The debate team swept an tournament at the University of Louisville last week and secured its No. 1 national ranking with a perfect sweeptakes score of 21, which is unprecedented in tournament history, coach Jeff Bile says. The Sahikis monopolized the competition by securing all four semi-finalist positions and six of the top seven individual speaker awards. The team also secured the sweeptakes points possible in the competition held Jan. 25-27. "It's a very talented squad, and that is very rare," Bile said. "They're also a very talented squad with a great attitude. It's that combination that explains so much of their success."

The debate squad is ranked No. 1 in the nation by the Cross Examination Debate Association, the largest intercollegiate debate organization in the nation, having more than 300 participant schools. The highest point totals from each school's six best competitions are used to determine the national ranking. The members of the first-place team in the U of L tournament were Amy Johnson, junior in political science, and Scott Parsons, senior in physics. The second-place team members were Nathan Dick, freshman in speech, and Mary Keener, junior in political science.

The third-place team members were Sid Alvarez and Scott Carpenter, both seniors in speech. The fourth-place team members were BBB Christoph, junior in speech, and Sonja Vuitl, junior in computer science.

Individual speaker awards are given on the basis of individual performance in team competition. In individual competition first place went to Keener. Second place was awarded to Parsons, fourth place to Johnson, fifth place to Dick, sixth place to Vuitl, and seventh place to Carpenter.

Reagan appointees to study shuttle disaster

The four months allotted to the 12-member commission all but ruled out the possibility that shuttles could be flying again before late summer at the latest.

NASA Acting Administrator William Graham, appearing at a White House news conference, said once the panel reports to Reagan, NASA will have to correct the problem to make sure it could not happen again.

In announcing the appointment of the investigation commission, Reagan said, "As we move away from that terrible day, we must divert our energies to how it happened and how it can be prevented from happening again."

New Costa Rican president says he'll push for peace

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (UPI) - Calling his presidential election a victory for Costa Rican democracy, President Oscar Arias Sanchez Monday said he would lead the nation on a mission to promote peace in Central America. With his Central American counterpart's supportive words, he assured a crowd of car dealers Monday that President Reagan would reduce the national deficit under the Gramm-Rudman balanced-budget legislation without raising taxes. "If we want interest rates to come down and inflation to stay down, we must bring the deficit down," Bush told about 7,500 members of the National Automobile Dealers Association at their annual convention. "We simply cannot saddle our young with this monumental debt."

Military budget boost unlikely, O'Neill says
WASHINGTON (UPI) - Congress is highly unlikely to give President Reagan the hefty increase in military spending he plans to ask for in his 1987 budget, House Speaker Thomas O'Neill said Monday. Reagan, who presents his budget proposal to Congress Wednesday, will request a 3 percent increase in military spending, according to information that has been circulating for weeks on Capitol Hill. O'Neill, D-Mass., said it would be "pretty hard" to get an increase in military spending through Congress this year.

Bush says deficit won't prompt tax increase
NEW ORLEANS (UPI) - Vice President George Bush assured a crowd of car dealers Monday that President Reagan would reduce the national deficit under the Gramm-Rudman balanced-budget legislation without raising taxes. "If we want interest rates to come down and inflation to stay down, we must bring the deficit down," Bush told about 7,500 members of the National Automobile Dealers Association at their annual convention. Reagan urges support of anti-Marxist rebels
WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan Monday urged the nation's religious broadcasters to support his efforts to win funding for guns and other aid to rebel forces fighting Marxist regimes. In a brief videotaped message to the annual convention of the National Religious Broadcasters, Reagan invoked the anti-government struggles in Nicaragua, Angola and Afghanistan, saying in each case, "Their cause is just and deserves our support."

France expels 4 Soviets accused of spying
PARIS (UPI) - France expelled four Soviet diplomats believed to have purchased a government secrets concerning French submarine bases in northwest France from a retired French air force officer, the Foreign Ministry said Monday. In Moscow, state-run French television said four French diplomats were expelled from the Soviet Union on espionage charges.

Kissinger declines N.Y. gubernatorial bid
NEW YORK (UPI) - Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger said Monday he will not seek the Republican nomination for New York governor, despite urgings from Vice President George Bush and other GOP leaders. Kissinger, who was national security adviser and secretary of state for Presidents Nixon and Ford, said in a statement from his Manhattan office that a campaign against Democratic Gov. Mario Cuomo would be too time consuming.

Satellite yields closest look at Halley's comet
MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (UPI) - Scientists got their closest look yet at Comet Halley Monday when the comet flashed across the heavens within 15 million miles of the U.S. Pioneer spacecraft circling Venus. Ian Stewart, principal researcher on the Pioneers' comet project, told the information from the spacecraft shows the comet "much brighter and much larger than early to January" when analyses were made. Stewart said the NASA Pioneer studies of the comet "unwillingly acquired a little more importance" because several major U.S. comet-watching experiments were delayed because of the Challenger disaster.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's prime time State of the Union address Tuesday night is not expected to contain dramatic calls for action but will center on the American family, including plans for a major review of welfare programs.

