Beautiful? You may not think so, but...

By Michael Cussuschak
Staff Writer

If we could just, 2,000 years hence, excavate the area around the newly-built Recreation Building, they might ask the same question most SIU students are asking themselves: What the heck is it?

The $8.9 million Recreation Building sprawls across the northeast section of the campus like some prehistoric monster. Dark and gigantic, its generators emitting a continuous humming sound, while the jutting steel beams give an appearance of all bones and no skin.

Recently, the building's architectural design garnered an award for its architect, Ralph Rapson and associates of Minneapolis, Minn. The Minnesota Society American Institute, selecting from 91 other submissions, issued an Honor Award to the firm.

But despite a majoring in economics, couldn't believe the building won an award. "It's not beautiful, but once you're inside you don't have to look at the outside," Ryan also felt SIU should hire some new architects, but did concede that "it looks better than Faner Hall."

Caren Glassman, a sophomore majoring in art, who works at the building's I.D. check, remarked: "Almost everyone says the swimming pool is the biggest they've ever seen."

But she added, "while most people don't like the outside, I do."

Mike Daily, a junior majoring in biological sciences, used to drive by the building in his car and wonder what it was. "It was so big I couldn't imagine what it would be," he said.

Most students expressed a view similar to that of Amy Wheal, a sophomore majoring in commercial recreation: "I don't like the outside. I love the inside. Looks are very deceiving, aren't they?" quipped Wheal.

Inside the building is an Olympic size swimming and diving pool that can accommodate simultaneous use by 500 people. An upper court level allows space for 600 spectators.

Other recreational facilities housed in the award winning structure are three gymsnasiums; bandball and squash courts; exercise rooms; dance studios; offices; student lounges and game rooms. Most activity areas are located at the lower level, with offices and lounges at the second level. The building will be developed for outdoor recreation.

"It's like a regular health club, which usually costs an awful lot of money to get into," said Mike Thoma, a junior majoring in recreation, who belongs to a local health club at his hometown.

"Taking note of the building's outward appearance, Thoma joked: "It's what's inside that counts."

Believing that the outside of the recreation building has no attraction as to the architectural structure, Michelle Schuman, sophomore in public relations, said: "I think it was a clean physical outlook. I don't think of what it was. The beauty is held inside the unmoving walls."

The jury selecting the SIU structure commented that "the project is a successful conclusion of the building program of activities. The architect established a strong rationale of organization which was imaginatively manipulated into an experimentally rich and disciplined environment of formation and elaboration within a theme characterizes the project."

City's elementary teachers to strike

By Steve Lambert
Editor-in-Chief

Carbondale elementary school teachers will go on strike Wednesday, just one day before the scheduled opening day of classes.

The District 95 School Board announced late Tuesday night that members of the Carbondale Education Association (CEA) voted unanimously not to show up for teacher workshops Wednesday morning.

CEA President Marcia Sinnott was conferring with union members Tuesday night and could not be reached for comment.

The two groups had been involved in collective bargaining negotiations since late-July but failed to reach a total agreement.

Early Tuesday, Sinnott said that the dispute between the two groups center around board-paid retirement and guaranteed planning time.

"If these demands are not received, the recommendation of the teacher's negotiating committee will be to strike," she said.

Sinnott explained that presently, 8 per cent of a teacher's salary goes for retirement. She said that before that money is deducted, the teachers must pay income tax on it.

What we're asking is that the board pay half of the retirement money. Then, we will not have to pay the income tax."

Sinnott said the board has scheduled planning time for the teachers but that it is not guaranteed in the contracts.

She added that the three 30-minute planning periods each week are needed for talking with parents, with a child on a one-on-one basis, mixing paint, grading papers or other things.

"This cannot be done while there are 30 children in the classroom," she said.

Sinnott said that during the planning periods, students spend time with a music teacher, a physical education teacher or are involved in other meaningful activities.

Other contract disputes with the board have been resolved, she said, with the exception of "a couple of things. But those won't create any major problems."

She said of the 108 teachers, 102 are members of CEA. "But I am confident that those who don't belong will honor a picket line," she said.

Most union members were expected to attend Tuesday's CEA meeting.

School board President Donald Tindal could not be reached for comment all day Tuesday.

However, late Wednesday, he did say that the board could not afford the teachers' demands, and added that board-paid retirement would cost the district $10,000 more in school year 1978-1979.

The CEA walkout comes in the midst of teacher-board deadlocks in Marion and Johnston City. Teachers at Carbondale Community High School reached an impasse with Community School District 65 last Wednesday and a strike is "a possibility," according to teacher union president Theodora Bach. Candy bars shrinking as costs rise

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Like skintight garments, getting skinnier and more expensive. Take the Hershey bar, the granddaddy of chocolate bars, which sells for as much as it did in 1950 and is almost half the size.

In the past nine months, the Hershey bar has shrunk from 1.35 ounces to 1.2 ounces, while the "common retail price" has remained at 20 cents. As late as 1965, a two ounce Hershey bar was only a dime. The reason? "The price increase is the byproduct of everything—for chocolate bars, especially, is not popular support for the Panama Canal treaty once he gives them the facts about it, including new assurances from Panama that the country will be part of any new canal or expansion of the present one. "I think there has been a great deal of misconception about what is being done in Panama, which may be one of the reasons why they are shrinking," said the asst. director. Carter also denied anew his budget director, Bert Lance, whose private banking practices are under federal investigation. The comprober of the currency last week reported that while Lance was a Governor, he had taken personal loans from other banks where his bank had large deposits.

