Schaefer's action not to be forgotten

By Theresa Livingston
Staff Writer

Steven Schaefer's uncle said he is taking steps to preserve his nephew's memory.

"I've been in contact with many people. I've talked to Sen. Walter Dudyca, our state senator who wants to enter Steven's bravery in the State Senate's minutes. I've talked to Sen. Paul Simon about congressional recognition. The mayor of Carbondale is going to call me back about issuing a citywide proclamation for Steve. Things are moving," Bob Schaefer, Steven's uncle, said.

To the thousands of people who attended his funeral Tuesday in Chicago, the official recognition only confirms what they already knew. Steve Schaefer died a hero.

Schaefer, 20, a junior in radio and television, lost his life in a fire early Saturday morning after alerting others inside the house that he and his four roommates occupied at 203 W. Elm Street.

Among those Schaefer saved from the flames were roommates Darren A. McKillip, 21, senior in industrial technology; Jeffrey A. Frezza, 23, former agribusiness major; Gordon E. Wellons, 21, senior in administration of justice; Tom McCarthy, 21, junior in avionics technology; John Borner, 20, junior in accounting and several house guests from a party the night before.

Borner and Schaefer had known each other since the first grade and had been roommates for three years.

Bob Schaefer, Steve's uncle, said there was no question of Steve's heroism.

Yow takes council candidacy

By Jackie Spinner

The top three candidates in Tuesday's City Council election shared 95 percent of the votes leaving fourth-place finisher Marvin Tanner in the dust.

Top vote-getter John Yow moved ahead second-place finisher Keith Tuxhorn by 413 votes, racking a 1,673 vote total.

"I'm looking forward to serving all the people in the next four years," Yow said Tuesday night.

Yow indicated he would not be seeking reelection after this term.

"It would be time for younger voices," Yow explained.

Incumbent Tuxhorn pocketed 1,260 votes just 172

USG backs hike in student fees

By Miguel Alito
Staff Writer

The Undergraduate Student Government Senate approved a resolution to increase the student activity fee by $1.30 at Wednesday night's meeting.

If approved by the Board of Trustees, the $1.30 increase would generate about $65,000 for use by the USG and the Graduate and Professional Student Council to be spent on funds for student organizations, Susan Hall, USG senator, said.

The student activity fee is currently $8.55, generating about $250,00 for the USG with which to fund student organizations, Hall said.

The passing of this resolution killed an attempt to have a referendum placed on the ballot to measure whether or not students would support a special $5 student fee for the Student Programming Council.

Brian Wood, SPC executive chairperson, was at the meeting awaiting the outcome of the resolution.

"We haven't had an increase in something like eight years," he said. "We need an increase (in the student activity fee)."

SPC funding has been the center of attention as funding for the organization has fluctuated up and down over the years leaving SPC officials to deal with an erratic fluctuating budget.

Attempts to place SPC on Registered Student Organization probation has been placed on hold by Chuck Hagerman, committee for internal affairs chairman, because of the late date when negotiations started with SPC, he said.

Hagerman, a vice presidential candidate, said the bill to put SPC on probation and possibly freeze its funding was tabled by the senate so the CIA could compromise with SPC.

However, Hagerman said the CIA could mandate the bill be placed on the senate floor if SPC has not complied, by a specified date, with the student organization guidelines it is in violation of.

In other business, the senate approved two referendums to be placed on the ballot in the April 19 general student government elections, bringing the total number of referendums to three.

The referendums will measure student opinion in the following:

• Creating a special 50 cent fee to support the Obelisk II.

• A new fall break schedule proposed by the administration and another suggested by the USG.

• The location of polling places for future elections.

House OKs national poll closing time

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House moved Wednesday to keep presidential election results secret until voters in almost all states have cast ballots, approving a national poll closing time that supporters said would boost turnout and improve the integrity of Election Day.

The measure, passed on a 238-154 vote, now goes to the Senate, where its fate appeared to be brighter than during previous years.

A total of 39 states would have to change their poll closing times because of the bill. Alaska and Hawaii would be exempt.

The House approved identical legislation in 1986 and 1987, but the Senate did not act. However, the Senate Rules Committee passed a similar bill last year and Chairman Wendell Ford, D-Ky., told House members he planned to make a new effort to push the legislation to the full Senate.

The House measure was sponsored by Rep. Al Swift, D-Wash. It would apply only in presidential election years and all polls in the continental United States would close at 9 p.m. in the Eastern time zone, 8 p.m. in the Central zone and 7 p.m. in the Mountain region.

In the Pacific time zone, daylight-saving time would be extended, until, just after,

Election Day.

Under the current pattern of poll closing times, it is common for voters in many Western states to learn who was elected president before they vote. Supporters of the uniform closing time argued that a belief the presidential election was already over discouraged voter turnout in Western states and could seriously alter the outcome of other races on the ballot.

Haiti president threatened by angry rebel soldiers

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — Rebel soldiers demanded President Prosper Avril resign Wednesday or face Haiti's second coup attempt in less than a week. The government declared a state of emergency and ordered troops to their posts. The troops of the powerful Dessalines Battalion indicated they were angry because Avril fired six army officers Tuesday, and demanded Avril be replaced by the head of Haiti's highest court.

Gorbachev leaves Cuba, makes way to London

LONDON (UPI) — Tight security and Siberian-like weather awaited Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev Wednesday as he left Cuba and flew to London to renew talks with Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and do some sightseeing in the British capital. The Soviet leader, accompanied by his wife, Raisa, was scheduled to arrive from a three-day visit in Cuba late Wednesday to begin his third visit to London.

Exxon skipper arrested in oil spill tragedy

HAUPPAUGE, N.Y. (UPI) — Fugitive Exxon Capt. Joseph Hazelwood, derided as "the architect of an American tragedy," surrendered Wednesday to face charges of being drunk when his supertanker ran aground and spilled tons of oil in Alaskan waters. Justice Kenneth Rohl stunned the Suffolk County courtroom in setting the fired skipper's bail at $1 million bond or $500,000 cash — far higher than the $25,000 bail sought by prosecutors.

Vietnamese troops to leave Cambodia early

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Vietnam announced Wednesday it will withdraw its 70,000 troops from Cambodia by Sept. 30, 15 months ahead of schedule to end a costly and widely condemned 10-year occupation. A joint statement by Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos said an international commission was invited to oversee the pullout and guarantee an end to foreign military aid to parties to the conflict.

Worst day of fighting in Beirut war kills 23

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A 14-hour barrage of heavy artillery and rocket fire killed 23 people and wounded 70 Wednesday in the worst day of fighting of the nearly monthlong war between Christian forces and a Syrian-led alliance of Moslem militiamen, police said. The shelling, which pinned down Beirut's nearly 1 million residents in underground parking lots, sand-bagged staircases and damp basements, continued despite Arab and French efforts to end the deadliest round of bloodletting in Lebanon's 14-year-old civil strife.

Rocket bombings on Afghan capital continue

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — Moslem rebels hit the Afghan capital of Kabul with rockets for a second day Wednesday, killing 10 people and wounding 39 in the deadliest attack on the city since the Soviet withdrawal, state-run Kabul radio reported. The communist Afghan government also announced it would observe a cease-fire until four days after the Moslem holy month of Ramadan, which starts in Afghanistan on Thursday, as a "goodwill gesture," the radio said.

Engineer says he took bribes for one decade

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense consultant William Parkin, indicted in the Pentagon corruption scandal, testified Wednesday he took $50,000 in bribes during a 10-year period while he was a government employee. Parkin, who pleaded guilty last month to paying off a senior Navy engineer, became the second figure in the scandal in two days to disclose long period of bribery.

Eastern says deal could produce resolution

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eastern Airlines told a federal bankruptcy judge Wednesday it was in serious negotiations with a third party that could produce a quick resolution to its bankruptcy reorganization. Eastern attorney Bruce Zirinsky told federal judge Burton Lifland a deal with a third party "could be made in a matter of days if not before," but he declined to say whether Eastern was negotiating with a group led by former Baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth.

