Library breaks fire codes — Chief

By Lisa Warns
Staff Writer

Morris Library is violating state fire codes by having boxes of books stacked in its corridors, Carbondale Fire Department officials said Tuesday.

The boxes are scheduled to be moved to the McLafferty Road library storage facility starting April 11, Joseph A. Starratt, associate director of Morris Library, said.

But Fire Chief Everett Rushing said the boxes must be moved out of the hallways and away from doorways and exits before then. Combustible materials cannot be stacked in corridors of public buildings, he said.

Kenneth G. Peterson, dean of library affairs, said he had not been notified by the fire department or the University Safety Office about the violation.

More than 3,500 cardboard boxes have been stacked along hallways, under tables and in the aisles of Morris Library and the Blue Barracks near Brush Towers.

The McLafferty Road storage facility is needed because Morris Library no longer has room for journals, periodicals and rarely used archival materials.

Starratt said he hasn't been told to move the boxes.

"We haven't been told to move anything. We will move (the boxes) if we are told (to move them)," he said.

City Fire Inspector Kerry Jones said he visited Morris

Library Monday night to check whether the building was in violation of the fire codes.

Rushing said he notified the Safety Office of the violation Tuesday. Safety Officer John Hicks said he talked to Roland Person, associate director of Library Services, who said the boxes would be moved "as soon as possible."

The boxes were supposed to be moved Monday. However, the removal was delayed

Alumni support tax hike

By Ed Rahe
Staff Writer

Representatives of alumni associations from 11 Illinois public universities took part in a six-city "fly around" Tuesday to announce their support of a personal income tax increase for education.

At a news conference at the Southern Illinois Airport, Richard N. Small, president-elect of the SIU Alumni Association said, he was deeply distressed that SIU-C and other state universities face another year without an increase in funding by the Illinois General Assembly.

The 4.5 percent decrease in state education funding has caused many new programs to be abandoned. Other programs were hurt because

Administrators scrutinize BAS

By Antoinette Hayes
Staff Writer

University administrators say they are "taking a good, hard look" at students' demands that the University revitalize its Black American Studies program.

Although they have not received a copy of three proposals put forward by students in a protest Monday, administrators say they are aware of the students' wishes.

President John C. Guyon said he is awaiting the results of a University task force, being formed on BAS by College of Human Resources Dean Seymour Bryson, before he comments on the proposals formulated by the Black American Studies Association.

He said that neither he nor any administrator can unilaterally add or remove any courses from the general education curriculum. "I can't insert courses," Guyon said, "and people in BAS know this."

He said the two general BAS courses were removed in 1985 by the General Education Curriculum Council, a group that no longer exists.

The Undergraduate Education Policy Committee, a group of faculty members, can reinstate the courses if the committee feels the courses are important and they are in demand, Guyon said.

The Red Cross is alarmed by the low turn out for its blood drive at the Student Center ballrooms.

"It's unlike SIU," Vivian Ugent, coordinator of the blood drive said. "It not only hurts the people who need blood on a regular basis, but it hurts the University's leadership role across the country."

The blood drive's theme is "Friends Helping Friends." The campaign is to encourage people to bring friends to the blood drive.

The drive's goal was set at 2,500 pints of blood. Monday's

Hijackers nab Kuwaiti jet, go to Iran

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Arabic-speaking hijackers seized a Kuwait Airways jumbo jet Tuesday and diverted it to Iran, demanding the release of 17 prisoners in Kuwait in exchange for at least 111 people on the plane, including three members of the Kuwaiti royal family, Iran and Kuwait said.

The hijackers commandeered Airways Flight KU422 during a non-stop trip from Bangkok to Kuwait, forcing it to land in the northeastern city of Mashad and threatening to blow it up if "any person should attempt to approach her," Iranian news reports said.

Iran's Islamic Republic News Agency said the hijackers later released a passenger who had heart trouble. IRNA said the man, Rafiq Mustafa Issa, 42, of Jordan, reported seeing five to six hijackers armed with hand grenades and pistols aboard the Boeing 747.

Issa said the hijackers had tied the passengers' hands and forced them to the rear of the aircraft, but otherwise "behaved kindly and sincerely and gave the passengers food and water when they asked for it," Tehran radio reported.

The radio, monitored in Athens, said the hijackers demanded freedom for 17 people imprisoned in Kuwait for the Dec. 12, 1983, bombings of the U.S. and French embassies and other sites in Kuwait.

The demand was the same as one made during the last hijacking of a Kuwait Airways plane. Members of a Shiite Moslem group seized a Kuwait Airways A-300 Airbus Dec. 4, 1984, and hijacked it to Tehran, demanding the release of 17 prisoners in Kuwaiti jails in exchange for the 166 passengers. Two American passengers were killed before the incident ended six days later when Iranian police freed the last nine hostages.

The director of the state-owned Kuwaiti News Agency said in an interview with CNN television that Kuwait "will never accept" the hijackers' demands for the release of the 17 prisoners.

Contras delay peace talks, refuse accommodations

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — Government plans to wrap up technical talks on a cease-fire were rattled Tuesday when Contra rebel leaders arrived late for the negotiations and demanded greater freedom of movement while in the capital. The Contras announced that they had rejected a hotel assigned them by the Sandinistas for later high-level talks in Managua and would move downtown for better access to opposition figures.

U.S., Philippines begin negotiations for bases

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Talks on the future of U.S. military bases in the Philippines opened Tuesday with the head of the American delegation insisting increased Soviet activity in the region posed a "clear threat" to the country. Delegations led by U.S. Ambassador to the Philippines Nicholas Platt and Philippine Foreign Secretary Raul Manglapus opened what appeared to be a long and difficult review of the 1947 treaty covering the United States' largest and oldest overseas installations.

Shultz: U.S. can't force Israeli concessions

DAMASCUS, Syria (UPI) — Secretary of State George Shultz, following meetings with Arab leaders Tuesday, said the United States cannot force Israel to make concessions or accept demands regarding its occupied territories. Shultz held talks with Jordan's King Hussein in Amman and Syrian President Hafez Assad in Damascus to explain and seek support for his Middle East peace plan, his third trip in six weeks to the Middle East to push the proposal.

Spanish court convicts American in drug deal

BARCELONA, Spain (UPI) — A Barcelona court sentenced an American photographer to six years in prison Tuesday on cocaine trafficking charges, apparently discounting U.S. legal evidence that he was duped into smuggling drugs into the country, his family said. Conan David Owen, 23, of the Washington suburb of Annandale, Va., was found guilty of bringing cocaine valued at about $200,000 to Barcelona in the false bottom of a suitcase in March 1987.

Meese attempting to fill key Justice vacancies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Edwin Meese announced Tuesday he selected two men to fill key jobs at the Justice Department left vacant by abrupt resignations, including a new deputy and an associate attorney general. At a news conference at the department headquarters, Meese said John Shepherd, former president of the American Bar Association, would be recommended to President Reagan for nomination as deputy attorney general.

$48 million heading to Contras, official says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first humanitarian help from a nearly $48 million aid bill could reach Contra forces outside Nicaragua this week, the head of the Agency for International Development said Tuesday. At a briefing on the agency's crash program to get non-lethal assistance to the anti-Sandinista rebels and to children injured in the long-running civil war, Alan Woods also said airdrops to troops in an as yet unestablished cease-fire zone would require Nicaraguan cooperation.

Arizona's first woman governor takes office

PHOENIX (UPI) — Democrat Rose Mofford was sworn in Tuesday as Arizona's first woman governor while Evan Mecham, the state's first chief executive removed by impeachment, met with advisers to contemplate his future amid confusion over a scheduled recall election. The Arizona Senate removed Mecham from office Monday by convicting him of impeachment charges he obstructed justice and misused state funds for personal gain.

U.S. envoy plans trip to explain Contra aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Central American envoy Morris Busby leaves Wednesday for consultations in the region on the Central American peace process, and to explain the U.S. Contra aid package, a State Department spokeswoman said Tuesday. Phyllis Oakley said Busby will meet with leaders of the four democracies in the region "to continue his consultations about the peace process" and to brief them on the nearly $48 million aid package recently approved by Congress and signed by the president.

Candidate wants students active with campus issues, decisions

By Susan Curtiss
Staff Writer

Cindy Schnaitmann wants students to have a voice in how their money is spent.

Schnaitmann, 21, a senior in consumer economics and family management, is the Stand Party candidate for president of the Undergraduate Student Organization.

Schnaitmann and vice presidential running mate Stephanie Bedinger were elected by the party Thursday to run for the offices.

The party also voted on a platform, which is divided into the following categories:

Student service aims:

—Re-establishing the book co-op, where students sell books back to other students as an alternative to selling them to bookstores.

The co-op saves students money, Schnaitmann said.

—Eliminating book theft through book identification.

—Extending the hours the bursar's office is open.

Student rights planks include:

—Extending access to the informational tables in the Student Center. Groups other than registered student organizations should be allowed to set up a table, petition or distribute leaflets in the Student Center, Schnaitmann said.

—Establishing a public interest research group on campus that would be funded by students. Both the USO and the Graduate and Professional Student Council have passed resolutions supporting the group and over 10,000 students have signed petitions.

Student safety goals:

—Increasing student awareness of the sexual harassment policy. The current policy is intimidating and keeps people from fighting for their rights, Schnaitmann said. Faculty should be required to inform students of the policy and their rights concerning sexual harassment at the beginning of the semester, she said.

Academic goals:

—Making Morris Library a funding priority.

"It's ridiculous that we have to have a fundraiser to get books for the library," Schnaitmann said. "This is a university. We shouldn't have to beg for books."

—Maintaining diversity in general education course offerings. This would include offering courses such as Black American Studies in general education, she said.

Student government reforms:

—Publishing USO agendas in the Daily Egyptian.

—Setting up a table in the Student Center on meeting days so senators can answer questions and students can voice concerns.