Aides said Reagan's speech will last only perhaps 20 minutes about half the length of recent addresses — and will feature somewhat punchier rhetoric than his first four. The president is withholding until Thursday delivery to Congress of a 40-page list of legislative, administrative and foreign policy initiatives.

The address, to be delivered at 8 p.m. EST before a joint session of Congress, was delayed a week because of the space shuttle Challenger disaster last Tuesday night.

The speech is expected to call for a Cabinet-level study of the $118 billion spent on a variety of federal welfare programs, with a major role for Reagan's Oval Office desk by Dec. 1. Reagan also will propose an evaluation of federal programs and strategy to meet social, educational, social and safety concerns of families.

There was speculation in the White House that the administration could save money and move some of the poor from the system by giving cash benefits rather than financing specific aid programs.

As part of a family emphasis, the president plans to highlight the programs that will protect and preserve the American family within the constraints of budget cuts.

He also will address the problem of affordable health insurance covering catastrophic illness so life savings would not be wiped out by prolonged or severe medical problems.

In addition, Reagan is expected to announce he will ask Secretary James Baker to undertake a study of a possible world currency conference and report by the end of the year. The high value of the dollar relative to other currencies has played a key role in U.S. trade troubles.

He was expected to pay tribute to the seven astronauts who lost their lives in the explosion of the Challenger, but aides said there is no money so far for a new shuttle in the 1985 fiscal year budget, which is to be delivered Wednesday.

However, Reagan will reaffirm that the space program will go on and once again express his determination to pursue his anti-missiles Strategic Defense Initiative, better known as "Star Wars."

Aides said Reagan will describe the state of the economy as good and will stress the need to make the government fiscally fit by implementing the Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law.

Aides were confident Reagan would continue to oppose any new taxes and make it clear that he wants to continue the military buildup.

As in all his past messages, the president will again emphasize his conservative agenda, restate his calls for the outlawing of abortion and in favor of voluntary prayer in public schools.

Foreign policy will take a backseat in the address, but Reagan is certain to castigate Libya's Muammar Khadafy and put Congress on notice the U.S. will seek military aid for rebels fighting the governments of Nicaragua, Afghanistan, Angola and Cambodia.

W. German paper reports East-West spy swap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz declined comment Monday on reports that Anatoly Shcharansky would be released in an East-West spy swap, but sources said these reports are "extremely important" to the administration.

The West German newspaper Bild, quoting "Moscow Kremlin circles," first reported an agreement would be reached in an East-West spy swap since World War II.

The New York Times quoted Reagan administration officials as saying the agreement calls for Shcharansky and three or four Western intelligence operatives held by the Russians to be released in Berlin Feb. 11 in return for the freeing of an equal number of Eastern bloc agents jailed in the West.

State-owned Israel radio and television reported Monday that the Reagan administration told Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres and Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir that Shcharansky would be included in an impending exchange. The broadcast stressed no formal announcement had been made either by the Israeli government or the White House.

While a source in New York's Jewish community said the swap "could be any day now," White House and State Department spokesmen declined to confirm the report.

State Department spokesman Charles Redman said whether Shcharansky would be released in a spy swap was a "hypothetical question" and declined further comment.

Shultz appeared on ABC's "Good Morning America," said he had "no comment to make at all" on the reports.

But he added, "There is no story. As far as we know, nothing is being worked on harder or that makes more difference to people in the West — not just in the United States than release of dissidents in the Soviet Union, more emigration for those who wish to emigrate, more respect for people expressing their religious beliefs in the Soviet Union."

"There are things of tremendous importance to us all and if the Soviet Union decides to move forward in some of these areas, I'm sure it will be a positive development," he said.

Rep. Benjamin Gilman, R.-N.Y., reportedly involved in the negotiations, said Monday that "some very serious negotiations are under way, very sensitive," but he declined to give any details.

Gilman, in a telephone interview, said he has been involved for years in appeals on Shcharansky's behalf and was in East Berlin three weeks ago to meet a lawyer who has acted as a go-between in previous exchanges.

He said he was hopeful the contacts "will lead to some good news at an early date" and said a release of Sh­ charansky would be an "important symbolic gesture" by the Kremlin.

Shcharansky, a Jew, has been seeking permission to emigrate since the mid-1970s. He has served eight years of a 13-year sentence for spying for Washington. The founder of a Soviet monitoring group to the human rights violations by Moscow, he is in Perm labor camp, 500 miles east of Moscow.

According to the reports, the East German and West German agents will be swapped on Glienicke Bridge between East and West Berlin, where captured U-2 pilot Gary Powers was exchanged for Soviet master spy Rudolf Abel in 1962.

