Modern student and staff laboratories will be scattered throughout the four floors of the building. The ground floor will be devoted to microbiology, and will contain undergraduate laboratories and individual labs for graduate students as well as staff laboratories. The first floor will contain the physiology department and will have similar laboratory facilities.

Housed on the third floor will be the zoology department, and the fourth floor will be used by the botany department. Many of the staff offices will contain special laboratory facilities.

An animal building for housing of various species of animals to be used in experiments will be a special feature of the building. Life Science will also contain an audi-

As one of the concluding events to the second annual Christmas Week observance, the Social Senate will present a Holiday Program in an all-school assembly Thursday, 10 a. m. in Shroyck auditorium. The program will be given under the direction of Dr. Paul Hunsinger and Wynna Smith. Also working on the committee are Cliff Karch, Louis Hoover, Mary Ann Richard, Don Duffy, and Rita Penrod.

Pep Song Contest Begins Tomorrow Offer $50 Reward

Tomorrow will mark the beginning of a contest which will result in a new pep song for SIU. A pep song contest, sponsored by the Egyptian, Office of Student Affairs, Student Council, and Homecoming committee, will begin tomorrow and will continue until the Feb. 1 deadline.

Students, groups of students, faculty, alumni, and employees of SIU are eligible to enter the contest which will consist of writing words suitable for a university fight song to any rhythm desired by the entrant. For the winning set of words which will be determined by special judges there is a $50 award according to Dean of Men I. Clark Davis.

ENTRY BLANKS may be obtained at the Egyptian office beginning tomorrow. An entry blank must accompany each set of words submitted. All entries will become the property of the committee in charge of the contest.

The committee has made arrangements which include that upon the selection of the winning entry, it will be set to music by a member of the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers.

ALL ENTRIES must be original and may be turned in to the Egyptian office or placed in the Letters to the Editor box in the crosshalls of Old Main.

Members of the committee which set up the contest are Dean Davis, Jerry Fear, Jim Schmulbach, Aileen Anderson, and Barbara Von Behren.

Men's Barracks Has Publication

The third issue of "Barracks Backbody," a publication of the men's residence-halls, will appear next Thursday under the editorship of Bob Francis and David Brookbank. Francis and Brookbank have succeeded a task appointed this fall from representatives from each of the eight barracks.

This newspaper will appear every week on Thursday throughout the school year. Approval from the Student Publications Council is being sought in order to make it an official student publication conforming to the statutes of the University.

At present "Barracks Backbody" is being mimeographed in newspaper style, but a change to newsletter is being considered by the Men's Residence Hall Council, its governing body.

News concerning the barracks is the primary concern of the newspaper, but news from any organized group will be accepted for publication, according to William Rogge, director of housing.

Joe Budde, house fellow for Barracks No. 2, is current sponsor and advisor for the paper.

A COMMITTEE made up of Jim Schmulbach, Dean I. Clark Davis, Jerry Fear, and Barbara Von Behren met Friday with Dr. Mauris Kessner, chairman of the music department, to make final plans for the SIU pep song contest which begins tomorrow. The contest will consist of writing words for a pep song which will afterwards be set to music. Award for the best set of words will be $50.

Contractors Expect to Complete Training School Additions Fall Term

Two new additions to the University school will cost a total of $1,148,000 according to an Architectural Services spokesman. The two wings, and an industrial education physical education building, are expected to be ready for occupancy by the beginning of next fall term.

The industrial education wing, with a brick outside finish like that of the parent building, will house the shops and art department of the University school.

This unit will accommodate the fine arts department, the industrial education classrooms and shops, also mechanics facilities, agriculture department facilities, and space for work in ceramics.

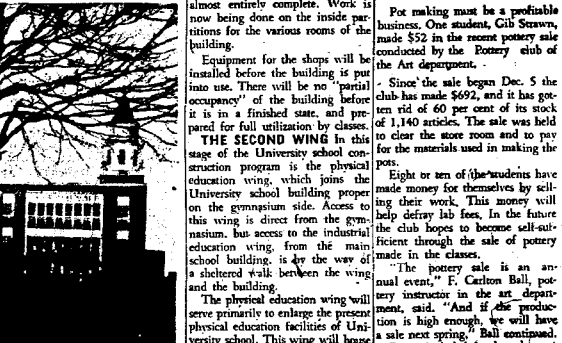

Outside work on this wing is almost entirely complete. Work is now being done on the inside partitions for the various rooms of the building.