—Designating USO classroom representatives to inform students more effectively about what is going on and give them a better chance to express their views.

—Having more polling places in convenient locations. This would make the election more democratic and students would be more likely to vote, Schnaitmann said. It would be physically impossible for even half the student body to vote in one polling place, she said.

—Including USO programs in freshman orientation so students will be informed about student government.

"We want to take student government to the students," Schnaitmann said.

Other issues:

—Guaranteeing fair distribution of fee money to registered student organizations.

—Educating of high school students about SIU-C.

—Installing private telephone lines in dorms.

—Informing international students where and how to obtain Illinois identification cards.

"We work for the students, not the administration, and you won't catch us playing golf on Sunday," Schnaitmann said.

University professor to plead innocent of receiving child porn

By John Mohler
Staff Writer

A University professor is expected to plead innocent to charges he received sexually explicit pictures of minors through the mail at a 10:30 a.m. arraignment today in Benton.

"I am innocent of the charges," David F. Duncan, a University health instructor, said Tuesday.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Clifford Proud said Duncan will surrender to authorities prior to the arraignment to comply with an arrest warrant.

Proud said "two-thirds of the people we indict surrender themselves and are arraigned."

Bond and a timetable for pre-trial motions will be set at the proceeding before U.S. Magistrate Philip E. Frazier, Proud said.

The charge was brought by a federal grand jury Thursday following an investigation by the U.S. Customs Service.

Duncan has said he requested materials for his research of European sexual behavior from a mail-order firm in Canada but received the illegal photographs instead.

He said authorities who searched his residence shortly after he received the illegal materials found them in his bathroom garbage.

Proud would not comment on details of the investigation.

Duncan has been a member of the University faculty since 1978. He received an Outstanding Faculty Member award from the College of Education in 1986 and is the Illinois vice president of the American Federation of Police, an educational program related to law enforcement.

College presents forum on collective bargaining

A forum on collective bargaining will be held at 7 tonight in the Hiram Lesar Law School Auditorium.

The forum will include Thomas Britton, a representative from the chancellor's office; Gola Waters, a member of the campus group opposed to collective bargaining; Gary Kolb, a representative from the Illinois Education Association; and Herbert Donow, a representative from University Professionals.

UP, the local chapter of the Illinois Federation of Teachers, and the Illinois Education Association, are the two unions vying to represent University employees should they decide to unionize.

Each speaker will present his views on collective bargaining, then questions from the audience will be heard. The forum is free.

The forum is sponsored by the Emeritus College. They will hold a forum in May on state tax increases, presenting both sides of the issue.

Post-rape aid up, could get better

ONLY TWO RAPES were reported to the SIU-C Security Police in 1987, but 18 SIU-C-related rapes were reported to the Rape Action Committee in the same year.

The 18 cases either occurred on campus, involved an SIU-C student, or both, Juli Claussen, coordinator of the RAC, said. Some of the 18 rapes undoubtedly were handled by the Carbondale Police, but it has been estimated that for every reported rape as many as 10 rapes go unreported. This means that it is possible quite a few more than 18 SIU-C-related rapes occurred in 1987.

Considering the seriousness of the crime, it might seem strange that so few victims report rapes. But the process of reporting sexual assault to the police and the ensuing investigation has a reputation of being very demeaning to victims. In many cases, victims have been treated as if they should be ashamed that they were raped — as if they were partially to blame.

BUT LOCAL RAPE victims need not worry about being treated poorly if they go to most police forces in the area. Cass Vandermeer of the RAC said the Carbondale Police have made great strides in the past few years in working with the RAC to help rape victims. The Carbondale Police refer all rape reports to the RAC for counseling of the victims and other help.

Although the city police seem to be intent on making the process of reporting a rape less painful for the victim, the SIU-C Security Police lag behind in this respect. For at least the last two years, SIU-C police have not taken advantage of training offered by the RAC in dealing with rape victims. In addition, the SIU-C police do not refer all rape reports to the RAC. The campus police force is the only one in Jackson County that does not automatically refer all rape cases to the RAC.

THIS LEADS ONE to wonder why the SIU-C police would fail to refer some reported rapes to the RAC. The RAC exists to help victims deal with rape and assist police by explaining the legal process of rape investigations to the victim. There is no reason to withhold any rape report from the RAC. The question arises: Do the SIU-C police not want to investigate some alleged rapes and would they rather let the cases die without undergoing any public scrutiny? If this is the case, then it is entirely unacceptable.

There also have been reports of an incident within the past few years in which a woman reported a rape to the SIU-C police, only to be raked over the coals and demeaned by an officer in a personal interview. This is not to say that all SIU-C police officers are prone to treat victims badly, but it has been known to happen. This type of sexist, denigrating behavior — no matter how rare it is — must stop.

IN ANY CASE, victims must realize that great progress has been made in dealing with rape victims and that being raped is not something to be ashamed of. In addition, the SIU-C Security Police should begin working more closely with the RAC and be more sensitive to the feelings and insecurities of rape victims.

If you have been sexually assaulted and want to talk about it with someone experienced in dealing with rape victims, call the 24-hour RAC hotline at 529-2324.

'Brother Jimmy' tries comeback

Jimmy Swaggart, the TV evangelist with a roving eye for lewd women, says he's going to return to preaching in a few weeks despite what his church elders say.

They want him to hush up for at least a year and spend two years being counseled about straying from the path of righteousness. As you recall, he strayed all the way to those seedy motels.

But Swaggart has decided that a year or two is too long for his flock to be deprived of his spiritual guidance. So he's going to get back to the pulpit in May.

And I don't blame him. Why should he be singled out for sterner punishment than is meted out to others in his line of work?

We've read of dozens of show-business people — rock stars, actors, actresses, comedians, movie producers and others — who have been busted for sniffing and smoking illegal herbs and spices. As quickly as they make bond, they are back on stage or screen earning their big bucks.

We've lost count of the number of star athletes who have done the same. They snort white powder, miss a game or two, spend a few weeks in a rehab resort, and return to their teams as soon as their eyes become uncrossed.

Sometimes it is more than dope. Now and then we read of a football star forcing his masculine charms on some helpless female in the basement of a bar. He is arrested and stands trial.

But is that enough to get him barred from earning a living for one or two years?

Of course not. Just as soon as his lawyer can settle with the female, he's back on the field.

The fans aren't offended. They sometimes welcome the wayward jocks with standing ovations.

Mike Royko

Tribune Media Services

So why shouldn't Swaggart be allowed to go back to work?

What's that you say? He's not a rock star or an athlete? He is a preacher, a man of the cloth, so he should be held to different standards?

Nonsense. Rock stars are in show biz. Professional athletes are in show biz. And Jimmy Swaggart, preacher though he be, is in show biz.

Swaggart is peddling salvation, with a little bit of religious bigotry and intolerance thrown in.

And he knows that being benched for a year or two, while some shrink asks him when he first developed a craving for dirty pictures, is going to cost him millions.

Why, even before he made his decision to return in May, he was hustling his faithful followers for whatever they could spare.

He sent out a mass mailing that included these poignant lines:

"For some time Frances and I have worked until the point of total exhaustion, and in the midst of this Satan was trying to destroy me with a terrible problem."

He didn't elaborate on what Satan made him do, but I assume it was his habit of putting on a jogging suit and taking hookers to a motel. That Satan, he gets such kinky ideas.

He went on: "Oh, the days and nights spent in prayer, the tears shed, the days of fasting."

Not to mention, of course, the dread that the motel keeper might not be fooled by the sunglasses and recognize him.

"However, I think most of you know that from the very moment this tragedy began, even though I have suffered humiliation and shame as possibly no human being on the face of the earth has ever suffered, I have done the right thing — and that is what I want to emphasize."

"When I stood before the whole world and repented, that was the right thing to do."

It was also the smartest thing to do. It made for great show biz. He blubbered. His kid blubbered. The audience blubbered. I haven't seen that much effective sobbing since actress Jane Wyman was in her weepy prime.

After blaming the devil for what he did, rather than his own horny tendencies, he said:

"I have sought direction from God as I have never sought it before and He has told me in the very depths of my being, 'Feed My Sheep.'"

Does that mean that Swaggart is going to do penance by working on a sheep farm?

No, he explains: "Now I need your help. I need your hand. I need your heart. I need your prayers."

And besides that, he needs your greenbacks. And at the end of the letter is the pitch.

"Yes, Brother Swaggart, you can count on my support. Enclosed is my gift of $_____."

So I say that Swaggart shouldn't be treated differently than any of our other show-biz figures who have their little bucks. Let him make his bucks. If the Lord didn't believe in free enterprise, he wouldn't have given us computerized mailing lists.

Classmates pray for missing newlyweds

CHICAGO (UPI) — College classmates of two newlyweds missing for four days offered special prayers Tuesday for their safe return as police pursued tips from the public and implored the couple to call their families.

Scott Swanson, 23, of Elgin, and Carolyn MacLean, 21, of Haddonfield, N.J., were to have spent Easter weekend with Swanson's family, but they never arrived as expected Saturday. That evening, Swanson's father, Roger, received a call from Chicago police that MacLean's red BMW had been found in a downtown alley with the engine running and the glove box apparently rifled.

On Monday, some 250 friends, relatives and classmates from suburban Wheaton College fanned out across the city's downtown area to distribute handbills bearing pictures of the couple, who authorities learned had been secretly married on March 26 in Wisconsin.

Many of Monday's searchers were among about 2,200 students who offered special prayers for the couple during the day's regular service at the exclusive Christian school.

Chaplain Vic Gordon urged people at the assembly to have "loving and forgiving hearts," said Leah Oster, 21, a senior. Students were told not judge MacLean and Swanson.

"A lot of people are feeling kind of used," she said. "I wish they would have called someone. Although you think you're old enough to be on your own, you should always keep in touch."

