottom of the first on singles by Rose and Joe Morgan and Perez' infield out.

The Braves made it 4-1 in the fourth when Craig Robinson hit into a double play with the bases loaded and a two-out error by third baseman Dan Driessen allowed two more runs to score in the fifth.

Concepcion slammed a solo homer in the bottom of the fifth. The Reds moved to within one run in the eighth on Perez' three-run homer off Phil Niekro following a walk to Rose and single by Driessen.

SIU track team braces for Jacobs Invitational

Coming off a good showing at the Florida Relays the SIU track team will face a tough nine-team field Saturday at the annual John Jacobs Invitational at Norman, Okla.

The field includes Purdue and Olympic sprinter Larry Burton, Oklahoma State, Nebraska, Arkansas, North Texas, Texas Arlington, North Dakota State and host Oklahoma.

Pulliam Gym to close

Pulliam Hall Gymnasium will not be open for its usual recreation hours Friday and Saturday due to the Illinois Junior Academy Science Fair. Regular hours will be resumed on Sunday.

A recreation bonus

The SIU Arena will be available for free recreation every Sunday from 8-11 p.m. for any interested students and faculty members. The schedule will be followed except for April 14, 28 and May 26 when the Arena will not be open for free recreation because of special events.

The Salukis figure to be the favorites in the 400 and mile relay after their showing in Florida where they won both relay championships.

All-American Eddie Sutton and freshman Mike Monroe did not compete in last week's relays due to slight muscle pulls. This week, according to track coach Lew Hartzog, both men will compete in the 100, 220, and 440, but will not enter the relays. "Both men are running well and they're ready to go," Hartzog said.

Making his first appearance of the year, miler Dave Hill will try to improve the Salukis' distant events Hill has been out with a heel injury this year, and last year he missed most of the season with a case of mononucleosis.

Following the Jacobs meet, the Salukis will ready themselves for their annual meet against Illinois to be held at Champaign next Saturday. The Salukis lost 74-71 in last year's pressure-packed meet held at SIU. This year's meeting figures to be just as close.

Spring football workouts to open without Moncrief

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Because of academic ineligibility, the SIU spring football workouts will open Monday without freshman running back Melvin Moncrief.

It was announced Thursday that Moncrief has transferred to Gulf Coast (Mis.) Junior College to improve his academic standing. Moncrief plans to return to SIU for the 1975 season.

In his freshman year at SIU, Moncrief gained 733 yards and scored 12 touchdowns to help lead a Saluki offense that averaged 326.6 yards per game and 24.3 points per game.

Moncrief drew the praise of East Carolina Coach Sonny Randle, now at Virginia, when he romped for three touchdowns and 127 yards. "Melvin Moncrief is a class running back," Randle said. "He has unbelievable balance and poise for a freshman. He can play anywhere college football is played."

The Salukis originally planned to open spring drills Friday, but Coach Doug Weaver postponed the start of workouts until Monday. Weaver cited a need to spend the extra days in staff preparations for the delay.

The change in the start of spring practice will not affect the Salukis' spring game, May 4, at McAndrew Stadium.

"We hope to improve the abilities of the individual," Weaver said of his spring goals. "Our emphasis will be heavily on techniques and individual attention to detail will be stressed. If we can improve the abilities of the individual, the team will take care of itself.

"We will spend long periods in small units working together and not so much of the traditional dummy offense and dummy defense," Weaver said.

The football team will work out Monday through Thursday and also Saturday mornings.

Salukis to play two today

The baseball Salukis will swing a hefty .313 team batting average at Kentucky Wesleyan Friday in a 1 p.m. doubleheader at Abe Martin Field.

SIU fattened the team average 10 points Tuesday when it slammed Lincoln, 7-1 and 11-0 to boost the Saluki record to 10-5.

Kentucky Wesleyan took a 3-1 record to Evansville, Thursday where it was scheduled to meet Indiana State in a doubleheader.

Leading the Saluki hitters is first baseman Claude Crockett, whose nine hits in 21 at bats figures out to a .429 mark. Outfielders Steve Shartz and John Hoescheidt are close behind with .395 and .392 averages. Third baseman Bert Newman has upped his average to .385.