Equipment for the shops will be installed before the building is put into use. There will be no "partial occupancy" of the building before it is in a finished state, and preparations for full utilization of classes.

THE SECOND WING in this stage of the University school construction program is the physical education wing, which joins the University school building proper on the gymnasium side. Access to this wing is direct from the gymnasium, but access to the industrial education wing from the main school building, is by the way of a sheltered walk between the wing and the building.

The physical education wing will serve primarily to enlarge the present physical education facilities of the University school. This wing will house two swimming pools.

A large swimming pool will be used for physical education classes.

A WING which is being added to the University School is shown above. This wing will house industrial education including woodworking and auto mechanics, art and ceramics, and agriculture. A physical education wing which is attached to the gym's being built behind this wing.

Club Profits $692 In Sale

Pot making must be a profitable business. One student, Gil Strawn, made $52 in the recent pottery sale conducted by the Pottery club of the Art Department.

Since the sale began Dec. 5 the club has made $692, and it has gotten rid of 60 per cent of its stock of 1,140 articles. The sale was held to clear the store room and to pay for the materials used in making the pots.

Eight or ten of the students have made money for themselves by selling their work. This money will help defray lab fees. In the future the club hopes to become self-sufficient through the sale of pottery made in the classes.

The pottery sale is an annual event," F. Carlton Ball, pottery instructor in the art department, said. "And if the production is high enough, we will have a sale next spring." Ball continued.

Pieces included in the sale were cups, saucers, ash trays, plates, lamp bases, bottles, glasses, jars, bowls, bean bowls, and a variety of bowls.

MAIL BOX

(Editor's Note: Following are comments expressed by three SIU students concerning the meal ticket situation. Each student commends the Student Council for obtaining the increase in the meal ticket savings, but also each one has his own slant on the issue.)

DEAR EDITOR: Think in your bibs, we eat again! After a period of approximately three months, during which time Southern students grew lean and hollowed: purchasers of Canteen and Cafeteria meal tickets will again receive a more substantial discount than the 16th per cent allowed throughout the fall term.

The action of the university officials at the beginning of this term met student opposition, but it was an unorganized opposition. The change would probably never have been made without the aid of the Council. All those who had anything to do with the change should be thanked.

Major credit goes to the Student Council which offered a constructive proposal to restore part of the discount taken from the Board of Trustees last fall. The trustees wisely agreed to consider the suggestion, not as just another gripe, but as a thoughtful criticism.

Meanwhile, students can thank their Council representatives for winning some kind of victory for their pocketbooks. According to a recent Egyptian news story, Southern's Board of Trustees has voted to increase the discount on meal tickets at the cafeteria and Canteen. The one important thing to be noted in the issue and its final solution is the efficiency of the Student Council.

This Wednesday, the receipt book, which contains some of the favorite recipes of the SIU faculty, will be available at the cost of 75 cents. The cover of the booklet is of red and gold, which are the colors of the fraternity. These booklets may be obtained from the Home Economics department office from 11 to 4 p. m. this Wednesday and Thursday.

It Started in Ancient Rome

The Greeks may have had a word for it, but it took the Romans to add Christmas gift-giving to the long list of ancient customs we practice today. Contrary to popular notion, Christmas gift-giving started not with Christ, but was a custom taken over from the Romans.

ALONG with so many other Roman customs, gift-giving moved to Western Europe. Formal gift-giving started in England during the reign of Henry VII—a despot who forced his subjects to pay homage to him every Christmas Eve. Hence, the kind of giving and receiving we know today. The charming Dutch introduced St. Nicholas into our folklore—and the American Santa Claus is a direct descendant of that honored old gentleman.

The Dutch brought gift-giving with them to the New World and America's Midling Post soon accepted that custom along with those of other nationalities. Today, Christmas gift-giving and receiving is the national pastime from mid-October to that last hectic moment on Christmas Eve when the last package is wrapped and placed under the tree.