LATE NIGHT 12:00 EST Monday on reports that Anatoly Shcharansky would be released in an East-West spy swap since World War II.

Opinion & Commentary

The 'minor sports' need a boost, too

REVENUE SPORTS GENERATE both money and publicity for SIU. The most of the fan support. But what of the support for our so-called non-revenue sports?

Athletics Director James Livengood is working to promote non-revenue sports through ideas such as the SPA group, which stands for Students Promoting Athletics. The concept is to get students to inform other students that sports such as swimming and gymnastics need fan support just as the basketball team does.

He said that the idea has been effective on other college campuses, and that it will work for SIU-C as well. The SPA program needs to be continued and will concentrate on making University residence hall dwellers aware of campus sporting events through the use of rallies, banners and speakers.

LIVENGOOD’S IDEAS FOR sports promotion are meritorious and broad-reaching in scope, and it carried through will generate a fan interest in sports not considered revenue sports. Speaking of which, how about a little support for the winter non-revenue sport?

The Saluki men's gymnastics team recently beat the No. 1 team in the nation, Iowa, in a dual meet at the Arena.

Congratulations are in order for this major sports accomplishment, which should move our fourth-ranked men's team even higher.

The women gymnasts are no slouches, either. They have won two dual meets and finished third at this weekend in DeKalb. A women gymnastics team has not appeared on this year's floor, at home, including the Gateway Invitational. Last year's team sent individual performers to the NCAA regional meet, and it was the first time that the entire team didn't go to the NCAA regional championships.

FANS SHOULD BE AWARE that seats at the Arena for all home meets are free. It is an exciting sport that demands vocal support.

The Saluki swim teams are also highly regarded nationally. The men's team was fifth overall in the nation last year and is ranked 12th this year. The Gateway Conference championships are scheduled this weekend in Normal.

The men's swim team also excels nationally and will send several strong competitors for national honors to the NCAA meet in March, which Livengood hopes to include next fall, will concentrate on making University residence hall dwellers aware of campus sporting events through the use of rallies, banners and speakers.

Letters

High interest rates at SIU

I have recently noticed that, despite the fact interest rates have fallen to 12 to 14 percent on large banks, SIU continues to charge 18 percent or more on its accounts. I cannot believe that SIU, whose board of directors is headed by a federally paid student worker, cannot see to lower its rates to market levels.

Recently, credit card companies have come under fire for charging similar rates. Apparently, SIU wishes to be classified in the same category with MasterCard and Visa.

Wake up student leaders! Here is a real issue! — David Brayfield, Alumni

Zionists don't run country

America, beware. Don Smith says the Jews are running the country? What a ridiculous notion.

Smith is quick to attack the God of the Jews for "stealing" the land where Israel now sits.

Doonesbury

The background of both the anti-pornography and anti- abortion crusades has always been the Catholic hierarchy, its full-wearing, and the fundamentalists, Christians.

Their purpose in supporting these movements is to destroy human freedom and reduce the sexual revolution to an act solely for the purpose of reproduction. If they succeed, they will be on their way to establishing a theocratic tyranny where human minds will be controlled to suit the religious' prejudices.

The religious, in their crusade against pornography, have been joined by a vociferous group of anti-male feminists who seek to impose what must be called reverse sexism. It is tragic that these women would join hands with those who have been taught that women are inferior to men. It is even more tragic that, in order to oppress men, these feminists teach hatred of those women who refuse to become stereotyped in the image these anti-male feminists want.

Gender has always been difficult to define, varying in accordance with an individual's perspective. To some, Goya's nude portraits of the female body as art— to others, it is obscene. In a rare display of judicial ignorance, Supreme Court Justice Stewart Potter said that while he could not define obscenity, he knew what it was when he saw it. The ability to define what obscenity is led the Supreme Court to invoke "community standards" doctrine, which is both unfair and a danger to First Amendment rights. It allows a jury in one county to be charged with a felony for distributing or possessing something that, in another area, he or she might legally sell or buy on a supermarket or drug store shelf.

If we were applied to the political and religious segments of our society, it could result in the repression of unpopular political views, and the suppression of religious views.

Sweden is one of the world's most prolific producers of totally explicit, and sometimes artistic, pornography. Swedish television is more explicit than American TV, and Swedish teenagers become sexually active earlier than Americans.

Yet, Sweden's rate of teenage pregnancy is less than one third of ours, and their rates of murder and other crimes of violence are much lower than ours, despite the fact that the prison sentences in Sweden are much shorter than in America. The Swedes, also, have experienced Sweden's most socially progressive society, freeing its people from depravation.

