1965-66 SIU Budget Is $52 Million

★ ★ Board Keeps 'Open Door' Entry Policy

The SIU board of trustees declined Thursday to set a fall enrollment limit, although officials said the rate of admissions applications indicates facilities may become burdened.

Registrars were authorized to resume approving applications for freshmen and for students seeking transfer from other schools. Approval had been suspended July 13 at the Carbondale campus.

Trustees voted to continue SIU's "open-door policy" on admissions, saying applications would be approved to the limit of facilities—even if it means taking emergency steps to find room.

There was no specification, however, of what the limit would be. If enrollment is limited, it would be the first such limitation in SIU's history.

President Delyte W. Morris said the fall enrollment probably will exceed an original estimate of 17.3 per cent greater than last year's 20,000 students. The figure included 6,600 students at the Edwardsville division.

The board approved a 1965-66 operations budget of $52,021,200, an increase of $11,823,000 over the current budget.

Morris said the increase would allow some moderate salary boosts and is intended to accommodate the anticipated enrollment increase.

Rooms Available Early This Fall

Students living at Thompson Point and Woody will be able to check into their rooms early this fall, although school and new student week will not officially start until later.

The reason for the early opening of the University living areas is to permit students to see the first home football game of the season at 8 p.m. on Sept. 18 in McAndrew Stadium. Students will be able to check into their rooms any time that afternoon.

University Park residents will not be able to check into their rooms that day but will be temporarily housed at Thompson Point.

The ticket procedure will be handled much the same as last year.

Athletic passes, similar to those used last year, will not go on sale until the following week, but students who can present some type of identification at the gate will be admitted to the game at student rates.

Preparations for Fall Term

82 Continuing Appointments Approved; Staff Adds 8 Professors, 20 Associates

Thirty-three appointments to the continuing faculty and staff of SIU were approved by the board of trustees Thursday as preparations continued for fall term opening of new classroom buildings on both the Carbondale and Edwardsville campuses.

The board also confirmed appointments scheduled for consideration at the June meeting, which was not held. There were 49 continuing appointments on the June list. The two lists added the names of eight professors, 20 associate professors and 34 assistant professors to the faculty roster, as replacements for resignation vacancies and to initiate instruction in the new buildings.

Term appointments on the two lists, for periods of one year or less, totalled 143.

Continuing Appointments

Robert G. Andree, professor, Education Division; Charles Bernardoni, supervisor, Research and Projects; Ramendra K. Bhattacharya, assistant professor of mathematics; Vernon Harry Broertjes, coordinator of student housing; Barney K. Browning, supervisor, registrar's office.

John J. Cody, associate professor of guidance; G. William Crabb, food service manager, Edwardsville campus; Jack Riley Dyer, supervisor in Central Publications and instructor, Humanities Division; Edward Everett Edowes, associate professor, Education Division; Mrs. Eva D. Ferguson, associate professor, Education Division.

Miss Dorothy Jean Gore, assistant professor, Social Sciences and Science and Technology Divisions; Samuel Heavenrich, professor of art and supervisor of University Galleries; Mrs. Margaret Hill, professor of elementary education and head of the Reading Center; Ira Brooks Holder, supervisor in academic counseling, Edwardsville campus; Emil Fred Jason, associate professor, Science and Technology Division.

Up $11.8 Million Over Last Year

An internal operating budget for the University totaling $52,021,200 for the first half of the current biennium was approved Thursday by the Board of Trustees.

This is an increase of $11,823,000 over the budget for the 1964-65 fiscal year.

The University's anticipated operating income for the year is shown as $37,015,000 from legislative appropriation and tuition charges; $6,879,200 from operation of auxiliary enterprises, such as residence halls; and $8,127,000 in restricted accounts, including $661,000 in student activity fees.

In presenting the 1965-66 budget, President Delyte W. Morris noted that only moderate salary increases were possible and that they had been recommended on a merit basis after careful evaluation of the work of individuals. "A major portion of the additional personal services funds budgeted for the year is to provide for continued enrollment increases," Morris said.

Personal services account for 76 per cent of the state-appropriated funds.

A student employment fund of $1,842,265 is contained in the new budget—$84,168 more than for last year. Minimum pay for part-time student workers has been increased to $1 per hour, up from 85 cents. Student employment funds also will be supplemented by federal funds through participation in the U. S. College Work-Study Program.