Fry requests addition to legal staff

By Dennis Sullivan
Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council received a proposal from City Manager, Mr. Carroll Fry, to add "corporation counsel" to the city's legal staff. The purpose of the proposal is to have the city attorney concentrate on in-house matters such as city staff, prepare and interpret ordinances and to assist the prosecuting attorney when necessary.

In a report, which accompanied his request, Fry noted that much of City Attorney John Womick's time had been taken up by council requests. He then listed all of the ways in which city Hall was legally obligated to do things. Fry's proposal would have the legal staff devote attention to those tasks and allow the corporation counsel to handle other matters.

The council also scheduled a public hearing Sept. 12 to consider whether the city should discontinue its refuse collection system or change it to a do-it-yourself, non-commercial refuse collector in the city.

Fry explained that the city is the only remaining refuse agency which pays into a refuse fund to maintain the landfill. The city accounts for over 50 percent of the garage collection in the city and would like to raise the rate from $2.75 per week to $3.24. Residents and non-commercial garbage collectors are invited to attend the hearing which will take place at 7 p.m., Sept. 12 in the city council chambers at 900 E. College St.

No conflict found in Blackshore's new position

By Melissa Malkovich
Staff Writer

McDonald Blackshore, one of the Board of Trustees' strongest advocates of collective bargaining, has been cleared of any conflict of interest between her board post and her new position as assistant to the President of the Illinois Federation of Teachers (IFT).

The IFT, a collective bargaining group represented on this campus by the Carbondale Unit of the Federation of University Teachers (CFU), is competing with three other groups seeking to become the faculty's collective bargaining agent on campus.

Blackshore, the board secretary, said she accepted both roles and will go on supporting the faculty's collective bargaining efforts as a member of the board.

Blackshore was cleared of any conflict of interest in the matter by C. Richard Gruny, Board of Trustees legal counsel.

His investigation of the matter began after Blackshore announced at the July 14 board meeting that she would accept the position with the IFT.

At the time, she said she was "perplexed" about the new position and would not present a conflict unless the IFT became the faculty's bargaining agent.

She learned Monday in a memo from James Brown, general secretary of the AFL-CIO, that her position would only be conflicting under the American Federation of Teachers, an AFL-CIO union of which the IFT is a part, becomes the bargaining agent.

In describing her duties as the IFT president's assistant for political action, Blackshore said, "I am trying to involve teachers in our organization to raise funds and be involved in political campaigns.

She added, "It was a worry that I would be involved in the CFU to fight the board, which is not what I will be doing.

"Until the question of bargaining rights is a matter of law, and an agent is elected, then I can still try to instill my feelings on collective bargaining.

Blackshore is one of two women on the Board of Trustees. She has been a trustee since May, 1973.

Since February, 1976, when the issue first came before the board, Blackshore has consistently voted for a referendum to poll the SIU faculty on the question of collective bargaining. Past bargaining efforts have been conducted but are not considered to have any official weight unless conducted by the board.

The trustees have taken a "wait and see" position pending the legislature providing for collective bargaining by Illinois public employees.

Speeding discussed at City Council, Emerald Lane residents lend views

By Andrea Stramanus
Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council, the police department's traffic study and the people who live there all agree that a speeding problem exists on Emerald Lane, but nobody seems to have the solution.

Jo Anne Thorpe, who lives on Gray Drive near Emerald Lane, submitted a petition to the City Council requesting, among other things, that the city place a stop sign at the corner of Gray and Emerald to slow down drivers.

City Manager Carroll Fry then directed the police department to conduct a traffic study which, when completed, found that approximately 34 per cent of the traffic on Emerald Lane was traveling over the 25-mile-per-hour limit.

The study also recommended that a stop sign not be used to slow traffic on the street.

"The problem is one of speed, not a failure to yield right-of-way," the study, prepared by S. Bill Rypkema, said. "Traditionally it is a bad practice to use stop signs to try and slow traffic.

"At the council's meeting Monday night, Thorpe, repeating the petition's figures, said five cats had been killed and a dog and another cat had been injured by speeding cars on Emerald Lane.

"The spot will kill the animals, have been hit, the people say, in the past six months." It is the corner of a school stop sign at the corner of Gray and Emerald. Thorpe, an assistant to SIU President John Womick, said the people who live near the corner of Gray and Emerald are concerned their children may be hit.

"It is suggested to the council for a stop sign, pointing out that using policemen to control speeding would cost the city and put money.

"She asked: "Would you be willing to place a stop sign there in place of spending quite a number of city dollars?"

Fry's recommendation was made in a memo against the stop sign. He wrote, "Corner of the street and the people who live there in agreement with Thorpe."

The council approved the ordinance which provides for no parking on the west side of Illinois Avenue from 4 a.m. Monday to Monday night. The ordinance also calls for metered parking on the east side of the same stretch of Illinois Avenue.

The council considered a request by SIU to install a flashing yellow beacon for the crosswalk on Grand Avenue in front of the Recreation Building. The matter will be reviewed at the council's Sept. 12 meeting.

The study did suggest to the police department a stop sign on the other side of the street.

The city will use the attorney whenever it needs the attorney. A 50-foot limit is proposed on the place where the traffic is the most intense.

Student Senate should recharge sagging image

The beginning of a new academic year is traditionally a time to start anew. We hope the Student Senate, which has surprised many in its first meeting of the 1977-78 school year today, will use this opportunity to revitalize its sagging reputation.

A meager 10 per cent of the student body voted in last Spring's Senate election. While Student Senate elections have always been impressive turnouts, perhaps if the Senate strove to increase the dedication of its members and its relevance to the lives of most students, it would inspire more respect and interest.

