Smoke detectors may be required in dwellings

By Bob Tita
Staff Writer

The Carbondale City Council has informally approved revisions in the city's housing code that include a requirement for all homes in the city to be equipped with a smoke detector. The council is expected to formally approve the revisions next week. All single- and multi-unit dwellings in Carbondale would be required to have smoke detectors by Jan. 1, 1986 under the changes. The council agreed to the proposed revisions in the housing code on Monday over the objections of Councilmen Archie Jones and Patrick Kelley. Jones said he supports mandatory smoke detectors for multi-unit dwellings such as apartments and rooming houses, but not for private homes. He said the poor may not be able to afford them. Carbondale Fire Chief Charles McCaughan said last month that the vast majority of deaths in Carbondale resulting from fires could have been avoided if smoke detectors were present. "We regulate water heaters and water heaters never killed anyone," said Mayor Helen Westberg, who favors mandatory smoke detectors. Kelley, however, said water heaters are not the same as smoke detectors. He said that he did not oppose smoke detectors but opposed the city imposing a penalty on people who do not take a fire safety measure by installing a smoke detector. Kelley said residents would not be in violation of the housing code for not having a fire extinguisher in their homes and fire extinguishers are fire safety measures as well.

Leighton ties specialization, racism in speech to IBHE

By Karen Wiltberger
Staff Writer

The Illinois Board of Higher Education listened to nearly two hours of testimony Tuesday about finances and policies of Illinois higher education, including a speech by Andy Leighton, Undergraduate Student Organization president. Leighton, who focused his speech on breaking boundaries of racism through education, was the only student representative of the 20 people presenting testimony.

He said Wednesday that the intention of his speech was to "tie racism to over-specialization."

Leighton said there is too much emphasis on specialized fields and not enough emphasis on liberal arts and social studies, which are needed to be able to understand and accept other cultures.

In a prepared speech, Leighton told the board, "We can not and should not ignore racism when we have it in our power to martial the human and capital resources to banish racism from our society."

"We as students and products of Illinois' education system need to find new and creative ways to communicate understanding among people to help bring an end to racism," he said.

Leighton's speech, along with speeches from administrators, faculty members and other leaders in higher education, was an effort to give the board information on financial needs of state institutions and policies of the IBHE.

Paul Lingenfelter, IBHE deputy director for fiscal affairs, said the IBHE invited more leaders than ever to speak to the board.

Lingenfelter said that some concerns will be dealt with when the IBHE makes the fiscal year 1986 budget recommendations at its January meeting.

Other concerns about policy issues, including tuition, financial aid and budgetary policies could result in extensive studies by the IBHE staff, he said.

'Life as usual' for Chester after breakout

By John Krukowski
Staff Writer

The search for two inmates who escaped Tuesday from the Menard Correctional Center in Chester continued through Wednesday, although the mayor of the small town on the east bank of the Mississippi River said life was going on as usual for local residents.

Convicted murderers John Edwards Jr., 61, and Benjamin J. Gibson, 46, had not been located as of 4 p.m. Wednesday, said Nic Howell, of the Illinois Department of Corrections in Springfield.

Edwards and Gibson apparently walked away from a medium security unit outside the prison's walls at about 10:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Howell said it was the second time that Edwards, who was sentenced to 30 years in prison in 1981, had attempted an escape. Edwards was sentenced to one to four years imprisonment in 1966 for conspiring to escape.

Howell said the search was still concentrated in Randolph County.

"There's no reason to believe they're anywhere else than Randolph County," Howell said. "If they pop up in any other county we'll relax the search here and concentrate it where it's needed."

Howell said that there had been several reported sightings of the two escapees as of Wednesday, but none of the calls had proven successful.

Local law enforcement officials, employees of other Illinois penitentiaries and "apprehension specialists" were continuing the effort Wednesday, Howell said.

Mayor Stanley Macieiski said the residents of Chester are taking Tuesday's incident pretty much in stride, both because escapes are nothing new to Menard and because they have confidence in the prison administration.

"People kind of trust the warden and they know he'll do a good job with the situation," Macieiski said. The present warden is James Thieret.

The mayor said that an escape usually "doesn't interrupt the daily routines of people" because they realize that most escapees tend to flee away from town, where their chances of being spotted are magnified.

The town felt more emotion at the killing Friday of Menard security officer Cecil Harbison, 30, a Chester resident, than by the recent escape, Macieiski said. He estimated that 75 percent of the Menard staff live in Chester.

A Menard inmate, William Crews, 32, has been charged with the murder.

Edwards was described by Howell as a white male, 5 feet 10 inches tall, weighing 165 pounds, and having white hair and green eyes.

Gibson was described as a white male, 5 feet 11 inches tall, 160 pounds, and having brown hair and grey eyes.

Bank robbery suspect caught in Kentucky

By John Krukowski
Staff Writer

A suspect in a robbery Tuesday of a Murphysboro bank was apprehended Wednesday evening in Kentucky, a spokesman of the Murphysboro Police Department said.

The spokesman said that the identity of the suspect, along with the details of his apprehension, were not available for release as of Wednesday evening.

Sgt. Don Castlebery, another Murphysboro police officer, said that his department had spent Wednesday interviewing local hotel workers, cab drivers and bar workers, in an effort to find anyone who might have seen or served the suspect.

Castlebery said that local residents didn't need to take special precautions for their safety, although he had asked that people remain alert to anyone matching the suspect's description and report any sightings to one of the investigating agencies.

The robbery was reported at 1:40 p.m. Tuesday and took place at the City National Bank of Murphysboro at its Jackson Square branch, N. Illinois Route 127.

The suspect apparently passed a note to a teller which demanded money and advised that he had a gun. The suspect fled on foot with a yet undetermined amount of money.

No resistance was offered to the robber and no one was harmed, Castlebery said.

No customers and only one teller were present in the bank at the time of the robbery, Castlebery said. The bank was equipped with a camera but Castlebery said it hadn't been determined if the camera had recorded any of the robbery.

Reagan orders Cabinet to cut $34 million from programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Declaring "we must get control of federal spending," President Reagan ordered his Cabinet on Wednesday to save nearly $34 billion next year through a drastic program of either freezing, cutting or eliminating all of the government's domestic programs. The president's orders include tentative approval for eliminating the federal revenue sharing program to the states and phasing out all federal subsidies to mass transportation programs and the Postal Service, members of Congress said. Only Social Security is exempt from the edict, which will require congressional action to fully implement. Reductions in the planned military buildup also are expected to be recommended.

Indians struggle in aftermath of tragic gas leak

BHOPAL, India (AP) — Bhopal struggled Tuesday to keep up with the disposal of bodies of the 1,200 people reported killed by a pesticide gas leak. But authorities feared the decomposing corpses of humans and animals would cause an epidemic of disease in the stricken area. Injured wandered the streets, many of them blinded by the chemical that spread over their city as they slept Monday morning. An estimated 50,000 have been treated in hospitals overflowing with the suffering. An Indian government official called on Union Carbide, builder of the pesticide plant where the leak occurred, to provide relief for the thousands of victims "as it would have done had this accident occurred in the United States."

'Comparable worth' study nears completion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission says his agency probably will conclude that there isn't sufficient legal backing to push for "comparable worth" compensation for men and women holding jobs of similar value. Saying a commission task force is nearing completion of a study of the complex issue, Clarence Thomas indicated that the five-member EEOC is prepared to decide early next year that comparable worth is unworthy of consideration in pending and future job discrimination complaints.

Question raised over notification of gas leak

MIDDLEPORT, N.Y. (AP) — School, fire and FMC Corp. officials are divided on whether the company notified authorities quickly enough last month when a local plant leaked the same gas that killed at least 1,000 people in India. More than 500 students and teachers were evacuated from Middleport Elementary School on Nov. 15 after a malfunctioning pump at the nearby plant released methyl isocyanate, which the plant uses in manufacturing insecticide.

Union officials feel optimistic as teachers strike talks begin

CHICAGO (AP) — Talks aimed at ending a three-day walkout in the nation's third-largest school system got under way Wednesday with union officials sounding optimistic and the school board reportedly considering a salary bonus for striking teachers. Later Wednesday, the Board of Education — citing the possibility of damage to school buildings from cold weather — filed an emergency petition in Cook County Circuit Court seeking to force about 700 operating engineers back to work in the 596 schools and other buildings operated by the board.

Lower price supports for farmers sought

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois Farm Bureau maintained its free-market approach Wednesday, voting to ask the government to lower price supports in 1985 and eventually move away from such programs. Some delegates to the 70th annual policy-making meeting proposed specific loan rates and target prices for commodities, but the Farm Bureau eventually voted to give the U.S. agriculture secretary the flexibility to set those figures. The resolution said lower loan rates would encourage the sale, rather than the storage, of grain and would discourage other nations from increasing production.

Judges asked not to set weekend executions

CHICAGO (AP) — Citing problems in locating judges, attorneys and state officials for last-minute appeals, the chief judge of the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals is asking trial judges in Illinois and Indiana not to schedule executions on weekends. According to a letter to chief justices of the Indiana and Illinois supreme courts from Judge Walter J. Cummings, federal judges and attorneys decided that weekday executions would "lessen the last-minute problems of locating attorneys and judges and of courts communicating with state officials."