Bands to aid in farmers' drought plight

By Nora Bentley
Staff Writer

Help for farmers hurt by last summer's drought is on the way in the form of a seven-hour drought relief concert to be held at 7 p.m. Friday at Fred's Dance Barn in Cambria.

The concert, which will feature seven local rock bands, is being sponsored by the Student Programming Council and CBS Records-Nashville. All proceeds will go to the Farm Resource Center in Metropolis.

The center was formed in 1985 to "handle the severe stress of farm families in Illinois," Harry Cecil, co-director of the center, said. Cecil is also the executive director of the Massac County Mental Health and Family Counseling Center.

Cecil said the center devised a system, the first of its kind in the country, involving outreach counseling. "We go to the farmers. We do it aggressively."

The center advertised extensively and set up an 800 number. They received many calls from families who had depressed or suicidal family members. Counselors also went to local seed and feed stores to find out if any people in the area needed help.

"We then went to the homes and said 'your friends are worried about you,'" Cecil said.

He said the farmers cannot be forgotten even if they aren't that visible. "There may not be that many farmers, but they feed a lot of people."

"The concert is like a gift from heaven because of cutbacks the center has suffered recently," Cecil said.

"The people (SPC) from Southern Illinois called us and we said we need all the help we can get."

"We've got good places to spend it (the proceeds)," he said.

A cassette tape compilation featuring the seven bands made with the cooperation of CBS records will be sold at the concert, Tom Corry, concert coordinator, said. Bands playing at the concert and appearing on the tape include: October's Child, The Saloonatics, Jungle Dogs, From Hell, Fuse Box, The Reform and Stone Face.

The cassette also will be available at local record stores.

Elektra Records and CBS Records Nashville-Minnesota will be there to check out the talent, Corry said. WIDB, WCIL and WSIU-TV also will be covering the event, he said.

"If we raise money we can keep them (the center) open," Corry said. A $5 donation at the door also will help raise the money needed.

"I have been organizing this all year. I felt it would provide quality entertainment and coverage for the bands. It's positive exposure and a chance to help an admirable cause," he said. Corry is the singer for From Hell.

Douglas Hurd, bass player for Stone Face, said his band has been putting in a great deal of practice this week. "We're looking forward to all the Carbondale bands playing together. It's a worthy cause."

Mark Jarzemsky, Fuse Box guitar player, said they like to play for benefits and it is a good opportunity for exposure for their band.

"I thought it was a really good idea," Dave Scultz of October's Child, said. "Lots of bands don't cater to the local people. I'd like to think somehow we could help the locals - the people who keep things going around here."

A shuttle bus will provide transportation to Fred's from the Student Center.

The bus, provided by Carbondale Mobile Homes, will leave the Student Center at 7, 8 and 9 p.m. and return at 1, 1:30 and 2 a.m.

The Saloonatics will play at 7, Stone Face at 8, the Reform at 9, October's Child at 10, Fuse Box at 11, From Hell at 12 and the Jungle Dogs at 1 a.m.

Cairo high student wins top honors with drug project

University News Service

A Cairo High School sophomore won top prize in the annual Illinois Junior Academy of Science Regional Fair April 1 with a hometown project that examined the effect of marijuana smoking on school grades.

The judge, SIU-C zoologist M. Ann Phillippi, called the study "well constructed, statistically well-founded and scientifically sound."

Brazier won a $100 cash award from SIU-C, the Navy Distinguished Achievement Award, a leather briefcase and advancement to the state Junior Academy of Science Fair, May 12 to 13.

University trying to cultivate Chicago resources

By Marc Blumer
Staff Writer

The University hopes to increase alumni donations and school visibility when a Chicago area office is opened next month.

"Chicago has the highest concentration of alumni of any region, and it is our intention to create a permanent presence in Chicago," Rex Ball, president of the SIU Foundation, said.

The office located in suburban Rosemont near O'Hare International Airport was donated by Kenneth Pontikes, a 1963 graduate of SIU-C in business.

"Ken Pontikes is making an enormous contribution to the University by enabling us, through this office, to intensify our relations with the state's corporate, political and media leaders as well as the major foundations, prospective students and their families, and the likely employers of our graduates," Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit, said.

More than a quarter of University students reside in the Chicago area and more than 27,000 alumni families live in the upstate region.

The office is in its second year of a two-year lease from Pontikes with the University paying $1 a month in rent. The office was used last year by the SIU foundation for its "Time For Pride" campaign that was an effort to raise a $4 million endowment for the College of Business and Administration. Pontikes is chairman of the drive to which he donated $1 million in 1987.

"We have not decided whether we will renew the lease after next year. Presently, we are looking into different areas of the city to see what would be the best location," Ball said.

In addition to fund raising, the office, will serve as a home base for Pettit, President John Guyon and Jack Dyer, director of University Relations.

"We have also discussed using the office in the area of student recruitment, as well as in job placement, which could include internships for current students as well as aiding graduates in job search," Ball said.

University News Service contributed to this report.

Administration not up to IPIRG speed

IF YOU'VE got a simple problem leave it to the administration to make it complicated.

That seems to be what it is doing with the proposed funding solution for an SIU-C based Illinois Public Interest Research Group.

The proposal is to pay for the group, which would be a student-run organization researching issues from clean water to dirty beef, from what is called a negative checkoff system. Through this plan students would support the group with a $3 student fee — unless, that is, a student doesn't want to pay the $3, in which case he can mark a box on his bursar bill to keep the fee.

THE POSITION of the IPIRG advocates, among them Trudy Hale, Graduate and Professional Student Council president, is clear: The Board of Trustees said in 1979 each campus could decide on its own how it wants to impose its fees. And from 1980 to 1983 SIU-E imposed a negative check-off fee, like the one proposed now, and for an identical purpose — to fund an IPIRG.

Well the IPIRG at SIU-E is gone, said the administration, and a new chancellor is over the University, and a new Board of Trustees presides, and well... gosh.

So when IPIRG supporters asked President John C. Guyon to make a decision on whether they can use the negative checkoff system as the source for an IPIRG, Guyon, of course, didn't make a decision. Instead he asked Chancellor Lawrence K. Pettit who, of course, didn't make a decision.

PETTIT NOW will hold a discussion at the board meeting April 13 under the guise of a general discussion on voluntary fees. But it is unlikely that the board will make a decision that will move the issue beyond its static position because the discussion is not on the full board's agenda this month.

Exacerbated yet? This is called bureaucrats in action...er...inaction.

IPIRG claims widespread support on campus and it will display thousands of student signatures on petitions and successive student government endorsements to prove it.

There also is opposition to the IPIRG, but if the administration falls into that category it should not hide behind these ridiculous stalling maneuvers. They should state their views.

IF THE BOARD decides that a negative checkoff could be used to pay for IPIRG then, said Guyon, the decision whether to institute the fee will come back to him — where it started. Dwelling on such an obvious issue is nothing but maddening and unfair to students waiting for the wheels of bureaucracy to grind full circle.

If the board does in fact deem, as it did 10 years ago, that the negative checkoff can be used for IPIRG, then we suggest that President Guyon pass the buck once more. This time to the students for a vote.

Opinions from elsewhere

Does Congress hold White House appointees to stricter ethical standards than it imposes on itself? Consider the case of Henry Giugni.

The appointed sergeant-at-arms of the U.S. Senate, Giugni controls a $115 million budget, much of which goes to pay for "perks" enjoyed by Senate leaders, such as chauffeur-driven sedans. Unlike officials in the executive branch, he seems to have wide discretion to use his budget for his own pleasures.

In an eight-month period ending last August, Giugni used official funds to help pay for eight round trips between Washington and his native state of Hawaii. The direct cost to taxpayers was about $9,000.

Giugni claims that the purpose of one trip was to help the U.S. Capitol Police learn about "security" problems in Hawaii. He admits that another visit was subsidized by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., which hopes to get a new contract from the Senate.

Nobody in the Senate leadership questioned these trips until they became the subject of a story in The Washington Post. Only then did Giugni quickly reimburse the Senate for part of his travel costs.

Giugni says that his frequent visits to his home state are important because he is "the first minority sergeant at arms" and thus a role model for Hawaiian youth. It seems to us that young people would learn a more valuable moral lesson if majority leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, were to give his appointee the reward he so richly deserves — a pink slip.