Last year, over half the Senate's members left during the course of the year, often by a circuitous method and were interrupted by senators' whispering, singing and leaving the room.

Dennis Adamczyk, the new student body president, has promised to promote a more professional and efficient Student Senate. We wish him luck. We believe he is like any other student who has emphasized on making the Senate relevant and efficient. We agree that the Senate needs to become more professional, but not in the sense of becoming hung up with the proper forms and return phone calls is not so important as the ability to get things done.

The Senate has elected a group of students who were elected to represent the majority of the students' interests and bring them to the Senate. Let us hope the new senators will bring a fresh outlook and enthusiasm to the Senate. On this they will be judged.

Begin betrays peace effort

To go up to Jerusalem and look around is to fall into the world's tangled node, to be tumbled in the folds of history's belly button. Menachem Begin, when he got back to Jerusalem, seemed to think he was reentering reality. He could cross off Washington, Leningrad and Moscow from his agenda. How to spend his summer vacation? Lying sweetly to Jimmy Carter.

On the very instant, as it were, of his return, Begin legalized three West Bank settlements. The reaction of Washington and Leningrad was understandable. It seemed a deliberate insult to his courtiers, those who were so proud of his previous peace loving and willingness to kill. Just as they called him somewhat moderate, his actions made their words look silly. The way the Israeli public knew he was told Begin was tiring at fault. Yet that is the least troublesome thing about his move. Maybe he had to balance "left" gestures with right ones to hold his position. Home, by concentrating on the timing, some critics make it sound as if if recognition of the settlements might not be in itself, just in its juxtaposition with other events.

Sure, the three settlements were illegal, but even the Labor government felt powerless to move against them by defying popular sentiment in their favor. If that was the case, Begin, due to the victory of the Likud party make the settlements untouchable in fact. if so, why not add jure the problem to the Likud party?

It is an easy argument to make, but it deeply resonates issues. The boldness of defiance of Israel's own government, to tie its hands, was not only done by Begin, but also about returning conquered territory if certain conditions are met. The settlers have offered their cities back, but the government is not ready to pull out in negotiations or when under attack about something, some panicky condemnations prophets and their children.

One has to admire the courage of these settlers. Courage is the special virtue of fanatics. In fact it is the necessity of their calling. That is what made it so hard for successive Labor administrations to move against the "settlers."

The threats of defiance of a negotiated withdrawal seemed less vivid than the present settlement in Jerusalem, whom once of Damascus, back up Israel's occupying force. Nevertheless, there was a tension between the symbolic hard-line stance the Labor leadership was forced to take to keep its voters in line. For Begin, it meant a great deal.

Begin, at a stroke, removed that tension and made it hard, if not impossible, to live up to Israeli's commitment. The return of the right conditions would be legal. Settlements are legal, more of them will be formed.

On the level of the world is political, Begin was not the same President. He is the President of Israel. So long as he is president, Begin has to be heard. His government is more respect and attention.

But that was not the case. The Labor government was not the case. The Labor government was not the case. If Begin had to be heard, Begin was an American, Begin was to be understood as a political leader of America.

In short, Begin has made it impossible to negotiate removal of settlements. He has also made it more difficult for Begin to be open to such negotiations. The more important point is not that he defied America—but that he defied his own people. It is only the realization of the Israeli's root of power. The most important point is not that he defied America—but that he defied the American people. The important thing is that Begin betrayed his own government's ability to act free of internal blackmail; and he defied not merely America, but reality also.

Son of Sam, entertainment for the entire family

By Pam Bailey

There's something about the sound of an ambulance siren or the sight of a fire that draws people like moths to a bright light. A curious twist in human nature causes us to be rather morbidly fascinated by human suffering and the wretched acts of the evildoers in our society.

So the furor over the "Son of Sam" murders is a case in point. It began on July 28, 1976, with the slaying of a lovely brunette named Donna Luska in New York. Two weeks later, with a tense state of only hours before the "Son of Sam" was scheduled to stage a final shoot-out in a discotheque.

But this was no ordinary mass murderer. David Berkowitz, the man who calls himself the "Son of Sam," had a penchant for pretty girls, left childish but macabre notes at the scene of the crime and lived in an apartment with pornographic magazines and poems scrawled on the walls.

Whatever else the newspaper, television networks and other sources of the mass market ask for? There had been nothing truly sensational since the kidnapping of Patty Hearst and news had been slow this summer.

On July 31, the great arrest, the New York Daily News sold 2.3 million copies, 350,000 more than usual, and the New York Post went over 1 million—the biggest sale since Robert Kennedy was assassinated nine years ago. Even the Morton Salt ad in the New York Times had to go on sale 50,000 extra copies.

The trial-New York City police were building days may be over, he promised to provide us with juicy entertainment for minutes to come. Trials with the potential of this one can be expected with any luck to last at least a year. The American system of justice has an amazingly intricate network of legal loopholes for postponing and dragging out trials. If claims are made that a fair trial is impossible because of the pre-trial publicity, this case has been postponed as much as six months.

We have truly entered a new age when the media can bring American citizens closer to a scene of action than ever before. The day after Berkowitz was arrested, a New York Post reporter was right there in the thick of it and passed on his observations to his readers: "Far" and a half hours a Post reporter stood at the side of four courageous New York police officers and an off-duty officer, stirring vigil—praying, talking about God and waiting for dawn a day that will be long remembered.

Commentary

swearing at an unknown madman who has launched a guerrilla war against the young and beautiful of this city.

Of course, in this day and age grief over the gruesome slaying of one daughter cannot be considered a personal experience. After all, the public has a right to know.