Investigators maintain Swanson and MacLean are still in the metropolitan area, based on a reported sighting of the couple early Monday on the Northwest side. A service station manager told police he spotted the couple, who appeared drunk when they entered his station about 2 a.m. Monday as they left a nearby tavern.

"I'm hoping it's true because that means they are alive," said Cheryl Vickson, 21, another student. "I can't believe that they wouldn't let someone know so we wouldn't worry. May they're just not aware."

Relatives said MacLean and Swanson had planned to stop in Chicago on their way from Flint, Mich., where they had visited MacLean's grandmother, to Elgin, 45 miles northwest of Chicago.

Moving the boxes is expected to take about a month to six weeks. Allen Haake, Physical Plant supervising engineer, said the Physical Plant has "semi-definite" plans for the project.

Physical Plant employees, library staff and student workers will help move more than 50,000 volumes.

No complaints have been received by the library staff.

"The students have asked when the boxes will be moved but have not complained," Wilma Lampman, assistant undergraduate librarian, said. "Our students are very considerate."

fairs, said the proposal to reinstate the two general BAS courses "is not an unreasonable proposal."

But he echoed Guyon's statements, saying that only the Undergraduate Education Policy Committee can reinstate the courses. Shepherd also said he could not comment more specifically on the proposals because he has not been contacted by anyone from BASA with the proposals.

Harvey Welch, vice president for student affairs, said he has not reviewed the proposals in full. He said he is confident the courses will be reinstated if correct procedures are followed.

"We need the courses to teach all people" about black Americans, Welch said, adding he will "support activities to get the amount of faculty that is needed to teach the courses."

faculty, staff and student work positions went unfilled, Small said.

"The student-help position was one of the things that got me through school here in the 1950s and we certainly need to keep that type of thing going," he said.

Small said the lack of a faculty salary increases has put a strain on faculty morale. Faculty positions must be filled and retained in order to maintain quality education in the state, he said.

"Two years in a row of no increase in budgeting would cause SIU's salary levels to slip back and make it difficult to catch up," Small said.

Small also said that a tax increase is necessary to cover inflation.

"Illinois is not a poor state. We're in the top 10 percent in equality, but we're in the bottom with West Virginia in funding for education," Small said.

Robert Kovack, past president of the Eastern Illinois Alumni Association, said he is concerned with the ability of the state educational system to provide students with a competitive edge in today's job market. He also said that it was important for the state to provide graduating high school students with affordable education.

"We have an obligation to educate our children. Let's quit cutting corners today for tomorrow's leaders," Kovack said.

total was 276 pints. On Tuesday, the drive collected 340 pints, but "usually we pick up more momentum by Tuesday," Ugent said.

There was an "extremely high" deferral rate of donors Monday, Ugent said. Thirty people were turned away because of low blood iron, she said.

"The capability is here," Ugent said. "SIU, especially the students, are really important to us. We appreciate what they do that has set them apart nationally. We're counting on them and we really need their help."

"Donating takes a half hour of time. You get fed well. And there are other incentives like the drawing," she said. A microwave oven and compact flashlights are being given away.

"We are putting people who need blood in jeopardy. But we still feel people will give the last three days to make up for the shortfall," Ugent said. "We have great faith in SIU and we're not ready to write them off yet."

The blood drive has many volunteers, including Centralia High School's student council, which helped out Tuesday. The high school set the record for the most pints of blood donated in a day.

At the Centralia drive, students were helping 60 donors an hour for six hours, Nancy Phillips, a senior, said.

The University holds the record for the most donations during peacetime. The record was set during a six-day drive in 1986 when 3,706 pints of blood were donated. That record broke an earlier record also set at the University.

If records are what the University is concerned about, Ugent said, "People in Michigan want to beat us, and we are making ourselves an easy target."

Slow vote count irks Jackson

DENVER (UPI) — Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis won a slim victory Tuesday in Colorado's Democratic precinct caucuses, but slow tabulation of returns caused rival Jesse Jackson to complain about the "inept system."

With 75 percent of the precincts from Monday night's caucuses reporting by late afternoon Tuesday, Dukakis had 46.2 percent of the delegates who will attend county conventions next month. Jackson had 39 percent. Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee had 2.8 percent, and 12 percent was undecided.

Sigrid Freese, executive director of the state Democratic Party, said that with three-quarters of the vote in, there was no substantial change expected and Dukakis was the clear victor.

The conventions are the next step in choosing 45 of Colorado's 51 delegates to the Democratic National Convention in Atlanta July 18-21.

On the Republican side, Vice President George Bush held a commanding lead. With 66 percent of the GOP caucuses reporting, Bush had 76.3

percent of the popular straw vote, compared with 9.4 percent for former television evangelist Pat Robertson, and 14.2 percent undecided, party officials said.

GOP delegates chosen to attend county conventions did not have to commit for a candidate.

Jackson, campaigning in Wisconsin, hinted darkly about the slow counting.

"It's beyond estimation the returns would be this slow and that late," Jackson said. "That so many people would have been inconvenienced in this age of electronic technology and computers, it seems that the process of counting election returns is just a very bad and inept system."

But state Democratic Party Chairman Buie Seawell defended the process, saying, "We have a caucus system and it has very, very tight and stringent rules and we have carefully, fairly, and honestly followed them."

Seawell denied there was any manipulation of the process by party officials.

"We are as clean as the snow that falls on the mountains up there," he said. "Do they know how big the state is? How high the mountains are? Do they know how remote the communities are? Why doesn't Reverend Jackson get the facts of what we are trying to do. I'd like to see him organize it and pull it off."

Seawell said Colorado's caucuses took on an added importance this year because Jackson and Dukakis are virtually in a dead heat for delegates to the Atlanta convention.

Wisconsin was holding a primary Tuesday, and United Press International's count of committed and projected Democratic delegates — before the Colorado and Wisconsin results — showed Dukakis with 631.15, Jackson with 615.10, Gore with 373.55 and Simon with 169.50. A total of 2,082 delegates are needed to win nomination. Some delegates cast fractional votes.

For the Republicans, the UPI count showed Bush held 843 delegates; Robertson had 37. The vice president expects to gather soon enough delegates to put him over the 1,138 total needed to receive the GOP nomination.

Dukakis wins in latest primary

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Michael Dukakis, hoping finally to break from the Democratic presidential pack, took a strong lead Tuesday over Jesse Jackson in the critical Wisconsin primary that could help determine who will face Vice President George Bush in November.

Dukakis, the Massachusetts governor, campaigned on the strategy that he is the Democrats' best hope in the general election battle for the White House. However, he has had trouble shaking Jackson, who based his campaign on an electrifying appeal to the economically disadvantaged.

But in Wisconsin, where blacks make up only 4 percent of the population, Dukakis began to put together a performance Tuesday that could begin to set him apart.

With 16 percent of the vote counted, Dukakis had 46 percent of the vote, while Jackson had 32 percent. In addition to the 81 delegates at stake, both men were looking to Wisconsin to make them the clear frontrunner — a boost that would be critical going into New York's crucial April 19 primary.

In third place was Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee with 16 percent and Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois, who trailed the field with 4 percent. Those results were disastrous for Simon, who is now expected to end or suspend his campaign.

On the Republican side, Bush brushed aside only token opposition from former television evangelist Pat Robertson and had little trouble putting Wisconsin in the win column on his march to the GOP nomination. With 1 percent of the vote counted, Bush had 85 percent, while Robertson had 7 percent. It appeared Bush would take all the state's 47 delegates.

English Day schedule set

Program to have lectures, exhibits to create interest

By Antoinette Hayes
Staff Writer

The College of Liberal Arts and the English Department will sponsor its first annual English Day at 9:30 a.m. Thursday in the Student Center Auditorium.

Gary Smith, associate professor of English and English Day coordinator, said the purpose of the day-long event is to highlight career opportunities available to students in English and to "generate campus interest in the English program and courses."

He said, hopefully "this will get students to take higher writing and English courses." Smith said the event is an

The program also will feature guest speakers William Gass, novelist and professor of philosophy at Washington University in St. Louis, and Charles B. Harris, a University alumnus and chairperson of the Department of English at Illinois State University.

"in-reach program to get the campus interested in English." He said that in the future, the event may become an outreach program.

"We may bring in high school students" to give them an idea of the benefits offered to students by a degree in English, Smith said.

English Day will include a photography exhibit and poetry, fiction and drama readings by faculty members and students.

The program also will feature guest speakers

William Gass, novelist and professor of philosophy at Washington University in St. Louis, and Charles B. Harris, a University alumnus and chairperson of the Department of English at Illinois State University.

Gass will give the seventh annual Harry T. Moore Memorial Lecture at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Student Center Auditorium. The lecture will focus on changes of leadership in the literary forefront.

The Moore lecture memorializes the late Professor Harry T. Moore, a literary critic and scholar who taught at the University for 20 years before his death in 1981.

Seminar for building boats of cardboard set for Wednesday

By Amy Gaubatz
Staff Writer

A cardboard boat building seminar will be held at 5 p.m. Wednesday in room 171 of Lawson Hall.

Students use the boats to compete in the Cardboard Boat Regatta, which will be held April 30 at Campus Lake.

"We will be showing tricks and techniques for building cardboard boats," Richard Archer, professor in the school of art and inventor of the race, said.

Slides of past races will be shown and rules for the race will be handed out.

"The main purpose of the race is to get students to show their creativity," he said. "You have to be pretty creative to build a boat out of cardboard."

"The students are building a three-dimensional piece of art that is larger than they are," he added.

The seminar also will teach students how to build their own boats cheaply, Archer said. He said the cost to build a boat can range from $5 to $100, with cardboard costing $2 a sheet.

"We've had plenty of people who have built a boat from one sheet of cardboard," he said.