Budget allocations for 1965-66 were approved by the board to include:

Educational and general expenses, $43,487,284; Auxiliary Enterprises, $6,888,410; Permanent Improvements, $300,000; Refunds, $154,000; University Student Activities, $661,000; and Student Aid (scholarships, grants, fees and fellowships) $539,716.

Area Development Discussion Is Set

Walter J. Willis, professor of agricultural industries, will discuss the role of a university in area development at the Mt. Vernon Kiwanis Club meeting next Thursday evening.

Willis is a native of Beecher City, Ill., and has been on the SIU faculty as chairman of the agricultural industries department since 1956. He formerly served on the faculties of the University of Illinois and Washington State College. He also was a livestock market analyst for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

He received his bachelor's and doctor's degrees from the University of Illinois and is a specialist in agricultural marketing and farm cooperatives. He was abroad twice in 1963 to study agricultural marketing and cooperatives and to take part in an American-European symposium on agricultural trade in Western European countries.

He is a member of professional groups in the field of agricultural economics and is a frequent contributor to professional journals and farm periodicals.

Teenagers Explore Pathways to Peace

(Evelyn Augustin, an SIU junior majoring in journalism, was one of a group of college students selected to work at an unusual summer camp. This is a third of a series of reports on life at the camp.)

By Evelyn Augustin

LAKE GENEVA, Wis.— Since George Williams College is mainly interested in conference groups, the Lake Geneva campus provides accommodations for various types of them during the summer.

Some are similar to those meeting at the Carbondale campus of SIU, such as high school cheerleader groups. Others are unusual like the one meeting this week which has attracted the attention of at least one national magazine.

Some 500 teenagers representing 21 foreign countries and parts of the United States have come here to discuss their roles in promoting world peace.

They are concentrating on the "powers created by God" that man is utilizing to achieve goals contrary to those set forth by Christian doctrine.

Previously open only to American students, the Ecumenical Youth Study Conference, sponsored by the United Christian Youth Movement of the National Council of Churches, has joined with the International Christian Youth Exchange to make possible this unprecedented conference.

The basis for the discussions is "These Rebellious Years" (Friendship Press, New York) a book written by the Rev. Albert van den Heuvel of Geneva, Switzerland. The main speaker at the conference, Mr. van den Heuvel is the secretary of the World Department of the Youth Council of Churches.

Others participating in the conference are a team of international youth experts; Peter Countryman of Chicago, a Yale graduate student and a promoter of civil rights; the Rev. Gabriel Setllione of Zambia, youth secretary of the All-Africa Conference.

The Rev. Henk van Andel of Geneva, Switzerland, secretary of the International Christian Youth Exchange; the Rev. Theodore McEachern of Nashville, Tenn., a Methodist youth leader; and the Rev. John S. Wood of New York City, director of the Youth Department of the National Council of Churches.

After freely discussing controversial issues, the teenagers are able to relax, some by swimming or boating, others by gathering for a folk-singing session.

Whether they are in serious study or at play, the eagerness and enthusiasm on the students' faces reflects the general theme of the conference: "What in the World Are We Waiting For?"

Filmdom Politics Goes to Dogs

By-Arthur Hoppe
 San Francisco Chronicle
 Q-You are Mr. Gaspar G. Gladsome, managing director of the Central Hollywood Casting Corporation?

A-Yes, that's right. We supply any kind of an actor you want for any kind of a role you've got—from dog catcher all the way up to governor.

Q-You mean political roles?

A-Right. Oh, we still get some calls from the movies or tee-vee, but mostly now it's from some political faction needing a candidate. George started the trend.

Q-George?

A-George Murphy. You remember him. Used to be Shirley Temple's father on the late, late show. Now he's a U.S. Senator from California. Sure caused a stir in Hollywood. And now with Ronnie looking good...

Q-Ronnie?

A-Ronald Reagan. You know, the right wing's running him for governor of California and the experts are giving him a very good chance of copying it. He's a fine candidate. Of course, he can't dance as well as George, but he's got an even nicer smile.

Q-Sounds like a shoo-in.

A-Well, he would be. It depends on whether the voting public is willing to forgive and forget the one tragic mistake he made early in his career.

Q-He accepted membership in the Communist Party?

A-No, much worse than that... He accepted the title role in "Brother Rat." And if they start showing that on the late, late show...