The television networks were not to be outdone. When the news of the arrest of the "Son of Sam" first began to break, the president of ABC News himself was on top of police headquarters and directed his crews all night. The public was treated to an unprecedented 20 minutes of live television coverage. Television thrives on good pictures and a better opportunity to show off. But not only was the media there when it all happened, it kept the issue alive when other news might have intruded. On the anniversary of the first "Sam" murder, along with a front-page article and a column on the editorial page, the Post devoted a cor.plete centerfold to the stories of Berkowitz.

The Daily News devoted page 8, page 27 and a column on page 18 to Berkowitz, with headlines reading "Horror that is Queens: Shrinking From Killers," "The Alias Father of Fear," Jimmy Breslin even suggested in his column that perhaps the "Son of Sam" would strike against the New York City lights of Donna Lauria. When nothing happened, the Post was forced to report the next day, "Mark's Book of Sam's Anniversary." The Post also serialized a bloody murder novel it said might have inspired of Sam's.

But that is nothing when one considers the hatred Berkowitz has been able to stir up.

His fame is not limited to American newspapers. His name reached as far as the front page of the Vatican's L'Osservatore Romano and the Soviet journal Izvestia.

His graffiti that have been left to Berkowitz, who had been a quiet, painfully shy teenager who nobody noticed and was once described as needing to be recognized for something.

And he surely has been recognized. Publishers, writers, literary agents and lawyers are already buzzing around the story. Berkowitz is being assured that other people are in the design stage, both "Son of Sam" and "The-Caliber Killer" have been registered as movie titles and Breslin is coming out with a book on Berkowitz in October for which Breslin received an advance of $100,000. Berkowitz's lawyers are in on the scramble. They convinced the New York City and state jail house talk with the accused killer, newspapers for a sum of $50,000.

Yes, Berkowitz will never go unnoticed again—at least until the next mass murderer comes along.

Director dreams of program to deal with modern life

By Jean Vance

Norwich, Vt. —

The director of SIU's Rehabilitation Institute hopes to see her dream come true — a new degree program dealing with how to teach people to cope with modern life.

Gin Rezaghi, director of the institute, feels it is important for people to be in tune with their bodies, because they would be able to do such things as lower their heart rate and lessen the chances of disease.

In talking about the prospective program in "Personal and Family Living," she referred to a book by Dr. John McCamy, a St. Petersburg, Fla. physician who has turned consultant.

McCamy has been contracted by the university to teach workshops on personal and family living, beginning in August. McCamy's book, "Living," outlines the things that the workshops will cover.

"These workshops will be a pilot for the degree program to see how it can be applied," said Nora Kramer, program administrative assistant at the Rehabilitation Institute.

Rezaghi hopes that other units, such as Physical Education and Health Education, will cooperate in getting the program together.

Once the outline for the degree program is written up, it must be approved by the SIU administration and then by the Rehabilitation Services Administration in Chicago.

The master's program, if approved, would be offered to both students and faculty. Rezaghi said, "It's purpose would be to train practitioners in personal and family life style.

Because there wasn't anyone to organize the courses.

Last summer there was only one applicant for the Free School post and Grier said he wanted to wait until he got more applicants that fall before deciding who would replace Cooper.

"The Free School job is open to anyone who applies," said Grier. Applications for the job will be taken from Thursday to Sept. 1. They can be picked up at the SLAC office on the third floor of the Student Center.

"The job requires someone who can organize and work on a good job of advertising," Grier said.

"This school is run by a coordinator who schedules classes and is responsible for advertising those classes," Grier said.

Grier also indicated that the job includes work in producing the college catalog, which informs students about classes off-red.

The new SGAC Fine Arts Committee will also be looking for a chairperson and committee members and Grier said that he wanted to have them chosen before the new school year begins.

"The job of organizing the Master of Fine Arts (MFA) exhibit has been kicked around to about three different places in the past," said Grier. "The Fine Arts committee will take over responsibility for this job.

"The Free Arts chairperson must be someone who is good with organizations," said Grier said that students on the Fine Arts Committee will be picked from a wide range of student interests and organizations.

Fish killed in lake by cold; state ghost park develops in Illinois

By Charles Chamberlain
Associated Press Writer

LENA, Ill. (AP)—Near the Wisconsin border in northeastern Illinois is the Lake Le-Aqua-Va State Park, a 715-acre paradise crowned by a glinting 6-acre lake where the fish don't jump anymore.

The park bristles with oak, hickory, walnut, butternut and other hardwoods and large pine trees, and has extensive foot and bridle trails. Rental tent or trailer camping sites, with a freshly-scrubbed look, and picnic areas nestled in postcard settings.

The park is not large as state parks go, but this one turned six miles from Wisconsin in Stephenson County—an territory where the Black Hawk Indian War was fought 18 years ago—to a true diamond in the rough.

But the fish don't jump anymore.

A sign posted at the park entrance says that last winter's fish are still complete.

There is a rustic building down by the lake, housing a snack shop and a bait-sellinl. window. Twenty-seven roachfalls lined by the state can be rented for $5 a day. Four paddle boats. renting for $8 an hour, and three canoes, at $3 an hour, belong to the new owner, 75-year-old Bob Hunkle of Freeport.

I'm a wall blackboard in the shop is chalked the record catch of last year—a 6-pound, 12-inch northern pike. The sign says roach would-be fishermen. it will be at least until 1948 before such fish grow from restocking and again jump in Lake Le-Aqua-Va. Cut by the lake since another sign is now out of place: "Large mouth bass, maximum 14 inches. blue gill and Northern pike, minimum 20 inches. limit 2."