Day-care location determines use

By Garry Trudeau

The GPSC Executive Board members who wrote the Thursday, Jan. 23 letter to the DE claimed that at Rainbow's End Day Care facility, "faculty and staff have top priority." I checked with the director of Rainbow's End by telephone and discovered that the longstanding and public policy of Rainbow's End has been to give first priority to students. Contrary to the GPSC Executive Board letter, students do have "top priority" at Rainbow's End. The reason there are less students than faculty and staff using the Rainbow's End facility.

Maybe America isn’t so bad

Response for Don Smith’s pro-Palestine, anti-America article

"The Palestinian people have been rubbed of their land by the lust of Europeans, so in blaming Jews for something that occurred in Germany, England, France and the Soviet Union, among others, are responsible for the situation." - This is a straw man fallacy.

"America charges freedom fighters with terrorism, when America knows that its fellow citizens in other countries are helping to terrorize innocent people down there." - It is important to note that the policies of Palestinian guerrillas differ from those of terrorists by their motives and goals. Palestinian guerrillas are fighting for the creation of an independent state, while terrorists are often driven by personal vendettas or political goals.

"Nazi rationale dangerous weapon" - The use of Nazi tactics in the Palestinian conflict is a concern. However, it is important to consider the context and the specific tactics used.

"This is also frightening that you make this sound as if America was the most internally troubled country on Earth. I think America is doing fine now and I’d rather be here in the USSR standing in line for hours for bread." - It is important to note that the United States is not without its own internal issues and challenges.

"I must reject your religious beliefs and your faith in America." - It is important to respect the beliefs and faith of others.

"Keep our English language!" - English has long been the "tie that binds" for the people of the United States. It has subreddit a nation out of what might have been a loose collection of feuding ethnic groups.

But today, the position of English as our common language is eroding rapidly. Immigrants are rejecting our time-honored custom of assimilation into our society in favor of maintaining their own separate languages and cultures. And our federal government is encouraging this trend by providing bilingual ballots, prolonged tests because, taken to their logical end, only more needless death and suffering can occur. I appeal to you to begin the process of learning this before the other so that ignorance can be eliminated. Write your state or national government for education and a better education in the language of your country and the English language. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

'American is never going to have peace..." - Keep America at peace. Keep America at peace.

gasoline dealers and suggested that the city impose an income tax and a business license tax to raise revenue.

Councilman Patrick Kelley said the city is legally unable to levy a city income tax and City Attorney Patricia McMeen added that the city is also unable to license businesses for the purpose of raising revenue.

James Prowell, representing the Cordendale Chamber of Commerce, said that there is "opposition within the chamber and within the business community to any tax increase."

"With each tax increase our competitive posture decreases and in turn, a major revenue source, sales tax decreases," Prowell said. "There is no other answer. What is needed is efficiency in government." USO City Affairs Commissioner David Madleiner asked the council if a portion of the city's fuel tax revenue could be utilized to help fund a mass transportation system for the city.

Mayor James Westberg said that it would be difficult for the city to earmark funds for a transportation system because "everything is so uncertain on a day-to-day basis." Dixon suggested that the city not appropriate funds from the tax for specific purposes.

The council is expected to vote on the proposed tax Feb. 17.

believed in the space program," the president said. "We owe it to them to conduct the debate so that future space travelers can approach the conquest of space with confidence." Killed in the explosion were Francis Scobee, Michael Smith, Judith Resnik, Ellison Onizuka, Ronald McNair, Gregory Jarvis and teacher Christa McAuliffe. Reports have participated in other accident investigations, said funding the precise cost of the Challenger disaster wasn't necessarily an easy job. NASA spokesman Sarah Keogan said three NASA ships were using robotic submarines to search the ocean floor an area 15 miles off the coast for 17 objects tracking radar and film showed plunged into sea after the shuttle disintegrated last Tuesday.

She said no shuttle objects had been identified on the sea bottom or recovered. Keegan said two objects that were spotted by sonar last week were found to be a helicopter and light airplane that apparently crashed long ago.

She said the NASA ships were no longer investigating those wrecks. Coast Guard Lt Cmdr. James Simpson said it was not known long those aircraft had been sunk and he said no investigation was planned.

The surface debris search was expanded to as far north as Charleston, S.C., after the fishing boat Billie B found a 3 and a half foot diameter gold cylinder 48 miles southeast of Charleston. Searchers reported finding other objects in the same area.

Graham refused to discuss whether any remains of the seven astronauts had been located or identified.

Gramm-Rudman to damage state budgets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most state governments, many that now enjoy budget surpluses, will be plunged into deficit spending under the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings budget-balancing law that goes into effect March 1, according to John L. Bailey, in all government programs if lawmakers fail to come up with new spending cuts to reduce the national deficit.

"The automatic cuts under Gramm-Rudman-Hollings will devastate the middle class and the poor, the old and the young, the residents of rural and urban areas alike," Bailey said. "They will affect people in all 42 regions of the country," said Ronald Pollock of the Villers Foundation, the nation's most populous state. Gramm-Rudman is "an instrument of fiscal policy which makes computers and bureaucrats the final arbiters of our future," he said.