There are three classes of cardboard boats. Class 1 consists of boats powered by oars and paddles; Class 2 experimental and mechanical-powered boats, including human-propelled, paddle wheels and sails; and Class 3 instant boats that spectators build on the spot.

Kits of materials for Class 3 boats are given out by lottery. "Last year we had 120 applications and 30 kits," Archer said.

Trophies will be awarded for first, second and third places in all three categories. Awards also are given for the "Pride of the Regatta," the most creative use of cardboard; for "Vogue," the most beautiful team and boat; for "Team Spirit;" and for "Titanic," the boat that sinks the fastest.

Archer said he expects between 200 and 300 students to participate in the seminar.

Law professor to lecture on tobacco policy issues

An authority on cigarette law and policy will lecture on tobacco public health policy issues at 6 p.m. Thursday in Room 102 of the Lesar Law Building.

The lecture will be given by Donald Garner, a professor in the School of Law. He will cover controversial topics such as restrictions on advertising and smoking in the workplace.

Garner has studied tobacco litigation for 15 years. He also was instrumental in the formulation of the University's smoking policy, which will ban smoking in campus buildings except in designated areas.

Professor gets award from France

Southern Illinois professor Emeritus James A. Kalker has been awarded the Ordre des Palmes Academiques by the French government.

The honor is awarded to outstanding American educators for their efforts and contributions in disseminating French culture, literature and thought in the United States.

Kalker retired from the University last May after serving 20 years in the Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures. A specialist in French civilization, Kalker is known for his courses on French influence in the Mississippi Valley, which included tours of historic sites at St. Louis and the Southern Illinois communities of Kaskaskia and Prairie du Rocher.

Kalker holds bachelor's and doctoral degrees from the University of Missouri and a master's degree from the University of Maryland. He also holds a certificate of foreign studies from the University of Paris.

Student to perform in Six Flags program

By Dena Schulte
Staff Writer

Daron Bruce, senior in speech communication and education, has been selected to perform at Six Flags Over Mid-America in Missouri.

Bruce will be performing in "Country Hoedown," a wild west show at Miss Kitty's salon.

The show features traditional and contemporary country music.

This is the second year Bruce has performed at Six Flags. Last year he performed in the production, "Country Express" at Miss Kitty's, he said.

"It's kind of an advantage when they know you, but it's also a disadvantage if they know you and don't like you," Bruce said.

Last year, Bruce won the Superstar of the Year award from the shows division at Six Flags, he said.

Six Flags opens on April 15, following about two months of rehearsals, he said. Performances will be on Saturdays and Sundays and the first two Friday evenings of the season.

In the third week of May, Bruce will go to work full-time.

While attending SIU-C, Bruce has been involved in several campus productions, including "Godspell," "Our Town," "Best Little Whorehouse in Texas" and "Brigadoon," he said.

After graduation in December, Bruce wants to continue his singing and dancing career at dinner theaters, he said. He is presently considering opportunities in Washington, D.C., and the Philadelphia area.

Shryock's 70th anniversary highlights diverse entertainment

This year marks the 70th anniversary of Shryock Auditorium, which has served the University and community with performing arts and popular entertainment since April 1918.

On April 4, 1918, Shryock was dedicated by then-President William Howard Taft, who spoke in support of Woodrow Wilson's "Great War" (World War I) to a crowd of about 3,000.

The building had 1,700 seats, outnumbering the student enrollment at the time.

Shryock was originally named the Normal auditorium. It was the sixth structure to occupy a site among the quadrangles of the campus, known then as Southern Illinois Normal University.

THE AUDITORIUM housed the registrar's office and the office of Henry W. Shryock, who served as president of the University from 1913 to 1935.

Shryock changed the two-year college into a fully accredited four-year college, which experienced a five-fold enrollment increase. In 1930, the auditorium was named Shryock in his honor.

"It's seldom that people are so honored during their lifetime as to have a building named after them," Bob Hageman, a Shryock business manager, said. "It's even more rare that it was changed while he was still alive, not after his death like most usually are."

Shryock died in his office in the auditorium in April 1935 after suffering a heart attack.

IN 1970 Shryock Auditorium was renovated at a cost of $1.5 million. The renovation added a sunken orchestra pit, acoustical plastering, a new sound system, carpeting, draperies, cushioned seats and air-conditioning to the building.

The summer after the renovation, a Reuter Organ was installed in the north balcony. It holds over 3,000 pipes and weighs over nine tons. Renowned Viennese organist and composer, Anton Heiller, played at the organ's dedication ritual.

The organ continues to be used daily, Hageman said, although it is never used during a production. "It's part of the School of Music's ongoing discipline in organ," he said.

AN OPEN house and exhibit to commemorate Shryock's history are being planned to correspond with the beginning of the auditorium's 1988-89 Celebrity Series season in the fall.

"We're cooperating with the museum and library to present an exhibit in the fall," Hageman said. It will be the first formal anniversary celebration ever for the building, he said.

"We're not definite about what kinds of activities will be going on in the fall, but we are planning on doing something," he said.

Anniversary activities have been scheduled for fall rather than spring because of the time involved in organizing both the celebration and exhibit and because there are less campus activities scheduled for fall than spring, Hageman said.

EVERY YEAR, Shryock features a variety of entertainment to appeal to all ages and tastes.

"We have a very broad audience," Hageman said. "We get faculty, staff, students and working people in Southern Illinois with a broad variety of backgrounds."

The only thing members of the audience have in common is that "they are people who are more interesting in what they do with their free time rather than watching TV or going to the movies," he said.

Among the performing arts that Shryock offers are jazz, ballet, folk music, musicals and symphonies.

Shryock offers many opportunities to gain experience outside the classroom, Hageman added. "Performing arts represent cultural experience that are very valuable to growth and development throughout life not just during the school years," he said.

THROUGH THE years, Shryock's performing arts have brought famous productions to campus, including sell-outs like the recent

"King and I" production, "A Christmas Carol" and the Chicago Symphony, Hageman said.

"We've also had many ballets over the past several years that have been outstanding," he said.

Ballet Du Nord premiered in October under artistic director Alphonso Cata. "It too, was outstanding. Cata was awarded a famous award by the French government for his production," Hageman said. "This is the type of dance that is consistent year after year."

Shryock also offers something each year besides the traditional music and dance productions. "We look for new forms of art experience all the time and try to include them each year," he said.

ONE SUCH performance was "The Alchemedians," by Michael Moschen and Bob Berky, which combined theatrical mime and magic.

Another unique performance was the Company Philippe Genty in January.

"They used life size puppets. It wasn't a Punch and Judy show," Hageman said. "They used everyday insights and showed them in a humorous way to the adult audience."

Other kinds of experimental theater productions have used masks, juggling and illusion, he said.

Many popular entertainers also have performed at Shryock, including Roseanne Cash and Peggy Lee.

SHRYOCK OFFERS personalities that appeal more to older audiences, like David Bromberg, Leon Redbone and Arlo Guthrie, Hageman said.

"We try very hard not to overlap or compete with other venues on campus, such as the Arena or the Student Programming Council," he said.

But student rush sales have been increasing each year. The tickets, which are priced lower than regular tickets and reserved for students, have been offered for three years.

"It's an alternative to a night out on the Strip. It offers a more refined evening," Hageman added. "It's different than going to the Arena because you can sit in cushion seats and everyone behaves better. It's a whole different acoustics and attitude."

Advice To The Drug Worn

Dear Dr. Buzz:
I'm confused about this alcoholism stuff. What's the real definition of a responsible social drinker?

"Drinking and Thinking"

Dear "Thinking",
In some social circles a responsible drinker is someone who doesn't pass out before noon and for other folks it is someone who drinks a lot but never appears to be "under the influence" (someone who can really hold their liquor). Just because you never appear to be intoxicated doesn't mean that you don't have a drinking problem. Did you ever hear the old saying that "I never knew he drank until I saw him sober?" Increased tolerance is a good indicator that someone may be heading for trouble with alcohol. My key distinction between a responsible social drinker and an alcoholic is the element of choice. A responsible drinker knows when to slow down or stop. Problem drinkers and alcoholics both have difficulty saying no. Once they're drinking it is almost inevitable that they continue until they are intoxicated. Many people who consider themselves social drinkers and don't think they have a drinking problem have never even tried to go more than a day or two without a drink. Alcohol use can become such an important part of life that it's frequently discounted as merely a harmless activity since negative consequences may not be present or obvious. Alcohol's impact on your behavior or emotions may not become apparent until you try to quit. Try going without a drink for a week and see how easy it is for you. You may find that you miss it more than you think and it could indicate cause for you to change your opinion about alcohol use.

Dear Dr. Buzz,
Are all addictions bad for you? I am hearing alot about things besides drugs and alcohol as also being addictive. What does that mean?

"Curious"

Dear Curious,
Addiction generally means "loss of control." You can lose control over a substance, e.g., being addicted to alcohol and drugs or being addicted to caffeine and nicotine. You can also lose control over believing in a certain way, e.g., being addicted to shopping, to gambling, to watching TV. Once a person loses their ability to choose to do these activities and, instead, goes to them compulsively like the addict goes to alcohol and drugs, then we say they may be addicted. The activity is no longer a part of their lives, it is controlling their life. Nothing has to be addictive and anything can be. Even physical exercise which is basically good for you can become an addictive, destructive habit if it gets out of control. Remember Plato, "All things in moderation."

If you have questions about alcohol or drugs - send them to Dr. Buzz c/o the Wellness Center or call 536-4441.

Tax hike effort gets boost

Hospital group joins suit, wants bills paid quickly

By United Press International

A campaign to pressure Illinois lawmakers for a tax hike gained strength Tuesday, with the Illinois Hospital Association joining a suit to force quicker payment of Medicaid bills and school districts warning of layoffs because of underfunding.

The tax-hike campaign got what could be a major boost from the Illinois Hospital Association, which joined in a suit demanding that the state pay its bills faster.