Q-It could certainly ruin his image.

HOPPE

A-Right. Of course, he usually played the good guy. You know, the friendly, true-blue, 100 per cent American kid next door who always got the girl. Real gubernatorial material. It's been mighty tough finding a candidate who had a chance of stopping him.

Q-You've been working on it?

A-Right. But who're you going to run? Basil Rathbone?

Too thin. Cesar Romaro? Too suave. Cary Grant? Too sophisticated.

Q-What about Senator Kuchel?

A-Kuche! What're his credits? You can't stop Ronnie with some bit player. You need a candidate who's made a name for himself with the public.

Q-It looks hopeless.

A-That's what we said at Central Casting. We not only need a name actor, we said, but one who's always been a hero in the public's eyes.

Q-John Wayne?

A-Too tough. No, for the governorship you need a gentler hero, one the public can identify with, one who rescues drowning babies, fights forest fires and loves little children.

Q-That's important for a governor?

A-Right. And to beat Ronnie, you need a candidate with equally perfect teeth and that wavy hair the ladies want to run their fingers through. You need a candidate who has an even nobler expression, one who...

Q-Yes, but that's impossible.

A-Hah! I'm proud to say that after a long search we at Central Casting have at last come up with the one candidate who can beat Ronnie. Would you like to shake hands with the next governor of California?

Q-It would be an honor.

A-Fine. Here Lassie!

Two Types of Movies: Physical, Metaphysical

I Lost it at the Movies, by Pauline Kael. Boston: Little, Brown and Co., 1965. 365 pp. $6.

Pauline Kael's purpose, according to the dustjacket, is to "praise and deplore" the films of a decade.

What she actually does is review the reviews of the films of a decade. And like most reviewers, she doesn't much like other reviewers.

Miss Kael's most important contribution, however, is a look forward. She sounds the death knell for the good old-fashioned entertaining movie. No longer apparently is such a film profitable for filmmakers.

Today's enlightened intellectuals, on one hand, demand "cinema" which uses the "medium" for an artistic expression of nothing short of a "universal truth." To the less sophisticated, on the other hand, action has become the key to screen pleasure.

Their tastes perhaps dulled by television, such viewers demand action even at the expense of plot and are little concerned with inadequate screenplay and sloppy film editing.

It was the high brow demand for cultured cinema, Miss Kael contends, which made "Hiroshima Mon Amour" fashionable—she feels its universal truths could have been stated as well by Stella Dallas.

And the action approach to box office success left "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?" so "untidily put together that information crucial to the plot or characterizations was obscure or omitted altogether."

Without saying so, Miss Kael credits the critics—not including herself, of course—with much of the silly sophistry surrounding today's movies. Witness, for example, the babbling of a reviewer who felt one must see "West Side Story" to know what New York street gangs really are like!

After 365 pages of her own critique, however, the reader is most likely to react with, "So what?"

Viet Raid at Tonkin Bay Started Year of Decision for U.S.

By Edward Neilan
 Copley News Service

HONG KONG—A year ago North Vietnamese patrol boats attacked the destroyer USS Maddox on patrol in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The date was Aug. 2, 1964.

Two days later more Communist boats engaged the destroyer USS Turner Joy in the same area.

On Aug. 5, U. S. Navy planes from the aircraft carriers Ticonderoga and Constellation were launched in retaliation.

The planes blasted targets in North Viet Nam at Quang Khe, Vinh, Loc Chau and Hongay.

The Gulf of Tonkin events marked the start of a year of dramatic decision for the United States in Southeast Asia and a sharp escalation of the war in Viet Nam.

The debate about whether or not to bomb North Viet Nam raged in Congress, in jungle outposts and along Saigon's Rue Catinat.

The Tonkin attacks by the North Vietnamese gave the United States ample justification for reprisals.

But hesitation still marked Washington's attitude while the situation continued to deteriorate.

No more strikes north were called even as Viet Cong gains increased and a succession of governments lowered morale in Saigon.

On Oct. 30 a mortar attack on Bien Hoa air base, destroying a dozen B57 bombers on the ground was tragic and infuriating.

Ambassador Maxwell Taylor recommended strikes north, but nothing happened.

The feeling—justified or not—in Saigon was that Washington did not want to launch attacks on election eve.

On Christmas Eve, Viet Cong terrorists bombed the Brink officers quarters in downtown Saigon, taking several American lives.