Bilton said the cuts also would drastically reduce federal and state programs for the elderly such as Medicare, Social Security, the elderly, low-income energy assistance and Medicaid.

"The nation's most populous states will lose the most money under the law, which hits California and New York the hardest with cuts of more than $1 billion each.

Texas, Pennsylvania and Illinois would lose more than $600 million, and Ohio, Florida, Michigan each would lose more than $400 million, he said.

What would possess a woman to get up every morning and go to work with a .357 Magnum strapped to her waist and a 12-gauge shotgun in the car?

For LuAnne, Brown, a first-year patrol officer with the Carbondale police, the answer is easy.

"I’ve always been somewhat of a rogue,” she said with a dry wit that was to characterize the next few hours on patrol.

"Believe it or not, some of us are in this because we like to help people,” she said. "I don’t get a rush out of giving someone a ticket.”

CITIZENS Can see Brown, Muenter or many other Carbondale police officers at work through the community ride-along program, an arrangement that allows residents to ride along with a police officer for four hours to see their tax dollars at work.

Brown received a degree in elementary education from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and was a school teacher for a semester before she realized that teaching wasn’t for her. She then worked for the Carbondale police department for five years as a clerk and then as secretary for the Carbondale Police Chief Ed Bogan. It wasn’t until May 1986 that she became a full-fledged officer.

“My friends hear me telling stories and they think, ‘Wow, how exciting,’ but it’s really nothing new,” she said. Muenter is a 1986 graduate of SIU-C in social welfare. She worked as a bartender to put herself through school.

What better way to practice my social welfare skills she said with a grin.

Fear is an ever-present part of being a police officer.

“You have to be nuts not to be scared,” said Muenter. "You have to work through the scared.”

Brown said her biggest fear is making a mistake on the job. She says "little cats can turn into big ones really quick” and that police officers don’t always get the chance to recover from a mistake.

When push comes to shove on the street, Brown is confident in the training she has received, and says that women are as prepared for physical confrontations on the job as men.

“I mean I carry a nightstick, Mace and a gun, and I’ve seen my share of violence as a police officer. It’s a matter of being prepared and always being alert.”

Brown says that being a woman doesn’t make a difference in any situation; it’s the way people react that makes the difference.

By being a woman, Brown said that she doesn’t have to work through the same kinds of physical situations that police officers often face.

"I’ve been shot in the arm," she said. "I’ve been stuck with a .357 magnum, but I’ve never been shot in the leg.”

Brown said that she has never used the technique, but she almost had to during Halloween. She was in a scuffle with a partier and was about to use it when a couple of other officers assisted her.

When Brown isn’t working, she’s probably visiting friends and playing cards or partying. "Partying? A cop?"

Miss Southern Illinois, Kelly Dixon, junior in radio and television and native of Carbondale, is preparing to compete in the Miss America pageant, which will be in Atlantic City, N.J., Sept. 3.

Dixon, a pianist since the age of 8, said for the talent portion she plans to play a medley of George Gershwin’s original improvisations and has been practicing every day in order to perform a “piece that is perfect.”

“I WANT to be confident enough to play with my eyes closed if necessary,” she said. She has also been reading a book written by a former Miss America on how to win a pageant. It includes a “PR technique for yourself.”

Dixon also said, “If you consider yourself attractive, hang around with those girls who aren’t so attractive, so you can stand out. If everyone else is wearing shoes and real casual wear, be a little more dressy. And don’t be so over-confident. Separate chapters are devoted to how to talk, sit, laugh, and receive applause, she said.

DIXON SAID she trusts the guidance provided by Dorothy Chamness, Miss Illinois pageant coordinator and director. Chamness is “tough in the sense that if she’s with another point of view, and they give a girl 85 or 90, she may give them 65 or 70 simply because in her eyes, she’s looking for the girl-rounded, and she may be strong in talent, but maybe not physically beautiful or very attractive. “You can take a real homely girl, make her look like Miss America, but if she’s not personable within and confident, she’s going to turn the judges off,” she said.

DIXON ALSO advised, “go for it anyway,” to women interested in entering pageants who may believe that they don’t have the looks considered essential by the judges. Dixon said talent will count for 50 percent of the pageant. She added that “I’ve lumped up on stage takes a lot of guts.”

Chamness said “we hardly know them (the contestants) after they have received professional beauty advice and grooming. ‘We haven’t had to do that with Kelly though,” she said.

DIXON SAID she is preparing for the Miss Illinois pageant by receiving help from beauty counselors and a personal aerobic instructor.