Hijackers threaten to blast plane

By The Associated Press

Five hijackers said Wednesday they had planted explosives in a Kuwaiti airliner at Tehran airport and would blow it up if a group of prisoners in Kuwait is not released, Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency reported.

Earlier the Iranian news agency quoted the hijackers as saying they had shot and killed a U.S. diplomat who was a passenger. However, U.S. officials said they could not confirm that report.

IRNA, monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus, said the hijackers threatened to blow up the plane after the Kuwaiti government announced it would not accept any of the hijackers' conditions before the remaining hostages are released.

The hijackers freed 23 passengers Wednesday, increasing to 67 the number released since the Airbus A-300 jet was hijacked Monday. There were 161 people aboard the Kuwait-to-Karachi, Pakistan flight. The airline said 120 of them were Pakistanis.

Strike talks could resume by weekend

By Ed Foley
Staff Writer

Negotiations between striking teachers and the Carbondale Community High School Board will probably resume before the beginning of next week, representatives from both sides said Wednesday.

That development comes on the heels of an announcement by the board on Tuesday of a plan to help end the eight-day stalemate. Teachers will have been on strike five school days on Thursday.

Besides inviting teachers back to the bargaining table, the board's plan includes hiring substitute teachers to start work on Monday, if an agreement cannot be reached by then. Bob Taylor, spokesman for the teachers union, called that move a "pressure tactic."

"I really can't say whether or not it'll happen. All I know is what they said, and they said they would (hire substitutes)," Taylor said.

Reid Martin, high school superintendent, said that 30 teachers are available for work Monday, and that 25 more are needed before school can be opened. Of the 30, 16 are from the current teaching staff, 6 are teacher-certified district employees, and 8 are substitutes, Martin said.

The substitutes will be offered $125 per day, $13 less than the average single-day's earnings of the striking teachers.

"I don't think anyone wants to open school with substitutes. Our goal here is to get the kids back in school," Martin said.

Another part of the board's plan involved accepting a proposal made by the president of the Child Safety Coalition. That plan would have teachers go back to work immediately and begin a two-month "cooling-off" period, during which negotiations would cease. During the two months, a panel composed primarily of community members new to the situation would prepare a report for the community on the financial disputes involved, and a state audit of the district's finances would be requested.

The reaction of the teachers' group to that plan, however, has not been favorable.

"Our problem with it is that there's no endpoint to it. After two months you go back to the table and you really have nothing that is very different from when you began the whole thing," said Taylor. "Binding interest arbitration does all the things that this plan does."

The teachers have claimed that binding interest arbitration is required if one side asks for it under the terms of an agreement reached with the district several months ago. Martin, however, contends that no such agreement exists, and

In Washington, State Department spokesman John Hughes said there were at least five Americans on the aircraft and that two — both women — had been released. Three officials of the Agency for International Development were aboard the plane, and Hughes said they were not among those released.

The State Department "can't confirm the name or nationality" of the dead passenger, but if American, it "could be" an AID official, Hughes said. He refused to identify any of the Americans.

Hughes said the State Department is working through the Kuwaitis and the Swiss, whose embassy represents American interests in Iran, to press for the safe release of Americans.

Corporate interests changing health care

THE RECENT PUBLICITY surrounding the second successful implantation of an artificial heart is more than just the natural news coverage associated with a breakthrough in medical science.

Humana Corp., which owns and operates 90 hospitals nationwide, is covering the cost of Schroeder's new lease on life and intends to underwrite about 100 more similar operations at a cost of up to $20 million. Why? It's good for business.

The Louisville-based corporation, which owns the Humana Hospital Audubon where the Jarvik-7 artificial heart was implanted under William J. Schroeder, is in the health care business for profit. And by handling the financial cost of such operations, Humana wants to become a household name.

The good will of Humana translates into priceless positive publicity for the chain of hospitals, which last year profited $200 million on $2 billion of gross revenues.

WHILE SCHROEDER and other people like him will receive the gift of life from Humana's publicity strategy, the process is one more indication that medicine is becoming less a profession and more a business.

Corporate interests are moving to replace professional ethics as the driving force behind decision making in the health care field. Of the nation's 6,000 general hospitals, 20 percent are owned or operated by a profit-making organization. That number is expected to double in the next 10 years.

Proponents of corporate-based health care claim that the business orientation will benefit a health care system plagued by rising costs while increasing the quantity and quality of health care.

In addition, Humana's funding of the artificial heart implants makes possible medical procedures that otherwise would be difficult or impossible to fund. Dr. William C. DeVries, who performed the operation on Schroeder, was happy to join Humana's team because, he said, he could devote his energies to medicine rather than fund-raising.

CRITICS OF THE NEW corporate orientation of health care contend that lower income patients, especially those dependent on Medicaid and Medicare, will find it harder and harder to receive care from hospitals which place money over medicine. The critics also say the need to maintain corporate profits will prevent investments in research.

However, Humana's three Louisville hospitals serve Medicaid and Medicare patients at a cost far below the average cost in non-profit hospitals. Humana has also designated certain hospitals to specialize in difficult procedures. Procedures that are too expensive to be performed at smaller private hospitals can become routine at larger, better funded hospitals.

Considering the problem of maintaining access to quality health care, corporate involvement in medical facilities offers attractive qualities such as cost control. But there will always be the danger that corporations will allow the desire for profit to overshadow what medicine is all about: caring for human beings. And that line must not be crossed.

Supply-siders not facing reality

THE AXIS is coming! The axis is coming!

No, silly goose, not the Rome-Berlin Axis. The Second World War settled its hash. Today's menace, according to the Wall Street Journal, is "The Will-Dole axis." A Journal editorial says:

"Sen. Bob Dole's appearance on ABC's 'This Week With David Brinkley' recently was the Revenue Enhancer's fourth on the program in the past year. Yet despite the show's proclivity for tax talk, Rep. Jack Kemp hasn't been on since July 1982, and Rep. Newt Gingrich, whose name came up almost as many times as the President's, has never been a guest. George Will is the show's resident conservative, but the Will-Dole axis is hardly representative of supply-side conservatism."

The editorial erred. Kemp and Gingrich had declined invitations (although Kemp was on the show Nov. 25 after the Journal's editorial appeared). And Dole has been on the show three times in the last 12 months, only once when the subject was taxes. But, then, the Journal is a supply-side paper, and numbers are not the supply-siders' strength.

BUT BACK TO the subject of the Axis, those mutonheaded people (e.g., Dole, Will) who persist in saying that the deficit cannot be sufficiently shrunk by spending cuts alone. The Axis says that new revenues will be needed, revenues in excess of any that economic growth will generate under today's tax code.

Traditional Republicans believe that the public must pay in taxes for the public-services component of its standard of living. Critics of "traditional" Republicans call themselves "real" Republicans. They say the Republican Party has misled the country for years by stressing the dangers of deficits.

George Will
Washington Post
Writers Group

THE SUPPLY-siders' argument is, at a certain level of generality, indisputable, even jejune. It is that there are circumstances in which increasing taxes will decrease revenues (by suppressing economic activity), and that in other circumstances a tax cut will be so swiftly stimulative that reduced rates will generate increased revenues.

But government is an adventure in particularities, not generalities. The supply-side wager (Reagan is betting the currency on it) is that cuts of the size and shape enacted in 1981, in the circumstances then obtaining, have put the country on a growth path that will, combined with spending restraint, produce approximate equilibrium between spending and revenues.

In pristine form, the supply-side argument combines an untappable promise (a self-financing tax cut) with an ironclad alibi (if the promise does not pan out: Always blame the Fed first. If tax cuts are followed by exploding deficits, the Federal Reserve Board can be blamed for not producing a "sufficient" expansion of the money supply. Sufficiency is, by definition, whatever "permits" growth sufficient to eliminate deficits.

IN 1980 Reagan ran a relentlessly "blue skies" campaign based on the supply-side premise. But the instant the election was over he embraced a gray-skies memo from two congressmen, Jack Kemp and David Stockman. They said the nation was on the verge of an "economic Dunkirk." By December 1980, the embryonic administration was stressing spending cuts. But Reagan did not shrink government: He arranged it, moving resources toward defense. In December 1984, he is stressing the Grace Commission proposals for savings.

Regarding the Defense Department, the Grace report blithely "identified" program and procedural changes that would produce three-year savings of $75 billion. When Defense was asked its opinion, it came up with a sum: $300 million (about one-half of one percent of the Grace total). The Office of Management and Budget — no nest of spendthrifts — was asked to referee. OMB said that, considering the Department's responsibilities and political realities, the realistic estimate of potential savings is ... $2 billion. So the real argument is about only the $1.7 billion difference, not the Grace report's $78 billion.

THE GRACE report, with its phantom savings, is, in 1984, what the supply-side promise was in 1980: an excuse for evading hard choices. But to govern is to choose, and not just to choose, every four years, a different excuse for not facing facts. That is why "traditional" Republicans will continue to make themselves disagreeable by mentioning the odious principle that the public must pay its bills.