Air strikes were requested by Taylor, and still nothing happened.

Then came the decision points, the actions that could not be ignored.

The Viet Cong—with what they considered sufficient evidence that the United States would not strike back—raided U. S. installations at Pleiku on Feb. 7, killing eight Americans and wounding 100.

On Feb. 10, a Viet Cong suicide squad planted 100 pounds of TNT in a billet at Quin Hon. When the rubble had been cleared, there were 21 Americans dead and 22 wounded.

The response to the Pleiku raid came within 12 hours.

Forty-nine planes from the carriers Ranger, Hancock and Coral Sea struck at Dong Hoi, inflicting considerable damage.

The reply to the Quin Hon affront was even larger.

Memory Transfer Claimed From Rat-to-Rat Injection

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Transplanting of memory from one brain to another by injections was disclosed Thursday by a group of psychologists at the University of California at Los Angeles.

The experiment was made with rats but Dr. Allan L. Jacobson said, "We can certainly imagine that benefits might result for humans in the long run."

Jacobson, assistant professor of psychology, said the transplanted substance

Marriage Rumors Fly; Sinatra Mum

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP)—Singer Frank Sinatra vacationed aboard a luxury yacht in New England waters Thursday amid rumors he was about to wed a freckle-nosed actress 30 years his junior.

But while Sinatra, 49, and Mia Farrow, 19, came ashore Wednesday night on picturesque Martha's Vineyard Island, it wasn't to see a preacher, but just to have dinner.

Sinatra wasn't surrounded by his usual companions—Peter Lawford, Dean Martin, Sammy Davis Jr., and Joey Bishop—but by Rosalind Russell, Claudette Colbert and Merle Oberon, and their husbands.

Sinatra refused to discuss persistent rumors he would marry the young actress, who stars in the TV series, "Peyton Place."

"I don't grant interviews," he told The Associated Press through an aide. "I'm on vacation. That's all."

Miss Farrow, with make-up, her blond hair in a pony tail and wearing flat-heeled shoes, remained equally mum.

Her mother, actress Maureen O'Sullivan, said at her Westport, Conn., home that "Mia would have told me if she planned marriage, and she hasn't told me anything." She added that her daughter and Sinatra had been seeing each other for several months.

was ribonucleic acid—RNA, long suspected to be involved in the memory process.

The RNA molecule is similar to that of deoxyribonucleic acid—DNA, the molecule that carries hereditary blueprints from one generation to the next. Current theory is that RNA may encode memory much as DNA encodes genetic information.

Jacobson and his associates trained rats to go to a feed cup when a certain click was sounded. They extracted RNA from the brains of the trained rats and injected it into the bodies of untrained rats. The injected rats showed "a significant tendency"—seven times of 25—to go to the cup when a click sounded, without previous training, Jacobson said. A control group of uninjected rats responded in this manner only one time in 25 tries, he said.

If it works in humans eventually, would this mean that future generations can get their education by injections from the brains of deceased learned men?

It may not be that easy. Jacobson pointed out that in his experiment the "injected memory" faded unless it was strengthened by training.

The injection of RNA takes effect after about five hours, he said. It lasts for about 24 hours, then the "memory" response becomes erratic.

No Serious Effects on Aerial Strikes Expected From Guerrilla Fuel Raid

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—U.S. and South Vietnamese planes maintained raids on Communist targets as usual Thursday, writing off losses in a Viet Cong attack on a big aviation fuel dump near the Da Nang air base.

Greek King Meets Premier He Fired

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Former Premier George Papandreou met King Constantine at the royal palace Thursday night and asked the monarch to let him form a new government in place of the fallen George Athanasiadis Novas regime.

In an apparent challenge to the king, Papandreou suggested immediate elections as the alternative.

The monarch, 25, forced to seek a solution to Greece's continuing political crisis after Parliament defeated his government, received the political foe he had fired.

Papandreou went to the palace in triumph just a few hours after Athanasiadis Novas resigned. A vote of no confidence in Parliament brought his fall early Thursday.

facilities operated by Esso Standard East will have no serious effect on the air strikes.

On the heels of the Da Nang incident, the United States announced the formation of a new military command structure to control all U.S. Army and Marine ground combat forces over a 40-mile-long strip of South Viet Nam from the central highlands to the Mekong delta.