IHA President Kenneth Robbins said the suit seeks a court order forcing the state to return to a 30-day payment cycle for Medicaid reimbursements — as called for in federal Medicaid guidelines.

The payment cycle is expected to reach 80 or more days by June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

"While we are asking the state to comply with federal law, we realize that the current state fiscal crisis will

IHA joins federal lawsuit

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — The Illinois Hospital Association, charging the state is illegally borrowing money from its members, Tuesday joined a federal court suit in an effort to get the state to pay its bills faster.

IHA President Kenneth Robbins said the group is asking the court to force the state to return to a 30-day payment cycle for Medicaid reimbursements to hospitals, a cycle which is expected to reach 80 or more days by June 30, the end of the fiscal year.

"A dozen Illinois hospitals have closed their doors in the past two years, breaking under the pressures of a variety of financial stress factors," Robbins said. "One of those factors has been the Medicaid program."

Robbins estimated at least two more facilities would close within the next three months and another half dozen would be "pushed closer to the edge." The late payments particularly hurt inner city hospitals which depend on the checks to meet their payroll, he said.

The original suit was filed in federal court in Chicago in February on behalf of the Chicago Osteopathic Medical Center. Four other Chicago hospitals and one in East St. Louis also have joined the litigation.

make compliance extremely difficult in the absence of a tax increase," Robbins said.

"Effective immediately, therefore, the IHA is on record in support of a tax increase in Illinois," he said.

Gov. James R. Thompson has yet to propose a tax increase, but has said he will present a tax-hike plan to lawmakers next month.

The original suit to speed Medicaid payments was filed in federal court in Chicago in February on behalf of the Chicago Osteopathic Medical Center.

Lawmakers propose new aid package

CHICAGO (UPI) — A group of Illinois lawmakers Tuesday proposed a package of welfare reform legislation aimed at increasing benefits to the state's nearly 1 million public aid recipients.

The $193 million legislative package, titled "Work, Welfare and Families," calls for a 15 percent increase in basic cash grants, along with extended benefits for welfare recipients who find jobs keeping them off public aid. Recipients received a 5 percent cost-of-living increase in January 1985.

"These proposals recognize that most welfare recipients who become employed take low-wage jobs that are often temporary and do not provide medical benefits," said state Rep. Barbara Flynn Currie, D-Chicago. "Add to these low wages the cost of child care, or unexpected costs due to illness, and that newly employed person is sent back to welfare."

Joining the lawmakers in calling for passage of the legislative package were representatives of 40 community and religious organizations.

"Work, Welfare and Families" provides the first real opportunity to take a step toward true welfare reform in Illinois," said Douglas Dohmeyer, executive director of the Public Welfare Coalition. "The program addresses real needs of people trying to move into work while recognizing the plight of recipients who cannot attain jobs today."

The key provision of the package would provide $150 million to increase Department of Public Aid cash grants by 15 percent, raising the basic payment for a woman with two children from $342 to $392 a month.

Currie said the lawmakers did not believe new taxes would be needed to pay for the legislative package. She said natural revenue growth should provide enough dollars to fund the proposals.

USA Today's TV show promises glamour, news

ARLINGTON, Va. (UPI) — With the premiere six months away, the producer of USA TODAY's new syndicated program said Tuesday 118 television stations have signed up to broadcast the glitzy, people-oriented news and information show.

Negotiations also are under way with 10 or 11 more stations, said Steve Friedman, executive producer of "USA TODAY: The Television Show."

Friedman, the former executive producer of NBC's "Today" program, promised the television version of USA TODAY would be different from other newscasts.

"If we can't do it better or different, we're not going to do it," he said.

Friedman began planning the Monday-through Friday, 30-minute show last spring after he was hired by Grant Tinker, the former NBC chairman who is producing the program in association with Gannett Co., the newspaper group that owns USA TODAY.

The program, which will be transmitted to stations by satellite, also will air a one-hour version on weekends.

The stations that have signed contracts to carry the program when it goes on the air Sept. 12 represent 85 percent of the nation's viewing audience, Friedman said. He added that 96 stations will broadcast the program during the hour that precedes prime time, known as prime time access, a highly lucrative advertising slot.

"We have more prime time access ... than any other program except 'Wheel of Fortune,'" Friedman said. "So right now we are in key time spots at very, very strong stations."

He made the remarks at a news conference at USA TODAY headquarters to launch a three-day publicity tour that will take Friedman and four program anchors to New York, Detroit, Chicago, Dallas and Los Angeles.

Friedman also showed a 12-minute demonstration tape that revealed a fast-moving, breezy program with multiple graphics and theme music written by Oscar-winner John Barry.

The program will follow the format of USA TODAY with four segments: USA, anchored by Edie Magnus, Money with Kenneth Walker, Sports with Bill Macatee and a Lifestyle section with Robin Young. Magnus and Walker came from ABC News while Young and Macatee are from NBC News.

The program will tell stories of national interest by focusing on people, Friedman said. "We'll take a big story and bring it down to human level," he said.

Friedman also said he hopes the show attracts newsmakers.

"We want them to come to us first," he said. "The tremendous clout we have with the paper and the television show basically means that we are going to be the information center of this country."

Magnus indicated that some "hard" news will be included in the show.

Soviet media debate perestroika

MOSCOW (UPI) — The struggle between opponents and supporters of Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's efforts to reform the communist system burst into public debate Tuesday in the nation's newspapers.

The heated argument appeared in the form of a rare full-page attack by the Communist Party newspaper Pravda against an article in the Sovetskaya Rossiya newspaper that questioned basic aspects of Gorbachev's program.

Pravda, which closely reflects Kremlin thinking, called the March 13 article in Sovetskaya Rossiya "an ideological platform, a manifesto of the anti-perestroika (anti-reform) forces."

Sovetskaya Rossiya is published by the government of Russia, the most important of the Soviet republics, and its full-page article warned that Gorbachev's reforms were threatening the Communist Party's "leading role" in running the country.

Pravda denied the reforms under "perestroika" — increased use of market forces in the economy, a reduction in censorship and more democracy — were a threat to traditional communist practices.

"All who pin hopes on those (old) methods or their modifications would do well to wake up to the fact we have had that, and more than once," Pravda said, "but that did not bring about the desired results."

Pravda equated support for Gorbachev's reforms with patriotism and said glasnost — the easing of censorship and discussion of previously denied Soviet atrocities — did not give editors the right to oppose party policies.

"The appearance of the article ... is an attempt, little by little, to revise party decisions," Pravda said.

"At meetings of the party's Central Committee it has been said more than once that the Soviet press is not a private shop and that the communists writing in the press and the editors should be aware of their responsibility for the articles and the publications."

Supporting perestroika is "a patriotic duty for every citizen," it said.

U.S. begins express mail to Moscow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Express Mail eagle of the U.S. Postal Service will land in Moscow by May Day, under the first postal agreement between the superpowers in more than 50 years, officials said Tuesday.

At the April meeting with the board of governors, Postmaster General Anthony Frank said the Postal Service would begin Express Mail delivery to the Soviet capital of business papers, packages and merchandise on May 1.

The packages, weighing up to 44 pounds, will take two to three days to reach Moscow, and the Postal Service will offer a reciprocal service for Soviet businesses to send documents by Express Mail to American firms.

The cost has not been determined, but officials said it would be a reasonable expense for most American businesses.

With regular service, packages to the Soviet Union usually take seven to 10 days for delivery.

AIDS quarantine endorsed

Florida governor says carriers must be stopped

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Gov. Bob Martinez called Tuesday for the quarantine of AIDS sufferers who risk infecting others, comparing them to "criminals armed with a deadly weapon."

"AIDS carriers who refuse to inhibit their contacts, who refuse to stop spreading this fatal disease, should no more be allowed to roam free than criminals armed with a deadly weapon," Martinez told a joint session of the Florida Legislature.

"The time has come to quarantine those whose character and conduct are a clear threat to society."

The Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services is seeking $1.1 million to lock up about six juveniles in a state hospital in Orlando and up to 22 adults in a facility in Lantana for AIDS counseling and treatment.

Legislation pending in the House and Senate would permit confinement of AIDS sufferers who behave in ways likely to spread the disease, but only when "clear and convincing" evidence shows intensive counseling has not changed their behavior.

Republican Sen. William Myers, chairman of the Senate Select Committee on AIDS, has endorsed the quarantine proposal. A similar House committee has proposed a more modest confinement law, but House leaders oppose the large facilities sought by the Social Services Department.

"That's not how we're going to stop the spread of AIDS," said Democratic Rep. Lois Frankel, chairwoman of the House Select Committee. "We know that education of high risk groups, education in the schools, that's how we're going to stop the spread of AIDS."

Spokesmen for gay rights organizations said Florida had fewer than two or three cases of AIDS sufferers accused of spreading the disease. In one case, an Orlando prostitute made her clients use condoms to prevent their infection.

"AIDS carriers who refuse to inhibit their contacts, who refuse to stop spreading this fatal disease, should no more be allowed to roam free than criminals armed with a deadly weapon."

—Gov. Bob Martinez

Bob Kunst, an AIDS activist in Miami, said $1.1 million would pay for 28 shelter beds for homeless AIDS sufferers, feed 500, provide salaries for 15 social workers, buy 100,000 condoms for distribution to prostitutes, and finance a computer to collect information on AIDS from around the world.

Kunst called the quarantine proposal "hysterical." "What he is doing is sending up a trial balloon for the nation," Kunst said of Martinez. "We've got to knock it down real fast."

Martinez also endorsed broader testing and counseling of AIDS patients plus increased education in the schools "about the difference between right and wrong behavior that causes AIDS."

Jon Peck, the governor's press secretary, said Martinez meant ways to avoid the infection with the human immunodeficiency virus, or HIV, which causes AIDS.

"Obviously, one of the best ways to combat AIDS is to stop kids and others from engaging in the kinds of activities that spread the disease," Peck said. "That includes sex and drug use and homosexuality."