Tripp will continue educating, be good student influence

You know, one of the hardest things to say to anyone, anywhere is goodbye.

For the past four years I have seen this University slowly wipe out the Black American Studies Program. I've seen a four hour BAS class dropped to three hours. I have read and re-read the changes put into the BAS program, along with ludicrous proposals attached to such changes.

I've seen a black Affirmative Action administrator basically ignore the issues black students have confronted him with. And, as I have seen and heard, others have as well.

More recently there have been statements of noted hypocrisy such as "we will do everything possible to save the program," and "black students have the support of the University."

Such statements have been written with flair throughout the DE's pages of prints on numerous occasions, probably impressing only those who had written it.

As these BAS stories go on and on, so does Dr. Luke Tripp. I want to take this opportunity to thank him for all he has contributed to the University and to me during his stay here at SIU-C.

He had built the BAS program into an appreciable and reputable one, and I'm sure that many SIU alumni would agree with such a statement.

At times it is difficult for freshmen to choose appropriate role models, out as a freshman at this institution I had no such problem. Dr. Tripp was, and still is, a true friend to the student, as well as an educator.

His knowledge of the culture of the African-American is truly a well-enhanced one. No book can match what Dr. Tripp has offered, and in my opinion, it will be very difficult for the University to find an instructor as knowledgeable or as together as Dr. Tripp.

I'm sure that most freshmen will agree, as will some upperclassmen who have experienced a class taught by Dr. Tripp. There are also some students who have not yet taken one of his courses, yet were so eager to do so based on Dr. Tripp's reputation, as well as his presence during various activities on campus.

Again, thank you Dr. Tripp for pushing me in the right direction as a freshman, while giving me some insight into the system. I now consider myself a positive role model, and attribute much of it to you because I now better understand the system — the truth.

As Dr. Tripp goes, I believe so does the BAS program. However, while Dr. Tripp is elsewhere, continuing to do what he does best — educate while being a positive influence on black students — the BAS program at SIU will undergo extreme change.

Whether or not the change is for the better or worse, still remains to be seen, and many will be watching and criticizing as I will.

So since goodbyes are hard to dish out, I will say good luck Dr. Luke Tripp. I'll be in touch with you, because you'll continue to be somebody, somewhere. And for that, I also thank you.

Keep on keeping on with the power and the dream. I've always been for you, and I'm definitely still pushing with you. — Bill Hebert, Jr., graduate student, higher education.

Noise rule causes discrepancies

Not very long ago on a Wednesday at about noontime, a write-up occurred at a certain University Park dorm. A resident assistant made a judgement call that music was too loud and did a write-up. From this we have to stop and analyze a rule that gives the ability to someone to write people up.

For music, for instance, many R.A.'s have adopted the "two door policy." With this rule an R.A. says he can write you up if the music can be heard beyond two doors from your own.

On occasion I have heard people talking one floor down and three doors over from my window. To generalize the situation, on a quiet day the sound of speech, phones ringing, or soft music can be heard from your room from virtually any other part of that side of the building.

This letter was written because a set music level that had been appropriate for some time was suddenly inappropriate on a "quiet" day.

The "two door policy" is more lenient than the actual rule that if sound is audible outside your room, you may be written-up if an R.A. so desires.

If this rule can be taken strictly, and it can, anyone at any time can be written-up if sound is heard outside a room.

Since this rule exists, in order not to have any discrepancies, wouldn't it be wise to ban all noise and sound in the dorms for good, since on some days a normal voice can carry over half a dorm. Why stop there? If sound was banned, what would there be to keep policy makers from banning free vision or free movement in the dorms?

This may sound absurd, as well it should, but it proves a point. Literally compare the analogy of such absurd "rules" to that of the present noise control rule the University has, they are quite similar. In carrying out rules such as this, all freedoms can fall to ensure the enforcement of rules. Whether they are good, bad or obsolete.

This brings to light the difficulty of writing a realistic rule for controlling loudness. The rule now used has not seemed to cause an epidemic of write-ups, but it should be known that the rule is flawed and can create discrepancies.

"The fire chief, Evertt Rushing, said it was just a blazing inferno when they got there. The boys and the fire chief agree — if it hadn't been for Steven, everybody in that house would have surely perished," Bob Schaefer, said.

Steve's uncle compared Steve's bravery to that of a war-time hero.

"I was in Korea and I saw guys get medals for throwing themselves on top of hand grenades. They were recognized as heroes and rightly so. The kid (Steve) saved 11 lives. I think he deserves the same kind of recognition, recognition he justly deserves," Bob Schaefer said.

The Undergraduate Student Government Senate unanimously approved a salute to Steve Schaefer Wednesday night.

The resolution read in part: "Steve Schaefer gave his life after heroically saving others. His courage and the sacrifice will not be forgotten and he shall always be remembered by his friends and the student body."

Steve's parents said they are pleased by the recognition and praise of their son's heroism and the tremendous show of support they received.

"We've just started to go through his stuff and to respond to all the lovely cards and gifts we received. All the people have been so kind. I can't possibly remember all their names, but they were all so nice. I kind of passed the day in a fog," Linda Schaefer, Steve's mother, said.

She said the response from Steve's fellow students and friends has been overwhelming, a fact which the family is extremely grateful for.

"I can't tell you what it has meant. It's changed my outlook on life. The outpouring of love and condolences has just been phenomenal. I never knew there were so many good people in the world. All I want to do is give back some of the love I've received this past week," Linda Schaefer, said.

More than 3,000 people attended Steve Schaefer's wake, many of them students, and more than 200 cars followed the funeral procession to the cemetery.

"There were so many young people there. They came from Carbondale, Champaign and Michigan, where he was involved in a Boy Scout camp. We had scouts from all over plus many other well wishers who came great distances," Bob Schaefer said.

"There were 400 or 500 students, easily, from two or three schools that came up. When Bill (Steve's father) and the boys in the house went to pieces, there wasn't a dry eye in the funeral home or the church," Bob Schaefer, said.

Steve's uncle said the crowds of mourners crowded the streets and made the roads approaching the church virtually impassable.

"It was an hour and a half wait to get into that funeral. People were lined up for four blocks and stood in the rain for the last part of the time. Parking was just impossible. There were that many people there. I'll tell you, his parents feel pretty good about that school (SIU-C) and the kids that go there right now," Bob Schaefer said.

Steve's mother said all the well-wishers made the family's grief easier to bear.

"I've always hated wakes and funerals because you never know what to say, but I was just so gratified and pleased to see all the people. We offer our sincerest and deepest thanks to all of them," Steve's mother said.

Steve's father said the rest of the immediate family: his mother; his sisters, Kristin, who is in 8th grade and Karen, a freshman at University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana; and his brother, Bill, a recent graduate of Northwestern University, join him in the conviction that Steve is finally at peace.

"We're utterly convinced that he is in heaven and happy. We've got a very strong faith in God in this family. Our faith was tested by all this, but the Lord has a plan, it'll all work out," Bill Schaefer, Steve's father, said.

"Mrs. Schaefer and I and the three kids want to express our condolences and thanks to those of the Carbondale area who knew Steve, particularly the University community who shares in all this, and our heart felt thanks to the fire department. We know they made every effort to save Steve," Bill Schaefer said.

The fire was reported to the Carbondale Fire Department at 6:58 a.m. Saturday. Assistant Fire Chief John Mannis said he and other firefighters arrived shortly after 7 a.m.

"When we arrived, fire was coming out of the windows and roof," Mannis said.

Bob Schaefer said the fire, which was discovered by the Carbondale fire chief's wife, had almost fully consumed the two-story building at the time it was reported.

"The fire chief's wife was jogging by the house and when she saw black smoke pouring out of the building, she flagged down a car to call the fire department. At that time, Steve had already begun to wake people up and kids were piling out of windows," Bob Schaefer said.

Firefighters arrived on the scene shortly after that and unsuccessfully tried to put out the roaring fire.

After he was informed that Steve was still inside the building, Mannis said firefighters "tried to go in, but there was so much heat, we couldn't get in."

votes in front of third-place finisher Carl Flowers.