These traditionalists are, as the Wall Street Journal says, "hardly representative of supply-side conservatism." But the imprudent behavior of supply-siders regarding the deficit is making the phrase "supply-side conservatives" into a contradiction in terms.

Peltier testifies against penitentiary

ALTON (AP) — American Indian Movement leader Leonard Peltier took the witness stand Wednesday in U.S. District Court to testify on a civil lawsuit brought by prisoners and their lawyers against the nation's highest-security prison.

Peltier, who is imprisoned at the U.S. Penitentiary at Marion, testified amid heavy security in the federal suit, which stems from a 1980 work stoppage at the prison that replaced Alcatraz in housing the nation's most violent, troublesome or escape-prone federal inmates.

Lawyers for the Marion Prisoners Rights Project, along with Peltier and three other inmates, are seeking damages from prison officials. The lawyers contend they were denied access to their clients during the work stoppage.

Prison officials contended earlier that the project's lawyers were using their visits to help prisoners involved in the work strike.

Peltier described marked differences between his first and second incarcerations at Marion.

He said restrictions on inmates had increased when he was returned in 1979 or 1980 from a federal prison in California. He said he also found cutbacks in such programs as vocational education, entertainment and Indian religious rights.

Peltier testified that he did not organize the work stoppage and had tried to make sure it was non-violent.

"I wanted it kept peaceful," he said.

However, Peltier said he was accused of being the strike's leader and was placed in a stripped cell with only a bunk, commode and sink; was segregated from other inmates; and was not allowed any postage or paper for writing to a lawyer.

that the record shows unions have more to gain from arbitration than do school boards.

"Historically, arbitrators have made the kind of rulings that have put school districts in very difficult financial situations," he said.

Another part of the board's plan included preparing an educational paper on the board's position, a need underscored by the number of angry parents, teachers and students at Tuesday night's meeting that asked the board to explain its stands on the various issues surrounding the strike.

At least one member of the mostly pro-teacher audience wondered if the board wasn't ignoring the concerns of taxpayers by "not publicizing (its) positions," calling board members' attention to their failure to meet as scheduled last week.

Martin, saying that the Wednesday's meeting was "definitely stacked" by those favoring the teachers' position, justified the board's failure to achieve a quorum last week on the grounds that "there was really nothing to meet about."

McLeod Theater plans performance of popular operetta

Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Pirates of Penzance," one of the world's most popular operettas, will be presented this weekend at McLeod Theater in the SIU-C Communications Building.

The two-act comic opera tells the story of Frederic, who has long been indentured to a band of pirates but finds himself free on his 21st birthday. He meets a flock of beautiful maidens and falls in love with one of them, but things go awry when the pirates seize the ladies.

Showtimes for this musical adventure, a joint production by the SIU-C Department of Theater and the School of Music, are at 8 p.m. Dec. 6-8 and at 2 p.m. Dec. 9.

Tickets, available in the McLeod Theater box office, are $4 for the Thursday and Sunday shows and $5 for the Friday and Saturday shows. Student, senior citizen and alumni association member discounts are available. For ticket information and reservations, contact the box office at 453-3001.

Performance set for Calipre Stage

"The Landlady" by Ronald Dahl, and "The Euphio Question" by Kurt Vonnegut, will be presented at 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday at the Calipre Stage on the second floor of the SIU-C Communications Building.

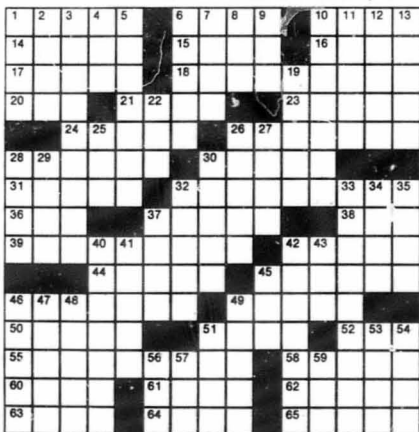

"The Landlady," adapted and directed by radio-TV senior Bill Ferguson, is the humorous tale of one boy's realization that the world around him isn't all that it seems to be.

"The Euphio Question," adapted and directed by theater major K.C. Williams, is a story about man's greatest achievement, which may also be his ultimate downfall.

Priest says rules don't build sex morality

By Jeff Carl
Staff Writer

Sexual morals can't be acquired by following rules — they require a long, often painstaking experience in human nature where awareness is the key, said the Rev. Jack Frerker.

Frerker, a priest at Carbondale's Newman Catholic Student Center, gives talks titled "sex and morality" each semester.

A person's sexual morality should begin in the home, said Frerker. He said it's important for parents to treat sex as the "natural, normal thing that it is," by talking about it and making it possible for children to ask questions about sex if they need to.

"This can go a long way in giving a child a comfortable awareness of sexuality as they grow up," Frerker said.

But being able to talk about sex is just the beginning, he added. As a person grows, they must, through experimentation and observance of human nature, get an understanding of what sex is.

"It's easy to get into the stance that morality is a bunch of rules. Morality isn't rules," said Frerker. "It's our attempt to describe how humans tick and it must be derived through experience."

Frerker said that from kissing to intercourse, the morality of a sexual act depends on its meaning. He said any sexual act should be an expression of caring and, in some instances, commitment. If those two feelings don't take place in a relationship, then there will most likely be "negative repercussions." Morality is reality, he said, and shouldn't be treated as "arbitrary or whimsical."

Sex is not an end to a relationship, said Frerker, but is instead a means "to a fully developed committed concern for someone else."

Basically, two people can not be committed to each other without being married, Frerker said.

"Intercourse is saying 'I'm all yours,' and that should be true before that act takes place," said Frerker. "I'm all yours' means marriage."

Graduate students display artwork

A collection of sculpture and paintings created by two SIU-C graduate students will be on display through Tuesday at the University Museum's Mitchell Gallery in Quigley Hall.

Sculptress Julia Curie Ball of Makanda studied art at the Herron School of Art in her hometown of Indianapolis, Ind., and the University of Cincinnati and Ohio University in Athens, Ohio. She has also taught undergraduate sculpture classes at SIU-C.

Most of Ball's sculptures are composed of groupings of similar elements of materials such as wood, metal and stone.

Bai Jingzhou, an artist from Beijing, China, studied graphics at the Central Academy of Fine Arts. While on scholarship at SIU-C, he has been commissioned to paint portraits of past University presidents. In his thesis exhibition, he presents oil paintings, watercolors, portraits and etchings.

Mitchell Gallery is open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. Admission is free.

Cars found vandalized in SIU-C lots

Several cars were vandalized while parked on the SIU-C campus Friday evening, according to an SIU-C police report.

Kevin Schwebel, 22, an SIU-C student, reported that his locked car was broken into sometime between 9:30 a.m. and 12:37 p.m. on a lot near University Park. A vinyl briefcase worth $15 and eight or nine officers' evaluation reports for the U.S. Army were taken.

Nothing was stolen, but the right side of the front window of Steven Furchtsam's vehicle was smashed while parked in a lot near the Communications Building. Furchtsam, 20, a student, reported the incident at 4:10 p.m. Friday.

Four autos had their windshields smashed while parked at an Arena parking lot during the Saluki basketball game Friday.

SIU-C police start University Watch Program

By John Krukowski
Staff Writer

Nelson Ferry, police-community relations officer for the SIU-C Security Office, says he hopes that his office's new University Watch Program will at least get people to be more aware of their surroundings and become more inclined to call the SIU-C Police if they notice anything suspicious.

"I realize we're going to get a lot of calls that might not amount to anything," Ferry said, "but we'd rather respond to calls like that than have to file a report on a couple-thousand-dollar burglary."

FERRY SAID he got the idea for the program in June, when he took over his present position with the SIU-C police and began "to look for ways to decrease crime and make the halls safer for residents."

He chose as his model the National Neighborhood Watch Program, an effort begun by the National Sheriff's Association in 1975. Neighborhood Watch, he said, is intended to heighten residents' awareness of their communities and make them more inclined to notify the police if they see something suspicious or criminal occurring.

Ferry said he asked NSA to run a computer check on other universities and colleges to see if the Neighborhood Watch Program had been applied to college residence halls. Ferry found that other schools had tried certain aspects of the program, but none had ever gone for the whole shot like Ferry intended to do.

WITH SOME help from NSA, Ferry began to piece the program together this fall and make the rounds of the University, soliciting opinions of students and key administrators. The University Watch Program received the approval of President Albert Somit last week and the program was launched.

Ferry said he intends to include all three major residence areas on campus in the program, plus Evergreen Terrace and Southern Hills. Not every hall is signed up with the program yet, but he said he hopes to have 100 percent participation by January.

THE PROGRAM is designed in a sort of pyramid formation, Ferry said, with his office on top, area coordinators from each residence area reporting to him, floor representatives reporting to the area coordinators and residents reporting to the floor representatives.