Dillon said she would like to someday host a television talk show dealing with consumer affairs. In the near future, her goal is to work in a small-market television or radio station and get more experience. “If that means staying in the area, that means staying in the area. But, it’s just a job. She added that she is a hinderance to be attractive because, “I believe that you win on the inside and the pageant is to promote Southern Illinoisians, an area of much criticism that Dixon said she has had to negate her entire life. “The biggest jump for me as far as getting other Illinoisans to understand how Southern Illinoisans are was when I won the state championship in speech. I believe I was the only one from Southern Illinois to win that title. I was proud for Southern Illinois and proud for myself, because a lot of people from the north think that we hang out in the cornfields.”

Dixon said she has had to “very carefully” schedule 13 classes, have 8 lab classes and stay in the area, that means staying in the area.

“THE ONE thing I’ve never had is that I really have a good chance of winning really excites me, but then again, it’s not just going to come to me without me having to work for it,” she said.

“Sometimes you meet different people and, first of all, they don’t believe that you won Southern Illinois, let alone are considered to be Miss Illinois,” she said. “Talking to the other types of people makes me try even harder.”

OPEC halts talks, oil prices drop

VIENNA (UPI) — OPEC canceled its third summit because it might have suggested the 13-nation oil cartel was ready to end its oil pricing war with independent producers.

The cancellation was disclosed as five OPEC oil ministers met to define OPEC's role in a world oil market amid signs the cartel's campaign against non-OPEC members is escalating.

Oil prices plunged on world markets Monday on fears of an all-out price crash.

A ministerial source said the full OPEC meeting, which was to have been held Thursday in Geneva by Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, was scrapped because it might have sent the "wrong signal" to Britain, Norway and other non-OPEC producers.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, led by Saudi Arabia, has been flooding the already glutted world market with surplus oil to force non-OPEC members to prop up prices by reducing output.

"We are ready to continue to produce for another six months until the non-OPEC members come around," the source said. "There is a strong determination to go ahead to secure a higher market share."

The five oil ministers agreed to form an OPEC Committee for Tariffs and Imports, led by Dr. Al-Husseini of Indonesia, Qassim Taki Al-Orabi of Iraq, Ali Khalifa AlSabah of Kuwait and Majid Al-Sulaimani of the United Arab Emirates — arrived at OPEC headquarters at mid-afternoon for the committee meeting, which was expected to last at least two days.

OPEC established the special ways and means committee last December in Geneva.

Saed Otaby of the United Arab Emirates — arrived at OPEC headquarters at mid-afternoon for the committee meeting, which was expected to last at least two days.

McAndrew in need of new track, say coaches, runners

By Martin Polan  Staff Writer

A new track is needed at McAndrew Stadium, according to the unanimous opinion of track coaches and team members, Jim Livengood, men's athletics director, and Duane Schroeder, site planner at the physical plant.

Laid in at McAndrew Stadium four and a half years ago, the rubberized asphalt track wasn't expected to last very long, said Schroeder.

When the track was converted to metric in 1981, a rubberized surface was overlaid on the original cinder track.

The "cosmetic overlay" was expensive, composed of 60 percent rubberized material, said Schroeder.

"It wasn't an expensive system," he said. "We wanted to make the track usable for the time." Throughout its' useable time, hundreds of athletes have treaded their spikes across it and shovels have scraped across the surface to remove snow and ice.

"The track is badly deteriorated," said Don DeNoon, coach of the women's track team. "The chemistry of the material has been weakened."

A walk around the quarter-mile track shows cracks, surface bulges and deep impressions, faded lane markings and areas where spikes have torn the surface. "It's really hard on the athletes' legs," said Bill Cornell, men's track coach. "It's possibly the worst track in the state."

Lame one is heavily grooved, said DeNoon. "If you get out of the groove, to the left or right, you're running on a slant, which makes it difficult to keep your balance."

Training and competing under poor conditions has led to an increase in the number of injuries.

"We've had a large share of nagging injuries, shin splints, lower back injuries and stress fractures," said DeNoon.

Running on the track is like running on the road, which leads to injuries, said Cornell.

Kathy Raske, SIU women's hurdle, says running on the track is dangerous, but is something runners have to put up with. "It's very hard and it's given us many runners shin splints," said Raske. Gateway Collegiate Athletic Conference's third place 100 meter hurler last season. "I have shin splints now."

In addition to injuries, poor conditions have inabled meets from being scheduled at home and has weakened runners' performances.

A runner's concentration cannot always be fully devoted to winning an event because attention must also be given to where the runner is stepping, said Raske. "You have to put up with it though," she said, before speaking the sports cliché, "Otherwise it's no glory..."

None of the eight men's and women's track teams invited to last year's SIU Invite put up with the poor conditions, however. Because of a drainage backup, the track flooded and the meet was cancelled.

Schools lost money because they are tied to Carbondale only to learn that the meet had to be cancelled, DeNoon said.