"I'm happy to be reelected again," Tuxhorn said.

He said the citizens should know what to expect from him because he has been faithful and honest the last six years.

Newcomer Flowers finished in the same place as he did in the Feb. 28 primary but only 6 percent behind Tuxhorn compared to 16 percent in the primary.

"My candidacy gave people a choice," Flowers said.

He said the loss would not discourage him from running for political office in the future.

"I think I did super, considering I was running against two incumbents," Flowers said.

Tanner, who received 188 votes, could not be reached for comment.

Of the 11,638 registered Carbondale voters, 22 percent actually cast ballots for council candidates.

Student precinct 25, including Thompson Point, Greek Row, Douglas Drive and Lincoln Drive to Mill Street, averaged 4.3 percent of the total number of registered voters casting ballots.

University east campus voters had 2.7 percent of the registered voters at the polls.

Robert Harrell blamed a complicated election and inexperienced judges for the unusual delay.

"It's difficult to find people to serve as judges," he explained. "Inexperienced judges have to be more careful and that takes longer."

Courthouse staff was responsible for tallying results of 64 precincts, while election judges at the individual precincts counted ballots by hand.

Harrell said unofficial results were not completed until 4 a.m. Wednesday.

Filmmaker presents 'true picture' of Israeli life

By Theresa Livingston
Staff Writer

A multi-media presentation featuring the customs of Israel was shown Tuesday at the Interfaith Center to begin a two-day focus on the country's politically turbulent West Bank.

Produced, directed and personally screened by Israeli filmmaker Menachem Dayan, "The Israel Experience" was shown on three screens with ten projectors, working simultaneously.

The presentation featured film clips, sound effects, music and narration by some of the top Israeli artists and craftsmen to convey a complete picture of modern Israeli life, Dayan said.

"This is simply 24 hours in the life of a land. No politics, no conflicts — just trying to get across a true picture of everyday life in Israel," Dayan said.

Filed and composed last year to commemorate Israel's 40th anniversary as a nation, the presentation relates the extensive history of Israel through holidays, festivals and folklore, according to Dayan.

"Although Israel is only 400 miles long and 70 miles wide, it is 5,000 years deep. Now Israel (as a modern country) has just passed her 40th birthday, moving into middle age. As with a person, it is a time to reflect on the events that have passed, and to look to the future," Dayan said.

Because the country receives extensive media coverage, Dayan said most people forget how small the country is in relation of the rest of the world.

"The presentation shows how truly small the country physically is, but also how important it is. We are trying to extract the spirit of the country that has made it the heart of the Western world," Dayan said.

Dayan further explained his approach to conveying an understanding of Israel, a country he views as unique among a swarm of equally-sized Middle Eastern countries.

"Other countries, you can look at them on the surface and see their meaning. It's right there in front of you. With Israel, you have to look underneath the surface. The story is at your feet, for the history; the soul of Israel is within itself and has to be discovered," Dayan said.

In addition, Dayan said the Bible has ordained Israel as the focal point of the world, regardless of individual faiths.

"The Bible has made clear that this land is not to be taken as any other small country on the map. It's the spiritual center of the world, and Israelis will have to learn that it is not private property but a natural gravitational center for the world's population," Dayan said.

Israel was created at the end of WWII out of British-occupied Palestine, the territory considered the ancestral home of Jews.

Dayan decided to bring "The Israeli Experience" to the United States as a reaction to the negative publicity the area has received during the last decade.

"Having been exposed to the hateful media generated by the conflicts, people may not have an accurate picture of this beautiful land (Israel)," Dayan said.

At the end of World War II, Israel reunited as a nation out of British-occupied Palestine, the territory considered the ancestral home of Jews.

At this time, however, native Palestinian Arabs resent what they view as the invasion and usurpation of power by the Jewish people.

This violent struggle for power between the two factions has been an on-going problem in the country, particularly the Israeli-occupied West Bank.

"Israel, the country, is here to stay. What we're trying to say is that there's room for all of us. All of our faiths spring from here, whether it be Moslem, Christian or Jew," Dayan said.

Dayan said he views the escalating tension in the Middle East as an opportunity to lower the barriers that have risen between different factions in the region.

"Because the conflict has reached a low point, we must begin to look at each other not with hate, but understanding and compassion," Dayan said.

Dayan said he has received a warm welcome and a positive reaction to his presentation during his year-long trip across this country.

Although the future of the region and in particular Arab-Israeli relations remains a much-debated topic, Dayan said he is hopeful resolutions to the problems will be reached soon.

"Most are pessimistic. I am optimistic, optimistic because I think we can take crisis to triumph," Dayan said. "By utilizing art as a bridge, we can understand others better, maybe even understand ourselves better."

"In Israel, we dwell too much on what divides us, not what unites us. I'm gratified my art can help, but unfortunately, I think it will take thousands of artists like me, on all sides, to resolve this conflict."

Dayan views artistic expression as the means to a peaceful Middle East.

"If people are busy making art, they will forget to hate. It's hard to shoot a gun at someone when you're painting a picture or composing a piece of music. My answer to everything is art. Where there is art, there is no war and you can say I said that," Dayan said.

Solidarity and Communists agree to democratic reform

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Solidarity and the government Wednesday ratified an agreement that will re-legalize the banned union and implement sweeping democratic changes in the East Bloc's first power-sharing arrangement between the Communist Party and independent groups.

The economic and political reform package was agreed to in marathon talks that began Feb. 6 among official representatives and leaders of key opposition, business and church groups.

"The participants of the round-table (talks) approved the points included in the agreement and expressed their will to operate jointly to implement them," said a joint statement by the government and Solidarity leader Lech Walesa.

The agreement covering political reform, economic and social reform and union pluralism was then adopted during a meeting of the talks participants in the 19th-century palace housing the governing Council of Ministers, Polish radiosaid.

Interior Minister Czeslaw Kiszczak, one of the participants at the signing ceremony around a huge cherrywood round table in a room of green marble columns, said the agreement opens a new era in Polish history.

"We have outlined together a vision of a reformed system based on society — a state of socialist parliamentary democracy," Kiszczak told the 57 representatives from nearly all segments of society who drafted the agreement at the first power-sharing arrangement in the East Bloc between the Communist Party and the people it governs.

"Although they are in the framework of the international trend of the transformation of socialism, they are original, pioneer and Polish," he said, referring to political, social and economic reforms advocated by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and advancing quickly in Soviet Bloc countries — Poland and Hungary.

In Washington, White House spokesman Martin Fitzwater hailed the signing "as a historic step toward pluralism and freedom" and said the United States was moving to consider unspecified economic moves to help bolster the Polish economy.

In his speech, Walesa warned that unity is needed to implement the reforms, which include more sacrifices for a population whose living standard has steadily declined since the late 1970s.

"Either we shall be able to build or we shall drown ourselves in chaos or a civil war from which no winner will emerge," said Walesa, who helped end a wave of labor unrest last year in return for the government's agreement to open talks with the opposition.

He noted that Solidarity did not win everything it wanted, specifically the elimination of "nomenklatura" — the system of appointing people to tens of thousands of the best jobs because of party loyalty instead of qualifications.

A last-minute hitch threatened to block the signing of the pact when the leader of the communist trade unions demanded to be the third speaker, after Kiszczak and Walesa.

Solidarity had been involved in an earlier dispute with the communist unions over wage indexing.

The agreement consisted of three separate pacts, including one on union pluralism, which will legalize Solidarity for the first time since the imposition of martial law Dec. 13, 1981. The union, which was formed in 1980, was suspended under martial law and banned in 1982.

Under the agreement, Solidarity will be re-legalized by the Sjem, Poland's parliament, which is expected to meet Thursday or Friday.

The other two agreements reached by official representatives and leaders of key opposition, business and church groups were in the area of political and economic and social reforms.

The agreement calls for establishment of a new higher chamber of parliament, the Senate, to which there will be open and free elections in June.

The voting would represent the first such free elections in Eastern Europe since World War II, although the Senate's powers would be limited.