Ferry said that the "pyramid" is needed to help disseminate information quickly between the Security Office and individual residents. The system will help Ferry reach residents with information, such as announcements about upcoming crime-prevention lectures.

"I've given about 15 rape prevention talks at residence halls this semester and only 12 to 40 people will show up because they just don't know about it," he said.

THE SYSTEM will also allow residents to reach Ferry's office more quickly if they have any questions for him.

"It's a two-way situation," he explained. "If they've got a problem they can pass it on to us quickly."

Emergencies will still be dealt with by calling the SIU-C police, although Ferry said he hopes that posters and signs posted around campus will make people more willing to notify the police if they see something suspicious.

"If it doesn't look right to a normal person—call," he said. "I'm not asking them to do any police work," Ferry said. "I just want them to pick up the phone and drop a dime on us if they see something unusual."

FIGURES COMPILED by the Security Office indicate that there were 6,383 crimes against property at SIU-C residence areas last year, and $191,000 worth of property stolen. Ferry, however, said that the new program isn't a reaction to the SIU-C crime rate, but rather, a preventative measure.

"SIU-C is just as safe as anywhere else, this not a scare tactic," he said.

Ferry said that the Neighborhood Watch program has caused crime reductions in about 14,000 communities of up to 50 percent.

Two neighborhoods in Carbondale that have been enrolled in the program since January appear to be enjoying similar reductions, said Art Wright, Carbondale Police Department Spokesman and coordinator of the program in town. One community that experienced four cases of damage to property, three burglaries, two thefts and one motorcycle theft in 1983, Wright said, has had only one burglary so far this year.

Utility board candidate pledges to fight waste

By Lisa Eisenhauer
Staff Writer

As a candidate for the board of directors of the Citizens Utility Board, Robert Gustafson is vowing not to let the best interests of customers get lost in the demand for profits nor to take rate increase requests lightly.

Gustafson — who considers himself a "senior citizen activist" — helped to found the Southern Counties Action Movement, a local organization that works for utility reforms. He has also testified on behalf of poor and elderly people at many public hearings held by the Illinois Commerce Commission to discuss rate increase requests.

GUSTAFSON IS running against Bob Pauls, coordinator of Carbondale's energy division, for a seat on CUB's board of directors. Since CUB was founded earlier this year, the governing body of the utility watchdog group has been an 11-member board appointed by the governor and a few key members of the state legislature.

In the elections that are taking place by mail now through Dec. 22, CUB members in each of the state's 22 congressional districts are being asked to choose one representative to serve on the group's board.

Gustafson said he has experience with the type of work the board members do and that he is aware of the needs of the people of Southern Illinois.

BEFORE HE retired in 1967 and moved to Carterville in 1970, he was a machinist and blacksmith for companies in Northern Illinois. He later became the international representative for the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers. Working with unions gave him, Gustafson said, a thorough understanding of how laws can have an impact on citizens.

In the past ten years, he has been chairman of the Senior Legislative Forum in Illinois and of the Williamson County Program on Aging. He has also been a board member of the National Council of Senior Citizens and the Illinois Council of Senior Citizens.

ONE OF THE reasons he wants to be a director of CUB, he said, is that the group has the potential to do so many things to protect utility customers from such evils as waste and excessive rates. "There's so many ways that we can come up with fair rates for everyone and still allow the utility companies to make a profit," he said.

One of the actions Gustafson said CUB needs to take is to stop the construction of nuclear power plants. "The potential of atomic energy plants has been greatly exaggerated," he said. "They've been a hoax on the American people."

HE SAID THAT none of those plants have proven to be efficient or been built on time or within their original budgets.

What's worse, Gustafson said, is that nuclear plants are built with tax money and then become the property of utility companies. These companies later tax customers to help maintain their own asset, he said.

As an alternative to nuclear power Gustafson recommends Illinois coal. He said "there is no reason in the world" why high-sulfur coal could not be cleaned for a fraction of what is "thrown away" to build and operate nuclear power plants.

IN ADDITION to nuclear power plants, Gustafson opposes allowing telephone companies to base their local rates on usage. He said that such rates aid businesses, which make most long distance phone calls, by treating every call like a long distance one, charging according to the number of calls made and how long the call lasted. "What they're trying to do is force us to pay long distance charges for local calls," he said.

Given a choice, Gustafson said he would rather see utility companies levy rates affordable to all their customers than have special programs to help those people who can not pay, but he said this choice is almost never given.

BECAUSE HE feels the poor and elderly are now particularly hard pressed to pay their energy bills, Gustafson said he supports an aid plan being considered by the Illinois Commerce Commission. The plan would allow low-income customers to have to pay only 12 percent of their income to the utility company that furnishes their main source of heat.

In regard to the ICC, which regulates utility companies in the state, Gustafson said he would rather see its members elected than appointed by the governor as they are now. He said that the commission functions too much like a "rubber stamp" for request made by utilities.

if they pay 12 percent of their outstanding debt.

Customers would also have to agree to a two-year payment schedule for the money they already owe, to make a monthly payment against the cost of the new service, and to apply for public assistance money to pay utility bills.

In return, the resolution says, utilities would waive any deposit normally required to start service, as long as the customers meet their payment schedule.

Commission Chairman Philip O'Connor said he expects most utilities to go along with the proposal.

ICC asks utilities to ease reconnection rules

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The Illinois Commerce Commission asked utilities Wednesday to make it easier for poor people with unpaid gas or electric bills to have service reconnected for winter heating.

The ICC passed a resolution suggesting that poor people whose utilities have been cut off for unpaid bills be reconnected

Strange characters inhabit Philip Graham's latest book

By Cathy Brown
Staff Writer

A Book Review

Strange people inhabit writer Philip Graham's world. An elderly couple who begin to adopt light bulbs and then fight over them, a psychiatrist who analyzes his patients by the way they knock on his door, a man who dies and becomes a ghost that won't leave his wife's side.

These are just a few of the characters in Graham's latest book, a collection of 19 short stories, called "The Art of the Knock."

And though Graham's characters are bizarre, in an odd way they are also very real and ordinary. The stories, Graham says, are about "lives behind closed doors."

"American families are kind of strange," he said in an interview. "Anyone who has ever lived in a family knows this. People make a little world in their home that is in many ways strange."

The daily rituals his characters develop are oddly typical of the American family.

This is why the reader can recognize even the most bizarre of Graham's characters. The artist who turns her lover into one of her works of art speaks in an odd way to anyone involved with a lover.

The elderly couple who cheat each other at Scrabble, and then feel guilty could be anyone's grandparents. The reader even knows in some peculiar way that if he were a ghost watching his wife, but unable to touch her, he would feel the same frustration and pain as the ghost in "Ancient Music."

The stories also explore the way people form relationships and the way they behave in those relationships. Graham said he believes that "When people make a relationship in a sense they are kind of making art, the patterns they make are a kind of art."

The elderly couple married for some 50 years are also creating art in their beautiful love relationship.

These stories are all subtly connected by the story of a traveling salesman in the first story "The Art of the Knock," who is trying to get behind people's closed doors. He has made knocking into an art that can get him into any home to sell his "novelty items" like toothless combs and all-pear oranges.

He appears again in the middle of the book as a frustrated mailman and at the end as the psychiatrist who won't see his patients — he just analyzes them by the way they knock on his door.

At the end the salesman-psychiatrist-mailman, and his would-be customers are still estranged, still living in a world of isolation and odd rituals.

Graham's wit, wisdom and superb style consistently shine through in this collection of uniquely irresistible stories. They are a delight.

The book is available at the University Bookstore for $11.95.

Graham's bizarre stories help him make sense of world

By Cathy Brown
Staff Writer

The life of a writer is not easy. It consists of "hard work, hard hours, and not great pay. And you face an indifferent world," says SIU-C English professor and writer Philip Graham.

In spite of this, he has been writing for most of his life and has just recently had "The Art of the Knock," a collection of short stories published.

"I wanted to be a writer since I read my first book," he says. "It's the way I make sense of the world."

His way of making sense of the world often takes the form of bizarre, surrealist stories that "deal with realistic issues, though not always through methods of realism." Some of his stories are fairly straightforward and realistic, but he said, "I would hope that they're all a little weird."

He said he is interested in how ordinary people relate to each other and how they try to make meaning of their lives. He is also fascinated by the way families behave in the privacy of their homes. These fascinations become themes in his work.

"I think it's probably wise to get a lot of living under your belt if you want to be a writer," he said.

So far he has tried to do that. In addition to teaching and writing he has worked as a carpenter, a bartender, cab driver, upholsterer's apprentice, staysail ship crew member, and Santa Claus. He has also traveled with his wife, a cultural anthropologist, to a tribal village in Africa.

Graham began seriously trying to get published about nine years ago when he was a graduate student at City College in New York City, he said. He has had stories published in The New Yorker, The Paris Review, Virginia Quarterly Review, and other magazines. He also had a book of prose poems called "The Vanishings" published in 1978.

"I'm always working on something," he said. Right now he is working on a novel and another collection of short stories. When he gets stuck on one thing he's working on, he moves to something else.