All were killed off by last winter's record cold.

"Still on a real busy Sunday. maybe 100 people will try fishing from the banks or from the boats and if I sell 30 dozen night crawlers for buck," said Hunkle. "They may catch a few pan fish and catch fish that's about all. As word passed along about the fishing business gradually drop off. Maybe, it's about only half of what it was a year ago. But there is a lot more to enjoy than just fishing."

Hunkle said he knew of the winter fish kill before he entered his bid in the state to become owner for three years.

OPEN THIS WEEK MON - THURS UNTIL 8 P.M.
Course focuses on problems intrinsic to everyday life

How does a light switch work or a water faucet or a car engine? Students can find the answers to these questions in Design 101, "The Way Things Work." The hour-long course will meet at 4 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays in Wood Hall.

If you wish to know more about work, you are likely to break them and feel a need for replacing or repairing them. A new course, "The Human Life Cycle," is being offered this fall in the Department of Social Welfare. Everyone can stand more flexibility and more ability to generate change," says James L. Rivers, associate professor in engineering mechanics and technology.

That is why he and David L. Kiderling, assistant professor in the same department have introduced GSM 306, "Creativity in Science and Technology."

The class meets at 9 a.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays in Wood Hall.

Attention Students registering for Fall '77

Three new interdisciplinary courses will be offered in Fall 77. Each course will deal with value problems that arise in the practice of the professions and careers that base themselves upon 1) biological sciences, e.g., nursing, forestry; 2) communication arts, e.g., TV, journalism; and 3) the social sciences, e.g., corrections, rehabilitation.

They are:

LAC 310 Values in the living world. Coordinator: Bengston and Hutch.
LAC 311 Values in the communication arts. Coordinator: Lawson.
LAC 312 Applied values in society. Coordinator: Appleby

The courses have been developed by teams of people from the humanities, the relevant disciplines, and practitioners of these disciplines. The courses will proceed by study of actual cases chosen to illustrate the kinds of value decisions workers have to make, beginning with personal choices, and moving on to decisions that involve wider circles of people: communities, the professions, or the nation.

Heavy use of cinema, slides, case-presentation by workers in the field, and site-visits will help insure the relevance of the subjects treated to the real decisions students will confront in their futures. Term projects will be the chief work asked of students.

Each course will meet twice a week, Tues.-Thurs., and one evening a week for films, site-visits, etc.

The courses are intended for the non-humanities students, do not presuppose prior work in the humanities, and are not designed to lead to a major in the humanities.

The courses are being offered under a project funded in part by the National Endowment for the Humanities. For more information call Liberal Arts Advisement: 453-3388.

Public Notice

directory information
southern Illinois university at Carbondale

Under the University Policy on the Release of Student Information and Public Law 93-380 as amended, the University may, make accessible to any person external to the University "directory information" concerning a student, unless the student notifies the Office of Admissions and Records that he or she objects to the release of such information. Directory information is considered to be public in nature and will be released at any time upon request without prior approval from the student. Notice is therefore given that directory information listed below in respect to each student enrolled at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale will be available to any person unless the student files in writing with the Office of Admissions and Records a request to restrict release of student directory information to external sources.

The University has designated as directory information the following student information:

Student Name
Student local address and telephone number
Student home address and telephone number.
Date-of-birth
Current term hours carried
Classification (Freshman, Sophomore, etc.)
Academic Unit
Major
Degrees and honors earned and dates
The most previous educational agency or institution attended prior to enrollment at Southern Illinois University.
Participation in officially recognized activity or sport and weight, height and pictures of members of athletic teams.

Any student enrolled for the Fall Semester who does not wish to have released any or all of the above listed items of information should contact in person the Office of Admissions and Records, Woody Hall by Thursday, September 1, 1977. Students who elect to restrict release of student information must sign a statement to that effect. The restriction on the release of student information will be valid until September 1, 1978, and must be renewed annually each Fall Semester.

Students who wish to verify or correct the existing student directory information must also contact in person, the Office of Admissions and Records, Woody Hall.
Budget director named soon

Two university employees are finalists for the job of SIU budget director, and Robert Gentry, president for financial affairs, predict the position will be filled within six months.

Two names are being considered for the position created when Warren Buffum was promoted from budget director to associate vice president for financial affairs.

Gentry said that after his search committee submitted the names of three candidates to the Higher Education Administration (HEARS) of Washington D.C. which submitted seven candidates.

Gentry declined to name the ten finalists, but said the search committee received about 60 applications in response to advertisements in several Illinois papers.

Gentry said he asked HEARS for the candidates to ensure minority participation in the search.

"This was an attempt to have an affirmative action effort to add to the pool of candidates who are native Illinoisans," he said.

Gentry said he was pleased with the high number of applications and praised the search committee, chaired by Samuel Bryant, associate professor in the rehabilitation institute.

Woman is hired as coordinator of volunteer efforts

By Rich Gebke
Staff Writer

Pam Luttmers has a lot of worries.

She is trying to help a countless number—young and old, men and women and families—find their place in the community through volunteer efforts.

There are young people who need personal attention, whether it be a phone call or a friendly visit.

There are older people in the community who need a big brother or a big sister.

There are prison inmates who would like a positive connection with the outside world.

And there are children who need day care, students who need tutoring and troubled people who just need someone to talk to.

The beginning of the school year is the crucial time to sign up volunteers.

Luttmers hopes people will discover that this program exists and come to her office on the third floor of the Student Center to sign up for a few hours a week.