Scary start leads filmmaker to create a monster

Filmmaker Timpe went through a lot for 'Puppet Show'

By Wayne Wallace
Entertainment Editor

Look in the dictionary under Murphy's Law and you'll see a picture of Steve Timpe.

When this 33-year-old filmmaker set out to make "Puppet Show" as a low-budget slasher movie in 1984, he had no idea what Murphy had in store for him.

"No one died on the set. That's about the only thing I didn't encounter," Timpe, graduate student in cinema and photography, recently recalled.

Timpe's master of fine arts thesis show, featuring "Puppet Show" and three other 16mm films he produced at SIUC's film department, will play at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Student Center Auditorium. Admission is free.

WHEN PRINCIPAL photography on "Puppet Show" wrapped in the summer of 1985, Timpe was $25,000 in debt and on the verge of a nervous breakdown following constant script revisions and two sexual harassment suits.

The harassment charges were filed by Timpe and a fellow crew member against Timothy Lyons, former chairman of the cinema and photography department.

The plot twist? Lyons was starring in "Puppet Show." "It got...strange," Timpe admitted.

Somewhere between 200 to 300 area residents and business people volunteered their time to help film the horror flick during its year-long production schedule, Timpe said.

"A lot of people are going to show up Sunday to see themselves in a film they aren't even in," he said, noting how the project's scope was scaled down after financial backing fell through.

WHAT WOULD have become the first feature film shot in Carbondale, Timpe said, is now 20 minutes of painful memories for its filmmaker.

"I grimace at the thought of watching it," Timpe added.

It started, innocently enough, as Timpe's last fling with narrative filmmaking before he dedicated himself wholly to documentaries.

From a cinema course on film genres, Timpe had learned of the horror film's potential for expressing social repression.

"Our sexuality and our politics are uncovered by the examination of the horror film," he said.

"IT WAS MY goal to make a low-budget progressive horror film," Timpe said, citing as his plot "a teen-age monster who stalks and murders all the guests at a pool party as a result of surfacing repression."

"I had worked out all the tortures and deaths. They were nasty and brutal," he said.

Writers were hired and by July 1984 four complete scripts of "Puppet Show" had been written.

After securing deals from the mental hospital in Anna for an abandoned ward they could shoot in and from Burger King, which signed on to provide free food for the duration of the production, Timpe realized he had truly created a monster.

"THE PROJECT took on a life of its own," he said. "It became bigger than any of us could have imagined."

Then suddenly, just weeks before filming was to begin, Timpe changed his mind.

"The bigger the project grew, the worse I felt about making an exploitation film," he explained. "So I radically changed the direction of the script."

"This decision," Timpe later recalled, "was a major mistake."

Major script changes were constantly taking place throughout the daily course of shooting as Timpe fired his old writers and brought in a new one.

"No one died on the set. That's about the only thing I didn't encounter."

—Steve Timpe

"There would be a kinder element in the story," Timpe said. "The horror would blend with a meaningful film about a boy and his relationship with his father. A new character was added, a wise puppet master from the old country."

YESTERDAY's footage was being thrown out as fast as today's new scenes were being written, Timpe said. "This madness had started, and I had no desire to stop it."

But to fuel his mad dream, Timpe needed money.

Enter Ray Buss, "a wealthy oil man."

By drawing up publicity photos and posters, Timpe managed to persuade Buss to set up a limited partnership, which sold shares and raised $100,000 for this 16mm horror film.

After discussing the project with film-industry professionals in California, Buss learned that the film should star a recognized actor, be shot in 35mm and released to theaters. A costly venture.

RATHER THAN leave Timpe and his dedicated crew out in the cold, Buss surprisingly suggested the "Puppet Show" budget be upped to $250,000 with talk of doubling that, according to Timpe.

Plans were made to scrap all existing footage, start from scratch, and reshoot a completely different script about "a small town invaded with Communists," an ode to the silly hysteria of 50s-era horror films.

The machine was in motion, but it needed some oil.

In 1985, OPEC lowered the cost of crude and put the squeeze on domestic production.

Oil man Buss went from riches to rags overnight with Timpe riding on his coattails.

"THAT'S WHEN the crew revolted, the remaining core of enthusiasts," Timpe said.

"I patched together a film from the footage we had shot and decided to edit it into a 20-minute film."

In its final form, "Puppet Show" takes on a more psychological bend than in previous scripts, Timpe said. "The story gets lost," Timpe admitted, "but it's sensual with strong aesthetics."

Oil man Buss went from riches to rags overnight, with Timpe riding on his coattails.

"As a filmmaker, you tend to hate-love your stuff after you've done it. You look at the faults more than the pluses. "Puppet Show" was the single most important part of my education as a filmmaker. I learned you do not have a deal until the money is in the bank," Timpe said.

The other Timpe productions to be screened at his thesis show include "Herb," a documentary about the work of sculptor Herb Fink, "The Good, the Bad and the Ugly" and "Lonely Boy," two found-footage films.

For a definition of a "found-footage film," Mr. Timpe requests your presence at his thesis show.

Local leaders disappointed with Bush's education plan

By Daniel Wallenberg
Staff Writer

Members of the U.S. Congress from Illinois are unhappy with a seven-point plan President George Bush delivered Wednesday on funding for educational programs.

Bush made his speech as part of a ceremony honoring National Teacher of the Year, Mary Bicouvaris of Hampton, Va.

U.S. Rep. Glenn Poshard, D-Carterville, said the $441 million plan, entitled "Educational Excellence Act of 1989," was a misnomer and would never work.

"I really wanted to believe President Bush when I came out here (to Washington) on the rhetoric about being the 'education president,'" Poshard said. "I am extremely disappointed."

The entire education budget submitted to Congress totals $22.9 billion.

Poshard said Bush was "floundering" with the plan and that no new money was allocated for issues already in existence.

Dave Stricklin, a spokesman for Poshard, said the major points of the plan deal with the magnet and merit school programs. The merit program was allocated $100 million for fiscal year 1990, and $100 million for each of the following three years, Stricklin said.

Bush allocated $250 million for fiscal year 1990, Oct. 1 to Sept. 30, for merit schools. The plan indicates elementary and secondary schools would be given cash awards based on general excellence, Stricklin said.

By fiscal year 1993, the amount would increase to $500 million he said.

Merit schools are those who attract gifted students with talent in a specific area, like science or vocational studies, Stricklin said.

U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, D-Makanda, said the words of the plan do not match the administration's lofty stance on the subject of education.

"But this package at least shows some recognition of the need for federal leadership in restoring excellence and expanding excellence in education," Simon said.

"This is not an ambitious start, but perhaps, it is a start," he said.

Pam Huey, a spokeswoman for Simon, said Simon was pleased with two of the increases Bush allocated.

Simon authored the Talented Teachers Act, which was changed to the Christa McAuliffe Fellowship Program, named after the teacher killed in the Challenger disaster, Huey said.

Currently, the program receives $1.89 million a year, but will increase to $7.5 million in fiscal year 1990, Huey said. The program recognizes outstanding teachers by providing grants for their continued education or for the lending of their expertise to other educators, she said.

The other Simon program, which would be increased, is the Challenge Grant Program, Huey said.

This program allocates $10 million for historically black colleges and universities in fiscal year 1990; and would increase to $20 million in 1991 and 1992, Huey said.

Simon was particularly unhappy with proposed cuts in another Simon program, called the Paul Douglas Scholarship Program, Huey said.

Douglas was a former Illinois senator whom Simon considered his mentor, Huey said. The scholarship is for gifted students who have a desire to be teachers, she said.

U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Belleville, said that generally the concept of the president's educational proposal seemed sound. "However, this is from a president who says he wants to be known as the 'education president.'"

"I am very concerned about the bottom line. These proposals call for new education initiatives without a funding mechanism," Dixon said.

"Educational programs are priority issues for me during this 101st-Congress," Dixon said.

"These programs can't withstand any additional funding cuts. The future of the country is at stake," Dixon said.

Official state fossil may be named

By Anne Flynn
Student Writer

Illinois lawmakers are scheduled to vote Thursday to name Tullimonstrum gregarium, a prehistoric monster, the state's official fossil.