Crack could be factor in rise of AIDS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Use of "crack" cocaine may contribute to the spread of AIDS because in many cases increased sexual activity goes along with using the drug, a researcher told President Reagan's AIDS commission Tuesday.

Erol Ricketts, assistant director of equal opportunity programs for the Rockefeller Foundation, said his review of cases at venereal disease clinics and conversations with social workers who work with drug abusers has turned up the possible link, which he said has not been studied.

Ricketts described "an emerging association between crack use and AIDS," primarily in the New York metropolitan area, but said the problem is worrisome in other areas where there is a high incidence of AIDS and a booming crack epidemic.

Crack users do not inject their drug, but may contract the virus sexually because use of crack is "highly associated with sexual promiscuity" and intense sexual activity at so-called crack houses, Ricketts said.

He said the problem arose because some heroin or intravenous cocaine users infected with the AIDS virus also used crack cocaine, and spread the virus through sex to the sexually active crack users.

Egg-derived substance shows some hope of defeating AIDS

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A food supplement derived from eggs that has shown some success against the virus that causes AIDS will be marketed nationwide in about three weeks, company officials said Tuesday.

The Food and Drug Administration has approved the substance, AL-721, a patented form of egg lecithin derived from yolks, as a food supplement, but has not sanctioned it as an AIDS drug even though it is being tested as such.

The drug is a product of the Ethigen Corp., a small pharmaceutical firm which regards AL-721 as the centerpiece in its line of drugs and health care products.

"We're not an AIDS drug company," Ethigen vice president Robert Weingarten said. "We never intended to go into the AIDS drug business."

But AL-721 appears to have captured the imagination of company officials if not a few AIDS researchers nationwide because it might bolster cells against viral infection.

Sandy Hecker, spokeswoman for the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases, said the substance came to the at-attention of Dr. Robert Gallo, chief of the laboratory of tumor cell biology and co-discoverer of the AIDS virus, not long after its development. Weingarten said the drug was first synthesized in 1961 by scientists at the Weizmann Institute in Israel who had hoped AL-721 could be used as an anti-aging drug or to treat victims of alcohol or narcotic withdrawal.

They hypothesized that in such cases cells damaged by age or chemicals could be strengthened and their longevity increased by AL-721.

But apparently NIAID scientists felt that if the substance could strengthen cells by reducing the cholesterol content of their membranes, it was possible it might also "interfere with viral attachment and penetration and infection," Hecker said. "We have to be explicit. It is a food supplement and we don't say that its good for any thing," Weingarten said.

Thirty-one victims of acquired immune deficiency syndrome are being given AL-721 in clinical studies nationwide that are being overseen by NIAID. The studies began last fall and it probably will take at least a year for researchers to determine if the drug is effective against AIDS, she said.

In a recent report in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, Dr. Roland Aloia and a team of researchers from the Loma Linda University Medical School said the drug might inactivate the AIDS virus by not allowing it to penetrate key immune system cells.

'Beetlejuice' hits No. 1 in theaters

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Beetlejuice," a raucous comedy about death and exorcism, was No. 1 among all movies in release in North America last week, with a gross of $8 million at the turnstiles.

Starring Michael Keaton as a wacky, demonic exorcist named Beteelgeuse, "Beetlejuice" combines horror and comedy in about equal measure and is certain to become a cult classic among the young.

Directed by Tim Burton — who also directed "Pee-wee's Big Adventure" —

"Beetlejuice" opened in 1,000 theaters and knocked "Biloxi Blues" from the top spot down to No. 2. "Biloxi Blues," Neil Simon's screen version of his hit Broadway play, starring Matthew Broderick as Simon during his Army days in World War II, tallied $6 million in 1,329 theaters, up 90 theaters from the previous week, for a two-week total of $16.3 million.

No. 3 was "Bright Lights, Big City," starring Michael J. Fox in his first adult role as a cocaine addict who loses his wife and his job. In its debut week on 1,196 screens "City" pulled in a disappointing — for a Michael J. Fox vehicle — $5.1 million.

Disney, currently Hollywood's leading moneymaker, took advantage of the Easter school break by reissuing "The Fox and the Hound" in 1,567 theaters to scoop up $4 million. In two weeks the animated comedy has grossed $11.4 million. It was No. 4 last week. "The Seventh Sign," an occult thriller starring Demi Moore, chilled $3.7 million from moviegoers. It was No. 5 in the week's rankings, opening in 1,256 theaters.

It was a prosperous week for theater owners across the country with the top 14 films all grossing $1 million or more with strong showings by "Good Morning, Vietnam," "Police Academy 5," "Three Men and a Cradle," "Moonstruck," the only Oscar-nominated film to make the top 15.

Theaters in the United States and Canada grossed $86.4 million, compared with $72.4 million in 1987 and $71 million in 1986. So far this year all domestic theaters have grossed $907.3 million.

The top 10, last week's gross, total gross, weeks in release:

1. "Beetlejuice," $8 million, 1 week.
2. "Biloxi Blues," $6 million, $16.3 million, 2 weeks.

4. "The Fox and the Hound," $4 million, $11.4 million, 2 weeks.
5. "The Seventh Sign," $3.7 million, 1 week.
6. "Johnny be Good," $2.9 million, $10.2 million, 2 weeks.
7. "Good Morning, Vietnam," $2.8 million, $105.3 million, 15 weeks.
8. "Police Academy 5," $2.2 million, $14.8 million, 3 weeks.

Children without conscious lack early love

Study suggests parent nurturing shapes growth

By United Press International

The child who for one reason or another receives no consistent TLC in infancy is well on his or her way to being a psychopath and might be perfectly capable of committing murder at an early age, says Denver psychologist Ken Magid.

The key, Magid feels, is bonding, the process by which children develop a strong link with and love for a parent. A child who forms no such attachment may become incapable of love, of developing relationships with society and may possess no conscience and thus be capable of crime.

"The exact numbers (of such children) are not really known, and there has been no clear study but I do know that the police, teachers and others on the front line are reporting unprecedented numbers of child murders," Magid said in a telephone interview from Denver. "Recently in Boulder, (Colo.), a 2-year-old critically wounded his younger brother."

MAGID CITES many other cases of child violence ranging from arson to murder in his book "High Risk: Children Without A Conscience."

Dr. Stanley Greenspan, a clinical professor of psychology at George Washington Medical School, agrees with Magid on the importance of forming relationships early in life.

"We must think in terms of helping a child form a relationship," he said, adding that an early relationship forms the basis "for all subsequent learning — norms, conscience, letters, numbers, values and concepts."

Greenspan, who has studied child behavioral development for more than a decade, feels, however, that bonding is just one step to forming relationships and that although the earlier it happens the better, "I don't believe there's any one period (for bonding)."

MAGID FEELS the critical period is the first 16 months of life, although steps can be taken to help older children form attachments.

Chief of psychological services at Golden Medical Clinic in Golden, Col., Magid is also co-director of the Behavioral Science Department for Family Practice Physicians at the Saint Joseph Hospital in Denver.

Magid cites many reasons for the lack of bonding in the children Magid calls "unattached."

"The teenage mother — and there are over half a million a year — is trying to get her own identity together and has natural anxiety. She is not as mature as regular mothers and she'll convey that to the

"We must educate teenagers. We can't put 'Just Say No' stickers on cars and see the problem go away. We must start educating in the 9th or 10th grade about bonding for those who will be mothers."

infant. "We must educate teenagers. We can't put 'Just Say No' stickers on cars and see the problem go away. We must start educating in the 9th or 10th grade about bonding for those who will be mothers," he said.

"IF A COUPLE has great financial responsibility, and they have the infant, plus stress in life, that sometimes carries into what goes over to the infant. While adults are arguing or fingerpointing, the needs of babies are left unattended," said Magid, who has been studying the problems of unattached children for 15 years.

He cites other reasons including child care centers where the child-caregiver ratio is so high that babies are frequently left alone for hours. Even extended hospitalization in infancy, such as for premature babies, may affect bonding if the child does not get sufficient time with his parents.

In his book, Magid says that even foster parenting, generally looked on favorably, as potentially damaging to children

Study says kids lack know-how

WASHINGTON (UPI) — American school children are marginally skilled at using computers and computer programs to solve problems even though many of them can operate a keyboard, disk drive and printer, a study said Tuesday.

The NAEP's 1986 assessment of computer competence, described as the first in that field for the 19-year-old educational review, found more than two-thirds of a nationally representative sample of 24,000 students in the third, seventh and 11th grades able to identify computer components.

Among the study's findings: —About 75 percent of third graders, 89 percent of seventh graders and 87 percent of 11th graders had used a computer, but there was a decline in computer instruction, especially between the seventh and 11th grades.

—High percentages of seventh- and 11th-grade students, up to 87.5 percent, never had used a computer to practice math, reading and other skills from traditional subjects, but as many as 80 percent had used one to play games.

—More than 60 percent of 11th graders correctly identified word processing functions such as search and replace or movement of text.

Census Bureau says baby boomers peak, 40-year-olds flourish

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Baby boomers have officially reached middle age, the Census Bureau announced Tuesday, with the leading edge of the post-war child surge passing the 40-year mark.

The Census Bureau also reported the population of the United States increased to 243,915,000 on July 1, 1987 — a 7.4 percent increase over the 227,061,000 people reported April 1, 1980.

"The repercussions of the baby boom are many and varied," the bureau said. "They will continue to affect the United States for many years to come."

The number of men and women aged 35 to 45 years old grew by 34 percent from 1980 to 1987, while the number of those aged 25 to 34 — the bulk of the baby boomers — increased by 17 percent.

Other age groups showing substantial increases:

—The number of people aged 85 and over jumped by 28 percent.

—Men and women aged 75 to 84 increased by 20 percent.