A volunteer can improve relations between SUU and the community, Luttmers said. She pointed to the difficult times of the late '60s when relations were anything but friendly.

But she said the most important benefit can be to the volunteers themselves.

"It is an opportunity to try out an occupation. Luttmers, a graduate student in higher education said, "it is also good for a person's resume."

It can also teach people responsibility, give them satisfaction in knowing they helped another and a exposure to class and cultural differences.

She also needs volunteers for a steering committee, which helps organize the volunteers. "This is a leadership experience," she said.

"Volunteering shows future employers that a person doesn't need money to motivate them," she added.

NEW PRESIDENT

FOR WHITNEY MUSEUM

NEW YORK (AP)—The granddaughter of the founder of the Whitney Museum of American Art has been elected president of the Board of Trustees. She is Flora Miller Irving, whose grandmother, Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney, established the museum.

Mrs. Irving, who has been vice president of the Board since 1960, has collaborated with B.H. Friedman, also a member of the Whitney's Board, on a biography of Gertrude Vanderbilt Whitney.

Murphysboro, Illinois
Carbondale agency battles mosquitoes

By Paul Craba
Assistant Writer

To many people, "sleeping in a nest" brings to mind some rare tropical disease found only in certain regions of the world.

But, according to Carl Vineyard, manager of Carbondale's mosquito abatement program, the disease, otherwise known as viral encephalitis, is a potential health hazard in the Carbondale area from March to October.

Although Vineyard estimated that there are 50 different varieties of mosquitoes in the Carbondale area, he said the northern house mosquito is responsible for conveying the encephalitis from birds to people.

"The northern house mosquito deposits its eggs in almost anything that can hold water," Vineyard said. "Other species of mosquitoes tend to remain in stable breeding areas, such as woods.

Water which has remained in the open for more than one week can become breeding sites for mosquitoes, Vineyard said. Citing such factors as bird baths, clogged rain gutters and down spouts, and uncovered trash containers, he added, "the homeowner often causes his own mosquito problem.

"The source of the complaint is generally within 100 yards of the house," Vineyard said.

"The mosquito program can take care of the major breeding areas, but we must have the cooperation and help of the homeowners. Although homeowners cannot be forced to eliminate these potential breeding sites, Vineyard said the program can force people to destroy breeding places for adult mosquitoes.

"The program, in cooperation with the city government, is authorized by state statute to control weed growth," Vineyard said. "If a homeowner does not maintain his property in a reasonable fashion, he said, "we will serve him a notice to cut the weeds. If he has not taken corrective action within seven to 10 days, we will move his property and bill him for the service.

According to a public notice issued by the city last April, the maximum legal height of weeds or grass is six inches. In addition to hitting the homeowner, a fine may be levied.

"Another part of the mosquito abatement program is aerial fertilizing," Vineyard said. He added that the program has seven full-time and five part-time employees during the mosquito season.

The Carbondale mosquito abatement program was initiated in 1958 by the Lion's Club. It is funded through a mosquito abatement tax levied on Carbondale homeowners.

Many great books read by leaders

BUXTON (API) — How many of the world's great books have you read?

Five English professors listed two great works for the Boston Herald American, which asked Sen. Edward Kennedy, Gov. Michael Dukakis, Red Sox pitcher Bill Lee and they how many they had read.

Kennedy claimed to have read all 20 and Franklin D. Roosevelt's "The American Century," while Dukakis claimed 11 of the 20 and Dukakis claimed 11 of the 20 and Betsy Mayor Kevin H. White 15.

SIU Rehabilitation Institute revises state work manuals

By Jean Vander Student Writer

At the request of the Illinois Division of Vocational Rehabilitation (IDVR), the SIU Rehabilitation Institute is revising two manuals used by people working in rehabilitation throughout the state.

"It's kind of a first," said Patty Hassley, researcher at the institute, "because Illinois is the first state to go outside the government to get the job done."

The career work manual and the administration manual, originally written over 15 years ago, have never been completely updated, said Hassley.

"People would often put in new ideas without taking out the old, so they became bulky," Hassley said.

"You couldn't carry them across campus if you tried."

She said the state wants the revised manuals to be brief, clear and concise, which is a challenge because the two manuals were started in three months. The project was started in the middle of June and is to be completed by Sept. 12.

"Usually it takes two to three years when the job is done internally," Hassley said.

To make sure that the manuals are being rewritten properly, faculty at the institute have had two meetings with members of the IDVR to get their feedback on the accuracy of the texts.

"We definitely need their input because the manuals are for and about them," she said. "So far they like what they've seen."

Hassley feels that the institute at SIU was selected for the job because of its favorable reputation around the country.

Students offered food and fun

The Student Center will open its doors Wednesday evening to provide refreshments—food, music, and merriment.

The event, sponsored by the Orientation Committee of the Student Government Activities Council in conjunction with the Student Center.

"Through the open house, we are trying to give new students as well as returning students a chance to see what the Student Center has to offer," Tom Habershon, coordinator of student activities, said.

To start things off, there will be an art print sale going on all day Wednesday in Ballroom A. Bowing and billiards are free from 8 p.m. to closing. Bingo games and trivia contests will be held in the Roman rooms starting at 7 p.m.

Numa, a Chicago based jazz group, will be performing at the big stage.

If your musical tastes favor a simpler beat, Ragged But Right will be offering some bluegrasses and folk tunes in the Big Muddy Room, beginning at 8 p.m. SGMAC will provide free refreshments for the bluegrass show.

Tom Chapin is featured performer in Dessert Playhouse's fall billing

By Rick Aa. Staff Writer

Remember waking up on Sunday morning and groggily turning on the TV? You used to see Sunday services always pop up and public service announcements. That was back in the day.