The bill is being proposed by Rep. Larry Wennlund, R-New Lenox, who said Tullimonstrum gregarium, known unofficially as the Tully monster, does not have any living relatives and cannot be categorized into a phylum or kingdom.

"The Tully monster has only been found in Illinois. It is extremely interesting and unique to Illinois because of being a native," Wennlund said.

The Tully monster fossils have been found in the Kankakee area, along the Mazon Creek, Wennlund said.

"Having a state fossil brings a rich heritage to the state and it can be used as a good educational tool to inform the public," he said.

"The Tully monster was approximately 19 to 14 inches long and its segmented body tapers at both ends. It resembles a worm with the exception of having triangular fins and being a marine animal," Wennlund said.

The Tully monster was found in 1958 by Francis Tully in an unusual fossil deposit and six deposits of this type since then have been found.

The fossil was named after the late Tully who was a Lockport pipefitter and amateur fossil hunter. He made his discovery near Braidwood, approximately 50 miles southwest of Chicago.

George H. Fraunfelder, a professor of geology at the University, said the fossil certainly is unusual and a characteristic of the state

"The Tully fossil is very distinctive to Illinois because of not being found anywhere else throughout the country. Missouri recently designated crinoid as their state fossil, which is found in other states," Fraunfelder said.

The bill is not receiving any opposition and many groups such as the University of Illinois, geologists, paleontologists and the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago are supporting it.

Wennlund said chances are good that the bill will be passed and it is important to Illinois because it can be identified with Illinois.

Hindu wedding re-enacts divine union of gods

By Fernando Fellu-Moggi
Staff Writer

The smell of burnt incense fills the room as the three pandits surrounded by flowers, plates and oil lamps prepare to invoke Ganesha, the elephant-headed god of problem solving.

No, it's not a scene out of the "Satanic Verses." It is the preparation for a Hindu wedding ceremony.

In the Indian culture, the god Ganesha has to be invoked by the pandits, the officiants of the ceremony, to bless every event.

The wedding was of University students Michael Graham from Harrisburg and Indian Sorn Chitraganda Nandy. It took place in a traditional Hindu setting at the Wesley Foundation Sunday.

In the Indian culture, the god Ganesha has to be invoked by the pandits, the officiants of the ceremony, to bless every event, Jnan Bhattacharyya, director of the University's department of community development and one of the officiants at the wedding, said.

The invocation and offerings to the god are the first part of every wedding ceremony, Bhattacharyya said.

Amid mantras, prayers in Sanskrit language, one of the pandits shaped an icon representing the deity and invoked him into the object.

The deity was presented with offerings, perfumed and invested. His feet were washed and he was bathed in the five nectars: honey, sugar, purified butter, basil and cow's milk.

Shiva, god of well being, was invoked in a long rhythmic prayer, and a psalm was sung to honor Ganges, the Indian holy river.

Westerner guests listened and followed the prayers through an English transcript provided by the officiants.

After the invocation and the offering which lasted about half an hour, the wedding ceremony began.

The groom was dressed in a typical Indian shirt, a kurta, and pants called pyjama.

"He represents Vishnu, one of the three main gods of Hinduism," Bhattacharyya said. "Vishnu is the preserver of cosmos and of the creation."

The bride was dressed in a silk sari, the typical female Hindu garments and decorated with gold.

"She represents Lakshmi, goddess of wealth and property," Bhattacharyya said. "Good things happen because of her grace. She protects the household and the children."

Bhattacharyya said all Hindu weddings are re-enactments of the divine union of Vishnu and Lakshmi.

The bride was given away to the groom by her parents and the groom accepts her saying "Prati-gribaami" or "I accept her."

The parents showered blessings on the couple, and her mother united the newlyweds by tying a knot at the end of their clothes.

"With rice and flowers, everyone showers the bride and groom, and the groom places the sacred mark of marriage (a purple mark) on the bride's forehead," Bhattacharyya said.

With songs and blessings from the crowd, the ceremony ended.

Bhattacharyya said the ceremony was much shorter than a real one. "In India, a wedding lasts for eight or nine hours, the ceremony about three. Here we had to adapt to the cultural resources we had, and we did not want to bore the Westerner guests."

"None of us (the officiants) had ever conducted a wedding before," he said.

Many of the resources, also needed were unavailable in Carbondale. "We needed three banana trees, mango leaves and a special kind of grass called turba, but we couldn't get any of that here," Bhattacharyya said.

"Some things we managed to obtain, like a green coconut, that we brought from Florida over spring break."

He said despite those minor inconveniences, the wedding was a success, thanks to the efforts of the members of the Indian community.

Mayor-elect wants city unity

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mayor-elect Richard M. Daley, his convincing election victory less than a day old, faced opposition Wednesday from black leaders already plotting a strategy for recapturing the mayor's office in 1991.

Daley soundly defeated independent black Alderman Timothy Evans, 55.5 percent to 41 percent, in Tuesday's special election, with nearly 100 percent of the vote counted. Democrat-turned-Republican Edward Vrdolyak trailed with only 3.5 percent of the vote and came in last in even his home ward.

Daley, who captured the office held by his father, Richard J. Daley, the last of the big city political bosses, for 21 years, urged the city's political leaders to unite behind him.

"If today's vote meant anything, it meant the people of Chicago want to rise above the politics and get our city moving," Daley said in claiming victory late Tuesday. "They sent a clear and unmistakable mandate today. They want action not acrimony. The meaning of today's vote is the people of Chicago want to move forward, not back." He made the same point Wednesday, saying, "Chicago is sick and tired of the pettiness of politics and the name callers."

Daley planned to take office between April 20 and April 26, said press aide Avis Lavelle. Lavelle said the swearing-in will take place outside the City Council chambers.

"I don't think it will be a major party," she said.

Despite Daley's call for unity, it appeared possible Chicago may be headed back to the so-called "Council Wars" that plagued the administration of Harold Washington, the city's first black chief executive, who fought such bitter battles with his opponents in the City Council — led by Vrdolyak — that Chicago earned the moniker "Beirut on the Lake." A number of black leaders gathered for a unity breakfast Wednesday morning to formulate plans for winning back the mayor's office.

They urged city department heads not to turn in their resignations when Daley takes office and urged the black community to unite before the next mayoral election in 1991.

"People are ashamed of what they've done," said the Rev. Charles Koen, organizer of the breakfast, who bemoaned the split among black voters that led to both the defeat of Acting Mayor Eugene Sawyer in the Democratic primary and Evans in the general election. "People who didn't join the unity should be ashamed because the community has been disenfranchised."

State Democratic Chairman Vince Demuzio urged Evans and Jesse Jackson, the two-time Democratic presidential candidate who refused to support Daley, to rejoin the Democratic fold.

"Welcome back," Demuzio said. "There's room for all. Now that the election is over and the dust has settled, it's time for all good Democrats to reunite."

Educators lobby legislators for consistent rural funding

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Lawmakers returning to the Capitol Wednesday to begin the spring legislative session in earnest were greeted by about 300 educators, parents and students gathered to lobby for more money for schools to end "Band-Aid budgeting" by the state.

It is a busy week for lawmakers as Friday is the deadline to introduce legislation.

Those attending the Save Our Schools rally represented about 60 small rural districts who maintain they are strapped for cash and are being forced to raise local property taxes because of inadequate state funding.

"We are here to send the message that there is a need for permanent, adequate funding for education. Public schools in Illinois cannot stand another year of Band-Aid budgeting," said Karen Puckett, secretary of the Pikeland Board of Education in Pittsfield.

Secretary of State Jim Edgar said he agreed the schools are not sufficiently funded by the state and said an income tax increase could solve schools' cash problems.

"We need to make sure we provide necessary resources to provide the best possible education for our people. That might even mean we need a tax increase. Last year, I indicated my support for an income tax increase for education. I still think that's needed in Illinois," Edgar said.

Many parents and educators at the rally focused their dissatisfaction at the General Assembly and House Speaker Michael Madigan, D-Chicago, who was instrumental in defeating requests for higher income taxes during the past two years.

"I don't know where Mr. Madigan's priorities are, but they certainly aren't in the area of saving our schools, for our children or for our community, and I think that's a sad commentary for our Legislature," said Jerry Jordan, a school board member from Pana.