"When you have the time, you don't relinquish it," he said. Graham starts writing at 10 or 11 o'clock at night and works until one or two in the morning.

Though he doesn't make a great deal from his writing, he said it is paying off more now than in the past. "The Art of the Knock" is also getting good reviews — the stories have received praise from such people as Ann Beattie and Grace Paley.

Even if he did become very successful, though, he said he probably wouldn't quit teaching. "I like helping students. When I see that they're improving their work, I like that feeling."

Also he said, "I learn a lot about writing just in the process of helping students with their own writing. And it's good to have something else to do while you write."

He also knows that very few fiction writers are ever able to support themselves with their writing alone.

So why does he push himself so hard for what he admits is little recognition and little pay? "To stay alive," he says. "I'm happy when I write; I'm unhappy when I don't."

Newman Center priest blends caring with professionalism

By Tricia Yocum
Staff Writer

Dressed in a flannel shirt, blue jeans, tube socks and penny loafers, 33-year-old Father Jim DeManuele looks more like a student than a priest. But his love of his vocation is evident.

"People in general love to see a human priest," DeManuele said. "People will put up with anything from their priest if they know he loves them."

DeManuele is a campus minister at the Newman Catholic Student Center at SIUC. He is responsible for the music and liturgy planning of the center for the University's 38 percent Roman Catholic population. He also works as an alcohol and drug counselor.

The decor of DeManuele's office exemplifies a diverse lifestyle. On one wall are three pages from a Latin mass book in gold frames. On another wall is a framed print of ballet dancer Mikhail Baryshnikov. A crucifix hangs over DeManuele's desk. A rocking chair, an end table with a lamp and a guitar complete the scene.

DeManuele has been with the Newman Center staff for five years. He is leaving at the end of the semester for Louisville, Ky. He will be an associate pastor for a parish near the University of Bellarmine, but not affiliated with the university.

DeManuele enjoys dealing with younger people.

"People in the 18 to 25 range are alive. They have a willingness to take chances and make mistakes," he said. "That's a shame because I don't think it has to be confined to that age group."

But serving a university congregation does have its drawbacks. DeManuele said that the transiency of people at a university is difficult to deal with on a personal as well as professional level.

DeManuele also said that working in the University environment requires that he have credibility with the University administration as well as with the Newman Center staff.

"I need to be a professional because I'm dealing with the educated," he said. "I have to be able to stand on my own intellectually."

DeManuele became a priest six years ago. While he was in college, he had a rough time and was into the drug scene, he said.

"I hit rock bottom and I said to myself, 'I don't know where else to go. I'll try God.'"

He spent the rest of that night talking to a priest. Eventually, DeManuele decided to enter the priesthood.

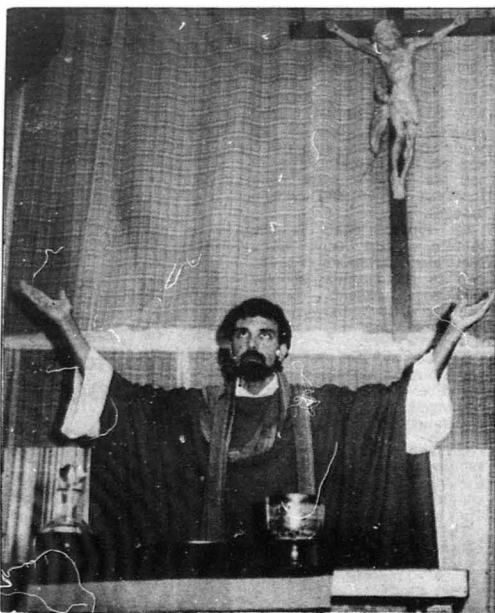

"I wanted to make someone else feel the way he (the priest) made me feel," he said.

DeManuele said that he has always had a fascination with transcendence.

"It's almost tragic when people go around and experience that in ways that are unhealthy when healthy ways are available. We don't have to go to the outreaches of the universe. We can enter transcendence by going into our own hearts."

In the five years that DeManuele has been in Carbondale, he has seen many changes. He said he now sees a definite conservative trend. With that, people are less open with one another and are more concerned with material things, he said.

DeManuele has noticed that more students are at the University "to get an edge, to make big bucks — which is ugly," he said. They're missing out on the best parts of life, he added. "I've seen people become two-dimensional."

"A lot of people don't have time for church kinds of things and that's real sad," he said.

DeManuele is a firm believer in the power of a positive outlook on life and says that life doesn't have to be ugly.

"That's not to say there isn't tragedy and pain," he said, "but there is hope and love and life. Life has plenty of pain, but we should use that as a springboard for growth."

The role of the church is to create memories to help people through times of tragedy and pain, he said. His memories of God and the church helped him when he was down and others have been helped in the same way, he said.

"If I could present a priest who is human that people can talk to when they're down, that would be enough," he said.

Water offers exercise option

By Cynthia Weiss
Staff Writer

For those who would like to get in shape, but are looking for an exercise a bit less strenuous than aerobics, aqua dance may be the answer.

Aqua dance instructor Christine Rojas said all the exercises are done in shallow water, so it isn't necessary to be a good swimmer to participate.

"I definitely urge people to give it a try," Rojas said.

Rojas, 19, also teaches regular dance. Teaching both classes, said the slender 5-foot-10-inch sophomore, definitely keeps her in shape.

While aqua dance is not as strenuous as its out-of-the-water counterpart, it is an excellent toning workout, Rojas said.

In aqua dance, water provides both resistance and support. The supportive property of the water makes this an excellent form of exercise for people who suffer with back problems, Rojas said. It is also less likely to cause painful shin splints than regular dance.

Furthermore, Rojas said, aqua dance is just plain fun, feels good and leaves those who participate feeling relaxed.

Like regular dance, aqua dance is done to music. The participants in Rojas' class loosen their muscles to the sounds of Chaka Kahn, selections from the Flashdance album and a variety of rock, soul and disco music.

Exercises concentrate mostly on thighs, hips, stomach and waist, Rojas said.

Aqua dance has been around for a while, but has only recently gained in popularity. Rojas said she believes there are more people attending her sessions this year than attended aqua dance classes last year.

Attendance is sporadic, however. When her sessions began in September there were about 35 people, mostly women, who attended.

Because she loves the water, Rojas said she especially enjoys teaching aqua dance. She began swimming at the age of 6 at a Chicago Park District pool. She also swam competitively for the Chicago Park District.

The aqua dance class meets from 7:15 to 8 on Tuesday and Thursday nights at the Recreation Center pool and will meet at the same time next semester.

Records show 159 agencies helped spy on legal activities

CHICAGO (AP) — More than 150 law enforcement agencies nationwide cooperated with Chicago's Red Squad police spying unit in monitoring people engaged in lawful activities during the turbulent 1960s and '70s, an attorney said Wednesday.

The disclosure demonstrates "police spying was a national phenomenon," said attorney Richard Gutman, who won release of the Red Squad records after a seven-year legal battle. Gutman has led the fight in Chicago to stop police surveillance and win compensation for those whose civil rights may have been violated.

Gutman said police documents show the Red Squad, which was disbanded in 1975, traded information about law-abiding people or groups with police and other agencies in 33 states. He said many of those inquired about were anti-war, community and civil rights activists during the 1960s and early 1970s.

Law enforcement officials "wanted to know everything about these people," Gutman said. "This isn't information of criminal activity. It's people exercising their political rights.

The police were disseminating it and using it against (people)... It creates a system where people are afraid to criticize the government."

Flutie leads AP All-America grid team

NEW YORK (AP) — The quarterback and a defensive back from the Boston Globe's 1979 All-Scholastic team were named Tuesday to The Associated Press All-American college football team for 1984. The irony is that Boston College quarterback Doug Flutie was the defensive back and BC free safety Tony Thurman was the quarterback.

Flutie, the only player in major-college history to pass for more than 10,000 yards in a career, was joined on The AP All-America team by four other record-breaking players — running backs Keith Byars of Ohio State and Kenneth Davis of Texas Christian and wide receivers David Williams of Illinois and Eddie Brown of Miami (Fla.).

The only two repeaters from the 1983 team are offensive tackle Bill Fralic of Pitt and free safety Jerry Gray of Texas. Flutie, the first quarterback in 13 years to win the Heisman Trophy, passed for 10,579 yards and also set an NCAA career total offense mark of 11,317 yards. Boston College led the nation in scoring with 56.7 points a game and earned a Cotton Bowl bid as Flutie completed 233 of 386 passes for 3,454 yards and 27 touchdowns. He also led the nation in passing efficiency.

The rest of the offensive unit consists of tight end Mark Bavaro of Notre Dame, tackle Lomas Brown of Florida, guards Dan Lynch of Washington State and Del Wilkes of South Carolina, center Mark Traynowicz of Nebraska and placekicker John Lee of UCLA. Fralic made first-team All-America for the third year in a row.