But many teams are looking to go somewhere new to compete, he said, so the chances to schedule meets at McAndrew aren't entirely defeated by the track's conditions.

"Another thing selling here is that we have an outstanding team to compete against," he said.

Despite unfavorable track conditions, DeNoon believes it's "too dangerous to run.

Improving track conditions means more than patching up the cracks and smoothing out the surface, Livengood said. "Some sort of resurfacing has to take place," he said. "I think the thing we have to do now is determine the most prudent way to go."

An overall study is being made on the type of surface, cost to be incurred and has been made. For the safety and satisfaction of everyone, we need to consider building a new track facility away from McAndrew Stadium and kitten corner to Abe Martin baseball diamond.

"It's too dangerous to practice near the football stadium," he said, concerned with safety of the runners during football team practices.

SIU gymnasts travel to face Indiana State

The undefeated Saluki men's gymnastics team will travel to Terre Haute, Ind., Tuesday night for a meet with the Sycamores of Indiana State University.

Coming off a come-from-behind, upset victory over No. 1 Iowa, the Salukis are 4-0 on the year, including wins over defending national champion Ohio State, Northern Illinois and Central Michigan, and the University of Illinois at Chicago.

Although coach Bill Meade was happy with the victory over Iowa, he feels the team could perform a little better on the road.

"We'll be trying for a good score away from home, where it's a little harder to get a really good score," Meade said.

According to Meade, the 4th-ranked Salukis will probably move up in the rankings with the win over Iowa.
Off season doesn’t allow spiker coach time to rest

Even though Saluki volleyball coach Debbie Hunter will have to wait for September to start the 1986 season, she has plenty to keep her busy until that time.

Hunter said the next few months will be filled with practice sessions, meetings and the pursuit of recruits.

Hunter, who will have all but three members of last season’s 26-11 squad returning, said nine possible recruits have already visited campus with four more recruits scheduled to visit between now and the signing period two month Februrary 12.

“We’re looking for players who will add to our depth,” Hunter said.

“Prior, I’m very pleased with the people who have expressed an interest in us. We’ve got a good chance to have a really outstanding recruiting year,” Hunter said.

Even though Hunter feels “a couple” of the recruits are fairly secure, she is being cautious because “so much can happen in two weeks.”

According to Hunter, the team is now working on in a “slow-down training perspective.”

“We’d slow things down a bit at the start, break things down and work on technical habits,” Hunter said. “We’re working in the weight room for strength and we’re running to build up stamina and endurance.”

Hunter said the team would change training methods as the season gets closer – running and weights will be geared towards speed instead of strength and stamina.

The team will put their developing skills together come spring to compete in the United States Volleyball Association open season, a season which allows collegiate-level teams to compete against other local open season teams.

As well as keeping the team in shape and preparing for next year, Hunter will spend some of her time organizing try-outs for all divisions of volleyball competition at this year’s Far West Games.

Hunter said try-outs for open division men’s and women’s teams as well as boy’s and girls’ scholastic divisions will be held on campus sometime during June. The Games will be held in July in Champaign, Ill.

Besides helping plan the Games, Hunter hopes to have some of her athletes on the Region 8 (southern) team. The Region 8 women’s open division team has won a gold and a silver medal in the two years the games have been held.

Hall of Fame taps Bryant

NEW YORK [AP] — Bear Bryant, winner of 326 games in almost 60 years as a head coach, was a unanimous choice Monday for the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame.

Bryant died in 1983, 37 days after retiring as coach at Alabama, where he had been an institution since 1958.

Starting his head coaching career at Maryland in 1945, Bryant also coached at Kentucky and Texas A&M before moving on to Alabama. He compiled a career record of 326-196-7.

Bryant surpassed Amos Alonzo Stagg’s record of 315 victories for a college football coach, but his mark since has been broken by Eddie Robinson of Grambling.

Bryant will be inducted into the Hall during an Alabama home game next fall in Tuscaloosa.

During his reign at Alabama, Bryant’s teams won 222 games, lost 46 and tied nine.

Among the players developed by Bryant were Joe Namath, Lee Roy Jordan, Babe Parrilli, John David Crow, Jack Pardee, George Blanda, Ken Stabler, Steve Sloan, Scott Hunter, Richard Todd, Jack Rauledge, Johnny Musso, Orzie Newsome and John Hannah.

Assistant coach puts in the miles

By Ron Warnick
Staff Writer

Saluki assistant basketball coach Steve Carroll is enjoying a busy season. He's on a long recruiting trip, trying to sell a signed严格按照 his workplan around his desk.

It is a familiar task for him as he begins to organize between his recruiting travels to Chicago and St. Louis in search of that elusive big piece to fit the puzzle in the exact slot.

"We get a couple, we'll be a pretty respectable basketball team next year," Carroll said.