Drill tests city's preparedness for an earthquake

By Lisa Miller
Staff Writer

To test the city's preparedness in the event of an earthquake, several local and state agencies participated Wednesday in the city's second earthquake drill.

In response to the drill, a surgical team from St. John's Hospital in Springfield and the School of Medicine flew to Carbondale by helicopter. The team would have provided medical attention to Carbondale residents who would have been wounded in the earthquake.

Additional medical attention was provided by the local chapter of the American Red Cross and the University Health Service.

Carbondale has been recognized as one of the highest risk areas for earthquakes in Illinois.

Carbondale has been recognized as one of the highest risk areas for earthquakes in Illinois, Richard Moy, dean and provost of the medical school, said. Because of Carbondale's location in the New Madrid fault and the increasing population of the city, an earthquake drill is necessary to ensure safe and competent care of Carbondale residents if an earthquake hit the area, he said.

The drill started on the assumption that the earthquake would have measured 7.5 on the Richter scale and that Carbondale would be isolated from surrounding areas such as Marion and Murphysboro.

The Richter scale measures the level of vibration made by an earthquake. Each level is ten times greater than the one before.

The drill began at 8 a.m. with a warning over the emergency broadcast system that an earthquake hit the area. Soon afterward, Illinois Army National Guard helicopters invaded Carbondale's sky to test the feasibility of landing the aircraft to pick up wounded at 11 sites in the city.

Volunteers dressed as "wounded" were stationed at a casualty collection point at the field across from the Recreation Center. Army National Guardsmen set up the tents for the "wounded."

University students and volunteers from the area acted as earthquake victims. Mock bandages and cuts were put on the victims.

Members from the American Red Cross and staff from SIU-C's Health Service treated the victims in the tents.

The University supplied four nurses, two doctors and six other employees for a total of 12 staff members from Health Service.

The consensus of those who planned the drill was that it went much smoother than last year's drill and Carbondale was better prepared.

"The Illinois Department of Transportation provided more emergency vehicles this year and the physicians from Springfield were a welcomed addition," Connie Perkins, director of nursing for the health service, said. "Last year, a sight assessment was not done."

The sight assessment entailed the helicopters flying around Carbondale, looking for possible sights to set up additional casualty collection points, Perkins said.

The only problem with the drill was the lack of communication, Tom Harris, coordinator for the Illinois Emergency Services and Disaster Agency, said. Radio transmitters were needed, and they will be used in next year's drill.

Deadline for position is April 14

By Jeanne Bickler
Staff Writer

Very few applications have been received in the search for a new director of University Photocommunications, Jack Dyer, executive director of university relations, said.

The application deadline is April 14.

The director is responsible for administration of production and services operations of slidefilms and multi-image; video; publications and relations photography; and audio and exhibits.

The director also is responsible for technical consultation and support for special events and activities.

Applicants are required to have a bachelor's degree in any area such as design, electronic and photographic communications or public relations.

Five to seven years experience in one or more of these areas, as well as administrative experience is desired.

Arizona's Sean Elliott awarded student-athlete honor

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Arizona All-America Sean Elliott, capping a mission to restore pride to West Coast basketball, Wednesday was honored with the John Wooden Award, given to the game's top student-athlete.

"Wow, that's a big surprise," Elliott said when Wooden announced the selection at a news conference. "I guess that's got to feel pretty good. I don't really think you can name just one Player of the Year because several guys were more than deserving of the honor."

Elliott, a 6-foot-8 forward who averaged 22 points per game and was the Pacific-10 Player of the Year, was chosen from ballots sent to 1,000 sports writers and broadcasters nationwide. Only

"Wow, that's a big surprise. I guess that's got to feel pretty good. I don't really think you can name just one Player of the Year."

—Sean Elliott

players with a 2.0 or higher cumulative grade point average were eligible.

The Arizona senior was part of a Wooden All-America team comprised of Duke forward Danny Ferry, Oklahoma center Stacey King, Syracuse guard Sherman Douglas and Georgetown guard Charles Smith.

Elliott said one reason he went to Arizona was a desire to upgrade the image of basketball in the West.

"It started back in high school when I was a skinny kid coming out of Tucson," he said. "Nobody paid much attention to me or other players who came out of Arizona. It kinda frustrated me sometimes.

"When we stayed out West and started to perform well and our program started to turn upwards, I thought we were carrying the banner for the West. We wanted to show people we could play basketball in the West. I thought we had a responsibility and kind of a mission the last couple of years to show people we could play."

Ferry, the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year, said Elliott was well deserving.

"They (the Wildcats) finished the regular season No. 1 in the country," Ferry said. "That's a reflection on the team, but also a reflection on Sean Elliott. I'd much rather have won two more games in Seattle (at the Final Four), but it is definitely an honor to be here because there are so many good players in the country."

King averaged 26 points per game while leading the Sooners to a 105 point-per-game average. Douglas became the NCAA's all-time assist leader and had 22 assists in a Big East game against Providence. Smith, a member of the 1988 U.S. Olympic basketball team, averaged 18 points and was adept in both stealing the ball and passing it.

Those named to the second-team All-America were forwards Glen Rice of Michigan, Hank Gathers of Loyola (Calif.) and Lionel Simmons of La Salle, and guards Jay Edwards of Indiana and Todd Licht of Stanford.

Past winners include Danny Manning, David Robinson, Michael Jordan and Larry Bird.

Cardinals dump Mets to break Shea streak

NEW YORK (UPI) — Willie McGee hit a solo home run and collected two RBI Wednesday to lead St. Louis to a 3-1 triumph over the New York Mets, snapping the Cardinals' 11-game losing streak at Shea Stadium.

McGee, who reached base on all four of his at-bats, twice on two of New York's three errors, also scored twice.

Jose DeLeon went eight innings for the victory. DeLeon allowed four hits, while striking out three and walking two to help the Cardinals avenge their Opening Day loss Monday. Todd Worrell got two outs for his first save.

The Cardinals last won at Shea on Sept. 12, 1987.

Loser Bob Ojeda, making his first start since severing the tip of his left middle finger Sept. 21, allowed six hits over 6 2-3 innings. Two of the three runs he gave up were earned.

St. Louis built a 3-1 lead in the seventh. Tony Pena opened with a single to right and took second when Tim Jones walked. He scored on McGee's RBI single to left.

McGee scored in the sixth to give St. Louis a 2-1 lead. He reached after first baseman Keith Hernandez failed to handle third baseman Howard Johnson's throw. The error was the third of the game involving the two players.

30-3 Wichita State continues drilling competition

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

Wichita State's baseball team found the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. Again.

The Shockers, 30-3 and ranked third in the nation, won the Hawaii Rainbow Easter Tournament for the fourth straight time, beating Fordham 11-1.

Wichita State's Charlie Giandrone was the winning pitcher in a big way, throwing a no-hitter and improving his record to 3-0 and lowering his ERA to 0.41 in 22 innings.

Giandrone, who gave up a sixth-inning run on a walk and two errors, became the first freshman in Shocker school history to throw a no-hitter.

The McAlester, Okla., native

Missouri Valley notes MVP

was named Missouri Valley Conference pitcher of the week for his performance.

Sophomore centerfielder Jim Audley was named MVP for the tournament, hitting .406 and stealing eight times. Other all-tournament Shockers were shortstop Mike Lansing, catcher Eric Wedge and pitcher Pat Cedeno, who has won 11 straight and is 6-0 this spring.

The Shockers play host to Indiana State in the Valley opener Saturday.

Honored for Brave-ry

Bradley Braves' shortstop

Shaun Sanderson took Valley player of the week honors for hitting .632 last week.

Sanderson had two homers, seven runs scored, 10 RBIs and went 12-for-19 to lift the Braves to victory in four of six games.

On the season, Sanderson has 23 RBIs and a .397 average.

The Braves are 18-5 and have the second-best non-conference record heading into this weekend's conference opener at Creighton.

Tony the Tiger

Tony Simmonds is on the war-path for Illinois State. The shortstop went 5-for-8 in a doubleheader against Evansville, which the Redbirds won 10-5 and 6-4.