AFROTC

ANOTHER WELL KNOWN face in the ranks of the ROTC staff will be missing in the near future. Lt. Francis Thompson has had his request for separation from the Air Force approved and in short order he will be departing for Scott Air Force Base where he will be discharged.

Among the first of the staff to be assigned at Southern, Lt. Thompson arrived in Carbondale in June of last year. He has been an instructor in Air Science I during his entire stay here, as well as Unit Adjutant during the school year of 1951-52.

He was one of the officers who assisted the first group of Cadets to attend summer camp training last summer. His assignment was at Biggs Air Force Base in El Paso, Texas.

Thompson entered the Air Force in June, 1942, and after his initial training and pilot's training he was assigned to the 474th Central Postal Directory in the Pacific Theater. He flew C-46's and 47's during the war and returned to the States for separation in 1946.

After his discharge he attended Kalamazoo College in Michigan. He was recalled in 1951 and assigned to SIU.

Thompson plans to move back to his home state with his wife and daughter, but he has no definite plans for the future. He will be on his last column before the coming holidays so on behalf of the entire AF ROTC staff we would like to wish all the Cadets the best of wishes for the Christmas season and a very Happy New Year. We hope you all will be back with us next year.

A QUICK RUN down of news from the extra-curricular activities: Little Team — the first match for the team is scheduled for the weekend of the 20th of December. The match will be against Lawrence College and the University of North Dakota.

Drill Team — No further plans have been made for the team which does not plan full team work until the first of the year.

Arnold Air Society — A letter of appreciation of the cooperation given by the pledges during the Military Ball has been posted by the Society members.

Vapor Trails (Egyptian) — The work of Cadets Bob Henley, Jerry Kolesky, and others who helped produce the column each week is worth mentioning. These Cadets did a fine job and we hope they will continue. Any other cadet who would like to write is invited to do so after the vacation. Merely contact S-Sgt. Member in the Instructions Office. By Ralph Becker

A project has been planned by the Columbia Broadcasting System and the American Cancer Society for medical education in the fight against cancer.

Hour-long weekly programs on cancer detection and treatment will be transmitted by CBS color television over a special closed circuit line to cities having one-third of the nation's doctors.

Color television has proven to be successful in teaching doctors and medical students procedures of operations and treatments. The programs, which leaders hope will be approved by medical colleges as "courses" for which credit will be allowed, will be prepared under the supervision of cancer experts with an experienced radio-TV producer to help make them "interesting and exciting" as well as factually educational.

The society was said to be planning to work closely with county medical societies in developing its "audience," since most doctors are members, and a search is being made for convenient sites for receivers in the various cities involved.

CBS Laboratory Vice-president Peter C. Goldmark, developer of the CBS color television system and originator of the cancer education project, estimated that the programs could be responsible for saving 10,000 lives a year after the first year of operation. The project is scheduled to begin within six months.

NBC Chairman of the Board Niles Trammell resigned last week to become president of a newly formed television company in Milwaukee, Wis.

Officials Open Highway 51 For Traffic Monday

A former strip of Highway 51 was incorporated into Southern's campus last week on a trial basis. The pavement on Thompson street between Harwood and Chautauque was originally slated to be used as an ROTC drill field. After the road had been closed for several days, the State Highway department ordered that it be open to prevent the bottleneck of traffic throughout the campus drives. By Monday morning the road was open for traffic.

Officials at the time felt that closure of the area would reduce danger of traffic accidents involving students crossing Thompson st. to the cafeteria and classrooms, keep the area quieter, and the space around the cafeteria cleaner.

Plans called for the concrete to be removed and grass planted on the space.

ROTC classes were drilling on the space Thursday morning by 8 a. m. since muddy grass made marching impossible on the football field. If the highway had remained open, the area was to be used by the ROTC a few hours a week, one hour on Monday and two hours each on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday.

Incorporation of the section of the SIU campus was made possible by the recent relocation of a strip of Route 51 to by-pass the campus on the east.

for teaching students how to swim, and probably will be used in the future for swimming meets with other schools. This pool, which is approximately 75 feet long and 37 feet wide, is regulation size.

A smaller pool in the same wing will serve to give handicapped students an opportunity to enjoy the same type of facilities which are offered the other students. This pool, which is very shallow, measures 35 feet long and 20 feet wide.