On the defensive unit besides Thurman are tackles Leslie O'Neal of Oklahoma State and Bruce Smith of Virginia Tech, middle guard Tony Casillas of Oklahoma, linebackers Gregg Carr of Auburn, Jack Del Rio of Southern California, James Seawright of South Carolina and Larry Station of Iowa and deep backs Gray, David Fulcher of Arizona State and Kyle Morrell of Brigham Young, along with Ricky Anderson of Vanderbilt, the nation's leading punter with a 48.2-yard average.

Byars, a 233-pound junior, led the nation with 1,655 yards rushing on 313 rushes and scored 24 touchdowns, and caught 37 passes for 453 yards and two TDs.

Williams was the nation's leading receiver and his 101 catches and 1,278 yards were Big Ten records. The 101 receptions were the second highest in major college history.

Fralic had his No. 79 jersey retired by Pitt. The other tackle, Florida's Lomas Brown, was the leader of one of the nation's top offensive lines.

On the defensive unit, the speedy Gray tied a Texas record by intercepting seven passes this season while BC's Thurman led the nation with 12 interceptions in 11 games.

Oklahoma State's O'Neal was The AP's Defensive Player of the Year in the Big Eight while Casillas' 84 tackles, including 10 sacks, helped Oklahoma lead the nation in rushing defense, yielding just 68.8 yards a game.

Schroeder spared Hoosiers' fate

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Being confined to intensive care doesn't inhibit artificial-heart recipient William J. Schroeder from cheering his beloved Indiana University basketball team.

But doctors spared him the ending of the Hoosiers' 74-63 loss to Notre Dame, perhaps fearing it would be too much for his plastic and metal heart to take.

A television crew covering Schroeder's surgery and recovery provided a videotape of Tuesday night's game. Schroeder watched part of it Wednesday in his room at Humana Hospital Audubon's coronary-care unit, said Dr. Allan Lansing.

"We haven't shown him the end yet," Lansing joked with reporters.

"We let him see it at a time when (the Hoosiers) were still playing well. That was enough exercise for his heart."

Fuller hopes to be ready for playoffs

LAKE FOREST (AP) — Steve Fuller's first reaction was "Why me again?" when he was hit and suffered another shoulder separation Monday night in the Chicago Bears' 20-7 loss at San Diego.

But the Bears' superb back-up quarterback was thankful the injury is not as serious as first believed and hopes to be ready to play again in the National Football League playoffs three weeks away.

"I felt snakebit when it happened," Fuller said, "but there are so many things to be thankful for if you can be thankful under these circumstances."

"I'm thankful for the opportunity to be playing again."

Fuller, a sixth-year veteran out of Clemson, was a first-round draft choice by the Kansas City Chiefs in 1979. He spent four years with Kansas City before being traded to the Los Angeles Rams last year where he did not play at all.

The Bears acquired him from

Old pro Landry signs with Bears

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears, devastated by injuries to their top two quarterbacks, Wednesday signed 17-year veteran Greg Landry as an emergency backup.

Landry, who spent the last two seasons in the United States Football League, will be eligible for Sunday's game in Chicago against the Green Bay Packers, Bears spokesman Ken Valdiserri said.

Terms of Landry's contract were not disclosed, Valdiserri said.

To make room for Landry, 37, the Bears placed rookie offensive guard Stefan Humphries on injured reserve, Valdiserri said.

Third-string quarterback Rusty Lisch is scheduled to start against the Packers.

the Rams for a pair of draft choices and in his first exhibition game last summer he suffered a shoulder separation that put him on the injured list.

When starting quarterback Jim McMahon suffered a lacerated kidney Nov. 4 in a 17-6 victory over the Los Angeles Raiders, Fuller took over. He started four games for the Bears and guided them to two victories, including the 34-3 triumph at Minnesota in which they clinched the Central Division title of the National Conference.

"I'm feeling much better, I'm optimistic," Fuller said of his recent injury. "I was concerned the first 15 minutes that I had done the same thing again, but the injury is not nearly as severe as the first one."

"It'll take four to five days to see how it feels, but I have movement in the arm," he said, lifting his right arm high above his head.

"It is not career-threatening, but a lot of things flashed through my mind when it happened," Fuller said. "The play was strung out and I knew I was in trouble. I tried to throw the ball away but two guys fell on top of me."

Fuller hopes to be ready to play again when the Bears go into the playoffs the final weekend of this month. Until then Rusty Lisch will take over at quarterback with newly-signed Greg Landry as the backup.

"Rusty has a good grasp of things," Fuller said. "He'll perform well, like I did. At least we had the luxury of winning our division before this happened."

"We can still win and get the home-field advantage for the playoffs," Fuller said. "But we have to get our guys well. We've been strong all year and our backups have been ready when they have been asked to step in."

Fuller is convinced he'll be ready for the playoffs with a chance that he might also be able to perform as Lisch's backup for the final game of the regular season.

Big Red cuts Holloway, adds Davis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals on Wednesday released veteran defensive end Randy Holloway and signed rookie free agent defensive back Billy Davis, said a spokesman for the National Football League club.

Greg Gladysiewski of the Cardinals' front office said Davis started as a safety at Clemson in 1983 and holds the school record for most punt returns with 70. He returned the punts for 480 yards, fourth highest total in the school's history.

Davis, who is 6-foot-4 and weighs 200 pounds, was not drafted this year, but attended the Denver Broncos training camp Gladysiewski said. He was cut before the end of the camp.

Holloway, in his seventh pro season out of Pittsburgh, was picked up on waivers from the Minnesota Vikings before the ninth game of the season. He started one game and appeared in six overall for St. Louis, recording five tackles.

The move came one day after the club announced Leonard

Smith, its starting strong safety, would miss at least three weeks after undergoing arthroscopic knee surgery Monday night. Gladysiewski said the Cardinals might use Cedric Mack, a former defensive back converted to wide receiver this season, on defense in Sunday's game against the New York Giants.

The Cardinals have two regular season games remaining and are in a fight with the Giants and three other teams for three spots in the NFL playoffs.

Pledges for Run-a-thon help support Saluki women's sports

Athletes, coaches and staff of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women at SIU-C have raised nearly $11,000 in pledges for the first Saluki Run-a-thon which will take place on Friday at 3:15 p.m. at McAndrew Stadium.

The Run-a-thon will involve more than 100 female athletes and their coaches attempting to complete as many laps as possible during a one-hour period to raise funds for women's athletics.

A prime organizer for the fundraiser is women's cross country coach Don DeNoon, who has seen projects like this prove successful at other schools.

"We asked athletes and coaches to volunteer to contact at least 100 friends and relatives from their hometowns," DeNoon said. "Despite a late start, the response has been very gratifying."

Eight SIU-C women's teams are participating. The teams will split the total costs of the project, then divide the remaining income proportionately. DeNoon's track and cross country teams have solicited more than $2,600 in pledges. The SIU-C women's basketball team has been promised $2,200 and the Saluki golfers, $2,000. Additional pledges will be coming through the week.

In time, an annual Run-a-thon could provide even more significant funding, DeNoon said.

"With more time to organize and an ever expanding mailing list, we should be able to generate at least $30,000 in a few years," DeNoon said. "Generating support primarily from such off-campus sources would ease the financial burden on SIU-C's student population and local businesses. In time, maybe SIU-C athletes will become routinely involved in funding those who succeed them."

For further information on the Run-a-thon, contact DeNoon or Nancy Bandy, assistant SIU-C women's athletics director, at Davies Gymnasium. The Run-a-thon on Saturday at McAndrew Stadium is free to public.

Illini needs improved shooting

URBANA (AP) — Despite a 5-1 record, including two victories over highly touted Oklahoma, Illinois Coach Lou Henson doesn't think his team has played well so far this year.

The reason is simple: poor field-goal shooting.

"There's no point in even talking about shooting," Henson told reporters Monday. "We don't talk about it a lot because it's not going to do any good."

But he believes things can only improve.

"You only have so many bad games and we've already had five of ours," he joked. "We've got a lot of good ones to look forward to."

The Illini shot better than 50 percent from the floor in their opener against Oklahoma on Nov. 18. Since then, Illinois — which had an overall 51 percent field goal percentage last year — has shot 37 percent, 35 percent, 48 percent, 46 percent and 39 percent.

"I maintain that you've got to shoot over 50 percent to beat good people," Henson said.

Illinois, he said, has won by playing tough, gutsy defensive basketball. He added his team "showed a lot of courage" in Saturday's 73-70 win over Oklahoma, even though the Illini were outshot and outrebounced.

"I like this ballclub because this ballclub can win when things are not going right," he said.

Starting guard Doug Altenberger — one of the team's top field goal shooters — said he's amazed by the shooting slump.

"I don't think I've ever been a team that shot so bad in my whole life," the Peoria native said.

The Illini will have plenty of opportunities to improve their field goal percentages this week.

They'll take on Chico State at home Tuesday night, Missouri at St. Louis Thursday night and play in their own four-team Illini Classic Friday and Saturday. Illinois will face Columbia Friday night and either New Mexico State or American Saturday night.

The grueling schedule comes at a time when Illinois players also are preparing for final semester exams.

"This is going to be a rough week," Altenberger said. "Some people tend to forget that we're also students."