Saluki 20,000 miles of driving since June may pay off for Carroll, and the Salukis, on the April 9 national letter-of-intent signing date. That day the when Salukis could sign get some good talent players from St. Louis, Louisville, Ky., and the all-important home state of Illinois, which is a familiar territory to Carroll.

"We haven't made a real effort before to get some of the boys back from Chicago in eight years. It's an untapped source of talent, and we've made a lot of inroads up there. It's very critical in our program in the future," he said.

Though he probably a few recruits would have been learned from his days as a graduate assistant at the University of Illinois, Carroll tries to use some Salukis this year to woo recruits to play for the Salukis.

"If I send just a little note of three sentences, it can make somebody's day. It's the personal touch we really need to sell for SIU," Brechtelsbauer said.

"It's so crucial to have it with the people we come in contact with — the athletic department, coaches, the Saluki program, as well as the recruits," he said.

Even if everything goes well, Carroll is still well aware of the recruiting road ahead. He will recruit to another university.

"You need a couple of breaks, but you really need hard work. I believe good things happen to good people, and hopefully, this will be the case," he said.

For a young man like Carroll, he admits the recruiting road is physically demanding and creates a nonexistent home life.

"The hardest thing is keeping things in perspective to keep from going AWOL, even if you do need a little rest," Carroll said.

"It's tough to come home and the first thing you face is laundry and bills. The other night, I did six loads of laundry. There's times I wish I was married, but right now it's best I'm not," Carroll said.

Fortunately, Carroll hasn't had any "accidents at the wheel." You've hit the shoulder three or four times, but I have been lucky, Carroll said. Pull over for a stretch, fresh air and some hot tea. "I've tried Coke and Pepsi-Cola to stay awake, but tea works best," he said.

But the effort will be worth it when he gets that big piece of talent that will turn the Saluki program around, in Carroll's eyes.

"The fan support has been tremendous. It could be a turning point in our program, it could be a negative into a positive with a losing record." Carroll said.

According to the 19th-year coach, the team is working on hitting two days a week and basic team skills three days a week under the weather-protective roof of Davies Gymnasium.

"We like to get outside when we can," Brechtelsbauer said, adding that it was difficult to expect much out of the unpredictable now-you-see-em, now- it's-raining, Southern Illinois weather.

Being limited by putting limitations on the extent of how much certain positions can practice, Brechtelsbauer said.

"For example, the pitchers are working very hard but won't be able to throw off of a mound until we get outside," Brechtelsbauer said. "They won't be able to push and drive off the mound like they can outside."

Brechtelsbauer added that hitting off a batting machine instead of a gym wall isn't quite the same as having pitching.

"We've got some people back from break really hitting the ball well, but again, being able to get outside will really help us out."

When workouts began shortly after the resumption of the spring semester, it marked the first time Brechtelsbauer had seen all her 1986 squad together at the same place and time. Three athletes that did not compete during the fall softball season are now back with the team, making the roster complete.

With only two seniors gone from last year's 24-18 record, the Salukis will be returning a host of starters, including pitchers Kelly Powell and Lisa Peterson, outfielders Becky Bickel and Rhonda Snow and shortstop Jenny Shugry.

The Salukis went 6-3 during the fall season, which gave Brechtelsbauer a chance to evaluate her talent for the real season in the spring. Highlighting the softball season were a weekend four-game sweep by a 3-1 pitching performance by highly-outfielded Lori Day and some timely hitting by junior catcher transfer Kelly Fox, a catcher-first baseman.

Cubs hire Williams and Piersall as coaches

By Steve Merritt
Sports Editor

The fresh breezes of spring aren't blowing through Carbondale just yet, but that doesn't stop Saluki softball coach Ray Brechtelsbauer from gerrng up for the upcoming season.

"We are making progress," Brechtelsbauer said of her squad of eight players.

"You ask about it, the month off was a factor," Brechtelsbauer said. "It was a little rusty but we improve every day."

Williams, 47, ranks among the Cubs' all-time leaders and this year fell four wins short of joining Baseball Hall of Fame. He will serve as the Cubs' batting instructor.

Piersall, who was kicked out of the Chicago White Sox in 1965 because of his "vivacious" attacks on management, will serve as the Cubs' major and minor leagues teams.

Williams, who also served as a Cubs' hitting instructor from 1978 through 79, has been named Manager Jim Frey also indicated he was "excited" about working with both Piersall and Williams, the spokesman said.

Piersall, who launched his own radio talk show after leaving the White Sox following his three-year stint in the broadcast booth with colleagues Harary Caray, played in the major leagues 17 years, compiling a remarkable .297 fielding percentage.

Williams, who is among the all-time Cub legends, played for the National League club for 16 years before joining the Oakland A's in 1973.

An outfielder, Williams compiled a .267 lifetime batting average with 418 home runs, 434 doubles and 1,475 RBI. He had 23 hits during the 1970 campaign.