"Make A Wish," a Peabody and Grammy award-winning children's program that aired for five years in the 70s, featured special guests, pretty antics, quick cut still photography and old and new motion picture footage in an informative format, exploring meanings of everyday words and concepts.

The show, watched by adults as well, was hosted by a tall, lanky, gray-haired, natty man with a smooth voice and boyish smile. Tom Chapin, who also proved himself an accomplished songster-pony puck.

The unusual format of that show inspired a special of talent in Chapin known best for "Wishing Well," knocked around clubs for 15 years, including New York clubs like the Bitter End and Bottom Line.

With the release of his first album in November of 1980, "Life is Like That," Chapin emerged from the wing of his more famous brother, Harry, and the music, a blend of folk rock, folk, pop, and country caught on with the critics who enjoyed its pristine feet and infectious rhythmic.

Chapin will bring his good vibes to the Student Center Thursday, August 25, for two shows at 7 and 9:30 p.m. as the first Student Government Activities Council Dessert Playhouse presentation of the season.

The Playhouse concept started as a spring with such performers as the great blind John Davis and dessert and coffee served during breaks. The atmosphere is casual and light.

Other performers scheduled for the fall include Jim Post on September 21, the Loose Brothers on September 19, Greg Brown on October 2 and Mary and Taylor on November 5.

Ezzio boss will perform before a packed house.

Man in the Environment: an exhibit produced by the Field Museum of Natural History Chicago is on display through September.

The exhibit is open Monday through Friday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays, 1-4:30 p.m. It features problems like energy flow, nutrient cycles and population control. Another exhibit, beginning Thursday, will be held at Mitchell Gallery in the Student Center.

Auditions to start

Auditions for the Speech Department's production of "Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory" will be held on Wednesday from 6 p.m. and Thursday from 7:30 p.m. in the Callaway Room of the Communications Building.

The production will be directed by Patti Guzman, graduate student in speech communication. "Willy Wonka and the Chocolate Factory," tells about the incredible and fun-filled adventures of an outing journey of Wonka's Chocolate Factory where mastic and mastic surprises are endless.

Thirteen people are needed for the production: five for the main character for seven men, four women and there's an opening for two roles that are flexible.

The play will be presented September 29, 30 and October 1. Scripts can be obtained from the speech department.

Concert presented

Ragged But Right, a Chicago-based folk-music band, will present a free show Wednesday night at 8 p.m. in the Big Muddy Room of the Student Center.

The band is being sponsored by the Student Government Activities Council (SGAC) Concert Committee and will be presented as part of the Student Center open house. Ragged But Right plays a wide range of traditional bluegrass and folk tunes including "Froggy Mountain Breakdown" and "Wabash Cannonball."

They also perform many current folk tunes recorded by several of today's leading artists. These include "Paradise" by John Prine, "Southbound" by Doc Watson and several foot-stomping by the Newsgrass Revival.

Chuck White, SGAC Concert Committee spokesperson, said free peanuts will be provided along with the entertainment in the Big Muddy Room and free beverages will be served with each pizza purchased.

Music is open house

Numoro, a band that combines the heavy rhythms of rock and funk, the fire of Latin swing and the tone of jazz will perform Wednesday at 9 p.m. in Ballroom D of the Student Center.

The band, who hail from Chicago, were formerly known as the Free Street Theater Band. They play mostly original material while combining the works of the greats.

Examples of some of the material that rounds out the Numoro sound include the material of Chuck Berry, Freddie Hubbard, Keith Jarrett, Tony Williams and Brian Auger to name a few.

Van Dyke resigns as women’s SID

By Bud Vandermeul Bell

Carol Van Dyke, sports information director for Southern Illinois University, resigned Monday to take a similar position at the University of Minnesota. She will assume her new duties on Sept. 4.

"We were sorry to lose Carol," women’s athletics director Charlotte West said, "but I’m happy for her because she is going to one of the fastest growing athletic programs in the country. Attitudes about women’s athletics in this area are provincial, and it was hard for Carol to get publicity for our program."

Van Dyke, a native of Rantoul, Ill., who graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1973, has been with the women’s athletic program at SIU since August 1973. She was the second tennis director hired by West.

"My leaving is not a reflection on SIU at all," Van Dyke said. "Professionalism is the best fielder’s choice. Van DeJesse then boosted Bill Madlock’s grounder for an error as Thomas scored, then Andrews scored on a sacrifice fly by Willie McCovey. Chicago tied it in the sixth on a double by Morales and a single by Owens. Burns left in the fifth inning with one run, two and only one out. Dave Roberts retired McCovey on a sacrifice fly and struck out Clark. The Giants wasted leadoff doubles in the second and third innings by McCovey and Gary Alexander. McCovey doubled opening the seventh and McFarland scored when Langers grounded out. Thomas spoiled, but Andrews grounded into a double play.

"Serious Beat.Cubs had gone ahead 2-0 in the sixth. Kepner grounded nine batters in a row before DeJesus walked with two out in the fifth

Foli’s single in 13th beats Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Tim Foli’s run-scoring single in the 13th inning Tuesday lifted the San Francisco Giants to a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs. With one out in the 13th, Jack Clark walked and stole second. Darrel Evans then grounded out, and Foli singled to right, giving the Giants their first lead over the Cubs this season after eight straight losses.

Paul Reuschel, 4-5, the fifth of six Cubs pitchers, was the loser. The victory went to Charlie Williams, 5-4.