—People aged 65 to 74 grew by 13 percent.

Overall, according to the Census Bureau report, the median age of the U.S. population rose from 30 years in 1980 to 32.1 years in 1987.

Suggesting there is a "baby boom echo" — children born to the large number of baby boomers — the bureau said the number of children under age 5 grew by 12 percent. It noted many women born in the baby boom have entered their prime childbearing years.

But the age group showing the sharpest decline was that of people between 14 and 17 years old, which declined by 11 percent. The groups 5 to 13 years and 18 to 24 years also declined, the bureau said, noting there were 2.1 million fewer children of school age in 1987 than there were in 1980.

In a related report, the Census Bureau reported the number of U.S. households grew by 12 percent in the 1980 to 1987 period, compared to the 7.4 percent population growth — a growth largely attributed to the fact that baby boomers are out of college or their parents' homes and setting up their own households.

At the same time, the report said the average population per household declined from 2.75 persons to 2.64 persons.

The report also said that, as in past years, the black population has increased at a much faster rate than the population as whole, with the number of blacks growing by 11.4 percent in the 1980-1987 period.

The white population, meanwhile, grew by 5.7 percent over the same period.

While the population as a whole is "graying," the bureau said, the black population is considerably younger than the white population.

Man returns lost $10,000

SOUTHGATE, Mich. (UPI) — Joe Washko spotted a pouch in the middle of the road and assumed it was a child's school bag.

When he opened the pouch, he found it was stuffed with $100 and $50 bills.

"It was something seeing all those hundreds and fifties, but there was never any question in my mind what to do with it," Washko said Monday.

Washko identified the source of the money — $10,400 in all — from checks that also were in the pouch and returned the bag to Southgate Auto Parts, where an employee lost the money Thursday en route to a bank.

"The guy probably saved my job," Larry Hyzer, manager of Southgate Auto Parts told the Detroit Free Press.

Violence erupts in West Bank; Palestinian areas remain quiet

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israeli soldiers fired rubber bullets and live ammunition to break up demonstrations Tuesday in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, wounding at least four people, Palestinian sources said.

But the Palestinian areas were relatively quiet after seven days of violent clashes between soldiers and protesters that left at least 21 Arabs dead.

On the Lebanese border, two Arab guerrillas attempting to infiltrate Israel on a mission against a civilian target were killed in a firefight with Israeli soldiers, the army said. Four Israeli soldiers were wounded in the clash 10 yards inside Lebanon, an army spokesman said.

Also Tuesday, an army spokesman said a 20-year-old man shot March 30 during a demonstration died late Monday, bringing to 133 the number of Palestinians killed since anti-Israeli uprisings began in the occupied territories Dec. 4.

Unrest was reported in at least seven towns and refugee camps in the occupied territories Tuesday. Merchants observed commercial strikes in the West Bank and Gaza, but most workers went to their jobs in Israel.

A leader of the underground movement said to be organizing the unrest declared Tuesday a day of national mourning, with all factories and institutions should work at full capacity to help those who have been harmed in the uprising.

The day of relative calm came as Secretary of State George Shultz traveled to Jordan and Syria from Israel to seek acceptance of an American peace plan for the Middle East. Shultz arrived

Patrols clash in Israel

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Palestinian commandos attempting to infiltrate northern Israel clashed twice with Israeli patrols early Tuesday in firefights that left several combatants dead or wounded, both sides reported.

Israel said at least two guerrillas were killed in the intense battles, while a Palestinian spokesman claimed three Israeli soldiers were killed. Neither side admitted any of its people had been killed.

An Israeli army spokesman said the guerrillas were trying to enter Israel at dawn on a mission to seize hostages when they were spotted by an Israeli patrol yards from the border near the Israeli town of Kfar Yuval.

An Israeli officer involved in the clash told state-run Israel Radio "there was a dialogue between us and them. ... We called on them to surrender, and their answer was gunfire."

The army spokesman said Israeli troops surrounded the guerrillas, who were carrying AK-47 rifles and rocket-propelled grenades, and attacked. Two of the commandos were killed and four Israeli soldiers were wounded, he said.

The Voice of the South radio, run by the Israeli-backed South Lebanon Army, said the commandos slipped through the central sector of Israel's security zone in Lebanon near Marjayoun, six miles north of Israel, and reached the border undetected.

The Israeli spokesman said the army foiled another infiltration attempt at about midnight on the northern edge of the security zone, trading gunfire with "terrorists" who suffered some casualties but fled back into Lebanon.

Sunday in Israel on his five-day peace mission.

In the West Bank village of Yamun, the army destroyed three houses belonging to four people suspected of organizing and taking part in demonstrations, the army spokesman said.

In the past week, the army has begun sealing and destroying homes of suspected participants in the unrest as part of harsher measures to crush the violent disturbances.

In the West Bank village of Bani Na'im, two residents were wounded by bullets during a protest that erupted after the funeral of man shot and killed Monday by Israeli soldiers, Palestinian sources said.

In the Gaza town of Bani Suhaila, troops fired tear gas and rubber bullets to break up a demonstration, wounding a 16-year-old youth in the eye, Israel Radio reported.

In the West Bank refugee camp of Jalazoun, a man also was wounded in the eye by a rubber bullet, Palestinian sources said.

In Gaza, a Jewish couple from a West Bank settlement accidentally drove in the Deir El Balah refugee camp where residents pelted the car with stones.

Gulf 'war of cities' escalates, 25 dead

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — The Persian Gulf "war of the cities" escalated Tuesday with Iraqi missiles hitting four Iranian cities, killing at least 25 people, while Iran struck at two Iraqi ports.

The official Islamic Republic News Agency reported from Tehran that at least 25 civilians were killed and scores wounded by Iraqi missiles in attacks Tuesday morning on the holy city of Qom, 100 miles south of Tehran, and Hamadan, about 200 miles southwest of the Iranian capital.

IRNA and Tehran radio both reported "several women and children" were killed when at least two Iraqi missiles hit a residential quarter of Qom, a traditional center of Shiite religious teaching. A girls' school, a high school and several residences and shops were hit in the attack, the reports said.

Iraq also fired missiles at Tehran, killing an undetermined number of civilians and causing damage to a mosque, IRNA said. Iraqi missiles struck Esfahan, 210 miles south of the Iranian capital, but it was not known whether there were any casualties or damage in the attack on Iran's second largest city, the news agency said.

Both countries blamed the other for starting the attacks, claiming their missiles were fired in retaliation.

Tehran radio said Iran retaliated by firing at least 12 rockets at two important port cities in southern Iraq — Umm Qasr, the site of a major Iraqi naval base and Basra, Iraq's second largest city.

"There is smoke rising from Umm Qasr," Tehran radio said.

Iraq did not confirm the Iranian claims, but state-run Baghdad radio said Iraq fired surface-to-surface missiles into Tehran, Qom and Esfahan "in retaliation" for Iranian rocket attacks on Iraqi cities.

The Iraqi News Agency said Baghdad was hit by an Iranian missile at 8:55 p.m. and that several civilians were killed and wounded.

The war also continued to rage on the northern front, where Iran reported its gunners shot down an Iraqi jet flying over the province of Kurdistan. Kurdish rebels, siding with Iran and demanding independence from Iraq, have launched an armed rebellion against Baghdad in the northern provinces.

Tehran accused Iraq of using chemical weapons in Kurdistan last month, as Baghdad attempted to halt a drive by Iran and the Patriotic Union of Kurdistan rebels. Iran claimed some 5,000 Kurdish civilians were killed in and near the city of Halabja.

Salukis lose two at Eastern opener in Gateway season

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

The Eastern Illinois bats proved to be too much for the SIU-C softball team to overcome.

The Panthers pounded out 14 hits on the afternoon and downed the Salukis twice, 3-2 and 5-2, in the Gateway Conference opener for both teams Tuesday in Charleston.

The Salukis fell to 15-10 overall. The team is 11-9 on the road, and continues to play away from home this weekend. SIU-C faces Bradley on Friday in Peoria and Western Illinois on Saturday in Macomb.

The Salukis' had strong pitching from Lisa Peterson (8-6) in the first game and Traci Furlow (4-2) in the second game, Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer said.

But Eastern Illinois exploded for one big inning in each game to spoil their mound performances.

A three-run first inning put Eastern Illinois in front for good in the first game.

After 2 2-3 innings, Eastern Illinois pitcher Sara Karcher relieved Zam Mogill, who gave up six base on balls. Karcher struck out one and walked one for the victory.

The Salukis threatened by scoring two runs in the fourth, but missed several chances in the next three innings to complete the comeback.

"We got ourselves in a hole," Brechtelsbauer said. "Lisa was shutting them out the rest of the way. We had several opportunities to come back but didn't take advantage of them."

Mary Jo Firmbach had three hits for the Salukis.

In the second game, Mogill went the distance, fanning six while walking five and giving up five base hits.

The Salukis had leads of 1-0 and 2-1, before Eastern Illinois erupted for three runs in the seventh inning.

"That was a tough loss," Brechtelsbauer said. "We should have held them. A couple of times we were one pitch from putting them away."

Karen Major had two hits and a run batted in for the Salukis. Shelly Gibbs got her 10th double, a school record, and Becky Rickenbaugh also had a double.

also had shutout victory over Southwest Missouri at the University of Missouri Invitational in Columbia last weekend.

"It's a great honor for her," Brechtelsbauer said. "Traci had to pitch a lot of innings back-to-back."

Shutouts are Furlow's speciality. She's thrown three this season, including a 7-0 blanking of Missouri-Kansas City.

Furlow has completed five of the six games that she has started for a 4-2 record. In her first four appearances she had three wins and a save.

Through 33 1-3 innings pitched, she has a team-leading 1.05 earned run average. She allowed 25 hits, only four for extra-bases, 11 runs, five earned runs, 10 strike outs and seven base on balls.