Million-Dollar Golf Challenge set

SUN CITY, South Africa (AP) — Spain's Seve Ballesteros is the favorite to repeat last year's performance and win the Million-Dollar Golf Challenge that starts Thursday in this gambling and golf resort built in the cone of a sleeping volcano.

The long-hitting Spaniard, the reigning British Open champion, won the $300,000 first prize a year ago by five shots with a 72-hole total of 274, 14-under par on the 7,010-yard course.

This four-year-old tournament is the game's richest. The second-place finisher wins $150,000, and third place is worth $105,000.

At the draw on Wednesday, Japan's Isao Aoki was teamed with Australian Greg Norman.

Aoki, a former winner of the World Matchplay Championship, ignored pleas from his government not to play in white-minority-ruled South Africa.

WEIGHT: Lifting helps grid team

improve, and we have that. Everybody has been coming."

THE STANDARD weight-lifting session for a player takes about 1 and a half hours to complete. He works his way through the four basic lifts in three different sets.

For example, in the bench press, the player would lift 75 percent of his maximum lift weight in the first set. If the maximum weight is 400 pounds, he will lift 300 pounds in the first set. The first set requires eight repetitions of the lift. In the second set, the player lifts 85 percent of his maximum weight with four repetitions and in the third set he would lift 65 percent of his maximum weight with 16 repetitions.

The bench press is stressed by most football coaches because it develops upper body strength. The incline press is much like the bench press, except the bench is slanted to put the lifter on eye level with the weight.

Squats are emphasized because they build strength in the lower body. The hang clean is a different type of lift, which builds strength in the arms, legs and hips.

"The hang clean is a combination of rolling the hips, dropping the hips, getting the weight under you and bringing it back up," Dorr said. "It strengthens the hips, legs and arms all in one lift."

ONE OF Dorr's primary goals is to see as many players as possible bench press over 400 pounds, a standard that many coaches set. Among players returning next year, only two, Sanderlin and junior Darren Wietecha, can currently bench over 400 pounds. But at least 10 players are nearing the mark, and Dorr expects several to surpass it by the time spring practice begins.

maximum lift is 440 pounds. Sanderlin lifts 405 pounds. Tim Redmond, Mark Banbury, John Edwards, Rick Spielman and Alonzo Bailey are among the players closing in on the mark.

The Salukis have started their off-season weight program earlier than most other college programs in an effort to stress immediate improvement, Dorr said. Sanderlin said this gives the players added incentive.

"WE'RE GETTING a jump on a lot of the big schools, and we keep that in the back of our heads while we're working," he said. "We know they're not working, and that'll make us better when the season starts."

Dorr said for the program to be successful, the players must continue to lift during the semester break.

Dorr said the program will get a boost when a new weight room under construction at the Arena is completed in January. The team presently works out in a weight room in the McAndrew Stadium lockerroom, which he considers too small. The new weight room will be used by all SIU-C athletics teams.

Lloyd wins handily over Turnbull

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Second-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd crushed No. 4 Wendy Turnbull 6-3, 6-3 Thursday to advance to the finals of the $1.28 million Australian Open Tennis Championships at Kooyong.

Lloyd, 29, is aiming to maintain a record of having won at least one grand slam title every year since 1973. She had a career record of 18-1 against Turnbull and the Australian was never in the hunt Thursday.

Both players served poorly in a low-key first set in which there were six breaks of service.

But after Turnbull, 32, broke back to 3-3, Lloyd reeled off three straight games for the set as the American kept Turnbull pinned to the baseline.

Lloyd faces the winner of Thursday's semifinal match between defending champion Martina Navratilova and Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia in Saturday's final.

Navratilova, who easily beat fellow American Barbara Potter 6-3, 6-2 on Wednesday, is trying to win her seventh straight Grand Slam title.

The three remaining men's quarterfinal matches will also be played Thursday.

Baseball league gambles on trades

By Duane Crays
Sport Editor

As major league owners wheel and deal in Houston, there are 10 owners of some not-so-big league teams in Carbondale who listen anxiously to every rumor and free-agent signing that comes through the news.

Mickey Thomas of the Mantlepieces is worried that star reliever Jeff Redmond will get traded to the American League and leave him with nothing. Larry "Scrubby" Kirgon of Scrubby's Bums have passed the days wondering whether Bruce Sutter will sign in the National League. George Hendrick has been a concern for Keith Tuxhorn of the Tuxhorn Commissars. And Dave Woodard of the Woody Allens has spent several sleepless nights worrying about ace pitcher Rick Sutcliffe.

Why are these men so worried about players so far from Carbondale? They're general managers of teams in the Big Muddy Rotisserie League, a league founded with the help "Rotisserie League Baseball: The Greatest Game for Baseball Fans Since Baseball."

THE BIG Muddy League came about in March, 1984, when Keith Tuxhorn decided to build a league after reading an article on the game.

"I originally read about Rotisserie League Baseball in an article and then I forgot about it," Tuxhorn said. "Then last spring, the book came out and I picked it up. I read it all that evening. I wanted a league in Southern Illinois so badly."

But the birth of the Big Muddy League almost didn't happen, however, as Tuxhorn found himself in a similar predicament as Lamar Hunt of the fledgling American Football League—no backers for teams.

"Things did look bleak for a while," Tuxhorn said. "I wrote a letter of despair to Glen Waggoner, who edited the book, and he gave me some pointers on how to start a league."

"I talked to some friends at first, then I asked two sportswriters. Sportswriters are easy bets to join sports leagues."

THE FLEDGLING league opened its first season with 10 teams that drew their players from the 12 National League teams: the Southern Cubs, owned by Bob "Red" Baumbeck; Duane's Dugout Dregs, owned by Duane Crays; the Royals, owned by Roy Ferrking; the Bums; the Shawnee Stump Jumpers, owned by Dennis McCord; the Miller High Life, owned by Rick Miller; the Tourismo 22's, owned by Pete Rosenberry; the Mantlepieces; the Woody Allens; and the Commissars.

At the beginning of the season, each owner of the team had a $26 budget to buy 23 players with: nine pitchers, five outfielders, two catchers, one first baseman, one second baseman, one third baseman, one shortstop, one first or third baseman, one middle infielder and one utility player that is a non-pitcher. Bidding then takes place on the players on the opening-day rosters of the real teams. It sounds easy getting 23 players for $26 dollars, but just get into a room with 10 owners hot for some big stars and watch the money flow — sometimes foolishly.

In the first Big Muddy League draft, Darryl Strawberry went for $4.70, Dale Murphy cost $4.60, Tony Pena was purchased for $3.90, George Foster went for $3.10 and Rafael Ramirez, Steve Carlton and John Denny cost $3.20. But while there were the high-priced flops, there were also some bargain basement finds.

"MY SOLE purpose of the draft was to get Wally Backman," Woodard said of his 20 cent acquisition with a twinkle in his eye. But then again, Woodard tries to make everyone else in the league forget it was he who drafted the overpriced Foster.

"You really can't blame people for drafting older players for so much money," Tuxhorn said. "And several St. Louis players were higher priced. After all, this is Cardinal Country and there are a lot of Cardinal fans in the league."

Players are bid upon for their ability to fulfill certain categories which determine how the teams will place. Hitters categories are batting average, home runs, runs batted in and stolen bases. For pitchers, wins, saves, earned run average and a ratio of hits and walks divided by innings pitched, determined their success.

Standings for the teams were then determined by averaging the player's statistics on a team and comparing them to the rest of the league. Rankings from 10 to one are awarded, with 10 being the highest and one the lowest. The totals from the eight categories are added up to determine the teams' position in the league.

THE ROYALS, behind a strong and balanced offensive attack, won the league this year. The Bums finished second, followed by the Commissars and the Shawnee Stump Jum-pers. Tuxhorn and Woodard said they are anxious for the next season to start.

"I play it for the fun of it," Tuxhorn said. "It's great entertainment."

"We're going to win it next year," Woodard said. "We are going for those players with colorful names next year. If Steve Christmas comes up, you can bet he'll be an Allen."

Woodard said he wasn't ready to stand pat with his eighth-place team.

"I'm going to clean house," he said. "We'll get guys who want to play; guys who want to get their uniforms dirty."

Big Muddy League is one of many leagues that have sprouted across the country. To play, all that is needed is the book. Printed by Bantam Books. It costs $6.95 and is available at local bookstores.

"It's the best game on baseball," Tuxhorn said. "It's definitely the closest I'll ever be to general manager."

AMA wants boxing eliminated

HONOLULU (AP) — The American Medical Association voted Wednesday to encourage the elimination of amateur and professional boxing.

A resolution approved in an overwhelming voice vote by the AMA's House of Delegates here called boxing "a sport in which the primary objective is to inflict injury."

The resolution commits the AMA to helping state medical societies to work with their state legislatures to enact laws to eliminate boxing.

It also commits the AMA to a campaign to educate the American public, especially children and young adults, on the dangerous effects of boxing on the health of participants.

The resolution combines recommendations made in proposals by delegates from California and the District of Columbia and from the American Academy of Pediatrics and the American Academy of Neurology.