The Cubs took a 2-0 lead in the second inning on singles by Jerry Morales, Steve Otsuji, Manny Trillo and pitcher Ray Burn. The Giants got back in the fourth when Clark walked with two out, went to second on a single by Evans and scored when Otsuji doubled up the right field fence.

San Francisco went ahead in the fifth with two unearned runs. Derrel Thomas singled with one out and Bob Andrews reached on a fielding error. Andrews scored on the errant throw by catcher Bill Freeborn.

Return posts 7-4 at Illinois tourney

Sophomore Jim Return of the Saluki golf team shot a three over 74 in the 4-A round of the 57th annual Illinois State Amateur golf championship Tuesday at Rockford.

He is seventh out of a field of 128 golfers. The second round will be played today.

Return qualified for the tournament at Springfield with a total score of 132. Players from three qualifying rounds joined 40 entries from the Rockford region. A field of 46 golfers attempted to qualify for the tournament.

Defending champion Tom Evans of Northbrook is the current leader as he shot a one under 70 for the day. Last year Evans won the trophy in a sudden-death playoff over Mark Smith of Oak Park.

"I’d have to be a 68 to challenge Evans," Return said in a telephone interview Tuesday. "I just want to finish in the top 30." The 70-30 winners and ties will play a final 18 holes on Thursday. The tournament will be sponsored by the Ill. Louis L. Emmerson Trophy

SIU offensive line in rebuilding stage

Two of the present starters—Vagas and Huie—are non-letters. Dempsey said the 1978 offensive line made up for lack of size with quickness, agility and conditioning, and he hopes that the 1977 line isn’t any bigger.

For the people who want to help us get to the first three of four games, then we may go with some of the younger players.

“An offensive lineman can be made,” Dempsey said. “You can teach him the skills and techniques he needs to play. Dempsey added that besides run blocking, the coaching staff needs to pass more blocking in 1977.

“Pass blocking is even harder than the run blocking for most linemen.” Dempsey said.

After Saturday’s scrimmage Dempsey Honore played well, but Huie and Fletcher were only “lur.” He added that the tackles—Fletcher and Vagas—weren’t “exploding and blocking well enough.”

The offensive linemen would have to develop before the offensive team can become a powerhouse.

The Saluki football team is working out in preparation for their Sept. 3 opener against New Mexico State at Austin, N.M. SIU opened its home schedule Sept. 17 against Indiana State.

By Byron Holland

Two Salukis have been named to the 1977 Missouri Valley Conference football team. Bob Collins, a senior quarterback from St. Louis, was a consensus pick, and senior linebacker from Webster Groves, Mo. And Jack Vagas, a 6-3, 245-pound freshman from St. Louis, was named a second teamer at his position.

The team was chosen by ballists cast by Missouri Valley Conference coaches and media representatives attending the Valley Skywriters Tour held July 23-30 at Terre Haute, Ind.

A total of 19 ballots were cast. West Texas State and New Mexico State each placed five players on the All-MVC squad. New Mexico State tied Tulsa for the Missouri Valley Conference football title in 1976 and West Texas State had the favorites role in a preseason poll at the Valley Skywriters Tour.

Coach - Athletics

The football Salukis offensive line in rebuilding stage after losing four starters from last year, says coach Jim Barrett. “We’ve got the make-up of superstar Jim Brown typed out and we’ll have a total team effort,” Barrett said. Nobody will shoot the super score, not that anyone can possibly “be a better line than a .600 average shooter that last year.”

“Coming in to replace him, last year’s lone SIU representative for the Texas Western Tournament at the Texas Western Athletic University, will be sophomore Jim Liebourn of Mt. Carmel, who placed second in the Illinois State Amateur golf championship at Rockford. He won the qualifying round at Springfield with a score of 71 and has been in many tournaments throughout the summer.

“I’m looking forward to the world from Jim. He should be my No. 1 golfer. He has the ability,” Barrett said.

Seniors Jay Venable and Walt Siemsma will return to battle the younger players down,” according to Barrett. “I’m hoping they’ll be our team leaders. Both have improved their games over last year. The summer experience they gained this year was good for them.” Barrett said. “Jay has the stronger of the two games, but Walt shoots just plain steady golf. He is consistently between 73 and 76.”

Other returnees include Marsh Sillner and James Cravy. Barrett said that Siller hasn’t played anywhere near his capabilities, but that may have been because last year was his freshmen year at SIU.

“Barrett said. “Texas Western Athletic University, however, has not been able to score any of his own potential because of my experience. We’ve got a lot of options in the future of the AIAW. The AIAW has over 600 member institutions, and we are the only one that can fill the void of the sports-governing body in the country. West said. "Women’s athletics is currently a handicapped and I hope to see the future of the AIAW.”

"The AIAW pays for expenses and lodging expenses, but often is often required to pay some of her own expenses. "It doesn’t cost SIU any money for me to be president of AIAW. West said. “Sometimes it does cost me.”

We’re dirt poor. Our only sources of money are membership dues and revenue earned from our tournaments. West said. “We had 22 AIAW nationals titles decided last year in small and large school competition. There will be small and large school championship this year also but she said she expects to see a change in the associations format in the future.

"We have a committee studying the restructuring of the AIAW and its proposal is due Sept. 1. West said. “We will all be viewing that proposal and voted on at a meeting of our executive board. The restructuring plan is based on our class system of dividing schools. I expect to see she received no salary for being administrator of the AIAW. She said, "AIAW pays for expenses and lodging expenses, but often is often required to pay some of her own expenses. "It doesn’t cost SIU any money for SIU any money for me to be president of AIAW. West said. "Sometimes it does cost me."