Though there is no provision for joint command, the territory covers the Vietnamese army's 2nd and 3rd Corps area.

The aim is to expedite and coordinate the operations of U.S. troops in support of South Viet Nam's war effort.

In the Viet Cong raid, two of Esso's nine tanks were destroyed, two were damaged and fuel estimated to total a million gallons was lost.

But large fuel dumps are located on the base itself and the spokesman said it was believed they contain enough to fulfill immediate needs.

Tankers ferry millions of gallons to Da Nang and other bases to keep the jets, propeller planes and helicopters flying. The demand is high. Standard tanks of a single U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchief take about 1,200 gallons.

The U.S. 7th Fleet has its own refueling facilities and Navy planes made the day's biggest strike north of the border. This was an attack by 16 Skyhawks and 10 Phantoms from the carrier Midway on the Vinh army barracks, 160 miles south of Hanoi.

Football Salukis

Coach Hopes Hustle Offsets Inexperience

Experience will be one of the missing ingredients this season when the football Salukis take the field Sept. 18, but Coach Don Shroyer is counting on two other ingredients, hustle and desire, to overcome this one flaw.

Shroyer who is in the middle of an intensive football rebuilding program, following last year's 2-8 performance, will have some 23 sophomores on the team, many of whom will be in the starting lineup.

One of the sophomores, Ag School Issues Guidance Booklet

A 16-page illustrated informational brochure has just been issued by the School of Agriculture.

Intended especially for high school guidance counsellors, vocational agriculture teachers, and others concerned with youth interested in going to college, the booklet provides through pictures and brief descriptions the facilities and the fields of study available in the SIU School of Agriculture.

It also emphasizes the wide variety of challenging careers that are open to persons who obtain a college education in some phase of agriculture.

In addition to sections on each of the School's four departments—agricultural industries, animal industries, forestry, and plant industries—the publication contains brief general material on the University, and how to obtain additional information.

Isaac Brigham, has had a great deal of experience. Brigham was one of the starting offensive tackles last year.

Brigham is just one of the reasons why Shroyer thinks the Saluki line will be the team's strong point this season.

Shroyer also has returning linemen Mitch Krawczyk, Vic Pantaleo, Gene Miller, Lew Hines, Willy Wilkerson and Dave Cronin.

Along with these veterans Shroyer has sophomores Jerry Moore, Al Equi, Al Jenkins, Ron McCartney, Ralph Galloway, Rich Hawkins, Joe Ewan. At the ends Shroyer has sophomores Bill Blanchard and John Ference, along with veteran Mike McGinnis.

Shroyer is understandably proud of his first group of line recruits and figures that most of them will be seeing considerable action this year.

Before the intersquad game last Spring, Shroyer was somewhat concerned about the lack of depth in the Saluki backfield, but on the basis of many of his sophomore backs in that game, Shroyer may not have as big a shortage there as was first thought.

Quarterbacking will be one of Shroyer's lesser problems as he has two veteran quarterbacks in Jim Hart and Doug Mougey returning.

Sophomores will also dominate the Saluki backfield. Halfback Eddie Richards, who was the top ground gainer in the intersquad game, along with Gene James, Hill Williams and Arnold Kee, all figure prominently in Shroyer's plans for the coming year.

The Salukis lack experience but Shroyer feels this year's team will be much improved.

Four-Game Series in St. Louis Holds 2d Place Chance for SIU

With second place in the Midwest Summer Baseball League standings, on their minds, Southern's baseball Salukis leave today for St. Louis, where they will play a four-game series with second place St. Louis University.

Although supporting only a 9-15 record for the season, the Salukis are only two games behind the second place Billikens, who are 11-13.

The two teams have split the first eight games played against each other this season. The Salukis must win all four games this weekend to gain undisputed possession of second place.

In the first game of the series, which will start at 6 p.m. today, Bob Ash will start against the Billikens' John Marcum. Ash defeated Marcum in the start of last week's series 5-3.

Coach Richard (Itchy) Jones is expected to start pitchers Ron Guthman and George Poe on Saturday and Mike Lyle on Sunday.

The Saluki batting attack, which picked up in the recent series with the Billikens, will be led by Nick Solis, the centerfielder from Brooklyn, N. Y. Solis leads the team in batting, with a .338 percentage and runs batted in with 16.

Frank Limbaugh at .283 and Rich Hacker at .270 are two other leading Saluki hitters.