BOTH POOLS will have equipment for heating the water which fills them, and for purifying it. A salient feature of the large regulation size pool, is the use of underwater lighting. This type of lighting will provide illumination of the pool.

Despite this increase in the size of the University school physical plant, an appreciable increase in faculty is anticipated. The change will not require added personnel to any extent, but will rather increase the space for many courses which are now being given under limited space, or temporary conditions.

SIU Features Glass Display

An Ivy in Snow bowl, a Rosette case plate on standard, a Fiat and Ford coupe, and a Daimler and Buick tonne are only a few pieces of the rare pressed glass exhibit now being featured in the University museum. This unique 55 piece exhibit of early American pressed glass was arranged by Southern's Miss Lorraine Waters, art curator, and was taken to the museum by Mrs. Justus L. Johnson of Aurora. The gift, according to Miss Waters, is to be known as the Justus L. Johnson collection, and was given in honor of Girl Scout Troop 14, Aurora, Ill.

"The collection presents a representative display of American clear pressed glassware covering the approximate period of 1830-90 and is typical of glassware used throughout the midwest during this period," Miss Waters stated.

This type of pressed glass, which the people of the Midwest began to experiment with in the late 1820's, was the result of the first pressed glass-making process in this country in which machinery did the work which was formerly done by hand. During that period pressed glass was regarded as a cheaper product, with the then more fashionable blown glass being much preferred. Today however this pressed glass is recognized as a collector's item and blown glass has gone down the scale of popularity.

Similar gifts have been presented by Mrs. Johnson to several other institutions including the Illinois State Museum, the Art Institute of Chicago, the Smithsonian Institution, and the University of Illinois. A few pieces have also been given to the City Art Museum of St. Louis.

SIU Hits Hurons 66-63, Trounces 'Chips' 59-53

By Jim Kahmann

There used to be an old distance runner by the name of Simon Kelley. Simon could run like a million dollars when he was in competition with a good runner. But when he raced a poor one, he was Lynn's sales tax on a quarter. Lynn Holder has quite a basketball team this year, but last weekend it seemed they were just as good as they had to be to win.

The Salukis dropped Michigan Normal Friday night, 66-63, and then took their neighbors, Central Michigan on Saturday, 59-53. The point was, Normal seemed much better than Central, but Southern was just good enough to beat both of them. No runaway in either game, but the boys from SIU have now staved away four victories in as many tries.

This might be the marking of a great team, a team that is just as good as they have to be to win. And from the viewpoint of the writer and the fans, there are no complaints. But jovial Lynn has not only got an interesting season ahead of him, he's got a hair-raising one. If just a touch is going to be sitting on the front of his seat, you sure it. It's going to be an interesting season, from any viewpoint.

MICHIGAN NORMAL

Rip Rippelmeier was as hot as a verboset gambler for a couple of watters last Friday against Michigan Normal, and peppered the net for a piping-hot 20 points as Southern won this one, 66-63. But it was big Chuck Thate who came off the bench to break a 66-62 tie with one minute to go with a game-winning bucket.

In between, there were lots of exciting moments. It was a game of hands from the beginning to the end. There was everything—cool, calculated free-throw shooting on the part of Kurtz, the mentioned premonitions of Rippelmeier, and

CENTRAL MICHIGAN

This time it was Bob Nickolaus who did the field goal chores. By virtue of Nick's fine, first-half shooting against Central, Southern built up a 30-25 halftime score that was never headed. Nick led six two-pointers the first half, enough to make him high for the night with 14, and he got one in the second half.

But if we were to name a hero for this one, it would have to be dynamo Jack Theriot, who came in the game when the boys were battling their troubles with passes and dribbles. Theriot's driving, spirited play in the second half got the Salukis going again, and it was perhaps his keen play that readied Southern for the last-quarter flurry by Central.

Theriot scored twice in three attempts, and his two baskets came on the slicker bit of driving since grandpa skirted the block in the Stanley Steamer. Those two set ups put the Salukis back on their feet. It proved to be a neat bit of substitution on the part of Lynn Holder, and Theriot stamped himself as a real court general.