Simmonds' batting average is .352, the result of getting hits in 10 of 20 at bats last week.

"He's not out of the usual leadoff mold in that he doesn't have great speed and is such an aggressive hitter that he doesn't like to take many pitches," Illinois State coach Jeff Steward said.

Simmonds leads the Redbirds in runs (16), hits (25) and total bases (37). He has only four errors in 80 chances. He has handled 41 straight chances without an error.

The Redbirds are 11-11 and play SIU-C in Carbondale following a single game against No. 22 Illinois.

Around the horn

Creighton has won six of its last nine games. The Bluejays' record is 18-10...Indiana State has won six of eight games. The Sycamores' record is 14-8...Dan Smith of Creighton leads the league in pitching with a 1.39 ERA and a 4-2 record. He also has a league-high 47 strikeouts...Reliever Jim Newlan remains the top stopper. He has seven saves in 12 appearances...For the third straight week, Wichita State leads the team averages in batting (.358), pitching (2.35 ERA) and fielding (.966). To show the Shockers' dominance, their team batting average is higher than Illinois State's top batter, Simmonds who is at .352.

month. Mulholland said he and Hall are hopeful Senate ratification would take place before the IAAC's next regular meeting, Tuesday at the Balcony Conference Room in Anthony Hall.

IAAC president George Black, who addressed this topic when he spoke to the student-athletes March 21, requested a statement on SAAB's position concerning the football program.

A call to eliminate the football program has been made by University anthropology professor Jerome S. Handler, who cites economic, social, prestige, entertainment, contributory and academic reasons as to why the program should be dropped.

After a lengthy discussion, Mulholland said it was the consensus opinion of SAAB that football should be retained.

"Pretty much everyone said we shouldn't drop football," he said. "But (if money is a problem) we should search for alternatives instead."

Mulholland said SAAB's viewpoint on the issue is consistent with the stance the board has taken since gymnastics and field hockey were cut in December. That is, the remaining 18 intercollegiate sports should be maintained at present levels, he said.

In other SAAB business:

Nominations for 1989-90 SAAB officers were made. For president: current president Mulholland, David Beachum of men's track and Dave Whitting of the swim team. For secretary: Lisa Ravetto of cross country and Matt Giegling of baseball. Nominations will remain open until the April 18 meeting when selection of officers will take place.

Review of the Strategic Planning Committee Report continued from the March 21 meeting. SAAB agreed with the report's contention that a computerized data base for financial and registration purposes was needed. It also concurred with the notation that sport medicine needed more funds to operate effectively.

On the question of facilities and equipment, two members expressed dissatisfaction with the poor condition of the newly-renovated track, while another member said the track was in excellent condition.

The lack of a University golf course has hampered women's golf practices, representative Julie Shumaker said.

"Our weekend privileges (at Jackson Country Club) were revoked. We can no longer meet the hours of practice needed to compete."

The lack of control and space at the Arena also were discussed.

By a 7-4 vote, the constitutional proposal to limit attendance at SAAB meetings only to members, intercollegiate athletes and invited guests was withdrawn.

Football player charged in mistaken identity case

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — Washington State tight end Kevin Andral has been charged with impersonation for allegedly claiming to be teammate Dan Grayson when he was arrested last year, officials said Wednesday.

Whitman County Sheriff's Department Chief Civil Deputy Rita Konzol said Andral for months fooled police and court officials into thinking he was Grayson, a starting linebacker who is his roommate.

Andral caught one pass last season for 12 yards.

"This is the first time I've ever heard of anyone going through the whole court process" impersonating someone else, Konzol said. "This is the amazing thing — he went through the entire criminal justice system as Danny Grayson. That's what's so baffling to me."

Andral, 22, is free on his own recognizance after being arrested Thursday and being held a night in jail on charges of forgery, criminal impersonation and obstruction of a public servant.

Konzal said a recent check of fingerprints revealed Andral passed himself off as Grayson when Andral was arrested in Pullman and convicted in Colfax for driving with a suspended license and possession of a controlled substance. Konzol said Grayson was aware of the impersonation.

Missouri Valley baseball notes

SIU-Carbondale beat up sister-school SIU-Edwardsville 18-5 Wednesday at Abe Martin Field, belting 16 hits to give the Salukis their 12th victory in 23 games. The Cougars are 4-7.

"We swung the bats well," said Saluki coach Itchy Jones, now only two victories from picking up his 700th career win. "We got everyone in the game and we accomplished what we wanted."

The Salukis rang the home run bell five times and used up five Edwardsville pitchers in the process of winning their third straight game.

"Now we need to get a long win streak going," Jones said. "We're playing looser."

Junior second baseman Tim Davis proved himself to be a home run king with two solo dingers that Cougar left fielder P.J. Riley could only wave his glove at.

As the lead off batter, Davis opened the game in grand fashion with a towering shot that sailed well beyond the left field fence, which is marked by a 365-foot sign.

Davis' second shot came with one out in the second inning, and it signaled the end of Edwardsville starter Kurt Junker. As soon as the ball jumped off Davis' bat, it was clearly headed toward the trees situated far outside the left field fence. Estimated distance of the homer was 400 feet.

Aside from his home runs, Davis led the Salukis hitting attack going 3-4 with two RBIs, three runs scored and claiming the game winning RBI.

The home run by Davis set off a series of big hits by the Salukis that abbreviated the scheduled three-inning appearance of Edwardsville's Junker, a freshman righthander. As it turned out, Junker, 1-1, only hung on for one and two-thirds innings before hitting the showers with the loss.

four Saluki pitchers held the Cougars scoreless from the fourth inning to the ninth.

Dale Meyer was the winning pitcher, walking none and striking out one in two innings

The Salukis finished the first with an insurmountable 5-0 lead.

Edwardsville, which fell to 4-7, tried to match the Salukis' thunder with two runs in the second and three runs in the third. Brian Kasting gave the Cougars a brief reason for comeback hopes by popping a two-run homer straightaway to center.

With the Salukis ahead 11-4, Brian Hollenkamp put the ailing Cougars asleep for good on a third inning grand slam that cleared the 10-foot high chain link fence in right.

By the time the third inning was over, the Salukis led 15-5.

The Salukis then added two runs in the fifth and one in the sixth. Meanwhile, a pack of of relief work. The sophomore ups his record to 2-3.

The Salukis outthit the Cougars 15-11, 12 of the Salukis being for extra bases.

Today at 3:30 p.m., the Salukis play Southeast Missouri, a team they beat 12-7 on March 23. Doubleheaders Saturday and Sunday against Illinois State mark the start of the Missouri Valley Conference schedule.

Relay runner Pegues named for weekly Valley track award

By Paul Pabst
Staff Writer

SIU-C sprinting specialist Erick Pegues has been named the Missouri Valley Conference Athlete of the Week for his clutch performances at last weekend's narrow win over Georgia Tech.

"I was surprised when I found out (that I was voted athlete of the week)."

Pegues said. "It's the first time I've ever won it."

The 4 x 400 was the final event of the day. Winning the event meant winning the meet. The Salukis sped to a one yard lead in front of second place Georgia Tech and the baton was handed to the anchor man, Pegues.

"I saw them running and all I thought about was winning," Pegues said. "I hate losing."

SAAB votes in favor of seat to represent athletes on IAAC

By Troy Taylor
Staff Writer

By a unanimous show of hands, the Student Athlete Advisory Board recommended Tuesday night that presiding officer Marcus Mulholland be appointed to fill a vacant position on the athletics department's advisory committee.

Since December, when gymnastics and field hockey were eliminated as sports, the student-athletes have tried to earn a position on the Intercollegiate Athletics Advisory Committee — the 19-member panel that makes policy recommendations concerning Saluki Athletics.

"This gives us an additional voice," said Mulholland, a junior member of the disbanded gymnastics team.

Mulholland's nomination must go to Undergraduate Student Government president Bill Hall, who will then present Mulholland's appointment to the Student Senate for ratification.

If the appointment is approved, Mulholland would occupy one of the USG's three voting spots on the IAAC. The vacancy was the result of USG representative Odette Christie's resignation last