Standing an imposing 5-foot-8 on the mound, Furlow had successful prep and Amateur Softball Association careers. In four years at Hazelwood she was 58-7, setting a state record for victories. Hazelwood won two state championships behind her arm. Her ASA team took fifth in the nation in 1984 and 13th in 1986.

Blues, Blackhawks in playoffs, hope to avoid first-round losses

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The St. Louis Blues and Chicago Blackhawks hope to salvage disappointing regular-season performances in the playoffs.

The clubs begin Norris Division semifinal play at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at The Arena. Both finished the regular season under .500, and each lost in the first round of the playoffs last year. Chicago was swept for the second consecutive time last season, losing to Detroit.

"We are better prepared for the playoffs than last year," said St. Louis Coach Jacques Martin, whose team was beaten in six games by Toronto last year. "We're better rested."

"We feel positive. We have to play with intensity and within our system."

St. Louis won the season series 4-3-1 and went 4-1-1 in the last six games against the Blackhawks. The Blues defeated the Blackhawks 5-2 in Chicago on March 20, the last time they met.

Neither team expects a high-scoring shootout.

"For the sake of our sanity, I hope it's not a 7-all shootout at the O.K. Corral," Chicago goalie Darren Pang said.

After clinching the home-ice advantage for the first round, St. Louis lost its last three games of the season. The Blackhawks lost their season finale 4-3 in overtime to New Jersey, who had to win to get in the playoffs.

"If anything, our guys should have a little more confidence in themselves that if we play a good system, we can win," Chicago Coach Bob Murdoch said.

The Blues finished 15th of the league's 21 teams in the overall standings, and the Blackhawks were 17th.

"It's been a very inconsistent year," said St. Louis center Bernie Federko, who scored 18 points in eight games against Chicago this year. "We have to think about the good games we've played and duplicate them."

Chicago's goaltending assignments still have not been set. Pang, a rookie with a 3.84 goals-against average, is expected to play in the opener, but the Blackhawks also just recalled goaltender Jimmy Waite from junior hockey. Waite was the Blackhawks' No. 1 pick in the draft last June.

Bob Mason, with a 4.15 goals-against average, is the Blackhawks' second goalie.

Volleyball spikes Aces in practice

The volleyball team won four games in Tuesday afternoon's off-season scrimmage against Evansville at Davies Gymnasium.

The Salukis won 15-11, 15-12, 15-4, 15-11. Although the team had an erratic start, assistant coach Sonya Locke said many of the player accomplished personal goals.

"We're paying more attention to individual skills," Locke said.

Senior setter Sue Sinclair, who is trying to come back from a knee injury after being a redshirt last year, has improved her movement on the floor, Locke said.

Sinclair had 11 assists in the first game. Margaret Cooney and Dawn Thompson each had four kills in the first game.

Freshman Amy Johnson was unable to play because of an injured thumb.

base and came outside. Somebody made an out so I went back in and that's when we scored all the runs."

In the second game, the Salukis appeared listless and never threatened Evansville. The Purple Aces had a 7-0 lead after the fifth inning.

Leading pitcher Rick Shipley (1-1) allowed five hits, three walks and five earned runs in two and a third innings. Six Saluki pitchers saw action in the game.

Saluki reliever Larry Beattie injured his arm and was removed from the game in his second inning of work.

Shields had a two-run homer in the fifth against Evansville winning pitcher John Snaiths (4-1).

With the split, the Salukis are 15-10 and Evansville is 17-8.

The one spot still open on the assistant coaching staff could soon be filled, Rhoades said.

Evansville ace falls in 9 innings

Campbell leads Salukis to 15th victory

By Dave Miller
Staff Writer

In one afternoon, the baseball team showed just how good and how bad they can be.

The Salukis beat Evansville, 4-3, in the first game and lost the second, 9-5, Tuesday at Abe Martin Field.

"I'm not sure we have the killer instinct," Coach Itchy Jones said. "There's too many innings were we don't score any runs. This team doesn't really have the great desire to win a lot of games."

Saluki starting pitcher Rich Campbell allowed a leadoff home run and two more runs in the first inning. After the shaky start, he outdueled one of the best pitchers in the country.

Evansville's ace pitcher, Andy Benes, entered the game with a 7-0 record and a 0.54 ERA. Four scouts were in attendance to watch the right-hander who was tabbed a pre-season second team All-America selection by "Baseball America".

Benes, throwing a 90 mph fastball, held the Salukis hitless until the fifth when Dave Wrona lined a base hit into right field.

Benes kept the Salukis off the scoreboard until the seventh. Trailing 3-0, Chuck Locke blooped a single into right field. After Brad Hollenkamp struck out, Dave Wrona and Rick Gaebe singled to score Locke. Doug Shields then drove in Wrona with a base hit.

With his 24-game hitting streak on the line, Chuck Verschoore hit a sacrifice fly to center field to bring Gaebe in with the tying run.

"Of course I wanted it (the streak) to go on but I wasn't swinging at good pitches," Verschoore said. "I had a slow bat. It should have stopped. It was at least a little bit of consolation to tie the game and go on to win."

The Salukis won the game in the ninth. Benes walked Wrona to lead off. Gaebe, with the third baseman charging, faked a bunt and slapped a base hit. Shields then laid down a bunt. Benes pounced on it and threw it to the second baseman covering first. The ball grazed off his mitt to allow Wrona to scamper home with the winning run.

"(Benes) is probably the best pitcher we've seen this year," Jones said. "I felt very fortunate that we were able to come back, score some runs and beat him. Our kids really battled him."

After the first inning, Campbell (3-1) settled down and pitched a masterpiece. He allowed just two hits in the last eight innings.

"I knew I was going to have to shut them down," Campbell said. "I was a little concerned when I gave up three runs in the first inning and he (Benes) was throwing the ball really well. I beared down and thought if I held them to three that eventually we would get something going."

Campbell resorted to superstition in the seventh inning.

"It was pretty funny," he said. "When we started the rally, I was inside the clubhouse. I have a cold and was blowing my nose. I realized somebody was on

Swimmers headed for NCAA championships

By Steven Welsh
Staff Writer

The men's swimming team is hoping to cap a successful season with an equally successful showing at the NCAA Championships Thursday through Saturday in Indianapolis.

The team, ranked 17th in the country, will be sending five individual swimmers and three relay teams to the championships. Coach Doug Ingram is optimistic about the team's chances.

"We've got a good group of swimmers going to the championships," Ingram said. "If everyone gets a personal best time we should do very well."

"We definitely want to improve on our 24th place finish of last year. We'd like to finish in the top 20. The top recruits look at that when they're choosing a school."

Ingram said he is hoping for strong performances from the relay teams, since points scored by relays count double at the championships.

The Salukis strongest relay team is the 400-yard freestyle. The team of Sean Morrissey,

The swim team, ranked 17th in the country, looks to improve its 24th-place finish in last year's NAAs. The team would like to place in the top 20.

Jeff Goetz, Scott Roberts and Kevin Nagy is ranked No. 1 in the nation. Ingram said earlier in the season that he thinks the team is capable of finishing in the top five at the NAAs.

Also competing will be the 800-yard freestyle team of Roberts, Harri Garmendia, David Morovitz and Eric Bradac, and the 400-yard medley team of Lee Carry, Kevin Nagy, Garmendia and either Roberts or Jeff Goetz.

Ingram is also looking for strong individual showings from Roberts and Garmendia. Garmendia will compete in the 200-yard butterfly and the 200- and 400-yard individual medleys. Roberts will swim in the 200-yard backstroke, the 50- and 200-yard freestyle, and possibly the 100-yard backstroke.

"We need good performances from the individuals swimming in multiple events," Ingram said.

Other individual competitors will be senior co-captain Kevin Nagy in the 50- and 100-yard freestyle, Lee Carry in the 100- and 200-yard breaststroke, and Jeff Goetz in the 50- and possibly the 100-yard freestyle.

Furlow 3rd softball player honored by Gateway office

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Some 12 months ago Traci Furlow was firing strikes for Hazelwood Central High School in Florissant, Mo.

Now Furlow is wearing the maroon and white of the Salukis' softball team. In only two weeks of play, she has already received her first collegiate honor — Gateway Conference Player of the Week.

"I'm pleased with her come back," said Coach Kay Brechtelsbauer, referring to a leg injury that kept Furlow out of the lineup at the start of the season. "She's pitched well since then."

For the third consecutive week, an SIU-C player was named the conference's top performer. Salukis Theresa Smugala and Shelly Gibbs were honored in the last two weeks.

"That's quite an accomplishment," Brechtelsbauer said. "It shows we have balance."

Smugala, a senior shortstop, was chosen after belting two home runs March 18-20 at the Seminole Invitational in Tallahassee, Fla.

Gibbs, a sophomore second baseman, was chosen for her two runs batted in and three doubles at the March 25-26

Rhoades gets 1st look at team on Thursday

Rick Rhoades and the football Salukis will take to the practice field for the first time together on Thursday, the opening day of spring practice.

The Salukis will be led by 35 returning lettermen and eight junior college transfers.

"We'll probably be walking through a lot of things for a few days," Rhoades said. "And, when I say walk, I mean just that. The offense, although new, isn't that difficult to learn, but we're not going to rush into anything and sacrifice details in doing so."

Rhoades is concerned with bringing the team together as a unit.

"We definitely need to come together, work together as a team," he said. "Obviously we've got a lot of work to do,"

Rhoades said, "but it's not an impossible task and if the players are willing, we're going to be here to help them accomplish what they need to know."

The coaches will try to install the basic offense and defense in the 20-practice spring session, Rhoades said. He has said that the Salukis will run the wishbone.

"It really wasn't that tough of a decision to make," Rhoades said. "Once we had a chance to sit down and look at some film from a year ago, it was obvious that SIU had the personnel to run the bone. It simply creates tremendous opportunities for an offense and will give our defense more