"There is increasing evidence of acute and long-term brain injury by people involved in boxing," Dr. Joseph F. Boyle, AMA president, told newsmen after the vote.

"In boxing, two people are paid to try to beat the other into senselessness," he said.

"We find it strange that it is illegal for dogs or chickens to be put into a ring to fight but not humans," he said.

Boyle acknowledged that the AMA position will run into opposition.

"We should recognize that any effort on our part to curtail the gloves that land the golden blows will face substantial and well-financed opposition," he said in speech to the AMA House of Delegates meeting here.

"To the electronic media, it's the dollars that count," he said. "Ours is the profession that protects the athlete, not the crowd or the sponsor."

The AMA in 1983 encouraged elimination of amateur boxing.

Jabbar signs contract with Los Angeles

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the all-time leading scorer in National Basketball Association history, revised his retirement plans Wednesday as he agreed to a one-year, $2 million contract with the Los Angeles Lakers for the 1985-86 season.

"The Lakers made a very good offer, and I feel I still have another good year to give, and that being the situation, I decided to go for it," Abdul-Jabbar said before the start of the Lakers' game against the New Jersey Nets here.

The All-Star center suggested earlier this year that he would not return for a 17th season. But the 7-foot-4 player said Lakers General Manager Jerry West asked him to reconsider.

Weight program strengthens grid team

By Mike Frey
Staff Writer

Saluki football coach Ray Dorr says there are a lot of reasons why his team suffered through a 3-8 season, but perhaps the most visible cause behind its poor showing was a lack of overall team strength.

Many times during the 1984 campaign Dorr insisted the Salukis must become stronger to improve. Now that the season has ended, he's doing something about it.

Dorr has introduced a vigorous off-season weight training program, which is now in its second week. The program is designed not only to develop strength among the SIU-C players, but to develop solid work habits and positive thinking as well.

"Football games can be won in the weight room," Dorr says. "Weight lifting can improve a team in so many ways. Team unity, togetherness, good work habits and confidence are developed in the weight room."

DORR HAS adopted a program consisting of four major lifts: the bench press, the incline press, squats and the hang clean. Dorr urges his players to participate, but they are allowed to set their own schedule for lifting.

Several Saluki players say Dorr has developed an upbeat atmosphere in the weight room and as a result weight lifting has become more of a pleasure than a chore.

"Everybody is fired up about lifting," Kevin Sanderlin, a junior defensive lineman, said. "I've been here three years, and we never had that before. Guys are getting closer, and we're building team unity."

"This is the first time I've enjoyed lifting," Drew Morrison, a sophomore punter, said. "You want to become stronger in the off-season and maintain your strength during the season. Everybody has got to have high goals to

Saluki men cagers beat Billikens

By Steve Koulos
Staff Writer

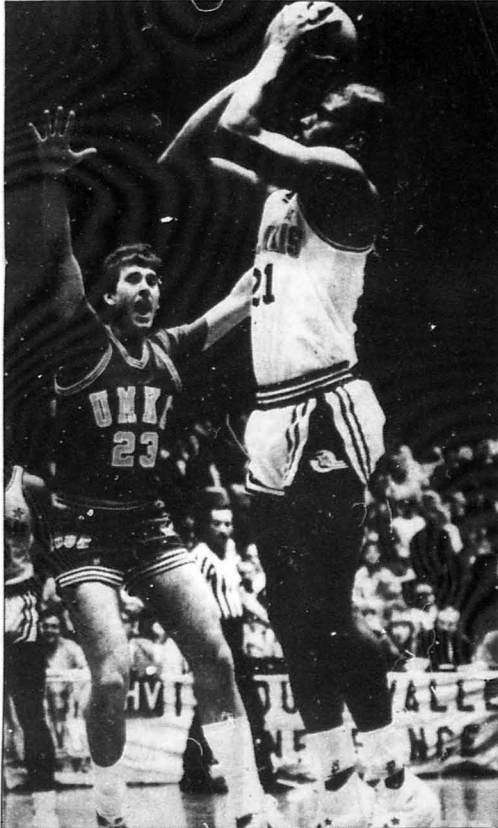

It only took one game for the Saluki men's basketball team to equal its entire victory output on the road last year.

SIU-C defeated St. Louis University 73-64, Wednesday night to improve its record to 4-0 overall and 1-0 on the road. Last year, the Salukis were plagued by their inability to win away from home and were 1-11 on the road.

"It was nice to keep our poise and discipline, and having a 4-0 record is a real fine start," Saluki Coach Allen Van Winkle said. "All the credit goes to our players, they did a nice job even though St. Louis made a couple of nice runs at us."

The Salukis were paced by their three-guard offense of Bernard Campbell, Nate Bufford, and Roy Birch. Campbell scored a season-high 22 points, Bufford had 17, and Birch added 16.

The Salukis never trailed after a Bufford field goal gave them a 4-2 advantage early in the game, even though the Billikens battled back to force five ties, the last occurring at 46-46. But Campbell's field goal from 20 feet out snapped the tie and gave SIU-C the lead for good midway through the second half.

Red Sox talk trade for slugger Rice

HOUSTON (AP) — Baseball's player-brokers turned on the power Wednesday as the Texas Rangers signed free-agent Cliff Johnson and the Boston Red Sox continued to dangle Jim Rice at the annual winter meetings.

The two sluggers were at the center of attention as the major league portion of the owners' convention began with a policy-level meeting of the Player Relations Committee and a joint meeting of the two league's top executives.

The PRC handles labor negotiations for baseball, and the Basic Agreement with players expires on Dec. 31.

Lee MacPhail, former American League president who now heads the PRC, said the major area of contention with the Major League Players Association is a union demand that contributions to the player benefits be tied to television money.

The players want one-third of baseball's $1 billion television contract with ABC and NBC. The owners would rather set a flat rate.

The two sides met twice before these meetings, and MacPhail said they would meet twice more in New York, probably on Dec. 11 and 13, then twice in Los Angeles on Dec. 18 and 19.

In addition to Johnson's signing with Texas, the New York Yankees also announced they had sent catcher Rick Cerone to the Atlanta Braves for 22-year-old right-hander Brian Fisher, who was assigned to the Class AAA Columbus Clippers.

Johnson signed a three-year deal with the Rangers, who plan to use him as their designated hitter.

The Red Sox, meanwhile, were offering to trade Rice for the first time. Their first feeler for the outfielder came from the Houston Astros, but Astros President and General Manager Al Rosen said the Red Sox were asking for too much.

Rice, 31, will be entering the final year of a $750,000-per-year deal with the Red Sox in 1985. Rice reportedly is seeking a contract that will earn him $2.4 million per year.

Several other trades apparently were in the works.

Toronto, trying to acquire a relief pitcher, reportedly mixed a deal with Montreal that would have brought Jeff Reardon to the Blue Jays. The Expos may have been asking for too much — players like Damaso Garcia and Jesse Barfield.

Instead, the Blue Jays now apparently are interested in Oakland's reliever, Bill Caudill, and the A's would like shortstop Alfredo Griffin in return.

With the Toronto deal out the window, the Expos seem to have turned their attention toward the Chicago White Sox. Montreal would give up Reardon and another short reliever, Bill James, for one of two starting pitchers, Britt Burns or Floyd Bannister.

Sooners, Huskies hope to play for championship

NEW YORK (AP) — Regardless of what The Associated Press college football poll says — and it currently says that Brigham Young is No. 1 — the Orange Bowl is trumpeting the clash between No. 2 Oklahoma and fourth-ranked Washington on New Year's Night as a national championship game.

"Brigham Young hasn't played a representative schedule. Their opponents as a group have a losing record. How can a team like that be the national champion?" Nick Crane, chairman of the Orange Bowl's team selection committee, said Wednesday. "In our opinion, and in the opinion of a lot of others, they shouldn't be ranked No. 1."

"We're saying it's for the national championship and we hope everyone else does, too," said Bob Lafferty, president of the Orange Bowl.

Crane, five other Orange Bowl representatives and Coaches Barry Switzer of Oklahoma and Don James of Washington have not been as outspoken as the Orange Bowl committee. But they made no secret of the fact that they are rooting for Michigan to defeat BYU in the Holiday Bowl on Dec. 21.

"I'm not prepared to say BYU is not a good football team," James said. "I've been low-profiling the No. 1 thing because we play them the next two years. But I'm saying 'Go Blue' (Michigan's war cry) every night in my prayers. I certainly hope the Orange Bowl is for the national championship."

For the record, BYU's 22 opponents (the Cougars are 12-0) had a combined record of 54-79-3. But Oklahoma's (9-1-1) were 52-63-6 and Washington's (10-1) were 55-66-0. At the time of their respective games, BYU's opponents were 25-37-1, Oklahoma's 30-27-1, Washington's 29-25-0.

BYU and Oklahoma played two common opponents — BYU defeated Pitt 20-14 and Baylor 47-13; Oklahoma beat Pitt 42-10 and Baylor 34-15 — while Oklahoma and Washington both defeated Stanford.