Just after the fourth quarter opened, Jack Parfitt hit a set-up, and the score was knotted at 45-45. But the rebounding of Rippelmeier, Kurtz, and Thate kept the Salukis in possession of the ball for most of the quarter, and they did well playing keep-away. They scored a small with three minutes to go and a three-point lead, and were out of danger from then on.

The traditional free-throws at the game's end made it 59-53, Southern.

A real fighting ball club, this Southern team. Thursday night and Eastern Illinois is liable to find out just how good the Salukis are. They've been better than the top up to now.

Salute Salukis

GIB KURTZ, E. St. Louis sophomore, gets off the floor on a field goal attempt in last Saturday's victory over Central Michigan's Chippewas.

By JOHN SWEENEY

Southern's Salukis aren't the best basketball team in the nation. But one thing you can rely on is that they have as much spirit as any team could hope to have.

And spirit is just one of the many favorable athletic qualities of Gib Kurtz, sophomore returning letterman from East St. Louis. With his spirit, drive, and hustle, he will, in all probability, be instrumental in the success of the Salukis this season. In Southern's first game, Gib, playing forward, scored 16 points to spark the Salukis to a 66-62 victory over Evansville college.

Kurtz came to Southern last year from a sensational basketball season in the East St. Louis high school league. While a prep senior, the versatile hustler was averaging 17 points a game and leading his team to a fine 21 and 2 record.

In his first year at Southern he succeeded in making the varsity team. Kurtz played guard in 24 games, scoring 176 points for an average of 7.3 points per game.

The six foot, 19 year old athlete says his greatest eye thrill came last year in a game which saw the Holders year by six points. The game was against Sienna college of New York, who at that time was being considered for a berth in the National Invitational Tournament held annually in Madison Square Garden. If the Sienna team had given Southern a good grounding, it would have clinched an invitation.

"They beat us," said Gib. "But just the same, we knocked them out of the N.I.T." Incidentally, Kurtz scored 16 points in the contest.

Gib, a physical education major, hopes some day to coach a winning basketball team. Although a stand-out basketball player, he still finds time for his education. At the end of his freshman year, he had completed a 3.4 average.

'B' Squad Cagers Whip Scott Field

Southern's B squad cagers copied their second straight victory of the season here Friday night when they downed the Scott Field Flyers 68-62.

Assistant Coach Bill O'Brien's crew was paced by Dan Smith. The Carbondale freshman forward potted in 12 field goals for a total of 24 points. Close behind Smith, whose total led both teams, was Frazier of the Flyers. The Scott Field forward hit for eight goals and two free throws for an 18 point effort. Johnson, playing guard for the Salukis, had 10. West, who held down the other guard spot for O'Brien, scored 9.

The Salukis Pups led all the way after the first quarter. They held a 25-19 lead after the end of the first period, a 39-28 half-time lead, and led after the third quarter 52-48. O'Brien's pookies now hold victories over the Flyers and the Cape Girardeau B team. Their record now stands at two victories and no losses.

Saluki Captain Chuck Thate, Chicago senior, gets off a book-choke on Friday night's victory over the Michigan Normal Hurons. Thate started the game at center, but aggravated his injured ankle early in the game and was forced to leave. He returned in the second half to lend valuable assistance on the rebounding. Thate and his team must face an all-important game in the IAC race Thursday night when they are host to the Eastern Panthers, defending champions.

Chi Delts Keep Lead in Greek Rowling League

Chi Delta Chi fraternity retained its hold on first place in the Pan-Hellenic bowling league by taking two games from the Sigma Pi's last Thursday at the Carbondale Bowling Lanes.

Bill Burgener paced the leaders in the men's division with a nifty 544 series. Bill Hunt's 510 was tops for the Sigma Pi's, who averted a shut-out by taking the first game with just seven pins to spare. The Chi Delts just managed to squeak by in the third game, winning by four pins.

Sigma Tau Gamma lost two to Pi Kappa Sigma sorority. Leaders in the women's division, Jeanina Perdomo's 483 series and Marc Ann Carroll's 512 was high for the Theta Xi's, while George Kuhn led the white-washed TKE's with an even 500.

Comie Comister blasted out three-evening's high series of 546 to lead Sigma Sigma Sorority to a two game victory over Delta Sigma Epsilon. Louise Taylor and Libby Mars were high for the Delta Sigs with 415 and 416 respectively.
